UNCLE WIGGILY
By HOWARD R. GARIS

Tuesdays Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY BIRD BATH
(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

"Come on, Unkie Wig! Come on, play tag with me!" begged Quinky, the little fox boy. Dressed as Jackie Bow Wow the little fox has teased the rabbit out of his bungalow, pretending to play tag, and Mr. Longears had followed Quinky to the edge of the woods, where the big foxes were waiting for him.

Then, as I told you in the story last night, two inkblot twins appeared, asking Mr. Longears the riddle of when was a window like a star.

"I don't believe I can answer that riddle," said the bunny uncle, twinkling his pink nose. But though his pink nose twinkled it was not a star, nor did it answer the riddle.

"Oh, come on, Unkie Wig!" begged the sly fox again. He wanted to get the rabbit far enough into the woods so the big foxes could catch him.

A wren bird was singing.

"Ho! Ho! Ho!" laughed Uncle Wiggily, for if the stars are lights of the sky then when a window in the roof is called a skylight it also is like a star, isn't it?

Quinky laughed because he heard Uncle Wiggily laughing. And when the little fox snickered some of the clothes fell off him—clothes that his cunning father and mother had put on him to make him look like Jackie Bow Wow.

"Why, you aren't Jackie at all!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he saw the fox without some of his clothes. "You are a little fox and you are trying to play a trick on me!"

"That's what he is!" exclaimed Inkblot.

"Oh, no! Don't! I'll be good! I'll never try to catch Uncle Wiggily again!" howled Quinky and away he ran far into the woods.

"Where's Uncle Wiggily?" snarled the big fox when he saw his little boy fox come running toward the den.

"Oh, the black twins made a riddle and they were going to put ink on my nose so I ran!" howled Quinky.

"Fooled again!" snarled the big fox.

Meanwhile Uncle Wiggily walked along with the black twins until all of a sudden they came to a place where a wren bird was singing.

"Tweet! Tweet! Tweet! Oh, how hot I am and no water to take a bath! Oh, dear!" sang the wren.

"Do you want a bath, Miss Wren?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I would love it, but where can I get it?" sang the bird.

"I will make a bath for you," said Uncle Wiggily. For it had been so hot and dry, with no rain in a long time, that there was no place for the birds to bathe. Uncle Wiggily hopped to his bungalow and came back with some shallow dishes. Some were large and some were small.

"I have the smallest dish for you," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "There is going to be a bath for the robins and also one each for the starlings, the warblers, the sparrows and the blue jays."

"Oh, how lovely!" sang the wren. Uncle Wiggily carried water from his bungalow and filled the different bird baths. The Inkblot twins filled the water for the crow bird's bath, because if they got in it a little of their own black nothing mattered. And when all the birds were bathing and getting cool the Crow cawed:

"Here is a puzzle for you, Uncle Wiggily. In the dirt he scratched a picture like the rays of the setting sun. There were also some letters.

"Now," cawed the Crow, "if you put three letters in the half-round space at the bottom of the rays you can spell seven words told about in the upper part of the puzzle."

"Oh, I must try to guess this!" said the rabbit. And he did.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY IT IS HARD TO CHOOSE
By Mahran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

The choosing process is the most deliberate effort of the human mind. It is this trait more than all else that stamps man as superior to the brute. In making a choice the personality asserts itself against a native instinct or some desire that is strong. It is hard to choose because it requires knowledge and mental effort.

Another thing that makes choosing hard is the factor of finality. We hate to make choices that cannot be unmade, and most of life's choices are of this sort. We cannot eat our cake and have it too, as the saying goes. And yet this is exactly what we all want to do. We see something we like and decide to buy it, but immediately consider that if we spend our spare cash for that article we cannot have something else we like fully as well.

We lack the knowledge and the wisdom to make proper choices. This creates doubt and hesitation. We cannot be sure that we are coming out all right. The person of timid disposition and modest pretentions finds it extremely hard to make choices and will avoid them as much as he can by casting the responsibility on someone else, a friend, his wife, or anyone who will choose for him. Sometimes he prefers to toss up a coin and rely on luck rather than on his own judgment.

It is hard to choose because we lack knowledge, and self confidence, because we want the most for our money or time and effort and are afraid we are going to be cheated Choosing requires effort and demands the assuming of responsibility from which men shrink. Most choices are final and we all hate to take a step that can never be retraced. That is why we hesitate in making our choices. We are looking for safety zones.

A WHALE OF A RIDE

KARACHI, India, July 17.—Boat loads of fishermen busy at their daily job of pulling up their nets were puzzled the other day when one of the nets seemed to be stuck fast on the bottom of the Indian ocean. Suddenly the net came to the surface and in it was entangled a 30-foot whale, which started off across the water. For four days and three nights, the ride continued. Finally other boats came to the rescue and after another 24-hour struggle the whale was landed on the beach.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XVII
"LEAVE ME!"

Jennifer said nothing. She was standing very still, her arms hanging limply beside her, her eyes staring at him.

Nicholas looked at her and away again.

"She made me sorry for her. I should have been a man of stone if I had not been sorry. She reminded me that once I had loved her—I suppose she thought I did when we were first married. . . . She looked so small and ill . . ."—he made a gesture of passionate despair. "My God! a man would have been less than human to have turned her down then."

Gaunt bowed his head, and she asked again with stiff lips:

"What . . . exactly did you promise?"

There was a long silence then he said in a muffled voice: "To give up seeing you while she is alive. Not to write to you, not— Jennifer! don't look at me like that."

Jennifer said with dry lips: "And if she gets well, if she goes on living?"

"She can't. They assure me—oh, my God! it's inhuman to hope for her death—but you know what is in my heart. You know that it is only you whom I love and want. Jennifer——"

She motioned him away when he would have come to her.

"And I—what do I do?"

"Oh, my darling——"

"And you—I suppose you will be always with her—letting her believe you love her."

"It is only you whom I love, you know that well enough."

"But you put her before me?"

He answered desperately: "It will be for such a little while—and, after all—she is my wife."

The color blazed suddenly in Jennifer's white face. "Yes, she is your wife," she said with shrill passion. "She is your wife and I—what am I? Only the woman who has always loved you, and whose heart you did your best to break years ago. I forgot it and loved you again, and now, now you are calmly proposing to throw me over once more for her! To leave me to eat my heart out in loneliness and jealousy, while you and she—you and she——"

"And don't you think I shall suffer too?" he asked hoarsely. "Don't you think it will be hell for me never to see you and hear your voice? You will not suffer as I shall, Jennifer. At any rate you will be free. You won't have to play a part, to be always pretending that you care for someone else."

"Perhaps it will not be pretence," Jennifer said passionately. "She is younger than I am—far prettier than I am."

"Jennifer, you are deliberately torturing both yourself and me."

She cried out fiercely: "I wish I could make you suffer. I wish I could make your life lonely and without hope and——"

She began to sob, dry, passionate sobbing, and suddenly she cried out to him with sudden abandon: "Oh, don't leave me, dear, don't leave me!"

He held her to his heart, kissing her hair and her eyes.

"In my heart I belong only to you, Jennifer. In my heart and soul. It's only for a little while, and she is dying! It's a point of honor, my darling. What can I do?"

She tore herself from him, her eyes blazing. "And have you no sense of honor towards me? Doesn't it matter what becomes of me? How would you like it if I asked you to wait contentedly for a year while I went about with another man, pretending to love him, and letting him love me, and then at the end of that time to calmly come back to you?"

"If the man was your husband—and the circumstances were the same as now——"

Jennifer laughed hysterically.

"I never knew you were a saint, Nicholas."

"I have never seen any sign of it until to-day."

She stood with clenched hands, shaking from head to foot, ugly patches of color on her cheeks, and suddenly she broke out again, unable to control herself.

"No man is a saint or a martyr unless he wishes to be. Perhaps all that you have told me is a lie! How do I know? Perhaps you just want an excuse to get rid of me—perhaps——"

Nicholas Gaunt caught her by the shoulders. "You dare say such things to me, you dare!" he panted.

She laughed in his face.

"They're true, and that's why you're angry. They're true, only you don't think I should guess it. I wish with all my heart that I had never seen you again. Something warned me, only I would not listen. You've made a fool of me for the second time."

"Jennifer, you'll break my heart."

"I hope so, I wish I could. Go away, I've done with you. Go away, I say; go back to your wife and laugh at me together. I don't care. Nothing matters any more. I——"

"Don't touch me! Leave me alone. Don't dare to touch me!"

There was a tragic silence.

Gaunt stood with bowed head, afraid to look at her. He had not expected such passionate distress. In Italy his wife had so effectively aroused his pity that he had foolishly imagined he could arouse Jennifer's. There had been a touch of remorse in his pity also. Taking himself to task he knew that he had always been glad of his semi-detached marriage. Apart from Jennifer, his wife had always been wearisome to him, and they had no tastes in common to help in keeping up even a pretence of friendship. But in Venice she had been pitiably weak and appealing. With the fear of death in her blue eyes, she had clung desperately to him for comfort. In the face of it all it had seemed a comparatively easy thing to give his promise with regard to Jennifer.

For one thing, Jennifer was not there; and for another it had shocked him to find that his wife knew about her, and it had troubled him to find that she still cared for him. After all, what were a few months out of a lifetime? Jennifer and he were both well and strong. With death knocking at Edith's door, surely they who had waited so long could wait just a little longer for the consummation of their love?

And so he had given his word, and Gaunt never went back on his word, although he knew as soon as he saw Jennifer again that he had made a mistake. He could not be happy without her. There was something between them, some affinity that cried aloud against separation, even for a few months.

He looked at Jennifer, and his heart was torn, although even in the midst of his pain was a man's impatient resentment that she should make it all so much harder for him.

HOROSCOPE
The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18, 1928.
(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Through the busy hours of today benefic aspects rule, according to astrology, which finds the sway generally lucky.

It is well to trust one's first impressions this morning and to make decisions on important matters soon after awakening.

Literary folk should benefit this summer, for days like this in the direction of stars that spur the imagination are numerous.

World organizations will grow under this planetary government which favors combinations financial and artistic.

The stars smile on those who wed today and give promise of many benefits from older persons.

This should be a fairly favorable rule for entertainments and motion picture theatres should benefit.

Again changes in theatres and their management are prognosticated and community enterprises appear to be especially favored.

There is a fairly fortunate sign for speculation today.

The evening may be conducive to irritability and quarrels. It is not propitious for any sort of diplomatic work.

Much domestic strife is indicated at this time when there will be many hasty marriages and quick repentances.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have a year in which they associate with notables of various sorts.

Children born on this day may be lucky in making money, but not wise in keeping possession of it. Both boys and girls are likely to be endowed with unusual talents.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE WOUNDED SPARROW

The boy next door shot a bird today,
Shot a sparrow and ran away,
Ran away as a coward will,
Who has done a sparrow or someone ill.
For a little bird with a wounded wing
And an eye shot out is a shameful thing,
And I don't think much of a boy, do you,
Who any such deed as that would do?

The boy next door when he thinks it out,
When he sees the other birds fly about
Singing their songs of happiness,
Won't think much of himself, I guess.
For that's the worst, when you do a wrong,
You have to carry it right along,
And all of your years remember yet—
For you're the fellow who can't forget.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON WEDNESDAY

Tomorrow morning upon arising, take the exercises I have given you in the preceding articles. Follow the exercises with a shower or sponge bath.

Breakfast: Take only a glassful of orange juice, using a full eight-ounce glass, together with at least one glassful of water.

Take your regular walk of about two miles after breakfast.

Lunch: Same as breakfast.

In order to bring about a more rapid loss in weight, it will sometimes be necessary to take these small fruit meals. I know you want to reduce as much as possible during this contest, so follow instructions exactly and be satisfied with the orange juice breakfast and lunch.

During the afternoon or evening, you are to take the exercises which I have given you, with the addition of the following, taken while lying on the back:

Lying on Back:

3.—Raise and lower legs alternately—keeping the knees stiff and toes pointed downward.

4.—Raise and lower both legs together—keeping the knees stiff and toes pointed downward.

Do not forget to take your regular afternoon walk; you may increase the distance slightly each day, as your strength permits.

If possible, you should have a few minute's rest before you eat your dinner.

Dinner: Broiled Belgian Hare,
Cooked Carrots,
Raw Celery.

The following are some recipes for preparing some of the above food, which has been advised for the first time. (These recipes will not appear again.)

Belgian Hare: The term "Belgian Hare" refers to such rabbits as are raised for eating purposes, and whose meat is light after cooking. Rabbits weighing between one and one-half and two and one-half pounds may be easily broiled, and can even be satisfactorily pan-broiled without any grease. If it is possible to secure a rabbit weighing four to five pounds when dressed, you will find that a most satisfactory roast may be made of it. This older rabbit has a distinctly different flavor, and is more desirable than the younger variety.

Cooked Carrots: Use small tender carrots, and cook with the skin on, after first washing with a vegetable brush. They may be cooked whole, and a little butter added before serving, or cut in small pieces and boiled in just enough water to permit their being mashed afterwards. A very desirable way in which to bring out their flavor is to grind through a vegetable grinder and cook carefully in a small amount of water, being particular to see that they do not burn.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 17 (Canadian Press). — Big receipts of newly harvested winter wheat, together with favorable spring wheat prospects, led in some cases yesterday to the lowest prices yet this season. Canadian advices pointed to likelihood of a record-breaking crop.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ¾c to ⅞c net lower, with corn ⅝c to ¾c to 1⅛c off, oats ⅝c to 1c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30c.

With the chief terminals in the harvest region south-west reporting that receipts of wheat yesterday totalled 3,008 cars against 1,286 cars a year ago, wheat values here dropped early to below any level which September or December deliveries had previously reached in 1928. Meanwhile some purchasing for south-west millers developed, but otherwise the news was almost entirely of a bearish character, including announcement of 1,418,000 bushel increase of the United States wheat visible supply. No export business in wheat from North America was in evidence.

Auspicious reports yesterday about spring wheat conditions were emphasized by a forecast of cooler temperatures north-west and by assertions that for at least the present the chances of black rust damage appeared negligible.

Corn ruled lower principally as a result of increased receipts here, totalling 396 cars yesterday. Besides, weather and crop conditions were favorable. Oats reflected the weakness both of corn and wheat.

Provisions were firmer on account of packers' buying of ribs.

WHAT IS YOUR DEFINITION of ECONOMY?

Ideas differ. Few men think alike. We approached three men who own motor cars and asked them if, in their opinion, there was such a thing as economy in motor car lubrication.

The MISER said:

"Economy? Certainly there is such a thing as economy in motor oils. Would I buy CASTROL? I should say not. I can buy oil that costs far less. How is my car running? It isn't running. It's out in the shed. The engine seized up last week. Costs too much to drive a car anyway!!!"

The PROFLIGATE said:

"Economy? Where have I heard that word before? Why bother? Motor oil only costs a few cents anyway. I just drive up to any old garage and say 'Fill her up with oil, Jack.' How is the engine running, do you say? Well, I've only had her six months and I'm thinking of trading her in for a new one. She sounds like a cement-mixer."

The THRIFTY MAN said:

"Do I use CASTROL? Most decidedly! Every thinking man does. It costs about 10c a quart more, but I get twice, often three times the mileage. With the money I saved by using CASTROL last year I sent my boy to a summer camp."

Crescents Beat Cognawagas Three Runs to One

'BUN' FROST SAVES GAME FOR CRESCENTS IN THE SIXTH WITH DEEP TWO-BASE DRIVE

With Two Out and Two on "Bun" Frost Goes in as Pinch Hitter.

SCORE 3-1

Two were on, two were out, and there were two strikes on the batter, when Bun Frost, pinch hitting in the sixth, hit to deep centre for two bases, to drive in two runs and snatch a victory for the Crescents in their game with Cognawagas last evening, the final count being three to one. Williams singled to right to hit in Frost with the third counter.

Cogs failed to get going in their half of the seventh, but the Crescents got a bad scare. With two gone, Cuffe singled through second. Billingsley grounded to Frost at second, who tossed the ball to Ross to force Cuffe. Ross dropped the ball as Cuffe slid over the bag, but retrieved it in time to get the runner crawling back to the canvas.

The game was a pitchers' battle between Vannest and McDonough, and the hitting was light. Three of the four runs scored were charities from the hurlers, Vannest getting the worst of it when he passed Ted LeBarr and Brioux in the fatal sixth after two were gone.

McDonough's work was surprisingly good after his long absence from the hurling heap. Vannest did a nice piece of work in the first when, with the bases loaded and nobody out, he retired the Crescents on three strike-outs, increasing his fanfest to five in a row when he got two more in the second. McDonough fanned the side in the fourth. Heard, who took Mein's place at short, had only one fielding chance, and he put it across in fine style.

Crescents are again within hailing distance of Cognawagas in the battle for second place, and Bethany also have a good chance, even should they drop to-morrow night's game here with Raybestos.

The record of the four teams follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.
Raybestos	6	1	1
Cognawagas	3	4	2
Crescents	4	5	0
Bethany	2	5	1

Going back to last night's game, the Cogs scored their only run in the first. Wilson drew a walk, and scored on Corbett's double to left. It was a long clout over Freddy Jones. Cuffe fanned and Billingsley was passed. Grose struck out, and Cripps was thrown out by Heard.

Crescents also started with a pass, F. Jones getting on free. J. Jones hit into short right, and when Billingsley dropped Vannest's peg off a roller from Ross, the bases were loaded. Then L. LeBarr, McDonough and Ted LeBarr were fanned. That ended the excitement so far as runs were concerned until the sixth, when with another loss confronting them, the Crescents got a fine break in the shape of two passes. Stolen bases put LeBarr at third and Brioux at second. Vannest had two strikes over on Frost, when the batters sent out a long fly between Cripps and Cuffe that neither had a chance to get, and the game was lost to the Cogs. Williams singled to score Frost and F. Jones went out to Corbett.

BANTAMS PLAY SMART BALL

SCORE 9-6

Riley and Hickey's smart team of youngsters put it over Grafton's last night in the Bantam City League and won handily nine runs to six. The kids played real snappy ball all through, and kept everyone on his tip toes. Price and McCulloch, pitching for the winners, had nine strikeouts to their credit, and only issued two passes, while Stanger made a very creditable showing by striking out eight and issuing five passes. Price faltered in the second and coupled with some errors, the Grafton crew run in five runs, but the same thing happened to the Grafton team in the same innings, when Stanger issued five walks for a like number of runs. McCulloch relieved Price in the second and kept the Grafton boys from scoring for the rest of the game. In the fourth innings Clark, for Grafton's, made a wonderful catch of Reynolds' drive and, throwing it to Jones at second, caught Levine for a double play.

QUAKER SOCCER TEAM RESIGNED

Last evening at the meeting of the Peterborough and District Soccer Association, the Quaker Oats protested the legibility of Goal-keeper Bolton, who was not registered under the registration of players' rule, and they handed in a registered letter of protest; and conformed to the rules and regulations of the constitution in regards to the proper procedure. The following letter from the Quaker Football Club speaks for itself:

Sirs: We, the committee of the Quaker Football Club Team desire to bring your attention to the fact that the Canadian General Football Team played a player, according to Rule No. 9 (b) of the Rules and Regulations governing the P. and D. F. A., should not have been played; the said player (Mr. Bolton) not being duly registered the three clear days; and according to rule 14 (4) We, the Quaker Football Team, are entitled to the said game. Hoping the protest will be dealt with in your usual fair and open manner. I remain, Yours, in Sport,

A CAMPBELL,
Sec'y Q. F. C.

Enclosed please find the deposit according to rule 4.

After hearing all the evidence pro and con, in the transaction of securing the necessary form, the board were of the opinion that the C.G.E. committed an offence as stated in the letter submitted to them; also were fully convinced that the captain of the protesting team did have knowledge that the said player was ineligible, and did not act according to the rules. The board heard the evidence of the Secretary in regards to the interpretation and meaning of rule XI which reads thus: Any club lodging a protest must produce proof . . . In dealing with any protest the directors may take into consideration the possession by the protesting club of any knowledge which if properly used might have obviated the protest.

The evidence submitted proved conclusively that the Quaker Executive had knowledge of such proceedings that were not constitutional, therefore were accessories of the fact. It was wrong and they should have notified the captain of the opposition so as to properly lodge the complaint

A motion was carried as follows: — "That the protested game be re-played and the Quaker Oats be refunded their money; while an amendment failed to get the necessary seconder on the vote

T Stewart Resigned

Immediately the decision of the Board was given T Stewart intimated that he be relieved of the duties as a member of the executive and the representative (Mr Campbell) was instructed to hand in Quakers' resignation as a registered team under the jurisdiction of the local association.

The secretary received instructions from the board to write the Quaker Soccer Team and accepted their declaration in the interest of the sport.

DEER WRECKS CAR

WILKES BARRE, Pa., July 16.—Rounding a curve on a country highway, a motorist came upon a frightened deer which, instead of bounding off the road, plunged into the car. The ardiator was bent on the windshield smashed as the car ran under the animal, whose hoofs inflicted scalp wounds on one of the passengers. The deer was killed.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

The Kiwanis Juniors and Juvenilles will practise to-morrow night instead of to-night at James Stevenson Park at 6:00 o'clock. Lakefield will meet the Lockworks at the Exhibition Park tonight in an East Peterborough game.

Toronto and Rochester are Tied

Yesterday's 5 to 4 win of the Toronto Leafs at home against Reading put them again in first place sharing the top rung of the ladder of the International League with Rochester. The Leafs who were ousted from first place on Sunday by Reading succeeded in a comeback yesterday afternoon and forced the game eleven innings. Rochester was idle and the Leafs-Reading game was the only one played; the Baltimore-Montreal game being postponed on account of wet grounds. Reading at present is getting a real pace for the league and the race is becoming more interesting every day. Reading is at Toronto to-day while Jersey City is playing in Rochester.

The Big Fight

With Gene Tunney, World Heavyweight Boxing Champion and Tom Heeney the challenger, days of training nearing an end for the big bout in New York on July 26 many of the knowing ones in the fight racket predict that Heeney's style will make the champion appear to great advantage; thereby convincing the public that he has been an underrated champion. Tunney is planing to go to New York on the day of the big bout in Commander Richard Byrd's airplane so that he will not have that nauseating effect as on the day of his first battle with Dempsey.

Paul Waner Climbs Six Points

Things were very quiet with the home run getters of both the American and National Leagues yesterday. Roger Hornsby did little and Paul Waner second place holder in the National made a valiant attempt to overtake the Rajah by hitting safely three times in three official times to bat. His net gain of six points still leave him at .371 far below the leader. Babe Ruth added another home run to his total making it thirty-five when the Yankees were winning a double header from Cleveland on the other appearances at the plate he played the roll of walker.

Making a Real Battle of It

The East Peterborough Leaguers are making a real battle for the championship. The Crescents win over the Cogs last night puts them right up in the running for second place and Bethany's chances are also good. Last night's game was a real pitcher's battle between Vannest for the Cogs and McDonagh who comes back to the Crescents mound after a long absence. Bun Frost pinch hitting in the sixth proved to be the real hero of the game when with two on he picked a nice double when the Cogs fielders failed to play far enough back.

* * * * * *

Now that they have made a fresh start, the Crescents will be dangerous. The team worked well last night, although they failed to show very much in the first when crowded bases did not get a run. When Bob Ross dropped the throw from Bun Frost in the play on Cuffe in the seventh, Manager Brioux shut his eyes. But Frost insists it was only a joke. Jack McDonough's shoots had the Cogs ducking, the battering ram of the second-placers being ram of the second-placers being strangely silent. Nine of them went out swinging.

Kremer pitched excellent ball until the ninth inning when he eased up with a big lead and the Braves scored tiwce on three doubles.

Giants Win

The Giants won the third straight game from the fast-stepping Reds at Cincinnati, but had to go ten innings to do it. The score was 3 to 2.

In the tenth frame the Giants scored a run on a single, followed by a sacrifice and another single, while the Reds failed to get a man on base in their half of the inning.

Joe Genewich opposed Pete Donohue on the mound in a pitching duel and had a little the better of the affair, giving the Red legs only six while the Giants gathered eleven.

Win Seventh Straight

Behind steady pitching by Sheriff Blake and the heavy cannonading of Kiki Cuyler and Fred Maguire, the Cubs defeated Philadelphia at Chicago again and ran their winning streak to seven straight games. The score was 10 to 5.

Maguire drove in four runs while Cuyler got two singles and a homer. Blake was nicked for nine hits. Four pitchers worked for the Phillies—Miller, Willoughby, Lennan and Walsh.

Brooklyn Loses

Jim Bottomley's double, following a single by Andy Hngh and coupled with an error by Partridge in the ninth inning enabled the Cardinals to defeat Brooklyn in the third game of the series 7 to 6, at St. Louis.

Fred Frankhouse started for the Cards, but retired in the eigth when Brooklyn counter four times to tie the score at six all. Reinhart relieved him, got by the ninth without letting in a score, and received credit for the victory.

The Cards bunched four hits with a base on balls and a hit batsman to score four times in the seventh and drive Clark from the mound. In the eighth the Brooklyn rally again tied the score.

BYRD MAY TAKE TUNNEY TO FIGHT

SPECULATOR, N.Y., July 17 (Canadian Press).—Gene Tunney's days of intensive training for his titular bout with Tom Heeney, the New Zealand artisan, are nearing their end, but five of them remain before he quits Speculator and flies to New York, probably with Commander Richard Byrd and Bernt Balchen, on July 26, the day of the fight.

Yesterday was one of Gene's working days. He will box four times this week, starting to-day, and once during the week of the championship battle, probably next Monday.

Gene was up early yesterday and ran up and back from his secluded cabin on the edge of Lake Pleasant to Mud Lake, the round trip totalling about nine miles.

During the day Tunney learned that Commander Byrd planned to arrive here to-day by plane. Gene intends to ask the Polar flier to return here for him early on the day of the fight and take him to New York by air.

When Tunney made his first and only flight, on the day of his first battle with Dempsey three years ago, he was slightly nauseated. Therefore he wants to travel in a fast plane, such as the Byrd ship, so he can land in New York in plenty of time to recuperate before entering the ring.

WANER INCREASES BATTING AVERAGE

NEW YORK, July 17 (Canadian Press). — Although the American League half of the Big Six was given the opportunity of showing its metle by the double-header route yesterday, it was the National League section which supplied most of the action.

Paul Waner, second place holder, made a valiant attempt to overtake the Rajah by hitting safely three times in three official times at bat, while the Pirates were trimming Hornsby's Braves. His net gain of six points still left him at .371, far below the leader.

In the American League half things were quiet. Babe Ruth played the role of walker rather than hitter, while the Yankees were winning a double-header from Cleveland having only six official trips to the plate and getting but one hit, his thirty-fifth home run of the season. Ty Cobb participated in only one of the Athletics' two games, garnering one hit in four tries.

The standing to date:

	Games	AB	R	H	Pct.
Hornsby	75	262	56	104	.397
P. Waner	79	310	67	115	.371

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 17.—The local softball team played a friendly game with the Rylstone boys. After four innings of both good and bad ball the Petherick's team emerged victorious by a score said to be 18 to 9.

The teams:

Rylstone—M. Revoy, R. McKeown, Granville Meiklejohn, Wilfred Spencer, Grant Meiklejohn, J. Lain, M. Finch, Fred Barnum, Lorne Barnum; subs. Thos. Fry, Gerald Barnum.

Petherick—G. Kerr, T. Owens, R. Barnum, G. Petherick, L. Anderson, R. Fry, F. Fry, D. Kerr, E. Fairmain.

SHE TREES HER THIEF

WASHINGTON, July 16.—While walking through the park near the Treasury Building, Mrs. Elizabeth Cullen had her pocketbook snatched by a thief. The irate Mrs. Cullen gave chase, ran so swiftly that the thief climbed a pine tree. She started up after him, but a policeman happened along and relieved her of the job.

YANKEES TAKE FOUR STRAIGHT FROM INDIANS

TIGERS WIN ONE

St. Louis Browns Take Third Straight Game From Washington Senators.

NEW YORK, July 17 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees made it four straight from Cleveland by winning their second successive double-header from the Indians yesterday. The scores were 7 to 3 and 6 to 2.

George Pipgras won his sixteenth victory of the season in the first encounter. He was hit hard in the early innings, but Cleveland failed to hit when hits meant runs.

Babe Ruth helped the game along with his thirty-fifth home run of the season in the third innings. The drive came with Combs on base.

In the second game Johnson was wild, but also held in the pinches. The Yanks hit Hudlin freely early in the game. Meusel came out of his batting slump in the second game and hit a homer, a double and two singles.

Break Even

The Athletics divided a double-header with Detroit at Philadelphia, winning the first 3 to 2 and dropping the second, 11 to 6.

The Tigers won the second game with a nine-run rally in the eighth inning that wiped out the home club's four run lead. Tiny Tavener greeted the rescue pitcher, Walberg, who relieved Earnshaw with none out and the bases full in the eighth, by smacking a home run for his fourth straight hit, tying the score. Thirteen of the Tigers batted in this inning.

Eleven Straight Wins

Crowder won his eleventh game of the season yesterday, when the Browns took their third straight from Washington four to two, in ten innings. Going into the ninth inning Washington was leading 2 to 1, but St. Louis tied the score when Reeves threw wildly past first, allowing Blue to tally from third.

Win Double-Header

Chicago's heavy batting and the clever pitching of Faber and Blankenship combined to let the White Sox win both games of a double header from Boston, four to nothing, and nine to one.

In each game the Red Sox were restricted to seven hits. Mostil played a sensational game at centerfield and Cissell's all-round play continued brilliant. Under Manager Lena Blackburn, the White Sox now have won nine of out twelve games played, all on the road, cleaned up two double-headers on successive playing days here. Carrigan, Wagner, Hofmann and Berry were put out of the second game by the umpire.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Richard Dix in "Easy Come, Easy Go."

The Capitol Theatre's summer program of three changes a week in its picture entertainment was inaugurated yesterday with a farce comedy starring Richard Dix, the popular actor whose ingenuous manner and clean-cut characterizations have given him a major place in moving picture annals.

"Easy Come, Easy Go" deals with the adventures of a happy-go-lucky young man, Robert Parker, who becomes involved with the operations of a very wily and likeable crook the old James Bailey whose innocent demeanor helps him to put over a lot of nefarious schemes.

Parker is a radio announcer who has been fired on account of his supply of easy profanit and who meets Bailey after the latter has saved his life in a near accident. In return, Parker helps him innocently to make a getaway after Bailey has stolen a large sum of money and later strikes up a friendship with the older man, who uses Parker as a tool when he gets in another tight corner. Barbara Quayle, the heroine is staing with her father, a rich banker, at a sanitarium, and Parker meets them and becomes involved in a theft from the father. Numerous complications ensue, carried out in Dix's usual genial and bewildered fashion, but the tale ends happily for all concerned.

DRIVER BADLY HURT

George Souders, Racing Motorist, Injured when Car Hits Fence.

DETROIT, July 16.— (Canadian Press).George Souders, youthful auto race driver and winner of the 1927 classic at Indianapolis, was in a critical condition today as a result of injuries received in a dirt track race yesterday. He crashed through the inner rail of the fair grounds track and hurdled into the field, turning over several times. Physicians indicate there was little hope of recovery.

EVERY TWO MINUTES
OF EVERY BUSINESS DAY · · · SOMEONE IN CANADA BUYS A NEW GENERAL MOTORS CAR

SINCE the days of Confederation, General Motors of Canada Limited has been supplying Canada with transportation. Each year as requirements have multiplied, the scope of General Motors service has widened . . the quality of General Motors cars has steadily improved. Each year more Canadians have looked to General Motors for better automobiles, until now, every two minutes of every business day, someone in Canada buys a new General Motors car.

These cars are bought by people you know . . by people like yourself . . for the very reasons which would guide you in the choice of a car.

They are bought because they are the product of the most progressive organization in the world's most progressive industry . . because they reflect the General Motors policy of constant advancement . . because they are better cars. . .

They represent the latest developments of the world's leading automotive research laboratory, offering these developments to the public as soon as they become available. They are proved in advance, at the expense of General Motors, not the public. They are better cars because they are Canadian cars. And they embody greater value because of General Motors money-saving methods of quantity buying and volume production.

This popularity of General Motors cars holds more than a passing interest for the Canadian car buyer . . for General Motors utilizes increased demand to reduce production costs and to offer still more outstanding automobile value.

Wheat Prices Go up On Reports of Storms

CHICAGO, July 17 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by indications of improved exported demand, together with word of extensive storm damage in parts of Canada, wheat prices here averaged higher early to-day. At first, though, declines took place owing to Liverpool quotations lower than due. Opening ⅝ to ¾ cent lower, Chicago wheat afterwards rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were relatively firm, with corn starting ⅝ cent off to ⅛ cent up, and subsequently scoring general gains.

Opening prices—Wheat, July 127⅛, September 131⅛. Corn, July 104⅝, September 41.

Toronto Trading Dull With Changes Small

TORONTO, July 17 (Canadian Press).—A very dull session was experienced by the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Sales were small and prices mostly unchanged. International Nickel, with the largest turnover during the morning, gained a quarter at 90, while Hayes Wheel, Consumers Gas, and Page Hersey, with few sales, each rose one point at 33, 201, and 96¾ respectively. The oils featured the curb section, with Imperial Oil dropping one and one-eighth at 35 7-8 and Foothills losing five at 4.30. Supertest advanced one point at 31, and International Petroleum one-quarter at 36 and a half. Fluctuation was active in the bank section, with Commerce gaining 2 at 209, Dominion 4 at 250, Imperial 2¾ at 256, and Standard Bank one at 228 1-8.

Mine Shares Hold Firm; Penny Stocks Popular

TORONTO, July 17 (Canadian Press).—Prices on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day were firm on the whole, with most of the fluctuations tending downward. Hollinger continued to decline, dropping 90 cents to 11-10, after selling as low as 10.50 during the session. Teck Hughes to-day fell in line with Hollinger and dropped 35 to 9.95.

Penny stocks continued to attract much interest and large turnovers were scored by Goodfish, up one at 50, Moffat Hall, unchanged at 22, Stadacona, unchanged at 16, Windfall, unchanged at 12 7-8, and Capital Rouyn, down ¾ at 13¾.

The Western issues were irregular. Sherritt Gordon dropped 11 to 6.99, and Hudson Bay 10 to 18.30. Pend. Oreille gained 1.00 to 14.25, and Big Missouri was up 2¼ at 68¼. Central Manitoba was up one at 1.07, while Mandy dropped 5 to 2.26.

Noranda eased off 50 to $0.00. Amulet, in heavy trading, was unchanged at 4.50. Malartic dropped one to 1.45.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

Absence of traders over the week-end was reflected in Saturday's market which was one of the dullest experienced for some time.

There is good investment buying of Bell Telephone around 165. This buying appears to me to have a sound basis. I can heartily recommend Telephone as an investment certain to be profitable.

Most of the active issues finished the day unchanged after fractional variations, as the buying ebbed and flowed.

Power Corporation advanced more than any other issue, recovering to 74 compared with a low of 70½ on Thursday.

Its strength was doubtless largely due to the continued strength in Winnipeg, which climbed back another point to 113, but dropped its gain before the close.

Brazilian was again the leader in activity, interest being stimulated by the dividend declaration last week on the new stock. This will absorb $2,035,000 per quarter, but the earnings for the year are calculated to show a surplus of between five and six million dollars over all dividends.

Nickel fluctuated within a range of a point and closed unchanged. It was the second most active stock.

Some improvement was shown in the more active papers. Abitibi and Canada Power each recovered a point.

Great strides have been made by the management of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company, since the merger, from an efficiency standpoint. The House Organ is advised that certain plants of subsidiaries recently have been placed on a much more paying basis through production of more modern methods of operation and better organization.

According to information, sales of the E. Mason & Sons, Limited, for the first six months of this year were practically the same as they were in the similar period last year. In this connection it will be recalled that for the twelve months ending December 31st last total sales amounted to $1,361,614. The shares of this company are now listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange, where the common is selling around 36¼, and the preferred at 100.

CAR PLUNGES THROUGH RAIL AT BAD CURVE

Two Women Badly Hurt in Highway Accident near Trenton.

FALL FIFTY FEET.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 17—(Canadian Press).—Plunging through the stout railing which encircles the dangerous curve on the overhead bridge at Brighton, a Quebec sedan went through the fence, rolled down a fifty foot embankment and landed squarely on its four wheels. The car was a complete wreck and all the occupants were more or less seriously injured.

The car was proceeding eastward on the provincial highway driven by chauffeur Leo Poulin and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lazar Paperman of 481 St. Irvin street Montreal, Mrs. Rebecca Kupusta, mother of Mrs. Paperman, and two children. It is believed that the car was travelling at an excessive rate of speed and was unable to make the sharp turn at the western end of the bridge. Chief Bain of Trenton, highway officer Ivan Spencer, and Mrs. Farncombe and John Farley, Jr., with the ambulance, were early on the scene and first aid was rendered to the injured people and they were rushed to the Belleville General Hospital.

Many trains pass to and fro over the Canadian National at this point and Chief Bain got in touch with the railway authorities, halting all movement of trains until the track could be cleared. Willing hands in the immediate vicinity of the wreck brought the car up the embankment, where it was towed to a garage in Trenton for repairs.

Mrs. Kupusta is suffering from internal injuries and several cuts from flying glass. Mrs. Paperman is also internally injured and in a critical condition. The other occupants were also cut and bruised but were able to leave the hospital shortly after admittance.

AFRICAN WORK IS DESCRIBED

dence on the Dark Continent. Major Hill, a native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and educated as an engineer at Laval University, went to Africa to take part in the building of the Cape to Cairo Railway, of which 1,400 miles has been completed, with the final 700 miles held up by deliberations of the League of Nations, on account of the dispute over African territory waged between Great Britain and Germany, former owners of the land through which the railway is being built.

It was an interesting insight that the Major afforded his hearers. His address was tinctured, not so much by human experience, as by the deliberations and decisions of a man engaged in big business, who is able to take a bird's-eye view of a country and deliver it to his hearers with a great deal of forcefulness.

The speaker referred to Capetown, with its 200,000 people, its ten million dollar city hall and its fashions, which, on account of its situation south of the equator, are six months ahead of New York styles. He spoke of the bushmen, aborigines of the land, with their "click" language containing only forty-five words, and spoke with enthusiasm of the fact that out of twenty million original bushmen, only two million now remain, with possibilities of complete extinction within a few years.

Of the white ants that build houses which are used as fuel in a timberless land, of the Kimberley diamond mines, where Cecil Rhodes established a huge industry and placed the price of diamond, on a gradually rising scale, for the next six hundred and fifty years; of the electrically-charged double wires which surround the mines, to prevent theft, and of the usage given the workers there, the speaker dilated upon. The natives are kept for six months within the mines, without access to their fellows. Then they are placed for six days in a cell, with boxing gloves on their hands, and dosed constantly with castor oil. If a diamond is found upon them at the end of the term, they are given five years at hard labor.

The natives have no need to work in Africa, Major Hill told his audience. The jungles are full of game; they are able to take off two or three crops yearly; they pay no taxes and require no automobiles to carry them around. Their prime necessity is to earn enough to buy ten head of oxen, with which they purchase a wife, who labors thereafter for her spouse, and soon earns enough to allow him to buy another wife, to continue the working process for the family.

Witch Doctor Rules

Major Hill described his own experience with hostile natives, who regarded him with respect when they saw his collapsible tin water cup, his watch, and his sulphur matches. On one occasion, he was very ill and a witch doctor mixed a concoction for him which contained, among other things, a lion's claws to make him strong, a snake's skin to make him wise, an antelope's horns to make him active, and a brass button marked with the insignia of the 7th Hussars who had never been nearer than 700 miles to that place. "Africa is ruled from the Soudan south by the witch doctor," said the speaker, summing up in this manner his opinion of the African medicine men.

A description was given of the manner of ensnaring wild game in huge stockades, with beaters, thousands in number, steering the panic-stricken creature to the trap. Elephants are trapped by fire rings and later trained by the aid of tame elephants and mahouts brought from India. They will work faithfully when trained to do so, but always cease when the shadow falls beneath them, knowing this as mid-day.

Major Hill spoke of the cannibal pygmies of Africa and described their orgies on decayed flesh as similar to those indulged in by drinkers of bootleg whiskey, with the same resultant sickness.

He spoke in terms of some derision of the utterances of Trader Horn, whose book has become one of the best sellers of the year, and attacked as untrue many of the old author's statements with regard to experiences in Africa, explaining this attack as justified because of the intention of some educationists in this country to incorporate the book in school curricula.

Going on to speak of Khartoum as the coming cotton centre of the world, Major Hill shifted to accounts of feats by the famous fakers of Africa and the fact that most of their bloodthirsty deeds, such as cutting a boy up and throwing the carcass into a basket, are accomplished by hypnotizing the audience. He referred to the snake-charmers of the region and the way they squeeze a snake's brains out by a clutch of the fingers, after charming it into oblivion, and finished with a reference to the inability of white men to withstand the African climate and the consequent characterization of Africa as a Dark Continent for ages to come.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA

Instead of the regular program of entertainment for Juniors at the Chautauqua tent this year, the inauguration of a Junior Town has been made, with an instructor in charge, who is training the children for a special entertainment to be given by them tomorrow evening, before the commencement of the musical production which marks the scheduled close of this year's Chautauqua series. The boys and girls will do a series of stunts, dances and songs, commencing at eight o'clock. "I am proud of my town" is the motto on the badge worn by the members of this live organization, whose officers are as follows:

Mayor, Kenneth Fox; Health Officers, Borden Herron and Margaret Wyllie; Law and Order Officers, Orrie Herron, Marion Whaley and Jack Skitch; Service Officers, Franklin Patterson and Roy Murphy; Clerk, Frank Weart; News Reporter, Betsy Scott.

Final Programs

For this evening, an unavoidable change in the program has been necessitated owing to the serious illness of the scheduled lecturer, Herbert Leon Cope. His place is being taken by C. A. Plattenburg, an experienced Chautauqua speaker who has just completed an engagement on another circuit, and who will talk on "The Home Town in a New World." He will be preceded by half an hour of music by the Mozart Concert Company.

For tomorrow, the concluding day of this year's series, the afternoon program will consist of a lecture entitled "Rambling Through the Air," given by Capt. J. H. Hedley, and a concert by the Feichtel Yodlers, who will also give "An Alpine Romance," a beautiful musical production, in the evening, preceded by the children's entertainment.

COHEN GRANTED BAIL OF $50,000

Toronto Doctor Released while Awaiting Second Trial.

JURYMEN ACCUSED.

TORONTO, July 16 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Benjamin Cohen, who is being held here on a charge of procuring an abortion, was released today on bail of $50,000.

Charges of jury tampering were laid in connection with Dr. Cohen's second trial some time ago and a mistrial was declared. He was found guilty at his first trial, but on appeal the conviction was set aside and a new trial ordered.

Two members of the jury panel of the second trial were taken into custody in connection with the jury tampering charges and police are still seeking Nathan Waldo, Toronto barrister, and brother-in-law of the accused.

A HOME FROM HOME

What is a bungalow camp? It is indeed very easy to sum up. A home from home. It is not a tent-like encampment as we often imagine it to be, indeed no cheerier atmosphere could be found than amidst one of these rustic yet luxurious camps, filled with life, brimming over with a determination to get the best out of the surroundings, and indeed, life itself. Let us consider the French River Camp, situated in the heart of the rugged and beautiful country such as the province of Ontario possesses. Here is an ideal vacation for the canoeist, fisherman, golfer, the tennis enthusiast, and above all there is the privacy of a house of your own to sleep in. Again, there is a Devil's Gap Bungalow camp, amid equally delightful surroundings, a few miles from Kenora. All kinds of aquatic sports are available, including excellent fishing. Mention must also be made of Nipigon River camp, which lies deep in the north woods.

BLUE BELL GIVES TRENT PUBLICITY

Co-Operation in Preparation of Article Appreciated by Editor.

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, Ltd., in the June issue of their official house organ, "Blue Bell," gave over two pages to an article on the Kawartha Lakes-Trent Waterway Area, material and illustrations supplied by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. This is just another evidence of large corporations taking a more than passing interest, in a general way, in the areas served.

A copy of the letter, from W. A. MacLaren, the editor, to the Trent Waterway Association, with reference to the write-up in question, follows:

"It pleases us greatly to know that you were entirely satisfied with the publicity given the Kawartha Lakes district and your organization in the June issue of the 'Blue Bell.' We take this opportunity to reiterate our sincere appreciation of your co-operation in supplying the interesting material and photographs of which the magazine contents was composed.

"Under separate cover, we have mailed to-day twenty-five copies of the June number, and we thank you for supervising their distribution."

HAROLD BICKEL LEASES THEATRE

Former Peterborough Man Takes over Owen Sound Opera House.

H. W. Bickell, who for nearly three years has been the manager of the Opera House on 9th Street East, announces to-day that he has leased the house for a definite term, and will carry on the business there on his own account. Mr. Bickell is an experienced moving picture man, understands his business thoroughly, and it is his intention to continue to carry out the same policy which has been in force in this popular house during the last three years. He proposes to provide his patrons only the very best pictures to be obtained and will also continue to engage high-class vaudeville entertainers.

Mr. Bickell has made many friends in Owen Sound since he took over the management of the Opera House, and through giving the public the kind of pictures they want and the entertainment they most desire, he hopes to retain all his old patronage and to make new ones. His many friends will wish him success in his enterprise.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Following the races many took advantage of the opportunity for a swim while their audience was enlarged by the more timid ones. There was a heavy swell rolling. Then came supper, this time served on large tables near the Huff home, with members of the host's family as guests at the head table. Songs by the quartette, now quite famous with their fellow travellers, were greatly enjoyed and at the conclusion of the meal, Colonel Dennis expressed, on behalf of the Association, sincere appreciation of the courtesies extended throughout the day by Mr. and Mrs. Huff and others in their home.

At eight o'clock the tired but happy company departed with cheers and songs for "Eddie" Huff.

The Pittsburgh party left Bobcaygeon for Toronto early this morning, where some hope to take advantage of golfing facilities, swimming at Sunnyside, or the International league baseball game, while in the evening there will be a banquet in the King Edward Hotel. Leaving the Queen City to-night, the party will arrive in their native city at 7.40 to-morrow, Wednesday morning.

BRICKS CRASH TO SIDEWALK

ON GEORGE STREET

Dion Snelgrove, son of Robert Snelgrove barber on George Street, last night has a narrow escape from death under conditions similar to the tragedy of Saturday night, when bricks falling from a chimney on to the sidewalk in front of 500 George Street missed him only by inches. The whole front of the chimney crashed down on to the sidewalk and rebounded in front of him. The chimney is in the front of the house, and the bricks are very loose, the mortar having fallen away from them, and the condition that it is in at present is a menace to public safety.

Seals and sea lions are increasing so rapidly along the coast of California that fishing is seriously menaced. Officials are considering the appointment of a hunter to partially exterminate them.

CULL THE FLOCK; INCREASE PROFITS

Dispose of Loafers and Make Room For the Layers.

Culling of the laying flock should begin in dead earnest early in July. No poultryman can afford to feed loafers through the summer. The sooner he gets rid of them the bigger will be his profits. Not only that, but he will reduce labor, lower feed costs and give the profitable birds just that much more room in the laying house and on the range.

It really is not a difficult task in the summer to examine a hen and decide whether she is laying or not.

Watch Shank Color.

In yellow-skinned breeds, as soon as the hen stops laying, the yellow color comes back to the beak and shanks. The more completely yellow these two sections become, the longer a hen has rested. The rate hens take on the yellow pigment is governed to some extent by the range and color matter that they get in their ration. If the grass on the range is fresh and tender, the shanks and beak will become yellow in no time, and the reverse is true if the birds are on bare ground.

The condition of the abdomen is also an indication of summer production. A hen with a soft abdomen has been laying regularly, while a hen with a large amount of hard fat in the abdomen and over the pelvic bones has been resting.

It frequently is important to know whether a hen is just stopping or just beginning to lay. The way to tell this is by temperature and condition of the comb. If it feels hot to touch and is waxy in appearance, she is coming back into production. If the comb feels cold, the bird is either laying regularly or else is stopping. When she stops, the comb becomes scaly and shriveled.

Early Molters Poor Layers.

The other principal method of determining whether the hen is laying in the summer is by the molt. Most hens begin molting when they stop laying. If you find individual birds that are going into a molt in July or August, you are pretty safe in disposing of them. When a whole flock goes into a molt, they have been mistreated. The chances are they have been undernourished or improperly fed.

Very often the poultryman is at fault because his hens stop laying in July and August. A good egg mash before the hens throughout the summer is one of the important things in maintaining steady production. It is poor economy to close mash hoppers in the spring when the birds get outdoors. What they will pick up on the range will not take care of their feed requirements, and it is bound to be lacking in certain of the egg-building materials. A flock of hens fed on a good egg mash carefully culled, will net a nice profit to the owner.

ARE BAFFLED.

Press, public and police remain baffled by the strange disappearance of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian capitalist, who vanished literally "into thin air" recently when making a flight in his 10-passenger Fokker aeroplane from Croydon Field to Brussels. Here is a photograph of a similar aeroplane showing the construction of the door and how it opened outward. This picture was taken at Philadelphia just after Loewenstein had narrowly escaped death when he passed too closely to the propellers. He is shown with Mrs. Phillip Boyer, of New York, and E. T. Slotesburye, a financial associate.

SOUPS ARE WHOLESOME

Liquid foods with a meal sometimes interfere with digestion. This is particularly true of starchy soups. Starch is the one food that requires a thorough mastication to make it digestible, and it is almost impossible to learn to chew liquids, or to hold them in the mouth for a sufficient period to enable the ptyalin, or digestive element of the saliva, to prepare liquid starches for the digestion of the stomach and intestine.

In preparing soups, one should remember that the most wholesome kinds are made from non-starchy vegetables, and that food combinations must be observed in soups as well as in the meals. It is curious that sometimes even those who understand food combinations will make a mixture like rice or vermicelli-tomato soup, and then wonder why they are not improving as rapidly as they expect.

Wholesome soups are best served rather thick so that it is possible to chew them. Potatoes, brown rice, barley, or peas may be used in combination with such vegetables as string beans, spinach, celery or parsley. It is better to boil the potatoes in their skins to obtain the valuable mineral elements which are near the outside. They can then be mashed and seasoned.

One should never use any acid with a meal in which one of these starchy soups is used. This means that tomatoes, peaches, oranges, berries, etc., are taboo for the time being.

Meat soups are quite wholesome when only one kind of meat is combined with some of the non-starchy vegetables, as I have suggested with the starchy soups. It is permissible, however, to combine tomatoes with the meat soup, but all starches must positively be excluded if you wish to avoid fermentation.

The meat does not add a large amount of nourishment to the soup, but it does add to the flavor, and is not harmful. A good plan is to use the same kind of meat as that served at the meal. The meat may be ground up and left right in the soup, in which case a soup might serve as a whole meal by itself.

An exclusively non-starchy soup may be used to advantage with any kind of a meal, even with those who have weak digestive organs. By cooking well and squeezing the vegetables through a colander or sieve and adding warm cream when ready to serve, one can make a most palatable dish from any of these vegetables: spinach, celery, string beans, carrots, parsnips, or asparagus. If tomatoes are used for this soup, it is well to remember that no crackers or other starchy food should be added to the same meal.

A wholesome raw soup can be served in hot weather, prepared by grinding tomatoes, parsley, spinach and celery through a meat chopper. A small amount of salt may be added. This is really a liquid salad, and may be served as such. This soup tastes better than it sounds.

If you wish to avoid digestive disturbances, never use flour to thicken soups, and it is also better to avoid garlic and onions because of their gas-forming tendencies. By avoiding the pitfalls of dietetically wrong combinations, you can make soups into very wholesome, appetizing additions to your meals.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Reader writes: "Your articles are most interesting and educational—we certainly think them full of good suggestions and common sense. Will you kindly state what is meant by the following: 'A colon bordering on diverticulosis.' (1) What are some of the causes of colitis? (2) Should one suffering from colitis be on a diet. (3) Do you think colonic irrigations are very helpful?"

Answer: This simply means that pockets are forming in the colon in which food lodges, where it decomposes and putrefies more readily. (1) Wrong food, too much food, bad combinations, and everything which can produce constipation. (2) Diet is the only cure, and no special "queer" foods are necessary. Just follow the diet recommended in my weekly menus. (3) The daily enema is perhaps the best single treatment that can be given for colitis. In severe cases, two or three enemas daily should be used, and at least one enema taken daily over a period of several weeks. They are always helpful and can be no more harmful than washing the face, as long as you use only plain water.

Question: Seventeen writes: "I have had pimples for about a year. My weight is about right, but I drink cream to get a little heavier. Could too much cream, butter, or tomatoes be the cause?"

Answer: Certain kinds of pimples are no doubt caused by the use of too much oil and fat. Try a diet free from butter, milk, and cream, and the fat of meat, and see if your skin trouble does not clear up.

Question: W. H. asks: "What causes a child to grind its teeth in its sleep?"

Answer: The common cause is from indigestion, but sometimes stomach or intestinal worms are responsible.

The peaceful life that the Fire Department has been leading since the 12th was broken yesterday, not by a great conflagration, but by a dirty chimney that began to burn, so the firemen were rudely disturbed from their siesta of the past few days to help clean the chimney at 12.27 p.m. yesterday at 284 Sherbrooke Place. There was no damage done.

by selling out to the Bank of Commerce; while the Bank of Commerce can increase its size, it capitalization and its importance and thus a better showing with the rival banks. In this race of our banking megalomaniacs no small bank is safe any longer.

"It is useless to expect the banks to do anything to check this tendency. The smaller banks are willing to be absorbed if there is anything in it for them, and the big banks are determined to absorb them. The only protection for the public is the Dominion Government, whose consent to amalgamation is necessary. This protection to date has been worthless. We presume that in a matter of this importance, Mr. Robb would not act without the approval of his colleagues. Mr. King and his whole government must be held responsible for this failure to protect the public."

PITTSBURG MEN PLAN TO RETURN

Some Week-end Visitors will be back by Motor next Month.

Returning to-day from Bobcaygeon where he had been looking after the interests of the representatives of the Pittsburg Automobile Dealers' Association in Kawartha Lakes, Frank G. Stinson, secretary of Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, reported the complete satisfaction of the Pittsburgh people, and their whole-hearted approval of arrangements which had been made for them in Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes.

As several Pennsylvanians remarked, the outing this year provided them with an incentive to return, and many are returning as early as August of this year, by motor, of course. In speaking with vacationists who had attended the previous annual outings, the first of which was held in Atlantic City, and the second in Windsor, Niagara Falls, and Toronto, all claimed that this, the third outing, was the finest yet.

MASONS URGED TO ABOLISH WAR

NO MORE DARING OR HOPEFUL MOVEMENT IN WORLD TO-DAY

Hon. John S. Martin sees Wonderful Possibilities in Masonic Organization.

SPREAD BROTHERHOOD

LONDON, Ont., July 18 (Special to The Examiner)—A call to Masonry to direct its efforts to the abolition of war was the clarion note sounded today by Hon. John S. Martin, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada in Ontario, at the opening of the 73rd annual conclave of that distinguished body. More than a thousand delegates heard from the Grand Master an arraignment of war and those whose remorseless selfishnes impels them to incite the vilest of human pasions for the advancement of their own designs. "I have stresed brotherhood as a distinguishing quality of our craft," declared the Grand Master.

"It is fundamental to its past development and esential to its further usefulness and achievement. I have emphasized the importance of this quality as it affects the individual member and the individual lodge, through which the ideals of the order must be interpreted and exemplified. I would further point out, however, that this quality of brotherhood should have a still wider interpretation, and be applied to the problems of the nation and the world at large. There are to-day, I believe, over four million Masons speaking the English tongue, and I would it were posible for us to visualize the power which this great concourse could exercise on the trend of world events if it could be directed towards a unified and practical objective.

"There is no more daring, no more hopeful movement in the world to-day than the movement for the aboliton of war. War has its roots in human greed, in human jealousies nurtured sometimes through centuries of growth and fostered by those animated by the most remoreseless selfishness. War generates the lowest and vilest of human passions, just as truly as it calls forth the finest of chivalry and the noblest of self sacrifice. Out of the Great war there came a new and more widespread appreciation of these facts, and from them a greater desire to end war for all time."

Two Thousand Present

Two thousand delegates gathered in the main aditorium of the Masonic Temple to-day for the opening of the 73rd communication of the Grand Lodge, A.F. and A.M. of Canada, in the Province of Ontario. A civic welcome and the addres of the Grand Master featured the morning sesion.

An interesting event took place with the presentation by W. H. Cowan, Grand Secretary, to the Grand master of a gavel made from the wood of the famous old "Simcoe Oak" at Woodhouse near the grave of the first Grand Master, William Mercer Wilson, and donated by the Brothers of Wilson District, Norfolk County.

LONDON, Ont., July 18 (Canadian Press). — In its quest for brotherhood the Masonic Order should give consideration to the world peace idea, said the Hon. J. S. Martin, Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Ontario, in the course of his address at the opening of the 73rd annual communication of the Grand Lodge here to-day. Various committees of that body have been sitting here for some days preparing for the general sessions.

Mr. Martin laid emphasis on the ideals of brotherhood manifested by the British Empire in connection with the propdsals of the United States for outlawing war. Speaking of Masonic ideals and progress, the Grand Master said the appeal of Masonry in Ontario was never higher than today. He pointed out that an ever-increasing number of clergymen were seeking to become members, and suggested that the Lodge could be of great assistance to the Church.

The reports indicated a Masonic membership in Ontario of 114,000 and 563 lodges. The financial statement showed prosperity in that direction also.

A gun used in German East Africa during the World War was actually made in 1680; it is to be seen in the Imperial War Museum, London.

Mother Uses Rake To Rescue Child Who Fell In Middle Of Oiled Road

The "Tar Baby" was personified yesterday by a Peterborough youngster. On a freshly oiled street in the west-end of the city there were four children finding great delight in finding the places in the street the oiler had missed and crossing the fresh oil on these spaces as if on stepping stones in a brook. One little lad was not big enough to make a broad step, and his foot found the slippery tar. He fell with a scream of consternation and amazement while his companions shouted in glee.

The noise brought the youngster's mother to the scene, fearing some accident had befallen her child. She found him safe but soiled, rolling in the middle of the oiled street. Not dismayed by the precarious condition of the road she went into the house and returned with a rake and proceeded to fish her child to cleaner parts. He received due reward for his bravery and was sent into the house.

PHONE DISPUTE IS AIRED HERE

Ontario Railroad and Municipal Board Sits in City To-Day.

MILLBROOK CASE.

With Chairman C. R. McKeown, K.C., chairman, presiding, accompanied by F. Dagger, superintendent of telephone service, and assisted by Secretary Willam C. Coo, the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board met in the County Court House here to-day for the purpose of settling a dispute which had arisen between Dr. Russell, of the Russell Telephone Company, and officials of the Millbrook Telephone Company, the former claiming that the Millbrook Company was paralleling his lines and prejudicng a sale, now being negotiated, of his system to the municipality of South Monaghan.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appearing for the Millbrook Company, discussed the matter with the Board, following the giving of evidence by Dr. Russell, and the outcome was that the Board adjourned to allow Dr. Russell to continue negotiations for the sale of his system; the Millbrook Company agreeing to cease paralleling his lines for three months, at the end of which time, if the sale has not been made, they may again apply for permision to parallel the Russel lines.

A number of residents of the district, interested in the outcome of the case, were present in the court room during the hearing.

Dog's Wild Howling Omen Of Murder?

MEXICO CITY, July 18 (Canadian Press).—Associates of General Obregon recalled to-day that for two days and nights the dog next door to the General's home had been howling and that nothing could induce it to cease. The dog continued its howling up to the time when Obregon's body was brought into his home when, with one last wild howl, it ceased.

RUM RUNNING IS DANGEROUS WITH AIRPLANES AND RADIO

Exporters are said to be Frightened by Latest Counter Move.

SOME WILL QUIT.

Radio can Reach Fifteen Powerful Cutters with Warning.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., July 18.—(Special to The Examiner).—Port Colborne liquor exporters are highly perturbed over the rumor from Washington that airplanes are to be put into use in the near future against rum-running activities. The game has become an extremely hazardous one in the past few weeks, and it is not unlikely that some more of the exporters will quit it. One is reported to be preparing to leave and take up the more peaceful occupation of operating a service station in Toronto.

A fresh obstacle, in the form of a radio dragnet, which was put into operation by the United States coastguards a little over a fortnight ago, has made the rum-runners' lives very unpleasant, to say the least. By the use of the ether, home coastguard stations are kept constantly in touch with fifteen seventy-five foot cutters which are equipped with modern high power radio broadcasting and receiving sets.

BARONET AMONG SIXTEEN FINED FOR COCK-FIGHTING IN ENGLAND

EAST HARLING, England, July 18.—The clock of rural England was turned back a century today when nineteen men, including a Baronet, were faced in court with the charge of indulging in cockfighting, which was a royal sport more than a hundred years ago but was forbidden by law in 1849.

Sir John Buchanan Jardine, racehorse owner, and fifteen others of those arrested were fined £10 each on conviction of participation in a cock fight at a stud farm. The police raiders confiscated two birds fitted with steel spurs and bleeding from wounds received in the interrupted fight.

LECTURE GIVEN AT CHAUTAUQUA ON HOME TOWN

Inspirational Address Delivered to Large Audience in Big Tent.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

One of the high-powered, humorous, inspirational lectures without which a Chautauqua program would not be complete, was given at the tent last night by C. A. Plattenburg, speaking on "The Home Town in a New World," and taking the place of the scheduled speaker, Herbert Leon Cope, who was compelled to cancel his engagement on account of serious illness.

Mr. Plattenburg's address, however, was all that could be desired in the way of fluent, easy delivery, originality in presentation, and attraction of subject. To be alternately cajoled and reprimanded, to have one's pet prejudices trod on quite firmly while a little soothing syrup is being imbibed at the same time, is a favorite form of entertainment with most audiences, and Mr. Plattenburg did all these things in a very entertaining manner, administering doses of inspirational medicine, judiciously mixed with complimentary references to Canada, the country and its people.

The address was preceded by a half-hour of music given by the Mozart Concert Company, a trio of very talented young ladies who also delighted their audience in the afternoon with a concert of a semi-classical type. A piano, a violin, and a violoncello comprise the instruments used by these dainty ladies, whose pretty gowns against an attractive hanging of soft blue draperies made a lovely setting for splendidly-rendered music.

In the afternoon, the trio, their music displaying a very high degree of technical proficiency, flowing melody and sweet, rich tone, played a "Serenade," selections from one of Victor Herbert's sparkling operas, "Babes in Toyland," Kreisler's stoccato "Syncopation," the lovely strains of the "Farewell to Cucullain" (Londonderry Air), and a Hungarian Dance by Brahms.

The violinist gave as a solo a vivid gypsy dance by Rachmaninoff, and "The Desert Sang," the 'cellist played "Serenade Espagnol" and an old Italian love song, and the pianist, also a reader of much ability, recited "The Old Schoolhouse" and a one-act play entitled "The Valiant." She also gave an imitation of old-time and modern music, singing "Good-Night, Ladies" and "Yes, Sir, She's My Baby," and finished with a song, to the accompaniment of the three instruments, called "Just a Memory."

In the evening, the young ladies opened their programme with a trio arrangement of the hauntingly sweet "Estrellita," the Mexican love song that has attained such a vogue since

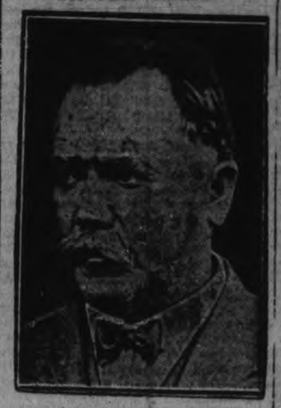
CRUELLY KILLED



General Alvaro Obregon, President Elect of Mexico, who was assassinated yesterday. His body was to-day removed to his home amid scenes of sorrow and the pageantry of civil and military honors. The cortege was led by President Calles.

Five Shots Are Fired At Close Range Into Body of Gen. Obregon

President-Elect of Mexico is Shot by Young Assassin as he Sat at Banquet being held in His Honor.

SLAYER APPROACHED TABLE AT WHICH GENERAL WAS SITTING AND FIRED POINT BLANK

MEXICO CITY, July 18 (Associated Press). — General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, was shot down by an assassin known as Juan Escapularlo, as he sat at a banquet in his honor at La Bombilla restaurant at San Angel, near Mexico City, yesterday.

Obregon headquarters announced that the General died almost instantly. The assassin was captured and taken to jail.

In the best informed circles it is thought that President Calles will retain strong control over whatever situation may arise as a result of the murder of the man who was to have succeeded him as president. In the same circles it is believed that a revolution or armed rising are not immediately probable.

No one will venture to predict what may occur in the future, although it is generally believed that President Calles can be named by Congress to continue in office. It is possible, however, that other elections may be called.

Fired Point Blank.

Eye-witnesses to the shooting, which took place shortly after two o'clock, said that the slayer approached the table at which the president-elect was sitting, and asked Governor Aaron Saenz, of the State of Nuova Leon, if he might show some pictures of General Obregon. He pretended to show the pictures, under which he had concealed a pistol, and fired several times into the General's body.

The band was playing at the time and many of those present failed to hear the shots and did not realize what had happened until the General slumped down in his chair.

He died while being carried out to his automobile.

Great Excitement.

News of the shooting created the greatest excitement in Mexico City, and within a few minutes a huge crowd had gathered outside the president-elect's residence. They were kept at a respectful distance by soldiers and police.

Some of the general's friends were in a dangerous mood and started out to look for men reputed to have been enemies of their leader. It was feared that unless they could be calmed down some violence might be committed.

President Calles rushed to San Angel to verify the identity of the assassin and take such measures as were necessary, and then hurried to General Obregon's residence. Guards made way for him through the curious crowd.

Calles Displays Grief.

The President displayed the greatest grief as he gazed at the dead body of his friend. Many prominent politicians and Obregon supporters began arriving at the home as soon as the news spread. So closely was it guarded, however, that for a time some of them were refused admittance.

General Obregon, who on July 1 was elected to succeed President Calles, returned to Mexico City from his home in Sonora on Sunday. He was greeted by one of the greatest political demonstrations known in Mexico in recent years. Only on Monday night in a statement to newspapermen he said that he might possibly make a trip to the United States before his accession to the presidential post on December 1.

Several Recent Attempts.

Several attempts have recently been made on the general's life. Bombs were hurled at him last November. He escaped unscathed except for a few scratches on his face. His headquarters in Mexico City were bombed twice recently.

A report spread, but could not be confirmed in any quarter, that the president-elect was still alive, but was expected to die shortly. The local newspapers, however, in extras said that he was actually dead.

General Obregon's assassin was a young man, somewhere in his twenties. Aaron Saenz, governor of the State of Nuevo Leon, who sat beside General Obregon at the banquet, was unhurt.

Body Lies in State

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—(Canadian Press).—Upon great bier draped with the national colors, the body of President-elect Alvaro Obregon rested in state in the Hall of Ambassadors in the National Palace today.

A guard of honor composed of members of the cabinet and high officials of the army and navy surrounded the dead leader. The body was borne to its present resting place shortly after midnight on the shoulders of a group of cabinet and army officers.

A guard of honor composed only of

BISHOP DIES AT CALGARY

Rt. Rev. Cyprian Pinkham had been 40 Years in Office.

WIDE DIOCESE.

CALGARY, Alta., July 18.—(Canadian Press).—Right Rev. Cyprian Pinkham, for forty years Anglican Bishop of Calgary, died at his residence in Calgary shortly after ten o'clock this morning.

A pioneer figure in the Canadian West, Rt. Rev. William Cyprian Inkham, until the end of 1926 Anglican Bishop of Calgary, probably witnessed as great a transformation in his chosen field of labor as any man of his time. Reaching the prairies almost before they had felt the impress of civilization, he was destined to spend his life largely in missionary districts.

He was born in St. John's Newfoundland in 1844. But when the future bishop was quite young, his father returned to England and took up his abode in Teignmouth, Devon. Dr. Pinkham attended St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, graduating in 1868. He was ordained deacon and came to the Red River Settlement the same year. He entered priest's orders the following year.

His first charge in Canada was St. James, Manitoba, where he was incumbent for 13 years from 1868 to 1881. In 1881 he was appointed Archdeacon and Canon of St. John's Cathedral, Winnipeg. Six years later he was elevated to the episcopate, being elected Bishop of Saskatchewan.

Owing to the re-arrangement of the western dioceses he was Bishop of Saskatchewan from 1887 to 1903 and Bishop of Calgary from 1888 up to the time of his retirement at the end of 1926 on account of failing health. He was also Bishop of Edmonton, 1913 to 1914.

Bishop Pinkham's diocese extended on the north to the Arctic circle and Hudson's Bay. In order to reach one of his missions on the coast of the Bay it was necessary for him to travel the whole way round by the St. Lawrence and up around the coast of Labrador.

He attained the honor of being appointed an Indian Chief and one of his photographs shows him in the full costume of this interesting office.

Bishop Pinkham married Jean Ann Deaver of Winnipeg in 1869. They had four sons and four daughters of whom two sons and three daughters are living.

RAILROAD MEN ARE WATCHED

CONDUCT INQUIRY

BUFFALO, July 18 (Canadian Press). — The Buffalo Evening News says to-day that several railroad employees and customs inspectors at the two international bridges in Niagara Falls are under investigation of special agents of the Customs Department, who are conducting an inquiry into an alleged rum-running conspiracy.

Shifting the scene of the inquiry, the special agents, the News says, are continuing an investigation which resulted in the indictment here of seven railroad employees, customs inspectors, and London, Ontario, bootleggers for participation in an alleged conspiracy to send liquor in from Canada by freight cars.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (Canadian Press). — In an effort to provide a means of ending liquor and other smuggling from Canada into the United States, Treasury officials, headed by Assistant Secretary Lowmann, conferred to-day with representatives of the railroads in United States and Canada whose lines touch the border.

RIVALS APPEAR.

Rivals appeared on the scene in the case of Miss Coursey's accident at Inverlea Park recently. Eye-witnesses of the rescue claim that Gersham Wise was the one to assist her from the water.

HEARS OF HIS MOTHER'S DEATH; TRUSTY ESCAPES TORONTO JAIL

Tom Burns Climbs over Coal-yard Wall Early this Morning.

NEWS DELAYED.

Would Have Finished Three Months' Sentence on Friday.

TORONTO, Ont., July 18 (Special to The Examiner).—Hearing from friends yesterday by means of a letter of his mother's death three weeks ago, Tom Burns, age 24, of Chatham, a trusty would would have finshed his three months' sentence for carrying concealed weapons on Friday, escaped from the jail early to-day.

The letter which Burns received, had evidently been delayed.

Major Basher, the Governor of the jail, was inclined to look lightly on the matter. "It is really a very small affair," he stated. Burns who had access to the coalyard, used to climb to the top of the boilers by means of a step ladder to inspect them. At 5.30 this morning he used this ladder to climb over the coalyard wall.

COUPLES MUST TAKE AN OATH TO BE WED

NEW YORK, July 18.—Participants in a wedding ceremony in Trinity Church (Episcopal) will be required first to sign a statement under oath that they have been baptized, have never been divorced, are of legal age and enter the marriage freely "without any outside influence of coercion whatsoever."

Announcement of the new requirement appears in the Rev Dr. Calb R. Stetson's statement in the year book of Trinity church, of which he is rector, published Monday.

Dr. Stetson urges clergymen to advise non-Christians to be married by a civil officer. He arraigns those "thoughtless and grossly careless clergymen of various denominations who appear willing to perform a wedding ceremony for any who come to them to be married."

YOUNG WALL STREET BROKERS MAKE FORCED LANDING IN DEPTHS OF QUEBEC FOREST

SEARCH STARTED.

Plane Finds Men but Later fails to Locate Missing Flyers.

NEW YORK, July 19 (A.P.).—Two young Wall Street brokers are stalled in the depths of the Canadian wilderness by engine trouble of their plane, but their friends yesterday were celebrating the relief from the anxiety which their non-appearance for several days had caused. The men are James Goodwin Hall and Enos Curtin. They had been expected to return on Saturday and when they did not, searching planes were immediately sent out over the Quebec forests. Yesterday one of these planes brought back word that the two men were unharmed but that they might be forced to trek out to a rail point, a journey of weeks.

Both Hall and Curtin were interested in some gold claims recently staked in Upper Quebec. They took off from New York on July 7 for an inspection trip to the claims.

Three days later they reported themselves at Oskalaneo, Quebec, where a Hudson Bay station maintains contact with civilization. Then the silence of the wilderness closed about them. Sixteen planes took up the search.

At their offices here yesterday, it was not clear from the brief message received whether the fliers had been forced down or whether the engine trouble had prevented a take-off on the return flight. It was considered problematical whether the engine could be repaired with the few facilities available to them.

MONTREAL, July 18 (Canadian Press).—James Hall, United States aviator, was forced down at Lake David, in the wilds of Northern Quebec, about 150 miles from the trans-Continental line of the Canadian National Railways on July 13, according to word received here over the long distance telephone from the Fairchild Aviation Company of Canada at Grand'Mere yesterday.

Advised of Hall's predicament—his plane had developed engine trouble—a Fairchild plane was sent to Lake David and arrived there on July 14. The next day the Fairchild pilot flew to Lake Chibaugmau for fuel and returned to Lake David but could find no trace of Hall, although his plane was still there..

A search for the missing man was then begun, but it was hampered by poor visibility. After three days' reconnaisance, the Fairchild plane flew to Campbell's Lake, another fuel station in the district, to replenish the plane's tanks. On the way to Campbell's Lake, a plane, believed to be Hall's, was sighted by the searchers, although the flying machine's identity could not be ascertained owing to bad weather. It is believed by Fairchild officials that Hall repaired his machine and was on his way to his destination. The search, however, has not been abandoned and the Fairchild plane was still in the district looking for Hall.

Russell of Buffalo and party, staying at Ned Wilson's cottage on Loucks Lake, which adjoins Long Lake got several fine bass running around three and a half pounds in weight. There is a string of lakes running out of Long Lake, all great fishing grounds for bass and trout. The names of these lakes are Long, Loucks, Trout, Cox and Silver. German is Arrested for Cutting Hypnotized Girl. Wounds were Inflicted with Sharp Razor Blade

BRESLAU, Germany, July 18. — To decide whether the infliction of pain on a hypnotized person is a punishable crime, a suit was started against a show owner here yesterday by the Public Prosecutor.

The defendant has for some time exhibited a young girl under the stage name of "Ilona, the woman without feeling." During recent weeks, the young woman repeatedly became unconscious during performances, and police felt compelled to step in.

A hypnotist, called in as an expert, ascertained that the girl, whose arms were covered by white gloves, was bleeding severely. Investigation showed the wounds were inflicted with a sharp razor. The victim said she always felt pain when the knife was applied to her body. Pain, even more severe was felt when darts from an air rifle were fired into the upper part of her body, she testified.

NEWS IN BRIEF

ILLEGAL BURIAL CHARGED

SUTTON, July 18. — Rivalling a modern detective mystery was the story unfolded in Sutton and its environs yesterday, when County Constables W. M. Shadwick and George Thompson had a tangle to unravel following the finding of two infant bodies on an isolated farm, but which culminated last night in a charge of "illegal burial" being registered against a couple who vanished from the scene some four weeks ago.

WORKMAN FOUND DEAD

LEASIDE, July 18.—Led by curiosity to look into an open water chamber entrance on Laird street, Leaside, yesterday evening, Lorne Tucker and Whiteman Tucker, members of a C.P.R. track gang upon investigation, found the body of David Christie, aged 61, foreman of the Leaside waterworks.

Investigation by the police indicated that Mr. Christie had been dead about four hours.

The theory advanced by Dr. J. H. McConnell, coroner, as the most likely cause of death is that Mr. Christie, being advanced in years, was affected by the intense heat of the afternoon, and upon entering the cold chamber, some fifteen feet under ground, was suddenly overcome and expired immediately.

MOTORIST KILLED

CHATHAM, July 18.—Arthur Newell, 45, of Watford, was fatally injured and three others were hurt in a motor accident which accurred on provincial highway number two, five miles east of Tilbury yesterday afternoon.

DIES TRYING RESCUE

NORTH BAY, July 18 (Canadian Press).—Going to the aid of his brother, Sheridan, 14 years, and his cousin, Noel Gagnon, of Smoothrock Falls, when they slipped off a log on which they had been playing at a distance of ten feet from the shore, Finlay Porter, 16 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Porter, Maymont, Sask., was drowned off Fisher's Point, Lake Nosbonsing, near Bonfield, according to word received yesterday.

Dr. H. Smith, of Lima, Ohio, a tourist camper, hurried to the aid of the struggling lads and managed to bring Sheridan and Gagnon to shore where he revived them after considerable effort. With the two lads safely out of danger, Dr. Smith made a diligent search for the third lad but without success. The body was later recovered.

Baby In Suitcase.

NORTH BAY, July 18.—Wrapped in a dirty woollen blanket and placed in a club bag, a baby girl about two or three days old was discovered early yesterday morning at the corner of Cassell and Obrien Streets. The young man who made the find after hearing the wails of the child for some time immediately communicated with the police, and Sergeant McGrail, who was on night duty, answered the call. He found the child in the club bag, which was open, and the baby void of clothes of any kind except for the old piece of blanket cloth.

During the past seven years the United States has imported more wool than the country produced, with the exception of 1920 and 1924.

HARVEST SCENE IN LOCAL WINDOW

Binder Twine Display Gives Reminder that Summer Passes Swiftly.

The window of Frank Dawson's flour and feed store on Water street presented to-day a fall like appearance. The window, representing Brantford binder twine with their slogan—"And the golden grain we'll bind again with twine from the golden ball", causes one to think of how rapidly the summer is passing and that soon it will be the time when the golden fields of grain will be cut under the clanking of the reaper.

Against a white background there are three pyramids made out of balls of binder twine. On the right and left hand sides the pyramids are made of six balls of twine in the while in the larger one in the centre there are ten. Behind and between these are sheaves of wheat which are bound and representative of the bountiful harvest that is expected this fall. Working down to the apex of the triangle that the display roughly signifies are two balls of twine on each side of the window and three small sheaves of wheat separated by more twine.

The whole window is demonstrative of the optimistic outlook held by the farmer and everyone that this year there will be a huge crop the nation's mainstay.

MILLBROOK W. I. TO HOLD PICNIC NEXT MEETING

Decides to Make Donations of $5 to School Fair Prize Fund.

TO ASSIST EXHIBITION

Ladies will take Charge of Special Section for Women's Work Exhibits.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 18.—Mrs. H. J. Armstrong was hostess for the July meeting of the Women's Institute on Saturday evening, the president, Mrs. T. H. Harkness, being in the chair.

The attendance was unusually large, and among the business items receiving attention was the annual picnic, which will be held this year on Wednesday, August 8, at the home of Mrs. J. L. Byam, Bank street. Mrs. Byam kindly extended an invitation for the gathering at the last meeting.

After discussion, it was decided to donate $5.00 in prize money to the Rural School Fair, the amount to be equally divided for the best collections of vegetables, fruit and flowers. This prize in these two classes, offered by the Institute, drew a large number of competitors last year.

It was also decided to have a special section at the annual fall fair, under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, offering adequate prizes for fancy work, cooking, canned fruit and pickles, flowers, etc. Members of the Institute, who are also members of the Agricultural Society, are eligible to make entries in this section, which was a popular feature of the fair last fall.

The matter of having a number of the girls of the community enter the instruction classes in connection with the girls' judging contest sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, which are shortly to be under way, was given due attention, and a definite effort will be made to have Millbrook well represented in this competition.

Following the classes under a competent coach supplied by the Department, the contest for East Durham will take place here on August 9; for West Durham the judging contest will be at Orono. The winners in each case will be among the girls from all over the province who will be in the judging competition at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

At the conclusion of the business session a program was enjoyed, the following contributing: Piano solos by Miss Jessie Armstrong; vocal solos by Miss Anna Hawthorne; Miss Myrtle Russell being the accompan-

RAIN THREATENS HAY IN SWATHS

Dummer Farmers Have Busy Day Saving Crops—Roots Growing Well.

WARSAW, July 18.—The rains of Friday, Saturday and Sunday were disheartening to the many who had hay out. A few had managed to get all that was ready to cut in by Thursday evening. There was hay lying in the swath in winrows and in cocks. However Monday was a nice drying day and every man was at his hay.

The rains did other crops much good. Corn and roots just rushed up. The grain crops improved greatly. Weeds took their opportunity to grow, of course. Much of the wheat is turning and the heads seem heavy.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

THERE is nothing makes me more tired than the blah we hear about man's superiority in the scheme of earthly things, and woman's place in the shadow of the home roof. I thought I was getting to the point where I could smile at such talk, but all my repressed "peeve" came to the surface at a gathering the other night when I heard one of Peterborough's leading men declare, as if he had evolved a new and novel dictum, "Woman's place is in the home."

• • •

Of my own knowledge I am aware that that man would neglect his religion, family and business duties if it were not for his wife. She insists upon his attending church; she takes him, willy-nilly, to concerts; she has trained him to spend a certain amount of time with his family, and she even watches to see that he leaves the house every morning in time to keep up his reputation of never being late for business.

• • •

It's not a case of Jiggs and Maggie, by any means. The very fact that hubby is not aware of the influences his wife wields is evidence that rolling pins and vases are here replaced by finesse.

• • •

And then, at his office, he has a stenographer who sees that he keeps engagements, pays his gas and electric bills before the penalty is enforced, and protects him from a horde of callers who would distract his attention from business.

• • •

I am told that this pearl of all stenographers even reminds the man of his wife's birthday, and of his wedding anniversary, so that he preserves the peace and harmony of the home.

• • •

If his wife is needed at home to pick up his socks, ties, studs, newspapers and what have you, his secretary (whom he says should be at her home) has an equally difficult task to straighten out his desk, fill his ink wells and see that he doesn't toss important documents into the waste paper basket.

• • •

So you see the woman at home has a share in her husband's business, and the woman in business has a part to play in making her employer's home life right.

• • •

It's a good thing for men that women do not confine their interests to the only task some men would give them—rocking the much advertised cradle.

• • •

So far, so good, but let's go farther to-morrow.

• • •

Now that parchment lamp shades are so much in vogue in Peterborough it might be interesting to know that very beautiful shades may be made at home at a very small cost. These are made by pasting brightly colored designs in birds and flowers or Japanese effects onto a plain parchment form (both designs and forms may be purchased at the local stationers quite reasonably). These are afterward thoroughly oiled and when dry are shellaced. This gives a really beautiful effect, especially when the shade is made on tended parchment.

• • •

Bathing suits seen at the nearby resorts this summer range all the way from the most simple to the most ornate. Somehow, elaborate bathing suits seem out of place. It seems as if the water should appear an intention rather than a background. I saw one which appeals—it was in jersey in shades of brown, with a recrossing triangular design covering the garment.

• • •

In a local store yesterday I saw a list of names of hosiery colors that looked like the recital of an unbalanced mind—ecstacy, grain, atmosphere, blue fox, French nude, tansan, dust, elephant, and mirage were among them. But they are only the new shades of grey and beige and combinations of both.

• • •

Heels are receiving much attention now. There have been several different heel designs shown in the city, though not popularised here, and some that are worn extensively in other places have not appeared at all in Peterborough stores. The designs include, pointed (to slenderize), groups of three points, hour glasses, fleurs de lys, square and narrow, embroidered.

Please don't be offended if your letters and helps do not appear in print immediately. I am using them in the order in which they arrive, and surely wish to thank all who are rallying to my assistance.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The light-weight short-sleeved silk and wool sweater at the right is worn outside the skirt while the one at the left is worn in tuck-in fashion. The lisle sweater with bright pink banding shown below is designed to be worn over the skirt giving the slightly bloused effect that fashion demands.

The light-weight sweater worn in tuck-in fashion is an outstanding novelty of the season. It comes as something of a surprise in a season when overblouses were for the most part decidedly long and when efforts to revive a normal waistline had for the most part been of little avail. By all means the smartest of sports skirts is made with a yoke top designed to show. This means that sweater or blouse must be worn with the end tucked in. It is not easy to arrange a tuck-in blouse so that it won't add bulkiness to the girth of the hips and the very slender hip contour is still essential.

Sweaters designed to be worn in this way are of the thinnest. The new lisle sweaters are often chosen and I have seen some combining a very light-weight wool zephyr with silk that was no heavier than lisle. The lower edge is finished with a hip band in close ribbing over which the hip yoke fastens quite snugly, and as the sweater is made with a blouse effect above the hip band one does not have the trouble in keeping the sweater tucked in that would be the case were it drawn down snugly. Only one must be decidedly slender to adopt the fashion successfully.

Meantime other types of sweaters are chosen by many very well-dressed women. The fairly long model worn over the skirt may be worn with the leather belt placed anywhere between the normal waistline and the hipline of the sweater. Some of the newest sweater costumes in France have belts made of what appears to be braided strands of twine, fastened with snappers or small buckles.

FRIENDS TEASE FASTING STOUT

Kiwanis Luncheon Puts New Temptations in Way of Writer.

DROWSY FEELING.

(By John Stout.)

On this fifth day of using only fruit juice and vegetable water as sustenance, working regular hours and sleeping irregular ones, I can think back to last Monday morning when I weighed in at 175 pounds. Much of this was the grossest fat, particularly in the equatorial region, and some of my colleagues have said at times, also above the ears.

Then subtract approximately eight pounds. That leaves 167 pounds, the discard being a wholly superfluous accumulation of flesh that probably would, if vivisected, resemble that of a well larded swine. This is the poundage record of the morning of the fifth day Sneer that one off.

Solicitous Friends.

Solicitous friends are becoming legion. Dr. G. Ray Scott was especially solicitous of my well-being at the Kiwanis luncheon on Friday. Conferring in undertones with Dr. E. H. Wood, who sat beside him, he offered the butter for my neglected bun, and twice insisted that I should have the sugar.

What Price Glory.

On Thursday my diet was strictly citrus. Grape juice in the morning. Four glasses of orange juice during the day and another glass before retiring. The combination of my ordinary mean disposition and hungry temperament has given away to a feeling of lassitude, that I must admit is rather pleasant. I feel no particular exhiliaration, and am possessed of several degrees less than the usual pep, but at least hunger has been succeeded by a sort of devil-may-care drowsy feeling.

Possibly this is the glory that is spoken of by the best authorities. If so, seriously, a good price has been paid in the last 24 hours. If anyone could be aware of the lining of the innards prior to the beginning of a fast, and could actually see the poisons that emanate from the system about the fourth day, they probably would figure that by happy chance they had just missed a sudden trip to the cemetery.

Saturday afternoon is going to be my day off, when I think I shall sleep through until Monday morning. Right now I don't want food. I'm going through the ten days despite the discourteous jabs from Sour Spots.

UNIQUE CELEBRATION.

Marmion, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Not often does one hear of mother and daughter celebrating a silver and golden wedding on the self-same day, but Mr. and Mrs. John Malinofski of this place sat at a dinner on their silver wedding anniversary with the bride's aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schwartz, of near Desboro, who celebrated their golden wedding at the same time. Their pastor, Rev. Mr. Bauer, gave a suitable address for both the 25th and 50th anniversary.

About 70 guests assembled at a dinner to honor the occasion.

TEST OF HEARING AMONG CHILDREN

Verdun School Board Carries Out Important Move This Year.

Montreal, Que., July 18 (CP).—Women, who are everywhere the real conservors of child life and welfare, wi be eager to hear more of the results of the yearly testing of the hearing of school children by means of the audiometer, which has been sponsored and carried on by the Verdun Protestant School Board this year.

As such a large percentage of deafness in adult life has its origin often entirely unsuspected in childhood, there is strong reason to believe that many of the cases reported as of deficient hearing can be permanently cured, and the child saved a lifetime of deafness. In cases in which the disease has progressed so far that there is no cure, it is often possible by careful and continued treatment to prevent the deafness from getting worse and the trouble from reaching the normal ear.

The Montreal League for the Hard of Hearing at their annual meeting here, adopted a resolution commending the Verdun board and expressing the hope that, because of the great importance of discovering hearing defects during the early years of childhood, while they can to a large extent be cured, the other school boards of the province will adopt it as a practice to have the hearing of their children tested at least once a year.

DEPEND ON WOMEN FOR WORLD PEACE

Men Are Hammering Steel Into Battleships While Women Frame Friendships.

Hamilton, Ont., July 18 (CP).—Just as it was the mothers and the women of every land who suffered the heaviest casualties in the last war, so the makers and the keepers of that peace which can come only by international friendship and understanding, will be the women of the world. Such is the opinion of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, whose name recently headed the list of the 12 most famous women of the United States and who is at present the president of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. She is quoted by a Hamilton newspaper:

"All around the world is heard the hammer on steel as men build battleships to win the next war. Not so loud, but even more insistently, the women of the nations are framing friendships so that there will never be another war. This is the responsibility of the mothers of the race and they are determined to fulfill it."

The Art of Attraction

No. 4.

In this game of securing a suitable partner for life, where convention would kindly hoist the ancient fiction that the lady has little or nothing to do with it, the attribute of a good listener and an air of appreciation is exceedingly useful. Someone has said that a good listener is a wonderful person, but it's painful when two good listeners get together. However, where a man is concerned, a good listener in a feminine companion is very much to be desired, and any sensible girl will cultivate the faculty as much as possible. Along with a listening ear, she will also don an appreciative look. An approving demeanor, directed towards a man who is doing the talking, will go a long way toward convincing him that its owner is an extremely attractive young lady.

When the youth feels dejected and things are going wrong in the office or shop or factory, what more comforting thought can he have than the recollection that there waits for him at the end of the day a sympathetic ear and an eye that is devoid of the criticism and unkindness he encounters in the daily round?

A Tip or Two

LEFTOVER COFFEE

Leftover coffee may be used for flavoring in cakes or puddings, but should never be reheated for drinking purposes, since the flavor lies in the volatile oil which goes after the coffee is made.

Stephen Douglas was Lincoln's chief rival in both love and war.

And you? . . . have you tried Muffets?

Just about the size and shape of a patty shell—and as light! Its butternut-browned, crinkly round top a speaking promise of crunchy crispness, a promise that's kept by every spoonful that crumbles in your mouth, from the first to the last!

That's your Muffet! Being whole wheat, it gives you calories, bran roughage, body-building minerals.

Cooked, baked, toasted, it gives you easy digestibility.

Served, whole or broken up, with cream and sugar, or with fruit added—the best eating you've tasted in many a morning!

Now that you know there is such a dish, you're not going to let another breakfast go by without Muffets. Are you? We thought not!

FISH AS SOUVENIRS.

Inspired by the visit to Peterborough of the Pittsburg Automobile Dealers' Association, a local citizen, who is as enthusiastic an angler as he is a booster for Peterborough and district, comes forward with a novel suggestion as to future visits from such parties.

There is nothing that interests the average visitor from the United States so much as fishing, declares this citizen, and then he asks: "Why not give every member of such parties a fish as a souvenir?"

This could be easily arranged, in the opinion of The Examiner's correspondent, who says: "We who are desirous of putting this district on the map as a tourist paradise should unite in one big fishing expedition. The Indians should be in on such a scheme as they are beneficiaries as they profit by guiding. Organize through the press 100 fishermen with an average catch of three fish and you have 300. In brief, send any similar delegation home with the bacon in the form of fish. This may sound big, but should be easy. Have every guide and every would-be sport give one day to fishing for the other fellow and to advertising this district."

A SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY.

Surely the Sault Ste. Marie Local Council of Women have allowed their love for their home city to run away with their judgment in the attitude they are taking in regard to the school trustee election.

Each one of the Council's nine candidates for office is pledged to support the appointment of teachers born and bred in the Sault in preference to outsiders, no matter what the respective qualifications may be.

And furthermore, the Council has passed a resolution to the effect that the efficiency of the teaching staff was of secondary importance compared with its origin

With the policy of preferring home talent The Examiner is in thorough sympathy, but it should not be carried out to an extent that might impair the efficiency of such an important part of municipal life as the school teaching staff.

The aim of school boards should be to give the children whose education is under their control the best possible foundation for their life work.

If this can be done with home teachers all the better; if not the appointment of outsiders is desirable and necessary, and it is surprising to find an organization like the Local Council of Women take the position that efficiency is of secondary importance.

ONTARIO'S ROADS.

While detours made necessary by road-building operations are a thorn in the flesh of motorists and we in this district seem to be having more than our share of inconvenience at the present time, there is consolation in the fact that the roads of this district are rapidly being put in first-class condition.

In fact, throughout the whole Province the progress that is being made in this respect is remarkable, Ontario setting a pace in highway building that is attracting widespread attention.

The Minister of Highways, Hon. Geo. S. Henry, in fact, is able to announce that up to date this year no less than 70 miles of new highway has been laid.

This includes 50 miles of concrete, 16 miles of mixed macadam and four miles of traffic-bound macadam.

This stretch of new highway added to the many miles laid before this year will put Ontario to the forefront in the matter of good roads and leave this Province in a position to stand comparison with most other parts of the Continent.

The superb system of roads that is being developed has cost and is costing a huge sum of money, but the investment is justified in the pleasure and comfort it provides for local motorists and in the effect that it has upon tourist traffic.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK.

There is much that is beautiful in Ontario these fine summer days, and tourists visiting this Province for the first time must be impressed by the fine farms and the appealing vista that unrolls itself for mile after mile along our highways.

But here and there are conditions that are not a credit to us, neglected farm buildings, weed infested roadsides, and many signs of carelessness and neglect.

The Hon. J. L. Perron, head of the Highway Department, in a recent speech declared that for the next two years he will miss no opportunity of repeating that all citizens must co-operate with the Government in raising Quebec Province to a high standard of cleanliness, hygiene and beauty.

He is on the right track.

The tourist will enjoy a trip to Canada all the more when he will see nothing along our roads but neat houses, whitewashed or painted barns, straight fences, and well tilled fields.

In this respect we might well take a leaf from Quebec's book and emulate this campaign on behalf of a cleaner and more attractive countryside.

ATHLETIC GAMES.

(An Editorial for Young People)

Canadian competitors in the Olympic Games, to be held in Holland, sailed this week, and every one wishes them good luck, a pleasant trip and a safe return. There is something very inspiring about these international athletic events, in which the best representatives in each division from all parts of the world fight it out in friendly rivalry for the coveted honors. We all hope and expect that our Canadian boys and girls will give a good account of themselves and bring back prizes to Canada, but more to be desired even than victory is the display of that fine sporting spirit which knows how to accept triumph or failure with equally good grace and to give all credit to rivals. Nothing could promote the cause of international understanding and good-will more than these great Olympic Games, yet there are some who hold that they have the opposite effect, because of the inevitable disappointment caused to unsuccessful competitors. Not all can be winners, and there is no disgrace in losing, if one has done one's best. It is an extremely regrettable thing that sport seems to have deteriorated into a selfish ambition to win at any price, in the minds of some people, who are never able to contemplate defeat without bitterness. That, however, is exactly the contrary to what the sentiments of the real sport-lover should be. Athletic games are intended to foster the capacity to bear disappointment just as they train the victor to accept his triumphs with modesty. The game's the thing—putting everything one has in the way of strength, of stamina, of speed, of skill and endurance into the effort, but taking no unfair advantage. "Play the game!" whatever the issue may be.

It has often been said that what has made the Mother Country so great is her love of sport and her high code of honor on the playing fields. In every game there is necessarily a set of rules, and these do not always suit the player; but it is by obeying the rules and playing clean that the individual shows his character. It is the same in ordinary life, all cannot be winners, but all can try their best to win. If we are beaten by superior merits on the part of others, we should acknowledge the justice of our position. But in the game of life we are under the same necessity of making preparations for the race, of keeping our eye on the goal and striving with might and main to attain it. More no one can do. Win or lose, the race is worth while for its own sake and filled with compensations, even though the grand prizes may not be for us. —Hamilton Spectator.

SAFETY OF FLYING.

The ill-fated Italia expedition may have a useful result if it leads to the discontinuance of hazardous journeys by airplane and airship into uninhabited and inhospitable regions, the exploration of which adds nothing to human knowledge. Both the North Pole and the South Pole have been visited and, at the present stage, nothing whatever is to be gained by risking valuable lives in repeating the exploit. These expeditions are being condemned by scientists themselves. Dr. Jean Charcot, distinguished French explorer, describes air voyages into the barren Arctic as "both criminal and useless." They will always appeal to the adventurous, however. Should these courageous explorers be prevented from undertaking such voyages? There are many reasons why they should. Apart from the comparative futility of the flights, even when they are successfully accomplished, it may be said that they do more harm to the cause of aviation than good. The exceptional conditions encountered by these aviators afford no criterion whatever of what is likely to happen under normal circumstances. The wreck of an airship like the Italia, brought down by reason of the low temperatures, its gondola ripped off by icebergs, is pointed to by critics as a sign that airships in general are not a practicable means of conveyance, and the impression goes even farther, that aviation is still in a state of infancy, and flying is accompanied with constant danger. As a matter of fact, the percentage of flying accidents —excluding flights which are in the nature of "stunts" —is very low as compared with more ordinary forms of travel. Commercial aviation, with air passenger services, has long since passed the experimental stage. It is possible to give definite statistics as to their safety.

An air service company operating in mid-western American States announces that of 27,000 passengers carried, not one has been injured, neither has a single employee of the company been hurt while flying. The air business between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City involves passage over the mountains, the distance covered on the route being 1,400 miles a day, but though this service has been in operation for over two years, there has not been an accident of any kind. Regarding conditions in general throughout the United States, it is stated: "On the safety figures of flying—the air lines of the United States of to-day fly 25,000 miles every day, 8,000 of which is done at night. Eighty per cent. of this is done with obsolete types of planes, and yet there are not enough accidents with 4,000 planes but what an airplane accident in Texas is still front page news in Chicago and Boston. With modern tri-motor equipment, and with pilots of modern training and airports of the type that are now available in most of the large cities, flying every day is becoming safer. Insurance companies have already recognized it and are recognizing it in their continual lowering of rates."—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Pittsburgers liked what they saw of Peterborough, and Peterborough, on the other hand, liked the Pittsburgers.

Bright lights are given as the cause of several automobile accidents in this district. But there is no record of police court appearances of the owners of the said lights.

Rotary Camp promises to be at full strength all summer, which is not surprising in view of the ideal holiday it provides at nominal cost.

The Toronto professional hockey club had its annual meeting this week. Unfortunately, it won't be so long now.

Forest fires are reported in several districts. It pays to play safe in the woods in regard to camp fires, lighted matches, etc.

Aside altogether from the Norval tragedy, the week-end automobile accident list is enough to cause the highway and police authorities to ponder efficient safety measures. The Globe carried reports of over a score, and there were probably as many more near and minor accidents.—The Globe.

WARNING BOATMEN.

The Editor of Examiner:

A word of warning should be given to boatmen on the river and lakes to beware of a certain launch named "Trooper II. of Toronto." A party in a small, heavily loaded launch were proceeding down the river on Saturday afternoon, and seeing the boat approaching, waved to them, requesting them to keep well over to their side of the channel to avoid trouble with the heavy swell from their powerful engine. They, however, disregarded the request entirely, appearing to take it as a great joke, and bearing down so near the small launch that had it been an inexperienced boatman in charge the results might have been very serious. As it was much water was shipped and considerable damage done to clothing and provisions on board. Therefore, it will be well for any small boat on the waters meeting this launch to beware, as they have very little respect for the safety of others. C. W.

The Question Box

C.L.G. Has the cost of living increased or decreased in Canada since 1923?

A.—It has decreased. The index figure, based on 1913 prices, was 100. In 1923 it was 159 in March and 156 in June. This year the figures are 156 and 155.

* * *

N.W.A. Q.—What kind of accident causes the most fatalities?

A.—In Canada, in 1927, falls resulted in 5 deaths; burns and scalds, falling substances, infected wounds, each caused 3 deaths; electricity, explosions; jammed between articles, and belts, pulleys, shafting, each caused two deaths. There were 5,425 accidents reported in 1927, 34 of which were fatal.

G.H. Q.—Where is the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration?

A.—One of the most interesting of the many interesting places in the City of Quebec is the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. In this Chapel for nearly 30 years prayers have been offered up unceasingly, day and night, before the altar. It was organised and opened in 1900 and was placed in charge of the Sisters known as the Franciscan Missionaries of Marie. Since then the Sisters, robed in white, have always been at their post, and day and night their prayers have been offered up. The Sisters, two by two, take their turn for one hour at a time.

GOD'S MINUTE

Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the Name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him.—Coloss. 3:16-17.

Our gracious Lord, we thank Thee for those who have helped us to know Thee. We bless Thee for the revelation of Thy love in eyes of affection and arms of tenderness to which our baby hearts willingly responded, and for the knowledge of Thy law in persuasive suggestion and stern command, to which we gave obedience.

We praise Thee for lips that taught ours to speak Thy name in reverance; for love that believed in us, and would not let us go; for arms that sheltered and sustained us in time of testing; for eyes of vision that enabled us to see things invisible, but eternal.

We magnify Thee for lives shining with the glory of rectitude and winsomeness; for shoulders divinely strengthened to bear another's burden; for hands beckoning to the blessedness of sacrificial service. Grant unto all these, whether on earth or in the Glory Land, to know the joy of our gratitude and love, and vouchsafe unto us that it may be ours to bless others as we have been so greatly blessed. Amen.

A Thought

A PROBLEM

Ah, could we but make our world to fit us! But the problem is of quite another complexion. We have to fit ourselves to our world. It is the problem of life, to bring ourselves into harmony with the profound, mysterious and complex system of things around us.—J. Baldwin Brown.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 18 (Canadian Press).—There was a fair demand from the United Kingdom for Canadian Western oats here yesterday and exporters worked several loads for nearby shipment.

The feature of the local cash grain market was the demand from exporters for oats and sales of No. 2 Canadian Western were made at 10c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 3 at 6¼c over, c.i.f. Montreal. The volume of business in the former grade was not large owing to the fact that the offerings were somewhat limited. In sympathy with the weakness in the Winnipeg future market, local prices for cash oats were reduced 2c per bushel.

There was no further change in the market for Spring wheat grades of flour, but the undertone was easy owing to the continued weakness in the wheat situation. On account of the above there was no improvement in the demand from foreign buyers and business in this respect was again of a very limited character. The trade in Winter wheat flour was again slow and prices were unchanged.

The demand from all sources for millfeed showed no improvement and the volume of business was small, but the undertone to the market was steady and prices were unchanged. A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats on account of the sharp decline in prices for the raw material, but no official change was announced.

A moderate amount of business was done in eggs in a jobbing way and prices were unchanged. The trade in a wholesale way was quiet with Ontario shippers offering extras at 35½ to 36c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, but dealers here showed little interest owing to the fact that they have ample stocks for the present. The receipts were 2,047 cases.

The trade in old crop Canadian potatoes was reported very quiet with odd cars of New Brunswick Green Mountains offering at 70c to 75c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 65c to 70c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track. The demand for new crop American potatoes continues good and as supplies were ample to meet all requirements quite an active trade was done, and prices ruled steady at $3.10 per barrel for No. 1 grade.

There were no new developments in the market for imported beans, prices being steady, but the volume of business was small. Car lots of choice white hand-picked grades were quoted at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities sold at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

Owing to the continued absence of any important demand from dealers and speculators for butter the undertone to the market remains easy and prices have a lower tendency. The volume of business was small. The receipts were 2,425 packages.

The volume of business accomplished in cheese by local exporters with foreign buyers was again of a disappointing character, but there was a slight improvement in the demand from spot buyers. The receipts were 10,251 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 18 (Canadian Press).—Better European demand for North American wheat with sales totaling 1,500,000 bushels, did a good deal yesterday to make wheat prices average higher. Russia was reported to be again purchasing wheat abroad, and there were complaints of abnormal big temperatures adversely affecting European crops.

Closing quotations here for wheat were irregular at ¼c lower to ¾c advance. Corn finished ¾ to 1¾c up; oats unchanged to ¼c higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

European buying yesterday of wheat to be shipped to Europe included about one million bushels of domestic durum wheat for Italy.

Considerable significance was also attached to statements, that among purchases for Russia was a cargo to be landed at a Black Sea port. This would appear to imply greater shortage of wheat in Russia than has heretofore been generally assumed was the case.

Bulls gave stress also to Canadian dispatches telling of storms causing almost complete destruction of crops over 100 miles of southern Saskatchewan.

On the other hand, crop advices from Spring wheat territory throughout most of the northwest continued favorable, and the harvest movement in the Winter wheat region southwest was liberal as heretofore. Predictions of cooler weather for the entire wheat belt tended likewise to make the market two-sided, and notice was taken of the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations yesterday were lower than due. Besides, no export business of any consequence in Gulf wheat was apparent.

Corn values gained in strength as the day progressed. The market appeared oversold, and offerings of future deliveries of corn were relatively scarce. Many traders expressed concern over announcement that Chicago elevators would not be responsible for the condition of any grain in their warehouses. The announcement was a result of refusal of the Home Demonstration — no Obligation —

You need not buy a new Orthophonic Victrola in order to hear it at home. Try it first—then purchase if you like it.

After all—the purchase of a new Orthophonic Victrola is a step requiring a little serious thought in various ways. You want to know (not to imagine), how it will appear in your home. You want to hear it in its permanent location. You will probably wish to try it in various locations in your home.

Why not? It costs you nothing to do all this,—to have a wonderful evening of your favorite music.

Home demonstration is part of the service rendered by His Master's Voice dealers. Any responsible person in the community may arrange for such a demonstration.

There is no music so beautifully identical with the original performance as Orthophonic Victrola music. This is possible only through the recently developed, Victor controlled, principle of "Matched Impedance" or "Smooth Flow of Sound". Also,—there is no group of artists so varied or so famous as the group that sings for Victor V. E. Orthophonic records.

Models of the New Orthophonic Victrola are beautifully executed in fine woods, smartly designed, from $1400 to as low as $115. Obtainable at all His Master's Voice dealers on convenient payments.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, July 18. — Quietness featured yesterday's session on the local wholesale produce market. Butter was steady at the previous day's decline and cheese was unchanged.

Canadian egg markets are unchanged. At Victoria, jobbing prices and prices to producers have advanced 2 cents on all grades. The local situation on this market is unchanged, with the demand not so keen. Dealers are buying from country shippers at extras, 34c to 35c; first, 31c to 32c; seconds, 25c to 26c.

The Montreal egg market is dull and weak, with the hot weather interefering with the quality of eggs. Receipts from Ontario are larger this week.

At Edmonton the egg market continues steady. Quality for this time of the year is rather fair. Dealers are quoting country shippers at: extras, 30c; firsts, 28c; seconds, 21c to 22c. Prices to retailers are extras, 35 to 37c; firsts, 33c to 35c; seconds, 26c to 28c.

The Vancouver egg market is unchanged in tone and prices. Dealers are continuing to quote producers at extras, 31c; firsts, 28c; seconds, 25c.

Several poultrymen report heavy summer production this week; one large poultryman, with 3,000 hens, reporting 65 per cent. production. Another with 450 hens, a 55 per cent. production.

Prices remain steady, however.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-days Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CABBAGEADE.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Where is Uncle Wiggily?" asked Mrs. Longears of Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one night when it was getting dark and the rabbit gentleman wasn't yet home in his hollow stump bungalow.

"Why, I don't know," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Perhaps he has been caught by one of the Bad Chaps. I know that little Fox Quinky——!"

"Hush!" quickly whispered Mrs. Longears clapping a paw over Nurse Jane's lips so she couldn't go on. "Don't let the bunny children hear you say that their Daddicums has been caught by a bad chap! They are waiting, now, for him to come home to tell them a story. But he isn't here and—oh; dear!"

"I wouldn't worry if I were you," squeaked Nurse Jane kindly. "I think Uncle Wiggily can take care of himself. The last I saw of him was when he came in to get a lot of dishes so he could make baths for the poor birds who were so hot and dusty."

"Oh, then maybe he's down in the garden still, watching the birds splashing water," said Mrs. Longears. "I'll go see."

And there she found her husband, sitting in the dark in the midst of the empty bird bath dishes, but no birds were there, except an owl. For most birds go to bed as soon as it gets dark.

But there sat Uncle Wiggily, with the owl, and by the light of some fireflies Mr. Longears was looking at something on the ground.

"What have you there?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"It's a puzzle the crow gave me to do," said the bunny uncle. "But I can't find the three missing letters to make the seven words."

His wife took one look at it and said: "Why, the three letters that are missing are A C and E. With the F they spell face, which is part of you. They also spell dace, which is the name of a fish. And they spell Grace, a girl's name, also race, which is to run; pace, which is to walk, and lace, which is part of a shoe, and mace, which is a spice."

"Oh; how easy it is when you know how," said Mr. Longears. "Neither the owl nor I could think of the answer. A C E—how simple."

Then he came in the bungalow and told the waiting little rabbits a story before they went to sleep.

The next day was hotter than the other had been and when he got out of bed in the morning Uncle Wiggily said:

"Well, I shall fill the birds' bath with cool water and then I shall sit in the shade until cool evening comes. It is too hot to go adventuring!" This was something new for Uncle Wiggily. But his little bunny boys and girls were glad he stayed home with them.

"Please can't you do something to amuse us!" begged Tingle.

"Or make us something like ice cream that will cool us," begged Tangle.

"I'll make you some cabbageade!" promised Uncle Wiggily.

"What's cabbageade?" asked Stumble, falling down and getting up.

"Cabbageade is something cool to drink," said Mr. Longears. So he squeezed the juice out of some nice, green cabbage; put in some sugar and water and was going to pour it out for the little bunnies to drink when, all at once; Tingle exclaimed:

"Oh; but Daddicums; we ought to have some ice for the cabbageade."

"So we had," agreed Mr. Longears. "Well; here comes Mr. Whitewash the Polar Bear. I'll ask him for some ice from his icicle cave."

So when the white bear came nearer Uncle Wiggily spoke to him.

"Ice?" cried the Polar Bear gentleman with a laugh. "Why I see a big cake of it! Help yourself!" The Bear drew a picture of two castles on high rocks; showing it to the rabbits. Uncle Wiggily and the little bunnies looked all around for the cake of ice. See if you can find it for them.

It is hidden in this puzzle picture, yet it is in plain sight.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Thursday, July 19, 1928.

(Copyright; 1928, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is rather an unfortunate day in planetary direction; according to astrology. It is wise to refrain from any sort of venture.

It is worth while to seek employment under this sway, but the quest may not be satisfactory.

There is a fair promise for men and women in public life to-day. They may expect average success in whatever work they do under this sway.

Intrigue and doubledealing probably will flourish while this rule prevails; it is not auspicious for political enadidates.

Neptune is in a place supposed to encourage craftiness and duplicity. Scandals are indicated in more than one city before the fall elections.

This is not a fortunate date for journeys by water. Delays and even accidents are presaged.

Women are subject to faint benefic influences under this direction of the stars which inclines them toward romance.

Reactionary influences in customs as well as dress may be evident, but the seers declare feminine emancipation will continue.

There is a sign that seems to presage a brief experiment in the wearing of long hair and long skirts.

Controversies over great engineering enterprises are foretold and stupendous achievements will not be seriously retarded.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid extreme views on religion and politics. Surprises may mark the coming year.

Children born on this day are likely to be too much inclined to join organizations of various sorts. The subjects of this sign are often eccentric.

CHAPTER XVIII

THE REGISTERED LETTER

The scent of the fading roses made the air heavy—all his life Gaunt never again looked at drooping roses without seeing in imagination that little room in the Notting Hill backwater and Jennifer's tragic face. And with a feeling that he could hardly breathe, he crossed to the window and flung it open. The wind blew the curtains inward like flapping sails and the rain spattered the carpet. Then Jennifer rose slowly to her feet.

"I think you had better go now, please," she said quietly.

The passion had gone from her voice and the fire from her eyes. She looked as if grief had burnt itself out within her, leaving nothing but grey cold ashes.

Nicholas Gaunt came nearer, but he made no attempt to touch her. "You are going to send me away like this, Jennifer?"

"You have asked me to send you away."

"I love you with all my heart and soul," he answered.

"No," she said. "If you did, you would put me first in your life. You were willing to, before you went to Italy."

"I did not know then that Edith was ill. If she was well now, as you and I are, I should put you first without a thought, but illness and death make a difference. Can't you see that they do, my dear?"

But Jennifer could see nothing except that he was leaving her, plunging her back once again to her loneliness and desolation. She seemed to be considering for a moment, then she asked a slow question:

"Supposing she gets well—supposing she goes on living——"

"If I can ever be sure of that, my duty to her will be at an end."

"You mean—you will come back to me."

"Yes."

She burst out laughing, ugly, passionless laughter.

"Oh, thank you! Thank you very much! So I am to wait quietly and happily till you are sure she can do without you, and then, when you are sure, you will come back to me and I am to receive you with open arms. Oh, thank you, thank you very much for your generosity."

"Jennifer——"

She went on, heedlessly, raving in her despair. "And supposing I do not choose to be lonely while you are making up your mind? Supposing I find another lover? Why shouldn't I? Why should I be lonely till you choose to come back, if you ever do? I will not, I tell you, I will not! I'll find happiness somewhere—you shall not be the only man in my life——"

"My God! If you say things like that, I'll kill you," he said thickly. "There's a limit to my endurance, and I've reached it. I——"

There followed a long silence, broken only by the patter of the rain on the open window, and by Jennifer's tearing breath.

Then Gaunt moved. He jerked his shoulders in a queer, stiff manner, as if he were trying to rid them of some unbearable burden, and walked slowly to the door. He opened it and spoke without turning: "If you ever want me, Jennifer, send for me and I will come."

"I would rather die," Jennifer answered.

He went away then, shutting the door quietly behind him.

All night Jennifer crouched near the fireplace, only moving when the realization of her chilled limbs drove her to light the fire and warm her body. She felt that her heart would never be warm again.

Nicholas Gaunt had gone and he would not return unless she sent for him, and she knew that pride would never allow her to send. The story was finished, Gaunt had gone back to his wife, and she was once again the unwanted stranger, with the door of Love and Happiness shut fast against her.

Out in the street the daylight grew.

Presently a cart rumbled by, and the boy who drove it whistled cheerily. A door banged somewhere in the flat below her own, and upstairs a child cried suddenly.

The night was over, and another day had begun. Life would go on and she must go on with it, even though once again Love had left her broken and bleeding.

With an effort she rose to her feet. She felt weak and ill, and it was only then that she remembered it was twenty-four hours since she had eaten food. She went into the little kitchen and cut herself some bread and butter and made tea.

Fortunately it was Sunday and she would not have to face the kindly inquisition of Mr. Gurney's eyes. Sunday, which she had thought to spend with Nicholas in complete happiness.

Tears ran down her cheeks and she wiped them angrily away. What was the use of crying? Nobody would care if she cried herself blind—nobody in all the world would care. She washed, and changed her frock and redressed her hair—the hair which she had had waved because Nicholas Gaunt was coming. Then from force of habit she brushed and dusted her two rooms and the tiny kitchen, then she sat down by the window with folded hands. She had nothing else to do. Henceforward Life would always be empty and uninteresting. Someone mounted the stone staircase and knocked at her outer door.

Jennifer went mechanically to open it. There was no hope in her heart that it might be Gaunt. She knew he would never come again unless she sent for him. The young woman from downstairs who had given Nicholas Jennifer's address at Porth stood outside. She held a letter in her hand.

"This came on Friday when you were out," she apologized. "It was registered, so I took it in for you, and then I forgot all about it till this morning. I hope it's not very important," she added. Then, seeing Jennifer's disfigured face, she broke out in concern.

"My, but you do look ill, Miss Fry! Is anything the matter?"

Jennifer's lips quivered.

"I've had bad news," she said. "Very bad news. Thank you for taking in my letter. I'm sorry you were troubled."

Then she went quickly in, and shut the door.

A registered letter meant nothing to Jennifer, and she opened it without interest. But she laughed when she had read its contents. It was a communication from a firm of lawyers, and they explained in legal phraseology that they were writing on behalf of her late maternal uncle. (The one who, as Jennifer remembered bitterly, had considered himself too good to come to her father's funeral.)

He had recently died, it appeared, of some obscure malady, and had been sufficiently considerate as to leave no will, in which case, as nearest relative, she inherited all his worldly goods, which were—roughly—some seven or eight thousand pounds.

The letter went on to say that the firm would do themselves the pleasure of calling upon Miss Fry, unless at some time convenient to herself she would do them the honor of a visit. They were, etc., etc., Miss Fry's most obedient servants.

Jennifer laughed! The gods gave with one hand and took away with the other.

TRICK GUN MISFIRED

NEW YORK, July 17.—Carrying home $70 from his father's store, Sidney Perlew, 13, was confronted by a man who pulled an automatic and told him to "stick 'em up." But the bandit pulled the trigger and a cigaret popped out of the muzzle. Sidney snatched the toy, beat the would be bandit over the head and had him arrested.

LYRICS OF LIFE

DIGNITY

There is no armor one can wear
In wrong, injustice, even care,
Whatever hurt the hurt may be,
As strong as simple dignity.
Less soon will sorrow find relief
That makes a spectacle of grief
Than does the quiet sigh or tear
That few shall see or few shall hear.

There have been soldiers in retreat
Who were more splendid in defeat
Than were the victors, than the proud
Who strut too much and talk too loud
The shouters seldom are the brave.
It always is the fools who rave.
When many a fateful day is done
A greater hero lost than won.

When angry words the angry cry,
Then silence is the best reply.
Before the armour of your peace
The shoutings of injustice cease.
The foe perhaps may win his goal,
But legions cannot take your soul.
The victor evermore shall be
The one who keeps his dignity.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON THURSDAY

Tomorrow morning, continue with the same exercises you are now taking. Follow these exercises with a warm or cold sponge or shower bath.

Breakfast: Two or three Apples.
Drink a glassful of hot water along with this apple breakfast.
During the morning, take your usual walk of at least two miles.
Lunch: Broiled fillet of sole,
Sliced Tomatoes.

Take your usual walk in the afternoon, and after returning take all of the exercises I have given you so far in these articles, and in addition, use the following exercises to be taken LYING ON THE BACK:

5.—Raise right leg to right angle with body, keeping the toes pointed downward—then change position of right and left legs vigorously, without allowing the heels to touch the floor. Try to breathe naturally during this exercise.

Follow this with a warm or cold shower or sponge bath.

Continue to take your enema each day even though the bowels would move without the enema. You will reduce your weight more rapidly if the enema is continued all through this reducing regime.

You will find that a few minutes' rest, taken after the afternoon walk and exercises, will be beneficial to you. Do not make this rest-period any longer than a half-hour at the most.

Dinner: Dish of Cottage Cheese,
Cooked Clery,
Cooked Spinach,
Raw Cucumbers.

I am giving some recipes below for preparing the above foods which have not been advised before. (These recipes will not appear again.)

Broiled Fillet of Sole: Broil the same as beefsteak, being careful to have it well done without burning.

Sliced Cucumbers: Prepare by peeling and slicing; and serve plain without any seasoning. Even the use of salt and oil should be avoided. The cucumber has a bad reputation, but this is chiefly because of its bad companions. It is usually soaked in vinegar with onion, and the trouble, almost invariably caused by the latter, is blamed on the cucumber.

I know that some of the vegetables that I am prescribing in these daily menus may be difficult to obtain, or too expensive for one of moderat means. The following is a list of non-starchy vegetables which I will prescribe. If I specify in my menus any one of these vegetables, either cooked or raw, which you cannot secure, you may substitute any one of the others on the list, but do not go outside of this list and use any other vegetables which I do not name.

Celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumber, egg plant, beet tops, turnip tops, small beets, small carrots, small parsnips, small turnips, pumpkin, lettuce, okra, chayotes, oyster plant (salsify), mallow, kale, zucchini, endive, alligator pear, ripe olives, tomatoes, nasturtium leaves and flowers.

SENTENCE COMMUTED

OTTAWA, July 18. Canadian Press—Sentence of death passed on Arthur Demerchant has been commuted to life imprisonment, it was announced by the Secretary of State Department yesterday.

Demerchant, who was tried at Andover, Victoria County, N. B., was found guilty of the murder of Edward Armstrong, a neighbor. The killing occurred during a quarrel between Demerchant and Armstrong.

LECTURE GIVEN AT CHAUTAUQUA

its old-time arrangement was resurrected as an organ voluntary on the phonograph. This was followed by selections from the opera "Faust." The girl at the piano gave an imitation of an old negro song, as heard down South ,and also sang a modern negro melody, finishing her part of the program with a reading entitled "A Red Letter Day For the Daffodils." Coming out later in court lady costumes of white, with crinoline skirts and powdered wigs, the trio made a pretty appearance.

Three beautifully-played violin selections were "Pale Moon," "Moto Perpetuo" and the "Indian Love Call," the latter played with muted strings and a darkened stage. Paderewski's famous "Minuet" and Tschaikowsky's "Waltz of the Flowers" were final trio numbers, and the musical program closed with a musical setting of the German farewell, "Auf weidersehn, we'll meet again, so we'll not say good-bye."

"Beware of Substitutes."

"All my life I have been told to beware of of substitutes and here I am tonight, as a substitute for Mr. Cope," said Mr. Plattenburg, opening his discurse with a reference to his fourteen years' experience as a Chautauqua lecturer and his acquaintance with most of the provinces of the Dominion and the States of the Union.

Quoting Anatole France who premizes the three channels of culture as "books that broaden, friends that enrich the heart and travel that break down prejudice," the speaker went on to say: "We are all alike. We wear the same sort of clothes and we all take our styles from the same movies." Other countries may be content to follow in the same lines as their ancestors, but Mr. Plattenburg maintained that Canadians and Americans were alike in their desire to have better homes and schools and churches than their fathers were satisfied with.

"These great cities of ours with their foreign populations may yet prove the downfall of our civilizations," he asserted. Jerusalem proved the downfall of the Jewish nation, Rome brought about the decrease of the Italian nation and Petrograd and Moscow dragged down the Russia of old.

"We are very foolish to think that our advances in science, our advances in science and in mechanical devices may administer to our everlasting life," he said. "Forty civilizations have gone before us and they all died of the same disease. It is when the people who began as shepherds and as farmers turn from these peaceful occupations and make great cities with their vices and their instrument of decay, that civilization perishes. It is foolish to think that because our forefathers travelled at six miles an hour and we travel at sixty, that we are consequently ten times as civilized as they were."

"We brag about our mighty buildings, but there is a pyramid in Egypt that is as tall as the Washington Monument, there never was a more wonderful building than the Greek Acropolis, and there are stones that were put in the great temple of Baal in Syria that were never duplicated in modern times, with their length of seventy feet, their width of thirteen feet and their weight of eighteen hundred tons, raised a hundred feet to find their place in the wall.

"A City of Villagers"

"New York is a city of villagers who have left their small places and gone to the great city to exist. Not one out of five of its people were born their. It has 800,000 Russians, 700,000 Italians, 300,000 negroes and people from every province of Canada and every State of the Union.

"To leave your religion behind when youn move is the asiest thing in the world. We of the United States and Canada are becoming a nation of flivver gypsies and when we travel, we don't take our Bibles and Sunday Schools with us. There is no Ladies' Aid Society in the big city to keep its eye on us."

"A spirit of loyalty to our own town is essential," said the speaker, going on to quote Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" after eulogizing the wonderful trees he had observed in his stay in Peterborough. He referred to the wonders created in California by the spirit of loyalty and optimism manifested by the people, who started in to make fine country out of a place which had nothing to start with but "sand and blue sky." Every place in California has the biggest "something or other," he said, asserting that in one place where he lectured the point of pride was the biggest flagpole in the State.

"And I like that spirit," he said, emphasizing the necessary of loyalty to one's neighbors in buying in one's home town, instead of in other and larger centres.

A spirit of sacrifice was also essential in building up a community, the spirit that considers the community gain rather than the individual's profit. "In every community that is worth while you will find that the few are the real builders. Two thousand years ago a Man came single-handed to the world to redeem it and they crucified Him. It is the few who are holding the world together and saving the rest of it from going to the devil. God bless the builders. They are the hope of the world."

Mr. Plattenburg went on to speak of Canada's cold climate as a matter of rejoicing, rather than of reproach, because of its character-building and strength-nurturing qualities. He emphasized the necessity of feeding the growing child properly. "Tell me what you like to eat now and I will tell you what your mother fed you as a boy, and that goes in the spiritual, mental and moral realms also."

"God help the nation whose people turn from a lecture or a sermon and whose highest taste in music is for jazz. Italy, the nation that gave us a Galli-Curci and a Caruso, has children who sing snatches of opera in the streets. The appetite for good literature and good music is fortered in the child from birth. A great leader has said: "Give me a child until he is mine years of age and I care not who gets him after that. His character and tastes will be formed."

Referring to the prevalence of a taste for magazines of the "True Story" type, Mr. Plattenburg said: "If I lived in Canada, I would vote to shut out cheap literature from America and cheap sex pictures. You can't produce a great country if you feed it on jazz music and "True Story" magazines. "He also spoke of the harm done to one community of his experience by a travelling carnival show, where a physician of the small town told him that sixty cases of social diseases were left in its wake and enough damage done morally to the community to cripple it for generations to come.

A fighting spirit is essential also, he declared, going on to speak of the spirit, as shown in the war, shared by Canadians and Americans alike, the spirit that refuses to be beaten and rests until another day so that it may come back and lick the other fellow at a better opportunity.

"Napoleon did not know how to retreat. The drummer boy at Marengo said: "I cannot sound a retreat. I never learned how." And so his retreat from Moscow became a rout. It is the same spirit that animates Americans and Canadians alike, common to their Anglo-Saxon heritage."

Mr. Plattenburg recommended the reading of Preston's "Ancient Times" for the oncoming youth of the generation that will build up a future Canada, and closed with an adjuration to a spirit of open-hearted, generous loyalty and support of one's own home town.

His address was greeted with keen, close attention and much appreciative applause, his humorous style of address and rapid-fire delivery, combined with an original use of hands in emphasis, making it interesting from start to finish.

The Chautauqua program closes this evening with an entertainment by the children of Junior Town, who have been trained by a special teacher, and "An Alpine Romance," a musical production offered by the famous Feichtel Yodlers.

INSECT SEASON NOW HERE

Health Authorities Recommend Use of Fly-Tox for Security.

Science has proved conclusively that the fly is one of mankind's worst enemies. As a carrier of disease it has no equal. They transmit more than thirty different diseases, say eminent authorities.

FLY-TOX not only kills insects easily and quickly, but it has other desirable features as well. It will not stain. FLY-TOX is harmless to mankind and animals. It leaves a fleeting odor that is cleanly and fragrant.

This marvelous insecticide was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. It is a scientific product made to meet today's requirements in a household insecticide.

It is a clear, clean and pure liquid put up in bottles with the blue label. Many imitations are seeking to take advantage of popularity gained by FLY-TOX. Do not be mislead. Demand the genuine FLY-TOX. —Adv.

FEELING ARISING AGAINST NOBILE

OSLO, Norway, July 18 (Associated Press).—Feeling against General Umberto Nobile, leader of the Italia expedition, is making itself felt in Oslo.

Monday, the anniversary of Roald Amundsen's birthday, the Dagbladet, organ of the present Cabinet, published without comment an article by Nobile in an American magazine, in which the Italian dirigible expert belittled Lincoln Ellsworth and Amundsen, Arctic explorers, and told of the work of himself and his Italian crew in comparison with the Norwegians of the Polar expedition with the Norge in the flight from Spitzbergen to Alaska.

Some days ago, Foreign Minister Howinckel in the press begged the newspapers and the public to refrain from judging and criticizing Nobile and the Italians on the fatal Arctic expedition.

Several Danish explorers have proposed Fridtjof Nansen, as chairman of a court of honor to investigate Nobile's leadership of the expedition. Nansen declined this, but said that he thought there was several events in Nobile's expedition that need closer investigation.

Crop conditions when they left were excellent, and if nothing unforseen happens, it is expected there will be one of the best crops the west has seen.

Hastings and Lockworks Are in County Finals

LAKEFIELD CREW LOSE TO LOCKWORKS BY ONE RUN

SCORE 6 TO 5.

Hastings and Lockmakers will Play off for County Championship.

Lakefield, with Madill pitching a strong game, gave Lockworks a lot of trouble last night, the Lockmakers getting a run in the sixth to give them a 6 to 5 victory. Lockworks have gained second place in the county series of the East Peterborough League and will play Hastings in a home-and-home series, with a third game, if necessary, to decide a winner to meet the victor of the city series.

Lakefield on their showing last night should be well up in the fight. In Madill they have a steady and effective hurler, who fields and bats in fine style. He accepted seven fielding chances and had two hits.

The northerners knocked Lefty Conners from the hurling heap in the second to score four runs, and another counter came in the fifth. They were well on the way to protect their three-run lead, but failure of the first baseman to handle two ground balls gave Lockworks three runs, which tied the score, in their half of the frame. Doc. Green hit in the winning run, in the sixth with two gone.

A fine catch of a foul fly by Burke, who entered the game in the fifth, and a running catch by Doc. Green were the fielding features. Lakefield had the only double play.

Ralph, who relieved Conners in the second, with two down, retired the first batter to face him, and he held Lakefield to a pop scratch hit.

Lakefield went out in order in the first, but Lockworks got two runs, on an infield error and three hits.

In the second six singles and a double gave Lakefield four counters, and Lockworks went out in a row, Third Baseman Green pegging out two.

Smart work by the pitchers and nice infielding made the game interesting, neither teams making any progress on the runways, until the fifth when Jobbitt's wild peg to third gave Lakefield another run. In Lockworks' half Green doubled to left and Barry's hit sent him to third. Griffin grounded to Fitzgerald, who threw home and missed the runner. Then the Lakefield first baseman allowed Black's grounder to go through, scoring two more runs. Madill refused to become flustered and he threw out Jobbitt and fanned Burke.

The sixth produced nothing for Lakefield, Ralph fanning two and Burke took Maracle's foul fly. With one gone, Ralph, who was passed, went to second, and scored on Green's single into left, the latter being thrown out at second.

Lakefield got one on in the seventh with two gone, but failed to register.

TOM McGRATH WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Moose Jaw Player wins in Field of Sixty Golfers.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 18—(Canadian Press).—Tom McGrath, professional, Moose Jaw, won the Western Canada Open Golf Title here yesterday, with a 36-hole score of 150, defeating a field of more than sixty leading professionals and amateurs. The newly-crowned champion played superb golf in the final round today over the Mayfair Links, going out in par 36 and returning in 39, for a steady 75. He turned in the same score in the first round yesterday, three over par.

Gordon McWilliams, the Calgary youngster, who set the pace on Monday with 73, suffered a complete reversal of form and when the scores were tabulated he had slumped far down the list with a total of 157. He required an 83 yesterday.

ONE BAD INNING EACH

Leafs Got Big Lead in First Inning of First Game Yesterday.

TORONTO, July 18.—An even break was the best the Leafs could knock off in yesterday's double-header with the Keys. And that was the best they could do in the six games that went to make up the series.

And the local hirelings gained a little satisfaction in the fifty-fifty division of the spoils. During the four days of toiling with the Keys they were forced to vacate the league leadership.

They had a chance to get it back yesterday, but after winning the first game 11 to 5 they went down 4 to 2 in the second when Don Hankins ran into one inning in which he had trouble getting the side out. Lefty Fowler of the Keys was too good anyway.

The Leafs won the first game just about the same way, Nig Harrison putting in a terrible opening session. Eleven Leafs went to bat and six scored.

EMPIRE EVENT GOES TO GREAT BRITAIN

Canada Finishes in Last Place with a Score of 2,156.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., July 18. — (Canadian Press Cable). — Great Britain's team won the Empire Trophy yesterday with a score of 2,203 points out of a possible 2,400. Australia was second with 2,186, India third with 2,174 and Canada last with 2,156.

The match took two days, immediately following National Rifle Association meeting.

VIEWS ON SPORT

To-night, at Exhibition Park, Bethany and Raybestos clash in an East Peterborough fixture.

Tournament Commences To-day.

Peterborough's Lawn Bowling Club got well away this morning on the annual event of the year, when rinks from all parts of Central Ontario are vieing with one another for the honors of the big tournament. The club's prize list has been extended this year, and the event will occupy two days instead of one as was the case in the past year or so. Owing to the scarcity of greens, the events will be run well into the night, but no matter how late the final games extend into the wee hours of the morning, there is always an interested crowd of spectators on hand.

* * * * * *

A Most Successful Season.

The City Baseball League has just completed one of the most successful seasons in the last few years, and in the next two weeks the winners of the three groups will be decided. The Royals captured first place in the Junior series, and will meet the Kiwanis the runners-up, for the league championship on Saturday at James Stevenson Park. In the Juvenile series the Kiwanis won first place and they play off with the Moose, the first game being to-morrow night. In the Bantam series Riley & Hickey are at the top of the ladder, with the Canucks in second position. A greater interest has been shown in the league all through the season, both by the players themselves and by many citizens in the city, who donated balls and help in coaching and financing the teams.

* * * * * *

The only way Peterborough will ever get anywhere in baseball is by developing its young players and from this season it seems that the commencing of the laying of a good foundation for baseball in Peterborough on a later day has been made. The boys played excellent ball, especially in the younger series, with the winning team in each getting a close run for first position. The Royals, that team which has won their group for three years and are this year in the Junior series, have made a most enviable showing after dropping their first game on May 24 to the Kiwanis. The Kiwanis on the other hand slumped during the first of the season, but in the last few games showed a reversal of form, and when these two teams meet on Saturday afternoon the fans are assured of seeing real Junior baseball. It has always been a pleasure for the fans to see the Royals work, and the Kiwanis are determined that their record of the past few seasons, when they won the series, will not be broken.

* * * * * *

Things Are Looking Better.

Gone are the crabbers of the old regime, and Lakefield now has a much better ball club. The team should make a good showing in the series for the E.P.L. Trophy, and come back strong next season.

Lockworks are capable of better baseball than they displayed last night, and they will have to be good to put the skids under Hastings.

Two-thirds of the population at Exhibition Park this evening will be pulling for a Bethany victory over Raybestos and the fans will see an interesting battle. Since shifting their infield, which puts Dawe at first, Ryley at second, and Staples at third, Bethany tied the Cogs at home and defeated them here by 9 to 4.

Will Not Enter in Play-offs.

Peterborough Softball Association has decided not to enter a team in the softball play-offs this year, but it promises to offer something better to the softball fans of Peterborough and district. An attempt is being made by the association to organize a district play-off, which it hopes will add interest to softball in this section of Ontario. For two years the Peterborough Association has won the Eastern Ontario softball championship and has entered the finals for the Ontario championship, but on both occasions the locals lost. With the closing of the softball season interest usually lagged in the play-off games, but the Association hopes that this year much more interest in softball will be maintained through district play-offs to decide a winner. On Thursday night of this week the Knights of Columbus will meet the fast-going C.G.E. team in Confederation Square.

ELECTRICS LOSE TO ST. ANDREW'S

Winners Sure of Place in Campbellford League Play-offs.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 18.—With one man short on their line up, the Electrics were nine runs short on the score when they met the St. Andrew's players in the regular League game last night. The game went the full nine innings, with the exception that the Churchmen did not take their last turn at bat. For the first time this season, Forrest Dennis viewed the game from the pitcher's mound. Although he was not as speedy as some of the local twirlers, he pitched a determined game, which was consistent throughout. DeCarroll, St. Andrew's, made the only home run of the game when he clouted Dennis for a complete circuit in the sixth. DeCarrol was seven times at bat and made six safe hits. In the last innings, St. Andrew's changed their positions in order to give the players experience. DeCarrol pitched, Nesbitt caught, Storie went to second base and Little played first. The Electrics collected four runs in this innings.

The game last night makes it practically certain that the three teams that will be in the play-off will be the Clerks, St. Andrew's, and the Outlaws. There are only four games before the finals.

BOSTON LOSES TO PITTSBURG

BECK SAVES THE DAY

NEW YORK, July 18.—Pittsburgh swelled its total of victories to eight straight by winning the third game of the series with Boston 7 to 6 at Pittsburgh yesterday. The Braves had the tying and winning runs on the sacks in the ninth but neither Sisler nor Hornsby was able to help out in the crisis. Sisler's bounder resulted in the put out at the plate that prevented a deadlock.

Hill was relieved by Russell in the ninth after Burrus, batting for Greenfield, singled. Russell made Richbourg fly out, but Clark slammed a double to left. Russell then tightened and Sisler and Hornsby failed to help the Braves' cause.

Giants Beaten

Cincinnati won the final game of the series with New York 5 to 4, saving itself from four straight defeats. The home team came out of its batting slump and knocked Bill Walker, youthful southpaw, from the box in the first inning. Vic Aldridge held the Redlegs safe, but Faulkner, who pitched the last three innings, was touched for a run.

Adolph Luque was master of the Giants at all stages after the opening when two runs were scored on three singles and a fumble by Crits. The Giants threatened in the ninth, but a double play saved the day. It was the 109th double killing of the season for the Reds.

Beck Gets Homer

Clyde Beck's home run with the bases loaded in the fifth inning broke up a hurling duel between Charlie Root and Jimmie Ring at Chicago and the Cubs defeated Philadelphia four to three, for their fifth straight victory over the Phillies. The win also stretched the Cub's winning streak to eight games.

Ring held the Cubs to five blows while Root was touched for six hits.

Cardinals Break Even

The Cardinals earned an even break on their four game series against Brooklyn by knocking Dazzy Vance from the box at St. Louis to win the final clash, 7 to 1. Vance lasted for five innings, in which time he gave nine hits and five runs.

Jess Haines held the Robins to seven safeties, and struck out five. Vance fanned only one.

Hafey, Bottomley and High each had three hits. Bottomley hit a triple, a double and a single, and Hafey two doubles and a single.

MONTREAL BEATEN BY OLYMPIC TEAM

New Westminster Lacrosse Team Administers Severe Defeat to Montreal.

MONTREAL, Que., July 18. — (Canadian Press).—The New Westminster "Salmonbellies" who will represent the Dominion in the Olympic lacrosse matches, gave the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association team a ten to nothing beating here last night in an exhibition match.

The Canadian Olympians could have made it more and M.A.A.A. were seldom dangerous around the Westminster goal, but the visitors were in their second game on consecutive evenings and eased off in the second and fourth quarters. Natural-born lacrosse players, the present-day crop of players from the tamed little lacrosse city of the West, gave a convincing display of team work. Now it will stand up against the East, driving style of the big John Hopkins team, the United States entry regarded as Westminster's chief rivals in the Olympiad remains to be seen, but the Westerners showed enough this evening to satisfy those who witnessed the play that they have lots more lacrosse in the combination than they brought to light for the edification of the Montrealers.

YANKEES WIN FINAL GAME OF THE SERIES

Cleveland Loses Five Straight Games from Huggins' Team.

WASHINGTON BEATEN

NEW YORK, July 18.—(Canadian Press).— The Yankees made it five straight over Cleveland by taking the final game of the series here yesterday, 4 to 2. Al Shealy, one of Huggins' pitching youngsters, kept the Cleveland hits well scattered, and helped his own cause along with a home run in the second.

George Uhkle, who shut out the Yanks on the May visit of the Indians to the stadium, was hit hard at the start. The Yanks got five hits and three runs in the first three rounds.

St. Louis Wins

Stewart held Washington to six hits and St. Louis won its fourth straight game from the Senators, at Washington, five to nothing, sweeping the series. Braxton, Washington pitcher, contributed to his own defeat by two errors. The Browns scored four of their runs in the seventh when Schang tripled with Blue and O'Rourke on base, Stewart doubled and Brannon and McNeely singled.

Eleventh Win

Boy Grove fanned eight Detroit batters and won his eleventh game of the season by pitching the Athletics to a six to two triumph over the Tigers. Hickey Cochrane starred in the attack with two triples and a two bagger that drove in three runs. Ty Cobb hit two singles, a double, drew a pass and scored three runs against his old teammates.

Chicago Loses

After losing four straight, the Red Sox came out of their slump in the first inning to drive in six runs and knock Grady Adkins of Chicago out of the box at Boston and eventually won 9 to 6. MacFayden weakened in the eighth and Morris finished the game, holding the White Sox hitless. Charlie Wagner, assistant manager, and Berry, catcher of the Boston club, were notified yesterday that they had been suspended for three days for disputing an umpire's decision in Monday's double header here.

GULLEY HITS 12TH HOMER

Royals Defeat Baltimore, making it Three Straight Games.

BEARS WIN.

MONTREAL, Que., July 18.—(Canadian Press).—Montreal Royals made it three straight over the Baltimore Orioles here yesterday afternoon, winning the first game of a scheduled twin bill, 6-3, the second game being washed out by rain that started to fall heavily while the seventh inning of the initial contest was in progress. The victory gave the Royals nine of the sixteen games played with the Birds this year.

Tom Culley, home run artist of the Royals clinched the victory in the fifth inning with his 12th home run of the season. The drive which scored Haines was the longest hit inside the park this year and the ball rolling to deep centre field fence. Dick Smith was the other star, banging out three successive doubles in four trips to the plate.

Rochester Wins

Rochester made a clean sweep of the series at home yesterday by defeating Jersey City, 9 to 8. Jersey City scored five runs in the first innings but "Sonny" Horne was sent to the shower by Umpire Gaston in the third for disputing balls and strike decesions and Rochester pounded out five runs in the frame to tie and then won in the fifth and sixth. John Berly who pitched seven innings Sunday, nurled fine relief ball for eight innings today.

Bisons Lose

Weak and ineffective twirling by Henry Werts in the early stages of the game cost the Bisons victory in the final game of the series with Newark yesterday at Boston, the Bears scampering away to a 7 to 3 victory, despite the fact that they were outhit by the home team eight to six. Wertz issued six bases on balls in four innings before Letty Williams came in and choked off the Bears cold. Brennan hurled good ball for Bears, especially in the pinches.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

POLA NEGRI IN GREAT DRAMATIC ROLE IN "THREE SINNERS" THE FEATURE OFFERING AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY AND THURSDAY OF THIS WEEK

Inconstestably proving herself once again the greatest tragic actress on the screen to-day in "Three Sinners," the feature offering which opens at the Capitol to-day.

Suiting her personality and artistry to perfection, "Three Sinners" is a screen creation by this gifted actress which will live long in the memory of those who see this remarkable classic, directed by Rowland V. Lee.

Pola Negri is at her best in the portrayal of such characters as the Countess Gerda Wallentin, a woman who passes from respected society leader to painted adventuress in a swift moving story which grips from start to finish.

Opening in her home in Dresden where she is happy in her love for husband and child, rushing events carry her to supposed death, renunciation of her home and child, depths of horror and glittering sin in a Paris gambling palace and eventually to genuine love.

Tullio Carminati, as the lover, and Paul Lukas, as the husband, give remarkably fine performances. Olga Baclanova, that colorful Russian actress, proves a splendid foil for dark Pola. The story is adapted to the screen from a successful European play, "Her Second Life."

ROAD SIGNING NEARLY DONE

Lakefield Women's Institute Decides to hold Social July 20.

COURSE ARRANGED.

Lakefield, July 18.—The July meeting of the Woman's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Memorial Hall with a fair attendance present. The president, Mrs. J. H. Payne, was in the chair.

The committee on the road-signs reported progress and the work will be completed during this month; and as a means of raising money it was decided to hold a pie and ice-cream social on Saturday, July 20, on the grounds of the Memorial Hall. A competent committee was appointed to carry on the work.

The convenor of the committee on historical research asked for co-operation in gathering important and interesting information regarding the early history of Lakefield and vicinity.

J. B. Nelson, of Peterborough, was present, and asked the co-operation of the women in recruiting girls for the coaching classes which are being held here on the afternoons of July 18 and 24, under the direction of Miss Hopkins of Lindsay. These classes are arranged for girls 26 years of age and under, and are valuable opportunities for girls, who are the women of to-morrow, to gain a knowledge of the basis of judging and also learn many useful facts which can be of practical value in their lives.

The departments included are nutrition, good dressing and house furnishing, and the girls may, if they choose, enter the judging competition at Peterborough Exhibition, but the classes promote also an interest in these feminine questions, the girls are trained to talk and gain a sound judgment.

Mr. Nelson was promised the assistance which could be given by the older women in passing the word along to the girls who are eligible.

Mrs. Cameron gave a talk on Empire trade, which was appropriately called "Mrs. Canada Goes Shopping." Mrs. Canada is, of course, "Everywoman," and her purchases do much to build up or pull down Canadian industry, for in the purchases of Mrs. Canada does that great national bulwark depend to a large measure.

First, where you buy is important, and the speaker spoke strongly on the common, but pernicious, practice of sending cash to distant mail order departments and asking credit of the local merchants. Lakefield has well-managed and well-stocked stores, and it is to the merchant class you appeal to for charity, socials and churches, and for everything, and it is from them you receive help. When you buy, buy Canadian- or Empire-made goods; if you insist on them, you will surely get them, for the demand regulates the supply.

Our purchases of foreign-made goods keeps foreign factories open, gives work to their laborers and, of course, our factories close and our men are compelled to seek employment in a foreign country. Our motto should be to buy our own goods and keep our own factories running and our men employed at home. We spend millions on education and our sons and daughters promptly go to the States to get positions in all too many cases. The United States is out for business and we cannot blame them, in fact, we might well follow their examples. It is well to love your neighbor as yourself, but don't make the mistake of loving your neighbor better than yourself.

Mrs. Cameron urged a greater use of home-grown or Empire-grown fruits and vegetables and less importing of the California product, which, in too many cases, are given precedence over the home products in the stores. The fruits we do not grow are grown in the British West Indies, and a great percentage of trade with them would be a mutual advantage.

Sugar is one of the main crops in the British West Indies, and we can do well to remember this when buying our sugar instead of taking the Cuban sugar, which is in no way superior. We, too, have beet-sugar, grown in Canada and refined here, which is excellent. Then, when we have an abundance of coal in Alberta, why do we persist in buying from the States?

Let us remember, when we go shopping, what our purchases mean to the progress or hindrance to our town, our Dominion, our Empire, and ourselves, and let us bring to bear our patriotism of which we are wont to boast.

Junior Institute.

Nine members and three visitors were present at the meeting, held July 11, in the Memorial Hall, the president, Miss Lulu Darling, in the chair.

The next meeting, to be held August 8, will be a picnic at Hague's Point, each member to bring a friend.

J. B. Nelson was present and spoke about the coaching class which will be held on July 18 and July 24. This class will be under the direction of Miss Hopkins, of Lindsay, and is a series of lectures on the judging of good dress, house furnishings, and nutrition, and the lectures explain the basis on which the judging is set.

The classes are excellent, even if the girls do not enter the competition at Peterborough Exhibition, for many things are learned which are of great practical value in later life, as well as in the present.

The classes will be held at 2 p.m. in the Memorial Hall.

Fine Sweet Peas Grown In City

Two fine stems of perennial sweet pea have been shown The Examiner by A. Madden of 146 Aylmer street, in whose garden they grew. One stem has seventeen blooms and three buds while the other has fifteen blooms. Mr. Madden brought the seed with him from Windsor some years ago and the plants have come up every year since, needing very little care on his part. Their only drawback is that the flowers lack the sweet odor which is the chief characteristic of the annual variety.

District Churches

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Forbes Stillman, pastor of Norwood United Church, exchanged pulpits with Rev. W. R Archer on Sunday, taking his text from the Gospel of St. John 17:3: "Jesus made it very plain that we should come to know God. He's our friends — there was no mystery, when we come to certainty of experience we were established upon the rock. Jesus is the way. The followers of Jesus have come to know God. The great Augustine was said to have longed for assurance where he felt certain about his future life just as sure as seven and three make ten.

The reverend gentleman gave three instances: First, some believe the church is the foundation of hope of their salvation—the infallibility of the church. Secondly, the infallibility of the body. Thirdly, the infallability of the christian experience, an assurance of our consciousness of the great God. Some staked their assurance of membership of the church. Judas was a member of the church. Infallability consists of truth, not the way the truth was dressed. Our lives differ one from another. In experiences there is danger of one being mistaken but we should link our experiences with the word of God. Jesus is revealed as Saviour of the world in the word of God. The gospel is Jesus—his life, love not a code—love in the abstract is very tiring but in person is impelling. Redemption comes out of the gospel and that is sufficient evidence. We can have assurance and certainty of truth God has given us we can stand upon the rock.

MILLBROOK UNITED CHURCH.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 18.—Congregations in the United Church are following with much interest the sermons of Rev. Joseph Wilks as he takes up topics in connection with the life of Paul, following the line of the Sunday School lessons, while supplying the pulpit until the return of the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, who is expected home from his holidays by the end of the month.

"Conversion, What Is It?" was the subject on Sunday morning, the special musical number being a solo, "Hear Thou Our Prayer," by Mrs. Walter Williamson, of Leader, Sask., who was a member of the choir here before her marriage and removal to the West to reside.

Mr. Wilks chose his text from I. Timothy 1:16, "How be it for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might show forth all long suffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting," stating that this verse sets forth Paul's belief as to the reason for his conversion.

Conversion was defined as "the change wrought in a man's life in his attitude toward sin and toward God, definitely turning from a sinful way of living to the service of God. Some day every one expects to be a Christian, but those who delay to make the great decision will find the ascendancy in their lives is being gained by the word, the flesh and the devil, and to turn to Christ becomes increasingly difficult with the passing of years.

"Giving the heart and life to God is the hardest, easiest thing in the world; it is like a secret in arithmetic, exceedingly hard till discovered and then so easy we are amazed we did not understand before. Not all are converted like Paul. God needed a messenger for the Gentiles, and He laid His hand upon Saul of Tarsus; and when he has a special case He chooses a man, or a woman, to-day; but God converts us in the circumstances in which we are, effecting this great change in our natures in the way He knows the differing personalities call for.

"Conversion, however, is always in response to a call from God, and if you have no prayer life, doubt your conversion. If it is genuine you will make choice of new companions; and remember 'when Jesus has saved you, tell others the story'; they are waiting to see and hear Jesus Christ in you."

ZION CHURCH 50 YEARS OLD

Celebration of Jubilee Being Arranged at Petherick's Corners.

COMES IN OCTOBER

(Examiner Correspondence).

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 17. —While fifty years of time did not mean very much to the ancient historians, it is surely something in the life of a church, and with this feeling in mind Zion congregation decided on Friday evening, that an anniversary event should commemorate the half century mark in the life of Zion Church. Special anniversary services on Sunday, October 28, will mark the beginning of the second fifty year period in the history of this church, which is perhaps the oldest in the district in point of time that service has been held continually. Other congregations have origin dating back beyond this, but as a place of worship Zion Church stands to-day as it was erected fifty years ago.

The three pastors who have served the Seymour charge most recently will be invited as the main speakers in this occasion. Rev. Mr. Glover, of Smithfield, will be asked for the morning service, while the Rev. Mr. Daniel, of Sutherland, who is really the originator of the idea, will be the evening speaker. Then Rev. Mr. Hinton, of Bobcaygeon, will be the main speaker at the banquet to be held on Tuesday evening following.

This marks a new departure for the Zion Ladies' Aid, but they can be relied upon to meet the demand for a real old time church supper.

William Petherick was appointed to prepare a complete list of the pastors who had served the congregation during the last fifty years. The Rev. Mr. MacTavish, present pastor, is the very able and enthusiastic promoter of the event, which marks a real mile stone in the community life. At the same congregational meeting it was decided to hold the annual garden party in Simpson's Grove on Thursday, August 16.

League Service.

Previous to this meeting the regular League service was held in charge of Earl Fairman, missionary convenor, with Fred Fry as leader. After the scriptural lesson by Morley Petherick, and devotional talk by Mr. MacTavish, the Star group sang, followed by a reading by Bessie Meiklejohn, and a duet by Aylmer Petherick and Frank Naish.

The topic, "Women of Africa", was given by Earl Fairman, followed by interesting discussion on African conditions as affecting the work of the missionary, especially the great evil of polygomy. No justification could be found for this practice which continued chiefly because of custom and the lack of education.

As there was not time for the usual contest, Mr. Fairman presented a short puzzle problem, which was solved correctly by only a few of the audience.

Seventy were present with the Stars leading in points. This group is setting the pace just now and is gaining on the Whippet leaders.

Personals.

Mr. Earl Fairman has been engaged to help Mr. Fred Barnum during July and August.

Lindsay Watson has been confined to bed for some days by quite a severe illness.

The local Orange members and Ladies' Lodge visited Stirling on the 12th, with a host of friends accompanying them.

The remains of the late Harry Southworth were laid to rest in Zion Cemetery on Friday afternoon. Service was in charge of the Orange Order.

Wheat Prices are Off After Opening Upturns

CHICAGO, July 18. Canadian Press. — Wheat Prices eased downward to-day after upturns at the start. Initial firmness was ascribed to steadiness of Liverpool wheat quotations, but selling pressure here resulted from continued favorable crop conditions northwest and from Liberal arrivals southwest. Opening at 1-8c off to 3-8c up Chicago wheat later showed some setback all around. Corn developed strength, starting 1-8 to 7-8c higher and subsequently scoring additional gains. Oats were easy. Provisions showed an advance.

Opening: Wheat, July 128½; September 131 5-8; corn, July, 106½; September 98 5-8; oats, July 47 3-8; September 41¼.

Wright Hargreaves, one of the few reactionaries, dropped 20 to 3.05. Amulet was down 5 at 4.55, while Howey dropped 3 to 82, and Newbec was down 2½ at 32. Western issues showed strength throughout. Hudson Bay and Mandy, each gaining 3 to 18.30 and 3.25 respectively. Big Missouri advanced 3 to 70. Pend. Oreille, at 14.75, and Sherritt Gordon at 7.30, were unchanged. Central Manitoba was down 2 at 1.02.

No Sign of Slump End in Toronto Trading

TORONTO, July 18 (Canadian Press).—There was no sign of an end to the slump which has struck the Toronto Stock Exchange in to-day's trading. Dullness continued to be the dominant note, with International Nickel, which advanced ¾ to 91¾, the only active issue. Prices on the whole were firm, with the few gains and losses about equally balanced.

Gypsum and Alabastine sold 2 points lower at 65. Goodyear gained 3 to 143. Walkers and British American Oils were fractionally lower at 55⅝ and 37⅝-8 respectively.

The Standard Bank, which has been active since announcement of the merger with the Bank of Commerce, took a slump in trading and was up a fraction at 268½. Bank of Toronto dropped 5 to 290. Commerce was down a point with only a few shares sold.

New York Stocks up on Broad Scale Buys

NEW YORK, July 18 (Canadian Press), — The stock market, which has been floundering around within a narrow trading area for the last week, turned briskly upward to-day on the resumption of broad scale buying operations. Prices of active issues rallied one to five points, while a number of specialties were marked up 6 to nearly 15 points.

Lowering of call money rate from 6 to 5½ per cent., optimistic tenor of the weekly steel trade reviews, publication of several favorable earnings statements and special dividend declarations all helped to revive bullish enthusiasm.

Burroughs Adding Machine, directors of which declared a stock dividend of 25 per cent., ran up 14 points to a new high record at 175. Texas and Pacific soared 10 points to a new record top at 170. McRory Stores A, American Express, Midland Steel Products Preferred, R. H. Macey, Radio, and National Tea sold 5 to 12 points higher.

General Motors was again in heavy demand on buying influenced by expectations of substantial extra dividend at the August meeting or the directors running up more than 3 points to around 190.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

An independent outside opinion on the markets.

Yesterday almost the only recovery of note was one in a stock which will benefit greatly by a good crop. This is Alberta Grain, which late last week sank to 56½ but recovered yesterday to 60, and should still have many points ahead of it.

* * *

Although Massey-Harris was merely steady at a low level it is becoming increasingly spoken of as likely to move this fall or late summer, for a like reason to that which is expected to boon Alberta Grain, I am told that Massey-Harris earnings are much ahead of last year's.

* * *

Brazilian, though fairly active, was allowed to slip off a point and a half, and Nickel, its rival in activity also sold around the low of the movement, being most of the day about 90.

* * *

Winnipeg Electric showed some strength in the forenoon, but in the later session was inclined to ease off again. The market in this stock appears to be narrower than heretofore, and, consequently its movements, whether in a good or a bad market, are apt to be sharper than in most active stocks.

* * *

Further favorable developments are reported from the Abana Mines property. A little over a week ago it was reported that a new solid body of chalcopyrites, showing copper contents of over 18%, with 22 ounces of silver and .90 ounces of gold, had been cenountered on the 300 foot level.

* * *

Latest reorts of the diamond drilling campaign now in progress state that an extension of the ore body on the 300 foot level has been established on the 600 foot level and an independent body of chalcopyrite ore 11 feet wide had also been discovered. It is stated that as a result of the new development important additions will be made to the ore reserves of the mines, which had previously been estimated at over $30,000,000.

CANADIAN DOLLAR SLUMPS

NEW YORK, July 18 (Canadian Press).—The Canadian dollar touched its lowest level in the foreign exchange market yesterday, selling at a discount of ⅝ of 1 per cent. at a time when tourist travel to Canada usually puts it at a premium, because of the large demand for Canadian dollars. The occurrence stirred comment in the financial district, the effect of weakness of Canadian exchange, it is said, is being felt by New York brokers who deal in arbitrage transactions with the Montreal and Toronto exchanges.

The present discount is figured to be about twice that which ordinarily would be the widest permitted by free working of the gold standard, as the theoretical point at which it is profitable to import gold from Canada in a discount of 3-16 of 1 per cent.

MALMGREN ALIVE IN HIS GRAVE?

Infidelity Charged Nobile

PUNGENT POEM

Suggests That Grave Was Dug and Malmgren Left to Die.

MOSCOW, July 19.—A terrific attack on General Umberto Nobile is printed in the Communist Youth Pravda. It is by the poet Vladimir Myakofski and bears the title, "Cross and Champagne."

In short, pungent couplets the poet lashes "the Fascist General who took the cross to the Pole but deserted his comrades; who took champagne to celebrate the Italian victory and left the Italians to die."

M. Myakofski concludes with a phrase that is on all Russian lips:

"We await word from Nobile. Why did he run away? When they left Malmgren was the man dead or alive?"

All indications here point to the hypotheses that Captains Filippo Zappi and Alberto Mariano left the Swedish meteorologist alone on the ice many days before these two members of the walking party of the crew of the wrecked dirigible Italia were picked up on Thursday by the Soviet icebreaker Krassin. Because of this, Russian sentiment is stirred as it has been stirred by no foreign non-political event in the last seven years.

Behounek's Reported Story.

A correspondent of Tass (Soviet news agency) aboard the Krassin radioed accounts of two interviews, one with Professor Behounek, the Czech scientist, who was rescued by the ship with the Viglieri group of the Italia's crew, and the other with Captain Mariano.

According to the correspondent, the Professor actually stated that General Nobile at first proposed to abandon the two injured men, Dr. Malmgren and Natale Ceccioni, the motor chief whose leg was broken, at the place where the big dirigible crashed on may 26, while the rest made a dash for safety.

But this was voted down for the alternative plan of having three Italians, Captains Zappi and Mariano and Giuseppe Biogi, the radio operator, make a dash for land while the rest remained on the ice, M. Behounek is quoted as saying.

Thereupon, the account continues, Dr. Malmgren offered to take Biogi's place, first because he was more familiar with traveling on the ice, although he had a broken hand, and, second, because Biogi, being the only radio operator, would be more useful at the camp if the radio could be repaired.

According to the interview, Mariano repeats substantially what Captain Zappi was quoted as saying yesterday, but he fails to clear up Myakofski's fatal question—was Malmgren dead or alive when they left him on the ice?

New Version of Malgren's Fate.

MOSCOW, July 19.—A graphic account purporting to tell the story of the tragedy that befell Dr. Finn Malmgren and how he lay down alive in an icy grave to die, is given in a radiogram to Tass from Professor Samoilovich, head of the Russian Relief Expedition aboard the Krassin.

The three men, Mr. Malmgren and Captains Zappi and Mariano, left the Nobile group of Italia survivors to try to find help and wandered aimlessly about in an icebound world until Dr. Malmgren could go no further. Acceding to Professor Samoilovich's request for details as to how Dr. Malmgren had died, Captain Zappi is quoted as saying:

"In our march toward land we suffered untold privation. For days we drifted on floating ice. Several miles southeast of Broch Island Dr. Malmgren was unable to march on and told us to go ahead and take all the provisions.

"Before we left, Malmgren asked us to dig a grave in the ice, and he lay down. Quietly he stretched out his hand, bidding us adieu, and handing us his compass he requested us to give it to his mother.

"We plodded on slowly and in twenty-four hours were only 100 meters (about 110 yards) from Malmgren. We saw Malmgren raise his head. Hoping that, driven by hunger, he would go on with us, we waited. Realizing this, Malmgren cried:

"'Go! Go at the price of my life! You will save all.'

Says Mariano Went Blind.

"We marched on, suffering great privation. One mile from Broch land Mariano became blind, and again we drifted with the ice.

"During our wanderings we saw six airplanes only about a mile distant, but none save Chukhnovsky (Russian aviator aboard the Krassin) saw us despite our frantic signals.

"For twelve days we did not eat anything. Mariano felt death approaching at the sight of Chukhnovsky's plane and begged me to place his

Where Is Malmgren? Asks Italian's Poem

It is time that Nobile rendered an account.
The airship perished; the savior's plane appeared.
Into the unknown Arctic Ocean pushed the steel Krassin
While the Soviet fliers' eyes were riveted to the icy seas.
Discovering them in the foggy pis, the Krassin picked up the Italians,
Showing that we are chiefs of the ice wastes.
Now, say you who flew, how your leaders botched the job?
We await Nobile's live word: Why have you fled?
Where is Malmgren? Has he died or have they left him alive?

TWO MEN SHOT BY MAGISTRATE

SLAYER SURRENDERS

GALESBURG, Ill., July 19.—A death drama was enacted at Cameron, ten miles southeast of here, when Curtis G. Bates, farmer and township Magistrate, shot and killed Chester Burnett, 38, woodsman, and seriously wounded his brother, Clifford, 32.

The shooting followed a quarrel over ownership of a pile of wood left after railroad ties had been cut from it. The Burnetts leased the timber land from Bates and established a camp to cut the timber. Bates and the Burnetts both claimed the "slab," the remains from the tie-cutting operations, according to neighbors who witnessed the killing.

Bates, accompanied by his three sons, went to the camp this morning. Noticing a truck near the "slab" and inferring that the Burnetts meant to dispose of the wood, Bates told them they were to leave it alone until the law could decide.

Don Starkey, a neighbor, said that Chester Burnett used abusive language toward Bates. Then he started toward the owner of the land with a club.

Bates retreated, saying "I'm going to get my gun and the Sheriff, and then you watch out," according to Starke's story.

He went home, called Sheriff Porter of Monmouth and with his gun went back to the timber. He advanced toward the slab, on either side of which the Burnett's stood. He fired once at Chester, killing him instantly, witnesses said. The next bullet was directed at Clifford and struck him in the hip. Then Bates dropped his weapon and awaited the Sheriff.

When Sheriff Porter placed Bates under arrest, the prisoner told him he did not intend to kill either of the Burnetts. He said he shot at Chester, expecting to hit him in the legs, and that he intended to shoot the wrench from Clifford's hand.

SPECIAL CLASS FOR CLUB MEN

VENTURE SUCCESSFUL

Now boasting a membership of ten young men all of whom have undertaken the raising of pure bred stock, the Ayrshire-Heifer Club, organized in Peterborough county within the last couple of years, will be accorded special treatment at the Peterborough Industrial exhibition this year. There will be a specially arranged competition for the club members with every prospect, at present, of the young men showing nearly twenty head of cattle, The Government, through the Department of Agriculture, will grant half of the prize money. This special arrangement at the Exhibition was effective last year in encouraging the breeding of pure bred stock and since that time, the club members have almost doubled the number of head. Originally, the members had purchased one two-year-old heifer each while the department supplied a high grade bull and supervised the raising of the cattle generally.

For many of the young men, this was their first venture in the raising of stock and though no figures of production are available it is understood that they have carried on the work exceptionally well.

CRISIS CONCERNS CANADA

LEADS TO VICTORY

HON. DR. S. F. TOLMIE
British Columbia Conservative chief, who was elected with at least twenty-six supporters yesterday.

Dominion Holds Rumanian Bonds Worth $24,000,000

Ottawa Officials not Worrying About Money Loaned Former Ally in 1919 to Finance Purchases in Canada after the War.

INTEREST HAS BEEN PAID REGUULARLY; SINKING FUND ARRANGED FOR PAYMENT

Debt was Funded in 1922, when Overdue Interest was Added to Capital—Bonds Given government Belong to General Issue.

OTTAWA, July 19 (Special to The Examiner). — Rumania owes Canada nearly $24,000,000, despite the financial crisis which may lead to the downfall of the Bratianu ministry. The Minister of Finance holds Rumanian bonds for the amount similar to the general issue of Rumanian bonds and negotiable in the open market.

The interest is being paid on these bonds, and the sinking fund for their redemption will operate within a few years, and while Canada has no preference in the matter of redemptions, the bonds she holds will have equal place with the other bonds to be called in from time to time.

Ottawa is not unduly concerned about the financial crisis in Rumania, the only feature being repudiation. In 1919 Canada loaned Rumania $20,449,084 at 5½ per cent. interest and repayable in five years. This money was used in the furtherance of trade with Canada. Up to 1922 Rumania paid no interest and no principal, so negotiations were undertaken by Hon. P. C. Larkin, who got the debt placed on a better basis.

Under an agreement made by Mr. Larkin, the arrears of interest plus interest thereon, and amounting to $3,520,636, was considered as capital and added to the original principal. This made $23,969,720, and bonds to this amount were issued to Canada. These bear interest at four per cent., and mature in 1962, with a sinking fund to retire them. This is secured by a special export tax on Rumanian grain, and is payable in sterling. Since Mr. Larkin made the agreement Canada has received $5,273,290, and other interest payments are being made as due.

FINAL PROGRAM AT CHAUTAUQUA

Swiss Yodelling, Talk on Aviation, and Junior Program please Audience.

WELL ATTENDED.

The Chautauqua program for this year ended yesterday with a very fine program for afternoon and evening; consisting of a concert for both sessions offered by the famous Piechtel Yodlers; a lecture entitled "Rambling Through the Air" by Captain J. H. Hedley, and an entertainment by children of the city who became citizens of Chautauqua Junior Town during the past five days, and were trained by Miss Campbell of the visiting staff. Their performance was splendidly done and they received plenty of enthusaistic applause from a pleased audience that watched with interest the dances and stunts of the well-trained youngsters. The tent was filled almost to capacity last evening for the final performance of what has been a very well-attended series this year. The evening performance, as has been the case on several other occasions during the series this season, was married to a great extent by the hoodlum activities of a group of boys at the rear over whom no one appeared to exercise any jurisdiction. The chief Yodler, speaking from the platform, was compelled to pause for several minutes on one occasion while the boys shouted in ribald mirth, and went on after saying: "If I am not interrupted again, I will try and tell you another story."

The chief attraction of the Yodlers' program was possibly the unique calibre of the music offered. Yodelling is an unknown art, as far as this country is concerned, but these natives of the Tyrol appeared to find it second nature, and burst forth into exuberant "Oh-lee-ays" while singing lullabies, or love songs, or calling the cows.

Five singers made up the quintette of cheerful, joyous Swiss men and women who delighted their hearers during afternoon and evening with a very generous program of yodelling numbers. One of the loveliest numbers was the "Echo" song, echoing back from an outside point the song of the tenor, Jack Yost, singing on the stage. Men and women wore costumes of Swiss peasant type, colorful and attractive, and had a stage setting in the evening which reproduced a typical Swiss scene, with snow-clad peaks in the background and a Swiss chalet at the right entrance.

With accompaniment of guitar-zither, mandolin and lute, they sang their joyous native songs, some in English translations and others in the language of "Schweitzerland," with its guttural vowels and hissing consonants. The voices, which included a soprano, alto, bass, baritone and tenor, were all good and produced a splendid impression on their hearers. The soprano and tenor were probably outstanding in excellence.

They sang national numbers like "Switzerland, My Switzerland," "From the Mountain Peak" and "The Tyrolean Wood Chopper's March," the last illustrated by imitations of various domestic animals and "Early Morning in the Alps," and there were trios and duets in the Swiss music, all with yodelling refrain.

Solos by the different singers were

CONSERVATIVES TAKE POWER IN BRITISH COLUMBIA AFTER TWELVE YEAR LIBERAL RULE

TOLMIE ELECTED

Conservative Leader Returned with at Least 26 Supporters in House.

VANCOUVER, July 19 (Canadian Press).—Twenty-seven Conservatives, nine Liberals, and one Labor candidate were practically assured of election on the basis of the returns this morning from yesterday's provincial election in British Columbia. Eleven seats were still in doubt, but running close, and uncertain because of missing small polls or absentee vote results, delayed because of the isoluation of ridings.

It looked as though three ministers would be the complete toll of the defeated government ranks, as Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney General, was leading in Omineca; Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Provincial Secretary, in Vancouver North; Hon. J. H. Butcher-land, Minister of Roads, in Revelstoke, and Hon. T. D. Pattullo in Prince Rupert.

Led by Dr. S. F. Tolmie, who resigned his seat in the Federal House of Commons to assume the leadership of the Conservative party in the Pacific province, the Conservative swept everything before them in the two

Peterborough County May Become Winter Resort If Reports of Mineral Springs are Confirmed

That winter resorts as well as summer resorts may spring up in Peterborough County as the result of discoveries of health-giving mineral springs seems very probable. Reports tell of the finding of such springs at Apsley and at the other end of the Apsley ridge, in the Catchacoma country.

In the past this district has been known to the few enthusiasts who enjoyed its tranquility as a granite district where springs, as in many other places in the Kawartha Lakes section, provide the thirsty with pure water. It is not a limestone country, and springs do not bubble up everywhere, but are confined to clefts in the vast stretches of underground solid granite rock. It has been found, however, that there is also ironstone in this district, and it has been prophesied by those who should know that some day a mineral spring will be discovered, eliminating the necessity for invalids going to Clifton Springs, Preston, Battle Creek, Caledonia, and other famous health resorts.

Some years ago the spring water at Catchacoma was analysed by the Government at Mr. Curtis' request, and found to be one hundred per cent. pure, while the water in the lake was 98 per cent. pure, a remarkable record.

It is now said that iron and sulphate of iron springs have been discovered there, with phosphorus and other ingredients of the highest curative value.

If the report is true, there is no reason why this district should not become noted for its mineral springs, with their appeal to those seeking health, and the picturesque, if wild, stretch of high and healthy country may yet become a winter resort of renown.

CHANCES LESSENED

PARIS, July 19.—(Canadian Press)—William T. Tilden was dropped from the United States Davis Cup team today. The veteran star was removed, Joseph Wear, chairman of the American Davis Cup committee said, because he had violated the amateur rules in writing about the Wimbledon tennis tournament while playing in it.

Tilden said: "I refute all the charges. I have protested in vain as usual. The orders emanated from New York and I know nothing about them."

Tilden's removal caused a complete change of the United States team. Frances T. Hunter and John Hennessey will carry the burden in the singles and George Lott and Hennessey will team in the doubles. With Tilden off the team the United States may not even reach the challenge round this year. The Italians were good enough to eliminate such strong teams as Australia, Great Britain, and Czecho Slovaks in European zone play and with their captain on the sidelines, the Americans may find the Italians too much for them.

Chairman Wear has cabled his resignation because of Tilden's removal. He demanded that it be effective as soon as the team returned home.

Lott Refuses to Play.

Sensation followed Sensation when George Lott announced that he would not play in the doubles. Whether it was because of sympathy over Tilden's disbarment or disappointment because he was not chosen for the singles, caused the youth's action, was not made known. Committee members felt confident he later would change his mind.

Changes his Mind.

Wear announced this afternoon that Lott would play in the doubles, and the interzone competition would go on as rearranged after the summary retirement of Tilden.

Sensation in London.

LONDON, July 19. — Dropping of "Big Bill" Tilden from the American Davis Cup Tennis team on the ground that he had violated the amateur rules, is the big feature of to-day's afternoon papers, which print the story under banner headlines with Tilden's photograph.

Franc Asks Repeal

AUTEUL, France, July 19.—(Canadian Press). —The French Tennis Federation today cabled the United States Lawn Tennis Association asking that it rescind the action taken in removing Captain William T. Tilden from participation with the United States team in the inter-zone Davis Cup competition.

Stewart Slayton, 27, of Tully, died in Stanley. Another passenger, Miss Genevieve Bullion, 20, of Minoa, and Pilot Clarence Snyder were injured so severely they are expected to die.

ITALIANS CLAIM VICTORY OVER DESERT TRIBESMEN

ROME, Italy, July 19.—(Canadian Press).—The war department announced today that force of Libyans under Italian officers routed a large band of rebel tribesmen in Tripoli a week ago. The natives suffered casualties of about fifty killed and an equal number wounded. The losses of the rebels were put at double these figures.

'AUCTION GIRL' PICKS HUSBAND

Says She Will Marry Man Who Gives $6,000 to Parents.

THREE SUITORS

MILWAUKEE, July 19.—Miss Beatrice Albert, the auction girl, intends to pick a husband within a week.

The girl who announced in February that she would marry any man who would provide $6,000 for her aged parents, will make her selection from three persistent aspirants, she says.

The selection will be made in the village of Cumberland, Wis., a settlement of 1,800 persons in Barron County, where she and her mother will spend the next week with friends. They plan to leave over the week-end.

Miss Albert definitely has determined to reject the "godfathership" offer of W. W. Goynes, Soldiers Home postmaster, who has given the Albert family a home for the last three months. She has narrowed the list of eligible suitors to three and will write to these inviting them to visit her at Cumberland, she said.

"I think I will try some such method as Portia did in the "Merchant of Venice," " she said. "I do not mean I will make them choose between gold, silver and lead caskets, but that I will employ some method of determining which has the finest character and will make me the best husband."

Miss Albert is keenly disappointed because her efforts to make her parents happy have resulted so far in making them more unhappy than they were on their farm home near Siren, Wis.

Although her mother believes that she is doing the right thing in leaving Milwaukee, her father is emphatically opposed to the move and to his daughter's rejection of the suit of Mr. Goynes, it was learned. This situation has brought about dissension in the Albert home which, in the opinion of Miss Albert, is worse than poverty.

PLOWMEN PLAN ANNUAL MATCH

County Competition will be held near Warsaw, Oct. 17.

PROSPECTS GOOD

With the summer season advancing members of the Peterborough County Ploughmens' Association are turning their thoughts to the annual county match which, from year to year has enjoyed increasing interest and consequent growth so that now it is one of the events of the Fall season. For the purpose, among other things, of definitely setting place and date of the 1928 match, the executive of the Association held a meeting recently, at the call of President J. J. Duffus. It was decided to hold the meet on Wednesday, October 17, on the farm of Allen Payne, adjacent to the village of Warsaw, and already there is the prospect of a larger field of entries than has ever featured a Peterborough County match in the past. Mr. Payne's farm is well suited to the requirements of the Association, being easily accessible from all parts of the county, with the land in good condition for plowing.

It is altogether likely that this county will be represented at the provincial meet being held this year at London, Ontario, from October 11 to 13 inclusive.

Mystery Cleared To-day

Financier's Body Found in Channel near Boulogne this Afternoon.

IDENTIFIED BY WATCH.

BOULOGNE, France, July 19 (Canadian Press). — The body of Alfred Loewenstein, noted Belgian financier mysteriously missing since July 4, was found near here to-day. It was taken to Calais by a fishing boat, and identity was established by means of his wrist watch.

The finding of the body clears up one of the most amazing mysteries of recent years, without explaining how the fall from the airplane was accomplished. Experts on both sides of the Atlantic declared it impossible for a man to open the door of the plane and step out against the tremendous air pressure from the speed of the plane and the slip-stream from the propellors. But the finding of the body indicates that, impracticable as it may have been, Loewenstein did open the door and fall to his death in the waters of the North Sea.

It will be recalled that Loewenstein, whose fame as a financier was world-wide, embarked at Croydon, near London, to cross to Brussels on July 4, and that when the plane landed at Dunkirk, France, the pilot told the authorities his passenger had opened the wrong door and had fallen out. The British Air Ministry issued a statement to the effect that Loewenstein was drowned, but this was challenged by airplane experts both in England and United States. Tests were made under similar flying conditions, seeming to prove that it would have been impossible for Loewenstein to push open the outer door of the

MEXICANS VOW VENGEANCE FOR ASSASSINATION

Body of General Obregon En-route to Home in Sonora.

OTHERS ARRESTED

Assassin's Execution Postponed in Hope He Will Name Confederates.

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—(AP)—The body of General Alvaro Obregon, President-elect of Mexico, was last night enroute to his home in Sonora.

Just before the train pulled out of the station here this afternoon, thousands of followers of the Obregon policies raised their hands and took solemn oath to sustain his principles and to see that punishment is visited upon those responsible for his death. This was done at the instance of a member of congress who, as the oath was given, turned to President Calles, standing nearby and said:

Justice Demanded

"We demand of you justice by the punishment of those who were guilty of murdering Obregon."

President Calles and other leaders of the Republic walked behind the hearse with bared heads in the funeral procession from the national palace to the station. There they acted as pall-bearers and carried the coffin to the train.

Presumably the assassin, still known only as "Juan," is in a cell, although more or less summary execution before daybreak was regarded as certain for him last night. The secret of his lengthened lease on life lay undoubtedly in the hope of officials that he would be persuaded to divulge the means of possible confederates in his crime.

Prisoner Talks.

On Tuesday night he refused to talk or to answer even the interrogations of President Calles. But yesterday the new police chief, General Antonio Rios Zertuche, announc-

REGATTA AT GORE'S LANDING PRODUCES KEEN COMPETITION

Lawn Social, Concert and Dance Add to Day's Enjoyment.

MANY ENTRIES.

(By Staff Reporter)

GORE'S LANDING, July 19. — With all the enthusiasm of a real live organization promoting it, the regatta, held at Gore's Landing, Rice Lake, on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of St. George's Anglican church, proved a most successful event with an encouragingly large field of entries in nearly every event and with ideal weather conditions prevailing, to the delight of a large holiday crowd, not only from the immediate district but from Peterborough, as well. His Worship Mayor Roland Denne officially represented the city and his part in the proceedings of the evening following the regatta was valuable to the success of the entire event.

Sharing with the regatta proper in the success of the day, was a lawn social, held in the grounds immediately above the wharf. In this, the Women's Auxiliary scored heavily with their booths where one could, and hundreds did, purchase a most appetizing supper; where one might enjoy a fishing thrill with certainty of a prize; where dart throwing held its share of the interest and where a sale of needlework was most profitably carried on. The grounds, as suited to such an event as was the beautiful setting for the regatta, was crowded, especially when the water sports had concluded.

In the evening, a most enjoyable concert was held on the verandah of the Rice Lake hotel at which there was a musical program of merit with the Rev. Mr. Crisall presiding, as well as the awarding of prizes to the winners of the afternoon, by His Worship Mayor Denne. Local and outside talent was represented on the program and at its conclusion, many attended the dance, held in the Hall, Stevenson's orchestra, of Harwood providing excellent music.

Regatta Events

In all, fourteen events were slated for the afternoon, ranging from dinghy, canoe and swimming races to speed boat races, and in twelve of the fourteen, the field was sufficiently strong to result in keen competition. The disappearing propellor boat race and the outboard motor boat race were the exceptions, but in lieu of this latter race, which had to be scratched owing to boat trouble, the Carter Brothers, of Peterborough, with their motor attached to an O'Dette hull, took on Dr. Gavonna, with his heavy speed boat and the resulting demonstration of speed was one of the features.

The tiny craft, quite as speedy as its more dignified competitor, lost out on the turns, but on the long stretches from buoy to buoy, made up that loss while the doctor, fearful of getting too close to it, and thus possibly causing it to capsize, was equally handicapped.

It was truly an example of "Dignity and Impudence" with the best of sportsmanship prevailing. The two boats came down the home stretch almost even, at a speed in the neighborhood of thirty-five miles an hour—a fitting climax to the afternoon's program.

Winners of other events were as follows:

Dinghy Sailing Race—1, Mr. Van Atta; 2, J. H. Brewin.

Boys' Tandem Canoe.—1, A. Rockwell and J. Dowling; 2, J. H. Brewin and T. H. Roper.

The Officers

Such a successful event as the regatta could not have come from unwise or insufficient planning; it was the natural result of careful work on the part of several committees; notably, the events committee, comprising T. D. McGaw, Clare Harris and Cecil Manley; the judges' committee, namely Dr. Russell, P. C. Hanna and J. W. Viccars; and the events entries committee listing J. O. Carson and Carl Harris. The starter of the day was Mr. Hastings.

THINKS MEN'S CLOTHING ALTOGETHER TOO TIGHT.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A warning to men to wear looser clothes in the interests of health was issued to-day by Assistant U.S. Surgeon General R. C. Williams. Men, he said, could eliminate many troubles by banishing tight garters and belts, as women have reduced anemia by outmoding snug laces. And this would be a happier, more contented world. But whereas women, by adopting short skirts and sleeveless, low-necked dresses have given their blood a chance to circulate, men seem bent on sticking to their unnatural garters and belts, to say nothing of "strangler" collars.

COTTON GIN COLLAPSES INJURES 50 PERSONS.

GREENVILLE, Ala. (AP).—Fifty persons were injured, 10 of them seriously, when the second floor of a cotton gin in which a camping party was housed, collapsed here Thursday night. The majority of those injured were children on a three-day outing at the campsite.

PAVEMENT BASE IS NEARLY LAID

Surfacing Still to be Done on Campbellford Streets.

EXCAVATOR MOVES.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19.— The excavator moved from the west to the east side of the river yesterday, after having dug out the required amount of earth for the widening of the pavement at the corners of Sebastapol and Simpson streets and Sebastapol and Palliser streets. Unless some other changes are authorised, this ends the work for this particular part of the equipment for the west side of the town. The concrete base on the Havelock road extension is nearing completion and the only other concrete to be laid on the west side is where the two small excavations were made yesterday.

Front street is practically ready for the excavator from Bridge street north to the end of what is usually termed the business section. When the concrete has been laid on this street and on the extension of the Stirling road pavement, all the base will have been laid and there will only remain the surfacing operation.

Drivers of all kinds of vehicles have been more or less inconvenienced by the detours and closed roads during the concrete work. They will be pleased to learn that the surfacing does not require a street to be closed for more than a few hours.

Rum Trade Has Been Broken

Rum Row Has Been Smashed, Asserts Dry Chief.

COAST GUARD PRAISED

Shipments Drop Off Nine Million Gallons in 1928.

WASHINGTON, July 19. — "Rum Row," off the Atlantic Coast, has been effectively broken up by the patrol established by the Coastguard, according to a statement made to the Administrators' Conference here yesterday by Dr. James H. Doran, Commissioner of Prohibition.

While he did not reveal the source of his figures, Dr. Doran stated that in 1927 more than 14,000,000 gallons of liquor had been shipped from foreign ports, presumably intended for consumption in this country, and that the quantity so shipped in the past fiscal year had dropped to about 5,000,000 gallons.

"These gratifying results were due to the good work of the Coastguard," said Dr. Doran. "That service cannot be too highly commended as an agency for the suppression of the traffic in illicit liquor."

Commissioner Doran expressed the opinion that a further decline in importation of foreign beverage liquor would follow the recent action of the Customs Service in enlarging its inspection force on the New York docks.

Limit on Industrial Alcohol

The commissioner told the Administrators yesterday that the Treasury Department probably would fix 185,000,000 proof gallons as the maximum quantity of industrial alcohol that may be produced in the United States in 1929.. That was the quantity that was allowed for industrial uses in the current year.

TRENT RIVER STORE SWEPT BY BLAZE FROM GAS TRUCK

Volunteers Form Bucket Brigade Which Extinguishes Fire.

MUCH DAMAGE

W. C. Inkster's Premises Saved by Quick Help and Absence of Wind.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, July 19. — Fire which broke out at 7 o'clock yesterday evening nearly resulted in the loss of W C. Inkster's general store and residence, disaster being warded off only by the prompt and energetic services of scores who gathered to help.

The gasoline tank in front of the store was being filled from a gasoline truck driven by a Mr. Plumpton of Campbellford, when a blaze was seen to sweep up and the motor truck appeared to be on fire. The terrific blaze spread rapidly to the front of the store, sweeping over the front of the building.

A large crowd gathered quickly and a bucket brigade was formed by the neighbors and cottagers, who did their utmost to quench the blaze. A fire extinguisher from the Frederick House was brought into use with good effect. Fortunately there was no wind or no efforts of the volunteers could have availed to save the house and store.

Word was sent to Havelock for help but cars coming with extinguishers ran out of gasoline and failed to reach the scene of the fire.

The glass in the store was broken by the intense heat and some goods in the windows were destroyed while much damage was done throughout the building by water. The gasoline tank was partly burned. Insurance was carried on the building but no estimate has been made on the monetary loss.

YOUNG MAN IS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Vernon Booker Has Been Held As a Material Witness.

VERDICT OF JURY

Mother, Brother and Two Hired Men Were Killed on July 9.

MANVILLE, Alta., July 19 (Canadian Press)—Vernon Booher, 29-year-old son of Henry Booher, who has been held as a material witness in the Booher murder mystery, was formally charged with the murder of four persons yesterday and arraigned for preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon. Eunice Booher, the young man's mother; his brother Fred and two hired men, Wasyl Rosiuk and Gabriel Gromley, were shot and killed at the Booher homestead, July 9.

The verdict of the coroner's jury last night was as follows:

"Taking into consideration the position of the bodies when discovered, the course of the bullets as described by Dr. Bell and other evidence submitted by various witnesses, the jury comes to the conclusion that four persons, namely, Eunice Booher, Fred Booher, Gabriel Gromley and Wasyl Rostuk, were wilfully murdered, and met their death as a result of gunshot wounds inflicted by some person unknown on the ninth of July, 1928, at the Booher homestead, Fred Booher's place."

MAN TAKES $8,000; TURNS IT INTO $400,000

NEW YORK, July 19.—Justice Frankenthailer has the difficult problem of deciding whether a man who took $8,000 from his wife and built it into a $400,000 fortune for her, should have to pay alimony of $5.00 a month. Attorneys for Reginald Hiscoe Wall street broker, told the story of the building of the fortune in combatting the alimony demand of Mrs. Hiscoe, who is suing the broker for divorce on the ground of cruelty. She said her husband's income was from $75,000 to $100,000 a year and that she needed $275 a week to keep herself and $125 a week to keep their six-year-old child. Hiscoe's attorneys said the broker took the $8,000—belonging to his wife and mother-in-law to Wall street and in a few days had built it to $400,000.

LARGE FIELD OF POTATOES

H. F. Doig, of North Monaghan, Has a Patch of 18 Acres.

EXPECTS 2,000 BAGS

(Examiner Correspondence).

SPRINGVILLE, July 19.—Those persons who have been fortunate enough to travel by way of the River Road during the past week have enjoyed the privilege of seeing one of the largest fields of potatoes in bloom that will be found within a radius of a great many miles.

This eighteen acres of Prince Edward Island Cobbler potatoes belonging to H. F. Doig, Park Street, North Monaghan, can rival the most beautiful of flower gardens for evenness of growth and beauty and perfection of the flower.

Mr. Doig has planted on his property, which borders the River Road, 38 acres of potatoes, all in splendid condition. He specializes in Prince Edward Island Cobblers and New Brunswick Cobblers.

Mr. Doig states that this spring, one man plowed twenty acres of land with a walking plow in seven days and eight hours. On the 38 acres of land prepared for potatoes, 320 bags of seed were planted, which allowed practically ten bags to the acre.

In one day one boy can cut 30 bags of potatoes into seed with a potato cutter. Also in one day one man can plant from 75 to 80 bags with the potato planter along with commercial fertilizer.

Naming Of a Successor To Slain President-Elect Is Big Problem Now Facing Mexican Committee

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—(Canadian Press).—The Permanent Congressional Committee, that conducts legislative business when Congress is not in session, met yesterday to discuss the puzzling problem of the succession to the presidency as the result of General Alvaro Obregon's assassination.

Apparently there is no provision for procedure in the event of the death of a president-elect; and in Mexico there is no vice-president.

Obregon was elected president July 1 for a six-year term the term having been extended from four years a few months ago. He was to be proclaimed president by Congress at its September session, and was to take office December 1 as successor to President Calles.

Whether the election would be nullified and a new one held, or whether President Calles would be asked by Congress to take advantage of the new law and remain in office for an additional two years, so that he would have a six-year term, was a matter of doubt.

Mexican law provides that in the event of the death of a president during the first two years of his term, Congress may name a provisional president and arrange for a new election. It was regarded as possible that this method might be used, Calles acting provisionally as chief executive.

It is stipulated in the constitution that, though a president may serve two full terms, they must not follow one another directly

SUMMER FEED IS IMPORTANT

Production is Directly Dependent on Feed and Care.

BEST MONTHS.

July, August and September are three of the best months in the year for a poultryman. The price of eggs is on an upward trend, it is comparatively easy to provide comfortable quarters and a good ration so that the hens will lay better than 50 per cent. right through the summer.

Many laying houses are miserable, hot, stuffy places in the summer, due to lack of proper ventilation. To keep the house cool, have it so that you can open it on all four sides on hot days. Rear ventilation may be secured by an eave ventilator in the rear of the house or a window under the drop boards. Have the nests open and airy, and be sure to put the feed hoppers and drinking vessels in a cool part of the house. It is very important that provision be made for a good circulation of air, as the hens are not able to stand a great deal of heat.

Watch Out for Parasites.

Parasites, both external and internal, ordinarily make their appearance at this time of the year. Lice and mites, in particular, are troublesome pests. Sanitation is a big step towards freeing the flocks of them. Mites may be combated by spraying the perches, drop boards and nests with a good coal tar disinfectant. One thorough spraying will generally rid the flock for the summer. Used cylinder oil and kerosene mixed with the coal tar disinfectant have proved very satisfactory. To treat for lice it is necessary to handle every bird and dust with sodium fluoride or some good louse powder.

Good production can only be secured by means of wise feeding. Comfort alone will not produce eggs. Just because hens are getting outdoors is no good reason for their going without the egg mash. The range is bound to be completely lacking in certain of the egg building materials and limited in the supply of those that are available.

Encourage Mash Consumption.

In order that high egg production may be secured, the hens must receive a good egg mash the year around. You cannot afford to take away the mash during the summer months. In place of taking away the egg mash it is advisable to encourage the hens to eat more mash as the hot weather comes on. This may be accomplished by keeping a fresh supply before the birds all the time and locating hoppers at different points on the range in addition to those in the house. If you find their appetites to slacken, give them a light wet mash feed at noon during the hot weather. In feeding a wet mash it is always important that you clean out the hoppers after the birds are through so that there is no chance of it becoming sour or musty and the birds eating it. Never give them more wet mash than they will clean up in half an hour.

Your hens will return to you in eggs just what you put into them in the way of feed. If you force them to hunt their feed on the range, aside from giving them probably a light feeding of scratch grains once a day, it is unfair to expect much in return. It is expensive to make the hens scratch for all their feed. when at a slight cost you can provide them with a good commercial egg mash that contains just the egg building material they need. The more eggs you get per hen, the less it costs to produce them because it costs practically as much to keep a hen that is not laying as it does to keep a high producer.

BUFFALO TO GEORGIAN BAY.

The following interesting letter has been received at the offices of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and Trent Waterway Development Association, which is from a member of the editorial staff of the Buffalo, N.Y., Evening News. Considering that the nineteen-foot motor launch, which after all is a very frail craft, must traverse the enormous stretches of Lakes Erie and Huron, not to mention the smaller bodies of Lake St. Clair and Georgian Bay, one cannot fail to admire the courage of those undertaking the trip:

"I am contemplating a voyage with a 19-foot motor launch from Buffalo to Georgian Bay, through the Trent Waterway to the Bay of Quinte and the Thousand Islands. Your booklet informs that the navigation charts will be supplied at cost, and I am writing to secure information of the cost and availability of such charts as we shall need. I should like to procure charts of the waterway, the Bay of Quinte and Georgian Bay, these with the soundings, if possible, as well as range directions on those three bodies of water. Any assistance you are able to give me will be highly appreciated."

LICENSE SUSPENDED

"Duke" Schiller won't do any more flying for the next six months, according to a Federal edict. The Canadian aviator who achieved almost as much fame as much fame out of the Bremen trans-Atlantic flight as did Fitzmaurice, Von Heunefeld and Koehl themselves, has had his license suspended for this period following a crash at St. Hubert Field, Montreal. After the Bremen landed at Greenely Schiller made a daring flight up the Straits of Belle Isle to bring them out. Now he will have to cool his heels for a while, so far as commercial piloting is concerned.

CANADA'S GREAT PORT.

While we are not all citizens of Montreal, we are all Canadians who should, therefore, rejoice at the evidences of prosperity disclosed by the 1927 report of Montreal Harbor.

It may be a surprise to many Canadians to learn that Montreal is much the greatest grain shipping harbor in the world.

For last year all grain exports from the Canadian harbor exceeded the grain shipped from New York, Galveston, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New Orleans, five of the leading United States ports.

While much is made of the fact that much Canadian wheat goes through United States ports, last year Montreal handled 92,000,000 bushels of American grain, of which 46,000,000 bushels were of wheat.

Nearly 12,000,000 tons of freight were handled, an increase of nearly 30 per cent.

1,610 ocean-going ships of a net tonnage of nearly 5,000,000 tons were accommodated, as compared with 1,421 in 1926, while revenues increased by almost a million dollars.

ELIMINATING GLARING LIGHTS.

Several accidents have been caused in the vicinity of Peterborough within the last few days as a result of glaring headlights, and this menace is so commonly encountered that the authorities might well pay greater attention to this question.

Drivers are being urged to use their dimmers when approaching other cars, but there are many motorists who claim that they would rather face the strong lights of other cars than dim their own, the sudden cutting off of their lights being regarded as a source of danger.

California seems to have solved the problem.

Out there every motorist is required to have his car lights inspected and adjusted by an officially appointed mechanic.

The lights are so fixed that they will always throw the beams down and out along the roadway and ditch, and not up and at different angles, while if a spotlight is carried it is clamped down so that the driver could not possibly shift it and thus inconvenience others.

The lamps are standardized as regards candle power, and thus every car carries lights of the same brilliance so focussed so that approaching drivers are not blinded.

BANISHING A DISTURBER.

There should be no tears shed over the fact that the Dominion Government has seen fit to order the deportation of James Henry Hawkins, organizer of the Ku Klux Klan in Saskatchewan, by Friday if the K.K.K. leader does not voluntarily leave the country before then.

It is said that he has left himself open to a deportation order, inasmuch as he is supposed to have entered the Dominion as a non-immigrant and remained without "reporting for landing."

At all events Saskatchewan, and the whole country, in fact, will be better off without the dubious activities of Klan organizers.

The whole movement is so repugnant to tolerant Canadians that the action of the Government in driving this particular Klan missionary out of the country will be generally applauded.

We need no such organization in Canada; and if some of our people can take any amusement out of masquerading in bed sheets at hours when they should be sleeping under them, at least let it be done in the name of fun and not to conceal religious or racial intolerance.

Many things we can profitably copy from our neighbors, but the Ku Klux Klan has no place in the list.

REVENGE AT LAST.

At last it has come.

Many a time and oft when a motorist has driven at a fast clip through slushy streets or through a mud-puddle and bespattered all the pedestrians in the immediate neighborhood, we have pictured the day when vengeance in the form of a bulky blue-coated policeman with a summons would arrive on the scene.

But, alas, it seemed as if the day would never dawn.

But it has.

In Toronto the other day a motorist who was guilty of this offence was fined $10.00 and costs for reckless driving.

He was a truck driver, and he raced his big machine through a pool of muddy water, splattering several people who were waiting for a street car.

The army of pedestrians who more or less patiently have put up with this annoyance for years will take fresh heart.

The mills of the law may grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small, and some day—we don't want to be too optimistic about this—some day when a Peterborough driver decorates us with a gallon of muddy water or a few ounces of slush we may be able to extract a lot of satisfaction out of knowing that his discourtesy has cost him as well as us something.

UGLY PROPAGANDA.

There has come to the Journal a mimeographed copy of an article which has all the earmarks of the most sinister propaganda. It is called "The Anglo-American News Letter," by Drew Pearson, and purports to be a review of a book by Ludwell Denny, entitled "We Fight for Oil." This book, the article says, is "destined to reverberate around the world," and in order to emphasize this modest statement, Mr. Pearson puts this caption over his article:

"WAR BETWEEN U. S.
AND GREAT BRITAIN
PREDICTED OVER OIL"
"Startling warning issued in book
Widely read by official Washington;
Clash between two Economic Empires foreseen."

We confess that we have never heard of Mr. Drew Pearson, nor does our literary knowledge embrace the fame of Mr. Ludwell Denny. This ignorance, we feared at first, might merit for us the rebuke, "Who arguest he knows him not, argues himself unknown," but we were comforted by noting that neither Mr. Pearson nor Mr. Denny appears in the American "Who's Who," and also by the fact that we have not noticed any reviews of Mr. Denny's "reverberating" book in any of the worth-while magazines.

However, there can be little doubt as to what Messrs. Denny and Pearson are up to: they are up to mischief. As an illustration of this, take the following quotation from Mr. Pearson's letter:

"The author cites facts and documents to show that:

"1. The British-controlled Anglo-Persian Oil Company is exerting pressure on Colombia to obtain a tract of land parallel to the Panama Canal—which containing no oil, is causing the American State Department considerable worry.

"2. Ten years of revolutions in Mexico were caused by the efforts of American and British oil companies to put in office presidents who would favor one side against the other.

"3. The agreement in Mosul whereby the American oil companies receive a 21.25 per cent. interest, is merely a truce, to be broken at the first crisis.

"4. Royal Dutch-Shell inspired the raid upon Arcos, the Soviet trade agency in London, in order to force a break with Russia after Standard Oil had captured Baku oil concessions.

"5. While the oil supply of the United States will be exhausted in six years, British and Dutch companies are obtaining from 35 to 40 per cent. of their total production from American oil lands, meanwhile prohibiting American production in the Dutch East Indies, Burma or any part of the British Empire."

And that is not all. As this Mr. Denny warms up to his subject he sees nothing on the horizon but the red glare of war from the cannon of Britain and the States. This (we are quoting from Mr. Pearson's summary) is how he puts it:

"The peoples of Europe envy and distrust us. European governments discriminate against our trade. We have outlawed Russia. In China our gunboats and marines must protect Americans from anti-foreign frenzy. Throughout Mexico and Latin America we are hated and feared. Japan, humiliated by the insult of immigration exclusion and suspecting our Pacific policy, watches and waits.

"Overshadowing all stands Great Britain, blocking the path of American empire. Empire is built on sea supremacy, foreign markets, and control of raw materials such as oil. Without these the British Empire cannot continue dominant. Without these the American empire cannot rise. Hence the conflict. Despite hands-across-the-sea speeches and talk of Anglo-American unity, the two empires are now in combat on the economic fronts of the world."

The fault, of course, is all poor Britain's. Britain stands in the way of United States expansion; is jealous of her young rival; wants supremacy on the seas. More than that, having tried to trick the United States into naval inferiority at Geneva (the same old propaganda) and failed, the American people now see that it is against Britain they must arm. Hear Mr. Denny:

"We are actively preparing for the Anglo-American war which our naval men believe will be fought to determine commercial supremacy. The American people are now less opposed than formerly to such preparedness against Great Britain. They think—just or unjustly—that Great Britain at the Coolidge Geneva Conference tried to trick America into permanent naval inferiority and refused American pleas for equality."

As to the outcome of the issue, Mr. Denny entertains no doubts. He brushes aside probable Canadian intervention on the side of Britain as unimportant—"it would not be decisive in any event"—and then proceeds:

"Both nations would lose by war. But Great Britain would lose more. Whatever happened to America, Great Britain would cease to exist as a world empire. The reasons are obvious."

Toward the end Mr. Denny reveals the motives of the book; in fact, he makes no effort to conceal them. He says:

"Doubtless everyone in Great Britain realizes this—except the Tory minority which controls the Admiralty and Foreign Office. But apparently few Britons of any party realize that the United States will soon be ready to fight to attain commercial and naval supremacy, unless Great Britain without war will share control of raw materials, markets and the sea."

We hear a lot in this and other countries about denying the mails to those who send out matter corrupting to the minds and the morals of the people. It would be a good thing if the same principle were applied to mischief-mongers like the writers of this brand of propaganda. For that, quite clearly, is the profession of Messrs. Denny and Pearson. For money, at the behest of unscrupulous masters, their job is to create suspicion, hate and enmity between the United States and Britain, not stopping at the possibility of war to achieve their ends.—Ottawa Journal.

The Question Box

Rogers St. Q.—Can you inform me where it is possible to get cedar oil. I've enquired at drug stores and hardware stores, but they don't know it; only O'Cedar, which is not what I want.

A.—Any drug store should have cedar oil—but anyhow, it may be obtained at James Lynch's, on Hunter street. This oil, used to eliminate moths, is derived from chips left over from pencil making. The chips are distilled, and the resulting oil has a strong pleasant cedar odour.

GOD'S MINUTE

Evening, morning and noon will I pray.—Ps. 55:17.

* * *

Abba, Father, trusting in the merits and saving grace of Thy Son, our Saviour and Redeemer, Jesus Christ, we come before Thee to ask grace and loving mercy during the hours of this day. Should temptations assail us, we ask for strength to resist them successfully. Should evil attack us, may Thy grace strengthen us to fight a bold fight for the right.

May we hold ourselves as valiant soldiers of the Cross, thoroughly furnished to all good works. May our ears be open to the cry of the weak and suffering, and our hearts be ready to respond to every appeal from one of Thy suffering ones, and may we be enabled to minister to others in Thy Name, as Thy servants.

Let the close of this day find us in the path of duty, and grant that in rendering loving service to others we may realize a blessing as having rendered the service to Thee.

View with compassion our many weaknesses and faults, and touch us with a consecrating power that we may be able to stand in the evil day, and to render worthy and acceptable service as faithful servants of Jesus Christ, in Whose Name we ask all these blessings. Amen.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 19 (Canadian Press). — Estimates that Canada's Prairie provinces will raise 500,000,000 bushels of wheat this season did much to bring about sharp downturns in wheat values yesterday. On the breaks in price, export buying of North American wheat amounted to between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels, but the news came out too late to have much market influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1⅛c to 2½c net lower, with corn 1⅛c off to 1⅛ up; oats ¼c to 1¼c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 57c.

Pronounced weakness of the Winnipeg wheat market gave particular emphasis to the bearish estimates which were current yesterday relative to the expected big volume of the Canadian 1928 harvest, Canadian wheat much larger this year than usual. During the extreme downward swing of wheat prices which accompanied these reports, the market here fell to the lowest levels touched since last April.

Especially heavy selling of December wheat here yesterday was ascribed to a prominent speculator. In addition there were general liquidating sales on the part of miscellaneous holders. Much of the liquidation came as a result of standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits, meanwhile the market was tending lower also on account of heavy movement of new winter wheat in the southwest and because of early advices that wheat in various sections of the American northwest is ten days ahead of the showing a year ago. One Chicago expert telegrapher that the promise around Minot, N.D., is the best since 1915.

Corn and oats were bearishly affected by wheat weakness, but July delivery of corn was an exception, closing higher and going to the biggest premium yet over September. A feature was active demand from previous speculative sellers of July.

Eastern buying and scarcity of offerings lifted the provisions market, despite weakness of hog values.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 19 (Canada Press).—The export trade in grain here yesterday was more active owing to the improved demand from foreign buyers overnight, and Montreal exporters did a fair business including sales of No. 3 Canadian Western barley for October-November shipments, and oats for July loading. There was a steady demand for ocean grain room here and a moderate amount of business was done for July - August loading.

There was some demand from exporters for grain in the local market and sales of No. 3 Northern wheat were made at 3½c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 2 feed oats sold at 60c per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal. The inquiry for No. 2 Canadian Western oats was good and 10½c per bushel over the July option was bid freely without bringing any offers from the West and buyers are finding it difficult to fill their requirements. Owing to the continued weakness in the Winnipeg future oat market spot prices for car lots were reduced another 2c to 3c per bushel, with sales of Argentine corn at $1.09 and American No. 2 commercial yellow corn at $1.07 per bushel.

Trading in butter was again of a disappointing character which to some extent was attributed to the fact that buyers in many cases were afraid to operate at the present level of values for future requirements. The receipts were 517 packages.

Owing to the continued lull in the demand from English importers for cheese and the fact that holders here in some cases show a disposition to liquidate an easier feeling developed in the market and prices were reduced ½c to ¼c per lb. The receipts were 4,565 boxes.

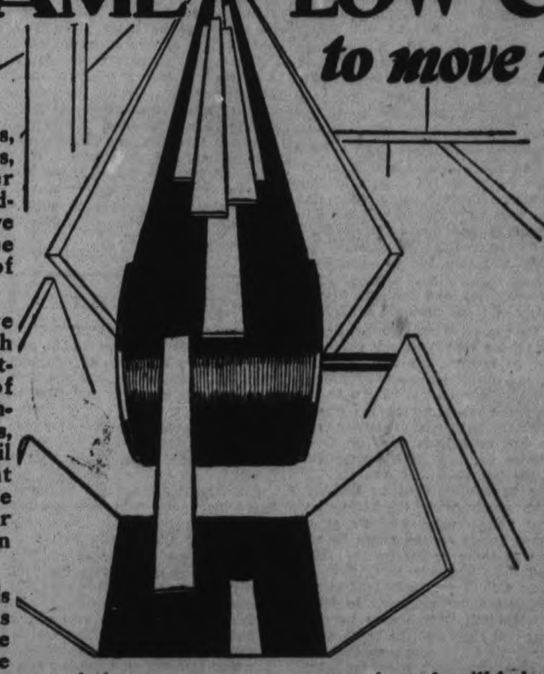
And now.... in Lumber Mills the SAME LOW COST to move materials



FOR many, many years, in mines, quarries, grain elevators, paper mills and factories, Goodyear Conveyor Belts have given low-cost service in the movement of materials.

These industries have been long familiar with the labor-saving, cost-cutting advantages of Goodyear-equipped conveyor systems. Others, however, have not until comparatively recent dates considered the adaptability of conveyor belts to their production problems.

The lumbering business is one of these. For it has been only within a decade that conveyor belts have been utilized by this important industry.

And experiences such as that of the Canadian Western Lumber Co.* are particularly gratifying, not alone to the users, but to Goodyear also, since they vindicate most decisively the judgment of the men who recognized in modern conveyor systems the key to their problem of more economical handling of materials.

Other industries are today in the position of the lumber industry of six or seven years ago. They are using methods of moving materials which might, with careful study, be supplanted by conveyor systems which would result in a speeding-up of production and its contingent reduction in costs.

You incur no obligation when you ask that a Goodyear man discuss conveyors with you. Out of his long experience there may come a suggestion which will increase the efficiency of your plant. Will you grant him an interview? A post-card or 'phone call to any branch will bring him to you.

*The Canadian Western Lumber Mills at Fraser Mills, B.C., is using a Goodyear Conveyor Belt to carry trimmings from 14 trim saws and planers. The belt has been in service for 6 years and is still in excellent condition. It has materially reduced operating costs in this department of a great mill.

When Flying Officer W. D. Van Vliet of the Royal Canadian Air Force was brought into Toronto by aeroplane from Camp Borden it was said to be the first actual transportation by air of a hospital case in Canada in the history of the department of national defence. Van Vliet was seriously injured at Camp Borden when his plane crashed. Medical officers there decided he should be brought to Toronto. The plane, a Fairchild monoplane, left Camp Borden at 10.25 and made the trip in the fast time of 35 minutes. Capt. N. M. Halkett, M.C., medical officer at Camp Borden, was in charge of the flight. He was piloted by Flight-Lieut. H. W. Heslop. Van Vliet lay on the floor of the cabin. At Leaside Van Vliet was lifted on to a stretcher and then placed in an ambulance. Col. F. S. L. Ford, C.M.G., district medical officer, supervised the transfer of the patient. The UPPER picture shows the plane arriving, the LOWER shows the patient being taken away on the stretcher.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

MONTREAL, July 19.—Midsummer markets, bearing the characteristics so well recognizable of dullness and irregularity, continue the rule both locally and in New York.

* * *

These markets commence by sagging and end with rallies the product more often than of short covering.

* * *

Brokers are taking their usual attitude in a full market by recommending selling with the view of picking stocks up lower.

* * *

This advice is not always good as it is generally availed of just when the technical situation suggests recovery.

* * *

Yesterday morning saw stocks declining. The afternoon witnessed a notable rally in most of the leaders which caused the sellers of the morning much regret.

* * *

Winnipeg Electric was again the feature, selling up to 117, or within a point of its high on the recent recovery.

* * *

The rally left some of the paper stocks severely alone, but should it continue they will also be affected. Yesterday found Port Alfred steady and closing higher, while Wayagamack had a recovery of a point and a half.

* * *

Lyall eased off the 68, recovered a point and closed 69½ bid. It is evident that the point of resistance on Lyall is four points higher than on the previous decline.

* * *

The expectation that brokers loans will be sustantially reduced this week was an incentive to short covering and also to some buying of the most depressed issues.

* * *

The fact remains however, that leading authorities have no belief in the continuance of the rally. They recommend that stocks be sold on every bulge, not because they believe that they will not go higher, but because they believe that they will go lower first.

* * *

Many people are voicing their regret that they did not sell stocks ten days ago when they were much higher. Some of these are likely to sell whenever stocks again reach the heights they attained then.

* * *

A good many people are either out of the market or have reduced their commitments to a point at which they would be willing to take on more stock should a sharp break occur, and these are combining with brokers in a bearish propoganda in the hope of bringing about a further collapse which will enable them to get on the long side again with prospects of substantial profits in the early fall.

British Foreign Trade Gradually Improving

LONDON, July 19.—Some encouragement is derived from Great Britain's latest trade returns. The June imports of £99,369,000 were practically stationary as compared with a year ago, but the exports of £59,472,000 showed an increase of 6¼ per cent., and the re-exports of £11,471,000 had expanded 8 per cent. over a year ago. The imports for the six months of this year were £605,240,000, or nearly 2 per cent. lower than the same period last year, but the total exports of £422,718,000 are almost 3½ per cent. higher than those of last year. The month's adverse balance is £28,426,000, as compared with £32,747,000 a year ago. The total for the six-month period is £182,522,000, as compared with £208,604,000 for the same period last year and £197,843,000 in 1926.

The feature of the exports was the increase of £3,720,000 in manufactured goods and the expansion of £1,164,000 in machinery. Iron and steel exports, however, declined $131,000; coal £453,000 and cotton yarns £500,000. The coal, steel and textile trades remain very slack. Iron output at present exceeds requirements, but by Autumn the trade is expected to provide sufficient demand to absorb the stocks.

Toronto Stocks Show Little Activity To-day

TORONTO, July 19 (Canadian Press).—A very dull session was experienced by the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Trading was slow and changes fractional.

Cosmos Imperial Preferred and National Grocers Preferred each gained one point at 100 and 98 respectively. International Nickel, with the largest turnover of the morning remained firm at 92¼, while Page Hersey slumped two points at 95.

Oils were light features on curb, with British American losing ⅛ at 37 and Imperial sagging two at 65½. Supertest advanced one at 32.

Activity seems to have ceased in the bank section. The Standard eased one, and Toronto 2 at 288.

Wheat Slightly Lower as Harvest Approaches

CHICAGO, July 19 (Canadian Press).—With the Spring wheat harvest nearly at the beginning, and with big receipts of Winter wheat continuing, wheat values ranged lower early to-day. The declines encountered good buying, however, and the market showed evident power to rally. Opening ⅝ to 1¼ cents off, wheat afterward at times recovered to above yesterday's closing level. Corn developed relative strength, starting at ¼ cent lower to ⅛ cent advance and subsequently scoring general gains. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended to sag.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 126; September 128⅝; Corn, July 106¾; September 97½; Oats, July 46¼, September 40⅝.

Mine Trading Light; Penny Stocks Active

TORONTO, July 19 (Canadian Press).—Trading continued light on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, most of the activity being displayed by the Penny stocks. Noranda, however, became active again and recovered some of its recent loss by advancing 3.05 to 56.30

Western issues were strong under the active leadership of Big Missouri. Following the conclusion of a deal with Consolidated Smelters, this issued scored a turnover of nearly 75,000 shares and touched 75. It closed at 70 with a drop of 1¼. Hudson Bay advanced 55 to 18.85, and Pend Oreille 25 to 14.75. Central Manitoba was up three at 1.04 and Sherritt Gordon five at 7.00.

Teck Hughes at 9.80 was up 30 and Hollinger showed a gain of 15 to 11.70. Amulet dropped three to 4.55. Among the cheaper issues to show activity were Malartic unchanged at 1.40, Moffatt Hall unchanged at 21¼, Newbec, down two at 30, and Howey up 2 at 85.

CONSERVATIVES TAKE POWER

chief cities of Vancouver and Victoria, electing a full ticket of six members in the former and four in the latter.

Premier Maclean was fighting his first general election as leader of the Liberal party. He succeeded the Hon. John Oliver when the veteran chieftain died last year.

A heavy vote was reported throughout British Columbia in yesterday's provincial elections.

In the cities of Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster and other urban centres, the weekly Wednesday half-holiday in business houses coincided with election day, making a heavy turnout possible during the day. The late closing hour ensured an opportunity for everyone to vote. Those away on holidays from their constituencies were able to register their franchise through the absentee vote machinery. Weather conditions were good.

No untoward incidents were reported.

Absence of the provincial party from the lists this election had an important bearing on the result. In 1924 this party polled more than 831,000 votes.

Standing of parties—The last Legislature was: Liberals, 22; Conservatives, 18; Independents, 2; Labor, 3; Provincial Party, 2; Vacancy, 1.

Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative leader, was elected in Saanich constituency.

Premier Maclean was defeated in Victoria.

Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, and Liberal candidate in Chilliwack riding, was defeated by William Atkinson, Conservative. This is a Conservative gain.

Hon. Dugald Donaghy, Minister of Finance, was defeated in Vancouver.

R. H. Poolery, Conservative House leader, carried Esquimalt. The only Labor candidate to be elected was Thomas Uphill in Fernie.

GIRL'S DEATH TO BE PROBED

Inquest Ordered into Sudden Passing of Welland Child

POST-MORTEM HELD

WELLAND, Ont., July 19. Canadian Press. — An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Davis into the death of Pauline Raymo, aged 14, who died yesterday an hour after being admitted to a local hospital under circumstances deemed by the coroner as suspicious. The death is said to have been due to septic poisoning. A post mortem examination has also been ordered.

ANOTHER LINK SEVERED

The last of the livery stables in Peterborough has disappeared. The passing of A. Rae, Chambers street from this business leaves the citizens with no place to get a buggy for a Sunday's outing that the older people of the city can remember with pleasure and recall many a drive that will linger long in their hearts as some of the best times in their lives.

The time before the motor car and the age when the motor was in its infancy was perhaps more romantic to the young couple than this mechanical age when all is hurry and long trips to dances constitute the idea of a good time rather than a quiet moonlight drive behind old "Dobbin", perhaps with the reins hanging carelessly over the dashboard of the buggy. The horse never took the ditch and always could find his way home.

Some of the old timers tell stories of the age before prohibition when after a party with the rest of the boys they drove home when some were hardly capable of walking to the buggy. However the old faithful horse would wander placidly home.

He would always find the way and on arriving would walk calmly into the stable and wait patiently for his master to recover himself sufficiently to unharness him and go to bed. Often the owner was fast asleep and would remain in the buggy all night or at least until the knowing wife, thinking the hour was growing late, would look into the stable and find him.

But now they say that the motor car has changed all this and instead of ending in the stable they end up in the ditch or kill someone with their fast driving and perhaps a wife would now be more inclined to look for her inebriated hubby in jail or in the morgue.

R. J. Wolstenholme, a former liveryman, told The Examiner that Sunday was a great day for buggies. That was in the day when one could hire a horse and buggy from one to three dollars a day for reasonable trips and five dollars for long trips such as to Lindsay.

Fine For Courting.

"The proud youth would hire a horse and carriage, then call for his sweetheart and probably drive up and down George most of the afternoon displaying his advantage and good fortune over the more humble and less fortunate ones of the age who were probably promenading up and down the main street in their best clothes to meet their friends.

Families would call at the stables and hire a team or if the family was large enough even a bus, according to Mr. Wolstenholme, and after a drive up the main street would seek some shady spot near the water where mother, who never had anything to do, would take out the baskets, spread the cloth, set the table and prepare the lunch that had taken an hour or so to make up before they started, while she was trying to get the youngsters ready and dad was fussing because he could not find his pipe and because of the loss of this pipe the whole day was spoiled.

At the picnic grounds the children would become covered with burrs or fall into the stream and mother would have to fix them up while father would scold them heartily then grumble because the lunch had to wait.

After cleaning up after the lunch and packing the dishes, getting the children rounded up and in the carriage mother would be ready to go home while dad was smoking his pipe that he had found in his coat pocket.

The trip home behind the two horses left a memory always held dear to the hearts of all. Jogging along in the cool evening air they would all sing the old songs until the kiddies fell asleep one by one, which left mother and father alone to talk of the days that had gone past when they were truly all alone in a buggy many moonlight nights long ago. The old people always seem to treasure these memories which are dear to their hearts.

All this is changed with the motor car and now the picnic is spent at hotels where, after a few hours over dusty roads and through a maise of traffic, a very formal hour is spent at luncheon. Afterwards the family returns home as fast as it came not thinking of the past days which are not held so dear to the modern heart as with the older generation.

The Liveryman's Harvest.

Circus days and holidays used to be the harvest of the livery man when every available carriage and horse in the place would be called into use.

Bus work was another great item. Ball teams instead of travelling by motor would take a number of busses and after a merry ride would arrive to play their game and then return in the small hours of the morning, all tired and happy. The Good Templars, a lodge in the city at that time, quite frequently would make trips to different parts around to spend the day. Many trips were made up the lakes and surrounding ing beauty spots of the city. On Friday, July 13, 1906, there were two bus loads from George street church choirs who went to Chemong for a very enjoyable day, according to The Examiner files of that date.

Chemong Favorite Place.

The favorite day trips for the older folks as well as evening trips for the younger ones used to be from here to Lakefield or Chemong and back. Some made the trip in twenty to thirty minutes while others took much longer. There were fast drivers in those days as well as now who were not satisfied unless they were travelling the limit, said Mr. Wolstenholme. There was also reckless driving. There is on record where a young man who was leaving Jackson Park after one of the evening's entertainment there drove his horse madly through the crowd. He was arrested and made an example of before the crowd. The officer threatened to take away his fair lady, as the account goes, unless he improved his horsemanship.

At times the livery men used to have trouble among themselves sometimes getting their horses mixed up. er residents of the city. It reads: er recalls the Old Chemong Hotel that will be remembered by the older residents of the city. I reads: "The hostler at Chemong park Hotel last night made a peculiar mistake in disposing of the horses under his charge for the afternoon. He sent one gentleman who resides on Dalhousie street away with a steed belonging to Dr. Robinson while the liveryman's horse went to the other address. The first party did not recognize the mistake but the other party saw it before he left the hotel. The mistake was rectified when he arrived in the city."

Reckless Driving.

These days were also troublesome for the motorist, who was just making his appearance. Ozias de LaPlante was charged with driving up the main street at the furious pace of thirteen to fifteen miles per hour, breaking the speed limit of ten miles. Witness declared that he was not travelling over the limit. He was let off with a warning but the magistrate and officer testified that the car was making enough noise to be travelling faster.

At this time when Peterborough is in the midst of numerous traffic regulations it is interesting to find from some of the older residents and from The Examiner of 1907 what traffic questions arose then. The Examiner says: "Although the carters shelter at the corner of George and Charlotte streets has been completed there is no sign of the carters using it. They still linger around the streets to discuss politics. Farmers' democrats, livery busses and old sleighs are stored here but the draymen persist in staying on the streets, much to the annoyance of the merchants who receive numerous telephone calls to find out if a certain dray was standing outside the store door. The police commission has been asked to interfere."

The passing of the livery stable also brings to memory many other incidents connected with the city life and horses. Once in 1908 the hose wagon of the Peterborough Fire Department met with an accident when a new horse that was being tried out took fright at a street car and ran away. This recalls the day of the dashing fire horse and clanging bell in contrast to the roar of a motor car and screeching siren. On September 27, 1907, two new fire wagons were purchased and a new set of hanging harness was installed to bring the equipment up to the minute. The old hitching posts all have disappeared and the old horse trough that was situated at the Charlotte street bridge has gone. This used to be the cause of many arguments among the fathers in the years of 1906 and 1907.

Autos Ridiculed.

How the driver of the horse and buggy would laugh with true merriment at a stranded automobile. A headline in an old paper reads: "Horse Comes to Auto's Rescue. Frank McPherson's car broke down on the way home from Lakefield and so it will be seen in spite of the triumph of quick transit by means of electric and gasoline power that the good old horse is truly in the lead. The car was towed to the city behind a horse."

A big event in the history of Peterborough's transportation was the coming of the Chemong Bus. A charter was granted in June 25, 1906, to incorporate the Chemong Motor Car Company with a capital of $5,000. The big bus that was the first to sound the knell of horse transportation arrived in the city on July 12th from Buffalo with a chauffeur to take charge of it. The trial trip was successful and a regular schedule was begun making Chemong in three quarters of an hour, a reckless speed.

Many Liveries.

One could go on for pages mentioning the various incidents that have passed with the last livery stable and the memories they call back but it is interesting to think of the changes in the location of the old places of business. James Alley for a long time was in business at 282 Brock street where the Manning garage now is. Mr. Mosley was back of the old Snowden House, now the Charibond Apartments where Cooney and Jopling have their property. Dr. F. L. Robinson had a stable that had entrances on Aylmer and Charlotte streets. First it gave way to the Empire theatre, now to McBride and Frank's furniture store, while the one on Aylmer street side finally was taken by Reid and Sons, Studebaker dealers. Jones Brothers had a good situation on Hunter street but this now is occupied by one of the greatest rivals of the horse in transportation, the motor bus. Peterborough's Bus headquarters now are here.

Robert J. Wolstenholme had his stables on Charlotte street which gave way to Dinsdale's Lumber Yards. Bob Gibbs was on Water street where Harold Gibbs now runs a successful taxi business, the success ser to the cab and hack. Bob Leary was near him, where Andrew Brown sells motor cars now.

E. A. Stinson had his stables on Chambers street, where The Examiner trucks are now kept. Dr. T. Johnson, V.S., was also located there.

All these have given way to the mechanical age and the desire for fast transportation, just as the trolley car, supplanted the old horse car. The old stable that was the rendesvous and club house of many of the boys of yesterday has disappeared. All the curb stones to help the fair ladies out of the high carriages and the hitching posts that used to keep frisky horses safe are also only memories. Ambulances, hearses and fire brigades all have answered the call for speed. The old church sheds that used to house buggies and horses while their owners were at church or gossipping with their neighbors after the service are vacant and the motor cars stand patiently outside at the curb.

So the age of progress has passed another step and the motor car reigns supreme. Horses are no longer afraid of automobiles and the people to-day never think of taking a horse for an afternoon's outing. They are a thing of the past.

SOBRIETY WAS FEATURE 12TH

NO "DRUNKS"

One of the outstanding features about the recent Orange celebration—the first in Peterborough since the Liquor Control Act came into force—was the orderly conduct of the large crowds and the absence of drunkenness. In other countries, "The Twelfth" is an excuse for indulging in liquor, but here in Peterborough it must be said that all the visitors and the local lodge members acted like perfect gentlemen.

In fact, not a single intoxicated person was seen by Examiner reporters that day, and not one case came before the magistrate. "It is a sign," one man told The Examiner, "that freedom is not being construed as license and that, after all, men are pretty decent so long as they are treated decently."

Surprisingly few, too were the traffic accidents and those who had predicted "a hot time in town," because of the presence here of a Government Liquor Store, were proved false prophets.

OUTLAWS CLIMB TO SECOND PLACE

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 19. — Winning against the Mill last night puts the Outlaws on a par with St. Andrew's for second place in the Town League. With only three more games to be played before the schedule is played out, it is not likely that there will be any drastic changes in the standing of the teams as they are at present. Each team has an opportunity of adding one more win or one more loss to their total before the finals are reached. Much will depend on the games of next Tuesday and Thursday.

Last night the Outlaws went to bat first and after allowing the Mill one run in the first ninings, forged into the lead in the second and continued to widen the margin till the final score of 13-8 was reached after a full nine-innings game had been played. Sarginson's home run for the Outlaws in the third and Maybee's in the fourth were the high lights of the game. For the first time this season there was considerable argument among the players and the referee threatened to rule out certain players for misconduct on the field. Whether or not he will take this action is not yet definitely known.

The teams:

Outlaws — D. Maybee, p; L. Bush, c; T. B. Hopkins, 1b; H. Lambert, 2b; C. Haig, 3b; E. Bush, ss; S. Flint, cf; O. Sarginson, rf; F. Ingram, lf.

Mill — V. Cochrane, p; E. Wilkes, c; M. Booth, 1b; W. Reynolds, 2b; W. Blake, b; F. Blake, ss; C. Montgomery, cf; J. H. Bell, rf; F. Beaudoin, lf.

By innings:

Outlaws	023600002	13	19 6

Umpires—Farrell, ball; Bland, base.

SOLDIERS MAY GET INSURANCE

Legion President Has Particulars of Scheme for Returned Men.

President J. Abraham of the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion, has received notice of a change in the Returned Soldiers' Insurance provisions, from the department of Pensions and National Health, so that the following conditions are put into effect:

Under the provisions of an amendment to the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, any honorably discharged returned soldier, sailor or nursing sister may apply for life insurance in amounts from $500 to $5,000. In most cases medical examination is not required.

Former members of the Imperial forces, or the forces of His Majesty's Allies, or associated powers, who were domiciled and resident in Canada at the outbreak of the war are also eligible to apply for insurance under the Act.

Full information, together with booklets and application forms may be obtained from any branch of the Veterans' organizations, local offices of the Department of Pensions and National Health, or from Capt. Abraham.

CENTURY OF SMOKES.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., July 19.—Nancy Blacksquirrel Miller, 115-year-old Seneca Indian, now comes forward to offer her prescription for health and long life. She attributes her extended stay on this earth to the moderate use of tobacco. Born in 1912, Nancy began smoking about the time she was able to walk. Despite her age, she still does all her own work, goes to the reservation for supplies and nurses her 77-year-old daughter.

"We Had Lost our Way—"

"We were paddling home late, when a squall came up, and we completely lost our way in the pitch darkness.

"We could not see the waves, and our canoe was half-full of water, when old Brown passed by in his power boat and spotted us with the beam of his EVEREADY Flashlight. The long range of his light certainly saved our lives. . . ."

ed that the prisoner "had commenced to talk." Zertuche refused to broaden his statement, and as the prisoner himself was held in communicado, it was not known what form his "talk" had taken.

Yesterday afternoon Emilio Casado, proprietor of the restaurant at San Angel, where Obregon was killed, and 12 employees of that place were arrested by police and held for investigation. Officers, however, did not explain a possible connection with the assassination.

Punish All Guilty.

There was little question but that most vigorous efforts to bring about the punishment of those guilty were being made. Various political and non-political organizations and persons prominent in Mexican public life have made representations to the government, demanding prompt punishment in the matter. The President's action late last night in removing existing police officials and appointing new ones ostensibly in Obregon affairs was regarded as his answer to their demands.

There was a time yesterday afternoon and last night when most anything might have happened. Supporters of Obregon in their anger at their chief's murder made gestures which might have resulted in harm to those unfriendly to the dead General. Enemies of Obregon, sensing the situation, immediately went into hiding and took other precautions as to their safety. The government itself aided in averting trouble with the use of military to guard the homes and persons of many of these. Luis Morenes, secretary of labor, and an avowed opponent of Obregon, was among those thus guarded. The result was that comparative quiet was maintained over the entire nation.

Government censorship of news despatches was still in force.

Butter and Eggs

TORONTO July 19.—Produce prices remained steady yesterday on the local wholesale market. No changes in quotations were announced at the close of the session and the undertone remained steady.

The butter market was active and unchanged. Local supplies of number one creamery solids pasteurized are about cleaned up while dealers are finding it hard to interest buyers in number two butter.

From all provinces reports state production of eggs continues to decrease. At some centres values are higher and at others are reported steady. Extracts are becoming scarcer in the receipts and it is likely there will be a further advance in this grade as the season advances. The demand for seconds is good. One Ontario country shipper reports having sold seconds at 26¾ f. o. b. point of shipment in used shell cases free. This, no doubt, is the result of the higher import duty on frozen eggs from foreign countries.

VERY MUCH MARRIED?

BUFFALO, July 19.—Joseph Conway, or Kennaway or Connoway, is either a much abused or a very much married man. Six wives in three States have notified police here that his description tallies with that of their missing mate. The man had been under observation in City Hospital and recently was committed to the State Hospital.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

JUST as a kind of addenda to yesterday's item on the worth of a woman and her place inthe world, I wish to add a few words that I hope will reach the eyes of some of the superior Peterborough male persons. There will be no argument in the few sentences I will write—just plain statements which I leave to my men readers to refute if they can. Every woman knows they are true.

• • •

First, I wish to state that all through a man's life his way is smoothed by women. From the day he is born until the day he dies, they coddle and pet him. They nurse him when he is sick, and pamper him when he is well. They shout with glee over his petty victories and they soothe his pride when he gets a well-deserved licking.

• • •

At home and in business they lift everything off his shoulders but the padding. They are his civilizing influence, his incitement to refinement, his salvation. They tell him he is the most wonderful man in the world— and don't snicker as they say it.

• • •

But how are we to make the men realize all this? How are we to let them find out for themselves (it's no use telling them) how good we are and how far from being mere hangers-on?

• • •

There's one solution that recommends itself to me. Every once in a while a man gets the idea he wants to play truant. He wants to get into his oldest clothes (the more ragged the better, apparently) and go fishing or hunting. Let him go! Let him get damp and cold, and come back at night to make his own fire and stew his own tea (which can never taste like yours). Let him burn his hands and scorch his bacon, sew on buttons and find that flannel shirt he knew where he left.

• • •

He may enjoy it while he is there, but he will surely appreciate the comforts you make for him when he returns. If he doesn't show appreciation, he will at least realize that women are a little help in the world!

• • •

The woman who has heard that a new silhouette was to become fashionable, and who has thought that she could indulge her taste for eclairs and white potatoes again, must be disappointed. There is a new silhouette of fashion. But it doesn't camouflage unwanted pounds any better than the passing silhouette did. If you are interested in keeping your weight down to normal, send for this week's help—a height-weight chart, according to age. The free coupon is on this page.

• • •

"Constance" writes me: Can we do, if we think so? With a good motive every grain of wit seems set free to seize every help and avoid every hindrance. Who said: 'You were wise to say extremity was the trier of spirits.' When the sea was calm all boats alike shewed mastership in floating.

• • •

It is indeed true that it takes adversity to bring out the strength of a woman, Constance. Perhaps it does not make her more strong, but it uncovers hidden reserves. And rough seas give the master mariner the opportunity to demonstrate his skill.

• • •

"Mrs. B." sends this hint to readers of the Whatnot: Perhaps all 'new' housekeepers do not know that if used cake pans, pudding dishes, etc., are turned upside down in hot water for a few minutes the steam will loosen particles so that the dishes can be washed easily.

• • •

When, a few days ago, I lost one glove of a practically new pair, I surely wished we had in Peterborough the business that has grown up in England, where single gloves are sold to match the one left.

• • •

It reminds me of a story of a man who dropped a glove as he was stepping into a train. As the train pulled out, he realized his loss and quickly threw the remaining glove out of the window. To a staring seatmate he explained that one was of no use to him, and somebody might as well benefit by having the pair.

• • •

That's the situation here, too, but in London such an action would be not only eccentric but downright extravagant.

• • •

A splendid-looking, but rather dressy, sport outfit was seen at South Beach on Sunday. Printed pique shoes matched printed pique cardigan, with a white pique frock and rough straw hat. Why not finish the matching by having a stitched pique hat?

• • •

A very useful model in pale pink organdie, seen at a local resort last week, achieved afternoon and evening service in one. On a sleeveless bolero and on the skirt floral designs were traced in yellow, lavender and green silk. But the bolero could be slipped off, leaving an evening dress with tight bodice and lingerie straps.

• • •

Mrs. Frank Bowers and Miss Mildred McCall of Windsor who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCall of Douro and Mr. and Mrs A. McCall of Bolivar street are returning home tomorrow.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy of Woodbine avenue have returned from an extended visit with friends in Waubashene, Midland, Penetanguishene and Victoria Harbor. On their return, they visited the Shrine of the Canadian Martyrs at Port Ste. Marie and made a motorboat cruise through the islands of Georgian Bay.

• • •

Mrs. G. H. Thompson was hostess at the luncheon held at the Golf Links on Tuesday, when Orillia ladies were in the city for games with local players. The prize for bridge was won by Mrs. Harold Cook.

• • •

Mr. P. Kendall, who has been visiting friends in Douro and the city, returns to his home in Windsor, tomorrow.

• • •

Miss Clara Raddon of Waterford, Ontario, and Miss Bessie MacNaughton, R.N. were week-end guests of Miss Vida MacNaughton of Otonabee.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herbison of Cleveland, Ohio, are spending a short vacation with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Campbell, McDonell street.

• • •

Master Jack Smith is holidaying at Camp Skookum.

• • •

Master P. J. Angelsey of 219 Lake street is celebrating a birthday today.

• • •

Mr. W. A. Logan is in London, Ontario attending the seventy-third annual conclave of the Grand Lodge of Masonry of Canada in Ontario.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Norton Porter of Norwoodo and the Misses McAlpine and T. C. Robson of Toronto were recent guests at the home of Mr. Donald MacNaughton, Maple Leaf Farm Otonabee.

• • •

Mr. W. W. Yale, agent Canadian National Railways in Lakefield, has returned from a holiday spent in Montreal and Quebec. He was accompanied by his sister, Mrs. H. B. Jackson of 556 Chamberlain street. While in Quebec, they took the Saguenay trip, meeting on the same boat Mr. Marks and Mr. Driscoll of Peterborough.

• • •

"Dear Marion: I would like to take advantage of your free "Potpourri" recipe. It will certainly be nice to capture the perfume of roses, etc., for the winter months. With all kind wishes for your continued success in your bright and interesting page.

The recipe has been sent you, Mrs. M.B., and I surely appreciate your kind wishes. Every week since I started the column I find more readers coming to my help with suggestions. It is very encouraging.

No. 5.

A factor in the game of creating interest in a member of the supposedly stronger sex is sympathetic understanding. There is nothing more insidious in all of the bag of tricks possessed by a clever female than this attribute. With it, even the homeliest of her sex can wreak devastation in the heart of a handsome man, as long as she has a capable mind behind her plain visage.

A man will never think that he is undeserving of feminine devotion and comprehension. He may have a fleeting impulse to tell the adoring lady that she puts him on too flattering a height, but, beneath it all, his mind will accept as truthful the conviction that she sees in him something that is visible to no one else, and, realizing this will he not turn gradually but surely to the one who is able to comprehend the nobler inner man in him. He may know that he will never be able to measure up to her opinion of him but that thought will not prevent him from having a sneaking feeling that she is quite right in her estimate and that he really is a wonderful being.

Miss D. P.—Is it proper for a bride groom to wear a full dress outfit if his bride does not wear a veil at an afternoon wedding? B.B.

Yes, he may wear formal day clothes —cutaway coat and dark striped trousers—even if the bride does not wear a veil.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The bag shown above is of white moire ornamented with a band of tapestry which on one side forms a finger strap by which the bag is held. The rose-colored faille bag just below this is trimmed with petit point in pastel shades. The envelope bag at the right is of embroidered printed crepe de chine. The envelope bag below at the left is of white linen embroidered in green dots and the pouch bag below at the right is of gros point in Oriental colors.

There is never an occasion when you may not correctly carry a handbag. The question is to choose one that is appropriate. Once, I recall, a woman would have been considered lacking in good taste if she carried a handbag to a wedding—and some women felt that it was hardly suitable to carry a purse to church. Now one must have many bags so that there is always perfect fitness. In Paris at present it is considered especially important to have the bag subordinate to the rest of the costume. If the frock is of rather conspicuous color then the bag is chosen to match the neutral shade of the gloves or stockings.

The white moire bag shown in the sketch would be appropriate with a white afternoon frock, certainly not to carry with a dark street frock. The cream-colored faille might be chosen for afternoon or informal evening wear with a cream-colored frock. The gros point bag in Oriental colors is the sort of bag that may be carried with various summer frocks because the Oriental colors of the embroidery are soft and blend with almost any color. The white linen envelope embroidered in green dots is a purse one would carry only a few times and then with a white and green ensemble, preferably one showing the polka dot motive elsewhere.

Owing to the demand for inconspicuous bags in Paris there are many in neutral shades to be found among recent imports. I saw a pouch bag in grege linen recently, with mountings of light, natural-toned leather. Natural-colored chamois bags are decidedly smart and so are those in natural-colored pigskin.

Size as well as color should be governed by the requirements of one's frock and the occasion when the bag is to be carried. Large bags are well enough when you are on a business errand or shopping and need space for small note book and small packages, but the large bag is out of place with the more festive afternoon frock. When you do see a woman with a large, highly ornate bag you always fall to wondering what it contains.

Someone told me of a new leather bag, shaped like a shoe—very tricky but somehow not the sort of thing that the woman of good taste would choose.

GOOD PLAN FIRST NEED IN GOOD ARCHITECTURE.

Architects, judging between qualities of different small houses, may select one which they say is superior to others. When they are asked to state what they found in this house that is superior, they reply that the plan, the section, the appearance, and the economies worked out in the construction add such a quality as to make it better.

First, the plan. It is natural for the architect to think of the plan first because this is the basis from which all his designs must rise. If a house has not a good plan, in spite of any other qualities it may have, it is not a good house.

One of the problems of small house design, or any other kind of architectural design for that matter, is the section. By thise we mean the relation of the parts to each other vertically. What the architect tries to do with a small house is to keep it from looking too high. The matter of proportion is involved. Consequently the architect uses every artifice at his command to overcome the appearance of height. The section is adjusted.

With the plan and section fixed, appearance comes along naturally. If it is not fine, then the architect tries again. He does not take what he has worked out, thinking of it as being inevitable, and then add as much trick ornamentation to the outside to improve the appearance.

Little houses—in fact any kind of building, no matter what its size—must depend on their proportions for real architecture. Little bits of graceful ornamentation that we may add after these greater things are devised are like the grace notes in a piece of music. The tune is made up of the big things. The ornaments simply enhance its fine qualities.

The third goal of the architect who designs a small house is the achievement of economy. By economy we mean a great many things—conserving space in the plan, also in the section. We mean too economy of construction—sound construction, something that will not fall down. A needlessly complicated type of construction is not good architecture. Almost every small home builder is faced with the necessity of avoiding extra costs, useless expense. One of the things that an architect does for him in this connection is to organize the construction so that there will be no waste.—Copyright 1928. The Architects' Small House Service Bureau.

CHAPTER XIX

PLANS

Seven or eight thousand pounds! She had not dreamed that there was so much tangible money in the world. She thought of Paris, Rome, Naples, all the places which she and Gaunt had planned to visit together, and for a moment she winced as if in unbearable pain. Then she pulled herself together. She would weep for him no more. She would not give him the satisfaction of knowing her broken-hearted. She would go out into the world which had hitherto been closed to he and he would laugh and enjoy herself.

She would buy beautiful clothes and make friends. She would not wear her heart on her sleeve. Seven or eight thousand pounds. Car fully invested, that would bring in—how much? She did not care. She did not want it carefully invested. She would spend it on all the things she had always longed for, and never possessed. She would Live, with a capital letter. She would show Gaunt that she could fill a place in the social world as well as Lady Edith or any of her friends. Her tear-swollen eyes flashed, and her cheeks blazed with fierce excitement.

Money was a power in the world, there were veryfew things which money could not buy. Ah, but there was one!

Her wan face fell into haggard lines as she remembered that here in this very room only a few hours ago she had been held in Gaunt's arms. No money could buy her back that happiness—not all the money in the world—and suddenly she was down on her knees rocking herself to and fro, her face buried in her hands, sobbing, sobbing, sobbing!

* * *

Jennifer gathered her cloak more closely around her, thanked the sleepy night porter who had brought her up in the lift to her flat, and went slowly along the silent passage.

It was half-past four in the morning, an April morning, and when a few moments ago she stood in the street saying good night—or should it have been good morning?—to Malcolm Chesney, the rising sun had peered mistily down at her through the grey dawn.

Jennifer locked her door and switched on the light in her bedroom. A fire was burning cosily, and the air was heavy with the fragrance of Parma violets which Chesney had sent her in an oval gilt basket the day before.

She threw her cloak across the bed, and drawing up a chair sat down by the fire, her bare arms folded behind her head. She had been dancing all night, but she was only pleasantly tired, and the rhythm of the last tune to which she and Chesney had fox-trotted was still running through her head with its cheery, doggerel verse:

"I want to be happy, but I won't be happy
Till I make you happy too.
Life's really worth living when we are mirth giving,
Why can't I give some to you?
When skies are grey and you say you are blue,
I'll send you the sun smiling through.
Till I make you happy too."

Foolish words, and yet they seemed strangely symbolical of the life she had led for the past eighteen months trying in vain to be happy since she parted from Nicholas Gaunt.

Only eighteen months!

When one looked back it seemed as if years had passed since the night Gaunt walked out of her little flat in the Notting Hill backwater, years since that Monday morning when she told Mr. Gurney that she wished to leave his employ.

She could still remember his startled look of pain, and hear the apprehension in his quick question—

"You are going to be married?"

"Married? Oh no," she had almost laughed. "I am not going to be married, but an uncle has died and left me some money, so I thought . . . I thought I would like to take a long holiday and see something of the world."

He had regarded her for a moment with grave eyes, then he said: "I don't wish to be inquisitive, but may I ask—is it a great deal of money, Miss Fry?"

She told him unhesitatingly.

"I think about seven or eight thousand pounds."

"It would bring you in a nice little income carefully invested.

"I know, but I am not going to invest it," Jennifer answered quietly. "I can always earn my own living, and I already have a little money which my mother left me. I am going to spend something now on having a good time."

Mr. Gurney sat silent for a moment, slowly drawing queer little lines on the blotting-pad before him, then he looked up and smiled.

"I see. Well, I hope you will enjoy yourself and find happiness, Miss Fry. Let me know if ever there is anything I can do for you—any help or advice you may need. I shall be only too glad, and, of course, you can always come back to your old post if you feel you would care to do so."

"Thank you. Thank you very much."

But she often thought of those words of his—"I hope you will find happiness, Miss Fry. . . ."

For she had not found happiness, and the eighteen months that had passed had seemed a lifetime. Her first step had been to leave the little home in Notting Hill and take a furnished flat off Baker Street, an expensive flat handsomely furnished, and there she had lived since with a daily maid to look after her and share the queer life into which she had slowly been drawn.

The first friend she made was a woman, a strange-looking woman who played the violin like an angel, and who dyed her hair a color the like of which never was on sea or land, and who lived in the flat immediately above Jennifer's, with a tabby cat (whom she called Nicodemus, because she had found him as a tiny kitten high up a tree) and Buddy.

Buddy was an ultra-modern flapper with the smoothest of shingled heads and a body like that of a slender boy.

Jennifer made the acquaintance of this curious trio one evening when Dolores Vasher, the violinist, had come knocking at her door to borrow some milk for the cat.

Dolores had said without preamble—

"I've no milk for Nicodemus. I adore him, but I often forget his milk. Will you be a good Samaritan and lend me some?"

And when Jennifer had asked her to come in she had gone on being confidential.

"My name's Dolores Vasher—you may have heard it. I play th fiddle and I live upstairs with Nicodemus and Buddy: Nicodemus is a cat."

"And what is Buddy?" Jennifer asked, laughing.

Dolores shrugged her thin shoulders. "Oh, she' just Buddy. Come up and see her."

LYRICS OF LIFE

AND I.

And I? It's rather odd, the way
That I find fault with others en,
Discuss my neighbors day by day,
Describe their failures now and then.
For one is rather sharp in trade,
I do not like another's tie.
Yes, many errors men have made—
And I?

I do not like some woman's taste,
And call attention to her dress;
Yes, many matters, in my haste,
I disapprove of, more or less.
It isn't hard some fault to find
In nearly every passerby;
Some are not wise, some are not kind—
And I?

And there are things one speaks about
With solemn looks and accents low,
The things I don't dare come right out
And—well, and really say they're so.
Some used dishonesty to win,
And some are even known to lie,
And others have been known to sin—
And I?

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE JOKE ABOUT MARRIED LIFE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
Author, The Springs of Human Action

Jokes on married life seem to be extremely popular. They make a hit everywhere, on the stage, in the movies, in the comics, and in real life.

This is an illustration of a fundamental psychological law in human nature. We laugh and joke and make light of the most serious situations in life. Cleopatra about to cause her own death by the bite of a deadly serpent laughs and jokes with the snake, calling him pet names. The guillotine, the hangman's rope, the implements of torture have always gone under some ludicrous name.

To laugh at death and joke of serious matters is a form of defense, of keeping up one's courage. It is sour grapes psychology by which the individual is trying to convince himself that the situation is not so serious after all, that the loss is quite trivial.

This psychological principle as applied to married life simply means that everyone finds it a lot more serious than he had anticipated and without in the least regretting the act he yet has sufficient reminders of the seriousness of the marriage state to make him appreciate the homely truth buried in the joke.

Marriage is a delicate subject and any criticism must be made with a great deal of wit and good humor to avoid giving offence. Exaggeration and burlesque attain the end more effectively than direct denunciation. Married life comics make a great hit despite the exaggeration because they do contain a great deal of truth, chiefly by way of illustrating the fact that all married people must give up a certain amount of freedom and independence.

And in case of the ideal marriage the joke on married life is appreciated as a form of teasing. But whether in simple good natured humor or as a defense mechanism in which one makes light of a serious disappointment the joke on marriage is appreciated by all.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1928.

Benefic aspects dominate today, according to astrology, which notes that certain adverse influences also are strong.

This is a day for pushing business and for winding up financial matters, especially those involving the payment of debts.

Merchants and manufacturers will profit greatly and even unexpectedly through the summer.

Profit for builders and contractors is forecast and structures of immense size will engage chief attention.

Sudden, or at least speedy wealth is to come to many before the end of the year, the seers prophesy, owing to the demand for commodities not in common use.

As 1928 closes there will be startling or sensational events that prove how little foresight is enjoyed by the average man and woman, astrologers announce.

This is not an auspicious sway under which to buy land or to engage in any speculative enterprise.

It is a most unfavorable rule for those who take fliers in stocks. All should beware of tips on a market that is likely to be exceedingly changeable.

Those who read the stars for political guidance declare that the rule threatens last moment disappointments in November.

Dentists are subject to a sway making for large profits and an extraordinary amount of work.

Climatic conditions in many parts of the country will encourage toothache and neuralgia, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have a prosperous year. They may gain through contracts and advertising.

Children born on this day are likely to be logical and analytical. Many scientists are born under this sign.

EX-PREMIER DIES.

Former Premier Giolitti, died on Tuesday after a long illness. Giovanni Giolitti, the "wise old fox" of Italy has been five times premier of Italy.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON FRIDAY

Tomorrow morning, upon arising, take the same exercises that you have been using.

(Be sure to save each day's paper, as space will not permit me to repeat the instructions which I am giving you.)

Breakfast: Poached Egg in Milk on Shredded Wheat.
Small dish of stewed dried Figs.

During the morning, take your usual walk of at least two miles.

Lunch: One or two apples with
One ounce of pecan or almond nuts.

Be sure to take your walk again in the afternoon. After returning, take the usual exercises, adding this new one:

Lying on Back: Extend arms on floor at right angles to body—palms pointing downward—keep the arms and shoulders in this position and bring the right foot over and touch the left hand—twisting the body and bending the knee as much as necessary to do so. Return to original position and repeat with left foot—touching right hand.

If, for any reason, these exercises cannot be taken in the afternoon, you may take them just before retiring. Be sure to take your cold shower bath after exercising, also your enema of two quarts of plain warm water.

Dinner: One-fourth pound of Salisbury Steak,
Dish of cooked Spinach,
Sliced Tomatoes.

I am giving you the folloiwng recipes, which will not appear again:

Stewed Dried Figs: Wash the figs well and soak over night, with enough water to cover them. Cook slowly in the same water until well done, which will take about ten minutes. Do not add any sugar to the figs.

Poached Egg in Milk: To four ounces of milk, add one egg. Pour in a dry frying pan and cook over a slow fire. Bring milk up over the yolk of the egg with a spoon so that it will cook as quickly as the white. Sometimes you will find it advantageous, after the cooking has continued for two or three minutes, to hold the frying pan under a broiler, so that the egg and milk will cook on top as much as on the bottom. This may be served poured over Shredded Wheat or Melba Toast, and seasoned with butter and a little salt may be added, if desired.

Remember, to take your walks and exercises regularly, as this is a very important part of your reducing regime. You will find that physical culture exercises, systematically taken, do not enervate the body, but, instead, assist in building up energy, and produces very beneficial results.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Bed-time Story

WHAT UNCLE WIGGILY FORGOT.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"This is lovely and cool," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she sat in the shade of a tree sipping the cabbageade which Uncle Wiggily had made for his family.

"It's just like a party," said Baby Bunty with a laugh. For the little orphan rabbit had hopped along after the cabbageade was made and had been invited to stay. "It's got lots of ice in, too," went on Baby Bunty, rubbing her red tongue over her teeth to warm them, for the cabbageade was very cold.

When Uncle Wiggily made the summer drink for the little party at first he had no ice. Then along shuffled Mr. Whitewash, the Polar Bear, who showed Mr. Longears where a cake of ice was hidden in the rocks under the left castle of the puzzle picture.

Now while the bunnies and Mr. Whitewash and Nurse Jane were cooling themselves with iced cabbageade, along the road sneaked the Bob Cat and the Fox. They looked hungrily toward where Uncle Wiggily sat under a tree, but the bad chaps dared not go up and get him because they were afraid of big, shaggy Mr. Whitewash the Polar Bear.

"But I think I know a way to catch that rabbit," said the Fox.

"How?" asked the Bob Cat.

"He is very fond of parties, with cabbageade to drink and cake to eat," went on the Fox. "I'll give a party and invite Uncle Wiggily to come. Once he is there we can easily nibble him."

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Bob Cat, wobbling his silly tail.

"What's the matter?" the Fox wanted to know.

"As if Uncle Wiggily would come to any party to which you would invite him!" chuckled the Bob Cat. "Why, as soon as he got your invitation he would know, at once, what you were going to do and he would stay home."

"Ah, but he won't know it is my party," said the Fox. "That's where I'll fool him. I'll just send him an invitation without any name signed to it. I'll tell him to come to the old hollow tree on the hill to a lovely party, with good things to eat."

"Do you think he'll come?" asked the Bob Cat.

"Of course he'll come!" snickered the Fox.

So, a few days later, Uncle Wiggily received an invitation written on a piece of white birch bark. It said:

"Oh, joy! Somebody's giving a party!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, capering about on one leg. "I'm going!" and he began to put on his party clothes. But his wife asked:

"Whose party is it?"

"I don't know," answered Mr. Longears, laughing, "but it's a party and I love parties!" So without listening to his wife or Nurse Jane, who told him he had better be careful, the rabbit gentleman hopped off toward the old hollow tree. But on the way he met Mr. Twistytail the pig, who, when he heard where the bunny was going, grunted and said:

"Oh, I wouldn't go there! I saw the Fox and Bob Cat hanging around. It must be their party. Don't go! Besides, you've forgotten something you ought to have on."

"What have I forgotten?" asked Mr Longears.

"You forgot to put on your necktie," grunted the pig. "You could never go to even a Bob Cat's party without a necktie."

"That's right—I couldn't!" said Mr. Longears. "Well, it's a good thing I forgot it. Now I have an excuse for going back home. I'll go get my necktie."

So he quickly hopped back to his bungalow and didn't go to the Bad Chaps' party. And Mr. Longears felt so happy at forgetting his necktie that he drew a puzzle picture and showed it to Nurse Jane.

"What is wrong with my picture, Janie?" asked the bunny. But the muskrat lady didn't know. Can you tell?

RAILROADERS TAKE TWO FROM LOCAL NINE

PETES DROP BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE-HEADER WITH LEAGUE LEADERS AT BELLEVILLE PARK

Gerowmen Win First in Hollow Fashion, Hitting Hardill Hard and Often.

SECOND CLOSER

But Railroaders Have the Punch and Draw Away in Closing Frames.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes ascendancy over Belleville which had been asserted by winning three games from the league leaders disappeared yesterday when Walter Gerow's fast-going ball machine grabbed both ends of a double header that provided plenty of entertainment for a big crowd on the Belleville grounds. The Railroaders won the first game, pulled up, by 13 to 1, and while the second fixture was much more of a battle the Gerowmen eventually clouted their way through to a 7-3 victory.

In both games Belleville played like real leaders. Their fielding was clean cut and snappy, and their hitting timely and hard while they got magnificent pitching from Gibson and heaving from Utronki that, while not so hot was good enough to grab off the second clash. The Quinte gang played fine ball all afternoon and earned their double win and unless the whole outfit develops sleeping sickness they are about "in" for the play offs.

Jeff Hardill, who had three wins over Belleville to his credit had nothing with which to capture a fourth scalp yesterday. He hooked up with Gibson in the first bout and was hit hard and often while his support wobbled and Belleville counters came thick and fast. Hardill had little on the ball and his previous mastery over the Quinte batters was not in evidence. Mein had a bad day at short stop which did not help the Petes' gunner very much and the visitors were not in the hunt at any stage.

"Hoot" Gibson, the Belleville ace who has won eight out of nine starts this season twirled grand ball for the winners. He mixed his stuff nicely and up to the ninth inning had the Petes blanked with only three singles to their credit. In this frame Hap Wilgar stuck in a triple behind a single by Ash to avert a shut out.

Gibson had the benefit of great support. Weir and Blakely were of much help to him while the Belleville outfield covers lots of territory and against this fine twirling and good defensive work the Petes were handcuffed.

Despite his quartette of errors Mein had the feature fielding play in the third inning when he grabbed a hot liner from Peeney Mills' bat with his gloved hand for an unassisted double play. Alex Weir's running catch of Hardill's fly was another fine play.

Belleville started the scoring in the second. Green and W. Mills singled to right. Blakely forced Green on a rap to the box but Ross singled to centres to score W. Mills. Ross stole second. A. Weir fouled to Swanston, who made a nice catch of a high one. Gibson rolled to Harrison, who threw wide to first, Blakely and Ross scoring. Scott popped to Mein.

In the fourth the Railroaders added another. Blakely singled off Harrison's chest on a vicious bounder and stole second. Ross went out on strikes. A. Weir drew a pass. Gibson popped to Mein. Scott singled over second to score Blakely, but was out trying to go to second.

The leaders broke up the game in the sixth. Peeney Mills opened with a long triple to right. Blakely was thrown out by Swanston. Mills being held at third. Ross, however, singled to right to send the run in. A. Weir rolled to Mein, but with a double play in sight the shortstop fumbled. Gibson singled over second scoring Ross. He stole second and scored with A. Weir on Verne Weir's single to left, after Scott had rolled to Hardill. Mein's miss of H. Mills' roller sent Weir in with the fifth run. Green popped to Hardill.

With one out in the eighth Belleville came back with another pair. With one down Harry Mills doubled to right, went to third on a wide pitch, and scored on Green's single to left. W. Mills rolled to Hardill, but Blakely doubled to right to score Green. Ross flied to Wilgar.

The Petes had few scoring chances. Harrison opened the second with a single and moved over to third on a sacrifice bunt and a sacrifice fly, but Hardill fouled to Mills.

They averted a white wash in their final turn at bat. Ash started with a single to left and went to second on a wild pitch. Harrison struck out and Swanston flied to Green. Wilgar however, tripled down the right field foul line to score Ash, after which A. Weir made a fine running catch of Hardill's fly to short left.

SECOND GAME CLOSER.

The second game, a seven innings affair, was a much better battle, and the Petes until half way through looked as if they might pull out a win and break even on the day.

In this engagement Vinnie Utronki, with a large contingent of his Renfrew fellow-townsmen in the stands to watch him perform, was pitted against Angie Macdonald, the Petes' youthful southpaw. Utronki was not so effective as Gibson, and the Petes had him in hot water for some time, but his team mates gave him flawless support and finally batted out a victory for him.

Macdonald got none of the breaks in his clash with the right-hander from the Ottawa Valley League. It took a combination of a bad decision and an error to give Belleville their first counter, and they got a couple more when with Ross stealing second with a man on third Hagerman crossed the Petes up by hitting when they looked for him to take a strike to let Ross go down.

Some nice fielding marked the second battle. Weir made a great play on a drive by Rose and Turner made a long sprint to snare H. Mills' fly to short left.

The Petes took the lead in the third and had the game tied up in the fourth, but Belleville bunched hits in the next two frames to pull out their second win of the day.

There was no score in the first, but Belleville started the counting in the second frame. With one out Blakely singled past third and stole second. Johnston grabbed Ross's high one. Blakely stole third, or at least Umpire Colling said he did, and scored when Hall lost Hagerman's roller. Utronki fanned.

The Petes went into the lead in the first half of the third. With one out Johnston singled through short, and Turner doubled past third. Weir made a circus catch of Rose's good bid for a hit, but Ash was walked filling the bases and Harrison came through with a single to left to score Johnston and Turner. Swanston flied to Hagerman.

Belleville got that pair back in their half. V. Weir singled over third and was sacrificed to second by Scott going to third on a wild pitch. H. Mills walked and stole second. Green's sacrifice fly to Turner scored Weir, and H. Mills came home when brother Peeney singled over second. Blakely flied to Turner.

The Petes tied it up in the fourth. Wilgar walked, but was out stealing. Macdonald singled to left and Bert Hall to right, the pair advancing on a passed ball. Johnston's single back of second which Weir nearly got, scored Macdonald, but Turner fanned and Rose forced Johnston.

In their half the Railroaders again went to the front, this time to stay. Ross singled to right and Hagerman walked. Utronki doubled to right, scoring Ross. Weir's sacrifice fly to Rose scored Hagerman, but Utronki was doubled up trying to go to third after the catch. Scott singled to right, Rose grabbed H. Mills' smash to centre.

The Petes did nothing in the fifth, but Belleville made the game safe. Green walked. W. Mills flied to Harrison. Blakely bounced a hit off Harrison, but was forced by Ross, Harrison to Johnston. Hagerman tripled between Wilgar and Rose scoring Green and Ross. Johnston tossed out Utronki.

In the sixth Wilgar rolled to H. Mills. Macdonald singled past Weir, but Hall flied to Hagerman and Johnston forced Macdonald.

Weir led off for Belleville with a hit, but was stranded, while in the Petes' seventh Rose singled with one out and stole second, but Ash flied to centre and Harrison rolled to Blakely.

BETHANY BOYS LOSE FIXTURE TO RAYBESTOS

Winners Hit Ball Hard in Opening Frame Last Night.

SEVENTH WIN

Art Armstrong's Fast Ball Was Too Much for Visiting Team.

Raybestos hit the ball hard in the opening frame against Bethany last night and took their seventh win by the score of 7 to 4. The visitors gummed up a good start in their first, when with two on and nobody out, Russell hit a short fly with Reynolds stealing, for an easy double killing.

In the seventh, Bethany had on opening to get some runs and had three on with one out, but only one runner got home.

Art Armstrong's fast ball was supposed to be a favorite with Bethany, but the big youngster was too good. He had splendid control, and his team-mates gave him fine support at the bat, Scully and Moore having triples.

Four singles and Scully's triple which scored two, gave Raybestos four runs in the first, and two singles and Moore's triple made two more in the third. Their seventh tally came in the fifth on Maudsley's single, his stolen base and Rogers' hit.

Bethany scored in the second on passes to Johnston and Dawe and Lancashire's hit. They made it a battle by grabbing two more in the third on Reynolds' double, Rogers' error, Ryley's scratch hit to first, and Moore's error. With the bases loaded and two gone, Scully took Lancashire's short fly to stop Bethany, after which the visitors were held safe until the seventh, when they opened a rally with one out. Russell cut a single across second, and Staples doubled. Ryley walked, filling the bases. Russell scored on Johnston's sacrifice fly to Moore and Philp, after giving Armstrong a battle, missed the third one.

Cognawagas, who have been working out regularly since their defeat by Crescents last Monday night, go back at Raybestos tomorrow evening in an attempt to hold their short lead on second place. A defeat for the Cogs will mean a drop to third place. Friday's game is the replay of a tie score from the first half.

The signals must get badly battered by static when ball players persist in hitting at what are in many cases waste balls from the pitchers, with a runner stealing. Bethany spoiled a nice opportunity last night, but the Durhamites have no monopoly on this ivory play.

Scotty Maudsley patrolled first base for the Rays last night, and received a fine razzle from the Exhibition Park's Chief Rooter. Thus encouraged, the relief first-sacker went out and got two hits, two runs, and took ten out of eleven chances.

A Great Tournament

Seldom in the history of the Peterborough Bowling Club has there been such enthusiasm shown over the local tournament. This year under the management of President J. H. Sedgwick and an able tournament committee everything has run off smoothly and the visitors have returned home satisfied with the way they were used and declaring that they would come another year.

It looks as if the Raybestos team are going to take first place in the East Peterborough League this year. Last night they administered a defeat to the Bethany boys and made it their seventh win of the season.

Thirty-sixth Home Run

Babe Ruth's thirty-sixth home run of the season with Combs and Koenig on bases in the ninth enabled the Yankees to nose out the White Sox yesterday. Two were out when Ruth delivered.

RUTH'S HOMER HELPS YANKEES

King of the Swat Gets His Thirty-Sixth Home Run.

INDIANS WIN

NEW YORK, July 19 (Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth's thirty-sixth home run of the season, delivered with two out in the ninth and Combs and Koenig on base, enabled the Yankees to nose out the White Sox, 9 to 8, here yesterday in the opening game of the series. Chicago has yet to win a game at the Yankee Stadium this season.

The White Sox played a hard, uphill game, and seemed on the verge of winning until Ted Lyons got one where Ruth could hit it. Bib Falk tied the score for the visitors with a home run off Waite Hoyt with two on in the eighth. The Sox went into a two-run lead in their half of the ninth at the expense of Wilcy Moore, who became the winning pitcher when Ruth hit for the circuit.

Erratic support handicapped both Hoyt and Moore. Six Yankee errors gave the White Sox four of their eight runs.

Cleveland Beats Boston.

After losing five games in a row to the world champion Yankees, the Cleveland Indians took the first game of the series from Boston, six to five, in ten innings, at Boston. With two out in the 10th, Morris walked Morgan, who stole second, and came home on Summa's single to right, scoring what proved to be the winning run.

Athletics Win.

The Athletics made it three out of four from Detroit by taking the last game of the series, 5 to 1. Howard Ehmke tamed the last place Tigers with six hits, Gehringer scoring their lone run in the fourth by hitting a three-bagger and counting on a sacrifice fly. Bishop, Haas and Simmons led the attack on Sam Gibson. Ty Cobb retired from the game in the fifth inning after being hit on the left arm by a pitched ball.

Soccer League for Thursday. The De Laval team will be as follows: Fowler, Evans, Downer, Cross, Ward, Bromley, Watkins, Dyer, Jr., Dyer, Sr., Mitchell, Hanson. Reserves: Lindsay, Abraham and Pulley.

LEAFS LOSE TO BALTIMORE

SCORE 2 TO 1

TORONTO, July 19.—Toronto lost the first game of the five games series to Baltimore here this afternoon, 2 to 1. The Leafs were held tight by left handed Bolen, who allowed only five hits striking out seven. Toronto's one run was Alexander's eighteenth homer over right fence, with no one on.

They had their big chances in the eighth when after two were out Sheedy walked and Alexander singled and stole out Phillips, who has had two doubles could do no better on this occasion than bound to short. Baltimore's two runs were cheap ones made in the first innings.

With one out Clark was passed; Porter bounded to Alexander, but Lexerenz was painfully slow covering first and then dropped the ball which was too late anyway. Brower's hit to right and Onslow's infield hop scored two. Leverenz pitched good enough ball to win any game, but the hitting behind him was too light. Sheedy one, Alexander two, Phillips' two were all the Leaf safe hits.

About six hundred fans braved the threatening rain, which did sprinkle for a moment.

Chicago Man Comes To City By Bus Lines

George Trembeth, accountant for The Kraft Cheese company spent his vacation in Peterborough. This is the first time for a number of years that he has been in the city and was very much impressed with both Peterborough and the surrounding country. Mr. Trembeth who travelled the entire distance from Chicago to Peterborough by bus, declares that it was the only way to make a trip. A few years ago he travelled to the western coast by this means so decided to take the eastern route this year. While in the city he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. V. Hamilton, 90 Robinson street. The return trip to Chicago will also be made by motor bus routes.

Boat Swamps With Argonaut

AMSTERDAM, July 19. — Joe Wright and Jack Guest, taking a spin in the double scull over the Olympic course, were almost swamped when the patch on the crack in the shell gave way, and their boat nearly filled. They managed to negotiate the bank of the canal, when they asked some Dutch children to pull them in taking hold of the oars. The kids thought they were told to let go and ran away frightened. Guest then rowed the shell to a flat piece of shore half way down the course, and Joe caused the children much laughter by walking along the canal bank.

COBOURG RINK CARRIES OFF STRATTON CUP

J. Skitch, for Second Year in Succession, Wins Coveted Trophy.

WARNE CUP

W. R. Fox Captures Consolation Series, Defeating M. Booth.

J. Skitch of Cobourg, when he went home last night, carried the Stratton Trophy with him for the second year in succession. The trophy was keenly contested for at the annual bowling tournament of the Peterborough lawn bowlers yesterday. Reg. Fox of the Peterborough Club won the Warne Cup, which is emblematic of the consolation series.

Mr. Skitch in the final game put out Chief Gimblett. The game was close throughout, with the winners and his rink bowling a little the best game. Fox eliminated Booth of Cobourg in the finals of the Consolation series. The doubles last night were started, but in many cases they failed to get out of the preliminary round. To-day they will be completed and an effort will be made to run off the singles.

The weather yesterday, though threatening rain all day, was excellent for bowling. The greens were in good condition, and there was a spirit existing among the competing rinks that evidenced nothing but the very best of feeling, goodwill and sportsmanship.

J. H. Sedgwick, president of the Peterborough Club, presented the Stratton Trophy to Mr. Skitch at the conclusion of the game last night, and to each member of the rink a mackinaw coat was given. Mr. Sedgwick expressed his pleasure at being able to give the cup to Mr. Skitch for the second time in succession, because his rink was made up of real sports and bowlers. To Chief Gimblett and his rink, Herb. Martin, the vice-president of the club, presented to each member an Old English luncheon set.

DUKE DAINTY PITCHES MOTORS TO DOUBLE WIN OVER DELORO; SECOND GAME ENDS IN TENTH

SCORES 3-1 AND 6-5.

OSHAWA, Ont., July 19 (Special to The Examiner)—Duke Dainty convinced every fan in Oshawa he still has the goods, when he hurled Oshawa to a double victory over Deloro Smelters yesterday, winning 3 to 1 and 6 to 5. The twilight argument went into the last of the tenth before the locals nosed out the visitors. Hank Morrison's single in the ninth, pinch hitting for Kellar, scored McCallum, who had batted for Tunney Morrison, tieing the score 4 to 4.

Deloro managed to count one in the tenth although Dainty whiffed the first two to face him. Woods' double scoring Collins. Motors then delighted the fans by hitting four successive singles. Young's and Williams' hits scoring Jones and Dainty to win the game.

Dainty relieved Matthews in the seventh, when Deloro squeezed ahead and Inky Wood relieved Jack in the sixth after a clever performance in the afternoon, when he allowed but one hit in 5 2-5 innings. Dainty let the opposition down with a trio of singles in the afternoon tilt.

POPULAR SHOW COMING TO CITY

Royal Canadian Carnival to Play Here Week Starting July 23.

The Royal Canadian Show which has earned the name of "Canada's Premier Carnival," is coming to Peterborough by its own special ten-car train, from other Ontario cities where it has enjoyed a full two months of playing before capacity crowds. The train will arrive in Peterborough next Sunday afternoon at five o'clock, and the work of setting up will start early on Monday morning.

The Royal Canadian Shows, which will play here, commencing Monday of next week, has always enjoyed an enviable reputation, and this year it makes its appearance in Peterborough larger and better than ever before.

Clean Fun.

The entire organization is so arranged as to provide clean fun and high-class entertainment for everybody. Among the rides, which are ever a source of pleasure to old and young alike, is a new ten thousand dollar Carrousal, equipped with a beautifully toned organ of the very latest model; a twenty ton whip, always one of the most popular features of the mid-way, and a huge Ferris-wheel or Coney Island High-ride which towers over sixty feet in the air. All of the rides are of the very latest pattern, and are equipped with the newest in safety devices.

Something new and novel is decorations and painting is in evidence from one end of the mid-way to the other. The rides and show banners are all finished off in English showman style, and the management considers itself fortunate in having been successful in procuring the services of Alfred Tolson, who is in charge of the decorating work of the organization. Mr. Tolson has just recently come to Canada from Bradford, Yorkshire. He has spent the greater part of his life studying his art, and has done work for practically every large operator in the United Kingdom.

Six shows of the highest quality possible to obtain are with the Royal Canadians this year, and are conveniently grouped at the round, closed end of the huge mid-way. In presenting these shows for the approved of the visiting public, the management is confident that the offering will be enthusiastically received, as each one is under the personal direction of an artist in his line.

POLA NEGRI IN 'THREE SINNERS'

This is one of those interesting movies where a good deal of unvirtuous conduct is used as a background for the main story, but where virtue triumphs in the long run. Pola Negri, as the star, does some very fine acting and gives a wonderful presentation of a lady against whom circumstances war from first to last. She is the Countess Gerda Wallentin, happy in her Dresden home with here husband and child. Then another woman, a Baroness, steps in and vamps her husband, and the Countess becomes very jealous. She also has an admirer in a noted violinist, Stanislaw, but repulses his advance at all times. Taking a journey on a train on which Stanislaw is also a passenger, the Countess and Stanislaw have taken an hour at a wayside station and escape death. Later, her husband comes to view the remains of the victims, ignorant of his wife's safety. She is seen by her father-in-law and rejected by him as a wicked woman, but the older man keeps his son still in ignorance of her safety.

Then the Countess goes to Paris and becomes a partner in a notorious gambling resort, where the proprietor falls madly in love with her, and where a rich American also comes and asks her to go to America with him as his wife. Her husband, accompanied by the Baroness, who is still tracking him, comes to the gambling resort and falls in love with the Countess on seeing her remarkable resemblance to his wife. She leaves him in ignorance for awhile and then in a dramatic denoument, reveals the truth to him. But an unexpected ending intervenes and it is not with him that she finally finds a real love. The finale is just as interesting and dramatic as the rest of the picture, which is a very unusual sort of production. The "Three Sinners" of the piece are the Count, the Baroness, and Stanislaw.

ROYALS LOSE FIRST GAME TO READING

Second Game is Called Off on Account of Rain.

BUFFALO WINS TWO

Newark Bears Lose to Rochester in First of Series.

MONTREAL, Que., July 19.—Reading captured the opening game of the series here yesterday afternoon with Montreal 9-6, in six innings, rain abruptly terminating the contest at the start of the seventh, and causing cancellation of the second part of the twin bill.

Feeble pitching by both sets of twirlers and erratic play resulted in both sides scoring freely, the Keystones coming from behind in the sixth with four runs to finally cop the decision. Hawis hit a homer among a deluge of extra base blows pounded out by the battling factions. Walsh, Whitman and Conroy led the Reading attack with two hits each.

Wins Doubleheader.

BUFFALO, July 19. — Canadian Press. — The Buffalo Bisons had an easy time chastising the Jersey Black Cats in both ends of a double header here yesterday, winning 8 to 2 and 10 to 0. The hitting of Kokan, who bolted two homers and a single, featured the first game. Charles Walsh, Jarrett and McCarthy, three new players from Waterbury, joined the Jersey City Club during the first game and were pressed into service in the second encounter.

Leaders Lose.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 19. — Canadian Press. — Rochester lost to Newark yesterday, falling below the hurling of Hugh McQuillan, 4 to 2. Newark sewed up the game in the eighth inning when Carrell was hit by a pitched ball. Fournier tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly. Layne had three hits in three times up for Rochester.

PIRATES HIT BRAVES HARD

Pittsburg Wins Its Ninth Straight Victory by Beating Boston.

TAKES DOUBLE-HEADER

NEW YORK, July 19. — Canadian Press. — The Pirates walloped three Boston pitchers for 21 hits yesterday at Pittsburgh, to win their ninth straight victory 16 to 3, and Burleigh Grimes hung up his 15th win of the season. The Pittsburgh batsmen fell on Barnes, Brandt and Waner Brothers, Grantham and Barnell taking the heaviest toll from the Brave moundsmen. It was the tenth consecutive defeat for Boston.

The Braves collected ten hits from the Pirates' ace hurler, but few of them were bunched effectively.

Cincinnati Gains.

Cincinnati registered a neat gain on all the leaders in the National League by winning both games of a double header from the Brooklyn Robins, who re-visited Cincinnati. The Reds won a groggy game 11 to 10 to start the day, and shaded the visitors 2 to 1 in the second clash.

The first game was a parade of pitchers through the box and of runners around the bases, but the second was as neat a pitching battle as Cincinnati fans have seen this season.

DEATH NEARLY GOT THIS MODEST ADAM

MILWAUKEE, July 19.—Lack of a pair of pants nearly cost the life of Herman Cramer here recently.

Herman, the only male in a houseful of boarders, was taking a bath. And thereby hangs a tale. He became dizzy while in the tub and realized that gas fumes were escaping from a heater in the room.

The time used in struggling into his underwear might have been used in opening the door, but Herman did not want to do that until he had put on his pants.

As he reached for his pants he fell unconscious and was saved by the landlady who heard him fall.

Cut a slice of each beet from the stem end (to make it flat) and scoop out a generous portion from the center with a sharp knife. Fill with a mixture of finely chopped celery, cucumbers and tomatoes, and serve one or two of the beets, (depending upon the size) on crisp lettuce. Do not discard the scooped out portions of the beets, but use on the following day. Cut into small pieces, re-heat, and serve with butter.

Questions and Answers.

Question: J. L. writes: "My daughter, age twelve years, has a birthmark on her forehead, which is beginning to extend down into the corner of the eye. The doctors call it a cyst, something like a blood tumor. Is there anything that can be done to remove it without an operation?

Answer: Birthmarks can usually be removed by the proper electrical treatment. I advise you to take your daughter to a skin specialist who understands the treatment which will be necessary.

Question: Mrs. J. F. asks: "Of what fruits does the fruit diet consist, and how taken? Am troubled with sour stomach after eating. Would this diet relieve it?"

Answer: An exclusive fruit diet would be helpful in overcoming your sour stomach. Only one kind of fruit should be taken in any one day, but you may use as much of it as you desire. I have found the following fruits to be most helpful for this purpose: Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, berries, tomatoes, pineapple, and melons.

Question: Mrs. L. M. writes: "Your articles are very good and I enjoy them very much. What is the cause of abscessed kidneys? What are the symptoms? How can the trouble be remedied?"

Answer: Such kidney trouble sometimes develops simply because the kidneys are overworked and are forced to eliminate poisons which should be thrown out through the intestines. Another cause is from the irritation of kidney stones. An abscessed kidney is always a serious trouble and each case must be properly diagnosed and treated accordingly. Don't expect the trouble to cure itself until you remove the cause and take the proper diet or use what other medical treatment is necessary.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed, and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid, and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take, and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

all much appreciated. In the afternoon, the contralto sang "My Swiss Peasant Maid," and the "Cuckoo Song," with whistling chorus, and solos by the tenor, Jack Yost, included the pretty lullaby, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep."

In the evening, the program was of a more ambitious nature and was very generous, the singers giving a lengthy and what appeared to be a very difficult performance, when the exacting nature of this type of singing is considered. Some of the notes, particularly those of the tenor and soprano, are marvellously high, resembling nothing so much as the soft harmonic on a violin string, and appear to come from some upper vocal chamber. They leave a weird impression of echoing music.

A male trio sang "Calling the Cows"; there were several solo numbers by Constantine Wunderle, playing the native guitar-zither, with its sweet, tinkling tones. This was pleasant, soft, dreamy music, with "An Evening on Lake Geneva" as a solo number, and an encore that was a mixture of "O Sole Mio" and the Neapolitan street song, "Funicule, funicull."

Jack Yost's solos included "Roll On, Silvery Moon," "The Red-Haired Swiss Boy," and a humorous original bit of his own composition, entitled "My Sweetheart." The chorus sang "For We Are Jolly Good People" and gave an idea of a Swiss merry-making party when they sat and sang original bits of verse with which the laughter-loving Swiss enliven their gala festivities.

The alto singer gave a short talk on her native land and also showed a bunch of Swiss edelweiss (which she pronounced "adlewise," by the way), saying that Swiss boys who wish to show their love for their charmers scale dangerous icy peaks to bring her a bunch of this flower that blooms in the eternal snows. "So that may be why we have few divorces in Switzerland," she said, archly. Her solos were "The Magic Spell" and a jazz yodelling number entitled "That Naughty Yodel."

"The Patting of the Shoes" was a clever and very much appreciated Swiss dance done by the bass singer and his wife, formerly Miss Fletchel. It was a whirling affair with a great deal of modest love-making in it and was an extremely attractive bit of dancing skill that brought increased applause and a repetition as encore.

Miss Anna Fiechtel sang "The Swiss Mountain Girl" in her delicate, high soprano, and the bass sang very creditably an imitation of an old negro in "Old Black Joe." "Oh, Listen to the Soldiers in the Park" was the choral finish for a program that included many seldom-heard and very finely-sung numbers.

Children's Entertainment.

The skill with which the children of Junior Town went through their brief portion of last night's program was an evidence of very good training by Miss Campbell of the Chautauqua staff, and much laughter greeted their program of stunts, offered by the boys, and including mirth-provoking antics like the "Merry-Go-Round," "The Chariot Race," "The Hammer and Anvil," and the "Pyramid." The girls did some graceful drills and dances, with a pretty bit in a costumes affair depicting the love of a prince and princess, complicated by the presence of a black-clad witch.

The Council meeting by Junior Town, concluded by a grave offer by the Mayor, little Kenneth Fox, to offer assistance at any time to Mayor Denne and his Council, was an interesting bit that was featured by Margaret Wyllie's talk on the Chemong Road, explaining its progression from a point of departure as an Indian portage to its present asphalt-clad condition.

"Rambling Through the Air."

Yesterday afternoon, Captain J. H. Hedley gave a brief, snappy talk, retailing during its latter portion some of his experiences as an aviator in war time, with a thrilling recital of the time he was catapulted from his plane, to alight on the tail of the machine and ride for some distance in this pecular fashion.

Captain Hedley got a good deal of fun out of his own small stature and the difficulty with which he got into fighting togs during the outbreak of war. He spoke of the acclaim which should be given to those of British birth, like Alcock and Brown, who flew the Atlantic some years ago, rather than to Lindbergh, the American, and also acclaimed the feat of Roy Brown of Toronto, who brought down the famous German ace, Baron Richthofen. He recounted his own success as a soldier of the King and took a little crack at the activities of the military police on an occasion when he was trying to smuggle a German rifle into England, against military orders.

Captain Hedley's account of the regalia used to keep fliers from freezing to death in an altitude whose temperature ranged from thirty to forty degrees below zero, was very interesting, and gave his hearers a little idea of the difficulties encountered by these birdmen of the Great War. They were rubbed with smelly whale oil for ten minutes prior to donning ladies' silk stockings; overalls of chamois and leather which were fitted with electric wires that would keep them warm as long as the connection remained stationary but were in danger of burning them up if something went wrong with the connection; ladies' silk gloves with leather and wool gauntlets over them; double-breasted flying jackets; flying helmets of leather and wool, and heavy boots. With this paraphernalia on, they were compelled to fix anything wrong with the machinery, because evidence of frost-bite usually brought court-martial punishments.

The speaker described Richthofen's methods as a "killer" rather than a fighter, the famous German ace having the habit of staying up near the "ceiling" rather than coming down to actual warfare, and letting his assistants do the "cat and dog" work.

Speaking of the four "shows" a day which the flying men took part in, when they started out with eight bombs to drop on German soldiers and then remained to strafe with machine guns the escaping men on the roadways Captain Hedley recounted his experience with a plane that made a sensational landing after a German had drilled it through. On this occasion, he was taken prisoner and placed in the camp commanded by the infamous Neimayer, a former citizen of Milwaukee, who made life unbearable for the British prisoners placed under his care.

Captain Hedley concluded with a plea for the maintenance of friendly relations between the British Isles and the United States, so that, in event of future war scares they might unite to prevent the world from seeing a recurrence of such a terrible holocaust. "If you knew what war actually is like, you would never, never want it to be waged on the world again," he said.

During an intermission last evening, J. McGinnis, manager of the circuit, spoke briefly, asking the audience to pledge for another year's renewal of the series and speaking of the inclusion next year of two plays on the program. He spoke of the community service done by C. A. Gillespie, who has for several seasons past borne the brunt of the undertaking. James Dutton also spoke along the same lines. Last evening, two hundred and ten pledge tickets were turned in. A total of at least four hundred is required to guarantee the return of the series another year.

A capable assistant at the entrance of the tent this season, as in other years, was Mrs. C. R. Banks.

The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs provided twenty-five tickets each for children, to attend the Chautauqua series this year.

MARRIED 62 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. James Switzer Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

BOTH NEAR NINETY

BOBCAYGEON, July 19. — Mr. and Mrs. James Switzer have just celebrated their 62nd year of wedded life. They are in good health, and recall distinctly events of the past half century. Both are nearing the ninetieth milestone.

They relate the story of their settling on their farm in the woods, in the township of Verulam, when the only conveyance was a lumber waggon drawn by an ox team.

There were present at the anniversary, their daughter, Mrs. Thos. Richardson of Janetville Station, their son, Mr. Wesley Switzer and wife, who live on the homestead, and four grandchildren, Mrs. Wilbert Murney of Cavan; Mr. Ewart Richardson of Lindsay; Mr. Courtland Switzer, of Verulam, and Miss Audrey Switzer; also Mr. Wilbert Murney, Mrs. Ewart Richardson, and Mrs. Courtland Switzer, and four great-grandchildren.

Those from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cafley, of Toronto, and Mr. Bert McGee of Penelon.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Many will have nothing to do with the Bible because they believe it teaches all the nonsense that the clergymen claim it does.

It is difficult for some people to realize that Satan uses those very clergymen to further his deceptions.

The clergy claim that the "immortal soul" idea is found in the Bible, but it is not found there.

There are at least 101 different texts which say that souls die, not a single text says that the body dies, but always the Bible asserts that it is the soul that dies, and yet the clergy claim the soul does not die.

If we believe the clergy in reference to the soul not dying, we make God a liar, and the Bible a book that cannot be relied on.—M. T. Butcher. 1d-16-794

There immediately sprang up rumors that the financier had been seen dropping in a parachute; that his disappearance was a move to affect the stock market; that, in fact, he had never started out with the plane.

Europe's Richest Man.

Loewenstein was reputed to be the richest man in Europe. He controlled steamship lines, was one of the chief shareholders in the Belgian railway system, owned the manganese iron mines in Silesia, steel furnaces in the north of Spain, coal properties in the Saar Basin and in the Ruhr, and immense rubber plantations in the Congo.

He was born in 1877, his father being a small Jewish banker in Brussels. His immense fortune was built up by clever speculation. As a young man he staked everything on the future importance of artificial silk, Hydro-Electric power, and methods of mass production. He always spent prodigiously, and carried a large retinue of servants.

Was In Ill-Health.

Loewenstein had been showing signs of ill health because of his unceasing activity. It was believed that the rejection of his offer to the French and Belgian Governments to loan them a vast sum to stabilize their currency was a great disappointment to him.

The door out of which the financier fell is secured by bolts on the inside and patent handle lock, increasing the mystery of an accidental opening.

The newspaper L'Independence Belge, of Brussels, says that Loewenstein had important liabilities in Brussels and had tried unsuccessfully to obtain £1,000,000 loan in London.

The finding of the body to-day shuts out speculation as to whether Loewenstein is still alive, but fails to explain the manner of his fall. It is likely that there will be renewed activity in the investigation.

body aboard the plane after death should the flier land. Upon seeing the Krassin Mariano regained his ebbing life."

The Italia crashed on May 24, the account from Professor Samoilovich went on. Thick ice formed on the dirigible and she sank earthward, head first. When the gondola struck the ice the passengers were hurtled out. The motor attendant (Vincent Pommela) was killed and buried in the ice by his comrades.

"The balloon was freed from the Gondola," the radiogram continued, "and rose skyward into the distance, soon to explode and burst into flames. The men repaired the radio but could only hear, not send. On May 30 Malmgren, Mariano and I went in the direction of Cape North, hoping to meet Norwegian tradesmen taking provisions."

Account of Viglieri Rescue.

An eye-witness account of the rescue of the Viglieri group of the Italia survivors by the Krassin on Thursday is given in another radiogram to Tass. It is from its correspondent, Shipanov, on board the steamer. The report follows:

"The group rescued and now aboard the Krassin consists of Viglieri, Ceccioni, Troiani, Behounek and Biagi.

"Thursday at 4:15 p.m. they heard the Krassin's sirens and sighted her soon afterwards. Immediately they radioed the Citta di Milano, indicating the observation angle at a distance of 25 kilometers, thus helping the Krassin to locate the group. This had been rendered difficult by fog. The Krassin lookout sighted the advanced group at 7:30.

"Heavy ice made approach difficult, but pushing on vigorously, the Krassin rapidly covered the distance, steering for the smoke signals and rockets sent up. At 9:30 the Krassin crew climbed down on the ice and open-handedly received the five men who appeared in fine condition, save Ceccioni, whose leg was broken.

"The Krassin halted in close ice 80 meters distant. Fifteen meters away was the radio mast of the Italia atop a heap of wreckage of the chief gondola.

Had Food and Warm Clothes.

"The rescued group were well provided with food and warm clothing, as well as sleeping bags. They had three pneumatic boats, held ready for emergencies, such as the smashup of the ice.

"Lundborg's plane lay upside down thirty meters away on the very edge of the ice field. The plane's wings were smashed, the lower wing being utilized as a floor for the tent.

"It is impossible to convey in words the joy of the rescued men, who were unaware of the proximity of the Krassin. They told the details of Malmgren's departure, saying that despite his illness he went as leader of the contact group, assigned to this task because of his knowledge of local conditions. Every one believed the Malmgren group had perished, thinking their rescue improbable.

"At the beginning the Viglieri group envied the Malmgren party, since the latter moved landward, but things changed when they learned the tremendous difficulty under which Malmgren and his companions moved over the ice.

"Airplanes flying over the Viglieri group dropped weapons, but they were not used, as no beasts were seen by either group except the bear killed by Dr. Malmgren with the sole revolver in the party.

"Viglieri and his associates regard the help given by the airplanes as substantial, but cannot find sufficient words to praise the Soviet expedition."

STOCKHOLM, July 19.—Captain Tornberg, head of the Swedish relief expedition in Spitsbergen has cabled that Dr. Malmgren was left by his two companions six minutes north northeast of Broch Island.

Captain Tornberg reported that Captain Zappi told him that the Swedish scientist was left behind after a fourteen-day march when he was unable to withstand the hardships.

Captains Zappi and Mariano were said by Tornberg to be regaining their strength fast.

Hundreds of messages of condolence on the death of Dr. Malmgren have been received by Mrs. Malmgren, the doctor's mother, and the Swedish Government. The Italian Minister, Prince Collona said in a letter to Mrs. Malmgren:

"In my heart of hearts I am deeply affected at the tragic fate of your heroic son. His scientific contributions will be highly prized and his memory will be kept in bright remembrance. All Italians will think of your wounded mother's heart. I express my deepest sorrow."

The Norwegian, Brazilian, Japanese and Czechoslvakian Ministers also sent messages of condolence.

Canada is well on the way to becoming the second gold-producing country of the world.

MISS ELIZABETH TRUDE.

(Examiner Correspondence).

LAKEFIELD, July 19.—The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Trude took place from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Leggott on Monday afternoon at 2.30, with Rev. W. J. Creighton officiating.

Two well-known hymns were sung, "I heard the voice of Jesus Say," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Following the service, Mr. Creighton spoke on the various conceptions of the life after death which have been held by the various races, the Valhalla, the happy hunting ground and all the hopes of the non-Christian races, and while we as Christians believe in the life in the world to come and look forward to it with a sure and certain hope, still we don't know definitely what it will be like. Our Lord told us of the plans of many mansions prepared by the Father for His people, and He told us too that He was going to prepare a place for us that where He was we might be also. We feel that will be a place where the weary can lay down the burden and where sin is unknown, where toil, not work, is unheard of, where disease, sickness and pain have no place, and where the weary pilgrims hear their Master's "well done."

The pall-bearers were six nephews of the deceased lady: Messrs. Charles Waldon, Harry Penberthy, Frank Trude, Sam Trude, William Leggott, and Trude Leggott.

Miss Trude leaves behind a beautiful memory to all who knew her, as she was a general favorite in a large circle of friends and relatives, and even the youngest of the group of nephews and nieces and grand-nephews and nieces who knew her as "Aunt Bessie," will always have a happy memory of the gentle little lady who gave to them all a wealth of loving interest.

Peace Pact Receives Favor

Great Commonwealth of Nations Accepts Revised Anti-War Treaty.

ALL REPLY TO U. S.

London Reiterates British Understanding Regarding League of Nations and Locarno Treaty.

WASHINGTON, July 20 (Canadian Press). — Replies of the London Government and of five other members of the British Commonwealth, Canada, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, and India, accepting the revised United States draft of the war renunciation treaty were made public last night by the State Department simultaneously with their publication in London and Ottawa.

The Canadian answer is the most striking of the group. It was transmitted direct from Ottawa bearing the signature of Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, as Secretary of State for External Affairs, and states in fifty words that Canada "cordially accepts the treaty as revised, and is prepared to participate in its signature."

Britain's Reply.

The British Government's answer equally accepts the revised treaty, but reiterates the British understanding of the terms of the pact in so far as they might affect obligations to the League of Nations or under the treaty of Locarno and also with respect to the right of self-defence and automatic release from obligations to any signatory nation resorting to the pact. In addition, Sir Austen Chamberlain Foreign Secretary, reiterates his previous statement that Great Britain's acceptance of the new treaty rests "upon the understanding that it does not prejudice" her freedom of action in unspecified regions "of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety."

The Australian reply was transmitted through Sir Austen, as were those of the Union of South Africa, New Zealand, and India. In the case of South Africa, however, the Foreign Secretary's communication quotes textually the reply received by him from General Hertzog, South African Minister for External Affairs.

None of the replies from members of the British Commonwealth other than the London Government itself touches upon the point made by the Secretary for Foreign Affairs in relation to what has come to be known as the British Monroe Doctrine stipulation. The replies of New Zealand and India briefly take cognizance, however, of the other stipulations reiterated in the London note while those for Australia and South Africa

THE WEATHER

There has been an abundance of moisture in this section this summer and as a consequence everything looks beautifully green in contrast with the parched and browned countryside that is frequently our portion. Rainfall during last night was .42 of an inch. Highest temperature yesterday 81 degrees; lowest last night 56 degrees. In the "Probs" given for different localities, Peterborough is always considered as being in the Georgian Bay forecast, and not in the "Lower Lakes," as believed by many. Another pointer for the reader—the "Probs" for Lake Superior to-day are likely to be those for this section to-morrow. This is accounted for by the fact that the weather travels progressively in an eastern direction. —W. P.

LOCAL PAPER IS EXPANDING

Farm and Dairy Takes Over Part of Circulation of Farmer's Guide.

ADVERTISING INCREASES

The announcement has been made recently that Farm and Dairy, the widely known agricultural publication published in Peterborough, has recently taken over a considerable block of the circulation of the Farmer's Guide of Gardenvale, Quebec. The Farmer's Guide was started in 1921 by the organized farmers of Canada with the intention that it would be their eastern organ and that it would be one of the three farm papers owned by them, including the Grain Grower's Guide, of Winnipeg, the Farmer's Sun, of Toronto and the Farmer's Guide for Eastern Canada. The publishers have found it difficult to obtain a footing in the farm paper field and recently arranged with Farm and Dairy to take over a block of the best circulation of the Farmer's Guide, thus fulfilling their obligations to their readers. This action has been taken with the approval of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an international concern which audits the circulations of all classes of publications in America.

In a notice sent out recently by Farm and Dairy to the advertising field it was stated that the circulation of Farm and Dairy now exceeds 45,000. This makes it one of the most influential papers in the Dominion.

Figures that have been published recently in Printers Ink, giving the advertising lineage of farm papers during the first five months of last year and during the same period this year, show that for several months Farm and Dairy has shown a greater percentage of increase in advertising revenue each month than any farm paper on the continent including a large number in the United States. For four years Farm and Dairy has lead all farm papers of Canada in increase in circulation. Farm and Dairy through the distribution every two weeks of over 43,000 copies of its publication does a great deal to advertise Peterborough across the Dominion.

Life Saved By Artificial Skull

ROTTING BONES ARE REPLACED BY OPERATIONS

Surgeons Say Norman Ellis of Toronto should live to Reasonable Age.

RECEIVED BAD SHOOK

Man Sustained 5000 H. P. Electric Current Through Body and was Presumed Dead.

(Special to the Examiner)

TORONTO, July 20.—To have had an electric current equivalent to 5,000 horsepower pass through his body and to have been pronounced dead by doctors, yet be at work today in Toronto is the amazing experience of Norman Douglas Ellis, but this is not all, for, as a result of the electric current, which was sufficiently powerful to supply 28 Ontario towns, going through his body, Ellis went through a series of surgical operations that left him to-day a man without a skull.

When he received the shock doctors pronounced him dead, yet Hydro electric men, obeying their rule that a man is never dead until rigor mortis sets in, revived him by the ordinary methods of artificial respiration. For six days he lay unconscious. After eleven months, necrosis, or rotting of tissue, under the skull bone, forced physicians to remove practically the whole skull, which they replaced by skin grafts from the thigh.

Ellis had a last piece of bone removed only three weeks ago. Brain specialists said he would never walk again, yet he walks today.

Reluctant confirmation of the case was given to-day by Dr. R. E. Gaby, 86 Bloor street west, surgeon, on the staff of the Toronto General Hospital and burns specialist of the Hydro-Electric System, who is about to report the whole case in medical journals. With Dr. Gaby was prominently associated Dr. K. G. McKenzie, surgeon of 102 College street, a specialist on the brain.

There is no reason why Ellis should not live a perfectly normal life to a reasonable old age, Dr. Gaby said to-day, "but a blow on the head would kill him" the doctor explained.

"From practically an inch back of the hair line at the front to within an inch of the hair line at the back of the neck," said Dr. Gaby, "His skull has been removed. I should think the amount would equal 60 square inches. The pieces would probably measure 10 inches long by 6 inches wide. Over this opening we grafted skin taken from the thigh."

ACTIVE VOLCANO CAUSES TERROR

HOT ASHES FALL

MANILLA, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—A violent eruption of Mayon, volcano in Albay Province, which recently became unusually active, to-day terrified the populace for miles around. Business in Legaspi and smaller towns near the base of the volcano mountain was paralyzed. Lava shot from the crater in a dense column of smoke, which cast a pall over much of the province. The activity was accompanied by a deep rumbling which intensified the terror of the already panic stricken populace. A deluge of hot ashes was reported to have fallen over the villages of Tobaco and Malliliput.

Governor General Stimson announced he would leave Manila tomorrow aboard the cruister Trenton to investigate the situation.

CHIEF CLERK IS HONORED AT JUBILEE

F. V. Clementi has Served Railway here For Fifty Years.

PRESENT FROM STAFF

Gold Locket and Chain, Suitably Inscribed, given as Token of Respect and Congratulation.

F. V. Clement, chief clerk of The Canadian National Railways Freight Offices in Peterborough was presented with a handsome gold locket and chain yesterday afternoon by the staff of the C.N.R. freight and passenger offices. This was made in expression of their respect to him as congratulation to Mr. Clementi on completing half a century in the service.

The presentation came as a complete surprise. The office had a mysterious air about five o'clock, each clerk finding some overtime work to keep him busy until five fifteen. About this time Jim Turnbull, a member of the old guard who used to work with Mr. Clementi dropped in "to see the boys."

Presentation Address

A. MacNab, station agent for the C.N.R. made the presentation. He told Mr. Clementi that there was some conspiracy on hand and that he was involved in it, after which he read the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Clementi:—

"Fifty years is a long time to look forward but does not seem so long in retrospect. Fifty years ago, on July 1st, 1878, you entered the office of the Midland Railway Company and so began your life's mission. Many are the changes which have taken place since that date. Presidents and Superintendents of the Roads have come and gone but you have remained setting up and knocking down columns and armies of figures telling how, when and where the revenues came from.

FIREMEN HAVE ANOTHER REST

No Fires Yesterday to Disturb Serenity—Equipment Improved.

WARNING ISSUED.

Yesterday was the off day for the fire department, keeping up the every other day routine of the past week. However, the men are still on their toes. At eleven o'clock to-day when a test alarm come in they were all in their positions in the twinkling of an eye.

There have been purchased 500 feet of 2 inch hose, 4 new nozzles, and a 12 foot 5-inch soft suction hose for the pumper, to be used for hydrant connections.

Fire Chief Gimblett issues a warning to the citizens that their chimneys must be looked after, and put in first class conditions. The tenants of rented houses whose chimneys are bad, must inform the owners at once, and see that they are fixed or they will be held responsible. There are many such chimneys in the city of Peterborough, and are a menace to the public. The numerous chimney fires have been caused mostly by dirty chimneys, and the citizens must have any chimney that is their property cleaned at once, declares the chief.

FRANCE PLANS INVESTIGATION

Will Hold Inquiry Into Cause of Captain Loewenstein's Death.

ESTATE RELEASED.

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, France, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—Finding yesterday of the body of Captain Alfred Loewenstein, missing Belgian millionaire, cleared up most of the grim mystery surrounding his disappearance from a cross-channel airplane July 4.

French and Belgian authorities will still have to determine whether Captain Loewenstein accidentally fell from the plane as it flew 4,000 feet over the English Channel, or deliberately wrenched open the exit door and pulnged to his death. But the ugly rumors that the financier and perpetrated a gigantic hoax and was still alive, were definitely set at rest by the finding of the body.

The battered body was found floating face downward ten miles off Cape Gris Nez by the Boulogne fishing smack 555, Captain Jean Marie Beaugrand, and was readily identified by a wrist watch engraved "Captain Loewenstein, 35 Ru de La Science, Brussels." Other wise the body was unrecognizable as it was in an advanced stage of decomposition. The body was clothed only in underdrawers, socks and shoes, the latter bearing the name of an English maker.

Sweeping Change Told

Financial Recasting is More Revolutionary than had been Apparent.

NO WRITING OFF

Canadian Government Railways to be Leased 99 Years for One Dollar.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 20 (Special to The Examiner).—Proposals for recasting the financial basis of the Canadian National Railways recently referred to by Sir Henry Thornton in general terms in his Vancouver speech, and which will form the subject of recommendations for Parliament at its next session, are much more far-reaching than has yet been indicated.

It is understood in department circles that Sir Henry's reference to the matter was an indication that the Canadian National Railway Board would ask for a complete revision of the financial set-up along lines suggested in a comprehensive report made to the board by A. B. Guest of New York, retained some time ago to study the entire situation of the Canadian National and affiliated lines.

The recommendations, contrary to what has been understood hitherto, do not contemplate writing off any portion of the government's loans to the system. What is contemplated is: firstly, a "wringing-out" of the "water" in the valuations placed upon the common stock of the old Canadian Northern, and upon the first, second and third preference stock and the common stock of the Grand Trunk; secondly, a leasing of the Canadian Government Railways to the Canadian National for 99 years for the sum of one dollar; and, thirdly, that from the total of the government advances plus interest compounded to date at six per cent, the accumulated deficits of the system since it came under government control shall be deducted and four per cent income bonds issued to the Minister of Railways for the difference.

In the balance sheet of the Canadian National Railway, it is pointed out, the capital stock is shown on the liability side at $270,000,000. This includes $100,000,000 for the old Canadian Northern stock, and $170,000,000 for the first, second and third preference and common stock of the old Grand Trunk. It is understood to have been pointed out by Mr. Guest that of this stock, $500,000,000 only is held by the public and that the Government actually paid only $10,000,000 for the other $285,000,000. It is thought that this inflation of $255,000,000 is sought to be wiped out entirely if Sir Henry's hopes are realised.

Inflation Was An "Asset."

In settling up the initial balance-sheets of the two railroads when taken over by the Government, it is stated that the inflation was set up as an asset by adding it to the cost of roadbed, in order that it might be offset as a liability to give an appearance of value to the stock.

The next phase of the proposals, it is stated, has to do with the Canadian Government railways, including the Intercolonial, the National Transcontinental, the Hudson's Bay Railway and the Quebec Bridge, all of which are charged against the Canadian National at $436,416,387, including the costs of the roads and their accumulated losses since their establishment. It is reported that Mr. Guest, in his report to the board, suggests that these roads, by reason of their history, are not properly chargable as a liability on the National system. The view is taken that they

Thirteenth Bills Aggregate $88,000 In Ten Years—Power Cost Rising

The cost of power to this city under Hydro Commission management has steadily increased from $17.50 per h.p. in 1917 to $23.50 per h.p. in 1921, and now in 1928 we find the cost of power has increased to $32.00 per h.p. This is on a wholesale basis, whereas Orillia sells power, delivered to the consumer on a retail basis at $13.00 per h.p. with a discount of 15 per cent. for prompt payment.

13th Bills Cost $88,000.00.

The fact, however, must not be lost sight of that between 1917 and 1927 a Thirteenth Annual Bill has unexpectedly come in to Peterborough, aggregating in all $88,000.00, and the payment of this Thirteenth Annual Bill has, to a large extent, absorbed and eaten up the accumulated reserves of our local Utilities Commission.

Our Local Commission Asleep.

These Thirteenth Annual Bills have come in like a thief in the night and for years the payment of them has been entirely unknown so far as the records of the City Council are concerned. To take a charitable viewpoint, these bills must have been paid by the members of the local Commission when they were asleep.

The end of increased cost of power to this City is not in sight, because no proper provision is being made for a sinking fund that will give the power users of Central Ontario one single penny's worth of interest in the Central Ontario Power System.

The Ravenous Arctic Wants More and More.

From time to time they have been grabbing and grasping from every municipality more and more. The Hydro Commission of the Province of Ontario is never satisfied. It constantly and continuously grasps more and more. It pretended at the outset to save Peterborough from the alleged exorbitant demands made by private owners, but in the result it is like the ravenous Arctic Sea—for every life that is saved, three to five are sacrificed in return. It is like the Three-throated Monster in Dante's Inferno—"Never sated is its ravenous will, still after food, more craving than before."

Hydro Commission An Octopus.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission is, without doubt, the greatest monopoly that has ever been established in a community having a population of approximately three million. It has under its control the monopolistic power of an investment of $300,000,000. It can make, it can destroy. No private Company with one-tenth of this capital can afford to raise an independent head. If it does, business will be refused by this Hydro-headed monster—at least, that is a reasonable deduction to be drawn from the extensive powers that have been given to this Commission.

Octopus Has $300,000,000 of Tentacles.

Under the Hydro Act it is not possible to transmit either heat, light, or power, on, over, or under any highway or street extending from Kenora to Montreal without the consent of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. The tentacles of this $300,000,000 corporation extend from the eastern limits of Manitoba to the western limits of the Province of Quebec and from Hudson Bay to the northern shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario. This will convey some impression of the extensive powers that have been given to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission by the Ontario Government.

The question arises, who created this ravenous beast and who gave authority to this ravenous beast to charge this City nearly three times as much for power as the Town of Orillia charges to her own citizens?

The Remedy Is In This City's Hands.

Let the taxpayers of this City get in earnest and say: "We must cut "asunder these bands that bind us to a huge octopus whose tentacles are "absorbing the very life blood of this city." If the Ontario Government says "We will release you from your bonds and we will permit you to buy "power from a private syndicate," then our difficulties will be solved. But will the Ontario Government do that? Our local representative must answer that question.

Dated July 20th, 1928. R. R. HALL.

WELL-KNOWN PHILANTHROPIST NATIVE OF CITY, DIES IN ORLLIA

William Thompson was born in Peterborough 68 Years Ago.

WAS LUMBERMAN.

Work Among Consumptives and for Children, Engaged Attention since he Retired.

ORILLIA, Ont., July 20 (Special to The Examiner).—William Thomson, philanthropist and lover of children, known throughout Ontario for his bounty, died at his residence, Longford Villa, to-day, in his 69th year. Mr. Thomson had been ill for a long time. Yet his passing will come as a great shock to the countless persons he had helped during his fruitful life.

Born in Peterborough over 68 years ago, he was the eldest son of the late John Thomson, founder of the Longford Lumber Mills. Upon his father's death in 1898 the late Mr. Thomson succeeded to the management of the firm, which he administered until the exhaustion of its limits, when he retired and took up residence in Orillia.

The late Mr. Thomson was a director of the Standard Chemical Company, Limited; the Canada Wood Specialty Company, Limited, and many other concerns. For many years he had been an honored member of the Orillia Presbyterian church and until his death had been roll clerk. He had always been a leader in public work.

Mr. Thomson was most widely known, however, for his philanthropic efforts. He supported whole-heartedly the Muskoka Sanitarium and sent many patients there at his own expense. For many years he had main-

Confessed Alabama Slayers Are Pardoned, As Girl, 14, 'Victim' of Pair, Is Found Alive

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—George Elder and Louise Butler, who were convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death, but whose supposed victim later reappeared alive and well, have been pardoned. The case is unusual in this State.

Mary Cecil Warren, 14 years old, whom Elder and Miss Butler were found guilty of murdering, is the niece of Miss Butler and had lived with her.

It developed during the trial of the man and woman that the man, woman and girl had quarreled and that the girl after being severely beaten disappeared.

Faced with the charge of killing the girl, the man and woman, it appears, not knowing whether the girl was dead or not and fearing that she might be dead, confessed to the killing. They were subsequently convicted and sentenced to pay the extreme penalty.

Some time later, several men on business in a neighboring county, saw and recognized Mary Cecil Warren, who was supposed to have been killed. They notified the authorities with the result that the girl was identified.

The Governor was told of the circumstances. He issued temporary paroles to Elder and Miss Butler until the Board of Pardons made a recommendation in each case. A few days ago the board, in a report, recommended that both be pardoned.

RESOURCES OF NORTH ONTARIO ENUMERATED TO KIWANIS CLUB

GOOD FARM COUNTRY

New Ontario was the subject spoken on by Kiwanis Leo Copp of New Liskeard, formerly of Peterborough, at the Friday afternoon luncheon of The Peterborough Kiwanis Club held at the regular hour in the Empress Hotel.

Kiwanian J. Smith introduced the speaker as one of our own Peterborough boys who went north instead of west, as an active member of the New Liskeard club, and the youngest school inspector in Ontario.

Mr. Copp extended the good wishes of the New Liskeard club, which is only six months old, sponsored by the Cobalt club. He was very enthusiastic over Northern Ontario and said that there was a spirit that gets one up there. There is really something to it, was the way he expressed it. He went north two years ago and found that it was much better than the northern part of the county of Peterborough, and entered over the Ferguson highway on the opening day.

New Liskeard, he told, was sixteen hours from here by road, and four and a half hours north of North Bay. It is 113 miles north of North Bay by better roads than there are around here, except the Port Hope highway. It is 113 miles north of North Bay, then 5 miles of good road through the stone arch on to the Ferguson highway, where it is necessary to secure a permit to travel through the Timagmi

Hobbs Expedition Arrives in Greenland; Will Find Landing Field For Swedish Flier

HOLSTENBORG, Greenland, via Kjobenhavn, July 19.—We arrived here on July 4, all well, but have been delayed by the wreck, just before our arrival, of the tramp steamer Skinfaxe, 2,200 tons, just off this port.

The Skinfaxe was bringing in supplies for the Danish settlement here, and the salvage of her cargo has required all the boats available. The entire cargo, however, was saved, including all our experimental balloons.

We leave here to-morrow with a portion of our equipment and supplies in two small motor sloops for Mount Evans, where our observatory will be in operation for the season. The gasoline for refueling the Hassell airplane, which will halt at the observatory on its flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden, is already there. We expect to arrive between the eighth and tenth and to reopen the radio station, Kaliquist, and Church returning. Carlson and a Greenlander are already here.

Prof. Hobb's expedition to Greenland goes to continue, this year, the experimental work carried on in preceding years by which it is hoped to establish a system of forecasting Atlantic weather by measuring the force and direction of the gales which sweep down from the Arctic. With Prof. Hobbs are seven American assistants and several Greenlanders. The Americans left Copenhagen on the motorship Disko on June 21.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIRS REACH MORE CHILDREN EVERY YEAR

More Schools Entered and More Seeds Given Out to Pupils.

TEN FAIRS IN COUNTY

Sixty-Three Schools Included in These Groups—Championship Fair at Norwood.

Ten rural school fairs in Peterborough county including a championship exhibition at Norwood on October 9, 10, have been slated for the 1928 season beginning September 17, according to the local Department of Agriculture which has already drawn up and had published a prize list, rules, regulations and program which will be standardized as much as possible. The rural school fairs for this year promise to surpass, in many ways, those of former years for schools are entered and more seeds have been distributed than in any previous year—there are sixty-three school units entered in the school fair work, which number includes eight schools in the new fair district for Harvey Township.

Discusses School Fairs.

J. B. Nelson, B.S.A., agricultural representative for Peterborough county, in discussing this phase of his department's work, pointed out that the rural school fairs are co-operative educational enterprises in which the departments of Agriculture and Education, the local school boards, teachers, parents and pupils all work together. "It is only when there is the whole-hearted support of all these parties that the fairs are the success their value warrants", said Mr. Nelson. "It should be remembered, however, that the school fairs are children's fairs and that, though it is desirable for the parents and teachers to give the children advice regarding their exhibits, the exhibits themselves must be wholly prepared by the pupils exhibiting them. Neglect of parents and teachers to recognize this point has caused considerable misunderstanding in the past.

Standardize Program.

"We have drawn up a program which we hope to standardize by having it effective at each of the ten fairs", continued Mr. Nelson, in conversation with The Examiner. "Possibly if you were to publish it, those interested would benefit thereby. It is as follows:

9.30 a.m. to 11.00—Placing of exhibits.
10.30 a.m. to 12.00—Domestic Science and Livestock judging competitions.
11.00 a.m. to 2.30 p.m.—Judging exhibits in tent.
12.00 a.m. to 1.00 p.m.—Lunch.
1.00 p.m. to 2.30—School parade.
2.30 p.m. to 4.30—Exhibits open for inspection.
3.00 p.m. to 3.30—Judging livestock.
3.30 p.m. to 4.30—Races and driving contest.

DUMMER LADY CELEBRATES 82ND BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. William Harding Are the Oldest Couple in Township.

64 YEARS MARRIED

Both Have Spent Their Whole Life in Dummer—Mr. Harding is 87.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 20.—Mrs. William Harding celebrated her eighty-second birthday of Sunday, July 8. Mr. and Mrs. Harding are the oldest married couple living in Dummer. Mr. Harding is eighty-seven years of age and they have been married nearly sixty-four years, and both have lived their lives in Dummer.

Mrs. Harding was Elizabeth Batten, and the eldest of ten children, four boys—who are all dead—and six girls, all living. Four of her sisters are in distant parts, and one, Mrs. William Dunsford, lives in Warsaw.

She is very fond of her garden and even though lame from a fall, she has beautiful flowers, as well as small fruits and vegetables.

Barring her lameness, Mrs. Harding is hale and hearty, and on the twelfth came to the village and walked around to call upon some of her friends. She is nor idler nor quitter, and when no other work is at hand, does a large amount of knitting and crochetting. Her friends did not all to see her at one time for birthday congratulations. Sixteen were with her for dinner on Sunday and eighteen, including one great grandson, for supper; then as many more came on Monday and also on Tuesday.

Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harding, four are dead and six living, the latter are: Frank, the only son living; Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Fred Sharpe, Mrs. Fred Parcels, Mrs. William Freeburn, who live in or near Warsaw, and Mrs. Ernest Sneider who lives in Detroit.

Thief Treats Cabby To Ride In His Own Machine But Later Finds Himself Turned Over To Police

NEW YORK, July 20.—It was hot—and business was so slow it was at a standstill. Not a single wheel of William J. Bailey's cab was turning. And, from all the signs, portents, omens and augurs it did not look as if the motor would be called upon for even an anticipatory snort.

So, being a philosophical cab-driver, William climbed over into the back seat and went to sleep. It was too hot to worry.

This was at Park Circle, Brooklyn.

Presently he dreamed the cab was in motion. This being the dream of all chauffeurs, William merely shifted his position and pulled a paralyzed hand from under his left ear.

But he could not go back to sleep, because the cab really was in motion. And Frank Quality was at the wheel.

Bailey, becoming fully awake to the situation, grabbed Quality by the neck and yelled. Also he stopped the machine.

Then he turned his prisoner over to Detective Thompson. Quality said he intended merely to take a little joyride and then return the machine.

SEEKS TO KILL SHEEP WORMS

Sheep Promoter Here at Present Investigating Conditions in County.

KEEP ANIMALS THIN

The realization that a large percentage of livestock, particularly sheep and lambs suffer from parasites in the form of worms, and that some remedy must be found, has led to investigations of a thorough nature by Dr. Lionel Stevenson, Provincial biologist of the Agricultural College at Guelph, now in charge of parasite prevention work, and to the finding that seventy-five percent of the animals inspected suffered, or had suffered at one time from such parasites. Thus declared J. G. LeFebvre, sheep promoter of the Sheep and Swine Division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, in speaking of his work while in this city and district. Mr. LeFebvre is at present making his headquarters at the local office of the department.

"Flocks of sheep and lambs have been inspected in many different districts and packing company plants", said he, "and though no details are available, trouble from such worm parasites is to be found in Peterborough county too; no district is entirely free. But to decide upon a remedy, it has been necessary to learn something of the worm life and accordingly a study has been made. We have found that each worm lays an enormous number of eggs and these are hatched at the very first approach of favorable conditions.

"Then the sheep and young lambs graze in the pasture, and the parasites go into their digestive systems where they either live on the food or on the blood of the animal. The idea of rotating pastures, that is, moving the herds from one to another every ten days or so, seems hardly practical but there is another remedy, and if that fails, we can give advice of a more complicated nature.

"We advise livestock raisers to try dosing the sheep with a bluestone solution, repeating the dose in extreme cases, and feeding ten pounds of bluestone with every one hundred pounds of salt."

Mr. LeFebvre instanced a case where a herd of sheep which had been thin in the fall, the very time when they should have been in best condition, was taken into the yards of a packing company and under especially favorable conditions, were kept until the following spring. They showed no improvement and on investigation, they were found to have been suffering from worm parasites.

SEVENTH LINE LAWN SOCIAL IS ENJOYABLE

Millbrook United Church Group Holds Well Attended Function.

GOOD PROGRAM

Peterborough Artists Present Many Fine Numbers, Receiving Many Encores.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 20.—The lawn social, under the auspices of the Seventh Line Group of the United Church, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Williamson, Cavan, on Tuesday evening was attended by more than two hundred people, and though the event was the initial one of its kind it proved most enjoyable and successful from every viewpoint.

The weather was ideal for the outing, and Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, assisted by an able corps of willing workers, did everything in their power to make their guests have as happy a time as possible.

A more suitable place for gathering could scarcely have been secured, the large grounds providing ample accommodation for all the demands the occasion called for. Streamers hung with gaily-colored flags, which fluttered in the light breeze, formed appropriate decorations for the wide lawns, the tea tables being spread under the trees where was most convenient from the house, and the program, furnished entirely by Peterborough talent, being given from the verandah.

The Seventh Line Group was one of several formed in connection with the 'Church Nights' which were so popular each Wednesday evening at the United Church one year ago last winter, and has continued to function in social gatherings among its members ever since. The public affair on Tuesday evening was a new venture, the proceeds being donated to the church funds.

Many Helpers.

F. McMahon sold tickets at the entry gate, Mrs. Fred Lang and Mrs. Halargue being a reception committee to welcome the guests; Edgar Fallis had charge of the booth, and later in the evening was assisted by a number of the girls who had been waiting on tables. Among those assisting with the tea were Mrs. Edgar Fallis, Mrs. Chester Fee, Mrs. W. G. Rowland, Mrs. J. Smith (Peterborough), Mrs. F. Middleton, Mrs. F. Lowers, Mrs. M. Williamson, Mrs.

Parole System Proves Effective

NEW YORK, July 20.—Figures made public yesterday show the State's parole system is 70 per cent effective.

Statistics of the reorganized parole system, presented in a report by Commissioner Kish, indicate that as against 1,801 prisoners granted parole in the year, there were only 304 returned for violation.

Prison officials point out the results sustain them in the stand they have taken against those who would throw out the parole system.

RAID ENDS IN FATALITY

WINDSOR, July 20.—A police raid at Sunnyside Hotel in La Salle the last of June, when a considerable quantity of liquor was found in a cottage occupied by Chinese waiters, was the indirect cause of the death of one of the men, Paul Lee, counsel for four other Chinese, accused of being in illegal possession of the liquor, told Magistrate W. A. Smith in Sandwich Police Court yesterday.

None of the Chinese was found in the cottage at the time, and Lee, their counsel said, hid out all night, when the raid was made, contracting a cold from which he died in Grace Hospital here on June 23.

Steam Valve On S. S. Toronto Explodes, Killing One; Two Others Injured When Vapor Floods Engine Room

TORONTO, July 20.—In an explosion of a valve on the auxiliary steam line in the engine room of the S.S. Toronto, docked in the Canada Steamship dock at the foot of Bay street, George Chapman, married, third engineer of the vessel, was suffocated and instantly killed by the steam which escaped from the valve.

R. Parsons, fireman on the vessel, was also scalded and was taken to St. Michael's hospital where he is said to be in a critical condition.

Three men, including the dead engineer and the injured fireman, were at work in the engine-room preparing the vessell for its departure to Rochester, when, without warning, the auxiliary steam line, a large pipe over their head, burst at the valve. Chapman, who was standing directly beneath the valve, took the full force of the explosion while Parsons was able to escape speedily from the danger zone.

It took some fifteen minutes to turn off the steam line and to clear the engine room of the death-dealing vapor.

TRAP SHOOTING BEING REVIVED

MANY SHOOTERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Marksmanship of a high standard is not an unknown quantity in and about Campbellofrd. But the Hydro electricians display the quality only at time. For the past week there has been a certain amount of shooting going on in the neighborhood of the power house just north of the town. Investigation shows that it is the Hydro men who are responsible for the noise, while they are at practice with clay pigeons. Ner has the practice been confined to members of the Hydro staff. Last night there were several business and professional men of the town, each armed with his favorite shot gun, standing in line.

There was no scarcity of men, guns or ammunition, but there was a noticeable shortage of "blue rocks." Thanks to a run of poor shooting, the likelihood of a number of unbroken "birds" gave rise to a search party being formed and a second round of shooting resulting from the results of their efforts. Following a second search, there was a free-for-all shoot at the two birds found. As a compliment to the visitors, a local newspaper man was allowed to call "Pull." This gave him the first shot, which he missed. A doctor at the far end of the line "killed" the "bird." This had been his practise during the greater part of the shoot and his twenty-guage weapon with its closer concentration of shot and its longer range, did dealy work. On the second shot, the press made good with a double barrel twelve gauge.

Just what system is being followed is not generally agreed upon as yet, but the basic principle underlying the bombardment is to select a team of marksmen to represent the local section of the Hydro at their annual picnic to be held at Presqu'Ile next Tuesday. The local men will be shooting against men from all over the district.

Several years ago "clay pigeons" was one of the popular sports of the town. A regular association was one of the going sporting organizations of the district and silver spoons were awarded as prizes. The shooting took place on the Seymour Agricultural grounds where a permanent trap was located and regular schedules carried out. For several years there has been practically none of this sport followed here.

Among the gunners present last night, there was considerable discussion as to the probability of reviving the game and several locations were considered for the trap. The one which appeared to receive the favor of the majority was on the west side of the river at the locks imemdiately north of the town. The idea was to locate the trap on the canal bank in such a manner as to have the birds fly high over the shooter's head.

BRITISH PEOPLE ARE IN FAVOR OF POET

outline for themselves the same understandings.

Respects League.

In Sir Austen Chamberlain's note, it was recalled that in a previous communication he had pointed out that respect for League and Locarno obligations "was the foundation of the policy of the Government of this country and that they could not agree to any new treaty which would weaken or undermine these engagements." After mature consideration, the note added, the London Government was satisfied that fulfillment of its obligations under the League covenant and the Treaty of Locarno was not precluded by acceptance of the treaty proposed by Secretary Kellogg.

"They (the British Government) concur in the view enunciated by the German Government in their note of the 27th April that those obligations do not contain anything which could conflict with the treaty proposed bythe United States Government," the Chamberlain note continued.

Parties Released.

The previously stated British position that if one party to the proposed treaty resorted to war in violation of its terms, other parties should be released automatically from obligations under the treaty towards the violating nation, had been met satisfactorily, the note went on, is the stipulation of this point inserted in the preamble of the revised draft. That stipulation denies to any treaty power resorting to war against another signatory "to promote its national interests," all benefits of the treaty.

The British note asserted "peculiar satisfaction" that all parties to the Locarno treaty were now invited to become original signatories of the new treaty. It also noted "that it is clearly the wish of the United States Government that all members of the League should become parties either by signature or accession." The British note urges "a general invitation" to all League members to adhere.

Regional Interests.

Coming down to the question of special regional interests, the Chamberlain note said:

"As regards the passage in my note of the 19th May relating to certain regions of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety, I need only repeat that His Majesty's Government in Great Britain accept the new treaty upon the understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect."

The Secretary for Foreign Affairs said he was in accord with the views expressed by Secretary Kellogg in a speech on April 28 as to the unimpaired rights of self-defence under the treaty, "also with his opinion that each state alone is competent to decide when circumstances necessitate recourse to war for that purpose."

"In the light of the foregoing explanation," the British note said in conclusion, "His Majesty's Government in Great Britain is glad to join with thte United States and with all other governments similarly disposed in signing a definite treaty for the renunciation of war as transmitted in your note of the 23rd June. They rejoice to be associated with the Government of the United States of America and the other parties to the proposed treaty in a further and signal advance in the outlawry of war."

Twelve Nations Accept

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 20. — (Canadian Press).—All but two of the fourteen nations to which the Kellogg treaty for renunciation of war was submitted, have stated their willingness to join in the compact. Japan and Czecho Slovakia alone remain to be heard from but their replies are expected to be favorable.

WHEAT YIELD FAIRLY HEAVY

LITTLE RUST REPORTED

Though the season is not yet sufficiently advanced to give a decided statement relative to root crops, J. B. Nelson, B.S.A., local representative of the Department of Agriculture, in conversation with The Examiner today, declared that the grain crops show promise of a fairly heavy yield this year, so far as Peterborough County is concerned.

Speaking of conditions generally, Mr. Nelson stated that so far, the fall wheat and hay crops have shown the best progress, although the wet weather of the past week has slowed up the latter considerably. The hay is not particularly heavy but it looks good, considering the late start it was given due to weather conditions in the spring.

Regarding the wheat crop, any not winter killed or injured is showing exceptionally well. There is a larger acreage than usual while comparisons with other counties show less winter killing in Peterborough than the other districts. The heads appear well filled while the straw crop is promising.

Other grains are not so far advanced though barley is out in head and oats is coming along well. Conditions prevailing so far do not indicate trouble from rust or other sources, any more than usual. It is too early to determine what the trouble will be, according to Mr. Nelson. Such forms of trouble usually develop in later grains.

Too much moisture has been detrimental to the corn crop this summer, though root crops have made encouraging progress. There are many good looking potato fields throughout the county.

W. W. Stroyhn and another gentleman attended the convention after travelling from 500 miles north of Vancouver. Mr. Patte extended an invitation to the breeders to hold their next convention at Chemong which was accepted. Hon. W. D. Black, speaker of the Ontario House, was elected president for the ensuing year and Mr. Garland, member for East Ottawa also attended the meeting.

FIRE DESTROYS ORMOND PLANT

Cheese Factory at Hastings Demolished Yesterday Afternoon.

MOST OF CHEESE SAVED

HASTINGS, July 20. The Ormonde cheese and butter factory was completely demolished by fire on Thursday afternoon. The fire was of unknown origin and was first noticed when flames burst from the roof of the manufacturing plant. All assistance was rendered by the volunteers and the town brigade, but fire had gained too great a start to be extinguished.

The storage room was partly saved and most of the cheese. This is a great set back to the farmers as a heavy flow of milk was coming to the factory each day. Several of the farmers on the southern side of the town are going to send their milk to Brickley factory for the remainder of the season.

There was a severe wound in the abdomen and both feet were broken.

At the Boulogne morgue, Dr. Boulfroy made a formal post mortem examination and the mayor of Calais, Leon Vancent, drew up a signed official statement recounting the circumstances of finding the body and the result of the examination of the remains. No official conclusion was made public.

Will Begin Inquiry

It is believed here that now that the mystery of the financier's disappearance has been solved, the French government will begin an official inquiry to establish whether the death was accidental or a suicide and if any of Captain Loewenstein's fellow passengers in the plane will share any responsibility for his death. A police commissioner late to-day began the usual informal investigations but it is probable that the case will be turned over to an examining magistrate tomorrow.

One of the first results of today's find will be to permit immediately the preliminary work of winding up the vast estate of Europe's greatest "mystery" financer. Had the body remained undiscovered legal experts feared that it would be years before this work could be completed and that the Captain's great holdings would be tied up indefinitely.

Seldom has the death of an individual caused such a flood of rumors and surmises as did Captain Loewenstein's disappearance. Stock exchanges in every center of Europe were hard hit when the news was made known and there were sharp declines in every security in which he was known to be interested. Most serious of the rumors abroad at the time was that the Captain had landed secretly from the plane and was in hiding and that his financial affairs were in a most precarious condition. Reassuring statements from bankers and other financiers in a position to know his affairs smoothed the troubled waters and there was an upward reaction on the market.

The rumors of a hoax persisted, however, and were set at rest only today. They were reflected in the refusal of a Belgian court on July 9 to issue a death certificate, thus delaying the winding up of the estate. Just what course French and Belgian authorities will take in the matter will probably be determined by the official inquiry which it is expected will be held within a few days.

Relief to Family

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 20. — News of the finding of the body of Captain Alfred Loewenstein, missing Belgian financier, came as a great relief to his family. The family lawyers summoned a family council and judicial authorities were notified. Members of the family started for Bouologne immediately to identify the body and obtain a death certificate.

MORE BATHING ACCOMMODATION.

The arrival of hot weather has served to accentuate the fact that Peterborough is not as well served in the matter of safe swimming accommodation as is desirable or as is feasible.

The closing down of the Lake street beach leaves the city with only one supervised swimming place, and while Inverlea Park is a source of pleasure to many citizens, it is not conveniently situated for the people of the south and south-western portions of the city, nor is it by any means a perfect bathing beach.

We are continually preaching the desirability of our people learning to swim.

It is a safeguard against accidents, and at the same time a splendid exercise and an enjoyable recreation.

But the fact remains that many of our people have a long distance to travel to reach the only supervised beach in the city, and thus are deprived of the opportunity that should be available of frequent swims during the summer months.

The Examiner would like to know that this matter is receiving some attention from the Council, seeing that it is business that might well receive official notice.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA RESULT.

After twelve years of Liberal rule, the electors of British Columbia decided on Wednesday that it was time for a change, turning out the McLean ministry in decisive fashion.

The election was fought around issues of minor importance, and the result is regarded as somewhat of a personal triumph for Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, the Conservative leader, who resigned from the Federal House to take the provincial command, and has made good in his first major engagement.

Dr. Tolmie, who will, of course, be the next Premier of the Province, is a capable and well regarded politician with experience in the Federal Cabinet and as Dominion organizer of the Conservative party to assist him in the responsible position to which he has been elected.

During the campaign the Government's battle cry was to let well enough alone, while the Opposition stressed the need of a more aggressive policy in the interest of the Province, particularly in regard to the launching of a drive for more people for British Columbia.

HELPING OUR VISITORS.

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior is a Government agency that has been paying special attention to the tourist question, and that has done much to create among our American friends a desire to see Canada.

Maps and information have been sent out in large numbers with good results, and now as another contribution to the convenience and comfort of tourists, the service, in co-operation with the Department of National Revenue, has compiled a most useful pamphlet, "How to Enter Canada," in which the regulations regarding the entry of automobiles for touring, pleasure boats, tourists' outfits and travellers' baggage have been concisely summarized.

Everything that the tourist planning to visit this country needs to know about his official entry herein is contained in this four-page summary, which should prove of great assistance to our American visitors.

This is service that earns good dividends and that cannot fail to create a favorable impression that will be reflected in the visit of larger numbers of tourists to Canada.

TOURIST CAMPS.

The intimation that the Provincial Government will bring in regulations at the next session to bring all tourist camps in Ontario within the scope of provincial inspection and approval is not unexpected.

These camps, many of which are privately owned, have sprung up all over Ontario, and it is desirable that they should be brought up to standard in regard to having a good supply of pure water, proper sanitation, and pure milk and food supplies.

It is said that out of 400 camps visited by the Sanitary Engineering Branch of the Provincial Health Department last year only 40 could have qualified for the official "approved" sign.

One of ten up to standard is a percentage that makes it necessary for a change, and the intimation of the department that camps that do not meet with the approval of the officials will not be allowed to operate should be a warning to managements of tourist camps.

Another problem that has been created is that of dealing with houses in which tourists are accommodated.

On some highways it would seem that every second house provides such accommodation, and these places are under no supervision what so ever, either in regard to the manner in which they are operated, the conveniences they offer, or their safety from a fire hazard viewpoint.

AN OLD FRIEND SNUBBED.

The decision of radio station WEEI of Boston to place a ban upon jokes about Scotch thrift suggests that the American people are beginning to discriminate in the matter of their humor. The joke about Sandy and the sixpence—there is really only one basic Scottish thrift joke—has been worked to death. It is doubtful if the Boston station is quite correct, however, in thinking that the fun is all squeezed out of canny Caledonianism. Occasionally a good story-teller can still make a hit with a joke about the Scots. Harry Lauder himself, apparently having made a collection of all the known varieties of the Scottish joke, is now syndicating them in the newspapers. There must be some substance remaining in the ancient jests. Even the Scots themselves get a smile out of the new dress put upon some of the old favorites. Perhaps that is why the Scottish joke is going out of business. What is the use of being facetious about the characteristics of a race which does not mind being "kidded"?

There are other standardized jokes, ragged and threadbare, still going the round and begging to be retired. It is not so long since most of the funny ones began: "There were two Irishmen, Pat and Mike—"; or "There were an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scotchman." Still later there was a vogue for the "Abie and Ikey" joke. All of these were based as a rule on racial peculiarities, but the subjects have not complained, and the jests are so frazzled that they should go to the scrapheap with the ancient stage drolleries about mothers-in-law, white spats, onions, and red whiskers.

There should be some sympathy for the sad fellows who write jokes and epigrams for a living. After all there is hardly any such thing as an original joke. Most of the periodicals which buy jokes do not care to buy the subtle ones. They want "the burlesque type which produces laughs rather than smiles," as one fun magazine declares; or, according to another, "farce rather than comedy, grotesque rather than natural; comical, not clever, nonsensical rather than sophisticated." The old reliable, dyed-in-the-wool, tested and tried jokes have still the widest public.

If many more radio stations follow the example of WEEI in banning jokes to which the American people have at least become accustomed, they will soon be forced to crack jokes at their own expense: "Have you heard the one about the American?"—London Advertiser.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT.

"The side with the dough on election day" will win the presidential election in the United States, according to Frank R. Kent, writing in the American Mercury. "It isn't a question of issues," he says. "It isn't a question of candidates. It is a question of money. If one side has it and the other has not there will be no real argument." Mr. Kent, who is the principal political correspondent of the Baltimore Sun and the author of several books on politics, should speak with some authority on the subject.

Not one election in ten, says Mr. Kent—he is speaking solely of the United States—swings on "ideas or issues, personalities, principles or platforms." Money is "the really vital factor." By that he means what he calls money for "current expenses"—which he describes as "sufficient money on election day to at least prevent the opposition from corralling the entire venal vote—money enough to employ your share of the employable." Election day money, he asserts, is entirely distinct from campaign money and it does not show in the sworn statements.

According to Mr. Kent, there is not now much direct bribery of voters, largely because it is impossible to tell whether the voter "has stayed bought like an honest man." There is a more modern system of looking after the boys, and he tells how it is done. In the United States there are about 150,000 precincts and 60,000,000 qualified voters, or an average of approximately 400 voters for each precinct. Every precinct has "anywhere from fifteen to thirty men—and now occasionally a woman or two—whose chief idea about the day is that it offers them an opportunity to make a little easy money." These are the brethren who used to sell their votes. Now they are "employed" as workers.

Mr. Kent explains further:

"Supplied through his machine superior with money for 'current expenses' the Democratic executive, say, picks out ten of these workers or runners in his precinct and employs them at from $5 to $10 each. At a maximum the cost of $100. They are worth at least 100 votes. Consider, now, what 100 votes mean in a precinct where the total vote is 400 and less than two-thirds of that number really vote!"

Men of "considerable families and wide connections" are given the preference in this employment and each paid "worker" has to deliver his whole family circle. Having done that, his money is earned.

When both parties are equipped with funds for "current expenses" they play the same game and Republican and Democratic workers offset one another. It is only in such a contingency, declares Mr. Kent, that the result is determined "by the character of the campaign, the sort of show that has been given, the prejudices and predilections of the voters." "No President has been chosen in this country since the Civil War," he says, "whose campaign was not sufficiently well financed to take care of 'current expenses,' which means to get a share of the support of all the influences that can be affected by money." "The candidate," he says again, "who can't meet those election day expenses wins only once in a hundred times, and then on a fluke—and never if he is running for President."

"These are the hard, cold and practical political facts. . . . It may be more or less shocking to those who believe that elections are decided by the popular will to find the real power to elect Presidents is lodged largely in the hands of about two million low-grade fellows scattered through 150,000 precincts, who regularly sell the votes of themselves and their controllable families in the manner I have described. Yet such is the fact, and from it there is no escape. Infinitely more powerful politically than the intelligent classes, these low fellows hold the situation in their hands. When they do not offset each other the prize goes to the side they select."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

British Columbia has gone Conservative provincially, which means much or nothing, according to the way you look at it.

Apropos of that suggestion to provide fish for souvenirs to large parties of visitors, a local citizen sends in his address and expresses his willingness to accept any fish that may be left over.

The Peterborough ball team is to be an attraction at the Conservative picnic in Oshawa to-morrow. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Conservative Federal leader, is also to be there.

As Dr. Tolmie, the Premier-elect in British Columbia, used to be Federal Minister of Agriculture, it is safe to assume that he knows his political oats.

The water in Lake Ontario is too cold for the marathon swimmers, so that they are already provided with an alibi in the event of a poor showing in the big event.

The hemlock looper is a new peril reported from the Muskoka district. And the worst of it is that, unlike the British Columbia sea serpent, this pest really exists.

GOD'S MINUTE

"Ye are not redeemed with corruptible things * * * but with the precious blood of Christ."—I Peter 1:18, 19.

Oh God, we would come to Thee with reverence and fear, for Thou art great in majesty and holiness, yet with confidence and love, for Thou art our Heavenly Father. Thou hast loved us with a great love. Thou hast redeemed us with a great Sacrifice. Forgive us for having sinned against Thee. As Thy children Thou dost desire us to be holy, that we may be like Thee. Help us not to thwart and disappoint Thee in Thy gracious desires and purposes. Cleanse us from all sin. Save us from pride and unbelief and self-will, from evil tempers and everything that is low and mean. Make us generous and forgiving. Perfect in us Thy love. Reveal in us Thy Son. Fill us with Thy Spirit. Dwell Thou in our hearts. Beautify us with Thy Salvation until we shall indeed be lights in the world. Save and sanctify our loved ones. Oh may not one lift up a rebellious spirit against Thee, or be indifferent toward Thee! Have mercy upon the nations and peoples of the world. Pity them that are wrapped in spiritual darkness and ignorance. Comfort them that mourn and are broken-hearted. Bind up and heal the hurts made by sin and wrong. Overthrow oppressors. Outwit evil doers. Incline the hearts of all men to receive Thy Son as Saviour and Lord, to love Thy law, to do Thy will, to work for justice and truth, that Thy blessed kingdom of righteousness and peace may speedily come and fill the whole earth. In His name, we ask these things. Amen.

PERFECTION

It is morally more healthful to arrive at perfection in one department, than to enjoy a puny mediocrity or even an inferior excellence in several, and Nature herself guides us to this conclusion by signally endowing men with special faculties.—Hawels.

All cattle were cleared with the exception of a few common milkers and springers, for which there is very little demand.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 20 (Canadian Press). — There was a good steady demand from foreign buyers for grain here yesterday, and a fair amount of business was done in wheat and oats. The export sales of Canadian wheat for the past five days have been large owing to the fact that Italy has cleaned up all the available supply of Durum wheat, and Russia has drawn heavily on No. 3 Northern.

A feature of the local market was the steady demand from exporters for supplies and further sales of No. 3 Northern wheat were made at 1⅛c per bushel over the Winnipeg option, and No. 1 feed oats at 3⅛c over, c.i.f., Montreal. There was some inquiry from New York exporters for Argentine corn here, but no further sales resulted. Spot cash prices for oats were weak again and declined 1c per bushel.

There was no change in prices for spring wheat flour announced, but the undertone was weaker owing to the further decline in prices for contract grades of wheat at Winnipeg. The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent was somewhat limited, but all the orders received were accepted and a moderate amount of business was done. The trade for local account continued quiet. Winter wheat flour was dull and unchanged.

Owing to the steady downward tendency of wheat prices of late a weaker feeling developed in the market for bran and shorts, and prices scored a decline of $2.00 per ton, but middlings were unchanged. There was no improvement in the demand. There was no further change in prices for rolled oats, but the undertone to the market was easy at the decline noted on account of the continued weakness in oats. The volume of business was small.

There was no actual change in the condition of the butter situation, the undertone to the market being about steady owing to the fact that there was no pressure on the part of holders to liquidate although supplies have been coming forward in fairly liberal quantities. The volume of business showed no improvement. The receipts were 1,730 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market was steady at the late decline in prices noted owing to the continued absence of any imported demand. The receipts were 5,357 boxes.

EXAMINERS ARE MARKING PAPERS

Middle and Upper School Examinations Brought 172,000 Entries.

Department of Education examiners are busily marking 172,000 papers brought to their attention by the middle and upper school examination throughout Ontario.

According to The Port Hope Times there were approximately 24,000 middle school candidates representing roughly 127,000 answer papers to be read. Upper school represented 10,000 candidates representing more than 45,000 answer papers. The Lower school Normal Entrance candidates are mostly passed by the teachers but they will receive certificates and there will be at least 35,000 of these candidates.

There has been no great increase in the number of candidates since a couple of years ago, but the figures are evidence that the schools are still well filled up to the highest grades.

THAT SATURDAY BATH

DENVER, July 20.—The weekly ablution isn't nearly as popular in December as it is in July. Figures recently compiled by Frank Patton, commissioner of supplies, show that three baths grow in July where only buds forth in December. The July total was 24,248 whereas December shows only 8,279.

In the days of Cromwell fine quality tea cost as much as thirty dollars a pound. To-day, you only pay a few cents more for Red Rose Orange Pekoe than for ordinary tea, but you get the highest quality and greatest value. Put up in clean, bright aluminum packages. 8-2

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 20 (Canadian Press). — Wheat prices underwent a decided fresh setback yesterday influenced by favorable prospects for the spring crop harvest now nearly at hand. Predictions were current that with ordinary weather the crop promise August 1 would be for a 280,000,000 bushel yield of domestic spring wheat.

Closing quotations of wheat were unsettled, 1⅝c to 1⅞c net lower; corn unchanged to 1¼c up; oats varying from ⅝c decline to ⅞c advance, and provisions unchanged to 17c down.

Downturns yesterday in the value of wheat were practically unrestrained by late indications that export North America amounted to 1,500,000 bushels, including some Gulf wheat.

Spring wheat harvesting will begin within a week, according to comprehensive reports yesterday from railroad sources. In this connection the inference was drawn that the spring wheat harvest would probably therefore be finished this season at an earlier date than usual.

Almost from the outset corn was decidedly strong, with previous speculators sellers becoming active as buyers. July oats turned strong in the late dealings, but more distant months were easy.

Provisions were weak.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 20 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

Demand—$4.86 15-16.

Cables—$4.87 7-16.

Butter and Eggs

TORONTO, July 20—There was little activity on the local wholesale produce market yesterday. No price changes were announced at the close of the session.

Canadian egg markets, although practically unchanged, with the exception of Montreal, are tending easier. The local egg market is unchanged with the undertone easy. Dealers are continuing to quote country shippers at: Extras, 34 to 35c; firsts, 31 to 31c; seconds, 25 to 26c. Prices to retailers are: Extras, 40 to 42c; firsts, 37 to 38c; seconds, 31 to 32c. At Montreal the egg market is very quiet and inactive. Stocks are accumulating and the tone is weak. Prices are about 1c lower all around. Winnipeg egg market is unchanged in tone and prices. Dealers are buying from country shippers at: Extras, 32c; firsts, 29 to 30c; seconds, 25 to 26c, delivered, cases returned. Prices to retailers are: Extras 39c, firsts 37c, seconds 33c.

PORT HOPE GETS EXTRA PAVEMENT

Stretch Will Be Continuous From Bewdley to Town.

PORT HOPE, July 19.—Peterborough motorists to Port Hope will be greeted by a continuous stretch of concrete after they leave Bewdley. It was the original intention to stop the paving at the corner of Mitchell's gardens but owing to the enterprising efforts of T. B. Chalk who recently interviewed Hon. George S. Henry, the paving will be brought south as far as the head of Ontario street in Port Hope to make the continuous stretch.

The stretch of road from Ontario street to Mitchell's gardens has always been one of the roughest on the highway and the paving has been brought about by a successful agreement whereby the town of Port Hope pays a small percentage of the cost of this extra paving and the Department of Highways pays the balance.

The paving on the highway is being done by the Thunder Bay Paving Company which is making rapid progress.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

An independent outside opinion on the market:

Brazilian was again active, but moved within a narrow radius and showed no definite trend. It continues to be accumulated by investors and speculators who believe it is a purchase around these figures for sale in the big market looked for later in the year. The half year's earnings show an increase of 1,285,619 over the same period last year and June gross earnings were the largest of any month in the company's history.

• • •

Winnipeg, though easier than on the previous day, was one of the strongest features in the early trading, but closed with offerings two points down. I expect to see money in Winnipeg on both sides for some weeks yet. It is an excellent trading medium rivalling Nickel in this respect.

• • •

Stocks which reacted to the point at which I think they may be purchased for a turn were Fraser, Brompton and Alberta Grain, the recessions in each of which were substantial.

• • •

Brompton eased to 41, the lowest price it has touched for a very long time, and five points below its low on the first severe break in the paper stocks. As a two per cent. dividend payer, it should be a safe buy.

• • •

Northern Mexico Power also reacted to a low on the movement at 86½, and closed with that price bid. The assassination of General Obregon in Mexico is thought to have induced some selling.

• • •

Noranda was the feature on the Curb and on the Standard Mining Exchange. Its rise is viewed both here and in New York as the probable prelude to a much larger one which will carry it to record heights before long.

• • •

Abana was also in strong demand and holds well to its new range between 3.25 and $3.35. Operators in Abana are talking very big figures for later and in the summer and early fall.

• • •

Big Missouri, which I recommend under and around 50, had a sharp advance consequent on rumors that Smelters is taking a greater interest in its development and will complete payment on Saturday. Big Missouri could very easily have a sharp run as it has already this year sold as high as $1.75.

• • •

International Nickel, being affected by the New York rally recovered to 92½, and was almost alone in showing strength on the local list. Expansion planned by Nickel which will more than double the production in 1930 are giving stimulus to bulls on the stock who anticipate a big market for it in the fall.

Steel Price Advance Is Now Largely Lost

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Steel price advances undertaken in nearly all lines have, for the most part, been lost. This was largely because they never got fully into effect with respect to the largest buyers.

Sheets and strips completed their reaction to the old prices many weeks ago, and in the last week wire products have openly done the same. In bars, shapes and plates part of the attempted advance is actually effective. Pipe was advanced April 2, long after the other advances, and the pipe advance is holding, but that is a special case. Some pipe is sold direct to jobbers while much is consigned to them, and mill prices depend largely on jobbers' prices. Last year the pipe jobbers were very competitive and made no profit. For this year they reformed and are holding prices.

Wire nails are firmer at $2.55, to which the sellers have formally reduced than they were a few weeks ago when the official price was $2.65 and deliveries were being bade at less than $2.55. In merchant bars Cleveland mills seem bent upon establishing a Cleveland base above the Pittsburgh base, whereas of late they have generally sold f.o.b. Cleveland at Pittsburgh prices. In semi-finished steel, billets, slabs and sheet bars, the market started slipping more than three months ago and recently it lost a little more ground. Producers now have a firm stand on the reduced prices and seem to be manoeuvring to attempt an actual advance. In the general territory there are three centres of production in semi-finished steel—Pittsburgh, Youngstown and Cleveland—and producers are disposed to confine their offers of steel to their regular customers.

In other words, there is much room for surmise that whenever steel prices become really unsatisfactory the producers are quite capable of improving the situation and that on the other hand if prices promise such earnings as to encourage expansion in capacity they become jealous and act accordingly.

Toronto Market Quiet, with Changes Small

TORONTO, July 20. — Canadian Press. — The market was very dull at this day's session of the Toronto stock exchange. Prices were very firm and fluctuations rare and small. International Nickel alone was active and closed fractionally higher at 92⅜.

The bank issues were steady with Commerce unchanged at 295 and Dominion up one at 257. On the curb North Star oil scored a heavy turnover at 4.75. Other issues were quiet with British American Oil up ¼ at 37½ and Standard Paving down ¼ at 28.

Selling at Opening Followed by Rally.

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press). — The stock market displayed a complete reversal of form to-day, selling off sharply at the opening and then rallying briskly. Early heaviness was undoubtedly due to speculative disappointment over the relatively small decrease of $48,000,000 in brokers' loans. But the marking down of the call money renewal rate to five per cent., the lowest since May 7, revived bullish enthusiasm.

The importation of $1,000,000 in Canadian gold was more than offset by the withdrawal of $14,000,000 in earmarked gold for shipment to France.

Mercantile and mail order issues again attracted special buying on reports of large current business. McRory Stores Common and the B stock and Montgomery Ward all moved into the new high ground. Steel shares reflected the optimistic trade predictions of oetter business in the last half of the year, gains of one to nearly three points being recorded by U.S. Steel Common, Bethlehem, Republic, Vanadium, Gulf States, and Colorado.

Sudden Rise at Liverpool is Followed at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Unexpected upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations, together with word of liberal export business over night, led to higher prices early today in the wheat market here. Hot weather over Central Europe and the resulting deterioration of the crops, was a reason given for the Liverpool advance. Opening 3-8 to 7-8 cents up, Chicago wheat later scored additional gains. Corn and oats were also stronger, with corn starting unchanged to ½ cent higher, and subsequently showing an advance all around. Provisions went lower. At noon wheat was 1 1-8 to 1 3-8 cents net higher and corn 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 125½, September 128 3-8; corn, July 107 5-8, September 99¼; oats, July 48 5-8, September 40¾.

Noranda Reaches $60 With Heavy Turnover

TORONTO, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Noranda approached its high for all time on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day when it touched $60.05. The issued scored a heavy turnover and closed with a gain of 30 at 58.55. The market on the whole was quiet with prices on the upward trend. Heavy trading in Penny stock continued.

Teck Hughes failed to respond to Noranda's leadership and dropped seven to 9.78. Hollinger was unchanged at 11.70, as was Malartic at 1.41.

The Western issues, with the exception of Big Missouri, which dropped five to 67, were strong. Pend Oreille advanced 75 to 15.00 on a small turnover. Hudson Bay, at 19, was up 30; while Sherritt Gordon gained eight to 7.08, and Central Manitoba gained five to 1.05.

Among the cheaper issues prominent on the list were Goodfish, unchanged at 51; Gold Hill, up ½ at 7¾; Howey, up 5½; San Antonio down one at 49, and Windfall down two at 10.

RESOURCES OF NORTH ONTARIO

Forest reserve. Here, one passes through 70 miles of primeval forests, the road cut straight as a swath through the trees. The government has established tourist camps every three and a half to four miles, which are used not only by tourists but also as a headquarters for hunters of red deer and moose. He said that they got accustomed to seeing these animals.

Cobalt, New Liskeard, and Haileybury are situated within ten miles of each other in wonderful farming country. A half mile north of New Liskeard is the government experimental station, and for 35 miles straight north with a width of 25 miles is the Lesser Clay Belt where a plough will not strike a stone. The depth of the clay is unknown. It is necessary to go down 200 feet for an artesian well, and then they are not sure that they have reached bed rock.

Haileybury and New Liskeard are sitated on Lake Temiskaming within ten miles of each other backed by ten miles of the most wonderful farming country in the province. The rivers flowing into the lake are very good sources for power and also an outlet for the surrounding country.

Modern Schools.

Leaving Engleheart there is very good farming country with many consolidated schools. There are six buses running to one of the schools and another is a modern brick building built on the corner of a farm away from any town. From New Liskeard to Iroquois Falls there are 44 schools with 2,500 children.

From Boston Creek north the height of land is crossed but the division between the lakes flowing north and those flowing south is not noticeable. Kirkland Lake built around the mines, has a sixteen-room public school, and eight-room separate school, a four-room continuation school and a new five-room high school under construction to be completed shortly. North of the height of land there is the greater clay belt from Raymor to James Bay. The railroad runs for 70 miles north of Cochrane into some of the finest sections of the country.

Last September fall wheat was ripening along the Ferguson Highway in the fields. The crop of hay is unexcelled, ahead of the hay that is grown around here. The trouble is that they do not know what to do with it. The Agriculture Department has been very active in establishing cheese and butter factories urging the farmers to raise cattle.

The lack of capital is the chief drawback. The Government is doing great work by lending pure-bred stock and by establishing a very active Junior Farmers' organization as well as the Women's Institute. Harry Okes gave Kirkland a $75,000 rink, which is open every afternoon to the 600 public school children. He also provided 200 pairs of skates and boots to some of the children. One can find at the hotel at Kirkland Lake, Jack Munroe, who was the first Canadian soldier to set his foot on French soil in the last war. He was so anxious that he jumped overboard and swam ashore. The fishing is excellent. Brook trout teem the streams within seven miles of the town. On one occasion a party returned with 21 trout, all over 5 pounds each and in country near where historic explorers had passed, lending romance to the outing.

The speaker said he could go on for a long time, but as the time was getting short, he said the only way to know the country was to go there for yourself, and quoted The Song of the Hub, written and put to music by George White, a member of the New Liskeard Club:

We follow the plough
Stack the grain in the mow,
Just like the pioneers of old.
We play our games
We stake our claim, the copper and the gold
Our bathing beach is within easy reach
With good roads all around
Take it from me
It's a good place to be.

The whole address was made interesting by many side lights, stories and experiences. Kiwanian Mr. Richardson of Cayahoga Falls, a school worker expressed a vote of thanks as a co-worker on behalf of the Peterborough Club President.

Dr. S. J. Graham rendered two tenor solos which were very much appreciated. The first number, a Russian song, depicting the life and misery of a Russian Peasant, the title of the song was Nichavo. His encore was of a lighter type called "Tis That I Love."

President Joe John moved a hearty vote of thanks. Kiwanian Harry Huffman was Booster and the prize winners were Charles Clark of Toronto, and Kiwanians Jack Craig and George Little.

To-day's visitors were Dr. S. J. Graham, Ray Harding, Charles Clark of Toronto; Art Wood of Guelph; Leo Copp of New Liskeard, Wallace Bierce of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, Fred Hall of Cleveland, and Mrs. Richardson of Cuyahoga Falls.

President John reminded the elected Kiwanians of their duty to visit the Jackson Park Health Camp on Tuseday and Kiwanian Isaac McNabb extended an invitation to the Peterborough Club to attend the Lindsay Kiwanis Excursion to Rochester on July 25th.

SWEEPNG CHANGES IN C. N. R. TOLD

were political enterprises, or colonization enterprises, never expected to pay from the start; that they were built out of revenue and no bonds issued for their financing and therefore that the Government ought to assume that cost in toto. It is understood to be part of the plan for a new set-up that all of these lines should be leased to the Canadian National Railways for 99 years at one dollar, which would automatically wipe out a theoretical liability of $436,416,387.

The next step suggested is that the accumulated deficits of the Canadian National and the Grand Trunk since their operation under government control, be deducted from the total of government loans and accrued with compounded interest. These deficits total $143,912,657. The aggregate of these revisions in the balance sheet would mean a total deduction of $1,149,329,045 from the sum of $2,239,478,478—leaving a net cost of the system at roughly $1,100,000,000. This latter sum it is pointed out, would represent a capital cost of approximately $50,000 per mile for 22,000 miles of railroad in the system, a figure which is said to compare favorably with other railways and to represent a reasonable basis upon which to expect the system to pay. In fact it is stated by advocates of the plan, that its application would effect a permanent solution of the perplexed financial problem of the Canadian National System.

SLATER FOUND INNOCENT MAN

Famous Murder Conviction of 1909, set Aside by Judge for Misdirection.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 20 (Canadian Press).—The conviction of Oscar Slater for the murder of Miss Mary Gilchirst, an aged woman, in 1908, has been unanimously set aside. The judge, in the proceedings of Slater to establish his innocence, set the conviction aside on the ground that it was a misdirection in law. Slater had been released last November.

Slater was arrested in New York early in 1909 as he stepped from a liner. He waived extradition and was returned to Glasgow for trial. He was convicted and condemned to death, but sentence was commuted to life imprisonment two days before the date set for the execution. His release on parole last November followed a campaign waged in his behalf by friends, among whom Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was most prominent.

The case came into prominence last August during the world wide interest in the Sacco-Venzetti case; several British newspapers citing it as a case in British history which might be compared with the Massachusetts case.

It is understood that the Government will consider the question of compensation to Slater for his wrongful conviction.

CHIEF CLERK IS HONORED

wherewithall to keep the wheels of the iron horse turning in the service of the people. From small beginnings you have been privileged to see the slow but steady growth of a railway system from a few score miles to the great Highway which now spans the continent from sea to sea. We congratulate on your unbroken record of faithful service. We are glad that you are still enjoying vigorous health and look forward to your continuing to go in and out among us for some years to come.

"You have enjoyed the confidence of your officers and the good will of the staff of this office. Many who began their apprenticeship under you have gone out into other lines of usefulness and have made good, filling acceptably the positions in the business of our country. Some of these are with us on this occasion to join in wishing you long life and prosperity.

"Please accept this chain and engraved locket as a token of esteem and appreciation from your fellow workers, past and present. May it ever remind you of happy days gone by and be a talisman to cheer you in days yet to be."

"On behalf of the Staff."

After the reading of the letter Mr. Clementi received the gold chain and locket and also a box of cigars. The gift was very tastily chosen—it was a green gold chain and a gold locket. On this were engraved the words—"Fred V. Clementi" on the front; and "Canadian National Railways, 1878—1928" on the back.

Recalls Early Days

Mr. Clementi, in replying, recalled some of the old days that are attached to the romance of railroading. He said: "I thank you very much. It has been a long time, but I didn't notice it pass. When I first came on the road they used wood-burner engines, and it took four hours to go to Port Hope. There were no telegrams in those days, and people were advised by messenger of the arrival of their freight, but there was not very much of that. It has grown from a small figure to a large amount in my time.

"The train crew used to have to work hard putting wood into the engine and applying the hand brake. The passengers also had to get out and help at times. Mr. Gladman was agent at the time, and W. Bruce Ferguson, my uncle, was superintendent. Mr. Hungel was president for a short time, then George A. Cox followed him. The road ran from Port Hope to Wabaushene. I have tried to make it pleasant for you in your work but sometimes I have to be a little hard."

Mr. Clementi has worked and been connected with what is now the C.N.R. all his life, and has watched the growth and amalgamation with other roads before the time the road came into Peterborough, but went up to Lindsay by Millbrook. Later the road came to Peterborough, but did not go from here to Omemee, which made the famous missing link. Then came the linking up with the other road at Omemee from Peterborough, which was the completion of the link.

Mr. Clementi is very well liked by his fellow workers. Each Christmas he usually is presented with some token of remembrance by the staff.

The presentation, which came as a surprise, pleased him greatly and before leaving he offered everyone in the office one of the cigars he had received as well as showing all the chain and locket, with a happy smile like a tickled school boy.

TENNIS PLAYERS DEFEAT COBOURG

The Peterborough Tennis Club again strengthened their winning streak when they took Cobourg for a ride of five matches to two. Peterborough was victorious in all events except the ladies' singles and the ladies' doubles. The Peles won both matches of the men's singles and doubles, as well as the mixed double.

INTEND TO MAKE FAIR SLOGAN GOOD

Ottawa Directors Promise "Six Wonderful Days and Half Dozen Big Nights."

Four weeks from next Monday the Ottawa Exhibition will open. Six wonderful days and half a dozen big nights is the slogan adopted for this year and indications are that the directors intend to make good for every minute of the week, August 20 to 25.

Space in the various buildings will be completely filled with the finest live stock, and products of the field, forest, mines and industries. Under one roof will be combined displays which will show the progress of science—automobiles, aircraft and radio. Each department will be replete with the latest models and the demonstrations will be both educational and highly interesting.

In the enlarged Howick Hall will be shown poultry and live stock. The judging of the principal classes will take place in the large Coliseum and the patrons, from comfortable seats, will be able to see some of the best horses in Canada in classy performances in harness or under saddle. In other buildings will be found the pure food show, the dairy display for which special electric refrigeration has been installed, flowers, fruit, grain, handicrafts and arts, government displays, child welfare demonstrations, dog show, hobby show, machinery and the last word in fashions by local merchants.

Famous Victor Band

The stellar musical offerings for the week will be the famous Victor band which will give daily concerts from the shell bandstand. In addition to the members of the band, exhibition patrons will hear Miss Gertrude Van Deinse, the celebrated dramatic soprano, known as "the girl with the million dollar voice." For the top liner in the program in front of the grandstand, Schooley and Collins will present Frivolities of 1928. This is an elaborate and pretentious music and dance revue, with a large cast of artists, mostly girls. The principals have been carefully selected from Broadway productions and the revue works on a special stage completely electrically equipped and sumptuous from a scenic standpoint.

Another outstanding factor in the grandstand program will be California Frank who will present a complete rodeo. California Frank for years has had a leading place in programs for big fairs and indoor expositions. Cowboys and cowgirls will be seen in wild west stunts including riding bucking horses and steers, roping, shooting, etc. Other acts will round out a wonderful bill, the evening program concluding with an elaborate fireworks display.

Reduced rates have been secured on all railways but on account of the large number of exhibition visitors who take advantage of the good highways leading into Ottawa from all points the directors have provided special parking places inside the grounds. The admission this year is 35 cents, but those who buy tickets before the opening of the exhibition may secure five for one dollar, thus making a clear saving of seventy-five cents. These may be secured from merchants or at the exhibition office and mail orders will receive prompt attention.

MORE CRIMES IN PAST YEAR

Increase of Nearly Eleven Per Cent. in Number of Convictions.

FIGURES FOR CANADA

Crime is on the increase in Canada, according to the latest official statistics, now available for the year ending September 30, 1927. The number of convictions reached a total of 213,075 as compared with 187,361 for the preceding period ending September 30, 1926, showing an increase of 10.83 per cent.

The number of indictable offenses returned for the year, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, was 25,526 charges and 18,836 convictions. Summary convictions for non-indictable offenses amounted to 193,240.

The increase in indictable convictions for the year was 1,387 and the proportion of charges to convictions was 79.94 per cent. The increase in summary convictions was 23,327 which is the greatest increase since 1913.

When considered by classes, the offences against persons decreased from 3,368 to 3,208. All the other classes increased, offences against property with violence totalled 16.86 per cent, offences against property without violence 10.63 per cent, malicious offences against property 16.32 per cent, forgery and crimes against currency 23.90 per cent, and various other offences 6 per cent.

Breach of traffic regulations featured the increase under summary convictions which rose from 78,027 to 96,340 for the year, drunkness increased from 28,137 to 31,171 but breaches of the liquor law decreased from 13,513 to 12,277 during 1927.

Hon. Ian Baird, an Oxford student, son of Lord Stonehaven, Governor-General of Australia, who arrived in Canada a few days ago on the White Star liner Albertic to spend his summer vacation "mucking" in mines at Amos, P. Q., and Timmins, Ont.

100 YEARS OLD.

St. Peter's Anglican church at Tyrconnell, Ontario, shown above, will observe the centenary of its founding on Sunday. The church is probably one of the most interesting in Western Ontario, because of its historic associations. In the beautiful God's Acre adjoining the church, the remains of Colonel Thomas Talbot, founder of the Talbot settlement, are buried, while around the grave are those of many of the pioneer settlers on his land.

BREAD IN ONTARIO MUST BE WRAPPED

Dr. Godfrey Predicts Order when Suitable Paper is Devised.

TORONTO, July 19.—The wrapping of all bread sold in Ontario will be compelled by the Department of Health, under Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, just as soon as a suitable paper for such purpose can be devised by the department.

That time, it is understood, is not far distant. Officials of the Trent Institute of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph have been experimenting for some time on this matter and have just about produced a wrapping that will meet all sanitary requirements, and at the same time effect no change in the taste of the bread, mildew it, or render it less nutritious.

Dr. Godfrey believes that in the interests of public health "wrapped bread" must come. Some concerns are wrapping now. Others will have to fall in line, he says. Dirty hands, he states emphatically, have no business in contact with the table loaf. Proper wrapping is the only means of preventing contamination.

The general feeling among health officials is that the bakers' present margin of profit on bread is sufficient to take care of any increased cost of wrapping without boosting prices to the consumer.

AT LAKEFIELD.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, July 20.—On Sunday the family of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kidd gathered at the residence of their parents on Regent street and had a very pleasantre-union. Their four sons and five daughters gathered at home and enjoyed the sort of a family gathering which only a very devoted and united circle can know. Mr. and Mrs. Kidd have resided in Lakefield since their marriage and have raised a family which has done credit to Lakefield. The sons are Roy of Lang, Sask., Harold of Toronto, Melville of Winnipeg and Herman of Lakefield, and the daughters are Blanche of Winnipeg, Rose (Mrs. McCarthy of Port Hope), Myrtle (Mrs. Allan Taylor of Warsaw), Elsie and Clarice of Lakefield.

Tourists Coming.

This year even more than ever before brings to the village, in common with other places, a rush of tourists who are, in the main, heading for the back lakes and rivers for their vacation. The license plates on the motor cars tell a great story which a who run (or walk) can read. During the past week one saw B.C. plates, also Quebec and Saskatchewan. Then our neighbours to the south are much in evidence, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania have all been observed within the past week, not in single instances but in numbers.

The choir picnic of the Regent St. United Church is being held on Thursday afternoon at Mr. Theodore Crawford's cottage at McCracken's Landing.

Personal.

Mrs. H. B. Jackson, of Peterborough, is visiting her brother, Mr. W. W. Yale.

Mrs. Trotter, of Peterborough, was the guest of Miss Hamilton last week.

Mrs. Strong, of Montreal, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Watson.

Mrs. Creighton motored to Lefroy on Tuesday, where she will spend the remainder of the summer.

Mr. W. W. Yale returned from his vacation on Monday having visited Chatham, Montreal, Quebec and the Saguenay.

Mrs. Cameron entertained a few friends at the tea hour on Monday at "Alton Cottage" in honor of Miss Evelyn Newhall.

OLYMPIC TEAM CROSSES OCEAN

ONE ATHLETE HURT.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 19. — (Canadian Press Cable).—"It has been a delightful and uneventful trip," P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic Committee, said when he arrived here to-day on the Albertic with the main contingent of the athletic force Canada is sending to the Olympic games at Amsterdam. The party was met by Mrs. Foster Welch, Southampton's lady Mayor.

Only one accident to an athlete occurred during the trip, F. J. Murdoch of the Argonaut rowing crew, spraining his ankle last night. The team took a special train to London and remained in the Metropolis only a few hours, leaving for Amsterdam by way of Harwich early this evening.

CHURCH PICNIC WELL ATTENDED

Annual Outing of Eden United Church, Mount Julian, Great Success.

PROCEEDS LARGE

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT JULIAN, July 20.—Eden United Church held its annual picnic in John Booth's maple grove on Tuesday, July 10. It was a grand day for the occasion, for it was nice and cool after the excessive heat.

The ladies of the church served an excellent dinner and supper, not to a large crowd, but to a very liberal one. The bazaar table was soon cleared of all articles which were to be sold.

Gordon K. Fraser and Mr. Clink took charge of the grab bag, which greatly amused the younger folk. They also had charge of the sports, and were assisted by the Rev. Mr. Taylor. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor worked faithfully to make the picnic a success.

Mrs. Ray Brown, of Apsley, held the lucky ticket for the quilt.

The church is indebted to the following for donations: Gordon K. Fraser, Burleigh Falls; Mr. Clink, Toronto; E. Young, Young's Point; Robert Charlton, Young's Point; William Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. D. Church, of Mount Julian; Mrs S. Wilson and Mrs. William McCarley, of Haultain; Mrs. Oscar Church and Mrs. D. Newell, of Peterborough.

The proceeds for the day amount to $172.63, which will be applied to the church funds.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIRS

4.30 p.m.—Distribution of reports, ribbons, prizes, certificates, etc. to the teachers.

4.30 to 5.00 p.m.—Removal ofg exhibits by owners.

The judges are prepared to answer any questions regarding the judging after the exhibits are open for inspection.

Where Being Held.

There will be an average of one fair daily, from September 17 to September 21 inclusive, according to the schedule drawn up, the first one, that of south Smith, being held in Bridgenorth on the first day. The North Smith fair will be held at Young's Point the following day, and the Harvey Township school fair will take place on September 19. Others will take place in this order:

September 20—Douro Fair at Douro.

September 21—Dummer Fair at Warsaw.

September 24—Asphodel Fair at Westwood.

September 25—Otonabee Fair at Keene.

September 26—Belmont Fair at Havelock.

September 27 — Peterborough district Fair at Peterborough.

With prizes of a total value of more than $250.00 the 1928 championship fair, to be held at Norwood on October 9-10 promises to be far ahead of similar championship fairs in the past.

Every pupil who wins a prize at the local school fairs will be eligible in that class at Norwood.

Special certificates of honor will be given to pupils winning the largest number of points at the local school fairs, while the T. Eaton Company of Toronto is generously offering prizes to the three pupils who make the largest number of points at their school fairs.

General Rules and Regulations

There are a number of general rules and regulations which "Protect the constitution" of the school fairs, and Mr. Nelson's department is anxious that they be strictly adhered to. For instance, the school fairs are free to all and no admission fee or entry fee is charged.

Pupils eligible to exhibit at the school fairs are those who received seeds or eggs from the Department in 1928 or who have since become pupils in the competing schools. Every pupil receiving such seeds or eggs is expected to show at the fair. All exhibits of potatoes, vegetables, corn, grain, flowers and poultry, etc., must be from seeds and eggs supplied by the department unless otherwise stated in the prize list. A pupil may have but one entry in each class while in classes requiring certificates, no prize will be awarded unless the certificate accompanies the exhibit.

Livestock Exhibits.

Relative to livestock exhibits Mr. Nelson pointed out that all exhibits must be from the pupil's home farm, halter broken and led by the exhibitor. Speaking more generally, he sounded a warning that anyone found making a dishonest exhibit or in any way breaking the rules governing the school fairs will forfeit all prize money.

Hon. John Frederick Whitworth, Lord Aylmer. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Clyde Harvey. The church had been fully decorated for the occasion, and the service was fully choral, the wedding marches being played by Rev. J. S. Mahood. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. J. J. Campbell, and was attended by Miss Sybil Scott-Lauder, a niece of the bridegroom. She was attired in a charming gown of pale yellow chartreuse crepe de chine, with cleam-colored hat and carried a shower bouquet of roses and carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the Dowager Lady Aylmer, the guests including only immediate relatives. Lord and Lady Aylmer left by motor, and on their return from their wedding trip will reside at their summer cottage in Queen's Bay. The bridegroom, who is a cousin of Mr. J. A. Aylmer of this city, is the ninth Baron. He is a son of the late Hon. Matthew Aylmer, eight Baron, born at Melbourn, Quebec, and Inspector-General of the Canadian Militia from 1904 to 1907. During his late years he lived at Kootenay, B.C. He married a daughter of the late Hon. John Young of Montreal. The present Lord Aylmer succeeded to the title in 1923. THE WHATNOT

WHILE visiting a north-end home this week, I was shown a really delightful time-saver, for cooking meals. There are many ways of cooking meals, but this way is advocated widely because there is no loss in food value while cooking.

• • •

It was what is called a waterless cooker. It is very compact, yet provides facilities for cooking a whole meal, including dessert, at one time.

• • •

This utensil consists of the cooker itself, a base which is placed directly over the heat, a rack, one large pan and two smaller pans.

• • •

The base, with the open side down, is placed over the heat. The air underneath distributes the heat evenly and the food in the cooker is prevented from burning or scorching.

• • •

The heavy cover fits down into a groove and keeps moisture in the cooker. Excess steam is allowed to escape through a valve. This also tells when too much heat is applied.

• • •

Any number of different kinds of food may be cooked at once with no difference being made in the flavor.

• • •

The housewife appreciates this utensil especially in summer, because it enables her to cook a whole meal at the same time, and with less dishes to wash after the meal.

• • •

The three-cornered printed scarf continues to add its touch of smartness to summer costumes, worn by many young ladies in Peterborough.

• • •

Printed chiffons and other transparent silks are worn a great deal in Peterborough this summer. Large bertha collars, partly concealing the arms, make a pretty finish on these smart frocks.

• • •

I overheard a conversation on George street this week, in which a well-known young lady of this city says the man she marries must be well dressed. A number of young men are said to be pressing their suits.

• • •

The other day, the following preparation for cleaning tanned shoes that have become stained, came to my notice. Put into a bottle containing a half-cup of water and a half-cup of milk, one tablespoon of liquid ammonia. Shake well and use on a soft cloth to rub the shoes.

• • •

Two well-known bridge enthusiasts of this city were overheard discussing the buying of card-party prizes. You can never tell who is going to get the prize, and so this is not as simple a matter as it sounds.

• • •

One lady remarked that what she thought was the best plan was to buy the prizes, each having the same value, and not have a definite first, second, or third prize. Then the person who is to receive first prize is allowed to have first choice, and so on.

• • •

Often, otherwise, the winner would pick the prize which you would have given as third prize. The cheap prize is carried off by the one with the highest score and the expensive one treasured by the third prize winner, but everyone is made happy.

• • •

One of Peterborough's careful hostesses, whose table is always set to perfection and whose glass and china fairly glitter, was asked the secret of how this was accomplished.

• • •

Here is her answer: "Before I set the table, I re-wash all my china and glass in hot water, slightly soapy, and rinse them in clean hot water. Then they are dried in fresh linen towels."

• • •

This housewife is very particular that her tea towels are washed after each using and dried in the sunshine. They are not ironed and are, therefore, more absorptive. From the satisfaction she gets from her gleaming table, the extra work does not count.

TRAVEL-LOG.

WITH BUNYAN AT BEDFORD.

This is John Bunyan's year—his three hundredth, and England, at least, is celebrating the event at the little city of Bedford an hour or two later. About a mile out of town is the charming village of Elstow. At Elstow Bunyan lived, while near by is Harrowden, a small hamlet where he was born. The birthplace has disappeared long ago, though the site has been identified in some pasture land. I found that the prison in which he wrote "Pilgrim's Progress," and the old Bedford Bridge, on which it stood, have also disappeared. In the Bunyan Museum I was permitted to see his will, cabinet and staff. In the church can be seen his chair and one of the doors from the old gaol. One of the "things to do" in this part of the country is to identify parts of his famous dream with the landscape. His "Vanity Fair" is supposed to have come from the Fair on Elstow Green, and the Slough of Despond from the muddy pasture outside his door. It is like England to have so much unchanged after three hundred years.

No. 6.

The maiden who sets out to secure a partner for life has to take stock of quite a few obstacles in the way. She has to realize that the man may be deeply and inextricably in love with her and yet have circumstances in his life that will prevent him from proposing to her. A man, once he has decided to take the plunge into the sea of matrimony, will brush aside many a snag that seemed unsurmountable at first, but—it may take him many long and weary years to come to this state of mind. In the meantime, the lady waits or does not wait—according to her temperament.

If she is the sort of person who wants one particular man, she anticipates these obstacles. If he has an unremunerative position, she implants firmly in his mind the idea that she is very economical and a thrifty housekeeper. If he has a cranky mother, she makes friends with her, if possible, or else refuses to acknowledge that she is cranky. And if he is merely shy and bashful, she gives him plenty of opportunities, or else secures another admirer.

Reader: Would it be proper for the groom to wear a Tuxedo suit and a derby at an evening wedding, or is the silk hat and full dress more appropriate?

A tuxedo suit is never correct for a formal evening wedding. I realize that it is sometimes worn, but I repeat that it is never correct. And the reason why it is not correct is that a formal wedding is one of the most formal occasions, and on a formal occasion one pays honor and respect to the hosts by wearing one's most formal clothes. Therefore, a gentleman pays honor to the family of the bride, and to the bride and groom, by wearing formal evening clothes—full dress—at a formal wedding.

BAKED PEACHES FOR MEAT

Take the halves of fine yellow canned peaches and lay them in a baking dish. Fill the cavity in each peach with equal parts of butter and sugar. Brown slightly in the oven, basting with melted butter two or three times. Serve hot. These are delicious served as an accompaniment to meat.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The slip is of black taffeta silk, and the flairing frock of black point d'esprit, trimmed with a white flower as large as a cabbage.

If you are planning a new summer evening frock let me suggest point d'esprit, a material which was revived last summer and which is used at present by many of the well-known French dressmakers. It is a light summery fabric with enough crispness to produce the slight flare that is required at present. If you are planning to make the frock yourself you will find it easier to handle than chiffon or silk net, and it has the decided advantage that it does not easily muss or wrinkle.

Point d'esprit may be had in a number of colors. An interesting French frock I saw the other day was made of pink point d'esprit with a skirt almost knee short at the front and dipping to the ankles at the back. Then there were gathered ruffles extending from hips almost to the knees to give the new version of the minaret silhouette. The edge of the skirt and these ruffles were finished with a narrow bias binding of pink taffeta and there was a large double loop of the taffeta silk arranged bustle fashion at the back.

Have you noticed the increasing prominence of red? One might not consider it especially appropriate for mid-summer—still in nature's color chart scarlet flowers—poppies, salvia, bee balm, geraniums—bloom in August and July rather than in the milder spring weather. Red has been used extensively in Paris for semi-sports clothes and the all-red evening gown is no longer at all unusual.

TRACKING BY TELEPHONE

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

When Helen Davenport jumped up after a hurried lunch at the Pennsylvania Station dining-room and rushed for her train she didn't realize that she had not only left her unfinished crab salad and coffee but the threads of a silver romance.

The threads were entangled, not in the remnants of crab salad, for the waiter had cleared that away long before the man arrived. It was the precious book she left behind in her rush to catch a train that started the wheels of the love chariot revolving.

Jack Eversley was glad the dining-room was deserted when he came in. His greatest joy was to sit down restfully and have his silver coffee pot brought in with a plate of chicken sandwiches and, while munching and smoking in turn, to think out the ideas for his numerous essays.

Eversley had always known that truth was much stranger than fiction and certainly more interesting if one cared to go deep enough into it, but it certainly was curious that someone had left, on the window still beside him, the one book he had been making a vain effort to obtain. It was that wonderful volume of Mathew Arnold's Note Books—the facsimile of the great writer's daily notes—those treasured thoughts that he had jotted down in Latin, French, Greek or English from day to day.

Eversley had tried to get a copy but none seemed to be forthcoming and here—out of a clear sky, as it were—he was actually in possession of the book. Judging by its weary looking pages it had been well read.

Eversley knew he must make an effort to return so precious a volume and after his lunch went to the telephone book and jotted down the thirty-one Davenports that appeared to have telephones.

It was the tenth Davenport whom Eversley called up who gave him the first hold of the silver thread he must follow.

A man's voice had answered in this case and after Eversley repeated his tale for the tenth time the man laughed.

"Why, yes, there is a Helen Davenport in our family—my niece, as a matter of fact, but she lives at Great Neck—bit of a bookworm—no doubt the owner of the lost book."

"Has Miss Davenport a telephone, and if so may I have the number?"

And having got it Eversley lost no time in calling up the Great Neck number and after a few preliminary questionings from a presumed maid he found himself listening to a voice such as poets write about—one of those rich, warm voices that make a man wish the owner were a trifle nearer than some twenty odd miles.

"How very kind of you to take so much trouble over my book. And when you are finished perhaps you will just mail it to me."

"If you were to say just when you could be in town, we could meet at the table where you left the book, Pennsylvania Station dining-room."

"But how will we recognize one another?"

"I will wear a large blue pansy in my lapel—my window boxes are a riot of them just now and besides I will be reading Mathew Arnold's Note Books—with the book propped against the flower vase or cruet—which ever adorns the center of our table."

"There should be no mistake with so many signs to guide us," she said, "and I too will wear a pansy—a yellow one."

Two days following, Eversley had smoked six cigarettes at the table by the window before he saw anyone whom he might expect to be Helen Davenport.

Eversley's heart gave a great thump—the girl was wearing a large yellow pansy and was apparently coming toward him.

"Oh," she exclaimed swiftly, "I should have spotted you at once. My brother said you would be at this table and have a large purple pansy in your lapel." This glorious girl now held out slim fingers across the table. "I am happy to meet you at last, Mr. Harwood. Brother was sorry he couldn't come to introduce us but said this was the next best thing."

"Not the next best—but the very best," said Eversley, "but I am not Mr. Harwood—I am Jack Eversley and never before in my life have I longed to be someone I'm not."

"Oh," gasped the girl and a lovely flush dyed her cheeks. "I thought surely you were my brother's friend. I'm so sorry—"

"But you needn't be sorry on my account," laughed Eversley, "and the mistake was but natural. I am meeting a young lady whom I have never met and she too will wear a yellow pansy. Miss Helen Davenport."

"Helen Davenport!" exclaimed the fair one and Eversley could have sworn that a spark of joy kindled in her eyes. "Helen is my best pal and I am going to just wait here and chaperone this party. Her fiance would want me to." And she smiled into Eversley's eyes. "That is," she added, "if you don't object."

"I would have held you by force—if necessary," said Eversley and meant it. "And when your brother's friend turns up we will have to invite him to join us too—Miss Davenport will want someone to talk to." And Eversley smiled at the second blush.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER VV

NEW ENTANGLEMENTS

It was eighteen months since that invitation, in answer to which Jennifer had gone up to the flat above to see Buddy sitting cross-legged on a cushion by the fire, smoking a cigarette with a decided whiff of scent about it, and looking like a very up-to-date goddess.

At first sight Jennifer had disliked Buddy with an intensity which she knew was most heartily reciprocated.

Buddy was essentially a modern product. She was pretty in the way that a baby elf might have been pretty had nature been allowed to have its way, but she spoilt her beauty by a too generous application of carmine on her lips, and too much liquid powder everywhere else.

Later when Jennifer questioned Dolores about the girl, she was told casually: "She is just the child of a great friend of mine who is dead, so I look after her."

"An orphan, then?"

"Yes."

"It's good of you to trouble," Jennifer said.

So that was all about Buddy, except that when Jennifer first met her she was more or less unofficially engaged to a man called Malcolm Chesney, who was at least twelve years her senior, and an attractive, indifferent personality with a monocle.

Dolores was quite frank about his relationship with Buddy.

"She thinks they're engaged, but Heaven only knows what he thinks or intends! He takes her about everywhere, but they quarrel like the devil, and, frankly, I don't believe he's serious. However, you'll see for yourself."

Jennifer met Chesney a day or two later and liked him. There was a faint something about him which reminded her of Nicholas Gaunt, an indefinite something in his voice and in his laugh which sometimes made her catch her breath in pain.

Chesney had been attracted by Jennifer too, and when, some months later, he and Buddy definitely quarrelled, she knew that she was the cause.

She did not, however, know that it started over a question of her age.

"She must be at least thirty-five," Buddy had declared with the supreme scorn of nineteen years.

Buddy had been jealous of Jennifer from the first moment of their meeting, and that jealousy had been deliberately fostered and aggravated by Chesney himself.

He liked to see Buddy in a rage, and at first he had liked irritating her and quarrelling with her for the sheer pleasure of making it up again, for Buddy could be very sweet when she choose to be natural—so at first he pretended to admire Jennifer a great deal more than he really did, and sought her company on all possible occasions.

It was at a Bohemian Night Club, of which Dolores and her queer friends were the chief patrons, that the argument about Jennifer's age started.

"She must be at least thirty-five," Buddy declared, looking across the crowded room to where Jennifer was laughing and chatting with two smooth-faced boys.

"It's perfectly ridiculous how young she tries to be. I don't know why people have taken her up so. Who is she, pray, and where does she come from? Just nowhere, I'll bet!"

"I have never heard her claim to be the daughter of a duke," Chesney said in his indifferent voice. "Jennifer's great charm lies in the fact that she is perfectly natural. A most refreshing virtue nowadays."

"Meaning that I am unnatural, I suppose!" she said in a fierce little voice.

Chesney laughed. "Well, most of it seems to come off if I ever kiss you," he said cynically.

"You're a brute, and I hate you," Buddy answered, "and I should like to know how long you have called Miss Fry by her Christian name?"

"I thought it was the correct mode of procedure," Chesney answered coolly. "I thought it was an unwritten law of the set amongst whom you and I and Dolores are shining lights, to all be Dick, Tom and Harry to one another."

"Jennifer doesn't belong to our set," Buddy said sharply. "She's an interloper. It's Dolores who drags her in."

There was an angry gleam in Chesney's eyes.

"Then Dolores shows her wisdom in insisting on such a very charming addition to the circle," he said. "My only wonder is that Jennifer does not protest."

It was then that Buddy threw down her challenge. She cared for Chesney as much as it was possible for her to care for anyone, and it angered and tortured her because she was never sure of his sincerity, and was haunted by the fear that he was merely amusing himself at her expense.

"Well, anyway, I've had enough of it," she said passionately. "I'm not going shares with Jennifer Fry or any other woman. You'll have to choose."

"Choose? between whom?" he asked coolly.

Buddy was trembling with passion. "Between that woman and me," she panted.

Chesney laughed provokingly. "If you really insist," he said, "I'm afraid it must be 'that woman,' as that is how you very rudely allude to Jennifer."

There was a deathlike silence during which Buddy made a great effort to control herself, and at last she managed to say with a childish catch in her defiant voice—"Well, I'm glad it's over. It's always been a mistake."

Chesney's eyes met hers with indifference—"I'm afraid I don't understand what you mean. What has been a mistake?" he asked coolly.

Buddy stood with clenched hands and heaving chest unable to answer; then she broke out hoarsely—"I hate you, I hate you! I wish you were dead."

Chesney laughed. "Silly child," he said casually.

Buddy turned and fled.

"It's a pity she is so terribly spoilt," Jennifer said. She was conscious of a wave of pity. After all Buddy was so young, and it was bad for the young to suffer. "I expect she will be sorry tomorrow and say so."

"I sincerely hope she will not," Chesney answered.

Jennifer looked at him in surprise. "I am sure you do not mean that," she said at last.

"I never meant anything more sincerely in my life," he declared. "Buddy and I quarrelled about you, Jennifer."

"About me? Why, how silly."

"Buddy is jealous of you."

Jennifer laughed. "You don't seriously ask me to believe that."

"It is the truth."

"But why? She has no cause."

"She thinks I admire you, and she is right. I admire you more than any woman I know."

The slow color mounted to Jennifer's face, and she did not know what to answer.

Chesney went on quietly, his eyes dangerously serious.

"It would give me great happiness if I might hope that some day you would care for me enough to be my wife."

It had been so surprising! It had been the last thing of which Jennifer had ever dreamed; but he had meant it, every word, as his actions since that night had proved over and over again, for he followed Jennifer everywhere; he loaded her with the most expensive flowers—she would accept nothing else from him—and Jennifer knew that people were only waiting to hear of her engagement.

Dolores was kindly sympathetic.

"You take him, and don't be foolish," she counselled Jennifer. "Buddy, poor mite, was never suited to him. You take him, Jennifer; he worships the ground you walk on."

"I don't know why he should," Jennifer answered humbly, and she did not know.

LYRICS OF LIFE

SORROWS AND JOYS

These are the sorrows of the ages:
The wives of drunkards, birds in cages,
Lovers deceived, and maids forsaken,
A friend who finds his faith mistaken,
A daughter with man's mark upon her
The fathers bowed by sons' dishonor.
We have not learned, since life's beginning,
There must be sorrow if there's sinning.

But, oh, the joys of all the ages,
Written in gold on shining pages!—
The gentle wives, the husbands tender,
The winging birds, and friendship's splendor,
The loving son and filial duty,
Daughters of modesty and beauty—
Whatever else our earthly treasures,
These are the great eternal pleasures.

UNCLE WIGGILY

To-day: Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DOLL CARRIAGE

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

"Why don't you go to bed, Nurse Jane?" asked Mrs. Longears as she saw the muskrat lady housekeeper sitting in the kitchen one night, looking hard at a picture.

"I can't go to bed until I solve this puzzle that Uncle Wiggily drew for me when he forgot his necktie and came back from the Fox and Bob Cat party he didn't go to," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

She held up a picture of Tommie Kat wearing rubber boots and holding an umbrella over his head.

"What is wrong with this picture?" sighed Nurse Jane. "I wish I could guess. Then I could go to bed and sleep."

"You dear old silly!" laughed Mrs.

Longears. "Go on to bed! I'll tell you what's wrong with that picture. Tommie Kat is dressed for rain and the sun is shining. That's all!"

"Oh, is that all?" asked Nurse Jane and then with a happy smile up to bed she crept. Her mind was at rest.

"I don't know what's going to happen if Wiggy keeps on making up those puzzles," sighed Mrs. Longears. Then, having locked all the doors of the hollow stump bungalow, the rabbit lady hopped up to bed where Uncle Wiggily had gone some time before. Perhaps he was dreaming of new puzzles.

Well, anyhow, next day as the rabbit gentleman was hopping over the fields, all of a sudden he met Alice Wibblewobble, the duck girl, and Alice was pushing her doll carriage and sadly quacking.

"What's the matter?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Well, don't cry about that!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I'll soon fix it for you. Here's a penny. You waddle down to the store and buy yourself a watercress lollypop and when you come back I'll have your doll carriage fixed."

Then Alice smiled and hurried away leaving Uncle Wiggily to mend the broken doll carriage. The rabbit gentleman sat down on a toadstool and was working away at the carriage, when all of a sudden, he heard some more crying sounds.

"Bless my pink nose!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Is that Alice weeping again?" But when he looked he saw it was Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl who was sobbing.

"What is the matter, Susie?" asked Mr. Longears.

"My Jack in The Box toy is broken. He won't pop out any more!" sighed Susie and she showed the plaything to the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, this is easily fixed," said Mr. Longears. "The spring that pops Jack out has slipped. I'll mend it for you while you take this penny and hop to the candy store to buy a carrot lollypop."

"Thank you," said Susie as she hopped away. Uncle Wiggily soon had the wheel fixed on the doll carriage. Then he mended Susie's toy so Jack popped out of his box as well as ever when the lid was opened. Uncle Wiggily closed the cover on Jack and put the box in the doll carriage. He was going to wheel it down to meet the animal girls who, he thought, would now be coming from the candy store.

"What have you in that doll carriage?" snarled the Wolf. He leaned over to look, but touched the fastening of the box cover. Up popped the lid, out popped Jack and hit the Wolf on his nose. "Oh, trolley cars!" howled the Bad Chap. "I'm shot!"

Away he ran, holding his paw on his sore nose and Uncle Wiggily laughed. So did Susie and Alice when they came back with their lollypops and found their toys as good as ever. They said Uncle Wiggily was very clever.

"Well, let's see how clever you are," said the rabbit. "Can you do this puzzle?" He made a picture of Billie Wagtail the goat looking at four sticks. "With these four sticks make twelve," "But you must not break any of the sticks."

CROOKS TAKE TO WATER

GIBRALTAR, July 20.—Spanish crooks are quitting operations on land and turning to piracy on the high seas, according to a tale told by the captain of the Spanish trawler San Antonio, substantiated by officers of the trawler Maria which met a similar fate. Fifty small boats, containing 300 armed Spaniards, surrounded the vessels, so the story goes, and after ransacking them destroyed their nets and other fishing gear.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

Saturday, July 21, 1929.

(Copyright, 1928, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The early morning is an auspicious time to start any engineering or contracting projects.

Under this sway executive work of every sort is well directed. It is a time to push business or manufacturing interests.

Afternoon and evening are favorable for associating with men who are successful especially those from whom favors may be expected.

The evening is fortunate for meetings or banquets at which public questions or politics happen to be discussed.

This is not a lucky day for beginning any important venture or for opening new places of business.

There will be novel occupations developed as the autumn advances, it is forecast, for strange inventions will become, like the radio, mediums for big enterprises.

Chemistry is to play an important part in new projects and to open doors of activity not hitherto dreamed of, astrologers predict.

It is not a first-rate rule under which to become engaged or to push one's suit, for success may be regretted.

Late to-day those who seek employment may be successful, for disappointments earlier may be obliterated by good luck.

The seers point out that this is a transition time in the development of women for public service and for this reason they will encounter opposition, especially where rewards for political work are sought.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success in chosen vocations. The year should be prosperous, if pleasure does not interfere.

Children born on this day probably will be industrious and able to win high place. They should be protected from their friends for they will be great favorites with persons of both sexes.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HAZE FRESHMEN

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
Author, The Springs of Human Action

Hazing in college has received wide publicity because now and then some stunts are carried too far. But as a matter of fact every trade and profession has its special forms of hazing for the apprentice. Sending the new boy after the left-handed monkey wrench is one example. The printer's devil has to submit to a lot of humiliation before he learns the meaning of the terms used around the printing office.

The more severe forms of hazing which imperil the life and health of the beginner are now universally condemned, but good-natured hazing has never been fully suppressed and never will. It springs spontaneously with each successive generation of new comers on the scene. And it serves a very useful purpose.

We haze new members to fatten our own ego, to get fun out of the humiliation of the poor novice who has no effective comeback.

But that is not the whole story. Hazing is a very effective means of initiating the novice into the mysteries of the trade or profession. Loyalty thrives upon common tradition. Similar experience create a fellow feeling that is essential to co-operation in any field of activity.

We haze the freshman because it furnishes us amusement and because it serves the useful purpose of really initiating the novice into the mysteries of the cult or trade and profession. It is an essential part of his training and education.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON SATURDAY

Keep increasing your exercises each morning and evening, as your strength permits.

After taking your morning calisthenics, take a cool shower bath. If you do not have a built-in shower, secure one of the attachments at any drug store and take your shower in the bath tub.

Breakfast: Silver Omelet on
Two pieces of Melba Toast,
Apple Sauce.
Take your usual walk inthe morning.
Lunch: Sliced Tomatoes.

As usual, in the afternoon, you are to take your walk, gradually increasing the distance daily until you are walking four or five miles every afternoon. Upon returning from your walk, take all of the exercises which I have given you, and tomorrow add this one, to be taken while LYING FACE DOWNWARD:

1.—Clasp hands behind neck—then raise head, shoulders, and elbows as high as possible, at the same time raising both legs keeping knees stiff.

Do not forget to take a small warm water enema, whether the bowels move or not, during the day. This is necessary during the time you are living on this eliminative diet, as your body will use up most of the food you are eating and not enough will be left there to make a large bowel movement. After a while, the intestines will be used to this small amount and will be able to expel the feces regularly, as they are reduced to normal size and develop a better muscular tone.

Do not forget to take your half-hour afternoon rest.

Dinner: Roast Beef,
Cooked Turnips,
Raw Spinach.

The following are recipes for the preparation of foods which have not been advised before. (These will not appear again.)

Silver Omelet: This is made in the same way as the French Omelet except that the yolk is omitted. Use the whites of two eggs to two ounces of milk; put in a dry frying pan over a slow fire and beat the milk and eggs together. Stir and beat constantly so that it does not stick to the pan. Continue this until the mixture assumes a jelly-like consistency. Do not fail to keep on stirring, even after it has been taken off the fire as the frying pan will retain a good deal of the heat, which will continue to cook the egg. Serve in sauce dishes or egg cups, or pour over Melba Toast.

Apple Sauce: No sugar should be added to apple sauce, but it will be necessary, often times, to stew the apples for two or three hours over a slow fire, in order to bring out the natural sweetness.

Cooked Turnips: Prepare the same as Cooked Carrots.

Raw Spinach: This is a delicious salad vegetable, if you can get it fresh. It is rather expensive at this season of the year, so you may substitute Celery, or Lettuce, if you desire.

KIWANIS WIN FIRST GAME OF JUVENILE FINALS

DALLIN HITS HOME RUN FOR WINNERS IN FOURTH

Rogers in Centre Field for Moose Gives Excellent Exhibition.

SCORE 14-7

Very Few Fans Turn Out to See Fine Brand of Baseball Played.

Because Manager Jack Deannard saw fit to yank Braund in the second frame when he began to blow to the extent of filling the stations, with two walks and a hit that got away from Whatley, and because his team showed a more consistent brand of fielding work, coupled with some heavy work on the willow, the Kiwanis team of the Junior City League ran away with the long end of a 14 to 7 count over Moose in the first of the play-off games, at James Stevenson Park last night. Jones, going in with the bases loaded, was lucky to get out of the hole with the count still 3 to 2 in his favor, but he proved it wasn't all luck, by going the remainder of the route for the Kiwanians, blanking the opposition of three frames and allowing a brace and a trio of counters to filter in during the sixth and seventh. Manager Deannard also made other changes in his line-up toward the latter part of the game while Moose, playing steady but ineffective ball, made no alternations whatever. Some hard luck attended their efforts though Kay, their pitching choice, was called upon to weather some fairly stormy passages. He was scored upon in all but the third stanza.

A discouragingly small audience saw the game last night—a condition as regretable as it is subject to remedy, for if ball fans in the city could see the really high calibre of ball being played, there would surely be some difference in the gate count. Last night's fixture provided everything that a fan might desire in a ball game—plenty of heavy hitting, smart fielding and an element of danger from errors—and those who saw it agreed that there was every cause for excitement.

The Kiwanians started out well, for after three of the first four Moose players had failed to register, eight batters of the Service club team faced Kay, landing no less than three runs. Moose came back strong in the first of the second stanza, scoring two counters before being subdued by Jones, but this advantage was lost soon after, when Kiwanis counted two more runs in their half.

Heavy Hitting

A home run, by Dallin, second man up in the fourth inning was only one feature of the heavy hitting, two baggers and three being almost a habit. Nevertheless, there was some smart fielding, and if the general playing in last night's game is any indication, the second game of the play-offs, on Thursday night will be a scrap worth seeing. Though darkness interfered with the playing of a full nine-innings game, the boys managed to get in six and a half sessions with Moose pepping up sufficiently to load the sacks and land two runs in the sixth and three in the seventh innings.

Good Fielding

Another feature of last night's tilt was the good fielding of players on both teams. Young Rogers, playing centre garden for the losers has several very fine catches to his credit, while Dallin covered a large acreage in left. Actual wild pitches were few and far between, while errors of the juicy kind were not in evidence.

The teams lined up as follows:

Moose—Price, lf; McCarroll, 3b; Perdue, ss; Rogers, cf; Morrocco, c; Dinesen, 2b; Kay, p; Busby, rf; Guerin, 1b.

Umpire—Alex. Kay.

DELORO TEAM PLAYS TO TIE

Belleville Legion Team Plays Friendly Game With Smelters.

SCORE THREE ALL

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, July 20.—A three-goal tie was the result of a friendly game of association football played at Deloro on Wednesday evening between Deloro and the Canadian Legion team of Belleville. The local team has chosen for its colors blue and white halves, the members wearing their new jerseys for the first time on Wednesday. Owing to showers falling during the day, the ground was wet and slippery in places. Belleville came with an excellent record, having won two, drawn three and lost one in their own league, and defeated Deloro 3-1 earlier in the month. There were four changes in the home team from that doing earlier duty.

Belleville had the best part of the opening play. Following a corner, Kennedy narrowly missed scoring. Fullwell drove the ball past Murray after a loose scrimmage in front of goal. A few minutes later E. Brown equalized with a shot that was not difficult to clear. Play was now carried from end to end, Gorman being the more tested. Shots by the burly Nicholson and E. Brown glanced over the crossbar. Shortly after Cousins and Brooks exchanged places on the home side, the whistle went for half-time, with the score resting 1-1.

Early in the second half E. Brown was unlucky with a splendid shot. Play being taken to the other end, Murray was easily beaten by the younger Hatfield. Another rush by the Legionaires resulted in Knott baffling the Deloro goalie. Aggressive work by Nicholson and E. Brown almost materialized in a score. E. Brown shot high when in a good position. Luck soon came his way, however, for following up a penalty taken by Savage, the wiry outside right placed the ball past Gorman in smart fashion. Hart next became suspicious for the attacking Deloros sending in two warm shots in quick succession, which Gorman splendidly cleared. With Deloro still doing most of the pressing, Cousins scored during a scramble in front of the Belleville goal. Andrews was winded shortly afterwards, but returned to the game after a few minutes' absence. The ball was still in the visitors' territory as the final whistle went.

The game was devoid of rough tactics and well handled by Referee Birtwhistle, of Belleville. Belleville showed superiority in only one respect—each player knew and kept his position a shade better than his opponent. With more practice the Deloro team will prove stiff opposition for amateur teams in this part of the Province. The team is desirous of playing home and away games with other teams of Central Ontario, and Secretary George Brooks would be glad to arrange more fixtures.

The teams:

Belleville—Goal, J. Gorman; backs, S. Taylor and J. Hatfield; half-backs F. Cross, W. Colclough and C. Keegan; forwards, F. Howard, C. Fullwell, A. Knott (capt.), A. Kennedy and J. Hatfield, Jr.

Deloro — Goal, R. Murray; backs, S. Sanderson and W. Savage (capt.); half-backs, R. Andrews, C. Nicholson and W. Simmons; forwards, E. Brown, J. Hart, C. Brooks, W. Brown and T. Cousins.

Heavyweight Bout Has Been Postponed

DETROIT, Mich., July 20 (Canadian Press).—The Johnny Risko-Johnny Squires heavyweight boxing match scheduled for last night here was postponed late yesterday until to-night. A downpour of rain made necessary the postponement of the bout, which was to have been an outdoor show. Jack Dempsey announced that he will remain in Detroit to referee the bout.

YANKEES WIN WITH BAMBINO'S CIRCUIT SWATS

Chicago Outhits Winners 13 to 8, But Loses the Game.

ATHLETICS WIN TWO

Washington and Detroit Break Even With Tigers, Winning First.

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth's thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth home runs, each coming with Earle Combs on base, gave the Yankees another victory over the White Sox here yesterday, this time by a score of 6 to 4. The Babe's thirty-sixth nosed out the visitors Wednesday in the first game of the series, 9 to 8.

Chicago outhit the Yankees by 13 to 8, but the jinx which has followed Alphonse Thomas in all his games against New York still gripped him. The defeat yesterday gave him a perfect record of eleven losses in just that many games against the champions in the last two seasons.

Herb Pennock was in trouble often and finally was relieved by Wilcy Moore with two on and none out in the ninth. Moore showed some of his 1927 form in turning back the Sox.

Boston Wins.

Boston took the second game of the series from Cleveland yesterday in eleven innings by a score of 3 to 2. A double by Rollings, K. Williams' sacrifice fly and Tiatt's single to left gave the Red Sox the winning tally. It was a pitching duel between Ed Morris and Shaute, the former marking up his thirteenth victory of the season.

Drive Stopped.

The Athletics repelled the drive of the St. Louis Browns in the second place by taking both ends of a double-header from their rivals, 2 to 0 and 4 to 3, in eleven innings at Philadelphia.

Al Simmons' home run in the first inning with one on gave Walberg the decision over Gray in a pitching duel in the first game. Walberg allowed two hits and Gray four.

The second game was a tussle between Tony Blaeholder and Eddie Rommel. George Haas, rookie outfielder, hit a homer with one on in this game, which the Athletics tied at 3-3 in the ninth. The Athletics won out in the eleventh when Simmons' single with the bases filled scored French.

Break Even.

Washington and Detroit divided a double-header at Washington, the Tigers winning the first 9 to 3 and the Senators the second, 7 to 2.

Detroit pecked away steadily at Zachary in the first game, and in the second a fierce attack on Stoner in the second inning by Washington netted five runs. Carroll held the Senators safe in the first game, and Gaston did the same thing against Detroit in the second.

CINCINNATI DROPS GAME

Boston Braves Defeat Reds by Five Runs in National League.

CARDINALS WIN

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press).—Boston battered out a 9 to 4 victory yesterday at Cincinnati over tha part of the Reds' pitching staff saved out of the past five-day melee with the Giants and Robins.

The Braves collected four runs off Jablonowski and two off Jakie May in the first two innings, a pair off Edwards and one off Beckman in the ninth, with thirteen hits and the aid of one error.

Pirates Stopped

The Robins halted the winning streak of the Pirates in Pittsburgh at nine straight by defeating Pittsburgh 3 to 0 in the first game of the series. It was a fine duel between Doug McWeeny and the left hander, Fred Fussell.

McWeeny was strong at all stages, but the Pittsburgh southpaw weakened in the ninth when Brooklyn added two runs to its previous lone market. With such a lead in hand, McWeeny went through the last half of the ninth with comparative ease. Bressler's triple and Bissonette's double accounted for Brooklyn's first run, while loose Pirate fielding figured in the other two.

Cardinals Win

The St. Louis Cardinals advanced a half game over their nearest rivals, Chicago, by defeating Philadelphia, 6 to 5 at St. Louis. The league leaders are four and one-half games to the front.

The Cardinals started their hitting in the fourth when Hafey hit a homer, scoring High and Bottomley. Harper hit into the right field pavilion for another homer, Maranville scored on a series of plays, bringing the Cardinal runs to five.

Into The Soccer Game

Deloro known far and wide for its baseball team, especially when it was in the Intermediate series, has taken another step forward and has organized a soccer team and is now looking forward to games from outside teams. The boys from Deloro have always taken a real interest in all kinds of sport and the soccer team appears to be something that has gotten off to a real good start. Several exhibition games have been played so far, and on Wednesday night a game was played with the Belleville veterans with the result that the game ended in a three all verdict. Considering the training and the record that the Belleville team has, the new outfit of Smelters have sure made good in the little training they have had. They are looking forward to games with other teams so it is hoped that some of the teams in Peterborough will give the Deloro outfit a chance to show their skill.

Toronto Team Coming

The Canadian General Electric Athletic Society has made plans for a revisit to this city of the famous softball team from the Comany's plant in Toronto. The game will be played on the afternoon of Saturday July 28th in Confederation Square. The Toronto boys when here a week ago beat the locals, but they are not down hearted and will make another effort to bring honor to their plant in this city.

Running Neck in Neck

While Belleville was beating the Petes twice on Wednesday the Oshawa crew were administering the same kind of medicine to the Deloro boys. Hence Wednesday's games have made no change in the standing of the Central Ontario League. Belleville and Oshawa are having a real race for first place while the Petes and Deloro appear to vieing with each other for to see which will be in the cellar. The Kingston Ponies appear to have struck the happy medium.

Delivers The Goods

Duke Dainty that veteran Oshawa pitcher sure delivered the goods in Oshawa on Wednesday when he and his team mates took two from the Smelters. Dainty won the first game handily and when Matthews was beaten in the second fixture, the old veteran again stepped into the breach and hurled the Motorites to their second victory. Inky Wood was called upon by Deloro in both games to try and save the day but the Oshawa boys appeared to be too much for the babies of the Central loop.

Junior Final on Saturday

With the local seniors playing in Oshawa on Saturday and showing the big Conservative convention how they play baseball in the Central Ontario League, the Peterborough baseball fans will not be shut out from an opportunity of seeing a baseball game. The Royals for three years city league winners of the various groups which they have passed up through will meet the Kiwanis, last year's Junior city league champions. The Royals are playing their first season in the Junior series but their playing together during the last three years has moulded a real junior team out of them. The Kiwanis on the other hand are a smart aggregation and when these two clash the fans are assured of seeing real baseball.

Successful Annual Tournament Comes to an End Last Night.

FINALS ARE CLOSE.

With Ev. Taylor and Mark Bredin carrying off the doubles final last night, and Joe Bennett defeating Harold Freeman in the finals of the singles competition, only one trophy and its attendant prizes left the city in one of the most successful tournaments ever held by the Peterborough Bowling Club. Taylor and Bredin defeated Mayneord and Elliott in the doubles finals, 19—17, after a long drawn-out battle in which the losers strove to cut down the big lead piled up in the early ends, when the ultimate victors scored a seven- and a five-end. The game lasted until nearly one o'clock.

The last outside player in the singles competition was W. Delaney of Cobourg, who fell before Freeman in the semi-finals. In the doubles, Myers and Allan of Campbellford survived to the same round.

The prizes for the doubles were: For the winners, half a dozen gold-mounted, cut-glass goblets each; and to the runners-up, a pair of military brushes each. The prize for the singles was a mantel clock, with a carying set to the runner-up. The scores:

TORONTO TEAM BEATS ORIOLES IN THE TENTH

SCORE 2-1

Royals and Reading Divide a Double Bill in Montreal.

TORONTO, July 20. — Toronto won a hilarious game from Baltimore yesterday afternoon 2 to 1 in the tenth inning. Styles singled with one out and Moore's error on Fisher put Sexton running for Styles on third. Satterfield hitting for Cote was passed purposely to fill the bases.

Burke attempted to squeeze play to foul and then banged to right field fence to end it. Fisher and Chambers had battled it all the way.

Toronto got an early lead on Fisher's hit followed by two out, and Sheedy's single scored Fisher in the third. Baltimore equalized in the seventh on hits by Porter and Onslow when Styles' bad throw on Porter's steal. The game went smoothly until the tenth when Cote's error and Devine's hit put two Orioles on but no score resulted. Then came Toronto's final rally. Manager O'Hara switched his whole batting order around topsy turvy. Near the finish Baltimore held conferences on about every play. About six hundred attended. Toronto had a margin in the hitting all through.

Black Cats Win.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 20. Canadian Press. — The veteran Flash Gilhooley pulled his Jersey City Black Cats out of a slump which extended to six straight losses at the expense of the Buffalo Bisons here yesterday. The Black Cats won 3 to 1 and Gilhooley's two base swat with two out, paved the way to a three run rally in the fifth, the only scoring round against Leo Mangum. The game bristled with fielding brilliance, Moore and Smith starring.

Royals Break Even.

MONTREAL, Quepec, July 20. Canadian Press. — Montreal and Reading divided the double bill here yesterday afternoon, the Royals taking the first game 6-3, and the Keyes the abbreviated second contest, 7-1.

Tom Gulley won the first game for the Royals in the eighth inning when he knocked out his 13th home run of the season with one on base. The Keyes tied the score in the 6th, but from then on Sherrid held them safe. It was Sherrid's eigth victory of the season.

Lautenbacher had the Royals eating out of his hand in the second contest, allowing but three scattered hits, while his mates were pounding three Royal twirlers for fourteen solid blows which coupled with four bad errors by the Montrealers was more than enough to secure the triumph. Walsh was the hitting star of the day with five hits in eight times at bat.

U.S. ASSOCIATION MAKES STATEMENT

Declares It is Not First Time Tilden has Violated Rule.

NEW YORK, July 20. — A 2000-word statement from the United States Lawn Tennis Association yesterday in explanation of its action in dropping William T. Tilden from the Davis Cup team failed to offer any loophole by which Mig Bill could possibly be reinstated in time for play in the crucial battles abroad.

While varying degrees of incredulity, amazement and dismay swept over the tennis world, the Association stood pat, taking the position that Tilden apparently wilfully violated its amateur player-writer rule, which he himself helped to frame, and had promised in writing to obey.

Not even at the cabled request of the French Tennis Federation will the U.S.L.T.A. recede from this position, it was announced unofficially, although the association was prepared to give such a request due and courteous consideration.

The statement pointed out that this was not the first time Tilden had been charged with violating the section of the amateur rule which for bids "writing for pay or a consideration current newspaper articles covering a tournament or match in which he is entered as a competitor."

BABE RUTH HITS TWO HOME RUNS

BEATING RECORD

NEW YORK, July 20 (Canadian Press). — Babe Ruth hit his thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth home runs in yesterday's game between the Yankees and the White Sox at the Stadium. Both drives were made off Alphonse Thomas, and each was hit with Earle Combs on base. The drives were inserted in the first and seventh innings and the second sent the Yankees into a lead of 6 to 3.

Ruth's two drives put him into a lead of twenty-seven games, twenty-nine days and eight home runs over his record pace of 1927, when he hit 60 to top his own previous mark by one. This is the greatest advantage the Bambino ever has enjoyed at any stage of his career over an earlier record season, except in 1920, when he ran far ahead of his 1919 mark through most of the campaign while lifting the major league mark from 29 to 54.

CORBETT WATCHES TOM HEENEY BOX

Former Champion Declares Fight Will Be Better Than People Anticipate.

FAIRHAVEN, N.J., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Tom Heeney boxed before the critical eyes of James J. Corbett, one time world's heavyweight champion; Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, and other boxing dignitaries yesterday, travelling four brisk rounds against two sparring partners.

The terrific heat forced the challenger to cut down his workout, but he looked impressive and travelled at top speed. He worked indoors as he figured it would be cooler than out in the open field.

Because of the heat, Heeney's handlers decided last night to have him lay off to-day. He weighed 205 pounds at the start of the workout but melted off nearly five pounds. He scaled exactly 200¼ pounds after his rubdown.

Corbett, who was champion seven years before Heeney was born, got his first glimpse of the challenger yesterday afternoon. He declared the New Zealander appeared to be in fine shape, adding that he reminded him of Tom Sharkey. He predicted the battle between Heeney and Gene Tunney in the Yankee Stadium a week from last night would be a better fight than the public anticipates.

CRICKET

Much interest is being taken in the match tomorrow afternoon between the local club and the strong Toronto Cricket Club. The Peterborough team put up a fine showing in the first match, played in Toronto recently, being defeated by only a few runs. The game will commence at 2.30. The Peterborough team will be as follows: Elliot (capt.), Dunkerley, Thorpe, Stuart, Hammond, Gore, Smith, F. Dyer, Jefferson, Wade, and Hart.

Reserves—Cridland, Massey-Cooke, and Imming.

A full practice will be held to-night. Any of the above players who cannot play on Saturday, please notify the secretary at once.

AT THE CAPITOL.

LON CHANEY IN "THE BIG CITY" THE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY ATTRACTION AT THE CAPITOL —MAN OF A THOUSAND FACES PORTRAYS GANGSTER IN NEW FILM.

Lon Chaney, "Man of a Thousand Faces," had also to become man of a thousand strange new words, when he mastered one of the oddest languages in existence—the argot of the New York underworld. In "The Big City", in which he plays a New York gangster leader, he delved deeply into the lore of the underworld, learning the language of crooks and thieves.

The new picture, which comes today and to-morrow to the Capitol Theatre, is a vivid mystery tale of New York's night life, with Marceline Day, James Murray, Betty Compson, and others of note, directed by Tod Browning. Research for the picture included a detailed study of the lore of the underworld.

"The language of the underworld," says Chaney, "is really a language within a language, as there has grown up a sort of slang language that to the layman is incomprehensible."

In the new picture Chaney plays story of New York night life, laid in night clubs, and in mysterious underworld haunts. He plays a gangster ruler, with James Murray as his assistant and Marceline Day as the heroine, a shopgirl enmeshed in one of the gang's plots. Betty Compson, Mathew Betz, Lew Short, Walter Percival, John George, Virginia Pearson, and others of note are in the cast.

ALL STARS BEAT C.G.E.

Knights of Columbus Fail to Put a Full Team in Field.

The Knights of Columbus failed to show up in sufficient strength to play an official league game of softball at Confederation Square last night, so Lou LeBarr rounded up enough men to fill out a team, and a friendly game was played between C.G.E. and LeBarr's All Stars.

LeBarr's All Stars came through with a force at the last to cinch the game 12 to 10. Starting a bunting system in the seventh, they loaded the bases and scored five runs in that frame. In the eighth they started the same system and secured one run at the first, then with two out and two on bases, Michael Clancy hit a triple to bring in two runs and came in on an error to sew up the game.

L. LeBarr was the outstanding man in the field, making four putouts with circus catches. Michael Clancy at short gave wonderful support all through the game for the All Stars, while Bennett also was good. Ed. LeBarr drove a clean homer past the sidewalk that runs across the park, while Bennett started the scoring.

Not being a league game, the Electrics played accordingly and had a lot of fun out of the game. Frost on first played the game and got a home run. Smiling, Reggie Dyer was the same as usual, always on his toes.

The All Stars worked the only double play of the game when Bennett caught Dyer going to third in the seventh and threw Richmond out to Archambault on first.

Richmond, pitching for C.G.E., struck out four, while Darling, pitching for the All Stars, but a C. G. E. man, put out two. Darling is a left-handed pitcher and pitched his first game at Confederation Square this year, and with a little practice should shape up nicely.

Lineups:

All Stars—E. LeBarr, c; T. Lynch, 2b; Bennett, 3b; Archambault, 1b; L. LeBarr, cf; M. Clancy, lf; Darling, p; Routley, rf; Michael Clancy, ss.

Score by innings:

C.G.E. ..... 00213130—10
All Stars ..... 00010155—12

Umpire—T. Holyman. Struck out—Richmond, 4; Darling, 2. Home runs—Frost, E. LeBarr. Triples—M. Clancy. Doubles—Frost.

The C.G.E. have another treat for softball fans when they have arranged to meet the famous Danforth team of Toronto here at Confederation Square on Saturday, July 28, at six o'clock. These men have been doing a lot for softball for Peterborough by bringing these teams here and deserve a lot of support. The fans remember what a success the Head Office game was, but watch this one.

SCOTCH WANT IRISH CHECKED

Would have Quota Law Enacted to Prevent Heavy Migration.

MANY NEED CHARITY.

LONDON, July 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—A suggestion that the quota system should be established in Scotland for migrants from Ireland who would be allowed to enter Scotland only when sufficient work was available for them, is understood to have been made by a deputation received privately by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Home Secretary, and Sir John Gilmour, Secretary for Scotland, at the Home Office to-day.

The deputation, composed of representatives of the Church of Scotland, urged that the recent heavy influx of Irish immigrants into Scotland was calculated to change the whole character of the Scottish people.

It is understood that the Home Secretary told the deputation, regulation of this immigration was quite a new idea so far as the British Isles were concerned. He thought an easier approach to a solution of the problem lay in arrangements being made with the Irish Free State to take back such of these Irishmen in Scotland as were dependent upon the public purse, of whom it was alleged there were quite a number.

Negotiations to this end had, in fact, been going on with the Irish Free State for some time, Sir William said. He promised that the Government would give some consideration to the point of view set out by the deputation.

PTOMAINE POISONING.

More people are killed from what they eat than die from no eating. While most deaths are caused by a very slow food poisoning which interferes with some part of the body, we sometimes read about people dying suddenly from something they have eaten, and it is important that you know what causes this and what to do if you or some one close to you are so stricken.

Those substances that are poisonous in themselves, for example, some classes of mushrooms contsining a poisonous liquid called muscarine, while sometimes mistaken for food, can scarcely be classed ptomaines. Some types of fish contain poisonous substances even when fresh, and one can only guard against these by knowing the varieties or by depending upon reliable markets.

Far more frequently met with than these poisonous substances are cases of poisoning from food that has become contaminated by improper handling. This is sometimes caused by the presence of air and live bacteria in metal contained foods, or from specific organisms such as tubercular bacilli, trichinosis, or typhoid.

Animals or bees may be fed upon substances that make their products poisonous to man. Rye may be infected with a smut causing epidemics or ergotism. Potatoes have been known to produce poisoning from well sprouted potatoes or those which have lain in the sun after digging. Wild potatoes sometimes will do this also, producing jaundice. Peaches will sometimes cause "summer complaint" for some unknown reason, possibly in some cases because the seeds are also used.

The treatment for any of these food poisonings is to give an emetic so as to freely wash out the stomach, and to give copious enemas. Then keep the patient active, exercising enough to produce sweating if possible. Sometimes the symptoms do not appear for several days, in which case it is advisable to give a cathartic and large quantities of water, with sweating and enemas.

The foregoing cases can not be classed as true ptomaine poisoning, since this is only caused by an alkaloid poison from putrefaction.

The most poisonous of the ptomaines is mytilotoxin, found in spoiling mussels. Another very poisonous ptomaine is produced by the bacillus botulinus, and produces what is known as botulism, first known as sausage poisoning. This organism has also been found in ham, and as it is very widely distributed in the soil, it may be present in many vegetable products, most likely those that are home canned. The poisons are not present in raw or freshly cooked foods. The presence of bubbles of gas and the softened appearance of the solid parts combined with a peculiar odor, should be sufficient excuse for discarding canned foods.

Sometimes milk and cheese become infected with a bacteria which causes intestinal irritation. In fish and mussels as well as in animals that have eaten poisonous substances, the liver is the most dangerous part to eat. Almost every type of meat, fish and fowl is liable to produce these poisons. It is interesting that the only exceptions to this is lamb and mutton. There is a type of poisoning causing paralysis of the legs from the use of the chick pea.

Sometimes good wholesome foods such as meat, eggs, milk, fish, and strawberries will produce violent symptoms in certain individuals. This is an idiosyncrasy concerning some special protein. A person so affected can usually obtain immunity by starting with small quantities of the offending foods, insufficient to be unpleasant, and gradually increase the amount used.

Questions and Answers.

Question—C. B. asks: "What is a good diet for an anemic person?"

Answer: The first thing to remember is that anemic patients must not be stuffed with an excess of food. At the start of treatment, a fruit diet will do more than any other diet to bring the blood back to normal. After the fruit fast, all meals should be carefully balanced, using a reasonable amount of all the different food substances. As soon as the tosemia which produces anemia is thrown out of the system, the body will be able to get the benefit of any good food.

Question—M. P. writes: "My meals are mostly milk and fruit, or a protein and vegetable. I am afraid I do not get enough starch. Does the body require a definite amount of starch, and will I su'fer on account of the small quantity I take in?"

Answer: I do not believe it is necessary to use any highly starchy foods at all in the diet. Of course, there is always a small amount found in the non-starchy vegetables. Carnivorous animals get along very well without starch and sugar, and under certain forced circumstances men have lived for years under practically an exclusive meat diet. Don't worry about not getting enough starch; the chances are you will get too much rather than too little.

Question—D. L. writes: "We read and appreciate your articles very much. My wife is suffering from high blood pressure. Some of the doctors tell us it cannot be cured. Would appreciate your advice on same."

Answer: The cause is due either to hardening of the arteries or arterial tension, and most cases can be cured by diet alone. If you will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope I will be glad to forward additional information on this subject.

NO DOG TAX THEN—

MARION, Ind., July 20—Delinquent dog tax bills mailed by County Auditor Green carried a reference to the law as "Acts, 1927." A few days later a prominent church member called him to tasks. "Marthy and me," said the churchman, "set up till 10 o'clock last night looking through the Acts of the Apostles, especially the 19th chapter. 27th verse, but there is no dog tax mentioned there." Future bills will be more explicit.

CATCHACOMA.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CATCHACOMA, July 19.—There has been a considerable influx of tourists to this point recently. Mr. Frank Burrett's cottage has a large party, also Mr. Cole's. The Catchacoma lakes enjoy practically a monopoly of that game fish, the mountain trout. Many are taking advantage of the excellent fishing.

RADIATOR FOR MA-IN-LA

DETROIT, July 20.—Automobile salesmen, recently returned from Japan, have started another mother-in-law story here. They say that rumble seats are taboo there so far as mother-in-law is concerned. Sons of Japan, because of the custom to revere their ancestors, have built a special seat for "mumsy" atop the radiator.

DELAVAL AND CAN. GENERAL DREW IN SOCCER

Blowers' Left-Footer Deceived Fowler — Hanson Rattled on Equaliser Before Half Time.

THREE GOALS EACH.

Ward Injured—Wade Made It 3 to 1 — Mitchell Reduced the Lead—Hanson Made it 3-3.

Soccer fans were treated to a real game of the scientific code last evening, when the De Laval drew with the Canadian General in a league game at King Edward Park before a fair and enthusiastic crowd. Goals aplenty kept the fans at a pitch of enthusiasm as the teams split a six-goal count between them—3 goals each. This leaves the Separator boys only one point behind the league leaders.

First Half.

Opening exchanges favored the De Laval, who kept Bolton busy clearing his citadel repeatedly from the attacking forwards, while the C.G.E. failed to make any progress against the defence. Both half-back lines never faltered to meet the onslaughts that prevailed during the next ten minutes. A beautiful run by Hanson was intercepted by Westwood inside the goal area when in the act of shooting.

Blower's Set the Pace.

The Canadian General replied with a desperate raid that was fruitful when Jack Wade initiated a movement in the front ranks. Fowler saving from close range shots but he did not get back into position in time to meet the low grounder of Blower's that went into the net like a rocket for the opening goal.

Fowler Brilliant in Goal.

Both goals went under a bombardment thereafter, in which the custodians played the major part of artists, in fact, Fowler grasping everything within reach to keep his goal intact.

Hanson Equalized.

The ball went from end to end at a fast pace, until Hanson broke the monotony by beating the defence right near goal, and finished with a lightning left-footer that beat Bolton all the way.

Half Time.

Twice in succession the C.G.E. forwards were pulled up for offsides, on resuming. Then Johnny Ward met with an accident that spoiled his usefulness in attack or defensive in which he was no mean performer all evening, and popped up many a time at the crucial moment to prevent disaster. He gave up the position at centre-half and went to outside left for the remainder of the encounter.

Wade Bulged the Net Twice.

After seven minutes' play, Hutton dribbled his way between the full backs to allow Wade to break through the opening and put his team in the lead again. This break came when the De Laval were disorganized when they had to reorganize their team to meet the emergencies caused through accidents. Immediately the C.G.E. returned to rattle on another tally to be in the lead 3 to 1. It was a nice piece of combination that brought into prominence the left wing when Burgess crossed into the goal where Wade's cranium meet the sphere in mid-air to divert the ball into the net past Fowler.

De Laval's Great Rally.

After getting their bearings, the De Laval dominated the play and hemmed the C.G.E. defence close into goal. They raised raid after raid against their opposition to be more aggressive than ever around the territory that they desired to hover. Long swinging passes kept the ball going from wing to wing at a rapid pace with the goal undergoing some narrow shaves. Finally Bromley carried the attack right into the flag corner, where the ball went out for a throw-in. Johnny Ward took the award and let Jim Mitchell have a rocket drive that sailed into the net amid great excitement.

Hanson Evened Up the Count.

As soon as this had transpired Hanson bewildered his opposition when he met a cross from Watkins, into the goal mouth. Dyer, Sen., set the ball get between his legs to his teammate, his action deceived the C.G.E. custodian nicely, because he never had a chance to stop the left-winger's drive into the net in below the bar. Five minutes of keen tactics prevailed until the finish, each team trying hard to gain the goal that would bring two points. Full time: Canadian General 3, De Laval 3.

De Laval: Fowler, goal; Evans and Downer, full backs; Cross, Mitchell, and Bromley, halves; Watkins, Dyer, Sen., Dyer, Jr., Hanson and Ward, forwards.

Canadian General: Bolton, goal; Munkley and Westwood, full backs; Laidler, Mann and Blowers, halves; F. Wade, Hutton, Wade, A. Mitchell, and Burgess, forwards.

Referee: Alex. McKinley.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur this morning showed The Examiner a new stamp which he has placed on the mailing machines whereby all mail from now until after September 15, will be stamped with an invitation to "Visit Postal Booth at Peterborough Exhibition, Sept. 10-15th."

A similar stamp has been in use during the past three or four years, and has proved a valuable means of advertising, not only for the booth but for the Exhibition.

Speaking of this year's postal exhibit, Mr. Lacheur stated that it would be located immediately opposite the north entrance to the Manufacturers' Building, and that in every way, it would surpass similar exhibits of former years. It was in 1923 that the local office had its first experience in this means of reaching the public and through that experience, as well as in years following, the 1928 booth will boast courses of instruction in proper methods of preparing mail; moving pictures and illustrated postal talks; a complete dead letter display and complete post office service. Members of the local staff will man the booth during the display

WEDDING BELLS

MOWRY—SHANNAHAN.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral on Tuesday, when Mary Margaret, daughter of the late Dennis Shannahan, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Milne Joseph Mowry, son of the late Mortimer Mowry, both of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Costello.

The bridesmaid was Miss Pearl Levasseur, and the best man was Mr. Edward Johnston.

After the ceremony the bride and bridegroom left on the noon train for Toronto and other points. They will live at 323 King Street.

A number of useful and handsome gifts were received by the young people. The gift of the bridegroom to the bridesmaid was a gold bar pin with ruby setting and to the best man a set of gold cuff links.

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEN.—In loving memory of R. Raymond Allen and his two chums, who were drowned at Balsam Lake, July 20, 1926.

We know them living unto Thee.

OBITUARY

JAMES M. O'BRIEN

TORONTO, July 20.—The funeral took place yesterday morning at 8.45 o'clock of the late James Maurice O'Brien from his home, 19 Normanna avenue, to the St. Clair Church, where the ceremony was conducted by Rev. Father Corkery of Peterborough, a cousin of the deceased. The pall-bearers were four brothers of the deceased, R. V. O'Brien, J. B. O'Brien, W. J. O'Brien, G. P. O'Brien; an uncle, J. J. O'Brien of Peterborough, and a cousin, R. C. Sheehy. The chief mourners, besides the pall-bearers, were his widow, his mother, Mrs. J. O'Brien, the widow of the late Michael O'Brien; and two children, Katherine and James. The body was taken to the family plot at Mount Hope cemetery.

Numerous mass cards and floral offerings were received by the relatives of the deceased, among the latter a large offering from the confreres of the late Mr. O'Brien, the board of censors of the province of Ontario. The last rites of the church were conducted over the grave by the Rev. Father Hugh Murray of St. Monica's Church.

No Change Needed In Law

Toronto Chief Declares Bullying not Practiced by Force.

CONDITIONS GOOD

Law as it Stands all Right if Properly Administered, Says Attorney.

TORONTO, July 21 (Special to The Examiner).—The recent suggestion of a Toronto barrister that legislation governing privileges granted prisoners held on criminal charges should be revised, is opposed by General D. C. Draper, Chief of Police, and Assistant Crown Attorney, James W. McFadden. The voluntary statements of the accused figured as a bone of contention in the lawyer's application to the Minister of Justice for a change from the present practice. He hinted that cautioning of a prisoner was "inquisitorial in character and that police officers allow their zeal to run away after them."

While Chief Draper declined to comment fully on the matter, he opined that existing conditions were very fair and in the best interests of justice. He also denied vigorously that any buying or so-called "third degree" methods were indulged in by the police.

"The law as it stands, if properly administered, is fair to the guilty and innocent alike," Mr. McFadden declared, "and I see no reason for any change or new legislation in this respect."

Police procedure in Toronto in dealing with prisoners is in accord with rules drown up in 1912 by the judges of the King's Bench Division, England, under Lord Averstone, then Chief Justice, and at the request of the Home Secretary.

"These rules have not the force of the law," it is recorded. "They are administrative directions, the observance of which the police authorities should enforce upon their subordinates as tending to the fair administration of Justice."

NEWARK, N.J., July 21. — (Canadian Press). — Frank H. Krouse, a truck driver, appeared in the police station with a story of having been attacked by an aviator who swooped down from the skies and clipped the top off his truck. The vehicle was driven to a fire house and parked there in proof of the charge.

A warrant charging violation of the city's flying ordinance was issued for the arrest of Kenneth Collings, the aviator.

LEGATION IS OPENED BY JAPAN

Prime Minister Announces Japanese will Open Legation in Ottawa.

PRESENT SITUATION

Department of External Affairs has not Been Adivsed of New Appointee.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 21 (Canadian Press). — Official announcement of the opening of the Japanese Legation in Ottawa was made from the office of the Prime Minister yesterday.

The announcement is as follows:

"The Prime Minister was formally notified to-day that the Government of Japan is opening its Canadian Legation in Ottawa from this date. Mr. Shuh Tomii, former Consul-General of Japan in Ottawa, has been appointed first secretary, and will act as Charge d'Affaires pending the appointment of a minister plenipotentiary. The Japanese Consulate-General in Ottawa will be closed from this date, but Mr. Kiyoshi Fukui, attache of the Legation, has been appointed Vice-Consul in charge of consular affairs. The Legation staff at present, in addition to the first secretary, will consist of Mr. Kiyoshi Fukui, attache, Mr. Tetsujiro Kohri, attache, and Mr. Kenzo Yokoh, chancellor."

The chancery of the Legation will be situated for the present in an office building on Rideau Street.

The Department of External Affairs has not been advised yet who will be appointed by the Japanese Government as minister plenipotentiary here. Neither is there any indication, up to the present, of who will be chosen to represent Canada at Tokio. It seems unlikely that the Canadian Legation in Japan will be opened before the autumn.

HIGH COMMISSIONERS PAY TRIBUTE TO HON. P. C. LARKIN

Representatives of British Dominions Meet in London at Banquet.

AMERY SPEAKS

Pleads for Less Minor Restrictions in Canadian Immigration Regulations.

LONDON, July 21 (Canadian Press Cable).—High Commissioners of the British Dominions in London were described last night by Hon. J. S. Smit, South African High Commissioner, as a "rare, valuable species serving their countries better than any politician."

Speaking at an all-Canadian dinner given by the Canadian Department of Agriculture, Mr. Smit paid high tribute to the activities of Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner, in gaining certain social rights and privileges for the Dominion representatives in the British capital.

Mr. Larkin presided at the dinner at which Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Canadian Minister of Agriculture, and Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery also spoke. Mr. Motherwell said he anticipated that the recent amendment of medical regulations would result in a freer movement of British migrants to Canada, while Col. Amery pleaded for less minor restrictions in the Canadian immigration regulations to encourage British emigration.

Proposing Mr. Larkin's health, the South African High Commissioner said Mr. Larkin belonged to that "rare valuable species serving his country better than any politician." If Mr. Larkin had lived before the invention of microphones, dictaphones and newspapers, so loved by the man who goes stumping the world, he would have been one of the world's diplomats, Mr. Smit said.

"Whatever we High Commissioners have gained in status, it is in a large measure due to Mr. Larkin," Mr. Smit added. "Strange as it may seem, our rights and privileges have not in every instance been conceded as a matter of course. We still find the importance and dignity of our countries not sufficiently studied. There is still to be overcome a mentality which when considering the British constitution stops at Great Britain and overlooks the very important part of Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the seas.

CARS CRASH AT CROSSING

ON CHARLOTTE STREET.

Harry Lafave was driving a car, No. 360-848, west along Charlotte street last night, about ten o'clock, travelling about fifteen miles an hour. When about half way across Aylmer street, his car collided with a truck, C45206, owned and driven by Fred Wilson, of 709 George street.

Wilson states that he was travelling about ten miles an hour going east on Charlotte street. When he was about to make a turn north on Aylmer street Lafave came across in front of him and he was so close he could not stop, and he hit the left front of Wilson's car.

The truck suffered a broken radiator and a punctured left tire while the sedan suffered only slight damages. In Lafave's car there were Harry Lafave, his wife and three small children, but no one was injured.

Fenders Damaged.

A motor car accident occurred this morning about 9.45 o'clock at the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe Streets, but fortunately no one was injured. According to the police, who investigated it, one driver had attempted to make a complete turn on the intersection, and in so doing, his car was struck by a second one proceeding south on Aylmer Street. Damaged fenders resulted.

British Business Men And Their Wives Touring Dominion In Happy Party

TORONTO, July 21 (Special to The Examiner)—Forty-five members of the National Chamber of Trade, delegated from the 350 Chambers of Commerce all over the United Kingdom, arrived in the city to-day from Ottawa. Forty-five and some with their wives, almost everybody except "the butcher, the baker, the candle-stick marker," were in this chatty, cheerful, optimistic pilgrimage that gathered for early breakfast in a downtown hotel after one more soothing slumber on Canadian sleeping cars. They came from all over the four chief countries of the the Kingdom, all of them makers and distributors of far-famed British goods, in all sorts of picturesque, tucked in, smoke belching towns and great quay-side cities. They represent most of the commodities for which Britain, not merely England, is known all over the Empire and most of the habituated world.

Chief among them, leader and organiser of the tour, was Sir William Peering, head of the firm of William Perring and Company, house furnishers, member of His Majesty's greatest parliament, and ex-Mayor of Paddington. He was the shortest and most talkative man in the party. Clad in a light brown suit with shirt and tie to match.

Sir William was not in the least disturbed that his bag had not yet turned up among the luggage, or that his umbrella—which no traditional Englishman is supposed to carry at home—was lost, strayed, or stolen since leaving Ottawa.

"Oh, it will turn presently," he said. "Good umbrellas ought to open if they don't always."

"Just what trade opportunities are your delegation seeking in Canada, Sir William?" he was asked as a move incentive to pre-breakfast conversation. Sir William at once began to make that clear.

"We are essentially a retail distributors' organization," he said, "but we are not concerned merely with exports of our goods. We do feel, however, that Imperial patriotism is, after all, a very practical matter, that it really gets back to the ledger."

NOTED ACTRESS PASSES TO-DAY

Dame Ellen Terry Succumbs to Painful Illness this Morning.

80 YEARS OLD.

SMALL HYTHE, Kent, Eng., July 21 (Canadian Press). — Dame Ellen Terry, British actress, beloved by playgoers the world over, died this morning in the little oaken farmhouse tucked away in the vales of Kent, where she had quietly spent the last years of her life.

Death came at 8.56 a.m. after an uncomfortable night, during which she sank slowly to the end. When the dawn appeared, the doctor announced that the patient was considerably weaker. She passed away peacefully, surrounded by her relatives. Her death marked the final period of her hopeless struggle against a combination heart attack and cerebral hemorrhage from which she had been sinking slowly since Tuesday.

There had been fears for some time that she whose life was the stage would not much longer survive the definite withdrawal from it which her age compelled. She celebrated her eightieth birthday last February.

Until two years ago Miss Terry never failed to appear at first nights in London, and the tall, queenly old lady in black, with a black lace scarf draped over her silver hair, was always rapturously applauded when she entered her box.

Miss Terry kept constantly at hand for daily reading a little, worn copy of "Imitation of Christ," by Thomas A. Kempis. Not long before she died the following lines of verse in her own firm hand were found written across the fly leaf:

"No funeral gloom, my dears, when I am gone.
"Corpse gazings, tears, black raiment, graveyard grimness.
"Think of me as withdrawn into the dimness.
"Yours still, you mine.
"Remember all the best of our past moments and forget the rest
"And so to where I wait come gently on."

Below was written: "I should wish my children, relatives and friends to observe this when I die."

FLOODED OUT OF WATER.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., July 21. — This city was without water recently because of a five-inch rainfall. The flood had inundated the filtration plant leaving motors and other equipment in five feet of water.

Eighty per cent. of Canada's mineral resources are still unprospected.

JAIL SENTENCE IN LIQUOR CASE

INDIANS CONVICTED.

Intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle—ten days in the county jail.

Consuming liquor in a place other than a private residence (a previous conviction under the act having been recorded)—one month in the county jail.

Thus judgement fell heavily upon James Akey, appearing before Magistrate O. A. Langley in County Police court on Friday when the result of His Worship's deliberations were made known relative to the first charge, on which Akey had been tried a week ago. Akey was tried on the "consuming" charge on Friday and the sentences will run concurrently.

It will be recalled that the first charge against Akey, mentioned above resulted from an automobile accident on the Keene Road last June 29. At the trial a week ago, several witnesses were called by the Crown and also by J. A. O'Brien, defense counsel while an interesting argument of the case followed from which the Magistrate raised two points from which he wished to further consider—whether Akey was actually in charge of the car, and whether the word 'car' used by the witnesses meant a motor vehicle. His decision in the affirmative, reached during the week's reserve, resulted in the 10-day sentence imposed, while the month of imprisonment sentence imposed after trial yesterday was attributed to the face that Akey had a previous conviction against him under the Liquor Control Act.

Indians Find

James Howard, of Hiawatha Reserve, whose ill-health and removal to the hospital caused the adjournment last week of the second charge against Akey (in which he was a witness) adjournment of a case in which an Indian woman was charged with consuming liquor other than with consuming liquor in other than ment of a charge against himself similar to that against the woman, was yesterday fined $10.00 and costs by the magistrate. The woman was similarly dealt with.

FATALLY INJURED IN CAR COLLISION

Drivers of Touring Car and Truck held in Connection with Accident.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 21 (Canadian Press).—Joseph Harasinick, 40, of Windsor, was fatally injured last night when the touring car in which he was a passenger was struck by a truck driven by Henry Thornton, of Windsor. Thornton and Louis Squires, Windsor, driver of the touring car, were held.

UNION STATION IS PROPOSED TO MEET NEEDS OF MONTREAL

English Engineering Expert Examines Situation to Make Recommendations.

C. N. R. HESITATES

Bonaventure Reconstruction held over Pending Union of Railways.

(Special to the Examiner)

MONTREAL, July 21.—The public and officials of Montreal anxiously are awaiting some definite information regarding the flying visit of Frederick Palmer, English engineering expert, who came here to size up the terminal situation and make suggestions for the establishment of a union station.

Montreal has suffered greatly through having four railway terminals, only one of which is much of an advertisement for the city in the eyes of incoming travellers, while one at least, and that the important one, generally is regarded as an eyesore and a reflection on the importance of the city.

One does not need to be an experienced traveller to not the insufficiency of the Bonaventure station to the requirements of the Metropolis, and from time to time pressure has been put on the Canadian National Railway to build a larger station, more in keeping with the needs of the city and more on a par with the new stations in other large centres.

Evidently the prospect of a Union Station materializing has held back the decision to build a new Canadian National Station, and now it may be taken for granted that the idea will not be considered again as a union station is favored by everybody, and the main question is whether a new plan and location can be agreed on or whether one of the many plans aired, from time to time, will be selected.

BENNETT GIVEN LARGE ESCORT

CIVIC RECEPTION.

TORONTO, Ont., July 21 (Special to The Examiner).—Toronto Conservatives, 350 strong, left Queen's Park at 8.45 this morning for their picnic at Oshawa. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal leader, was one of the first who arrived at the point of departure. Mr. Bennett appeared to be in a particularly amiable spirit and spent some half an hour renewing old acquaintances chatting with Colonel Harry Mullins, Alfred Cuddy, Hon. John S. Martin and J. R. McNichol.

Previous to their departure they lined up for the group of photographers present, and Mr. Bennett appeared to enjoy joking with them and the newspaper men. Two chartered buses and some 30 private cars were loaded to their capacity with Conservative picnickers. They intend stopping for a short time at the Soldiers' Monument in Whitby and at the General Motors, the Malleable Iron Factory, and other industrial concerns in Oshawa.

Hon. John S. Martin and other members of the Ontario government, with a large representation of party leaders from various Ontario cities and towns, are accompanying Mr. Bennett on the trip. It is expected 10,000 people will attend the picnic.

After the program to-day Mr. Bennett will go on to Montreal to meet his sister, Miss Mildred Bennett, and proceed to the Maritime Provinces on his announced itinerary.

Greeted At Whitby

WHITBY, Ont., July 21 (Canadian Press).—Escorted by a group of Toronto Conservatives in buses and motor cars, Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party, to-day paid a visit to Ontario County. At Whitby he was tendered a civic reception in front of the War Memorial by Mayor Bateman and W. T. Kaiser, M.P. Mr. Bennett was accompanied by the Hon. J. S. Martin, Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

In a brief address here the leader urged his hearers to take a broad view of the Dominion of Canada and not to confine their interests to any community or province. He made no reference whatever to politics or political questions beyond stating that the country faced many difficult problems.

Canada is now the largest purchaser of her own bond issues.

CAR AND MOTOR BOAT ENGAGED IN COLLISION

There may be Seven Wonders in the world, and some people at Zion City may believe the world to be flat and fliers may cross oceans, but there is something queer when a motor boat and an automobile come into collision. Some one must have been drinking or one of the vehicles must have been out of its native element—and it was. The motor boat was stored in a Water street back yard and a man turning a car around knocked it off its supports to the ground, where it lay on its side like a wounded water bird until its owner again fixed it in its resting place. Neither boat nor car suffered damage in the contact.

150 ANIMALS PROVIDED FOR IN NEW BARNS

Two New Buildings being Erected at Fair Grounds at Present.

AT EAST END.

Large Shipment of Cattle from C. N. E. Assured for Peterborough Fair.

Two new barns, which are now under construction at the Exhibition Grounds, will provide accommodation under cover for at least 150 head of live stock, and will add appreciably to the long line of buildings already on the grounds.

Fred Finnie is the contractor for the new horse barn, a structure 120 by 40 feet, which will accommodate 48 horses. This building will be used to provide stall space for the jumping horses and similar stock. It is now ready for the painters, who will start work on Monday.

Fred Dummitt has the foundations ready for the new cattle barn and also for the small cattle barn back of the midway, which is to be moved, and will start work next week with a large force of carpenters to put up the buildings, material for which is already on the ground. The cattle barn will be 150 feet long. It will be erected along the east line of the ground, running north from the south line. The space between this barn and the last of the present row, a matter of about 25 feet, will be roofed over and stalls built along one side. Along the south line of the grounds the barn now in the middle of the field will be re-erected on a cement foundation. A space thirty feet long will be left between it and the new barn and this will be roofed over and provided with stalls. The total new accommodation will care for more than one hundred head of cattle.

That this extra space will be required is shown by a letter from J. Milligan, who raises Guernseys at his Maple Stock Farms near Cannington This well-known breeder, who is also in great demand as a judge in the cattle classes, is sending two carloads of his best cattle to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, and will ship direct from there to Peterborough. Mr. Milligan's sons will be in charge of the herd while he is absent at the Prince Edward Island fair at Charlottetown, where he will act as a judge.

Mr. Milligan's further interest in the Peterborough Exhibition is further shown by his letter to William Knox, superintendent of live stock at the Fair, in which he states that at a recent meeting of the Ontario Guernsey Breeders' Association he voted that $25 of the $100 allocated by the association for fair prizes be granted the Peterborough Fair. Mr. Milligan's letter also expresses his commendation for the splendid prize list issued by the local board.

Canada has a higher per capita productive capacity than any other country except the U.S.

Medical Men to Seek Reason for Financier's Wild Plunge.

POISON OR DISEASE

Tore Off Collar and Tie Before Taking 4000 Foot Jump to Sea.

CALAIS, France, July 21. — (Canadian Press).—Captain Alfred Loewenstein was still alive when he plunged 4,000 feet from his aeroplane over the English Channel, it was concluded by medical men who turned in their autopsy report today.

At the request of relatives a further examination will be made of the internal organs to determine whether poison or disease caused the Belgian financier's abnormal condition at the time of the tragedy. This is based upon the supposition that he tore off his collar and tie which were found in the pane. Evidence has already been given that just before leaving his seat in the plane he acted as if he were suffering

Pretty Shoes Sell at 20 Cents a Pair When Offered By Auction at Farm Market

The belles of Curve Lake village will share the delightul sensation, so dear to the feminine heart, of getting a nice article at a bargain, when they don the shoes which one of the men purchased at the market this morning for a ridiculously low sum. The auctioneer had a lot of pretty shoes which he offered at a rare discount and Mr. Whetung bought two or three pairs. William Roberts of The Examiner staff was also noted as a purchaser of a very pretty pair of small brown satin shoes, for which he paid twenty cents. Other pairs went for ten and fifteen cents.

Small Dance Floor Is Popular Adjunct To Service Station Near Peterborough

The idea of service in other than motor ways is carried out at a little station not far from the city, where the proprietor provides a booth for liquid refreshment and also has erected a small dancing platform where passers-by may pause for a while and trip the light fantastic. It has an attraction all its own in its open-air unconventionality. Last night several couples enjoyed this al fresco privilege accorded by the modern exponent of "The House by the Side of the Road," which someone has aptly said is really a service station.

Gipsy Life Is About To Pass

Hungarian Government Says Wanderers of Highway Must Cease.

ABANDON COSTUME.

Foreign Traders are Given one Month to Leave the Country.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 21 (Canadian Press). — Hungary's oldest and most picturesque institution—gipsy life—is about to pass away for ever.

Wanderers of the road and highway were well enough in their day, but their day is over, the government says. A governmental decree, handed down yesterday, enacts their passing into law.

Under the decree all Hungarian gipsies must forsake their nomadic habits, settle down in fixed abodes, and take their places with ordinary folk as full-fledged—and responsible—subjects of the Hungarian kingdom. Their new responsibility entails the liability of military service for the males and grants them full suffrage and the right to own property.

Along with their wandering they must abandon the costume their forefathers wore for centuries and adopt present-day European dress.

Foreign gipsies will fare even worse. They are given one month's time to leave Hungary, those remaining after that period being subject to jail sentences. Gipsy caravans from Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, and other countries will be halted at the frontier after to-day.

The decree affects about 50,000 Hungarian gipsies.

Authorizing the Council to borrow the sum of $9,000 for the issue and sale of debentures to provide for the cost of drain.

The Reeve and Clerk were authorized to sign a contract with the Ontario Ameisite Company, Limited, for storm sewers, $8,270; and for pavement, $56,216.55.

Local Work Progressing.

The new bridge over the King Street creek, which was completed some three weeks ago, will be opened for traffic on Saturday morning.

The work on the drain is proceeding well, the section having been finished from the outlet near the old octagon mill site, and along Tupper Street to the King Street intersection. Excavation has reached a point more than half--way up the business section of King Street, and it is expected that the entire work on the drain may be finished by next week. The men were not working Thursday after noon on account of some dissatisfaction with their pay cheques, but the delay was of a temporary character.

Quite a lot of local labor is being employed, and there are a number of Italians, the latter boarding themselves in a vacant shop on Tupper Street.

LOEWENSTEIN'S ENGLISH ESTATE.

With the definite identification of a body found floating in the English Channel ten miles from Cap Gris-Nez as that of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, who disappeared from his plane while it was flying from Croydon to Brussels on July 4, the way is now cleared for the settlement of the Belgian financier's estate. Madame Loewenstein has intimated that she will retain the captain's country estate at Melton Mowbray in Leicestershire and his string of hunting horses. Her eighteen year-old son is very fond of riding and hunting and will spend half of each year in England. The Loewenstein home at Melton Mowbray is seen in the illustration, together with its beautiful sunken garden. Also shown is Capt. H. Drew, who piloted Loewenstein's plane when the Belgian millionaire visited Toronto in May and who was also at the controls of the financier's big tri-motored machine when it left England for Belgium. Upon approaching the French coast it was discovered that Loewenstein had disappeared while the plane was flying at a height of 4,000 feet. Boulogne fishermen on July 19 recovered the body which was definitely identified by a wrist watch engraved with the words, "Captain Loewenstein, 24 rue de la Science, Brussels," and by certain distinctive dental work and clothing. Capt. Drew has expressed his opinion that his employer did not commit suicide but met his death by accident.

CARS COLLIDE; LITTLE DAMAGE

Accident Occurs at Campbellford Corner During Noon Hour.

NO PERSON HURT.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—About twelve-thirty yesterday afternoon, the first motor accident to occur here for several weeks happened at the corner of Bridge and Ranney streets when a car coming down the hill struck another which was backing around the corner. No one was injured, and the damage to the cars will not amount to any large amount.

The car which struck the one at the intersection was a touring and suffered a bent fender and a punctured front tire. The sedan which was backing around the corner, suffered rather more when its tire carrier was partly broken off and the two rear springs badly bent.

Leslie Henson, who was driving the touring car, said he was trying to avoid a coupe which he thought was about to start, and in so doing struck the sedan. William Martin, who was backing around the corner, said he looked back but did not see any other car coming. Both are licensed drivers and will attend to their own repair bills.

Good Used Cars Cheaper in Toronto

Everybody knows that used cars sell for hundreds of dollars less in Toronto than dealers can afford to sell them in your town. The tremendous stocks on the Toronto market and keen competition force prices down. In the majority of cases, they are much better cars, as most of them have never left the city pavements and have never been asked to stand the rough going of country roads.

A TIRED-OUT FEELING

Is a Sure Sign that the Blood is Thin and Watery.

"I am glad to have an opportunity of testifying to the benefits I derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, St. Joseph, N.B. She further says:—"Some years ago I was working as a stenographer, and became badly run-down. I always had a tired-out feeling, had no appetite and suffered terribly from backache. Almost every month I had to remain from the office for a day or two. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be glad that I followed this advice. Before I had been taking the pills very long I began to feel much better. Continuing their use my strength came back, and I regained my appetite and the terrible backache from which I had suffered disappeared. I have been married some years now and have two fine healthy children, a girl and a boy, and am in the best of health. All this I owe to Dr. Williams' famous Pink Pills, and I trust that these few lines may help some other weak, run-down person."

All weak, run-down people who will give this blood-building tonic a fair trial will find through its use new health and strength. You can get the pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GREAT SERMONS BY GREAT MEN

CORONATION DAY SERMON
By Cardinal Mercier

(This address was given by His Eminence Cardinal Mercer on the day of the National Fete, July 21, 1916, at Saint Gudule, Brussels, just 12 years ago today. The German Governor of Brussels had forbidden any demonstration on the Belgian National Day, but the Cardinal found a way to stir the patriotism of the people to the highest.)

Beloved Brethren: We ought to have met together here to celebrate the 85th anniversary of our national independence.

To-day, in fourteen years' time, our restored cathedrals and our rebuilt caurches will be thrown widely open; the crowds will surge in; our King Albert, standing on his throne, will bow his unconquered head before the King of Kings; the Queen and the Royal Princes will surround him; we shall hear again the joyous peals of our bells, and throughout the whole country, under the vaulted arches of our churches, the Belgians, hand in hand, will renew their vows to their God, priests, interpreters of the soul of the nation, will intone a triumphant Te Deum in a common transport of joyous thanksgiving.

To-day the hymn of joy dies on our lips.

The Jewish people in captivity at Babylon, sitting in tears on the banks of the Euphrates, watched the waters of the river flow by. Their dumb harps were hung on the willows by the bank. Who amongst them would have the courage to sing the song of Jehovah in a strange land? "O Jerusalem," cried the Psalmist, "if ever I forget thee, let my right hand wither, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth if I do not remember thee; if thou art no longer the beginning of my joys."

The Psalm ends in imprecations: but we do not allow ourselves to repeat them: we are not of the Old Testament, tolerating the laws of retaliation: "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." Our lips, purified by the fire of Christian charity, utter no words of hate. To hate is to make it one's object to do harm to others and to delight in so doing. Whatever may be our sufferings, we must not wish to show hatred towards those who have inflicted them. Our national unity is joined with a feeling of universal brotherhood. But even this feeling of universal brotherhood is dominated by our respect for the unconditional justice, without which no relationship is possible, either between individuals or between nations.

And that is why, with St. Thomas Aquinas, the most authoritative teacher of Christian Theology, we proclaim that public retribution is commendable.

Crimes, violation of justice, outrage on the public peace whether enacted by an individual or by a group must be repressed. Men's minds are stirred up, tortured, uneasy, as long as the guilty one is not put back in his place, as the strong, healthy, colloquial expression has it. To put men and things back in their places is to re-establish order, readjust the balance and restore peace on a just basis.

Public retribution in this sense may distress the affected sentimentality of a weak nature; all the same, it is, says St. Thomas, the expression and the decree of the highest, the purest form of charity, and of the zeal which is its flame. It does not make a target o suffering but a weapon wherewith to avenge outraged justice.

How can one love order without hating disorder; intelligently wish for peace without expelling that which is destroying it; love a brother, that is to say wish him well, without desiring that willingly, or by force, his will shall bend before the unalterable edicts of justice and truth?

It is from these heights that one must view the war in order to understand the greatness of its extent.

Once more, perhaps, you will find yourself face to face with effeminate natures for whom the war means nothing beyond explosions of mines, bursting of shells, massacres of men, spilling of blood, piling up of corpses. You will meet politicians of narrow vision who see no further stake in a battle beyond the interest of one day, the taking of so much ground, of a stretch of country, or of a province.

But no! If, in spite of its horrors, war, I mean a just war, has so much austere beauty, it is because war brings out the disinterested enthusiasm of a whole people, which gives, or is prepared to give, its most precious possession, even life itself, for the defense and the vindication of things which cannot be weighed, which cannot be calculated, but which can never be swallowed up: Justice, Honor, Peace, Liberty!

Do you not feel that, in these two years, the war, the ardent unflagging interest which you give to it, purifies you, separates your higher nature from the dross, draws you away to uplift you towards something nobler and better than yourselves?

You are rising towards the ideals of justice and honor. They support you and draw you upwards.

And, because this ideal, if it is not a vain abstraction, which evaporates like the phantasies of a dream, must have its foundation in a living subject, I am never tired of maintaining this truth, which holds us all under its yoke. God reveals Himself as the Master, the Director of events, and of our wills, the holy Master of the Universal conscience.

Ah, if we could clasp in our arms our heroes who are fighting for us over there, or are awaiting anxiously in the trenches their turn to go under fire; if we could take them by surprise, and feel the beating of their hearts, would not each one of them say to us: I am doing my duty, I am sacrificing myself on the altar of justice?

And you, wives and mothers, tell us in your turn of the beauty of these tragic years; wives, whose every thought goes, sad, but resigned, towards the absent one, bringing him your hopes, your long expectation, your prayers. Mothers, whose divided existence is consumed in unceasing anguish, you have given your sons, and you will not take them back; we stand breathless with unceasing admiration before you.

The head of one of our noblest families wrote to me: "Our son in the 7th Line Regiment has fallen; my wife and I are broken-hearted; and yet, if it had to be, we would give him again."

One of the curates of the capital has been condemned to twelve years penal servitude. I was allowed to go into his cell to embrace and to bless him. "I have three brothers at the front," he said, "And I am here chiefly because I helped the youngest, he is only seventeen to rejoin the elder ones; one of my sisters is in a neighboring cell, but, thank God, my mother is not left alone; indeed she has sent us a message to say so: she does not weep."

Is it not true that our mothers make us think of the mother of the Maccabees?

What lessons of moral greatness there are to be learnt here around us, and in exile and in the prisons, and in the concentration camps, in Holland and in Germany!

Do we think enough of what those brave men must be suffering, who since the beginning of the war, from the morrow of the defense of Liege and Namur, or the retreat from Antwerp, saw their military career shattered, and now chafe and fret under their inability to bear arms; these guardians of our rights, and of our communal liberties, whose valor has reduced them to inaction?

It needs courage to throw oneself forward, but it needs no less to hold oneself back. Sometimes it is more noble to suffer in silence than to act.

And what of these two years of calm submission by the Belgian people before the inevitable; this unshakable tenacity, which moved a humble woman, before whom the possibilities of an approaching conclusion of peace were being discussed, to say: "Oh, as for us, we must not worry: we can go on waiting." How beautiful is all this, and how full of instruction for the generations to come.

This is what you must look at, my brothers, the greatness of the nation in her sacrifice: our universal and enduring brotherhood in anguish and in mourning, and in the same unconquerable hope; this is what you must look at to appraise your Belgian fatherland at its true value.

Now the first exponents of this moral greatness are our soldiers.

Until that day when they return to us, and when grateful Belgium acclaims the living, and places a halo of glory about the memory of her dead, let us build up for them in our hearts a permanent monument of sacred gratitude.

Let us pray for those who are no more. Let us exclude no one from our commiseration: the blood of Christ was shed for all. Some of them are atoning in Purgatory for the last remnants of their human weakness. It is for you to hasten their entry into Paradise. Succor the poor in distress, both the poor who are known to you and those who are ashamed to beg. Give of your abundance to those who are in need of the necessities of life. Be present at the Mass, which is celebrated every week in your parish churches for our dead soldiers; take your children with you, encourage them to communicate, and communicate with them.

Let us also pray for those who are still holding the firing line on the field of battle. Remember that, even at this moment, while I am speaking to you, some of them are in the agony of death. The prospect of eternity stretches out before them. Let us think of them, let us mortify ourselves for them, resign ourselves to God for them, and obtain for them a holy death.

"Our soldiers are our masters," wrote a French Academician yesterday; "they are our leaders, our teachers, our judges, our supporters, our true friends: let us be worthy of them, let us imitate them, so that we may not do less than our duty; they are always ready to do more than their own."

The hour of deliverance approaches, but it has not yet struck. Let us be patient. Let us not suffer our courage to waver. Let us surrender to Divine Providence the work of making perfect our national probation.

Young women, young girls, let me ask if you are thinking seriously enough about the gravity of this present time? I entreat you not to turn aside from the mourning of your country. There are attitudes, there are ways of behaving which are an insult to grief.

For your modesty is at all times a virtue and a halo of glory: but to-day it is in addition a patriotic duty.

You, also, must think of the privations and of the endurance of our soldiers.

Let us all try to adopt the great principle of austerity in our lives.

"How much," continues the patriot whom I have just quoted, "how much ought we, in the relatively easy conditions and the less exposed districts, which are ours, and which do not deserve the name of fire zones, to endeavour to reduce and simplify our needs, and like the soldiers, though in our own sphere, to show more concentrated energy. Let us not allow ourselves a moment's distraction or relaxation. Let us devote every minute in our lives to the magnificent cause for which our brothers are so devotedly sacrificing theirs.

"And, just as our heroes at the front show us a wonderful and consoling spectacle of indissoluble unity, of a brotherhood in arms which nothing can destroy, even so, in our ranks, less compact and well-disciplined though they may be, we shall earnestly strive to maintain the same patriotic sense of union. We will respect the truce imposed on our quarrels by the one great Cause which alone ought to use and absorb all our powers of attack and combat; and if there are any godless or unfortunate people, who fail to understand the urgency and the beauty of this national precept, and insist, in spite of all, on keeping alive and fomenting the passions which divide us when other matters are concerned, we will turn aside our heads, and continue without answering them, to remain faithful to the pact of fellowship, of friendship, of loyal and true confidence which we have concluded with them, even in spite of themselves, under the great inspiration of the war."

The approaching date of the first centenary of our independence ought to find us stronger, more intrepid, more united than ever. Let us prepare ourselves for it with work, with patience and in true brotherhood.

When, in 1930, we recall the dark years of 1915-1916, they will appear to us as the brightest, the most majestic and, if, from to-day we resolve that they shall be so, the happiest and the most fruitful in our national history. Per crucem ad lucem—from the sacrifice flashes forth the light!

A PRAYER
For Contentment

O God, our heavenly Father, Who, by Thy Son Jesus Christ, hast promised to all them who seek Thy kingdom and the righteousness thereof, all things that are needful for their bodily life; Keep us, we beseech Thee, under the protection of Thy good providence, and teach us in whatsoever state we are, therewith to be content. Give us grace to forsake all covetous desires, and so to pass through things temporal, that we finally lose not the things eternal: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

STORIES FOR LITTLE PEOPLE

SAMUEL, or THE GOD DAGON
1 Sam. vi vi. 1-14.
"(By M.B.)"

Do you not wish to know what the Philistines did with the ark?

They were much delighted at getting the ark of the God of Israel; for they knew that he was a very great God. The Philistines took the ark to one of their cities, or towns: and they put it in the house of their idol. Their idol's name was Dagon. The Philistines had made an image like a man, and they called it Dagon, and they had built a house for Dagon, and they had set Dagon up on a high place; so they used to come and worship Dagon very often in this house.

The Philistines left the ark all night in the house of Dagon; the next morning they got up early and went into the idol's house. But what do you think they saw when they went in?

Who had thrown Dagon down? It was God, who wished to show the Philistines that he was stronger than idols, and that he hated idols.

The Philistines were not quite sure that it was God who had thrown Dagon on the ground; so they lifted up Dagon, and set him in his place again near the ark, and then left him.

The next morning they rose up early and came into the idol's house. What do you think they saw this time?

Dagon was fallen down again upon his face, before the ark; and this time Dagon was broken; his head and his hands were broken off from his body. The Philistines were very sorry their idol was broken. I do not know whether they mended the idol or whether they set him up again, but God soon made something much worse happen to the Philistines. God made them very ill indeed, and full of pain. They said one to another, 'What shall we do with the ark? for it shall not stay in this city any longer.' So they sent it to another city, where some other Philistines lived. What do you think happened to the people of that city, when the ark of God was come into it?

They fell very ill indeed, and a great many of them died. So the people of the city sent it to another city of the Philistines. The people of the other city were very much frightened when they saw the ark coming: they said, 'We shall die now the ark is brought here.'

Soon they fell very ill, and a great many of the people died, and the city was full of people groaning and crying.

At last the Philistines thought they would send the ark back to the Israelites; but they did not feel quite sure that the God of Israel had been angry with them for keeping the ark.

Had the God of Israel been angry with them? Yes, my dear child: you know that it was God who had made them so ill, and who had killed so many of them.

The Philistines made a plan for sending back the ark. This was their plan. They said, 'We will put the ark in a cart, and we will take two cows that have never drawn a cart before; and we will tie them to the cart, and we will shut up their calves in this place where we live. No one shall drive the cows, but we will see what they will do. If the God of Israel be so great, he can make the cows take the ark back to the Israelites. If the cows leave their calves, and go to the place where the Israelites live, then we shall be quite sure that it was the God of Israel who made us to ill, to punish us for keeping the ark.'

This was the plan of the Philistines. They had heard how God once sent plagues to Pharaoh, and they were afraid lest God should do the same to them. They said, 'We will not harden our hearts, as Pharaoh and the people of Egypt did.'

The Philistines took two cows that gave milk, and tied them to the cart, without being driven, along the road which led to the place where the Israelites lived. They lowed as they went, and never once turned out of the road.

Some of the Philistines followed the cart.

At last the cart came to a place where some of the Israelites were reaping corn in a field. These Israelites looked up, and saw the cart coming, and soon they saw the ark, and they were very glad indeed. The cows brought the cart into the field, and then stopped by the side of a great stone.

Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sin should live unto righteousness by whose stripes ye were healed.—1 Pet. 11, 24.

For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Rom. v, 6, 8.

The Scriptures Expounded

"(By Robert C. Chapman)"

There are mysteries of grace and love in every page of the Bible: it is a thrilling soul that finds the Book of God growing more and more precious.

A careless reader of the Scriptures never made a close walker with God. Spread the Bible before the Lord; ask Him to teach you what your ignorance and what His wisdom.

Meditation on the Word of God is the chief means of our growth in grace; without this even prayer itself will be little better than an empty form. Meditation nourishes faith, and faith and prayer are the keys which unlock the hidden treasures of the word.

We have great need to be prepared for trials of faith and patience in so great a business as reading the Scriptures with understanding heart. It is only by faith and patiences, and prayerful meditation of the Word, that we are delivered from imaginations of the flesh—from sacrificing to our own net, and burning incense to our own drag.

The laying open the heart of God is the great design of the Scriptures: happy the reader who falls in with that design!

We shall never become established in grace until we credit the Word of God as the self-proving voice of Him who speaks it.

Satan has ten thousand devices for drawing us away from the Scriptures. This done, we are in his net: and, though our gracious God put us not to shame by any outward and gross transgression, we shall become barren and unfruitful.

No believer can flourish in the ways of Christ, unless it be in his custom to deal with God by the Word in the closet.

The children of God in the furnace without a good store of Scripture in their hearts are always impatient, struggling in self-will for deliverance, and thereby they do but add fuel to the fire.

If we read the Word of God chiefly to get comfort, we shall have but little, and that of doubtful kind. Let us put away this selfishness, and use the Word of God as the sword of the Spirit against the flesh in us; so will the Scriptures unfold themselves more and more, and endear Christ to us. That sword, well handled against the flesh in ourselves, will serve us in good stead against Satan.

The Book of God is a store of manna for God's pilgrim children; and we ought to see to it that the soul get not sick and loathe the manna. The great cause of our neglecting the Scriptures is not want of time, but want of heart, some idol taking the place of Christ. Satan has been marvellously wise to entice away God's people from the Scriptures. A child of God who neglects the Scriptures cannot make it his business to please the Lord of glory: cannot make Him Lord of the conscience; ruler of the heart; the joy, portion, and treasure of the soul.

The threatening of God's Word are designed to discourage men from their wickedness, and to drive them out of all refuges of lies to the Saviour. For the utterly self-condemned sinner there is nothing but encouragement in the whole compass of the Bible.

If it be asked, What is the proof that we digest our spiritual food?—that our knowledge of God's truth turns to growth in grace? The answer is, Does it lead us into communion with God, and submission to His will? Among the marks of true communion with God, two of the plainest are a spirit of thanksgiving and a spirit of confession.

Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God. Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin.—Rom. iii, 19 20.

But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name.—Jno. i, 12.

I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord. Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.—Amos iv, 11, 12.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.—1 Jno. 1, 8, 10.

For the Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly.—Ps. lxxxiv., 11.

He that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and all that without remedy. Prov. xxix., 1.

For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith. I Jno. v., 4.

The Preacher's Vacation

DOES your pastor need a vacation? He does, and he deserves it. You may not agree entirely with the answer, but if there is any man in the community who really needs and who richly deserves a few weeks' respite from his labors, his name is Preacher.

We have seen you arch your brows and shake your head when the subject of vacation was under discussion, and we have heard you express doubts as to the necessity of the pastor taking rest and recreation. You prefer to have him hang around and stick to his job all summer, regardless of whether he is too tired to put his best licks or whether his brain is so fagged that he is unable to think.

This is the way you feel about it, but, of course, you don't come right out in meeting and veto the proposed vacation. And you are convinced that the preacher has so little to do and so little to worry about that he ought to feel the year round like a colt in clover-time, always ready to run errands or romp with the children.

You almost forget that the preacher is human. You look upon him as a sort of family nag that may be hitched up on all occasions, and that will pull any kind of a load or carry any kind of a burden. He is the handy-man, the chore-boy, the burden-bearer, the general purpose horse of the church and the community. Therefore, he should not get tired, nor glum, nor discouraged.

You say that the church services should not be suspended during the hot months—that the preacher ought to stay at home and preach. Yes, preach to empty pews. Church services in sultry weather are about as popular as an outdoor picnic in a January blizzard. In hot weather most people will take a gamble on going to glory rather than suffer a little discomfort in a church pew. So why not close the church and send the preacher away on a vacation? Only a few of the faithful would know it anyway.

It does the preacher good to get away now and then from his congregation to look into new faces, to get inspiration from new scenes, and to recharge the batteries of his brain and soul. We expect the preacher to give us his best in the pulpit, but if he is not physically fit he can not do it. We expect a thousand things from him that nobody else can do, and he comes or goes as our whims or needs demand. He gets tired, of course he does, and sometimes discouraged and disgusted. He rarely gets the sympathy and the support that he ought to get, but he sticks to his work. He is criticized as often as he is commended, but he keeps right on, doing his very best. Enough to make a man tired, don't you think? —Danville (Ill.) Press.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ

(By Robert C. Chapman)

The very first sigh on account of sin which is begotten in the heart of a sinner by the Holy Spirit, is the beginning of an eternal communion with God.

Among hearers of the Gospel God remembers the sins of those only who remember not the blood of Jesus.

If God built His glory upon Christ, shall not we build on Him our hope of salvation?

Do we heartily renounce our own righteousness? and are we looking only to the atoning blood of Jesus for justification and sanctification? If, so, we are poor sinners saved by grace.

The very commandment of God—above the law and supposes a fountain "Repent"—shows a dispensation of grace in the heart of God. Were there not forgiveness with God, there could have been no commandment to repent.

As divine justice was honored by the condemnation and cross of Christ, the Head, so in the same justice honored by the salvation of the members.

The natural man has no apprehension of the Gospel. "What must I do?" is ever his cry. Man has done his work perfectly—that of self-destruction. He is wholly bent upon evil, altogether ruined. Hence he is a fitting object for the Gospel of God.

Unbelief is the height of presumption; it plainly proves that we are seeking for some cause of God's love in the creature, which can never be.

It is among the highest provocations the sinner can be guilty of against God, when, without the blood of Christ sprinkled on his conscience, he, in will-worship, calls God his Father.

No cup of poison so deadly as that mingled cup of law and grace, of works and faith, which is presented to men by false teachers, instead of the Gospel of the grace of God. Yet, alas, do men gladly receive, and eagerly drink, seeking to satisfy conscience.

To seek healing of soul from duties instead of the blood of Christ, is taking poison to cure disease.

When we would consider the love of God in Christ, we are as one approaching the ocean; he casts a glance on the surface, but the depths he cannot sound.

"Eat slowly; only men in rags
Or gluttons deep in sin,
Mistake themselves for carpet bags
And tumble victuals in."
—Prof. Soothill, Oxford University.

BRITISH M.P. OPTIMISTIC FOR FUTURE

Sir William Perring Leads Body of Manufacturers Touring Canada.

BRITAIN PROGRESSING

Coal and Steel Business Only Centre of Depression Now, he Says.

QUEBEC, July 20 (Special to The Examiner).—To tour Canada and the United States in the next month, an influential party of British business men and their wives landed from the Canadian Pacific liner Montroyal. All members of the National Chamber of Trade of Great Britain, the delegation which numbers forty-five, will visit Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Sault Ste. Marie, Niagara, Fort William, Port Arthur, Winnipeg and a number of cities south of the line before returning to England on the Duchess of Bedford on August 10th.

At the head of the party is Sir William Perring, J.P., M.P., Conservative member for North Paddington and a manufacturer of wooden bedsteads and wire mattresses; Patrick Howling, F.I.S.A., secretary of the Chamber, is secretary to the party.

Sir William Perring, who is accompanied by Lady Perring and their daughter, Miss Rita, interviewed last night, was very optimistic for Britain's industrial future, offering the opinion that the Old Country has turned the corner and that the outlook is now very promising.

In the last four years, Sir William said, employment has been created for 500,000, more men especially in industries protected by the Safeguarding of Industries Act. Such industries as automobiles, artificial silks and others covered by the Act are going ahead by leaps and bounds, he said. Depression being principally in the coal and steel lines. The reason for this, in Sir William's opinion lies largely in the loss of Swedish and Norweigian markets owing to competition from Poland through the "corridor" to Danzig at prices which cannot be met by the British.

Sir William said that his party is here to learn and he paid a tribute to the foresight and broad thinking of Canadians which has resulted in such great strides being made by the Dominion. On his former visit, six years ago, when he visited Vancouver with the Montreal Board of Trade, Sir William Perring visited the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, and since that time, as a member of the Empire Marketing Board, he has been instrumental in increasing the British exhibits. Commenting on the growth of hydro-electric development in Europe, particularly in Italy, Spain and Switzerland, the British M.P. suggested that much of the advance was owed to Canada; studies of this Dominion's various developments having been made by engineers from those countries.

HAVELOCK O.E.S. PICNIC SUCCESS

Threatening Weather Fails to Prevent Fine Outing by Lodge.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, July 21.—Despite the threatening weather about sixty were in attendance on Wednesday at the picnic under the auspices of Prosperity Chapter, O.E.S. No. 63, at Crowe Lake.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon's program was the presentation of a china butter dish to Mrs. (Rev.) Hugh Brown. The gift was a token of the esteem and good wishes of the members on the occasion of her recent marriage was accompanied by an appropriate address read by Mrs. P. Johnson, Matron of the Chapter. The presentation was made by Mrs. B. Puffer.

The society has realized about sixty dollars from the sale of tickets on an autograph quilt, the drawing for which took place at the picnic, J. C. Birmingham, of Campbellford, being the winner.

Winners of the other events being as follows: Girls' race, 6-8 years, Edna Rigby, Dorothy Thomas; girls' race, 8-12 years, Grace Thomas; 12 years and over, Audrey Mathison; boys' race, 6-8, Wallace Buchanan, years and over, Audrey Mathison; boy's race, 6-8, Wallace Buchanan, Eric Anderson; boys' race, 8-12, Allen Brinkman; boys' sack race, Lloyd Anderson and Arthur Pincombe; ladies', Mrs. C. Hubbel, Mrs. Arthur Mathison; men's coat race, Frank McKay; smoking contest, Peter Johnson. A peanut scramble was also heartily participated in by the children.

THE TRENT WATERWAY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Trent Waterway Development Association is to be held next Wednesday, at Bobcaygeon, one of the most beautiful among the many delightful places that make the waterway unique.

The association has done great service in bringing the Trent district prominently to the attention to thousands of Americans and in building up a greatly increased tourist traffic into this part of the Province.

And this particular annual meeting should be more than usually enthusiastic by reason of the fact that the desirability of completing the canal is being more widely recognized, and there are signs that as more people learn of the possibilities of the waterway an agressive campaign to persuade the Government to complete the Severn section of the canal has a much greater chance to succeed.

There is every reason to hope that this important work will not be long delayed, despite the opposition of a few members, who have not yet learned to differentiate between the Trent waterway and such schemes as the Newmarket Canal.

The association should face the future confidentally, feeling that its efforts are bearing fruit.

OVERCHARGING TOURISTS.

Hon. Dr. Godfrey, Ontario's Minister of Health, who has the tourist question under his jurisdiction, is looking into a complaint that has reached him of overcharging at a tourist hotel in the Niagara district.

It is said that this institution charged a party of visitors $7.25 for six sandwiches and six glasses of iced tea—and the Minister will endeavor to see how the management can justify such prices.

There is, unfortunately, no reason to believe that this is an isolated case.

The tendency to adopt an all-the-traffic-will-bear policy toward tourists is complained of in several instances recently, and it is to be hoped that the fact that official action is being taken in this Niagara case will do much to check the evil.

Nothing more fatal to a continued increase in tourist traffic could be imagined than this inclination to treat our visitors as legitimate prey for overcharging and extortion.

Common sense as well as common decency and common courtesy should prevent any such policy from developing to serious proportions.

Both the Federal and the Provincial Governments have seen the danger, and the Natural Resources Intelligence Service has issued more than one pointed warning on this point.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

Despite the fact that Miss Agnes MacPhail seems to have established squatter's rights in her constituency, it must be admitted that women are not making a great deal of progress in the political world.

In the British Columbia elections on Wednesday the only two woman candidates were defeated, and as a result Mrs. Mary Smith, who was the first woman Cabinet member and the first woman Speaker in the British Empire, has been retired to private life.

Not one woman candidate was placed in the field by the Conservative party, and the net result of the campaign is the total elimination of women from the Legislature.

To be truthful, the great majority of women have no bent for political life, and very little interest in political activities; many of them use their franchise at election time without a great deal of enthusiasm in the matter and, it is to be feared, with but a scanty knowledge of the issues involved.

It may be that this condition will disappear, and that women candidates for office will be accepted as a matter of course and women voters generally will follow politics closely—but just at present the fair sex is making but little progress in these respects.

A SAFETY DRIVE.

The campaign launched by General Draper, Toronto's new Chief Constable, against reckless drivers and aimed at the prevention of accidents has the right ring to it.

General Draper had a reputation in the army for thoroughness, and in the present drive can be counted upon to see to it that every member of his police force does his part in eliminating accident hazards.

The speeder, of course, is to be dealt with, and special attention is to be paid to the motorist who drives with defective brakes.

The need for this latter step is shown by the fact that out of 94 cars stopped at random by motorcycle officers 73 had defective brake equipment.

Would a similar test in Peterborough show a better result?

There are undoubtedly cars in commission here that are absolutely unsafe, and unless General Draper's tactics are followed and a check-up made it is to be feared that these cars will continue to menace the public safety.

It is a fact, as the Globe points out, that "a large number of motorists need to be impressed with the necessity of observing the rules of safety and the regulations in a way that will not be easily forgotten."

WARRING AGAINST THE BOOTLEGGER.

The war against the bootlegger will not easily be won, but all the facts and figures tend to prove that substantial progress is being made. With few exceptions, those remaining in the field are "small-timers," it is indicated. The big fellows have seen their clientele transfer their allegiance to Government shops where beverages of known purity may be had at prices with which the illicit traders could not hope to compete. Chasing the big fellows out of the business was easy compared with getting rid of the "nits," who have concentrated on sale by the glass. Dozens of these little bootleggers have been jailed, but for every one consigned to quod there has been one to step into the breach and carry on, it would seem. Sir Henry Drayton yesterday commented upon the sale of rubbing alcohol. The board members are convinced that 75 per cent. of rubbing alcohol sold is being used for beverage purposes, but the commission cannot see its way clear to ban sale at this time because of the fact that it should be readily accessible for treatment of the bed-ridden. The interesting announcement is made that whiskey blanc will be substituted at the liquor shops for grain alcohol. In appearance these two liquors are twins, but compared with grain alcohol, whiskey blanc is an anaemic distillation, being 113 degrees less potent. A favorite drink of the inhabitants of Quebec, it will be interesting to note if it attains popularity in this Province.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE NEED OF CANADIAN BIOGRAPHY.

We hear much in these days of what is styled the New Biography. It is a term applied by the critics, not always discriminately, to a method of writing "Lives" made popular by literary artists of the type of Lytton Strachey, Andre Maurois and Emil Ludwig, and emulated, with in some cases curious results, by a horde of less qualified imitators. The work of the new school is essentially modern, alike in its contempt for tradition, and its appeal to the twentieth century taste for color and the element of the vivid. To judge from some samples that have attracted considerable public attention, it is concerned less with facts than with impressions, and aims at picturesque portraiture, rather than at a detailed record of the life, character and work of the subject.

That this form of biographical treatment has its merits cannot be gainsaid. If it is not always convincing, and is often grotesquely misleading, it is usually colorful and eminently readable; and the remarkable vogue of its chief exponents sufficiently attests the wide demand for it. But that the impressionism which it distinctively represents should be regarded as the acme of biographical art, or as a model for biographers in general to follow, is quite another matter. Adopted indiscriminately, what is called the humanizing process would no doubt result in the destruction of a lot of halos, and in the "debunking" of the life history of a considerable number of heroes; yet, on the other hand, there is reason to fear that with the reputations of the victims, an important branch of literature, whose functions include something more than flashy characterization or picturesque portraiture, would also suffer.

These reflections are suggested by the declaration of a lady member of the Canadian Authors' Association, at its annual convention at Calgary, that Canada needs a Lytton Strachey "to present some of our great men, such as Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir John A. MacDonald, in the light of interesting human beings." In stressing the point, she expressed the view that "our Canadian history text books are as dry as dust," and that "our biographers are woefully traditional in tone." What, she added, we needed, was "frank humanizing biographies" of our statesmen, heroes and pioneers.

Usually, it is easier to state a need than to meet it, and there are obvious difficulties in the way of carrying into effect the suggestion that Canadian biography needs humanizing. One of them is that Lytton Stracheys do not grow in the bush in Canada, or anywhere else. Whether the qualities that went to the making of the "humanized" picture of Queen Victoria drawn by Strachey, or to the flashlight portraits of Shelley and Disraeli, painted by Maurois, are wholly admirable or not, they imply the possession of a gift for analysis and expression that is certainly rare. And while imitation may be the sincerest form of flattery, it is seldom, if ever, an appealing form of art.

Then again, what a Canadian Lytton Strachey, should he appear, would do with Sir John A. MacDonald or Sir Wilfrid Laurier might be interesting and even illuminating; but would his presentation of either fulfil the requirements of sound biography which demands, among other things, that the picture shall be, not only life-like, but complete and, above all, authentic in all its proportions? The plea that comes from Calgary is, after all, not new. It was Gladstone who, oblivious to the dullness of his own writings, declared that "what we want in biography, and what, despite the etymology of the title, we seldom find is life." And it was the grievance of Carlyle, whose Life of John Sterling was a model of propriety, that English biography was much too mealy-mouthed.

But dramatizing life, which seems to be the aim of the new school, is something quite different from the method adopted so effectively by biography's greatest master. Boswell's idea of writing a man's life was not only to relate all the most important events in it, but to interweave what he privately wrote, and said, and thought, so that "mankind are enabled as it were to see him live, and to 'live o'er each scene' with him, as he actually advanced through the several stages of his life."

No critic has ever ventured to say that the "Life of Johnson," or Lockhart's "Life of Scott," or Trevelyan's "Life of Macaulay" are dry as dust, or lacking in the human quality that gives vitality to literature in all its forms. Of course, they are of the old tradition, which so many critics to-day affect to despise; yet there are some of us old-fashioned enough to believe that, if Canadian biography stands in need of quickening, the process is more likely to be hastened by a study of Boswell and Lockhart than by imitations of Strachey and Maurois.—Ottawa Journal.

The Question Box

D. A. Q.—What was the battle of Marathon?

A.—A battle in B.C. 490, in which the Athenians, under Miltiodes, defeated the Persians, under Datis.

N. F. Q.—To settle an argument, please say whether the use of cast iron in bridges is ancient or modern.

C. H. Q.—How long did it take the Savannah to cross the Atlantic, and when was its record trip?

H. S. Q.—How does the Chinese year differ from ours?

A.—The Chinese year begins in February and has 12 months of 29 and 30 days alternately; but in every 19 years there are 7 years which have 13 months. This is not quite correct, and the Chinese have therefore formed a cycle of 60 years in which period 22 intercalary months occur.

A Thought

LIFE

Life is not worth living when its forces ar centripetal, tending always to selfishness, ease and personal gratification. Life's charm and beauty is when its forces are centrifugal helping, relieving and blessing these who need our help—Rev. James Feather.

GOD'S MINUTE

Give ear to my words, O Lord, consider my meditation. Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto Thee will I pray. My voice shalt Thou hear in the morning, O Lord, in the morning will I direct my prayer unto Thee, and will look up.—Ps. 5:1-3.

Gracious God, our Heavenly Father! To call Thee by this glorious title is at once to give Thee praise, and to know that the Great God is our loving Father, is to have all prayers heard before they are asked. "Before they call upon Me, I will answer them", this is Thy promise to us. "I am more willing to hear, than they to call," is Thy lament and challenge. Thus entreated, we turn trustingly to Thee in every time of trouble. Guide us by Thine eye. Build us up into Thy likeness. Feed us on Thy love, and keep us pure in life and love. Be patient with us in our ignorance. Be our knowledge and wisdom, for there is none else to whom to go.

Forgive us all our faults and follies. Help us to forgive others as graciously as Thou dost us. We place ourselves in Thy care, in Jesus' name. Amen.

TORONTO CATTLE

TORONTO, July 21. — Cattle marketing conditions practically unchanged from last week. Good steady demand for all classes of butcher cattle, with the one exception usual at this season when there is an over supply of poor quality grass: cows. These latter moved out slowly, but all were absorbed in the final clean-up.

In all other grades the prices held steady all through the week, with just a shade firmer tone at the week-end and holders of anything of extra choice quality asking a quarter to fifty cents higher. The general average was not changed, the market closing firm at current prices.

Hogs closed steady at the week's 25c advance to $12.25 f.o.b. selects. No bid so far for next Monday's hog deliveries.

Choice butcher steers and heifers, all weights, in good demand at $11.00 to $12.00; medium, $8.50 to $9.50.

Choice fat cows, $8.50 to $8.75, but general run of poor quality grassers, from $6.50 to $7.50.

Calves strong at 14c to 14½c.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL Que., July 21 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in wheat here yesterday was active owing to the fact that English and Continental importers took everything offered to them from Canadian exporters and a very large volume of business was accomplished, with the result that there was a brisk demand for supplies and the premium on No. 2 Northern advanced 1¼c per bushel to 11¼c to 11¾c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 3 grade ¾c to 1c per bushel to 2½c over, c.i.f. Montreal. There was also an advance of ¼c per bushel in lake freight rates from Port William to Montreal, which was attributed to the marked improvement in the demand for room. There was also a good demand for ocean grain freights and a fairly large volume of business was done with engagements to Hamburg and Rotterdam for wheat at 13c per 100 pounds for August loading, and the rates to some of the United Kingdom ports closed firmer.

In the local grain market a more active business was done, there being a good demand from exporters for supplies, and some large sales were made, including a round lot of Manitoba No. 4 wheat at a c.i.f. price, 50,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian Western oats at 10¾c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and a round lot of No. 2 feed oats at 2¾c per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal. In sympathy with the advance in oat futures at Winnipeg local prices for car lots of oats were marked up 1c per bushel.

Owing to the sharp recovery in cash wheat at Winnipeg a firmer feeling prevailed in the local market for spring wheat grades of flour, but there was no actual change in prices announced. The export trade in these grades of flour was more active owing to the fact that foreign buyers in most cases accepted all the offers made by millers overnight, but there was no marked improvement in the volume of new business for domestic account. There was no change in winter wheat flour.

The feature of the local butter trade was the easier feeling that developed in the market and prices were fully ¼c per pound lower, which was attributed entirely to the lack of any important demand and the more liberal supplies coming forward. The receipts were 2,696 packages.

The cheese trade on spot and over the cable was quiet, but prices were steady. The receipts were 7,564 boxes.

THE ADVENTURES OF SECKATARY HAWKINS AND HIS CLUB

THE DOOM OF THE STONEWALL HOUSE

I never will forget that scene in the big cave under the stonewall house on that hot summer night. There we stood, like statues of stone, stunned by the awful recklessness of the madman who had left us just a few minutes before in his crazy machine that he believed would take him to the stars. The Sheriff and his deputies were standing in a circle around the giant, who swayed to and fro, his hand to his head, trying to stop the blood that flowed from a wound. The men had an idea they would arrest this giant, but they did not seem to be anxious to close in on him. Jeckerson, the Watertown detective, and Doc Waters, our good old friend, stood near us boys and kept us close together, as if expecting some unseen danger. Norman and his daddy huddled close together behind the big gun, from which the great projectile had just been shot into the sky. The servant of the house stood staring upward, through the open door at the end of the long rocky staircase, at the round roof of the room of the telescopes, through which the starry sky could be seen. He seemed to be enchanted.

"David!" cried little Norman, suddenly, and his voice seemed to be the magic sound that broke the spell that turned us all back again from stone to living human beings. Everyone turned his head to look at the little, pale-faced boy who was pulling his daddy toward the rocky stairs. "Come on, daddy, we must find David!"

"Don't worry, Norman," I cried out as he passed me. "I saw David upstairs in the room of the telescopes—he's safe—"

There came a loud bellow, and I turned just quick enough to see the giant break through the ring of men that surrounded him, knocking them over as though they were so many wooden soldiers. He rushed up the rocky stairway, and was halfway up before the sheriff got his wits back to shout:

But Jeckerson grabbed the Sheriff's arm. "Hold on," he said sternly. "I wouldn't go after him, if I were you—"

"He won't get away from me!" shouted the Sheriff. "By George, I ain't lost a prisoner in my lifetime, and I don't expect to start now. They never come too big for me. Come on, boys!"

He started to rush up the stairway, but the giant had already disappeared through the door at the top. Then came a cry from Norman—

"Oh, daddy! He'll kill him—he'll kill David—oh, please, save my brother—he can't see—the giant will get him before he knows—"

That made us all dash forward. To save that little boy who could not see anything close to him, we would risk any danger, even though it be a giant who could crush us like so much straw. Everyone there except the servant man, who still stood in a daze, rushed up the rocky stairs. But before we had gone up one-third of the way, we all stopped and stared at the doorway above.

The giant had turned and was coming back. He paused for an instant, when he saw us there, rushing like wild, and when we all stopped, he slowly began to descend the rocky steps. And on his shoulder sat little David, holding tight to the bushy hair of the giant's head. We backed away at the sight, and at the bottom of the stair we stood and waited.

Slowly the giant came down. Nobody made a sound. Only the soft pad of the giant's great feet on the rock steps broke the stillness of the cavern. At the bottom of the stairs the giant halted, and stared without the least expression at the crowd before him.

"Go on, Johan," called out David, tugging at the giant's hair and kicking his heels against the broad shoulders. "You always gave me a longer ride than this."

The giant reached up with a big hand and unfastened the little fellow's fist from his bushy hair. Without a word, he lifted the boy and set him down in front of his father and brother. The two of them looked at the little fellow, standing there unseeing, his hands stretched out before him, and tears glistened in their eyes—tears of sadness, perhaps, for what all of them had gone through during this long imprisonment, yet mixed with tears of gladness at this happy reunion.

"I think," began little David, slowly, as one who is walking in the dark, "I think you are playing a joke on me, Johan. I imagine—I feel—I know—"

He paused and slowly waved his arms from side to side. "Norman is here," he said, suddenly, in a very gentle voice; "I can't see him, but I know he is here—and—"

His voice faltered, and he gave a sob. The next moment he shouted: "I know it! I feel it! My daddy! Oh, daddy, daddy!"

I turned away just as the sad-faced man folded both boys in his arms. I caught a glimpse of that through misty eyes, and I raised my arm and brushed my eyes with my sleeve.

* * *

My pen can't draw that picture, so I won't say any more about it. Jeckerson was talking to the Sheriff as he pointed to the giant.

"What are you going to do with him, if you do take him prisoner?" he asked.

"Wal'," said the Sheriff, scratching his head, "the jail ain't big enough to hold him, so we might as well keep him down here in this cave."

"I think you had better," said Jeckerson, with a grin, "or he might be hard to handle. You couldn't keep him in the jail very long. He'd raise the roof."

The Sheriff walked over to the giant but he stopped before he got very cl

"Hey, you!" he shouted up at big man. "You're under arrest, y erstan'? And you ain't goin' t out o' this place till we let you go.

"Don't talk like that to he cried. "He was good to m Johan, come to me!"

The giant walked past t and almost stepped on his Sheriff jumped out of the giant stopped in front of li and the boy put his hand o him.

"Don't go 'way, Joha softly. "I've found my again. I will tell him how good you were to me. He will reward you when he gets all that money for his great invention. I wish I could see you, Johan. All the time I say to myself, some day Johan will be way over there on the farthest hill. Then I can see him. Because you know, Johan, I can't see anybody close to me."

He laughed happily as he tugged at the giant's boot-top. The huge man stooped down and put his hand on David's head. Then, with a voice that echoed loudly back and forth through the cave, said:

"Brod'n budda!"

"Listen to 'im!" says the Sheriff, turning to Jeckerson, "he calls upon Buddha. He must be a bloomin' Hindoo."

"No!" cried little David, laughing. "He means bread and butter. He hasn't had any supper yet—"

"I'll fetch it for him," spoke up the servant man, as he started for the rocky stair. But the Sheriff laid his hand on the man's arm.

"Hold on you," says the Sheriff. "If you're planning to sneak out of this house, you've got another guess comin'. You're under arrest, y'un'erstan'?"

"You may send one of your men with me, if you choose," said the servant to the Sheriff. "It's only to the pantry—"

A deputy of the Sheriff's squad with a rifle went with the man. They went up the rocky stair. In a little while we saw them returning, the servant carrying a loaf of rye bread, a pound of butter, and a big bucket that con- [illegible] The giant took them [illegible] and with a last look at the boy he walked over to the opposite side of the cave, where a great ledge jutted out from a hole in the wall. He placed his food upon the ledge and then lifted himself up into the niche. Here he lay down, resting upon one elbow, and then began to break up the loaf, putting chunks of it in his mouth, washing it down with a drink from the pail. I remembered that he was in that very same place on the day when Jeckerson and I had first seen him in this cave. On that occasion he had been asleep and snoring fearfully aloud. While Jeckerson and the other men were discussing what to do, we boys watched him, and were surprised at the fast way he made that food disappear. He emptied the pail of milk and then lay down with his head upon his arm, as though it didn't matter to him what happened next.

When we turned again our attention to the men, Jeckerson was talking to the father of Norman and David.

"Yes," said the sad-faced man, "I was a prisoner here—how long, I can't exactly say. One loses track of time in the dark. The crazy scheme of Dr. Drago nearly drove me mad. The size of the giant frightened me that night—I was going home to my two boys, with the plans of my big gun in my pocket, and knowing I was going to be a rich man. Before I knew what was happening, the giant had me—I couldn't use my voice—it was too sudden and too frightful. The next I knew I was here. They kept me in the cell next to the one from which my boy came out. Oh! If I had known they had my boys here, too, I could not have stood it."

"Dr. Drago is no more," said Jeckerson, as the man paused and hugged his two boys; "but we shall see to it that the giant suffers for what he has caused you to suffer—"

"No," broke in the sad-faced man; "the giant was always as kind as he could be. The doctor had him under his thumb. He only used the giant to do the things he could not do himself. He told me of the mad plan to travel to the stars, or to the moon, with his crazy machine. I told him it would not work. He would not listen. He had my plans. He forced me to make the big gun. The four of us worked at it, but it was the giant who really did all the work. I directed it, and we finally completed it—well, I can't talk about it any more, gentlemen. I want to get away from here as quickly as I can—to go home with my boys and forget it—my spirit is nearly broken; I must see if I cannot pull myself together again and be— a daddy for—my boys."

And here he broke down and tears came to his eyes, as the two brothers reached up and tried to cheer him. We moved away from them. Jeckerson touched the servant man on the shoulder.

"Look here, my friend," he says, 'If you value your freedom, you'll tell us all we want to know. You were partner to this Dr. Drago—"

"Oh, no, no!" he cried. "Don't get me mixed up in this, Mr. Officer. I was only a servant in the house. A faithful servant, I was."

"I have no doubt you were faithful," said Jeckerson, with a smile. "As to how much you've got to answer for, we will leave that up to Judge Granbery, who [illegible] taken to his court. Just now, you had better do as [illegible] Tell me, how did Dr. Drago [illegible] the two boys?"

"Wonder what planet that is," said Jeckerson to Doc Waters, standing beside me. "Great Scott! It looks like it's afire, doesn't it?"

"This was my place," came little David's voice, as he pushed through the crowd and felt his way around to the big stool before one of the telescopes. "I could see things through this that even Dr. Drago couldn't see—big stars—and comets with tails—and—"

He paused. He was looking through the telescope. And suddenly he screamed:

"What is it?" cried Jeckerson.

"It's coming!" cried David. "Oh! It's coming! Coming—I tell you—as Dr. Drago said it would—oh! please get out of here—let's get far away from this place—quick!"

He continued to carry on as Jeckerson lifted him down and his daddy stepped up to take him.

"Everybody out!" yelled Jeckerson. "Look here, Doc," he says, turning to Doc Waters, "this boy is talking about something we don't understand. But just the same, to be on the safe side, get all these kids and everybody out of this house. We might be standing on a hill of dynamite and not know it. Come on, quick! Everybody out!"

* * *

How we all got out of that place without being tramped to death, I don't know. One thing I will say, the men seemed more frightened all of a sudden than we boys were. It was each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost. All I know is that there was a clattering of hurried footsteps down the big stairway to the hall of the house, and the big door was wide open as we all dashed out. We hurried away after the Sheriff and his men, the servant man being dragged along with them by a couple of deputies. The big gate was barred tight, so we couldn't get out that way. The Sheriff and his men hurried over to a lumber pile and brought big boards with which they made a runaway over the wall.

"Watch out!" cried the servant man. "There is an electric wire on that wall, sir—"

"Never you fear!" shouted the Sheriff. "We turned off the electricity in that house before we came to get you!"

And over the wall we went, carefully and slowly, and it seemed to me that there was a peculiar sound in the air behind us. It made us get over that wall quicker, anyhow, and I thanked my stars when I felt my feet on the road outside. Down the road we ran, and through the little wood, and then on until we reached a slope, up which we dragged ourselves in a straggling line, stopping on the top of the little hill to rest, for we could run no farther. And then a red glow shone suddenly all about us, and we heard a loud hissing sound that frightened us nearly out of our wits, and the next moment there came the most terrible crash and thunder I ever heard, sending an echo rumbling away into the dark distance. And the red glow suddenly died out, and the moon shone down again; and over in the distance, where the stonewall house had stood, there was now only a great pile of stone and timber, and a great cloud of dust was rising from it.

"It must have been a falling star!" shouted Jeckerson. "Caved the house and even the hill under it! Great Scott! Weren't we lucky to get out of it!"

"What's it all mean, Jeckerson?" asked the Sheriff, as he gaped with open mouth at the wreck that lay tumbled in the moonlight.

"You heard as much as I did," said Jeckerson. "Little David might tell you—"

But the boy was crying softly over on his father's shoulder. They did not ask him anything. And Jeckerson touched me on the shoulder. "Come on, Hawkins; you and the Sheriff will go with me. Doc will see the other boys home."

We hurriedly ran back. Jeckerson and I, and the Sheriff and two of his men came lumbering behind us, while the others went up to town. At the low hill overlooking the rear of the stonewall house we halted and had a closer view of the jumble of stone and timbers that, just a few minutes before, had been the stonewall house. Something had struck it from the top, and crushed it like a house of cards, carrying much of it down into the very hill on which it had stood. And that hill having been hollow, it had fallen through, making i look like a huge hole that had been filled with trash.

"Too bad!" said the Sheriff, half to himself. "I sure would like to have taken that big giant prisoner—"

Even as he spoke, a great slab of stone slid off the top of the pile; the next moment the head and shoulders of the giant rose out of a mass of crumbled stone and mortar, and slowly climbed out of the wreckage. Slowly and with pain, apparently, he raised himself to his full height, and then let out a bellow that went echoing across the hills—

"There you are, Sheriff!" cried Jeckerson. "By George! You can't kill that big man! Fancy a house falling down over his ears and living through it to crawl out—but look! He's hurt! Poor old fellow—we've got to talk nice to him, and we'll get him to come along with us—"

Which we did.

Well, we are all ready to start the new club for boys and girls—the Seckatary Hawkins Club, and we want every boy and girl reader of The Examiner to join.

I am Seckatary Hawkins, about whom the paper told a couple of weeks ago, and my club has hundreds of members all over the world—but of course only a few of them appear in the weekly stories at a time.

There are two or three things about this Club that I think you should know. Every Monday evening at 6.30 a bunch of us hold a meeting at radio station WSAI, and members are expected to tune in on it. Every Saturday, there will be a story of the Club's doings printed in The Examiner, and a password will be given in a form which members must decipher. Every Saturday, too, there will be letters from members, and a competition in which only members may join. Prizes will be books telling complete stories of the Seckatary Hawkins Club.

In order to join the Club of which I am seckatary it is only necessary for you to fill in the application form that will be printed next week, and send it to me. If you desire a badge and a certificate of membership, you must send a two cent stamp to cover the cost of postage, because we have no dues and no way of raising money in our Club. The badge is a pretty pin, with the Club motto.

I am not printing the application form this week, because I want every boy and girl to think over the Club motto and decide whether they can live up to it. The motto is "Fair and Square." Every member promises to play fair and square in every way.

Read the letters which I am having printed to-day to show you just what other boys and girls in other places think of my Club. I'm tickled to death to see a branch formed in Peterborough, and I just want to see every boy and girl join up and make it a real club.

Just to show you, too, what the password is like, I'm going to tell you one we had a few weeks ago (you can't get this week's, you see, because you are not yet members). It was "NEARFINSCAP," and when the letters are placed in the right order they spell the names of two countries in Europe. The two names formed the password for that week.

Now, this is enough for this week, but I hope that some of you will write letters like those printed below, and show that Peterborough boys and girls, and the girls and boys in the district around Peterborough are just as wide-awake as the boys and girls in other parts of the world who are members of the Club.

Dear Seck and Club Members:

It has been quite a while since I've written to this dear old club, and somehow I just felt lonsom'! and decided I would. When one is lonesome and blue, a glance at a Seckatary Hawkins book or pin will sure chase the blues away. Here's a poem which I think every one should know:

JUST SO.

When everything goes crooked
And seems inclined to vile,
Don't kick, nor fuss, nor fidget—
Just—you—smile.
It's hard to learn the lesson,
But learn it if you win
When people tease and pester,
Just—you—grin.
When some one tries to "do" you,
By taking more than half,
Be patient, firm, and pleasant
Just—you—laugh.
But if you find you're stuffy
(Some times, of course, you will)
And cannot smile nor grin nor laugh.
Just—keep—still.

I am fond of it and try to follow the advice. Seckatary, what have you been doing? I guess that's a rather funny question when I just know you are busy—or to really mean, up to your neck in work.

I won't make my visit too long or I shan't be allowed to come again. All of the club members write to

NOLA G. MORAIS,
Connersville.

Dear Seckatary:

I received one of the biggest thrills of my life when on opening the paper I found that I had won first prize in the contest on "Our Flag." I get quite a "kick" out of trying to write stories for your contests and have won second prize before.

I enjoy your meetings over the radio very much, and through your club I have gained correspondents in West Virginia, Kentucky, Canada, England, China and South America, and I want to thank you for them, as I find them all very interesting, and I shall always be glad to hear from other members.

I have won one of your wonderful books, entitled the "Knights of the Square Table," and I hope I shall win the book called "The Runners."

Very truly,
MARY E. GARIVE, 13,
Cincinnati, O.

Dear Seck:

I suppose you think that I have forgotten you and your club, but I have not. I am still reading your stories. One week I did not get to read them because I had the measles, but mother saved the paper for me. I read it as soon as I could get up. My brother had the measles and he gave them to me. I'm not like the measles because I could'n't read, and I am a "great hand" for reading. I passed to the fifth grade. I wish some of the members would write to me. Well, I will not take up any more of the space that your paper allows.

Always fair and square,
JOHN ASELAGE, 10,
Sidney, O.

Dear Seckatary Hawkins:

I joined your club some time ago, and I like to hear you tell your stories over the radio. I like them very much, and I get a paper and read it. I hope to hear this over the radio, as I would like a book of your stories.

I am sending the password on another paper. I would like very much if some of the girls in your club would write to me, I will answer their letters if I can. Well, I will close with

Yours, fair and square,
WILMER BERNICE HENSON,
Kenton, O.

Dear Seckatary:

I am enclosing a membership blank, as I hope to become a member of your club. I have been reading about it for a long time, and wish to join. I'm sure it is a fine club, and I would love to hear from some of its members. Please tell them to write to me, and I will be sure and answer every letter promptly. I am 13 years old, and live five miles from Charleston, W. Va. My school is out now, and I am hoping to have a lovely vacation. I often write stories and poems, and am going to send some in with the hope of getting them published in your section of the paper. I just love to read your stories, and have enjoyed them

Yours, fair and square,
HELEN ROSSEVA LEE,
Dunbar, W. Va.

Dear Seck:

Hello, Seck! How are you? I would like to become a member of your club. I worked out the password this week. I listen to your meeting over the radio. I never miss a meeting, and after hearing a meeting over the radio I read it in the paper the following Sunday, for I do not want to miss anything.

One of my brother's boy friends loaned him a "Seckatary Hawkins" book. The name of it was "The Chinese Coin." I never read such an interesting book. It didn't take me long to read it. I couldn't wait to see what happened next, because it was one thrill after another. As my letter is getting lengthy, I will close, hoping I win a book.

Yours, fair and square,
GRACE KERR, 13,
Bellevue, Ky.

Dear Seck:

I hope this letter gets in, for it is the first one. If it doesn't, I'll keep on writing till one does. I hope all the members are getting along fine. Of your club, I like best you, Shadow Loomis, and good old Perry Stokes.

I wish some of the other members would exchange postcards with me. I hardly ever get any mail in this small town. But as this letter is getting too long, I must close.

Yours, fair and square,
JOHN MCINTYRE,
Winchester, Ind.

Dear Seck:

It has been a long time since I wrote you a letter or sent you an essay. I finished my Yellow V a long time ago. If ," the Seckatary Hawkins Books are as good as t " Yellow V, I sure want to get some more. I showed it to the City School Librarian, and she said she hoped to get a set for the school. I know we would all enjoy them. With this I am closing.

Yours, fair and square,
THELMA GRACE BROWN,
Jellico, Tenn.

Dear Seck:

I received my button and certificate, and I think them just dandy. I wear the button every day. I listen to your meetings over the radio every Monday night.

Seck, tell the other members to write to me. I would like to have this letter printed because I would like to own one of your books. I will try very hard to get some new members.

Yours, fair and square,
ISABEL HACKER,
Charleston, W. Va.

Now we will bring the meeting to a close, and I will hie me away to my cozy nook and dream a while—dream of all the letters and stories that will be coming in this week from all of you. I'd like to see every boy and girl reader send in a contribution this week—a letter, a story, a verse, or a drawing! My! That would be great! Well, here's hoping my dream comes true.

Don't forget the radio meeting Monday evening from Station WSAI at 6:15.

Bye, till next week.

Yours, fair and square,

Seckatary Hawkins

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 21 (Canadian Press). — Huge export business in North American wheat, about 5,000,000 bushels, during the last 24 hours, gave a material upturn to wheat values yesterday. European advices of abnormal hot weather and of crop deterioration abroad were current.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, one cent to 1¼c net higher, corn unchanged to 1¼c lower, oats at ¼c to ⅝c up, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

Most of the big total of export business announced yesterday was wheat grown in Canada, but at least part was domestic hard winter wheat and durum. Preceding the news of the broadening of export dealings were unexpected higher quotations at Liverpool, together with despatches saying general opinion there was that the market had reached bottom for a time at least, and that more demand was in evidence.

North-west interest did most of the selling yesterday in the Chicago wheat market. This was apparently explained by the fact that crop conditions continued to be favorable in the north-west, whereas field work in a good deal of the south-west was being retarded by too much moisture. Kansas City nevertheless reported the largest arrivals of wheat ever known there for a single day, 1,128 cars.

Corn is being moved from private elevators here to the public warehouses in order to make deliveries on July contracts. In addition, 350,000 bushels of corn was sold yesterday to go into storage. Crop prospects were also construed as bearish. Now July oats were bid up on chances that wet weather would delay receipts. Later deliveries of oats kept about steady.

Provisions were easier, sympathising with hog market declines.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 21 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

Demand—$4.86 15-16 to $4.87 1-16.
Cables—$4.87 7-16 to $4.87 9-16.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, July 21. —The local wholesal butter market has undergone practically no changes during the week. Number one creamery solids pasteurized has been quoted at 38 cents per pound and this price prevailed yesterday. The whole market during the past few days has been featured by dullness. Number two butter is difficult to sell, but all supplies of No. 1 are quickly taken up. As a matter of fact produce buyers are not anxious to trade at the prices now in force. There is a possibility that the market may work to lower levels, one local dealer remarked yesterday. The present dullness of the market is attributed in some quarters to tithe easier trend in offerings of New Zealand butter for Fall delivery in Canada.

Cheese was steady yesterday at the prices quoted below.

The live poultry market remains steady and easier on live broilers, due to the heavy receipts. Quotations are now, delivered, 21 to 22 cents, according to weight. In a jobbing way these are sold at 23 to 24 cents. The receipts of live fowls are fairly heavy with a good consumptive demand.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 21.—A pleasant and largely-attended social event was held recently in the pavilion on the property of Mr. and Mrs. R. Cardwell, Wallace's Point, Otonabee River, when many of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deyell, from Fraserville and North Monaghan, met and presented them with a substantial purse as a token of esteem and of practical sympathy because of the loss of their home by fire.

The address was read by Ernest Anderson, and on behalf of those present, William Darling presented the gift. Mr. Deyell and his wife were taken by surprise, the former making suitable reply on behalf of both his wife and himself.

Music, dancing, and social converse filled out the time hapily, the service of dainty refreshments being carried out by the committee in charge.

The fire which completely destroyed the fine brick residence of Mr. and Mrs. Deyell occurred while they were absent in Peterborough, the neighbors gathering and saving a considerable part of the contents. There was no insrunace. Mr. Deyell is living at present in the frame house which still remains on the homested, but expects to leave the farm this fall, and will probably be leaving the community also and making his home elsewhere.

The question of the Doukobor colony in the Western Provinces was before the House of Commons when W. K. Ealing (Con.) put this startling proposition: "What would the Premier say if he went into his garden to pick some pansies or violets and found himself faced with half a dozen naked Doukhobors?" He vehemently protested the "absolute undress" of certain fanatics. The Government replied that some of the sect were making good settlers. They must observe the laws, however. Dr. A. C. Hendrick, LEFT, and Dr. E. F. Burton, RIGHT, noted Canadian scientists, who have found a colloidal solution which destroys cancer germs in mice. It has not been yet tried on human beings and the scientific world awaits breathless for the result of the experiment. WHERE WOMAN FELL.

While climbing down the face of the Niagara gorge to attempt a swim across the rapids, Lily Dnaska, a Jugoslav woman, aged 36, fell and lay on the ledge for 24 hours until found. The gorge and rapids are shown here, the arrow indicating where she was found in a serious condition. The woman said she decided on the swim after smugglers at the border demanded from $100 to $200 to get her across. She said she came to Canada in 1918, landing at Halifax, after serving as a Red Cross nurse during the war. She worked at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, for some months, she affirmed.

Glowing figures and statements of Canada's prosperity have been flowing out this week from the meeting in Canada of the famous Babson statistical organization. A good year for Canada on the whole is predicted, crops especially being better than they are in the United States. One of the leading papers developed the fact that while Canada has 90 per cent. of the potential horse-power of the Western Hemisphere, 99.99 per cent. of it is still undeveloped. Here are shown the leading business statisticians of the country: No. 1, Ralph B. Wilson, vice-president of the Babson organization; No. 2, Roger W. Babson; No. 3, F. Gardiner Perry, director of research.

Franklin Fansher, of United Empire Loyalist stock, is one father in Canada who has two sons in parliament. Burt Wendell Fansher, a farmer at Florence, Ontario, was first elected to the House of Commons in the 1921 election. He was defeated in the 1925 election, but came back again in 1926. His elder brother, William Russell Fansher, was born at Florence in 1876, but later went west, becoming a prosperous farmer at Govan, Sask. He was elected to parliament for Lost Mountain constituency in 1926. The brothers share the same desk in the green chamber. The illustration shows: (1) William; (2) the father, and (3) Burt.

Among those figuring prominently in the congress are: (1) Allan G. McAvity, St. John, N.B., president of the New Brunswick Fish and Game Protective Association; (2) W. E. Golding, also of St. John, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, and (3) Hon. Charles D. Richards of Fredericton, minister of land and mines in the New Brunswick cabinet. During the absence of Premier Baxter, Mr. Richards is acting premier of the province.

Detroit police officials believe that one of these four notorious American gunmen may have been the "master mind" in the sensational Toronto mail car hold-up, when $125,000 in cash and perhaps upwards of $100,000 in securities and other valuables was taken. The same men, it is believed, may have engineered the recent robbery of The Detroit News cashier. 1, Paul Jaworski, alias Paul Toppe, leader of the famous "Flathead mob" of Detroit, once sentenced to the chair, escaped and has since staged several successful robberies. 2, Robery Newberry, also of the "Flathead gang" and several times an accomplice of Jaworski. 3, John Anderson, who has a long record of armed hold-ups; and 4, Thomas Kemp also suspected of being implicated in one or more robberies.

PREDICTS SUCCESS.

"Don't despair!" is the advice to prohibition workers by Mrs. Gordon Wright, above, national president of the W.C.T.U. Addressing a prohibition conference at St. Catharines Tuesday she predicted that if they were allowed to get hold of the children and instil into their minds the evils of alcohol in ten years Canada would be dry. Commenting on the fact that all provinces but the maritimes have a government control system, she said: "Canada is prohibition at heart ,and this is only a little relapse."

After service as governor he was lord chamberlain of the household from 1892 to 1895 and president of the board of agriculture from 1905 to 1911, when he became lord privy seal.

E. A. Dunlop was returned to public life in the by-election for the Ontario Legislature as a supporter of the Ferguson Government. He had a majority of over 2,100, one of the largest ever accorded any candidate in this riding, and some five hundred more than that received by the late Alexander Stuart in the provincial election in 1927. A surprising feature of the result was the small vote polled by Paul Martin, youthful Liberal candidate, in localities which had been regarded as Liberal strongholds. It was the largest majority ever polled in the riding of North

Dr. W. A. Lindsay (3) has been awarded a B.Sc. degree and will rejoin the West China University staff in the autumn. He has been a missionary in Szechwan province since 1907.

RUNS FOUL OF SMITH.

A lively angle to the U. S. presidential campaign was revealed recently when supporters of Al. Smith, the Democrat, threatening to go to court to prevent Prof. Irving Fisher, above, Yale economist, from casting the governor as the "villain" in a motion picture extolling prohibition. Fisher is making a picture called "Deliverance" for release to Y.M.C.A. and church groups. In the film Smith is astensibly signing the bill which repealed the Mullan-Gage state prohibition act.

HUET ENTERING

Miss Lilly Dnake, 36-year-old Jugo-Slav woman who was badly hurt when she fell while attempting to descend the Niagara gorge ramparts, intending to swim to the United States shore. After lying at the water's edge all night she was found and rushed to the hospital, where she is slowly recovering. She is shown in her uniform as a Red Cross nurse during the war, at the conclusion of which she came to Canada via Halifax, intending to go to Winnipeg and the west. She got a job at Montreal, then went to Toronto. Work failed and as a desperate resort, she planned the swim to get her into the States.

ACTOR PASSES AWAY.

Robert Bruce Mantell, the last of the old school of Shakespearean actors who died at Atlantic Highlands, N.J., in his 75th year. As the leading man for Mme. Modjeska, he scored his first success in 1878 in the role of Romeo, but forsook heavier parts for a time and old time theatre-goers recall him as a romantic actor. When almost sixty he started a Shakespearean repertoire and for the past fifteen years he had been looked upon as America's greatest tragedian. His Lear and Richelieu as well as his Macbeth have been said by critics to have compared with the work of Booth, Keene, Wallack and McCullough. He was born in Irvine, Scotland, and was intended for the legal profession. During his last Canadian tour, last fall, he was asked when he intended to retire and he replied: "Forty-eight hours after my funeral."

SEEN BY CARTOONIST.

Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, secretary of state for the Dominions, as he is seen by a London cartoonist. Mr. Amery, who is notably mild in mien and far from tall, has just revealed this story of himself: "Many years ago when I was a chivalrous youth," he says, in defending a Bulgarian lady, "I broke with my umbrella the head of a Turk. A year later, talking with some brigands, they told me that in Macedonia a revolt of two battalions of Turks was repulsed by one solitary Englishman with a stick. They described him as 'incredibly fierce of aspect and gigantic of stature'."

Sir William Horwood, who will be succeeded by Viscount Byng, former Governor-General of Canada, as commissioner of the London Metropolitan Police and head of the famous Scotland Yard force. Sir William has long indicated a desire to retire. He is celebrating his 60th birthday this autumn.

Rev. Dr. Salem G. Bland, accounted by his writings one of the best known churchmen of the day, who is retiring from ministerial service with the United church. He has seen half a century in the service of the church. He graduated from McGill University in 1877 and served in the pulpits of many Quebec churches. Then he went west in 1903 to occupy a professional chair at Winnipeg. He held this until 1917, when he returned to the east. About a year ago he married. He is nearly 70.

STORM CENTRE

Chancellor Seipel of Austria, storm centre in the Austro-Italian crisis. Publication of his recent note to Premier Mussolini of Italy, regarded as a renunciation of Austria's claims for the South Tyrol as the price of resumption of normal diplomatic relations between the two countries, has caused an outburst of indignation in the Austrian press, which hails it with such headlines as: "Seipel Kneels Before Mussolini and Licks Italy's Boots," "Austria's Ignominious Surrender," "Seipel Makes Strategical Retreat," and "Seipel Begs Italy's Forgiveness."

Marion Talley, golden-voiced singer from Kansas City, who was robbed this week in the wicked city of Paris, according to despatches. Leaving Lonon for the French capital to do a little shopping she found that her handbag had been robbed of nearly $1,000 in cash and a letter of credit for $3,000.

Strange Beast Reported.

Since the reported finding of the body of a strange beast at the port of La Union, South America, belief is voiced that monsters of the Jurassic period may yet be alive in the jungle regions of Central and South America. It is believed that the monster found is an ichthyosaurus. It was found just shortly after it had died. The body resembled a bull, and the head was like a horse's, fitted with four jaws, each with 17 teeth as thick as a man's little finger. Dr. George Gaylord Simpson of the American Museum of Natural History points out, however, that the animal has been extinct for many million years. The picture here shows a restoration of an ichyosaurus, which is at present in Hogenbeck's Turpark.

Rt. Hon. Walter Guinness, British minister of agriculture, whose brilliant society ball in London last Friday night came to an abrupt end, when one of his maids, watching the festivities from a skylight, crashed through the glass and was killed and another was badly hurt. Princess Mary, Viscount Lascelles, dukes, lords, earls were present in force when the tragedy occurred. The maids, crashing when the glass broke, fell on two guests, who were slightly injured.

LYRICS OF LIFE

LOVE'S CONTRADICTIONS.

The heart grows weak when love appears,
Yet love makes strong the heart
With strength to face a thousand spears,
That fell before one dart.
The very feet that left the path
At someone's call to-day,
To-morrow neither wealth nor wrath
Can alter from their way.

Love's contradictions make it strange,
In commoner or king:
The mind a single look could change
Becomes a changless thing.
The ear that listens for a sigh,
That ev'ry whisper heard,
Will pass a hundred critics by
And never catch a word.

Or, if it asks the world's advice,
Love follows its own will,
And, if disaster be the price,
Love goes on loving still.

Some disapprove, some disagree,
Few lovers please the town;
And yet a glance can plant a tree
An axe cannot cut down.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
SUNDAY, JULY 22, 1928.

Malefic aspects appear to dominate this day, according to astrology. It is a day for rest and recreation.

Women are well directed under this sway, which makes for happiness in the home and harmony in all domestic relations.

This is an auspicious day for music and for meetings at which there is friendliness or intellectual interest manifested.

The sway is not so promising for religious observances as it is for outings and amusements.

The rule is supposed to encourage controversies regarding religion and to increase bigotry among the people.

The mind is open to prejudice while this planetary government continues, the seers explain, unless it is safeguarded.

The clergy may find lack of interest in charities and philanthropies today, for the stars encourage men and women to seek enjoyment in motoring or boating.

In the aspects today there is a sign making for restlessness and a desire to escape from serious thought.

Letters written today may not be pleasant to receive since the tendency may be to dwell on the somber side of life.

Unusual summer weather may be expected in many places, for extremes of temperature are forecast.

Neptune is in a place believed to encourage agitation involving the eighteenth amendment.

Warning is given that this planet may cause serious trouble to many persons interested in the national campaign.

This aspect is held to have a strong influence on the night pleasures of cities and is read as presaging much dissipation.

Persons whose birthdate it is have auguries of journeys. They may have dealings with commissions or conferences.

Children born on this day probably will have artistic ambitions. The subjects of this sign usually are honest and upright and not egotistical enough to succeed unless aided.

MONDAY, JULY 23, 1928.

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology, which reads nevertheless strong benefic guidance from one planet.

Under this sway the mind may be unstable and inclined to harbor pessimistic or self-centered thoughts. It is well to discipline oneself by positive assertions.

Much political intrigue and individual deceit is indicated for this month which will be a time for much planning and many exchanges of personal opinions.

There is a sign of promise for workers and for industrial enterprises that employ large numbers of men and women.

Prosperity appears to be promised to all who pursue conservative policies and avoid speculation.

The stars presage increase of the gambling instinct and much betting on a large scale.

Card playing is encouraged by this planetary government which is supposed to stimulat the desire to take big chances.

Great Britain continues under a sway making for powerful foreign alliances out of which grow new problems of government.

Increase of interest in military affairs will be marked all through the autumn, astrologers foretell, despite many peace gestures on the part of various nations.

New dangers of earthquakes are read in the stars which seems to foretell seismic shocks in widely separated places.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a prosperous year if they attend strictly to business and avoid too much pleasure.

Children born on this day probably will possess many talents. The subjects of this sign often attain fame in one of the arts.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE HAVE INTERNATIONAL CONTESTS

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
Author, The Springs of Human Action.

We now have international contests, in everything—airplane endurance tests transoceanic flights, polar expeditions balloon races, tennis, golf, boxing, rowing, polo, swimming, fencing and all the track and field events included in the great Olympic games.

International contests of this sort are fast becoming a fad. The approaching Olympic contest in Europe is creating a world-wide interest. The nations of the earth are vying with each other to see which produces the best athletes.

International contests are not confined to physical prowess and mechanical skill. Prizes in art and literature, in peace and good will are also being offered. It looks as though every department of life will soon be represented in this craze for international competition.

Competition of an international nature in which strength and skill and brains and brawn are matched with other peoples and races makes a very good substitute for war. It has most of the advantage of war in creating excitement and opportunity for boasting of one's country and is less dangerous. The nation who wins in any specific contest naturally makes a great deal of the event. Every nation is bound to win in something, thus all get a lot of satisfaction from these contests.

International contests encourage—friendly rivalry, promote excellence in the events of competition, create good will, teach sportsmanship and exercise the fighting impulse in a perfectly harmless and beneficial way.

So long as we are patriotic and identify our best interests with the nation we call our own, some sort of contest and conflict with other nations will get a rise out of us. Since war is such a dangerous and risky method the world is turning to athletic and other contests as a substitute for war in the exercise of those human qualities that thrill us in any sort of conflict with other peoples.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— by John Hix

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He decides to divorce his wife, Lady Edith. But just then Lady Edith becomes ill. The doctors promise her only a year of life and she makes Gaunt promise not to see Jennifer for that year. Jennifer is angry and decides to be as gay as she can on a legacy of eight thousand pounds left her by an uncle. She gives up her job and goes to work to have a good time. She meets DOLORES and BUDDY, two women who live in the flat above her new dwelling place. Through them she meets CHESNEY, who quarrels about he with Buddy and proposes to Jennifer.

CHAPTER XXI.

WHY NOT?

Jennifer was thinking of Chesney as she sat by the glowing fire in the early hours of this April morning, and of his ardent entreaties to her an hour ago.

"You say you don't love me? Very well, I'm willing to take the risk for us both. I love you. You've got me body and soul."

"But why? why?" Jennifer had urged in distress. "I'm so ordinary, so different from all the women you know."

"Perhaps that's why."

"Oh!"

"I love you, I want you for my wife. Say yes, Jennifer."

She shook her head.

"Is there any other man?" he asked, as he had asked many times before.

"Oh, no!"

"Very well, then I will make you care for me. I shall never be happy till I have made you care."

"Oh!"

The silly little monosyllable seemed all she was able to say. She felt as if she were back in the almost forgotten backwater off Notting Hill, in the little flat where she had known such brief happiness and so much bitterness, and to the night of her parting with Gaunt, and to the sound of his voice . . . "We had a good man out there, but I must do everything possible for her . . ."

"Oh!"

"She nearly died! Jennifer, they say she will die soon."

"Oh!"

"She wanted me to wait for her, but I persuaded her to let me come on and make arrangements for her comfort."

"Oh!"

It was a shuddering nightmare when one looked back upon it. And, after all, Edith had not died; she was still fluttering through life, and posing to the newspapers and magazines for her photograph. And now Chesney wanted Jennifer for his wife.

He had plenty of money, and she had no doubt of his love. Why could she not bring herself to say "Yes!" She leaned forward and poked the dying fire into a fresh blaze, and amid the glowing coals she seemed to see the features of Buddy's fierce little face.

Buddy loved Chesney too, Jennifer knew, loved him as well as it was in her power to love anyone, and since the rupture between them she had gone through life laughing shrilly at anything and everything, whipping her flagging spirits to fresh energies by means of cocktails and brandies, which left her leaden-eyed and despondent when morning came.

She never spoke to Jennifer now—and if they met by chance on the stairs she turned her elfin face away, humming a gay snatch of tune as if to indicate that she had not a care in the world.

Poor little Buddy!

Jennifer rose, and crossing the room looked at her reflection in a square silver mirror which stood on a side table. A different Jennifer to the girl who had clung to Nicholas Gaunt that autumn evening and implored him not to leave her, a Jennifer who had been flung out of her quiet backwater by the turbulent waves of sorrow, and sent drifting over strange seas. And yet she looked a much younger Jennifer.

"Which only shows what good clothes and a clever coiffure will do for one!" Jennifer told herself cynically, as she knelt down in front of the little table, and with her arms resting on its polished surface, stared at herself in the silver mirror.

It was Dolores who had persuaded her to shingle her hair in the prevailing fashion, and although she had felt a very real pang when the thick plaits lay shorn across her knee, Jennifer knew that the change was all for the better. She had a small and prettily shaped head, and her short hair grew in the three peaks of beauty above her slim neck.

Then Dolores had taken her to a modiste whom she called "the greatest artist in London."

"At the present moment, my dear," she told Jennifer, with her usual frankness which somehow never gave offence, "you don't 'dress' at all. You just wear clothes."

But that was more than a year ago, and today Jennifer could laugh when she thought of the frocks that had once pleased her, and of the hat she had worn the first time she went to tea at Rumpelmeyer's with Gaunt.

He had thought her pretty then! She wondered what he would think if he could see her now. It seemed strange that they had never once met since the night of their tragic parting. People were always saying how small the world is, but it was vast enough to keep Jennifer and Gaunt apart.

Once or twice she had been shaken with fear, believing that she saw him in the street. Once she was positive that he had driven past her in his fast, low-bodied car, but when further down the road, the man had stopped and looked back, she had realized her mistake. That he was not abroad she knew, for sometimes she saw mention of him in the papers, and once she heard his name spoken at the Bohemian Night Club by a girl who was drinking neat brandy and talking to a man in a shrill voice about her "damned headache."

"That's what comes of burning the candle at both ends," her companion had answered without much sympathy. "Where were you last night?"

And the girl had answered—"I was out with Gaunt! The great Nicholas!"

"Oh! How is the poor devil?"

There had been a sort of contemptuous pity in the question, and without waiting for the reply Jennifer had risen hurriedly and walked away. She had a shivering dread of hearing Gaunt's name spoken—her only desire was to bar and bolt him out of her life forever. And now Chesney had given her the chance. Marriage with him would fill her life with fresh interests to the exclusion of all others. As another man's wife, Gaunt could no longer be of interset to her.

But she did not love Malcolm Chesney. She liked him—she was happy in his company, but it gave her no thrill when he said "I love you. It left her pulses serene and untroubled when he touched her.

"You know," he had said once, 'the great charm about you is your absolute naturalness. Have you ever been told that before?"

"No, I don't think so."

"Well, it is. There's no affectation about you, Jennifer. You don't ape and shape like most women do. You don't pretend to belong to the ultra-modern set; you don't try and make people believe you are what you are not."

"That would be difficult."

Chesney made a grimace. "Most of 'em find it easy enough," he said bluntly. "Most of 'em try and kid you that they're blue-blooded—one of the old Vere-de-Veres who came over with the Conqueror or some other ancient Johnny, and I'm sure that not one of the women whom Dolores calls her friends has ever done a day's honest work, or would admit to an income of less than fifty thousand a year."

Jennifer laughed. "Isn't that rather an exaggeration?"

"Well, it is, of course," Chesney admitted. "But you know what I mean. Now you're so different."

Jennifer turned her clear eyes upon him. "Are you trying to find out what sort of a past mine has been?" she asked.

"As a matter of fact, I'm not," he answered. "But all the same I should love to know. Everything about you interests me."

"What do you want to know?"

"All about you. Have you any brothers or sisters?"

"No. I've nobody—no relations, I mean. My father died nearly eight years ago, and my mother seven. My father was a bank clerk, and after he died I earned my living in an office in the City."

"What a shame!"

Jennifer smiled. "Oh, no, it wasn't I was very happy."

"Then what made you give it up?"

Jennifer hesitated, then she said slowly—"Well, several things happened, and one of them was that an uncle—my only uncle—died, and left me some money."

"I see."

"And instead of investing it and assuring myself of a nice income for the rest of my life, I made up my mind to see the world and have a good time. So I took the flat where I live now, and then I met Dolores." She stopped, and Chesney added for her:

"And since then you've had the good time and been happy?"

"I'm not sure that I have, but I've tried."

There was a little silence, then she said again slowly—"Yes, I've tried——"

Chesney laid his hand on hers. "And not succeeded quite as well as you hoped, is that it?" he asked gently. "Well, why not let me help you?"

"I don't think it would be fair to you. You see, I don't love you."

"I know, but if you don't love any other man——"

"I don't love any other man," Jennifer said quickly.

"SALADA" TEA

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON SUNDAY AND MONDAY.

Every morning, you are to take your calisthenic exercises, using all of the ones I have given you in the preceding articles. Follow the exercises with a cold shower bath, if your skin responds properly; otherwise, use a lukewarm shower or sponge bath.

BREAKFAST: One coddled egg,
Two or three pieces of triscuit,
Small dish of stewed prunes.

During the morning, take your usual walk. Do not neglect this walk, as it will help so much in taking off the excess weight around your hips. None of the other exercises can do so much for you in reducing weight through this part of your body.

LUNCH: One glassful of orange juice,
With water as desired.

During the afternoon, you are to take your regular walk, walking briskly for at least two miles. If you will increase your time for walking each day by adding one or two minutes to your schedule, you will soon be walking three or four miles daily.

Upon returning from your walk, take all of the exercises which I have given you, and add this 'Lying Face Downward':

2.—Raise and lower right and left legs alternately, keeping the knees stiff and bending the legs backward at the hips.

After you have completed your exercises, take a cold shower bath and an enema of plain warm water. Are you sure you take your enemas in the proper manner? I am going to repeat the instructions which I gave you at the beginning of these articles.

Enema: Fill a two-quart fountain douche bag or can with plain warm water, a little more than body temperature. Hang this four or five feet from the floor. To this bag should be attached a rubber tube seven or eight feet in length. The fitting on the end should be a soft rubber tube, called a rectal catheter. This need not be over nine to twelve inches in length, and should be well lubricated with vaseline its entire length.

Assume the knee-chest position on the floor. This is accomplished by kneeling with the hips elevated, and with the chest as near as possible to the floor. The face and neck may be turned sidewise into a pillow, and your weight partially supported on the front of one shoulder. The object of this position is to turn the intestines upside down so that the water will slowly enter and fill the intestines by only the pressure of gravity.

After assuming this position, the tube should be inserted not over six to eight inches. If you attempt to push it too far, it will only buckle over and even tie in a knot. After the tube has been inserted, allow the water to flow slowly into the intestines. This can be accomplished by squeezing the tube with the thumb and forefinger of one hand. Squeeze the tube while counting four, and release while counting four. Keep repeating this procedure, and you will not be troubled with any distress which is caused by allowing the water to enter too rapidly. After the two quarts have completely filled the bowels, remove the tube and lie on your back on the floor and churn the abdomen up and down for three or four minutes. The water and feces should then be slowly expelled. If satisfactory results have not been obtained, another enema should then be taken.

DINNER: Broiled halibut,
Salad of tomatoes and lettuce.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Five-days Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SILLY FLOWER.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Once upon a time Uncle Wiggily was hopping across the meadow where Mrs. Moo Cow ate the green grass, and the rabbit gentleman began to laugh.

"I don't see anything so very funny," spoke a sad voice down in the corner near a fence post. "I wish I could laugh."

"Why don't you then?" asked Mr. Longears, looking to see where the voice came from. As he did not notice any of the Bad Chaps about, he had no fear. "Why don't you laugh, whoever you are?" he asked.

"I'm a flower," went on the voice, "and the reason I don't laugh is that I'm very unhappy and sad. But if you tell me what you were laughing at perhaps I could at least smile."

"Well, I was laughing," said Mr. Longears, "when I thought how I fooled Alice and Susie yesterday with a puzzle picture. I made a drawing of Curly Twistytail, the pig with four sticks and the trick was to make twelve out of the four sticks without breaking them."

"How could you make twelve out of four?" asked the sad flower.

"By crossing two of the sticks you made an X, which is ten," said Uncle Wiggily. "And with ten and the other two sticks that makes twelve, doesn't it?"

"Oh, yes, like the twelve on the clock," said the flower. "But I don't think that's anything to laugh about."

"The funny thing was to see the looks on the faces of Alice and Susie!" chuckled Mr. Longears. But still the flower, which was a yellow dandelion growing in the grass, hardly smiled.

"Why are you so sad?" asked the rabbit.

"Because I always have to stay here in this one spot," answered the dandelion. "I see even the poor angleworms crawling from place to place. The birds fly, you rabbits hop, but I must stay here until I dry up and blow away. I'm tired and sick of this place! I'm tired and sick of this place! I'm tired of seeing the same old fence post every day. I'm tired of seeing the same clump of grass and the same big burdock plant! I want to travel—to get away and see life."

"Dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily. "It is quite surprising to hear a dandelion talk this way. I think you look pretty where you are."

"I tell you I'm sick of this place!" exclaimed the silly flower. "Can't you take me with you adventuring?"

"I'll try," said Uncle Wiggily. "Though how you will like traveling about I do not know."

"I shall love it!" cried the dandelion.

So Uncle Wiggily dug with his paws in the ground, loosened the earth around the roots and lifted up the dandelion. Holding the flower in his paws, the bunny began to hop along.

"Ah, this is wonderful! This is seeing life!" said the flower.

But pretty soon the hot sun began to make it droop. There was not much earth left on the roots and that soon dried out.

"Oh, I am so thirsty!" sighed the dandelion. "Quick! Sprinkle me with water!" Uncle Wiggily did this at the brook, but because it was not growing in the earth, where it belonged, the flower still wilted in the hot sun. "Oh, I am dying!" it sighed. "What will become of me?"

"Shall I take you back where I got you and plant you again?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes, please do," was the answer. "I was silly ever to want to leave my fence corner." So Uncle Wiggily put the dandelion back in the hole, patted the cool, moist earth around the roots and put water on. Then the flower began to grow again.

"To keep you from being lonesome," said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away, "I will leave you this puzzle to solve, my dandelion." On the fence the bunny drew pictures of a target, a plant that grows in swamps, and an automobile tool. "There are three animals' names you ought to guess from these things," said Mr. Longears. "What are they?"

Three animals' names.

Wheat Swings Downward on Northwest Reports

CHICAGO, July 21 (Canadian Press)—Selling ascribed to the northwest, together with weakness of Winnipeg quotations, led early to a downward swing of wheat values here. Spring wheat crop advices continue favorable and there were again big receipts at the Winter wheat centres. Opening ¾ cent to ¾ cent off, Chicago wheat subsequently showed a material further setback. Corn also developed weakness, starting ¾ cent down to half cent up and then undergoing a general drop. Oats were relatively firm; provisions tended to sag.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

An independent outside opinion on the market.

When Noranda was $16.00, we said "Buy, and hold for 50." When Noranada was 30, we said, "Buy, and sell at 60," and when it was 60, we informed our readers to sell and not to buy until we advised them to. Noranda yesterday sold at 60, and then dropped back to 57½. Buy Noranda only when we give you the word, as we believe that the market is still quiet and we do not believe there will be any real action for a little while yet.

On the Montreal Exchange, Winnipeg's recovery was the principal feature. There is almost as strong a following for Winnipeg as for Brazilian locally, the bulls on the stock being absolutely convinced, that all they have to do is hold on and never mind the fluctuations.

* * *

The characteristic summer market prevailed in other directions, most stocks being little changed, with a slightly easier tendency in some of the leaders, notably Nickel.

* * *

From good local sources I learn that optimistic views are entertained as to the progress of International Nickel in the next few weeks.

* * *

Newsprint stocks are still under a cloud and there is a fear that they may sink lower, in spite of the fact that liquidation has been consistent for some weeks.

* * *

Troubles in the Swedish kraft mills has had a good effect on the American market for Canadian kraft, and should encourage buying of Wayagamack and Dryden, but little variation in these stocks is yet visible.

Abana continues to be the favorite amongst a well posted group of local mining speculators who expect to see it selling much higher befor the fall. Some of the figures mentioned may be regarded as fabulous, but the Abana group are keen investigators themselves and state that they have great values behind their stock and that it will yet be one of Canada's biggest mines.

I hear from an inside source that Duparquet Mining Company's stock will be listed early this fall. The directorate of Duparquet, includes some very shrewd financiers, who are determined to make a mine of their property.

BANK OF COMM LETTER

The conditions which affect the primary industries during the current season largely determine the course of business throughout the year, and fortunately they are at this date, with the exception of those in respect of pulp and paper, more favourable than in the generally prosperous year of 1927. The foregoing conclusion is based chiefly on the healthy development of the western wheat crop, which is entering the most critical period of its growth in the best possible condition. The national situation as regards agriculture is described elsewhere in this Letter.

There is furthre improvement to record in the lumber industry, for while weakness is still evident in some foreign markets the demand is large in Canada and the United States. A sound programme of trade extension is under way in the latter country, and an effort is being made to adjust production to market requirements. Indeed, the operations of the mills in Oregon and Washington have been curtailed by the general agreement of the members of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, and it has been proposed that the lumbermen in British Columbia should adopt the same course. With a view to stabilizing the English market, which is overstocked, the Association of Sawmill Owners in Finland has recently agreed to reduce its output by at least 10 per cent., and this would more than offset the slight increase which is contemplated in Russia. These corrective measures will not solve all the difficulties of the industry, but, generally speaking, the outlook is the most favourable in the past three or four years. The principal development in the pulp and paper situation is an increase in the total output, but as this is from a greater number of machines the industry is now operating at only about 80 per cent. of the rated capacity. Proposals have been made to rationalize the industry by controlling production and sales, and a sound scheme to improve the position of the industry would be welcome, for it is apparent that the leading companies can best meet foreign competition by working together as far as possible. It should be noted, however, that the majority of the Canadian mills, being modern and favourably situated, can continue to operate profitably even at the lower prices now prevailing for their products.

The recent developments affecting mining have been entirely favourable and the production of all metals, except silver, is at a record level, while prospecting for undiscovered deposits and the development of promising properties are on the largest scale ever known. The results of deep-sea fishing have so far been satisfactory, and if the summer catches are of normal volume the season should prove to be more successful than was the case last year.

The latest reports on the output of iron and steel show that the producers have experienced the most favourable conditions, as far as volume of business is concerned, since the period of inflation following the war. The monthly average of iron production during the first half of 1927 was the highest since 1920, and that of steel the highest since 1918, though the industries have not yet operated at full capacity. Curtailment is usually expected during mid-summer, but as the leading producer has large unfilled orders on hand this should not be so marked as in former years. The automobile industry, after several months of uncertainty due to the new Ford policy, returned to normal conditions in April, and its production in May was the largest in its history.

Toronto Exchange Closed

Toronto, July 21—(Canadian Press)—The Toronto Stock Exchange and the Standard Mining Exchange both were closed to-day.

New York Market Dull with Trend Uncertain

NEW YORK, July 21.—(Canadian Press).—Extreme dullness characterized today's brief session of the stock market. Price movements again were indecisive, due to the failure of pools to attract an outside following and the absence of any concerted selling pressure.

The optimistic tenor of the weekly trade reviews was offset by fears of further credit stringency when the remaining Federal Reserve Banks raise their rediscount rates of five percent, and the banks are called upon to finance the movement of the crops. Resumption of bullish operations in Warner Brother's pictures carried that stock to a new high of 57½ which contrasted with the year's low of 22. Good demand also was noticed for such issues as Fabn and Fink, Eastman Kodak, Columbia Gas, Kroger Stores, International Telephone, and Mexican Seaboard.

Profit taking brought about substantial reductions in such recent favorites as Union Carbide, Radio, Montgomery Ward, and General Motors. The closing was irregular. Total sales were approximately 520,000 shares.

Tommy Armour Captures Golf Championship in New Jersey.

WESTFIELD, N. J., July 21. Canadian Press. Tommy Armour, Canadian open champion, yesterday won the Metropolitan open golf title with a score of 278 for the 72 holes. Armour's score set a new record for the Metropolitan event and led Johnny Farrell, present national open champion and defending title holder, by two strokes.

Leo Diegel of New York, was third with a score of 284.

Armour's card on the final eighteen holes was 71 to add to 207 for the first 54 holes. He barely stayed off the last ditch rush of Farrell, who turned in a 69 to bring his total to 280.

The employees of the De Laval have divided into two sections for horse-shoe contests. A cup donated by Mr Smith, advertising manager, becomes the property of any one winning it three times in succession. Bill Conroy was winner in the first series, Padget in the third, and last evening in the third, and last evening evening the runner-up, Walter Fitzgerald, of the East side and Bryde Fleming of the West side met in a great game. Fleming winning 50-30. During the game Fleming tossed ten ringers.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL AND PLAY ARE HELD

Fairmount United Church is Scene of Very Successful Entertainment.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—A splendid entertainment and ice cream social was held in Fairmount United Church on Thursday evening. The weather being ideal, a large number were in attendance.

The entertainment consisted of a play entitled, "Strictly Business," which was given by the ladies of the church. The first act was a scene in the home of the new minister, the Rev. Benson Marlow and Mrs. Marlow, who are asked if the Ladies' Aid might meet at their home the following Tuesday. Mrs. Marlowe terribly confused, finally consents.

Act 2 is a street scene. Janet Golding, a tall sharp featured maiden lady, meets Mrs. Martha Peever, a short stout old lady about sixty-five, who is very bad with rheumatism. They discuss the coming Ladies' Aid, ministers' wives, furniture for the parsonage, secret societies, Orangemen, Oddfellows, and especially the Masons.

Act 3 is in two scenes. Mrs. Marlow, the minister's wife, is busily engaged arranging the furniture and doing the last minute dusting, while suddenly the door bell rings. Mrs. Peever and Mrs. O'Grogan arrive; Mrs. O'Grogan claiming that if you want to have a good time in the next world, you want to be on time in this. In the second part, the ladies are all seated in the parlor. On being asked to read the minutes of the last meeting, the secretary, who has previously been asked to give fuller details of the business of each meeting, reads away, telling every word of discussion, much to the embarrassment of the ladies who had openly expressed their views.

The business of the meeting instead of being "strictly business" as afore stated was nothing other than idle gossip as to where the Bible Class teacher is likely to go because he and his wife have read a love story; finally they decide to inspect the minister's house as to needs of furnishings, much to the disapproval of Mrs. Marlow, who picks a committee of three ladies to inspect the furnishings of the home and in response report that about five hundred dollars would cover the needs.

In the program of the meeting it is suggested that Mrs. Ogles's niece from the city, whose father has quite a big business in the city, but who, one of the members happen to know personally to be a garbage collector, be asked to sing. During the song the ladies scan her in disgust; her dress, and person, critically making summary remarks to each other.

Mrs. Marlow inviting the ladies to lunch concludes the play, which was full of wit from beginning to end. The following was the cast: The new minister, Fred McIndoo; his wife, Helen Staples; their little daughter, Dorothy, Barnara Staples; Mrs. O'Grogan, Miss J. Schaffer, the Irish woman; Mrs. Gardwell, Mrs. C. Hanbidge, the president; Mrs. Ledgar, Mrs. J. Seymour, the secretary; Miss Jane Golding, Mrs. George Hootan, the maiden lady; Mrs. Peever, Mrs. Robert Hootan, an elderly English woman; Mrs. Fuller, a fine type of a woman, Mrs. George McBain, the wife of a farmer; Hattie Fuller, Mrs. M. McBain, her daughter; Mrs. Bolder, Mrs. William Hootan; Mrs. Hustle, who hears everything over the telephone, Mrs. William Johnston; Marguerita Ogle, Myrtle Hootan, a girl from the city; Mrs. Ogle, Mrs. R. Earle, a farmers wife; Mr. Holler, Mrs. Downs, a careful soul.

The play in itself presented a good moral thought, teaching how easily we may be the means of putting pitfalls in the way of others and how we may just as easily remove them.

Between acts of the play, solos were given by Miss Hutchison of Centreville. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge and Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Allin sang "Juanita."

At the close of the program, Rev. A. H. McConnachie gave a few pleasing remarks, after which he invited Mr. and Mrs. William Seymour, a bride and groom of a few weeks, to the platform, where a suitable address was read by J. P. Staples, while a beautiful clock was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Seymour on behalf of the Sunday School.

Mr. Seymour, in a neat and appropriate speech, thanked the Sunday for the kindness toward them, and of being "strictly business" as afore see them in their home. "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," was heartily sung by all present, after which the service of ice cream and cake, and a social half hour brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Friends of Mrs. Frank Gardiner are sorry to hear of her illness.

Miss Gwendolyn Lough, nurse-in-training at Oshawa, is spending two weeks with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Lough.

Among those who attended the play, "Strictly Business," at Fairmount on Thursday evening were Mrs. T. C. Morden, Miss Dorothy Morden, Mrs. M. Thorn, Mrs. J. Handley, and Mrs. I. Lowe.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

ARE GOOD LOOKS a drawback in hunting a position with Peterborough girls? Apparently not, for almost all of our local girls seem to be able to secure a position quite easily—at least as far as their looks are concerned anyway.

• • •

But good looks are really a drawback to a girl taking up engineering work. Miss Hazlett, organizer of the Women's Engineering Society, says, "We put forward a woman for a drawing office appointment and her qualifications were excellent, but the director said quite frankly that she was too good-looking for the job, and would probably upset the men in their work.

• • •

Another director expressing the technical qualifications required by a girl, added, 'And she must not jump if the foreman says, "damn!"' While yet another statement made was "My view is that good looks are rather an advantage than otherwise. Good looks in the hands of an irresponsible woman in business may be dangerous but in the hands of a properly conducted woman, good looks are certainly a benefit.' If a woman merely uses her good looks to attract the men with whom she is working, then they are wasted, but otherwise they are a benefit."

• • •

So much has been said of the modern girl recently that she must feel very much in the spotlight. Anyway they may discuss her over and over again before it will make a great deal of difference with her—whether it be her short skirt or her good looks—both of which are essential to the modern girl—she doesn't mind in the least.

• • •

She wouldn't be a modern girl if she didn't like being discussed—would she?

• • •

A description of a wonderful electric lamp was given recently, which had been made quite a number of years ago by a cabinet maker while a resident of Peterborough.

The base and edges of the lamp which were of high grade wood, were made from discarded beds which he purchased from Peterborough citizens. The lamp itself stood between four and five feet high, but the shade was of a double nature, concealing the bulb from view, and could be converted into a hanging hall lamp if desired. It was not made of silk or of a panel of glass, but consisted of various pieces of glass, no two of the same size or shape; concave, convex, bevelled etc., and of every color imaginable.

Between each piece of glass separating it from the next was a very thin piece of birdseye. What a wonderful ray of light it must shed! More than one hundred dollars' worth of goods was combined in it, beside the workmanship.

• • •

If you are short of a table for your next Bridge, a very easy way to make a small square tea table serve the purpose, is to take a square of baize about an inch and a half larger than the table all round, make a hem all around and run a piece of strong elastic into the hem fairly tight. When stretched over the table the effect is perfect.

• • •

The next time you purchase an earthenware vessel of any sort, or a casserole, rub the outside with a raw onion before using. The onion juice prevents the vessel "sweating" which is sometimes a cause of cracking when it is first heated.

• • •

A good, clean series of programs presented by the Redpath Chautauqua has once more come to an end in our city. What a wonderful opportunity for us to enrich our minds in the hearing of good music, inspiring lectures, and good, clean comedies.

Surely the boys and girls enjoyed themselves to the utmost in their part of the show—and it prepared them to be better citizens of Peterborough.

• • •

In one of the outstanding lectures given there, "Buy in Peterborough, or your own town," was one of the strong points of the address. Surely a lesson for some of us! If we desire Peterborough to become the city we desire and should boost it to be, we must do our share of the work to bring it up to our ideal. And one of the ways in which we might assist is by buying our goods in Peterborough.

• • •

Not a very good attire for a hot July day in my idea, was noticed in one of the parks yesterday. She wore one of those striped skirts—you know the kind where the stripes meet at each side all the way up the skirt to the waist—a white blouse, which was finished with a black velvet band, tight at the neck and waist. Her hat was a black sailor. Her shoes and hose—what I could see of them—were also black.

• • •

She took me all in—I suppose she wondered what on earth 1928 Peterboroughg irls were coming to in their spotted crepes!

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentary, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Blind Man's Luck..."

By HELEN R. BARTON

"You are making a mistake, my boy," said Stephen Brand to his nephew. "Money isn't everything. You can win and lose a whole lot of money but the sunsets and rainbows and beauties of nature can only do your soul good through the medium of your eyes. It is a mistake to risk possible blindness for money and the things it can buy!"

The telephone shrilled and Dexter Brand went smiling to answer it, his fine old uncle's advice already slipping heedlessly away.

Dexter left the telephone, having promised to take Adele Merner to the theater that night and a nightclub afterward. It was because of Adele that Dexter was driving himself on to possible wealth. Adele with the corn-color hair and the corn-flower eyes and the eager, greedy pursuit of everything that was new, expensive and interesting. Adele who inspired a fellow to tread the rosy clouds of high romance with her soft, tender babyish little ways, so cleverly concealing the hard, brittle, calculating spirit underneath.

"Did you see a doctor, Dex," asked Adele as she snuggled down in the roadster that night on the way to the theater.

"Advised me to lay off—get away from my invention."

"Oh! But why? Is he afraid? Why did he advise that, Dex?"

"Oh, he mentioned possible blindness.

"But Dexter—not before you've finished your invention?" asked Adele, a sharp little clip to her usually soft voice.

"Oh no. I'll have that done. Don't worry. I only saw one specialist; another might disagree entirely with him!"

• • •

"There's a young lady waiting in the reception room," announced Biggs, Uncle Steve's aged butler, a few days later. "She said something about an ad."

Rubbing his aching eyes nervously with his thin hands, Dexter went into the reception room and wondered if his eyes were playing pranks on him as he gazed upon the most beautiful girl he had ever seen.

"You wanted a secretary who understands mechanical business enough to take intelligent notes, and I feel qualified to apply, because you see my father was an inventor."

The voice was low and sweet; in perfect keeping with her beauty, Dexter decided, and he flushed as he said: "I'm sure you'll do. But the salary is small, and you'll have to live here with my uncle and me. I work all hours, you know!"

"That will be quite all right; I'm familiar with the erratic hours of inventors!" she said, smiling, and Dexter forgot his eyes for the first time in many weeks.

In the sputtering light of an acetyman in a green hood stood feverishly at a work-bench. At his side, a girl with curling coppery hair working equally fast at a note book.

The telephone rang and Sheila Burns went reluctantly to answer it. "For you, Mr. Brand. Miss Merner."

"Sorry," said Dexter into the receiver. "It's impossible, Adele. Oh, be sensible, for Heaven's sake! It won't be more than a day more."

Then a sharp gasp as of pain, a moment of doubt and then: "Find a lamp, will you, Miss Burns—the lights seem to have left us. What? My God!" And that was how Dexter Brand found himself suddenly stopped, just as success and fame seemed within reach.

Adele went abroad the next week, after she had ascertained definitely from Sheila Burns that Dexter might be blind a lifetime and that he had most certainly not finished the invention that was to make him rich and famous.

"I guess you were right, Uncle," remarked Dexter one morning. "I should have stopped to store up a few memories, with my eyes. Now I've lost the eyes and the possible money, too! And even the woman I loved turned me down."

"I used to think that Sheila liked me a little," he went on, "but even she seems to have forgotten us."

"Oh no I haven't, I've just been busy," remarked Sheila who had just come in. "I've been down to register your patent and see a specialist."

"Why?" demanded the blind man. "Surely not for money! You alone knew how little I had!"

"No. Can't you understand that one does things for other reasons?"

"Yes, I know that, now. But even if you did—like me a lot, I may never be able to ask you—"

"That's true; because I wouldn't marry you if you were well. And I'm pretty certain that you won't be blind very long—not if this German specialist is right."

"D'you mean that you care enough for me to—marry me—now?" asked Dexter softly.

"If you don't ask me pretty soon your chance will be gone!"

"Come here, you darling," he said, half under his breath, and when she stood before him, he rose unsteadily, and gathered her hungrily into his arms, murmuring incoherent terms of endearment.

A long time later, after Sheila had gone, he told his amazing luck to his delighted uncle, adding, "Blind man's luck, eh?"

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

With a gray ensemble it is fashionably correct to wear a choker of flat silver petals overlapping each other and finished with an invisible fastening.

Dull silver without stones of any sort is the smartest thing you can choose for jewelry to go with the all-grey ensemble; and yellow gold jewelry is smarter than anything else for wear with beige. There has been a revival of interest in amber recently and this may be worn with charming effect in frocks ranging from golden beige to rusty brown. There is a lovely sort of green amber that has recently been given prominence in the collections of the jewelers. This is most effective when worn with green.

Some women follow the rule of wearing nothing but plain metals or translucent or opaque stones in the daytime—that is, jade, amber, turquoise, onyx, pearls—but not diamonds, emeralds or other stones of a transparent sort. Other women make the rule not to wear stones of contrasting color in the day time. That is, emeralds, jade or this new green amber with green, yellow amber, gold or topaz on beige or yellow.

When the new bright navy blue is chosen for evening wear, emeralds set with diamonds are considered decidedly smart, and bluish jade or turquoise is chosen for wear with the cool greens so popular for semi-sports wear this summer. The dull whites or off-white shades that are so often chosen for evening wear are considered an excellent background for any of the colored stones, but I understand that topaz in the tone to harmonize with the shade of the white is given place of honor. Thus you would select yellow topaz to wear with the cream-white gown and rose topaz for the off-white gown that inclined to a pinkish cast.

When the American Mrs. John Willys was presented at the court of St. James in London last month she wore very pale pink georgette with a silver lace train—and with it a diamond necklace surmounted by a smaller collar of emeralds.

Social Amenities

Wondering.—Why are not raw oysters and clams served at formal dinners as much as they used to be? I have noticed lately that they are seldom served—and I am very fond of them.

There are several reasons for this. The first one is, I think, that there are many people who do not especially care for raw oysters and clams. The ones who do like them are so enthusiastic in their praises of these that often their enthusiastic comments make us forget the many who do not care for them. And, if one does not like them, it is a terrible task to try to be polite and eat them!

Then, too, even if one likes oysters and clams; they are not the easiest food in the world to eat. The eating of them takes concentration; poise, and is for the moment a deterrent to conversation. In other words, they are more of an informal food than a formal food—like corn on the cob and pie!

• • •

Lately, too, I have thought of this change, and it occurred to me the other day that perhaps another reason why oysters and clams are not served so often now at dinner, especially formal dinners, is the popularity of hors d'oeuvres. Hors d'oeuvres can be offered in so many delicious kinds; can be contrived in so many artistic ways; and are more delicate looking than large, formidable looking oysters.

As I observe the multiple ways hostesses have of serving hors d'oeuvres and the artistry that can be so rewarded in the way they appear, I am increasingly interested in the possibilities of this course. The garnishing itself is an art!

WOMEN'S PAGE

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

AT MILLBROOK

The first Women's Institute organised in East Durham was the Millbrook branch, which became a centre from which workers went out and formed other branches in the district.

A feature of the meetings, in the initial days of the organization in this section was the large number of practical household helps given by various members at each meeting, the excellent papers prepared and read, and the demonstrations in cooking, these latter being one of the principal means used at outside points to interest the women of the community and thus succeed in having an Institute formed.

Sometimes it was a delegate sent by the Department who gave the talks and demonstrations, but perhaps quite as often it was one of the local members, and more than once papers prepared for meetings here were sent on to Toronto (by request) and published in the official report of Women's Institutes of the province.

Quoting from the minutes of January, 1902, one year after the Institute was organized here, and mentioning a meeting held at Garden Hill, the secretary, Mrs. John Mulligan, has written: "Dr. Beatty kindly gave a room in his dwelling-house for the cooking lesson; those present were much interested in the lessons, which were well given by Miss Linton. Two men came to hear the lesson. Those present will try and get at least twenty-five members at this centre."

The delegate on that occasion was Miss Laura Linton, of Guelph, and her theme, "Principles of Cooking," with simple demonstration.

There were at one time fourteen branches in East Durham, the list including: Bewdley, Fairmount, Manvers Station, Lifford, Canton, Port Hope, Garden Hill, Bethany, Mount Pleasant, Charlocote, Elizabethville, Cavan, Bailieboro, Millbrook. Only the last eight are now "carrying on," with a long list of splendid activities to their credit each year, unless Port Hope still has a branch in good working order; no delegates came from this town to the annual meeting held here in June.

The first honorary president for the district was the late Mrs. Thomas W. Allen, wife of the Venerable Archdeacon Allen, and she continued to hold this position for at least three years following the organization meeting on March 22, 1901.

AT MOUNT PLEASANT

A class of girls from the Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute is being arranged to go to Cavanville to receive instruction in judging from one of the coaches of the Women's Institute Branch for the household science judging competitions.

The coaching work will be held in the Community Hall in Cavan on the two last days in July, 30 to 31; Cavan being the most central point for county competition, and at a later date, perhaps the ninth of August, the girls will be judged in the following classes:

Class A. Nutrition—(1) School Lunches; (2), Family Menus.

Class B. House Furnishing—(1) Farming Living Rooms; (2) Kitchen Plans.

Class C. Clothing—(1), Dress Parade; (2), Country Girls' Wardrobe.

Nutrition.—The score for judging school lunches: General outward appearance (neatness of package), 10; Packing (neatness, separate wrappings, etc.), 20; Selection of food (suitability and food value), 35; Quality and preparation of food, 35; Total 100.

The menus are supposedly planned for a farm family of adults and children from six years up. It is taken for granted that special meals will be provided for younger children. The menus will cover meals for one day in the season in which the competition is being held.

Score for judging menus: Food value, balance for individual meals, 30, balance for one day, 30; suitability to the season, 15, suitability to the farm resources, 15; attractiveness, 10; Total 100.

House Furnishings

Score for judging living rooms: General effectiveness, color 15, style of furnishings 15, 30; suitability to the farm home, simplicity 15, durability 15; 30 arrangement of furniture, 20; appearance of comfort, 20; Total 100.

Score for judging kitchen plans: Completeness of equipment, 40; arrangement of equipment, 40; doors and windows (shape of room), 20; Total, 100.

Clothing

Score for judging dress parade: General effectiveness, 35; suitability to occasion, 25; suitability to person, style 20, color 20; 40; Total, 100.

Score for country girl's wardrobe: General appearance, 20; harmony of style and color (in garments that may be worn together), 10; suitability to purpose, 30; durability of material 10, of style and color, 10; 20; cost, 20; Total 100.

The committee in charge, Mrs. Garnet Shield and Mrs. Ira Lowe, are doing their best to get in touch with all the girls in the neighborhood, and any girls who wish to enter in the judging competition may give their names and age to the committee or the secretary, Mrs. T. E. Morden.

AT WARSAW

Her subjects were "A suitable wardrobe for a country girl," "Menus for different days and school lunches," "household arrangements for kitchen and living room."

The wardrobe included undergarments, hosiery and shoes, of suitable colors and durable quality. Dresses should be mainly along the same line of color, and of a color becoming to the wearer. If a color placed near the face shows yellow around the mouth, nose or eyes, it is unbecoming. If one must wear an unbecoming color, use a collar that is. Dresses should be suitable to the occasion when worn, both in material and design. Suits are not profitable in the country. They can really be worn so little. She stressed care in house dresses and dresses suitable to wear to church, and disapproved very much of too little clothing.

In planning a kitchen, it should have at least two windows; one north and one either east or west; there should not be more than four doors; stove, pantry, sink, cellar should be placed as close together as possible. Everything should be arranged to save steps. There should be the ordinary wood or coal stove for Winter use, and a coal oil, gas, or electric stove for hot weather. A dumbwaiter should belong to every kitchen. All surfaces should be plain, and the colors cheerful.

The living room should face the south. It should be suitable to a farm house, such a room as may be used. It should be attractive, restful and cheerful. The colors and furniture should harmonize. As far as possible avoid placing furniture cornerways. Keep the musical parts together; the books together, and do not have all sorts of things scattered all around.

In arranging and furnishing any room, its size, shape, exposure, and the use to which it is to be put must be considered.

In planning menus and lunches, the food value of each article should be considered; also the balance for the day; and for the individual, suitability to the season and to farm resources and attractiveness.

In preparing lunches, the container must be considered; a closed container spoils the flavor; a tin pail should be ventilated. Separate kinds of food should be wrapped in waxed paper. Tea or coffee have no place in a school lunch.

Next Monday Miss Hopkins will question the girls, and will go more fully into details.

AT CAVAN

At several Institute meetings the lack of a library at Cavan has been discussed. A majority of the members would be in favor of the Institute purchasing a few new, good books to form the nucleus of a library to be added to as it seemed expedient.

Always the matter has been dropped because of the handicap of having no place to keep the library permanently. Several times Cavan Institute have availed themselves of the privilege of using a travelling library sent out by the Department. Such a library may be used for six months by paying transportation charges one way and returning it in good condition.

Through the kindness of Institute members, the library was kept in a private home, but this makes a great deal of work for the person looking after it and the books loaned out, and could not be thought of as a permanent arrangement. Cavan has one of the finest community halls to be found in any rural district in Ontario and its people are justly proud of it.

A community hall should be the natural abiding place of a public library and doubtless Cavan might have that privilege, but for the fact that there is no paid caretaker and therefore no one to look after a library if it were purchased.

The work of looking after the hall has so far been done voluntarily, and without remuneration by members of the committee of management.

Many times, by the courtesy of the committee, the Institute have had the free use of the hall for Institute activities.

Perhaps, in the future, it may be arranged by co-operation of the committee and Institute to have a library in the hall and some one paid to look after it. A good library is a valuable asset to a rural community.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

NELLIE

Nellie is a heathen,
Everybody says;
Nellie never goes to church,
Nellie never prays.

"What's the use of begging
When I'm not in need?"
That is Nellie's answer,
That is Nellie's creed.

"Why should I be shamming,
Sit in stuffy pews,
When I only go there
To show my new shoes?"

She leans on the edge
Of an old fence-rail, her eyes on the clews
To a hidden trail.

She sits with her beau
Where the fireflies gleam,
And watches the moon
In a little lost stream.

IDEAL SECRETARY MORE THAN TYPIST

Counsellor, Memory, Amanuensis and Office Boy, is Better Description.

(By Marion.)

Betty B. writes asking what are the duties of a secretary to a business man, and as the reply is likely to interest many girls I am putting it in the form of an article. I have never been secretary to a business man, but I have talked with enough secretaries and enough business men to be able to form a fairly good idea of what I would do if I were a secretary and what I would like if I were a business man. It is entirely my own opinion, so don't argue with Mr. McKone if his Business College insists upon sticking to more practical lines!

In the first place, of course, the secretary must know the rudiments, at least, of office procedure and a little more than the rudimentary office etiquette. She should know shorthand (except in rare businesses) and typewriting—or perhaps the dictaphone is used. Some old-fashioned men still prefer to draft their letters in long hand and have a stenographer type from these notes.

A secretary should be able to spell. (I am disposing of all the obvious and boresome things first, so that there will be a clear desk for the pleasant and progressive items). If there is anything the business man detests, it is a misspelled word, and yet few of them can spell correctly and consistently.

There may be other mechanical requirements of the secretarial position, such as book-keeping, filing, and indexing, depending upon the kind of business and the number of persons on the staff.

A girl can "get away with it" if she does these routine things, but she is missing half the thrill and all the fun in the job. It is the little innovations—initiative—that count. For instance, I know a man who told me he never fails to get a thrill when he sees his memo pad turned over, in the morning, to the new date, with his engagements carried forward and written there. He never told his secretary to do this, and he says he has never become so used to it as to be unappreciative of the thoughtfulness.

A great many girls will ask a prospective employer, "what chances are there for advancement?" To my mind in some businesses, regular steps up which one goes by virtue of time served—one gets so much of a raise in one year, so much more in two years, and so on. But the girl who aspires to progress as a secretary has an opportunity much wider. By seeking little ways, such as I mentioned above, of lifting routine, and even thinking, off her employer's shoulders, the secretary may make herself indispensable.

Shall I tell you some of the things I would endeavour to do if I were a secretary? Circumstances differ, of course. There are some employers who show a genuine appreciation of initiative, while others desire to keep every last little detail under their own fingers, and desire of their stenographers only stenography. They have no secretaries—but they might, by an intelligent girl, be made gradually to appreciate the need of one.

Well, if I were a secretary I would know my pothooks thoroughly, so that I should never have to ask to have a word repeated. If not naturally good at spelling, I would have a dictionary and a thesaurus on my desk, and I would refer to them often. If in my study of the thesaurus I came upon a word which I thought expressed my employer's meaning better than the word he used, I would suggest its use. I would study his past correspondence to get the idea, so that when he handed me an incoming letter with a request to reply to it I could do so in a way to approximate his style and meet his approval.

I would not be afraid to do things which are really below the position of a secretary. If my employer's ink well or pin tray needed replenishing, or his blotting pad needed a change of covering, it would not hurt my social standing to do the necessary half minute task, and it might help my business position. If I had any difficulty in doing anything my employer gave me to do, I would go right to him and tell him, instead of leaving him to find out that I had not done it or that it was done incorrectly or imperfectly.

I would watch for trifling ways to make myself of service. I would note my employer's birthday, and remind him that he should be at home that night for the almost certain "surprise" party. I would note his wife's birthday and their wedding anniversary, and remind him about presents. I would note his personal light and gas and telephone account dates and remind him when to pay them. I would endeavour to get him to sign his letters at noon and in the evening in time to get home for meals. When he left on a trip I would see that he had writing paper and postage stamps and any official papers he might require. I would go through the drawers in his desk every once in a while and straighten out their contents, without changing the position of papers in such a way that they could not be easily found.

I would be memory and amanuensis to my employer, with a little bit of office boy thrown in.

I would never be in a rush to quit just on the middle stroke of quitting time, but if I wanted an afternoon off I shouldn't be afraid to ask for it. I would not be forward, but I would not crawl. I would not be secretary for anyone but a gentleman, and as secretary to a gentleman I would be able to tell my opinions and ideas without fear of reprisals.

The Other Side.

I promised that I would tell this story from two sides. I have finished the secretary's side, and the business man's side is simpler.

If I were a business man I would thank heaven for such a treasure of a secretary!

MARION'S MAIL

DEAR MARION:

I was greatly interested in your reply to a correspondent last week, in which you mentioned the changing outlook of individuals in the years succeeding marriage, and it was a great help to me.

It is a great worry, you know, in quiet hours at home, to think back ten years to courtship days and compare one's thoughts then and now. Things that were delightful then do not appeal now, and new pleasures and diversions have taken their place. And it is not only in these outward things that one changes, but the spiritual life of an individual changes greatly. After all, marriage is just the union of two persons who must make concessions and endeavour to fit in, each with the changing nature of the other. If one is unwilling to change, the marriage cannot be happy. It is largely a matter of adaptability.

After my marriage, my husband changed his business, and from a farm we came to Peterborough city. The hours are different; my husband must often work at night; we can't have the same amusements that we used to have. It would be very foolish of me, wouldn't it, to cavil at all this change? On the other hand, I have bobbed my hair and shortened my skirts and learned to play bridge—it would be equally absurd if my husband refused to adapt himself to these changing fashions and recreations.

One may look back five or ten years and think of the glorious time one had then, and it will do no harm so long as there is present at the same time an appreciation of to-day's advantages and a knowledge of progress made mentally, spiritually and in worldly affairs.

Sincerely,
Judy Shea."

Thank you, Judy Shea, for your letter. Yours is a splendid appreciation of marriage, I think, and there is a world of good in your last paragraph. It is, after all, not short skirts, or bobbed hair, or anything like that which will hurt our young people or our married couples, but a warped mental attitude. If the mentality of our Peterborough girls is healthy, then their flapper days will be quite safe and their married life will be happy.

"Dear Marion:

I was at a dance the other night where several of the men were drunk, and some of them asked me to dance. I didn't want to with them in that state, but what could I do? One can't say "No" bluntly, and one can hardly give in graciously. Shouldn't they keep such men out of dances?

Worried."

After I had written your letter out, "Worried," I took it to several of the men-folk around the office, and asked their opinion. The general idea is that women are too quick to say a man is "drunk" when as a matter of fact he may merely smell of liquor. That's one viewpoint, and I won't labor it because it really makes little difference in the case under discussion. If a man has been drinking at all, he is probably not the most pleasant dance partner. When I suggested this idea to one man, he countered with a story. There is a certain man who cannot drink beer or any of the smelly beverages, my informant says, because his wife quarrels with him when he does. So instead of drinking beer, which is comparatively mild, he makes a mixture of liquor which is practically odorless, or at least the odor is inoffensive. And apparently he gets away with it.

The point is, perhaps you are condemning men who drank a little because they did it above-board, and dancing with others who have the farsightedness to imbibe perfumed firewater, and who might be otherwise far more offensive.

If a girl does not wish to dance with a man, she can make the fact known without giving offence, and if the man is as bad as you intimate, she need not care whether she gives offence or not. There is, as a matter of fact, surprisingly little drunkenness in Peterborough.

Ruth: You should have a good substantial travelling suit with a change of blouse, a long-sleeved dinner dress not easily wrinkled and a hat that will stand continued wear. You should not burden yourself with clothes on such a trip—in fact, "fluffy" wear would be entirely out of place.

THE SATURDAY MARKET BASKET

Prices do not vary much in the market of fruits and vegetables this week. There are a few more arrivals in fruit, which include raspberries and huckleberries.

Raspberries are quoted at 23 cents a box. Cherries are very plentiful just now. Black Tartarian and White Oxheart cherries are now at their best for preserving. Sweet dark red cherries sell for 25 cents a pound. Black Tartarian cherries are $1.75 a basket; and the sour cherries are $1.25 a basket.

Gooseberries, which were new arrivals last week, are priced at 20 cents a quart. Plums are very plentiful, selling at 20 cents and 25 cents a dozen. Bartlett pears are 5 cents each or 6 for 25 cents. Peaches are also 5 cents a bunch.

There are quantities of peas and beans on the market—peas selling for 3 quarts for 25 cents and string beans for 15 cents a pound. Carrots, beets and green onions are abundant, carrots selling for 10 cents a bunch, beets 3 bunches for 25 cents and green onions for 5 cents a bunch. Cucumbers can be had for 10 and 15 cents each, the smaller ones being 3 for 25 cents.

Home-grown potatoes have made their appearance, selling for 47 cents a peck—imported ones are 40 cents a peck, while old potatoes are selling 2 pecks for 35 cents.

Lettuce is 5 cents a bunch, iceberg, 10 cents and 15 cents a head. New cabbage are 5 cents a pound, cauliflower, hard, white firm heads, are 15 cents, 20 cents and 25 cents each. Imported tomatoes are 15 cents a pound, and hothouse tomatoes are 20 cents a pound.

Oranges are still quite dear, selling for 50 cents to 80 cents a dozen. Bananas are plentiful at 3 pounds for 25 cents and some for 30 cents a dozen.

Watermelons sell for $1.25, honey dew melons for 25 cents and 30 cents and cantaloupes for 20 cents and 25 cents. Eating apples are 6 for 25 cents and green apples are 20 cents a measure.

Cherry Salad.

The following is an excellent recipe for cherry salad. Sweet cherries, cream cheese, nut meats, ripe canned pears cut in halves and drained of all juice, lettuce hearts, French dressing, mint leaves. Rub the inside of a salad bowl with crushed mint leaves and line it with crisp lettuce. Chop the nut meats and work them into the cream cheese, then roll into small balls. Have the cherries tossed lightly in the French dressing, then heap the cherries in the cavity of the pears. Surround with the cheese balls and serve cold.

A Tip or Two

STUFFED APPLES

Cut the center out of red apples, leaving the skin and a little meat, and fill with chopped ham and rice mixed with beaten egg. Bake until skin is soft to have a delectable dish.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties. By LAURA.

A HOBO PICNC.

Molly Brown had a half-dozen girls with whom she attended school and she had promised in the spring to give them a party at her father's cottage in the holidays, but she wanted to invite so many of the other boys and girls who lived near their cottage that it was going to fill their cottage too full, so her mother suggested a Hobo picnic.

Invitations were sent out in squares of heavy brown paper with rough edges and put in home-made envelopes to match. They held the following verse:

If you love the call of the open road
And the cheer of a care-free band,
Come join the jolly vagabonds,
With a stout stick in your hand.
We'll leave dull care behind us
As we hike through Hobo Land.

At the bottom was written Molly's address and the hour when they were to leave.

Molly with a girl friend had gone over the route to be taken that morning, blazed the trail, hid the kettle, coffee pot and bag of potatoes, and made the fire ready for operation.

When everyone had gathered they were presented with sticks, and a little square box tied in a red bandana. The handkerchiefs were knotted in hobo style and the sticks thrust through the knots and slung over the shoulder. Each one was presented too, with a little home-made map, written on birch-bark paper. For partners they were given sticks cut in short lengths, two of a size, which they matched for part of the hike.

In a short time they came to a turn where they saw a big circle with a cross through it, drawn on a post in yellow chalk. Here they stopped and consulted their maps, where they found a trail drawn and the same mark, which told them to go on until they reached another mark indicated —a red rectangle pierced by an arrow. This they soon found and followed more directions. At the next sign they changed partners and started again.

At a little country store along the way they saw a sign on one of the posts which told them that this was a sure place for a "hand-out." On entering they discovered that the man had an order to serve everyone with any kind of drink they chose. Molly, of course, having settled with him in the morning. Here partners were changed again. Arriving at the picnic ground, fires were lighted, potatoes buried in the coals, stew and coffee set on the stoves. While these were cooking, a game called "Hoboing Around the World," was played. Slips of paper were passed with the name of a different country written on each one, and after these were distributed little tally cards, with pencils attached. Every one had to tell of some fictitious experience he had while traveling in the country named, but the name of the place could never once be mentioned, nor the slightest hint given as to its geographical location.

The narrator had to tell of something seen or eaten, or of a vehicle journeyed in—anything that had to do with the customs of the country. The players wrote down on their tallies the name of each country as they guessed it. The girl who guessed the most names received a tomato can filled with molasses and the boy a chocolate pipe.

By this time the stew was steaming, the smell of coffee permeated the air, and the potatoes were done. Everyone untied his bundle and took out the box, containing bread-and-butter sandwiches, pickles, a piece of cake, and a paper plate, cup and spoon. Afterwards the dishes were "washed" by flinging them into the fire.

The changing of partners on the way, enabled everyone to meet each other and not get a dull person to walk with every time. But on the return trip, the sticks were thrown away and everyone was given the opportunity to go with whom they pleased.

Even you, who own and admire Hudson Super-Sixes of previous issue, can have no conception of the superlative finesse and quality expressed, both mechanically and in body beauty, of the great Hudsons of today.

The almost universal trend to the high-compression motor only serves to emphasize the exclusive method, advantages and results achieved by the Hudson Super-Six in this development.

While conventional types depend upon special, costlier fuels to minimize roughness, the Hudson design uses any gasoline, delivering the extra power with the elastic smoothness and torque of a steam engine.

Combined with the Super-Six principle this new invention makes Hudson the most powerful and economical car per pound weight in the world.

A single ride will explain why this has been the most enthusiastically accepted Hudson ever built.

COGNAWAGAS ADMINISTER DECISIVE TRIMMING TO LEADING RAYBESTOS TEAM

Winners Wallop Ball Hard in Seventh Innings Last Night

SCORE 11 TO 3.

Cogs. Tighten Hold on Second Place with Crescents in Third.

Cognawagas said it with wallops in the seventh last night, and handed Raybestos a real old-fashioned trimming to the tune of 11 to 3. The win was badly needed by the Cogs to protect their precarious hold on second place against the Crescents, and the victory gives them a breathing spell before the important games of next week.

The League standing now is:

	Won	Lost	To play
Raybestos	7	2	3
Cognawagas	4	4	4
Crescents	4	5	3
Bethany	2	6	4

Next Monday night, Crescents go to Bethany, Cogs meet Raybestos again on Wednesday, and on Friday, Raybestos go to Bethany, and Crescents and Cogs meet at Exhibition Park. Included in the four games to be played by Cogs and Bethany is the replay of a tie contest in Bethany.

The first frame of last night's contest brought Raybestos a lead of two runs, but the Cogs got to Masterson in the fourth when two singles, a pass and Nicholls' error, followed by Delahay's single into right, counted three tallies. The pitchers sailed along nicely for two more frames, but in the sixth, the war clubs swung into action, Delahaye and Crary batting twice. The Cogs scored six runs off Masterson, and two more off Maudsley, the relieving pitcher, who went in with one down.

Vannest opened the Rays' seventh by passing Moore. He threw Masterson out, and Hillier hit his fourth swat in as many times up. With Moore at third, Vannest played baseball and threw out Nicholls, Moore going in. Scully completed a hitless evening by popping to Crary.

With a play-off within his grasp, Manager Primeau inserted himself into the game as the first step in qualifying under the three-game ruling, and did likewise with Bud Weese, a utility fielder, and Gilmour, a young catcher.

PONTYPOOL TO MEET NESTLETON IN FINAL

Yelverton Loses both Games to Manvers' Team for Hickley Cup.

(Examiner Correspondence).

PONTYPOOL, July 21.—By taking both games in the semi-finals from Yelverton, the local ball team is waiting for the finals with Nestleton. The winners of the finals will have the Hickling Cup, which was won by Yelverton last year. In the home game here with Yelverton the local lads played errorless ball, each man having one or more chances which were handled without a slip. The batting was also good, Clarke having a home run with his team-mates contributing numerous doubles and singles. Nine men faced Clarke before one reached first, when O. Capstick got a lucky double. In endeavoring to steal third, Capstick sprained his ankle and had to retire from the game. Probably the largest crowd yet witnessed the game, the final score being 7-2 for the local team.

The line-up:

Pontypool: Mitchell, ss; Clarke, p; Chapman, 3b; Lowery, 2b; Taylor, cf; Payne, lf; Sayles, 1b; Bannon, c; Lowery, rf.

Yelverton: Capstick, 1b; Evans, cf; Heaslip, 2b; O. Capstick, 3b; McGill, c; Kerr, ss; Kerr, lf; Wilson, p; Wilson, rf; G. Heaslip, sub.

Umpires: Jones, plate; Chapman, bases.

CANUCKS LOSE FINAL GAME

Riley and Hickey Last Night Eliminated Canucks from Bantam Series.

SCORE 18 TO 14.

Riley and Hickey pulled a win last night from the Canucks in the Bantam Series of the City League and will now meet Graftons for the winner of the first half. The Riley and Hickey team won the second half of the schedule but the first resulted in a three corner tie between the Canucks, Riley and Hickey and Graftons. Last night's game put the Canucks out of the running for the championship.

The final score last night was 18 to 14 the largest of the season. Both teams clouted the ball hard and the fielders fell down badly in fielding the balls. The game was said to be one of the poorest of the season but the boys put a pep in it that showed that they were interested in baseball. Price started for the winner but in the fourth and fifth he was hit hard and was pulled with Jones finishing the game. Jones turned in a wonderful exhibition, striking out three of the four batters who faced him in the sixth and one in the seventh when he allowed two runs.

Heins started for the Canucks but was pounded hard in the second so he changed places with McIlwain who was on first. The relief pitcher got off to a poor start in the third when five runs were scored but after that he tightened down until the sixth when Heins went back in again and finished the game. Reynolds made the nicest catch of the evening when he took Burke's hit in the seventh. The only double play was pulled smartly in the fourth, when Reynolds caught Burke and O'Rourke was nabbed at second.

Price struck out 6, Jones 4, Heins 3 and McIlwain 7.

ROYALS LOSE TO READING

Keys Capture the Fourth Game of the Series 3-1.

ONLY FIVE HITS.

MONTREAL, Que., July 21 (Canadian Press).—Reading captured the fourth game of the series yesterday afternoon from the Royals, 8 to 4, to give them a 3 to 1 edge in the games played so far. Feeble pitching and erratic substitute infield practically handed the Keys an easy victory; Potts, a rookie recruit right-hander from the semi-pro ranks of Cincinnati chalking up his first victory of the season after two defeats.

Potts held the Royals to five scattered hits until the seventh, not one Montrealer reaching second base over that number of frames, but after being niched for two runs in the seventh and another brace in the eighth, finally gave way to Parks, who finished the contest in handy style.

Harrison's vs. Teco in Confederation Square on Monday night.

The Teco and North Enderssure made a real softball game of its in Confederation Square last night.

* * * * * * *

A three all score in a softball game is something we may have read about but seldom have we seen in Peterborough.

* * * * * * *

Riley and Hickey are due to win the City League Bantam Series. They put the Canucks well away last night and now meet the boys wearing the Grafton uniform.

* * * * * * *

The Canucks are sure a wonderful team of youngsters and next season should see them the Bantam Champions of Ontario.

* * * * * * *

The local champions of the Bantam league are scheduled to play against Oshawa. It is hoped they have better luck than when the two senior teams clash.

* * * * * * *

The Seniors are in Oshawa today. The game should have been played in this city but the Conservatives of that district are having a big convention there and they kind of thought they would like to see a game of baseball just as a recess between the speeches.

It is rumoured that Alex. Kay and Hon. R. B. Bennett will be the umpires.

* * * * * * *

The North Enders are scheduled to meet the Teco outfit on Monday night in Confederation Square. If it is anything like last night's game it sure will be a hum dinger.

* * * * * * *

Play had been called, and had not been officially resumed by Umpire-in-chief LeBarr last night when Harold Nicholls put a hidden ball on Cripps at third, and threw to second to double Davis who was running for Delahaye.

* * * * * * *

Hillier, the smart stepping short stop for the Rays, made a fine fielding play on Baker's smash in the sixth, and he collected three singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

* * * * * * *

Manager Davis of the Cogs running for Vannest in the seventh scored a run and duplicted the feat when he ran for Delahaye in the same frame, and for the second time.

Hillier and Nicholls hit the first ball pitched by Vannest in the first, for singles, and both scored. In the third, they also singled and Rays put three on with two down, but failed to get home.

PETHERICKS WIN SOFTBALL GAME

Rylstone Loses Fixture at Annual Garden Party.

SCORE 29-12.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, July 21 (Examiner Correspondence). — This community sent a large contingent of garden party fans to the annual event of the Rylstone Church on Herbert Spencer's lawn on Thursday evening. The crowd was large in spite of threatening rain and a most enjoyable time was spent. Northumberland Regiment Band furnished music for the occasion.

During the early part of the evening a softball game was played between Rylstone and Petherick's, the latter team winning by a score of 29 to 12. Rylstone started strong but the Petherick's boys tightened their defences and held the opposition practically scoreless until the last inning, when darkness made fielding difficult. Spencer, Granville Meiklejohn and Wellman pulled off circus catches for the Rylstone team. Grant Meiklejohn was temporarily knocked out in the last inning when one of H. Petherick's drives hit his neck. Due to darkness the Rylstone shortstop failed to see the ball until it was too late to dodge. H. Petherick and G. Petherick knocked homers in the sixth innings. Roy Fry, pitching his first game of the season, was very steady, and with a little tighter support would have turned in a nearly scoreless game. Grant Kerr, regular Petherick's pitcher, was ill, leaving the team somewhat short-handed.

The teams:

Rylstone.—M. Revoy, pitcher; R. McKeown, c; V. Irwin, 1b; W. Spencer, 2b; J. Lain, 3b; Grant Meiklejohn, ss; M. Finch, cf; C. Wellman, rf.

SENATORS WIN FROM DETROIT

Washington Comes from Behind to Defeat the Tigers 7 to 4.

BROWNS BEATEN

NEW YORK, July 21 (Canadian Press).—Getting back into hitting form, Washington came from behind to beat Detroit yesterday in the third game of the series, 7 to 4, at Washington. Sorrell forced home two runs, to let the Senators tie the second in the fifth and Van Gilder, who relieved him, was hit hard in the sixth and seventh, when five more runs were scored.

Five Straight

The Athletics won their fifth straight game and their third in a row from the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 0, at Philadelphia.

George Earnshaw fanned ten of the Browns and limited their sluggers to three scattered singles.

The Mack victory shattered Alvin Crowder's winning streak of ten consecutive games. Crowder was removed from the box in the seventh inning for a pinch hitter with the Athletics leading 1 to 0.

Relief Pitcher Dick Coffman was hit for three runs in the home half of the seventh stanza.

Jimmy Fox starred on the attack with a single and two doubles, figuring the scoring of three runs.

The Cleveland-Boston game was rained out.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Just to start this here letter on a bright note I'm going to give you a remark what was pulled by none other than Mister Charles Melvin Harrison, the second sacker of what was once our Central League ball club. Ses Mister Harrison shortly after the Belleville gang had kicked our lads twice in the slats without a comeback: "Well, we ain't been going so good, but anyway we're attraction enough to be booked for the Oshawa Tory picnic Sat. to draw a crowd for Hon. R. B. Bennett." So the happy thought for to-day, if any, is that if the boys ain't winning many ball games they're doing their bit to give the leader of the Opposition a audience. And mebbe they can get a tip from Mister Bennett about how to talk back to a umpire, because they ain't many folks in this favored land that can use more words than the bird what hopes to be Premier some day.

Well, Mac, our ball club has gone from worse to terrible. Last Sat. they wasted away a 6-run lead and let the Ponies come from behind to beat them, and Wed. they travelled down to Belleville and dropped 2 games in 1 hot afternoon. Only the fact that Mister Elliott's Deloro Smelters kindly consented to do the same thing at Oshawa prevented our talent from dropping clear through to the cellar. The Petes had beaten this Belleville gang three times in a row already this season, but to be truthful, Mac, they never was a moment in that 1st game Wed. when they looked to have a chance to make it 4 straight. And while that master strategian, Mister Shiner Johnston, had it all figgered out that Mister Gerow's help had ran round the bases so often in the opening engagement that they'd be all tuckered out in the 2nd, the Railroaders, as I call them, went on and copped that 1, two, although the lads put up a better fight.

Right now they is three races in this Central loop. Belleville and Oshawa is having 1 for 1st place, Kingston Ponies is having a race all by themselves with the .500 mark, and us and Deloro is battling to see which is going to keep outa the cellar. Mister Gerow's men look like the ultimate winners, although the Motorists keep hanging on and might outluck them yet, although, honest injun, they don't look to have anything like the ball club that Belleville has.

Outside of Dominion Day when they grabbed 2 games and played real ball, it ain't been a very rosy season for the Petes. When they get good pitching they can't make runs, and when they start to pile up counters the pitching collapses and the fielding cracks. However, a fighting finish even yet might make it a close run to the wire.

And bad as the Petes have been going, they ain't shown any worse form than some of the umpires. Down in Belleville Wed. this here Mister Colling muffed 3 decisions that did the Petes a lotta harm. They all miss them sometimes, of course, but 3 in 1 afternoon on plays that wasn't even close ain't exactly a help to the team what lost out on them.

And that's that. Perfect umpiring mightn't have mean any wins for Peterborough that day, but it woulda been of some assistance anyway.

Well, Mac, who do you pick for the big fight? Me, too, but that New Zealand Irishman is a tough baby at that.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

TECO AND NORTH-ENDERS PLAY TO THREE-ALL TIE

Best Game of Season was Played in Confederation Square Last Night.

ELEVEN INNINGS

Excellent Support is Given to Both Pitchers by Infielders.

The best softball game of the season and likely the best in the history of Peterborough was played in Confederation Park last night when Harrison's North Enders and Teco battled to a 3-3 tie after eleven innings of the most sensational ball witnessed in the park. Both teams were dead on and couldn't do much wrong, team work was displayed in its highest form. The game was far from being sloppy as a number of softball games are, there were less errors than in many hardball games and the scoring was not heavy showing the supreme form of the teams.

Harrison sprung a re-constructed line-up on the boys that worked like a machine and Nichols pitching his first game of ball this year turned in a nice card as well as the other new faces that appeared on the field. Teco also used a new pitcher in the shape of Dormer who uncorked a lot of stuff so the Northenders couldn't hit him very far.

Both infields and outfields worked like clock work and there was little to choose between the two teams. The spectators were kept on their toes all through the game and the number increased as word passed around that the best softball game of the season was in progress in Confederation Park.

White for Teco scored the first run in the 1st innings after reaching first on a bunt, the Harrisons were held scoreless while Board on a two base hit bought in by Edgar's single put the storemen two ahead with no score for Harrison's in the 4th. Dobson for Harrison's got safe on first by bunting and was brought home by Vinette's double scoring the Northender's first run which was not till the fifth. In the sixth with two down Smith walked for Harrison's and Calladine, the next man up, walloped a lovely homer to bring in two runs and put the Northenders one up. This ended their scoring. In the eighth Dormer singled safely and was brought in by Board's triple for Teco. Here Eaton's got a tough break when Board on third with no one out was hit by Edgar's fly and was called out, almost the loss of a sure run. Dormer's run tied the score and ended the scoring for the game. Board for Eatons was the only man to reach first and in the 11th Teco retired on three pitched balls. For Harrison in the 10th they went out in succession while in the 11th what looked like a break got Smith on first but he was left there.

Board was the outstanding man on the field, handling grounders and flies with wonderful judgement, as well as making a single, two doubles and a triple in five trips to the plate. The eighth was the most exciting innings when Scates made a wonderful circus catch of Walton's fly, followed by another circus catch by Saunder's in left field when he ran yards for Montgomery's fly.

Dorington, except for one error, played a whale of a game, and Smith on first turned in a fine card, catching the old fly by almost standing on his head and Walton at Short kept things moving with a lively line of chatter and caught drives that almost knocked him over, while Calladine got the one hit he had been looking for all summer so he said. He pulled the game from the fire, all for Harrison's.

Howie McDonald a new comer to Teco, a tall first bagger pulled them from the skies and halted many a runner at his bag. Edgar at short picked the many hot ones from the ground in his country and looked pretty nice, while Meagher at centre caught the odd fly that came out to him. The outfielders did not have much to do as the infielders snapped the old apple to first like true marksmen.

The first part of the game was remarkable for a softball fixture, Harrison's retiring in three innings by the one, two, three route, while the same road was travelled by in the second and third by the Teco boys. In the whole game there were never more than five men to the plate in one innings and Harrison's scored the greatest number of runs in the sixth when two crossed the plate. There were eight innings for Teco without a tally and nine for Harrison's. What a game the play off will be.

The line ups were:

Teco—White c., Dormer p., Board 3b., Edgar ss., Sexsmith 2b., McDonald 1b., Saunders lf., Meagher cf., Scales rf.

Harrison's—Dundas 3b., Dorington 2b., Smith 1b., Calladine lf., Nicols p., Dobson c., Vinette rf., Walton ss., Montgomery cf., French rf.

Score by innings:
Teco ..... 100 100 010 00—3
Harrison's ..... 000 012 000 00—3

Umpires—L. LeBarr at plate and Doc Green on the bases.

Home runs—Calladine.

Triples—Board.

Struck out — By Nichols 1; By Dormer 0.

This is surely proof that the game of softball is a fast and exciting game when played right, as the boys played it, and games like this would mean a crowded gallery and a real league. Watch the game to-night and see how they will try to rival last night's game.

CARDINALS WIN FOUR STRAIGHT FROM PHILLIES

Alexander is Batted out of the Box in Eighth Innings.

PIRATES LOSE.

Giants Regain Second Place by Beating Chicago at Home.

NEW YORK, July 21.—(Canadian Press).—After holding the Phillies to one hit in the eighth innings, Allexander was batted from the box as the Cardinals maintained their league leading pace by winning their fourth straight game, 5 to 4, at St. Louis yesterday.

Reinhardt relieved the veteran in the ninth when he allowed the invaders four runs. Williams' homer in the ninth also scored Leach after the latter singled to bring in Friberg and Thompson. The Cardinals found Ferguson for eight hits.

Pirates Lose

Brooklyn made it two straight over the Pirates by winning yesterday's game at Pittsburgh 8 to 7, thanks to some fine pitching by Watson Clark and a bit of fancy fielding on the part of Dave Bancroft. Clark, however, was unable to get official credit for the victory, which went to Jim Elliott.

Reds Win

"Red" Lucas held the Boston Brayes to eight hits while his teammates made eleven off Cantwell and Barnes to win the second game of the series four to three, at Cincinnati.

The Reds forged ahead in the fourth when Dressen walked and reached third on a sacrifice and an out and scored on Ford's single.

Boston scored two in the fifth on a walk, a sacrifice and a pair of hits, while the Reds bunched four hits in the sixth for two more runs.

Giants in Second

The Giants regained second place by defeating the Cubs, 4 to 3, at Chicago in the first game of the series. Home runs by Bill Terry and Jim Welsh kept the clan of McGraw in the running and enabled them to win with rallies in the eighth and ninth when three runs were scored. Faulkner's infield hit, an error and a sacrifice fly accounted for the winning marker.

Larry Benton, who has finished eighteen of his twenty starts this year, was removed for a pinch batsman in the seventh, and credit for the victory went to Jim Faulkner.

U. S. PLAYERS WIN SURPRISE

Italian Aces Beaten in Two Singles Matches this Afternoon.

AUTEUIL, France, July 21.—(Canadian Press).—The United States Davis Cup tennis team, minus Tilden, produced a great surprise today by winning the first two singles matches of the inter-zone final contest with Italy, both in straight sets.

After Francis T. Hunter had defeated Plaicido Gaslini in the first match by scores of 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, John Hennessey downed the Italian ace, Baron Humbert de Morpurgo, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Tennis drama of the highest sort was packed into the Hennessey-Morpurgo match as the young American, after a poor start, fought his way from behind in both the first and second sets to win them, and then swept the third and deciding contest at top speed.

The overwhelming victory of Hunter in the first match exceeded the hopes of his supporters, but it remained for Hennessey to provide the real upset of the day by downing de Morpurgo, who was heavily favored to win both his singles matches. The United States needs to win only one of the three remaining matches to qualify to meet France in the challenge round.

UNITED STATES BEATS ITALIANS

Bill Tilden is a Spectator for First Time in Nine Years.

WIN TWO.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor).

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, AUTUEIL, France, July 20 (A.P.).—With "Big Bill" Tilden a spectator for the first time in nine years, the United States Davis Cup tennis team defeated the formidable Italians in the first two matches of the interzone finals yesterday afternoon.

While a crowd of barely five hundred spectators looked on, "Smiling John" Hennessey scored a straight set triumph over Baron Humbert de Morpurge, 6—4, 7—5, 6—2, after Hunter, playing in the first Davis Cup singles match of his career smother Placide Caslini in the opening match with the loss of only two games. The scores were 6—1, 6—1, 6—0.

The absence of Big Bill's racquet robbed the opening day of some expected thrills, but did not prevent the United States players from all but extinguishing Italy's hopes of reaching the challenge round next week for the first time.

The result of yesterday's play necessitates only one additional victory to clinch the series for the United States players and earn the right to play the French holders of the cup.

The solemn-faced Tilden, occupying a seat in the front row of the stands, was among the first to congratulate Hunter after his victory and also Hennessey who displayed brilliant court craft and a baffling chang of pace in defeating the powerfully built Baron in the most spectacular match of the day.

Whereas Hunter, driving with beautiful precision, smothered Gaslini in a one-sided and colorless match, Hennessey and the Baron gave the gallery thrills.

The titled Italian led in the first set, four to two, and in the second set, 5 to 3, where he was three times within one point of taking the set but lacked the finishing punch to capitalize each advantage.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR LOCAL BOY

Peterborough County Young Man to be Among Beneficiaries of Massey Fund.

FOR O.A.C. COURSE

TORONTO, July 21.—A Peterborough County young man will receive one of the twenty-four scholarships at the Ontario Agricultural College to be granted this year from the Massey Fund, to young men from as many different counties of Ontario, who will swell the enrolment at the Fall term.

This fund was placed by the Massey Estate at disposal of the college some years ago, for the benefit of students. It has reached proportions in excess of requirements for loans, the original purpose of the fund, and there is approximately $1,200 available for other purposes. It was felt that the money might properly be used as a scholarship fund, to assist students in taking a course at the college. Divided into scholarships of $50 a year, it is made available to 24 students, first-year only, and offered for students entering the associate two-year course.

As there are 40 counties and districts in the province, and only 24 scholarships available, it was decided to offer these to such counties as would be willing to duplicate the amount by grants from the county council of $50 per year for the purpose, the scholarships to be available to any boy who comply with the admission conditions of the O.A.C., and who have attended either a short course or taken agriculture in a high school.

The selection of the boys will be made by a committee in each county composed of the agricultural representative, the warden and one other to be named by these two. Applications are to be invited and selection made by means of written examination or such other method as the members of the committee consider the circumstances require.

In charge of general administration of the plan is a committee composed of W. B. Roadhouse, Deputy Minister; Principal Reynolds, O.A.C.; R. Se Duncan, director of representative services; W. D. Whitelock, assistant; W. P. MacDonald, Lambton, and W. H. Porter, London, representing the alumni.

Mr. Duncan reports that already 20 counties have voted their contribution of $50 toward the scholarship fund. These are Carleton, Durham, Elgin, Essex, Frontenac, Haldimand, Halton, Huron, Kent, Lennox and Addington, Middlesex, Norfolk, Northumberland, Ontario, Peterboro, Prescott and Russell, Simcoe North and Simcoe South, Victoria and Welland.

ROYAL CANADIAN SHOW COMING HERE

The Royal Canadians are traveling in their own special ten-car train this year, in keeping with the policy of the management which insists upon the employment of most modern equipment possible to obtain. It will arrive in Peterborough to-morrow.

Canada's premier carnival is coming to Peterborough under the personal supervision of Harry Lottridge, the owner, and this year it is larger and better than ever before. "I want the public to know that we have spared no effort in our attempt to make the Royal Canadian Shows, the best in Canada," Mr. Lottridge stated during a recent interview. "We may not have the biggest, but I am confident that we have the best and cleanest organization playing the Dominion," he continued. "We are bringing three new rides, six shows of the highest class, and about thirty concessions, and it is a pleasure for me to be able to assure the people of Peterborough that every member of our organization is either personally known to me, or comes to us bearing unquestionable recommendations. I have personally reviewed every show before opening, and offer them to the public with a feeling of confidence, for I know them to be shows of merit and absolutely clean. We extend a special invitation to the women and children to visit us. Our employees are acquainted with our policy of courteous and respectful treatment, and have been instructed accordingly. We will not tolerate discourtesy."

When asked about the concessions carried this year, Mr. Lottridge said "We are carrying a number of them new to Ontario, and for this reason I wish to point out that each and everyone of them has been carefully examined by us, and that the police department in every city we play is invited to examine any concession we carry. We have nothing which is looked upon with disfavor, by the most conscientious critic and gambling devices have no place on our grounds."

Dr. Haden Guest, who resigned from the British Labor party and his seat at Labor representatives of North Southwark, in the House of Commons last year has written to Premier Baldwin announcing his intention of joining the Conservative party in consequence of a tour he made of Canada, Australia and South Africa, which he declares, reinforced his belief in the future of the empire as a political unit and as a co-operating economic organization. He also states he is confirmed in his view that the Labor party is leading its members to a side track which is surrounded by political, social and economic difficulties.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

LON CHANEY IN "THE BIG CITY"

The ugly character actor who has made such a reputation for himself in pictures of a varied type is the hero of "The Big City," an extremely interesting picture which forms the feature at the Capitol Theatre for the last two days of this week. He holds the stage in his own peculiar fashion, with his grim face and his awkward mannerisms and the quality of forceful wickedness that he injects into his characterizations.

But "Chuck Collins" does not stay wicked. A limpid-eyed lady changes his viewpoint and he repents of evil ways, only to find that his charmer has turned to another man. However, he consoles himself in suitable fashion, and the picture ends just a little more pleasantly for the main actor than most of the productions in which Lon Chaney appears. His role of sorrowful isolation is not paramount in "The Big City" and he allows himself a cheerful finale for once.

Some very entertaining sidelights of the underworld of a huge city are afforded by this picture, which opens with a scene in a night club with the hard-faced "Tennessee" as the hostess. Here are Red Watson, a smooth-faced gang leader, with his assistants, and here comes "Chuck Collins," proprietor of the "Black Bottom Cabaret," of the Harlem district. In the course of swift-moving events, a hold-up of the patrons is engineered by Red Watson, but fails. Chuck double-crosses him and gets away with the loot.

Then comes "Miss Helen's" innocent-appearing dressmaking shop, where Chuck purchases costumes for his cabaret girls and where the assistant is the innocent-faced "Sunshine" with wide eyes and a religious disposition. Chuck is under suspicion and is tracked by the detectives to his Harlem hangout. He gets away and, in a spectacular episode, recovers the jewelery from Red Watson, who has held him up for it some time previous. "Miss Helen," incited by greed and jealousy, has double-crossed Chuck and Watson reaps the benefit.

The finale is quite unexpected and as entertaining as the rest of the picture, which shows the strong actor in some of his best work. The supporting cast is exceptionally good. Betty Cooper enacts the part of "Miss Helen," Marceline Day is the wide-eyed "Sunshine" and James Murray is Curly, Chuck's lieutenant and the admirer of "Sunshine."

The comedy is an uproarious affair with "Our Gang" getting a lot of fun out of an amateur circus that takes to drink and mixes things up considerably for itself and its watchers.—Jeanette.

DOLORES COSTELLO IN "GLORIOUS BETSY" WITH CONRAD NAGEL, AND AN ALL STAR CAST COMING TO THE CAPITOL ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

"Glorious Betsy" the attraction at the Capitol for Monday and Tuesday is another directorial triumph for Alan Crosland, the man who directed "Don Juan," "When a Man Loves," "Old San Francisco" and "The Jazz Singer."

"Glorious Betsy" is the glamorous and glittering love story of Betsy Patterson, Belle of Baltimore and Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor Napoleon. The celebrated play of Rida Johnson Young is the basis for the story which was scenarized by Anthony Coldeway.

Dolore Costello is ideally cast as the gentle beauty of the old South, who marries Napoleon's brother, goes with him to France, and is sent back to America by the Little Corporal, in order that he may marry his brother to royalty. Never has the exquisite delicacy of this loveliest of stars been so appealing as in the part of "Glorious Betsy."

Conrad Nagel plays Jerome, and a manly and captivating figure he makes, whether defending Betsy's honor with the sword, defying his mighty brother's edict, or braving all dangers in order to return to the woman who is the queen of his heart and the mother of his son.

Other notable members of the cast are Pasquale Amato who plays the part of Napoleon, John Miljan, Marc MacDermott, Betty Blythe, Michael Vavitch, Andre de Segurola, Paul Panzer and Clarissa Selwynne.

"Glorious Betsy" is the greatest of all historic love stories, and Warner Bros. have spared no expense in making the spectacular production above criticism. It is meeting with enthusiastic praise wherever shown. Most Beautiful Picture! Most Beautiful Star!

Girder To Replace 25-Foot Pine Beam

"What is now something of the past, a reminder of the times when the country around here was wild and th e trees grew tall and straight, was seen on George Street in front of the new Metropolitan Stores. A real big stick of timber was lying on the sidewalk attracting the notice of the many passers-by. A long beam of pine, about 25 feet in length, nearly 2 feet square, was taken from the old store fronts. It was all in one huge piece and for many years did the work that the modern steel girder now does.

Comments The Examiner heard on this piece of lumber were: "If you would put that on your shoulder and carry it to the office you would have done a day's work." "What a fine bunch of tooth picks that would make," said one observer to the other. "Let's go into the business." "British Columbia is the only place they cut them so big now — it must have been quite a while since that was cut." "There was more romance attached to that piece of wood than the new steel beams they are putting up nowadays."

OUR THIRD SET OF TEETH.

There were teeth before there were dentists—but there were also tooth aches. Since a tooth pain is about as agonizing a thing as one can feel, various races in the past have found means of extracting the teeth. Tongs or pincers were used by some of them for this purpose, but the original method was to hammer the tooth loose with a mallet and crude bone maul so that it could be pulled out with the fingers. In some countries, various prayer methods were used in cases of tooth ache, and even yet in Catholic territories, St. Appolonia is the patron Saint of tooth ache.

The Chinese have a very effective method of curing tooth ache by puncturing the gum under the aching tooth and inserting capsicum or some other counter-irritant into the wound. This is still a useful remedy. You should have a small vial of tincture of capsicum in your home, and the next time you have a tooth ache, just dip a small piece of cotton on the end of a toothpick into the capsicum and then place the cotton in the cavity of the tooth. This will usually give immediate relief. Be careful not to get any of the capsicum on the tongue, however, since it is manufactured out of the same kind of hot stuff as Tabasco sauce.

The art of manufacturing false teeth is not a new one, since the Eskimo and a few other primitive races manufactured false teeth by carving them out of tusks, hard bones, and horns of various animals.

Some aborigines have a very painful and useless custom of mutilating the teeth by knocking out or filing down to a point some of their front teeth. This is considered a proof of their courage and an enhancement of their beauty. At least there may be some truth in the first statement.

There are said to have been several individuals who grew a third set of teeth, but most of us will have to be satisfied with our third set in the way the dentists make them.

The dentists have developed a wonderful skill in advancing their profession. It may be interesting to my readers to know that many dentists are referring their patients to my menus for keeping their teeth in good condition. They are realizing that teeth may be destroyed as much by acidosis as by uncleanliness, and that the daily use of the toothbrush will not magically brush away the cause of tooth decay when the teeth require special foods containing mineral elements for their nourishment.

In treating pyorrhea, it is advisable that a patient go on an orange juice fast for a few days to alkalinize the blood and then to the dentist for local treatments. If the patient will then follow a correctly combined diet during the course of his dental treatments, he is sure to get more permanent results.

Do not have teeth pulled unless absolutely necessary. Children should be encouraged to chew whole raw vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, cucumbers, beets and celery. The fibers of these vegetables will require enough chewing to strengthen the teeth and pretty nearly keep them clean. And, most important, these vegetables will supply the elements to maintain the teeth's nourishment.

The foods that are best suited for tooth development are: spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, celery, beets and beet greens, blackberries, figs, asparagus, cucumbers, dandelions, strawberries, water cress, cabbage, turnips, milk, rutabagas, pine nuts and cottage cheese.

Questions and Answers.

Question—Anxious writes: "Please tell me is it possible for a person to have pernicious anemia and high blood pressure at the same time? What would be the cure?"

Answer: Pernicious anemia and high blood pressure seldom go together, but it is quite common to see secondary anemia with arterial hypertension. Diet is the most prominent factor in the treatment of any of these conditions, but I would have to know more about the particular case in question before it would be wise to give any definite advice.

Question—Mother writes: "My baby two years old has 15 teeth, but there are two milk teeth that will not come through. Why is that, and should the gums be lanced?"

Answer: Do not be too quick to lance the gums. The full set of milk teeth, 28 in all, does not come through until the child is about three years of age. If you will give the baby plenty of greens and milk he will be sure to develop a good set of teeth.

Question—Reader asks: "Can a dropped stomach be cured, and how?"

Answer: A prolapsed stomach can always be raised to its proper position through taking the "setting-up" exercises. If any adhesions exist which are holding the stomach down, these must be broken loose first by manipulative treatment.

Question—Mrs. H. G. writes: "I read your article in which you stated that asthma could be cured by diet. Will you kindly tell me what the diet is?"

Answer: The answer to your question is too long to be printed in this column. If you will send me a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will be glad to send you full instructions.

PETERBOROUGH MEN LEADERS OF DEAF

Elected to Office at Annual Meeting of Ontario Association.

Jack Crough of Windsor, formerly of Peterborough, was elected secretary of the Ontario Deaf Association at the annual meeting held recently in Toronto. Other officers were: President, Harry Grooms of Toronto; vice-president, Norman Gleadow of Hamilton, and treasurer, C. A. Ryan of Woodstock. A. S. Waggoner, immediate past president, was added to the directorate, with A. H. Cowan, B.A., of London and John T. Shilton, B.A., Managing Director of the "Imperial Press," Toronto. Dr. C. B. Coughlin, formerly of Peterborough, now superintendent of the Ontario School for Deaf, Belleville, was re-elected honorary patron and G. Stewart, Editor of The Deaf Canadian, Belleville, honorary president. John T. Shilton, B.A., together with R. McBrien, B.Sc., of Peterborough was made chairman of the Board of the Home for the Aged, and Infirm Deaf, which it was voted by acclamation to proceed with in the near future.

Peterborough men present were R. McBrien, B.Sc., W. O'Rourke, the Meyette brothers and C. Fontaine. At the annual field day the Peterborough men won a number of events.

To Meet in Belleville.

It was decided to hold the meeting of 1930 in Belleville.

Resolutions were adopted whereby the association will approach the authorities to have both the oral and sign language taught to deaf children; to have it made a penal offence for those who pretend to be deaf to seek alms, and to have the municipal officials prosecute imposters who by claiming to be deaf are granted pedlers' licenses. The society endorsed the aims and purposes of the Canadian Society and urged the members to take advantage of the fraternal and insurance benefits. It was pointed out that there is no necessity for soliciting alms by deaf people, all having a worthy means of livelihood. Many are employed in the Civil Service and in professions and trades, including the learned professions, architecture, printing, wood-carving, toolmaking machine shops, and other factories.

Robert McBrien, B.Sc., Peterborough, spoke on the place the deaf person holds in the commercial and manufacturing life of the Dominion. He suggested means of overcoming handicaps and advocated vocational education, such as that in England.

Canada Country of the Future.

Dr. C. B. Coughlin, superintendent of the Belleville School for the Deaf, expressed his pride in the deaf of Ontario and the former students of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and was applauded when he noted that there was not a deaf man in Toronto who had not steady work and that 75 per cent of them own their own homes. Canada, he agreed with Babson, is the country of the future.

Dr. Coughlin expressed the hope that the Dominion Government would join with the Provincial Government in the establishment of a High School for the Deaf, in Belleville, thereby making it a Dominion institution, where the deaf from all over could get secondary education of the highest standard.

She confesses that although she has never cut her hair she arranges it to simulate a bob. She is cast for a comedy role this autumn in a very modern piece by Barrie Connors called "Girl Trouble." Evangelist In Revolt At "Petticoat" Reign

OMAHA. Neb., July 21.—His aversion to the "petticoat" rule of Aimee Semple McPherson's Four Square gospel has caused Evangelist H. A. Chaney to leave the church. For two months he has been pastor of the Gospel Lighthouse here.

With him went his wife, a former "girl disciple of Aimee."

"The petticoat rule" is Chaney's challenge to the followers of Aimee. he said Monday. "God never intended that a woman should run a church," he declared.

Mrs. Chaney also had a personal complaint. Mrs. McPherson, she said, demands that all girl disciples imitate her actions, dress and speech.

The Answer to the Burning Question

GENEROUS IMMIGRATION POLICY URGED BY LAMB

Salvation Army Commissioner Believes Way is Left Open.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Australia, He Claims, Wishes to Broaden Out Regards Empire Settlement.

LONDON, July 21. — (Canadian Press).—Now that the Canadian Parliamentary Immigration Committee has completed its inquiry, writes Commissioner David Lamb in the Daily Telegraph, Premier Mackenzie King has a great opportunity to lift Canadian immigration and settlement on to a high level away from consideration of question of detail, to a bold, generous and comprehensive policy born of foresight and vision. "Such a policy is not only necessary in Canada but in the whole Empire," he says.

In Australia, Commissioner Lamb continues, there is evidence of an increasing desire to "broaden out" on the subject of Empire settlement, and recognition of the countries while vast rich areas remain undeveloped; and there is an inclination to take risks to help the Mother Country. When the mission to Australia appointed by the British Government, which shortly leaves England, arrives in Australia, it will probably find that the work of the Federal Migration and Development Commission has prepared the ground for a forward move, "and we may reasonably look for a big and an early move to the Southern Continent."

Commissioner Lamb asks: "What is this country going to do? The national burden, unemployment presses hardly on industry and people here. If we have spent $3,500,000,000 on nothing, surely we can contemplate undertaking a like expenditure from which there might be a return, even if that return were indirect. The question ere this should have been lifted out of politics.

"This unproductive expenditure must be ever present in the minds of our kinsmen overseas, and as there appears to be a little selfishness in their negotiations, that need be no reason for niggardliness on our part. Conservatives always had the reputation of being Imperialists. What a great opportunity presents itself to the present Government! Liberals appear to maintain their historic lukewarmness in the matter of emigration. Labor is no longer openly hostile; indeed some of the Labor statesmen see the practical and political possibilities of a big Empire constructive policy. Anyhow, no party can escape or evade the reproach of a 'fateful million' who persist on the 'live' registers of the unemployed."

ILLICIT STILL IS DESTROYED

WOMAN AND SON KILLED AT CAMPBELLFORD

YOUNG MAN DROWNED IN LILY LAKE

Two Comrades Try In Vain To Rescue Fred Dixon Sunday

Harvey Township Youth Visiting in Smith Steps Off Ledge Into Deep Water—Physician Says Asphyxiation Proximate Cause of Death.

F. STEINKRAUSS AND J. ROWLAND ATTEMPT TO AVERT SUNDAY AFTERNOON TRAGEDY

Body Recovered in Less Than an Hour and Dr. O'Brien Pronounces Life Extinct—One Companion Endangered in Rescue Effort.

On Saturday the firemen finished a new set of grappling irons and placed them in readiness for the next call. Fred Dixon, a C.N.R. section hand, a young man twenty-one years of age, went about his regular duties. Some miles away from his home and from the irons that waited at the Fire Hall, Lily Lake basked and dimpled in the sunshine of a fine July day. Yesterday, the lake claimed its victim and the irons came into use.

Fred Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon, of Harvey Township, about five miles from Lakehurst, was bathing in Lily Lake yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, accompanied by six young men companions. He was unable to swim, and was merely wading about in the water, when it is thought he stepped into one of the holes with which the bottom of the small lake is honeycombed. He disappeared from view, and Jack Rowland, 14, went to his assistance, and was pulled under. William Steinkrauss, another of the party, also joined in the rescue attempt, and succeeded in pulling Rowland to the surface again, but they were unable to get Dixon.

Others of his companions, becoming alarmed, sent a hurried call for a physician. Dr. J. M. O'Brien responded immediately and members of the Fire and Police Departments rushed to the scene with the pulmotor and grappling hooks. After ten minutes, the body was recovered, having been in the water about forty-five minutes.

No Water in Lungs

A peculiar circumstance was the fact that there was very little water in the lungs and Dr. O'Brien concluded that death resulted practically from asphyxiation, rather than drowning. The victim, the pupils of whose eyes were dilated in extreme terror, probably held his breath instinctively on finding himself under water and then was unable to extricate himself in time from the hole in which he had sunk. The act of holding his breath for a considerable length of time prevented much water from being drawn into the lungs.

The body was brought into town in Belleghem's hearse, requisitioned on account of the ambulance being laid up for repairs. An automobile belonging to the deceased was removed by the police.

Companions of the victim were Hector Latchford of Best's Station, Jack Rowland of the second line of Smith township, W. C. Steinkrauss of R. R. No. 2, Keith Darrah, Fred Darrah and Everett Tully, of the second line of Smith. A sister, Miss May Dixon, is resident in the city, where she is employed by T. Flannery, London street.

Artificial Lake

Lily Lake, which is really more like a large pond than a lake, is situated about five miles from the centre of the city, and about two miles from Jackson Park. In clear sunlight, it is peaceful and calm, but night brings a brooding shadow to this little body of water, which is probably artificial in essence, as it covers the site of an abandoned marl pit to the edge of which a spurline from the Canada Cement Company of Lakefield was run up to about ten years ago. It is fringed with sharply-shelving banks and low timber of the muskeg variety. At the north end, a square bank shows the place where the old marl pit had its entrance and a tiny point of land jutting out into the water forms a little bay at this side. It was in making his way across the little bay that young Dixon stepped into one of the old pit holes and met his death.

Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield investigated, but has not yet announced whether there will be an inquest.

SWIMMER SINKS

WINDSOR, July 22.—Attempts at rescue made futile by the strong current of the Detroit River, Saturday night, Joseph Inchley, 23 years old, 823 Hall Avenue, Windsor, drowned just before dark when seized with cramps.

Inchley and a party of friends were swimming off the Thomas Inn dock in Riverside. He was a good swimmer, relatives say, and they believe he was seized with cramps, although the river here is treacherous, and there is believed to be an undertow.

Zappi Wearing Malmgren's Clothes When Picked Up By Crew of Krassin, Says Dispatch From Correspondent On Vessel.

INTERNATIONAL INVESTIGATION PROPOSED.

Russian Pilot's Report of Seeing Three Figures On Ice, One Apparently Dead, Adds To Mystery — Krassin's Crew Deeply Interested.

MOSCOW, July 23 (Canadian Press). — Intense interest in the exact fate of Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish meterologist on the Italia expedition, has been stirred in Moscow by various reports and rumors as to the circumstances surrounding the rescue of Captains Alberto Mariano and Fillipo Zappi, his companions on the trek to land beginning on May 30.

The newspaper Verchernaya Moskva this morning published a despatch from its correspondent aboard the rescue ship Krassin mentioning rumors concerning the organization of an International Commission to investigate the circumstances among the rescued men. The mystery surrounding the Swedish scientist's death also had stirred the crew of the Krassin deeply, the despatch said.

The correspondent included among the various circumstances needing explanation the fact that Captain Zappi, in addition to his own clothes, wore Dr. Malmgren's suit. A despatch from the correspondent of the Tass News Agency also said that when Captain Zappi was rescued he had clothes as well as a compass belonging to Malmgren.

The original report of Pilot Chukhnovsky, Russian flier attached to the Krassin, who first discovered the Zappi party, that he saw three figures, one lying down apparently dead, is the subject of further discussion.

3 KILLED OVER WEEK-END.

7 INJURED OVER WEEK-END.

Peterborough district was hard hit by accidents since Saturday. Two persons were killed by falling from a railway bridge at Campbellford; a young man was drowned in Lily Lake; an automobile passenger was injured on Crescent Street; a young lady and a little girl were injured in a car accident on Water Street; a New York visitor was injured on the highway when the windshield of his car was shattered; a little boy was knocked from his bicycle at George and Hunter; and a lady was injured in a highway collision.

Two Fall Thirty Feet From Railway Bridge Escaping From Train

Mrs. James Jacobs and Boy of Seven Are Fatally Injured When They Strike Concrete of Campbellford Road—Live Several Hours After Accident.

OTHER CHILDREN ESCAPE AND VICTIMS WERE ONLY FORTY-FIVE FEET FROM BRIDGE'S END

Heavily-Loaded C.N.R. Train Could Have Stopped if Engineer Had Had Another Ten Feet — Brakes Applied Before Cars Had Passed the Station.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23.—Screaming brakes that caused the fire to fly from the wheels of a thirty-seven car freight train bound east through Campbellford and the desperate signals of the man at the throttle to the persons endangered to retreat, did not succeed in saving the lives of a mother and her seven-year-old when they were crossing the railway bridge over the Trent River and Grand Road at ten minutes to six on Saturday night. Mother and son disappeared over the edge of the bridge and crashed to the concrete pavement thirty feet below a few seconds before the heavy train came to a halt practically at the spot where they had last stood on the bridge.

Neighbors and bystanders rushed to the scene and medical attention was immediately forthcoming. No hope for the child's life was entertained, but it was thought that the mother might recover from her injuries. However, the mother died about four o'clock on Sunday morning and the son a few minutes later. The town generally is in mourning for the loss of a highly respected citizen, a mother of four small children, and the untimely death of a seven-year-old boy. They were the wife and son of one of the business men of the town and one of its most highly respected citizens.

Taking Short Cut.

Mrs. John Jacobs, 28, with her oldest child, Lloyd, a boy of seven years, and two small children of a friend had gone earlier in the day to what is locally and generally known as Ferris's Woods to pick berries. With her pails full of berries, which were for winter preserves, Mrs. Jacobs and the children, it appears, took a short cut across the railroad bridge. At what point on the bridge she was when she first noticed the train will never be known but the two children which were not her own managed to gain the west end in safety. Mrs. Jacobs and her son were not as fortunate, and when approximately forty-five feet from safety, disappeared over the edge and fell to the concrete street, about thirty feet below. Both bodies were badly broken and bruised by the fall, sustaining head injuries which are generally believed to be the cause of their deaths.

The child was at once removed to the offices of Dr. E. J. Free, and the mother was taken to her home in Bennett's invalid coach. Everything that medical skill could command was called upon to save the lives of

MEMORIAL CROSS UNVEILED FOR BALSAM LAKE VICTIMS

Stands in Plot Where Seven of Eleven Boys Are Buried in Toronto.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Friends of Raymond Allen, of Peterborough Present at Ceremony Yesterday.

TORONTO, July 23.—Perpetuating the memory of eleven members of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew, who lost their lives in Balsam Lake on July 20, 1926, when their war canoe capsized, a memorial cross was unveiled and dedicated yesterday afternoon in St. Jame's Cemetery, over the graves of seven of the victims. Simple in design, yet dignified in appearance, the cross is made of Canadian grey granite, and rises 11 feet from a substantial base, with a suggestion of waves at the bottom.

The service of dedication, with Rev. Canon Plumptre of St. Jame's Cathedral in charge, was very impressive throughout. It was opened with the reverent singing of the Brotherhood hymn, "Jesus calls us o'er the tumult," followed by special prayers, and the singing of the hymn, "O God, our help in ages past."

Fitting Address

A fitting address was delivered by Canon Plumptre. He spoke feelingly of the eleven lads, who, utilizing their holidays better to equip themselves for furthering the work of the Church, had met instead tragic deaths. The canon made special reference to R. Shea-Butcher, who, coming from a humble home in Cuddlesdon, England, which the speaker had inspected during his recent trip abroad, had made himself a great influence among the youth of this city.

Canon Plumptre declared that the memorial suggested three lessons: "In the first place, there is the note of rejoicing," he said. "We are glad that we have been able to erect this beautiful memorial and

WOMAN HURT IN COLLISION ON HIGHWAY

Mrs. Leurs Injured When Two Cars Crash When One Turns to Left.

CARS DAMAGED.

A heavy coach type car belonging to Mrs. Hartshorn of Chemong Park collided with the lighter touring car belonging to Mr. Leurs as it was about to make a left turn off the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway one and one-half miles north of Centreville, last night about nine-thirty.

Both cars were coming north towards Peterborough. Mr. Nicols, the driver of the heavier car, was about to pass the other car when it turned in front of him. He claims he did not have time to blow his horn and did his best to avoid a crash, but it was too late. Mr. Leurs, the driver of the lighter car, stated that he looked behind, put out his hand, and stopped his car before proceeding across the road and saw the larger car behind, but believed that it was so far up the road they could get across before it. They had just pulled over to the left hand side of the road when they were hit. Nicols said that he was not so far behind and was about to pass when the lighter car turned in front of him. The reason he was on the wrong side of the road was because of his intention to pass.

Mrs. Leurs, who was in the car with her husband, was injured in the crash. The extent of her injuries was unknown last night, but there were serious enough to make it necessary for her to be taken home. Mrs. Hartshorn, Miss Isabel Oke, another woman, and Otto Lederac in the larger car were not injured.

The touring car was forced into the ditch and the right rear wheel, the rear axle, and the right side were badly damaged. The larger car received damages about the right front wheel, fender, and axle.

Traffic Officer Hugh Wilson appeared on the scene and handled the case. Mr. and Mrs. Leurs were returning from an Orange service at Centreville, and he was still in his regalia at the time of the crash.

MAKE TWELVE SETS OF IRONS

Firemen Will Distribute Dragging Apparatus Around City.

BETTER THAN HOOKS.

The new grappling bar which was used for the first time in the drowning accident at Lily Lake yesterday, Fire Chief Gimblett told The Examiner, was very effective. This iron bar is 10 feet long, with 10 gaff hooks placed 10 inches apart, with a 30-foot rope on each end. This gives a ten-foot drag when used in the water, which is more effective than the old style hook, which is big and covers only a small area in water. The body yesterday was recovered the first time the hook was lowered into the lake, which demonstrated the greater effectiveness. There will be twelve of these irons made. Three will be placed at the Police Station, three will be left at the Fire Department, and the remainder will be placed in strategic positions throughout the city to be ready at an instant's notice.

BOAT IS BURNED TO WATER LINE

Two Young Men Have Narrow Escape at Chemong Lake.

TAKE REFUGE IN CANOE.

Jim Matthews and Graham Eastwood, two prominent young Peterborough men had a narrow escape from being burned to death or from drowning at Chemong Park Sunday afternoon about three o'clock, when the motor boat in which they were riding burst into flame and forced them to leave the craft.

They were making preparations to land opposite the park in order to take on gas before starting on a picnic. When they were about two hundred yards from shore there was a sharp backfire that went from the carburetor under the engine, causing an outburst of flames which were so near the gas tank that no time was lost in leaving the ship. A canoe was being towed behind the motor boat and the two took refuge in this frail craft while their power boat continued to burn merrily. There was no attempt made to try and save it as the proximity of the gas tank made them afraid of an explosion that might cause death or serious injury to either or both of them.

They made sore safely but an onshore wind blew the blazing craft toward the shore where a great number of curious spectators had gathered to witness the spectacle of a burning motor boat. The craft blazed for nearly an hour, during which time the two survivors spent much energy in keeping the boat off the shore and in keeping the spectators out of the danger line. Fortunately for all around no explosion resulted but the boat was a total loss.

The boat, which was of the runabout type, worth $200, twenty-two feet in length and powered by a four cylinder engine, burned to the water line and sank within an hour, leaving nothing of value to be salvaged.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Miss Johnston Drives Her Car Against Tree To Save Girl.

ON WATER STREET.

Swerving to avoid striking six-year old Dorothy Nicholls, who was crossing from the west to the east side of Water street at seven o'clock last night, near the Sanitary Ice Plant, Miss V. E. Johnston, of Lakefield, drove her car against a tree on the east side of the street, only to have the machine rebound and injure the little girl, knocking her down. Dr. J. M. O'Brien, who was summoned, treated the child, whose injuries were confined to minor body bruises anud scratches, and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital the other occupant of the car, Miss Mary Johnston, whose face was cut by broken glass.

Miss Johnston was proceeding north on Water street at a moderate rate of speed when she noticed the child and turned her car sharply. The machine was somewhat damaged.

The little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nicholls, of 835 Water street.

Apartment House Free To One Who Moves It

NEW YORK, July 23.—A five-story apartment house valued at $150,000 on Hudson Boulevard, Jersey City, is offered free to any one who will move it from its present site before Sept. 1. The apartment is on the boulevard just south of Journal Square, on part of the site to be used for the Carteret Biltmore Hotel. Demolishing the building would involve considerable expense, it was reported by the Board of Directors at a meeting this week, and the plan of giving the building away was adopted.

William Hamilton Foundry Pattern Shop Asked To Sell Pattern For Man's Shirt

Telephone work on the various switch boards installed in the large plants of the city often proves very interesting and amusing, but one of the most humorous was received at The William Hamilton Plant. As is well known, the plant has a pattern shop to make castings. One lady hearing of the pattern plant and not knowing that it was for such work, as her experience with patterns had been of the lighter line such as are used for dress and clothing, anxiously telephoned the shop to see if she could get a pattern in order to make her husband a shirt.

ITALIAN OFFICIALS TO CONDUCT INQUIRY INTO ITALIA'S VOYAGE

Full Investigation Will Be Made When Rescue Ends, Premier Says.

RESENTS CRITICISM.

Asks That Judgment On Conduct of Flight Be Withheld Until "Drama" Ends.

ROME, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mussolini told the council of ministers to-day that a complete investigation into all phases of the Italia disaster would be made by Italy and that any other proposed investigation would be immediately rejected. He stated that only when all humanly possible researches had been accomplished for finding the still missing group, a "highly objective, normal inquiry will be undertaken on the development of the enterprise, the relief operations, and all phases of this tragedy which has shaken the world."

Such an inquiry, the Premier stressed, "will naturally be made in Italy and by Italian authorities. Any other hypothesis is absurb and offensive and whatever it might be or wherever the proposition came from, it would immediately be rejected.

The premier protested against "the anti-human, anti-Italian wave which has struck the participants in the unfortunate enterprise" of the dirigible Italia.

The premier declared that definite judgment on Polar expedition must wait until the "drama arrived at its epilogue," but that meanwhile he wanted to protest against unfair judgments against the men involved.

"They have shown their courage and merit universal respect," he said.

NOBILE WISHES TO HELP

MOSCOW, July 23 (Canadian Press).—General Umberto Nobile is anxious to participate in the further search for the six missing members of the dirigible Italia, but must obtain the permission of the Italian government, Professor Samoilovitch, head of the Russian rescue expedition

MOTOR CAR HIT ELECTRIC POLE

C. F. Mason Injured in Crash On Crescent Street While Learning.

STEERING AFFECTED.

Cuts about his right eye and nose were sustained by C. F. Mason on Sunday morning at about 10.15 o'clock, when his motor car crashed into a Hydro-Electric power pole on Crescent street, immediately west of Romaine street, due to a part breaking which made the car difficult to steer. Mr. Mason was not driving at the time but was accompanying Thomas Stanicker, who was giving him driving instruction and who escaped serious injury. The front of the car was somewhat damaged and it was necessary to make repairs to the Hydro property owing to the accident. Dr. G. Ray Scott attended the men.

For a time, the rumor circulated about the city that a Utilities man had been electrocuted, but on investigation by The Examiner this proved false.

NINE PERMITS FOR BUILDINGS IN PAST WEEK

Two New Dwellings Will Be Erected in City Befor Fall.

WILL COST $7,200.

Sheds and Garages Totalling $1,425 Also Authorized By City Engineer.

Nine permits, providing for the expenditure of approximately $8,625.00, a large portion of which is for the building of two new dwellings, were issued at the City Engineer's office during the past week and in nearly every instance the work to be undertaken will be finished before September 30 of this year.

One permit, issued to R. J. Weistenhime, was for the erection of a two story dwelling at the corner of Bolivar street and Penrose avenue, the estimated cost being $3,200.00 The house will be 28 feet long and 22 feet wide, with brick veneer exterior, lathe and plaster interior walls, with interior finish of pine. The six rooms will be heated by electric fire place and a hot air heating system while the roofing will be asphalt. The chimneys will be of brick, flue lined.

The second dwelling mentioned will be at 731 George street by J. B. Brown, contractor, for Mrs. Mary Mahood. It will have a concrete foundation 30 feet long by 22 feet wide; the exterior of the walls will be of brick and stucco finish, while the interior walls will be of lath and plaster. Interior finish will be of pine and fir.

e Eight rooms will be contained in the two stories, and they will be heated by electric fire places and a hot air heating system. The house will be completed by September 30 at a cost in the neighborhood of 4,000.00.

Lesser Expenditures

Other permits provided for the building of three sheds each costing about $70.00, at 302, 306, and 308 Aylmer street by George Sloan and Son, contractors, for Bradburns Ltd. A $400 garage is to be erected at 415 Aylmer street by the Canadian Alladin company for T. Brightman and Co. while Gecge Sloan and Son will build a new verandah for H. C. Throop at the corner of Lock and Romaine streets, the expense of which will be in the neighborhood of $125.00.

Two other garages will be built, one at 613 Union street for Fred Smith, tenant, and the other, by George Porter contractor, will be erected at 636 Gilmour street for H. Baity.

Will Alter Building

Alterations costing $500.00 will be made at the rear of 285 George street the ubilding, to be used as a dry cleaning establishment by C. H. Jay. The building is owned by B. Chester. Brick walls, a basement floor, and pyrock roofing will result from the work, while one partition will be rewired.

AVOIDS FOWL, STRIKES ROCK

New York Man Homeward Bound After Holiday Hurt On Highway.

USES FIRST AID KIT.

When Charles H. Eastman, driving a New York car, swerved from the highway yesterday to avoid a flock of fowl, his car struck a boulder with such force as to shatter his windshield. Mr. Eastman was cut about the face and hands, but after his wounds had been washed and treated with iodine he continued his journey homeward.

"We were just remarking," he told a sympathetic bystander, "that we had come through a whole holiday without needing to use the first aid kit—and here we are on our way home digging out the iodine and bandages."

Mr. Eastman blamed no one, and philosophically picked the broken glass from his car and himself.

CHEESE PRICES ARE INCREASED

Twenty-Two and Five-Eighths Cents Pound Paid in June.

HAY IS MOULDY

(Examiner Correspondence)

BURNBRAE, July 23.—While the crop situation here is a pretty doubtful affair just now, the local farmers are inclined to be optimistic following the release of the June factory cheques. With cheese prices up to twenty-two and five-eighths cents a pound, the various cheese companies paid from 58 cents a pound for butterfat in June. This is about the best since the war years and cetrainly the best for June ever received. With the heavy rains bringing along the second growth pasture the milk flow stands to increase which means more money from cheese.

However, to look at the darker side for a moment, these same rains are hindering the harvesting of the hay crop. Very few farmers have got any hay in their barns without rain and a good deal of the hay crop has almost been completely spoiled. Many farmers are stacking this moldy hay to feed out-of-doors in the winter, rather than risk combustion by putting it inside. Much hay remains to be cut yet and with the wheat ready to be cut at the first dry spell, the rush of farm work threatens to swamp the available help supply. Spring grains look wonderfully good though somewhat flattened in heavy spots by the rain. Potatoes and roots are growing by leaps and bounds. but so are the weeds, and few farmers can find time to use the hoe as it should be used.

WORRIES OF A WARDEN.

COLUMBUS, O., July 23.—Warden P. E. Thomas of the State Penitentiary has many worries. But when John Weber, serving life for murder, swallowed the temperature, it was sufficiently unusual to warrant more than casual attention. Although a thermometer had been put down Thomas' temperature went up. Physicians attribute this to the fact that the prisoner had seen fit to chew the tube before swallowing. They soon controlled both temperature and Weber will return to his life job with the State.

Premier Challenged By Bennett

WHAT PORT IS HE BOUND FOR ASKS CONSERVATIVE LEADER DISCUSSING NATIONAL STATUS

Huge Crowd Gathers For Party's District Picnic at Oshawa.

MANY LEAVING CANADA.

Return to Old National Policy Needed, Says Speaker—Raw Materials Exported.

OSHAWA, July 23.—Before several thousand followers at a picnic here Saturday, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Dominion leader of the Conservative party threw down the gauntlet to Premier King on the question of recent declarations of Canada's equal status within the British Empire and the establishment of Canadian Embassies in foreign countries. "What port is Mr. King bound for?" demanded Mr. Bennett, heatedly. "If he wants to make this an independent country, let him say so. Let us have a well-defined expression from him as to where he is heading, and what his chart is, and what his port."

Plea For Protection.

Mr. Bennett's visit to Oshawa—his first, in fact—was arranged by the East Centre Ontario Conservative Association. It was more or less of a stop-over, on his way west from his Maritime speaking tour, but it afforded him the opportunity at least, to reiterate vigorously the old party plea for adequate protection for Canadian industry; to deplore the exodus of population to the United States; and to stress, amid the acclaim of his picnic audience—the biggest rally of its kind ever held in Ontario County, it is claimed—the need for restoration to Canadian industrial advancement of the old national policy first promulgated by the Conservative party.

"We have no mandate to think of other countries," he asserted, "so far as our own economic life is concerned."

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, who accompanied Mr. Bennett on his day's visit through the county expressed a welcome to the latter in behalf of the Provincial Government and paid an eloquent tribute to his qualities of leadership and statesmanship.

Eighteen thousand more people had left Canada in the last five years than had come into it said Mr. Bennett in the course of his address. This was because they couldn't find work to do. They couldn't get jobs because Canadians bought abroad most of our manufactured goods. By buying products in the United States, which could have been made in Canada, Canadians gave employment to people in the United States who were fed by American farmers.

Two-thirds of all the goods Canadians sold in the last year were either wholly raw or partly manufactured. Eighty per cent. of those bought were wholly or partly manufactured.

Greater Imports

Furthermore Canadian imports as a whole exceeded the exports. The imports were greater during the first three months this year than last. "To the extent that we have deprived the Canadian people of work, and the Canadian farmer of home markets, we have lessened the prosperity of this country," he said.

Canada was prosperous only because she was exporting great quantities of wood, minerals and grain. Canadians were expressing their disgust with economic conditions by leaving the country.

The result of a decrease in the woollen tariff last session was a reduction in output. A woollen mill in Sherbrooke, Quebec, which Mr. Bennett had visited, had been forced to cut its pay-roll and curtail its output. The agitation of the people of Oshawa had forced the Government to curtail its proposals for changes in the automobile tariff. They had given the same protection by way of excise tax which had formerly been given by way of tariff, and as a result the motor industry was flourishing.

The agricultural machinery business, prosperous though it was, was not injuring the Canadian market; enormous quantities of machinery were being shipped in from the United States. The United States was dumping its surplus products into this country and displacing Canada's. They would never permit Canada to do this. I do not cry for a high tariff to put a premium on inefficiency," said Mr. Bennett. "but one sufficient to see that we Canadians develop this country as our forefathers intended that it should be developed."

One of the Ministers had accused Mr. Bennett of decrying his own country, he said, but remarked "it is the truth that set us free, and Canadian people should understand the situation."

HOME GARDENS BEING JUDGED

Cavan Women's Institute Arranges a Domestic Science Class.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, July 23.—Mrs. A. B. Kennedy was hostess for the July meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute. There were seventeen members present, with the president, Mrs. R. M. Howden, conducting the meeting.

The Domestic Science Class to be held in Cavan Community Hall on the afternoon of July 30 and 31, was discussed. Eight names of girls intending to attend the session, were handed in, while there are others who are likely to join. Girls from Mount Pleasant, Millbrook and Bethany are expected to take advantage of Miss Hopkin's instructions.

It was decided to invite the Mount Pleasant Institute to hold a joint meeting with Cavan Institute on the third Thursday in August, at the home of Mrs. Creighton Carr, and the Mount Pleasant Institute to be asked to provide the program. A debate was suggested for the September meeting. The program was dispensed with and a social time enjoyed while the hostess and lunch committee served lunch.

Judges Gardens.

Mr. Kellough, district representative, of Port Hope, was through Cavan on Thursday judging home gardens. The seeds for these gardens had been supplied by the Department for fifty cents, and the pupils who had passed their examinations were eligible to have one of these plots. Prizes will be given according to merit.

The judging will be made along the following lines: General appearance, straight and even rows, possible score 10; correct size of plot and arrangement of crops, 10; freedom from weeds, diseases and insects, 20; cultivation and care of plants, 20; quality of vegetables, uniform in size and shape, 10; yield, approximate, 30.

Farm Notes.

Haying is almost finished in Cavan. Wheat and alsike are nearly ready for cutting. As yet new potatoes are not in general use, but doubtless the rain of Thursday night will help their growth. Wild raspberries are ripe, but so far are small. The rain will likely be a benefit to them as well. The strawberry season was shorter than usual this year, and there are not so many patches of mangels to be seen this year, but the turnip crop is coming on well.

A bee was held on the eighth line on Friday morning to cut the weeds along the roadside. On many lines weeds are seen in bloom. Along the highway to Peterborough a long stretch of mustard was noticed on the 12th of July in full bloom.

Canvass to be Made

A meeting was held in the basement of the United Church on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a canvass to raise money to pay off the debt of the church. A goodly number were present and every one seemed actively interested, so a canvass is to be made in the near future.

Last Elephant In New YorkZoo Dead; Bullets End Paralyzed Beast's 97 Years

NEW YORK, July 23.—Jewel, 97 years old and last surviving elephant of the Central Park Zoo, was killed Friday after paralysis had crippled her. Dr. Raymond Garbutt, a veterinarian, delivered the coup de grace to the aged pachyderm with an elephant gun, which had been obtained after considerable search. It took three bullets to end the long life of the one-time circus star.

John Coyle, head keeper, found Jewel suffering from paralysis in the morning in her pen near the lions' den. She was unable to lift her trunk, the trunk that had delighted thousands of children by the nimble way in which it had seized peanuts. Coyle consulted Dr. W. Reid Blair, director of the Bronx Zoological Garden and then Dr. Garbutt was called in.

Meanwhile the paralysis had spread through the elephantine body and soon Jewel was on the ground, hardly able to move When the elephant gun was deliv ered to Dr. Garbutt he fired one shot back of the ear. Jewel hung tenaciously to life, however It was necessary to get more powerful shells, and then Dr. Garbutt finished the career of Jewel.

Coyle said that the elephant had been with the Barnum & Bailey circus many years before being turned over to the zoo in 1878.

Man Crazed By Heat Climbs Leipzig Spire; He Sings Jazz Until Brought Down By a Lasso

BERLIN, July 23.—"Can you throw a lasso," was a question every American visitor in Leipzig was asked recently by the frantic Fire Department.

A carpenter, affected by the intense heat, climbed the spire of the Church of St. Peter and when nearly 200 feet above the pavements began to sing popular cabaret songs. The Fire Department was ordered to end the sacrilegious concert, but each time long ladders were placed the singing carpenter climbed like a fly to the other side of the spire.

The only solution was a lasso man and a search was made for a cowbody. After none was found a local man undertook the job and after efforts admirable for their endurance rather than skill passed a noose over the climber's neck, whereupon he voluntarily climbed down.

Francis Charbonneau, 18.

Mrs. Francis Charbonneau, 49, mother-in-law and mother respectively of the first two; and Patrice Lenielle, 41. Of the four injured in this accident Jeanne Vallee, 17, is now expected to live.

The automobile containing the eight people and with Lenielle at the wheel were on their way to St. Scholastique to visit relatives when the accident occurred and had reached the level crossing over the C.P.R. one mile east of Cap St. Martin. There is a good view of the tracks from both sides of the road at the crossing. It is believed that the driver saw the train but thought he could cross before it reached the road. He miscalculated and the engine struck the auto and dragged it. Three of the occupants were dead when picked up by members of the train crew while the fourth died while being transported to a hospital.

Car Stalls

One entire family was wiped out at Pointe Aux Trembles when an automobile in which they were riding stalled on the tracks at a Canadian National Railway crossing. The victims were Herbert Smith, 40, his wife, Harriet, 35, and their son, 14. Smith and his son were instantly killed while Mrs. Smith died later in a Montreal hospital.

Edmond Soule, 28, was instantly killed when his motor truck laden with sand was struck by a Canadian Pacific at the level crossing at Iverville. He attempted to beat the train but was struck before accomplishing his intention.

Two Near Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 23. — (Canadian Press.)—Hilare Trudel and his wife of Perkins Mills, Que., were almost instantly killed on Saturday when a motor car in which they were riding from the Ottawa market was struck by a Canadian Pacific freight train at St. Rose de Lima. Mrs. Trudel was decapitated and her body carried for more than 100 yards under the wheels of the locomotive. Her husband is believed to have choked to death under the wreckage before he could be extricated.

Little Girl Killed.

GALT, July 23. — Marcella Mary Grimm, 7, died last evening at the hospital from injuries received yesterday morning when struck down and run over by a car driven by Andrew Wake, 119 Wellington street, in front of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church. The child, with four others of the family and her father, were going to church. Rain was falling and she jumped out of the car and started to run across the road. Mr. Wake says he did not see her. It is said both wheels of the car passed over her body. She was removed to her home and a doctor called and two hours later taken to the hospital. An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Radford.

Six Hurt in Crash.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 23.—One woman was seriously injured and five others escaped with cuts and bruises when a big Detroit car swerved off the road and struck a tree in Stamford yesterday afternoon. The most critically injured is Mrs. William Welsh, Detroit, believed to have sustained a fractured skull.

Child Seriously Injured.

NORTH BAY, July 23. — Run over by a car in front of her home on Cassels Street about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Lucie Hanna, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hanna, is in a serious condition suffering from a broken hip and other minor injuries. The car was driven by Harry Palmateer, who resides on the old Callander Road.

Detroit Woman Injured.

LONDON, Ont., July 23. — Mrs. Otto Long, of Detroit, was injured when a car driven by her husband was struck by one driven by F. B. Bennett, also of Detroit, near Wardsville on Saturday night. It is alleged that Bennett was "cutting out" of the traffic line when the smash occurred, and he is held on a charge of reckless driving.

Woman's Skull Fractured.

KITCHENER, July 23. — Struck by a car driven by Louis McBrine of this city as she was crossing the intersection of Francis and King Streets on Saturday noon. Miss Louise Raimer, 26, of this city, sustained injuries which necessitated her removal to the hospital. X-ray examination yesterday showed that she is suffering from shock and a small fracture of the skull.

"Death Trap" Highway.

WOODSTOCK, July 23. — The "death trap" highway east of Woodstock again took its toll of automobiles on Sunday morning following an over-night rain. Five cars skidded into the ditches from the slippery surface, all within a mile or two of Woodstock, and while all were damaged to some extent, only one person was seriously injured. This was Mrs. Ernest Weiss, of Buffalo, who was driving with her husband when their car toppled over after slipping off the roadway into the ditch. She sustained severe injuries to her back.

BOY RESCUED FROM WATER

Iden Bonds Pulled From River at Hastings by Frank Sargeant.

FELL IN WHILE PLAYING.

HASTINGS, July 23.—On Saturday afternoon, while watching several bathing at the wharf on Front Street, Iden Bonds fell into the river and was nearly drowned. Another boy fell into the Canal at the same time. He was a good swimmer, while Bonds could not swim, and immediately sank from view.

Frank Sargeant, who was standing nearby, and saw the accident, immediately jumped into the water and dove for the boy. He brought him to the surface and to shore safely before much water had entered his lungs.

SUNSTROKE FATAL

CHATHAM, July 23.—A sunstroke suffered Friday morning while cutting the lawn at home proved fatal to Herman Merritt, Chatham police constable. The officer was on night duty last week, and Thursday was his day off. Friday morning he was working in his yard and a passer-by noticed him fall as he was mowing the lawn. Physicians were summoned and it was thought he would recover. About noon yesterday he suffered a relapse and died a few hours later.

FOUR CAR TRAIN JUMPS TRACKS

Two Passengers Were Killed and Score Injured in Boston.

CARS PILE UP

BOSTON, Mass., July 23 (Canadian Press).—Two passengers were killed last night and a score injured when a four-car train on the Atlantic Avenue loop of the Boston elevated railway left the tracks at a curve where the loop leaves the main line. The cars piled up on the trestle and firemen were called to rescue those on board.

TWO FALL

mother and son, but to no avail. Death came in the early hours of the morning.

From information gathered from eye-witnesses and those who were first to arrive at the scene of the accident, also the railway men, it appears that the train, which consisted of thirty-seven cars of grain, was a through freight, east-bound. It was reported through here at 5.50 p.m. and was apparently due to meet the evening passenger train at Hoard's station. Reliable estimates place the speed of the train at approximately fifteen miles per hour, perhaps a little faster.

Local railway officials state that the engineer had his air brakes partly applied when passing the station and was proceeding slowly. Whether or not he saw the people in time to stop has not yet been stated, but the driver blew the whistle and eye-witnesses say that he was leaning far out through the cab window motioning to the woman and child to go back. They apparently did not see or understand his signals and disappeared over the edge when the locomotive drew alongside where they stood. Immediately the train stopped, it backed off the bridge and the crew rushed to the assistance of the injured. Then, too late to run according to orders, the train was backed on to a passing track and waited for the passenger train to pass it here. The engineer's name was given as Varcoe, of Lindsay.

Near Safety.

Measured by paces, the woman and her son were forty-five feet from safety and the western end of the bridge. They were about ninety feet from a platform which holds a water barrel, and which might have afforded the necessary clearance had they managed to get to it. They disappeared over the south side of the bridge and fell on the east side of the roadway. Whether or not they fell or were knocked off will be decided at the inquest which is to be held. At one time there were "No Trespassing" signs along the right of way at each approach to the bridge, but these have disappeared or been removed since the building of the new high level bridge several years ago.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Jacobs was Muriel Keeler, daughter of the late Albert Keeler and Mrs. Keeler, of Havelock. She is survived by her mother, two sisters, Mrs. William West and Bertha of Havelock and one brother Austin, also of Havelock. She is also survived by her husband, James Jacobs, and three daughters, Barbara, 5; Phyllis, 3; and Jean, a baby of eighteen months.

Yesterday afternoon, the two children, Helen Donald, 13, and her younger brother Stewart, 8, who had such a narrow escape from death, were perhaps the least disturbed of any of the household. The fact that they were within a few feet of death has not yet fully dawned upon their childish minds nor affected their gaiety as it has that of the older members of the family. To those of more mature years, the double fatal tragedy has struck deep into their hearts and impressed itself indelibly on their minds.

The jury was empanelled this morning under Coroner Dr. W. F. Loucks, and viewed the remains. The inquest was then adjourned until Wednesday afternoon at 2.30. It will be held in the Council Chamber.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON TUESDAY

In the morning, upon arising, take your exercises as usual. Do one or two movements of each exercise which has been given you in the preceding articles. Do not spend over ten minutes on your morning exercises; follow them with a cold shower bath.

Breakfast: Whites of two Coddled Eggs.
(The yolk is the most fattening part of the egg, but you can use the whites of two eggs, and let the thin ones of the family use the yolks.)
Three or four pieces of Melba Toast,
Four or five stewed apricots.

Take your two-mile walk tomorrow morning, the same as usual, if you can possibly spare the time. The walks which I am advising you to take each morning will increase your vitality more than anything else you are going. Strength comes from exercise more than from food, and you cannot expect to develop endurance unless you walk a considerable distance each day.

Lunch: Try a raw-food luncheon, using
One ounce of pecan or almond nuts,
With raw Carrots and Turnips.

In the afternoon, about four or five o'clock, take your long walk of the day, which should now be at least three miles. After returning from your walk, loosen your clothing and take all of the exercises which I have given you in the preceding articles. Take these exercises vigorously, and try to induce a copious perspiration.

Add the following exercise to the ones you are now taking:

Lying Face Downward:

4.—Hands pointing straight over head—raise the arms, head, and shoulders; also raise the legs, keeping the knees stiff. Inhale as you raise to this position, and exhale upon returning to original position. Next, separate the hands to the distance of about two feet, and raise and lower as before. Reverse the exercise, going back to the original position. As the strength of the back muscles develops you may make the exercise harder, changing the position of the arms only a few inches at a time. In the exercise as described, you will have only four different positions of the arms, but this can easily be increased to fifteen or twenty by making a slight change in the position of the arms.

Follow the exercises with a cold shower bath, and then take your daily enema. It is possible to avoid the necessity of taking the daily enema if you will use one or two tablespoonfuls of mineral oil each day. This may be taken at any time during the day. After taking the oil for several days, you can then discontinue the enemas and your bowels will move normally, if you will wait two or three days until enough material collects in the intestines to make a normal bowel movement.

Dinner: Pan Broiled Steak,
Choice of one of these cooked vegetables:
Celery, Tomatoes, Spinach, Carrots or Turnips.
Salad of Raw Cabbage.

With tomorrow's dinner, you will notice that I am starting to allow you to select your own vegetables from a list which I have given you. From now on, I will try to show you how to select your own meals from a standpoint of good combinations.

Below, I am giving you some recipes for the preparation of foods which have not been advised before.

Whites of Coddled Eggs: Place the unbroken eggs in a deep pan that is standing off the fire; pour over them boiling hot water. Allow at least one quart of water to each two eggs. Let the eggs stand from five to ten minutes. When broken, the eggs should have a jelly-like consistency. Before serving, remove the yolks and give them to some thin one in the family.

Stewed Apricots: Thoroughly wash the apricots and soak overnight in enough water to cover them. They should be cooked slowly in the same water to bring out the sweet palatable flavor. No sugar should be added, as the slow cooking will bring out the fruit sugar, which will make them taste more delicious than if commercial sugar is used.

Turnips and Carrots: Which I have recommended for your noon lunch tomorrow should be carefully washed with a vegetable brush, but not scraped at all. They can then be ground up, or shredded, if you desire. It is better for you, if you do not season these vegetables, but if you do, only a little salt should be added and no sour dressing of any kind.

Pan Broiled Steak: Remove all the fat from the meat, and then heat an iron frying pan until it is quite hot. Drop the steak in the pan without any grease, and the instant it strikes the pan turn it over with a fork which has been held in the hand for that purpose. Continue to turn the meat back and forth, leaving it only a few seconds on each side, so that both sides will be seared equally and the juices retained in the meat. Of course, some of the steak will alway s stick to the burning pan, but this imparts a distinctly agreeable flavor to the meat which is cooking.

DOUBLE USE FOR STOP SIGNS.

In several cities in Eastern Ontario the stop signs along through streets are being made to serve a double purpose by having the names of the cross streets painted on the reverse side of the signs.

Thus a motorist driving along a through street can easily locate any particular intersecting street he may be looking for, and the signs can be made out much more readily than those placed on buildings as we have them here.

Using the stop signs in this way is a method that costs but little and is a great convenience to visitors.

It should be feasible to adopt a similar method here at a trifling expense, compared to the results that are obtained from so designating intersecting streets along the city's through thoroughfares.

WHY NOT SIGNAL A TURN?

A car bearing an out-of-town license number swung round the corner of Hunter and George streets yesterday afternoon and knocked over a boy cyclist, smashing the bicycle, while the boy had a very close call.

That accident was caused by the failure of the driver to give any signal that he proposed to turn west into Hunter street.

He simply drove down George street at a lively rate and, according to witnesses, made the turn without a blast from his horn or a signal with his hand—and he is lucky that he has not a manslaughter charge to face.

The case is mentioned here because there is such a surprisingly large number of motorists guilty of this kind of conduct every day.

Courtesy as well as common sense surely requires a motorist to give some warning of his course when he proposes to turn a corner.

Other people are not mind readers; they have no way of telling what a driver intends to do unless some signal is given, and when no warning of any kind appears an accident such as yesterday's, or more probably one much serious in nature, is very likely to happen.

SHOULD BE UNDER CONTROL.

In connection with the question of accommodation for tourists, naturally a live matter at the present time, the situation exists that while standard hotels have to be licensed and their patrons are required to register, there are no such regulations in regard to private houses where tourists are accommodated.

It is an offense for an unmarried couple to register as man and wife at a standard hotel, but in these tourist shelters no safeguard of this nature applies, and the situation is one that deserves attention.

In addition, private houses offering lodgings for tourists are under no supervision in regard to their condition, sanitary conveniences or cleanliness generally.

In the present era of heavy motor traffic, bringing thousands of visitors into Ontario, large numbers of people have found that catering for tourists is a profitable enterprise, and as a result, as The Examiner pointed out the other day, there are hundreds of such places on the main highways.

They are competing with the standard hotels, and there should be no complaint if they are put on the same footing in regard to licenses and other regulations that govern the management of hotels.

Certainly there is a lack of control under the present system that should be remedied.

THE BANK SITUATION.

The fact that while in 1908 Canada possessed 31 banks there are to-day but ten left, is responsible for the anxiety of many people over the latest bank merger, which is regarded by those opposed to that these consolidations are bringing about a monopoly in banking and causing the concentration of money power in fewer groups.

Twenty years ago there were in Canada, according to a compilation made by the Financial Post, the following banks: Union, Northern, Crown, Quebec, Traders', Royal, Union of Halifax, Molsons', Merchants', Bank of British North America, Montreal, Sterling, Western, Standard, Hamilton, Eastern Townships, Commerce, Imperial, Ottawa, Metropolitan, Bank of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Toronto, Dominion, Hochelaga, Nationale, Provinciale, Weyburn, Home, Farmers', St. Stephen's.

There remain now only the Royal, Montreal, Commerce, Imperial, Nova Scotia, Toronto, Dominion Nationale, Provinciale and Weyburn.

In this connection the Financial Post says:

"There is no real evidence, beyond suspicions in the public mind, that this or any other merger will tend to create a banking monopoly in Canada, will serve to increase interest rates to borrowers or operate to restrict the supply of funds for ordinary agricultural, industrial and mercantile credit.

"Nevertheless, unless it can be shown that the merger was a necessity to safeguard the interests of Standard Bank depositors the deal must be regarded as unfortunate. It comes just at a time when the public had begun to believe that there would be no more mergers; when the policy of the Government at Ottawa in opposition to bank mergers seemed to have been well established; when general confidence in the stability of the banking situation existed.

"One may well question whether any bank merger at the present time is in the public interest, if it spreads a feeling of mistrust in the land; or if any bank merger is in the interests of the bank themselves, when public suspicion of the whole system of banking in Canada is aroused by such a merger."

COURTS AND STENOGRAPHERS.

(From the Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

An appeal against a conviction under the Liquor Control Act in Hamilton the other day was successful because of an interesting technical point. Judge Brandon, in giving his judgment in the appeal, quashing the conviction, said he was convinced that the man involved in the case was guilty, but that he had no alternative, and that he would have to quash the conviction on purely technical grounds. These technical grounds were that the notes taken down in police court when the case was before the magistrate had not been taken by an official court stenographer. The stenographer who took the notes in court, it was found, did not have official standing, nor had he been sworn by the magistrate before the case was heard.

This raises a very interesting point, and one which touches some points in local police cases. If notes taken in police court by a stenographer who does not happen to be an official are not valid, what has the law to say regarding notes which are not taken by a stenographer at all, but by the magistrate himself as the hearing of the case proceeds. The stenographic report at least would be complete, while, at the best, the notes taken down in longhand by the magistrate must of necessity be but a brief and incomplete summary of the evidence. Yet men have been sent to jail, and have lost their appeals on just such notes. It may be that the law allows notes taken in longhand by a magistrate to be considered as valid, even although a stenographer's notes may be ruled out because the stenographer did not happen to have official rank. If that is the law there is something radically wrong with it, and it should be brought to the attention of the proper governmental department that it needs to be remedied.

CANADA'S PLACE IN WORLD MINING.

The position of Canada in world mining is defined statistically in the monthly commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The figures include the most important metals, except iron and nickel. Canada is third in gold, third in silver, fourth in copper, fourth in lead, and apparently third in zinc. She has almost overhauled the United States in gold production, her output last year being 1,844,544 fine ounces, against 2,178,389 across the line. Canada's output has almost doubled since 1921, while that of Australia is about half that of 1919, and the United States yield is declining. The Transvaal, however, is more than holding its own, its output last year being 11,111,281 fine ounces.

The two outstanding features in connection with the mining of base metals in 1927 were a decline in production in the United States, and an increase in consumption in Europe. Prior to the war Europe was the largest market for base metals, but industrial depression in the post-war period made it less important, and the United States, owing to the great expansion in manufacturing, became the consumer of about half of the world production. In 1927, however, Europe made considerable headway industrially, and its consumption of metals that year was the greatest since before the war. The leading copper mining companies in Canada treated less low-grade ore and production in British Columbia was therefore slightly below that for 1926, but this decrease was more than offset by larger scale operations in the copper-nickel region of Ontario. Canada's record in respect of lead and zinc is noteworthy, for notwithstanding extremely weak markets, she supplied much larger quantities of these metals than in 1926.

The statistics show in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc Canada's output last year was greater than in 1926, whereas United States production dropped in every one of these metals. No wonder the eyes of the mining world are turning in the direction of this country.—London Advertiser.

THE BAD DRIVERS.

Considering the hundreds of autos that went to Port Stanley and returned Monday night, it is a matter for congratulation and thankfulness that there were no mishaps on the highway. Every week-end the Monday papers chronicle a list of lives sacrificed on the roads; men, women and children who set out full of life and enthusiasm for a good time on Saturday or Sunday and, through the carelessness of a moment, met violent deaths and brought tragedy and sorrow into their homes.

Practically every accident is avoidable. That may seem a bold assertion, yet nearly every fatality or injury is due to some human failing which need never have been permitted. Commonest of all are driving too fast and skidding on a wet surface, applying the brakes too sharply to avoid bumping into a car in front, failing to notice a car coming out of a side street, pulling out to pass a car ahead, and misjudging the pace of the traffic going the other way, or operating a car that has not been properly looked over before starting out to see if it is O.K. In nearly every case it is the personal element that fails, and not the machine.

One citizen who counted 329 autos on the highway in one hour Monday night only observed two drivers commit faults which would be regarded as bad driving. That makes an average of one bad driver in 165. The question is: Is that a general average, and if it is, is it too high?

Most people will feel that it is. With the enormous number of cars now on the roads, it is not comforting to know that one driver in every 165 cars met is the kind of man (or woman) who is liable to do something foolish or daring and jeopardize the lives of his own party and the lives of others. It is no wonder that the week-end toll is so high.

No man is allowed to drive an engine on the railway until he has undergone a long period of training and probation. The engine travels on rails, out of crowded traffic, and everyone knows to be on the lookout for a train.

Yet, anyone over school age, boy or girl, man or woman, is allowed to get into a car after two or three lessons, even less, and drive a car on the crowded streets and highways; a car capable of going as fast as any railway train and called upon to weave its way in and out among other traffic.

Somehow it doesn't seem right. And so long as it is permitted, so long as there is no prescribed number of lessons for auto drivers, many of whom have an insufficient knowledge of the mechanical side of the vehicle at their command, and who have an insufficient knowledge of the highway traffic regulations, that week-end, and daily, toll will continue.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

If Hon. Mr. Bennett made as many converts at Oshawa Saturday as there were men on bases during the ball game, it was a profitable visit for the Conservative leader.

Tourist traffic is not yet as heavy as last year, but the number of people with something to sell to the visitors seems to be larger than ever.

Camp Skookum remains as popular as ever. There is no reason why the camp should not be at full strength for the balance of the summer.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 (Canadian Press). — Owing to the absence of any export business in grain overnight the trade in cash grain in the local market on Saturday was very quiet, and the demand from domestic and country buyers was also of a limited character. The undertone to the market for Canadian western oats was easier, but there was no change in prices.

The export trade in spring wheat grades of flour continued good and prices were well maintained.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 23 (Canadian Press). — Prospective widespread cool weather ideal to check black rust and to promote the welfare of spring wheat led to much lower prices on Saturday for wheat. Besides, export business in wheat from North America was relatively slack, and in some cases future deliveries here touched the lowest level yet this season. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 1¼c to 3¾c net lower. Corn finished ½c to 1¼c off, oats at ¾c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions unchanged to 7c down.

In addition to the auspicious weather outlook as well as favorable crop reports from the spring wheat belt, especially Canada, huge receipts of new winter wheat in the south-west had a decided bearish influence on the wheat market here. Weakness of the Winnipeg market meanwhile gave particular emphasis to comprehensive advices that throughout a large section of Canada 80 per cent. of wheat is headed and that moisture is plentiful to ensure the proper filling of the crop.

Cheap Canadian offerings appeared on Saturday to be monopolizing whatever export outlet there was for wheat from North America. Shippers in the south-west were thus left with practically no foreign market, while receipts proved to be again of record breaking volume.

GOD'S MINUTE

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord, and righteousness from the God of his salvation.—Ps. 24:3-5.

Heavenly Father, for all the blessings of the night past and for this new day that Thou hast given us, we desire now to thank Thee, and O we pray that as Thou hast given us rest in sleep, so now may we serve Thee this day with all the strength of the life Thou hast given back to us again. Direct us, we pray Thee, in all the work of our hands this day, so that in all things we may please Thee. Help us to be kind, loving, forgiving, and ever watchful lest we offend against Thee in word, thought, or deed.

And while we pray for ourselves, we would not forget to pray for those near and dear to us—our fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, kindred and friends. Bless each and all toward whom our hearts turn with a great love, and finally bring us, unbroken family circles, to our Father's house above, from which we shall go out no more, but shall ever be at home with Thee. Amen.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN SENT TO HAVELOCK

Twelve Arrive From Toronto to Spend Summer in the Open.

(Examiner Correspondence)

There is no mystery about this

"I would love to talk to her — but frankly, I don't know how to make a Long Distance Call".

We are told that there are many people who actually feel that there is something very complicated about arranging a long distance talk.

And it is really so simple!

There are some nearby points for which you do not even have to ask for "Long Distance" — your local operator will connect you direct with the telephone you want. Such points are listed in the front pages of your directory. If you do not know the number ask "Information".

In calling more distant points, ask the operator for "Long Distance", and when she answers, tell her your telephone number and your name, then the city you wish to reach, with the distant telephone number, if you know it. If you do not know it, "Long Distance" will look it up for you.

It is very simple. You will find the operators — local and long distance — always courteous and helpful, and the experience will convert you to the regular use of a wonderful service.

Why not try it?

A Tip or Two

ANIMALS' BATHS

In washing animals, use warm soapsuds, rinse thoroughly and dry with a towel. Then brush until absolutely dry.

SEALED JARS

When traveling, take a little candle along and seal with its wax all perfume bottles and other expensive lotions after using.

FACE CLOTHS

Never try to use ordinary wash cloths when traveling. Make some from squares of cheesecloth and throw them away.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

BANANA DELMONICO PUDDING

For Banana Delmonico Pudding, scald 2 cups of milk in a double boiler. Sift 1-3 cup of corn starch, ½ teaspoon of salt and ¼ cup of sugar. Stir the hot milk into the corn starch a little at a time, blending carefully; return to the double boiler and cook until thick. To 2 egg yolks add 1 tablespoonful of sugar and beat well. Stir into the hot milk and cook ten minutes.

Slice 3 or 4 bananas into a pudding dish, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of sugar and a little lemon juice. Beat the whites of the 2 eggs with 4 tablespoonsful of sugar to a stiff froth. Pour the pudding over the bananas, top with meringue and place in a moderate oven until the meringue is delicately browned.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Many white felts have colored bands —this model being finished with a band of felt in pastel shades.

There are some women who by all the rules laid down by experts ought not to wear white hats, who still never look smarter nor better dressed than when wearing a simply fashioned and becomingly shaped white felt hat. And let me tell you that if you have made up your wardrobe for your summer vacation and have not included one of these light-weight white felts you will surely be sorry. There are occasions this summer when any other sort of headgear actually looks out of place. Fortunately they are not expensive and can be folded up and tucked into a corner of your trunk or traveling bag.

The advantage in having two of them is that you may never be without one when one has been sent to the cleaners. As a matter of convenience you may want to have the trimming band of your white hat removeable so that you may change it from time to time. If you wear the white hat with colored frocks a clever plan is to have bands of various colors made so that they may be adjusted with small snappers.

The light-weight untimmed or slightly trimmed felt hat still plays an important role in most women's summer wardrobes—though most women this season feel that they should be confined to wear with clothes of the sports genre. After all there is something incongruous about a plain felt hat with a lace or organdie afternoon frock. To wear it under the circumstances would be like wearing flat-heeled sports shoes with a garden-party frock, or carrying a leather hand bag with a chiffon frock.

There may be no question of your "dryness" and yet you may wear a cocktail coat. The name I suppose was given to these little accessories because they were worn over a dinner frock during the late afternoon hour when certain Americans in Paris and London foregather to drink their cocktails.

At any rate many light evening gowns are now made with little jackets that may be worn for extra warmth or protection, and these little separate coats are also a convenience with light-weight afternoon frocks. Made of some harmonizing material they are much more attractive than a sweater or sports jacket when a slight warp is needed.

Social Amenities

L.C.—1.—How does a young unmarried woman register at a hotel? When mother and daughter are together, who registers? When mother, father and daughter are together?

2.—When combination salad is served in a bowl on a small service plate, but no serving fork and spoon is served, is the salad to be eaten from the bowl in which it was originally served?

3.—When soups are served in very small soup bowls placed within seemingly larger soup bowls but with no service plate besides the latter, is it correct to pour the soup into the larger bowl?

• • •

1.—An unmarried woman, of any age registers thus in the hotel registry: Miss Alice Drake, Peterborough. (She should always write the "Miss" before her name).

When mother and daughter register at the hotel, either may register for both, or each one may register for the other. The mother's name would be written on the first line, and the daughter's underneath:

Mrs. William Drake, Peterborough.
Miss Alice Drake, Peterborough.

When mother, father, and daughter are together, the father registers for himself and his wife, and on the line below, their daughter:

Mr. and Mrs. William Drake, Peterborough.
Miss Alice Drake, Peterborough.

(He should never register "William Drake and Wife"). He may, however, register for each separately, if he wishes:

William Drake, Peterborough.
Mrs. William Drake, Peterborough.
Miss Alice Drake, Peterborough.

• • •

2.—This is an incomplete and incorrect service, and if it is possible to ask for a serving fork and spoon (as it would, for instance, be in a restaurant), then they should be asked for—graciously, of course. If it would be ungracious to ask for them, then you may use your own utensils to serve yourself.

• • •

3.—Sometimes this is done in restaurants in which the service is carried out on lines that are more utilitarian than correct. This method does keep the soup hotter, if the soup must be brought from a distance. But the method is not to be recommended.

BAKED FISH

Line your baking dish with oiled paper, when baking fish. It can be lifted out in perfect form and the paper comes off easily.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

WHILE on a recent week-end visit a thought came to me of something which isn't very much discussed in social etiquette—handshaking. I hadn't visited there for quite a long time and I was greatly impressed by the different feelings expressed in the handshakes I received.

• • •

How do you as a hostess, greet your guests? Do you give a hearty grip to insure them of a welcome, or is it just a lifeless grasp?

• • •

A handshake is a gesture of cordiality intended to express some degree of friendliness, or at least of willingness to be friendly for the time being. It need not be so strenuous as to be painful, but some sort of grip it must be, not a dead hand within another dead hand in the sort of lifelessly indifferent clasp known as the cold-fish handshake.

• • •

Men shake hands when introduced and when meeting after a long interval of absence. To-day, women shake hands much more generally than was the custom in former generations. When a man is introduced to a woman, she may bow and say, "How do you do?" or, in addition to that interrogative formula, she may offer to shake hands. A man does not extend his hand when greeting a woman; that is her privilege. But, if, unthinkingly, he does offer his hand, she clasps it, of course. If the man is gloved, he pulls off his right glove before shaking hands with her. In the same circumstances a woman does not remove her glove.

• • •

One lady said recently that muffin tins could be put to many uses in addition to the one which gives them their name. A home economics writer in a current household magazine says that they "are also used for baking cup cakes, 'clover leaf' rolls and for tiny pies for the lunch box.

• • •

The above article is also very useful for pressing beef or chicken—just fill your muffin pans and you have the nicest little rounds of pressed meat to lay on your platter, or for a salad.

• • •

When you have guests for breakfast don't fry your eggs in the 'spider' but melt a bit of butter in each muffin cup, drop in an egg, season, and bake in a moderate oven for a few minutes.

• • •

During this hot weather it is very difficult for some housewives to keep meat. One suggestion given is to remove it immediately upon its arrival from the wrappings and wrap it in waxed paper and place it in the ice-box.

If the meat is to be kept for any length of time, it is a good idea to sear it. Rub flour over it and brown it well on both sides. When cool place in the ice-box.

• • •

To marinade meat helps to preserve it and also adds to the flavor. A good marinade dressing consists of one part fat and two parts acid. The fat may be olive oil, or any other fat, and the acid may be vinegar or lemon juice. Cooked meats may also be marinaded as an additional protection against waste.

• • •

Fashion predicts that linen towels are to be larger. They are, apparently, affected by changing fashion as well as other more conspicuous household accessories. The present popular size shown in some city stores is about twenty to thirty-six inches, a decided change from the dinky handkerchief towel which was no more than an ornament for the rack.

• • •

A helpful suggestion as to how to keep butter firm when ice isn't to be had is sent us. Put it in a dish which has been placed in a shallow vessel of cold water and cover with an inverted new earthen-flowerpot which has been scalded and left to cool. The pot should rest in the water and the water should be changed from time to time. Cared for in this way butter will keep firm even in hot weather.

• • •

After an afternoon tea recently a lady complained that she couldn't make her tea taste as good as that made by her hostess. She was reminded by another guest that orange peel put in the water boiled to make tea would make a decidedly pleasant flavor. Probably that is what her hostess did—try it.

• • •

There are some things in this world which we just can't seem to be able to discard. I noticed recently when some people were moving, that beloved old portrait of Queen Victoria taken during the Jubilee. We don't very often see one hanging upon our walls, yet we carry it from house to house when we move and take it to the attic. Why is it that it is not in our power to dispose of those things which have served their time?

Decorated manicure cases to slip into handbags are being offered. There is room in the case for the three most essential instruments. The cases have a clasp, are made of suede and are lined in white kid. One the suede are embroidered small colorful designs.

• • •

Another novelty made to slip in a handbag is a watch. It is of the size of a wrist watch, but it has no strap, fitting instead into a case of leather or snakeskin. The watch, being flat, fits into a bag easily, occupying little space and guarded from any possibility of being broken when coming into contact with other objects.

She stepped out boldly into the street;
No rubbers covered her tiny feet.
No umbrella had she nor a coat;
Her new straw hat—well, we just note.
Far be it from her to start complaining,
She didn't get wet—it wasn't raining.

MARION'S MAIL

Doodums: This is not a column for "Advice to the love-lorn." I am endeavouring to make it really helpful, and it is common experience that such items as you suggest are more frivolous than useful or entertaining. Ask your mother the question you ask me.

• • •

Mrs. J. C. I have sent your inquiry on to Dr. McCoy, to whose department it really belongs. He will send the reply direct to you.

• • •

"Dear Marion:

The many and various opinions of love thrills witnessed at different ages are hard to understand.

Can you, dear Marion, tell me when a person knows when he or she are really in love?

One might like a person so much as a pal or a friend, but how discriminate this feeling from being so-called in love?

And do you think if a person twenty were to fall in love they would feel the same at say thirty?

Sincerely,
Sue."

Your letter, Sue, reminds me of a picture I saw in a magazine the other day. It was a very good picture of a cat, and on the picture was printed: "See the Cat." Down at the bottom was, "This is a Cat," with an arrow pointing to the pussy.

Do you wish to have it made as plain as that, whether you are in love or not? I suppose that if I could print a picture of love, and label it plainly, you would recognize it?

As for your second query, let me ask one in return. Are you in love with your girl pals? Can't you recognize any difference between your feeling for them and your feeling toward a certain man? I suppose you mean by a 'pal' one with whom you can play games, tramp arm in arm up coulees and clamber around the hills, or ride horseback, or motor?

And when, at thirty, changing conditions have made the diversions of twenty impossible, you wonder if you still love. Have not your personal tastes changed? So have his, and so have (if you will recognize the fact) your collective and united tastes. You may not feel the same; you may not give the same reason for living. I know of one case (or was it just a story?) where she fell in love because of the shape of his neck, and he avows he tumbled for her because there was a spot on her shoe. Don't you think that in ten years they may still love, though the shoe with the spot has been long discarded, and his neck may be developing wrinkles?

• • •

"Dear Marion:

Are women really parasites? So many men seem to have the opinion that their lives are made up of working for their womenfolk and going home to placate them and toady to them for the rest of the evening. I don't like to think of myself as a parasite, and certainly don't want to marry a man who will some day think of me as such.

Whosis."

I don't think you have been very fortunate in the men you have met, Whosis, although some of them may have been unfortunate in the women they married. There are parasites in both sexes, but they are so far in the minority as to be negligible—unless one marries one, which is different. I have often thought that if women would encourage their husbands to go hunting or fishing for a couple of weeks every year, the men would bring back a new appreciation of home and wife and the comforts they provide.

DULL BRASS

The brightness can be brought back to dull brass by soaking it for about a half-hour in a pint of boiling water to which a little rock ammonia has been added. After removal, polish with a chamois.

An Attractive Afternoon or Evening Frock

There are sure to be many occasions when a smart frock like the one pictured here will be found useful. Shirring forms an attractive trimming across the hips, at the front of the shoulders and top of the sleeve frills. For daytime wear the becoming convertible collar is suitable, while the sleeveless frock with the collarless round neck is appropriate for the evening. A note of contrast may be introduced by a strip of ribbon down the front and across the sides. No. 1663 is for Ladies and is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 4⅝ yards 39-inch, or 3¾ yards 54-inch material. View B requires 1⅛ yards less 39-inch material; 2¼ yards 3-inch ribbon.

MINISTRY SHOULD BE OPEN TO WOMEN

Ex-President of British Conference Endorses New Departure.

LONDON, Eng., July 23 (CP).—Speaking at the annual convocation of the Deaconess' Order of the Wesleyan Methodist Church recently, Rev. W. Russell Maltby, D.D., ex-president of the British Conference, endorsed whole-heartedly the opening of the ministry to women. Besides stating and arguing his views on the principle, Dr. Maltby suggested a practical means of discovering the acceptability of each woman for the pastorate. This, to his mind, was the crucial difficulty to be faced.

As ordained women are already ministering to several congregations in Britain, the question there is out of the academic stage and the pronouncement of this noted Wesleyan leader has aroused interest. He says:

"There are some women who appear to have all the gifts for the ministry that would be required if they were men. They ought to have the highest, the best, the utmost recognition which the church can give."

Pointing out that resolutions coming before the forthcoming annual conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church "would admit women to the ministry on pretty much the same terms as men," he suggested that deaconesses should certainly be eligible for ordination while still retaining membership in their order. This would prevent their becoming "stickit ministers" and getting the thing started wrong. Churches would be well able to judge of the acceptability of one who had been tried in deaconess work. Then, if she could not be stationed by conference she could find an opening again in deaconess' work. He recognised that the problem with women, as with men, in the ministry was to secure, train and ordain persons whom the circuits would want as pastors.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, JULY 24, 1928.

Again good and evil planetary aspects contend, according to astrology, which interprets the stars as posited in to-day's horoscope.

The morning should be a rarely auspicious time for sailing on long journeys. It is a lucky time to begin a vacation.

This is a rule making for foresight and wise decisions. It aids the subjective rather than the objective mental processes.

There is a sign of great promise regarding oil and oil interests. New demands and new uses are forecast.

Agitation regarding beverages of every sort will be widespread, for whatever concerns thirst is to be especially prominent in the public mind while this configuration prevails.

The death of a ruler much in the public eye is prognosticated and it will have a far-reaching effect, astrologers prophesy.

The evening of this day is not propitious for men who desire places in the Sun or for those who seek to forward their interests.

By the same sign the rule is not favorable to successful campaign work, for nominees may be exacting and unappreciative.

Wind storms of exceptional violence are forecast for many parts of the world and autumn storms this year may do exceptional damage.

There is success predicted for women lawyers, who will obtain high places in diplomacy.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have small difficulties in the coming year, but they are likely to have much happiness.

Children born on this day probably will be natural leaders. The subject of this signs are usually firm and decided by nature.

COMES BACK FOR MEAL.

LOS ANGELES, July 21. — Sentenced to 50 days in jail for vagrancy, Arthur Nichols became a trusty and walked out one morning before breakfast. Police brought him back to the judge who wanted to know why the prisoner had broken his trust. "My mental state must have been terrible or I would never have gone without my breakfast," replied Arthur. "Add 60 free breakfasts to the original 50," was the comeback from the bench.

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He decides to divorce his wife, Lady Edith. But just then Lady Edith becomes ill. The doctors promise her only a year of life and she makes Gaunt promise not to see Jennifer for that year. Jennifer is angry and decides to be as gay as she can on a legacy of eight thousand pounds left her by an uncle. She gives up her job and goes to work to have a good time. She meets DOLORES and BUDDY, two women who live in the flat above her new dwelling place. Through them she meets CHESNEY, who quarrels about her with Buddy and proposes to Jennifer.

CHAPTER VVII

Malcolm Pleads.

As she looked at her reflection in the silver mirror, Jennifer knew that lately she had been greatly drawn to Chesney. He wa s always so kind, so considerate; a man of whom one could always be sure. Dolores had once summed him up in her blunt manner:

"The man's a gentleman, in spite of his absurd monocle and his bored air. Marry him, Jennifer. Married to you he'll be as faithful as Death, and he'll keep on your level. Married to my poor Buddy, he'd have gone down and down. He's that sort. Show him the best, and he'll want it, but if he can't get it, he'll take any old second-best that's handy."

Jennifer had spent whole days in Chesney's company; days in the country, days on the river. Once he had spent a fortnight with her and Dolores at the Italian lakes.

"I seem to have done all the things with him which I always meant to do with Nicholas." Jennifer told herself as she sat in the growing light of the April morning, thinking, and wondering and trying to make up her mind.

Looking back on her life it seemed to stretch such a long way behind her; endless miles to the days when her chief excitement had been a sale in the Kilburn High Road, or a day at the seaside with her father and mother; an infinity since Gaunt came down to the little cottage at Porth and told her they would never part again.

"Oh, how is the poor devil?"

Ever since she heard the carelessly spoken words she had tried not to think of them, and yet they always seemed to be ringing in her ears. Was Gaunt so much to be pitied? and if so, why? Perhaps it was merely a figure of speech, for why should he be unhappy? He had chosen his own pathway through life, a pathway which led definitely away from hers, in spite of the fact that he had sworn he would never leave her again.

Jennifer rose to her feet and began slowly to undress. A little clock on the mantelshelf struck six. It hardly seemed worth while going to bed. When she drew aside the curtain and looked out, the street was filled with pearly grey light; soon it would be full morning. She slipped out of her frock and into a loose wrap and sat down again by the fire.

If she did not marry Chesney would life always go on like this, she wondered, or at least until her money came to an end?

Her thoughts went back to that night in the quiet little backwater off Notting Hill and to the first time Gaunt had kissed her.

"I have dreamed of this moment for five years," he said.

She almost laughed now as she thought of it, and of her own delirious joy. She had thought it the beginning of all happiness, but instead it had been the beginning of all sorrow. For the hundredth time since they parted she wondered what difference it would have made if she had kept him with her that first night. It was she who had checked the headlong passion which had had them both fast in its grip; she who had said:

"Kissing isn't a part of friendship, and you and I are going to be just friends."

No matter how they had pretended, it had not been for just friendship he had come to her that night. He had come as a man starved for love and companionship comes to the only woman for whom he has ever cared.

And she had sent him away.

Then Fate had given her a second chance; there had been the night when she told him of her proposed holiday in Cornwall, and he had wanted to go with her. She still remembered his impassioned appeal:

"Let me come with you, Jennifer. No one will know, and it would be just Heaven alone with you and the sea and the sun! Nobody will ever know . . . oh, my darling."

"No, no!"

Would it have made any difference if she had let him go with her? She knew well enough that it would. She knew that in those few days by the sea she could have bound Gaunt to her by ties which neither of them would ever have wished to break. And yet she had sent him away.

And the third time, after he had followed her to Mrs. Jilly's cottage, when she was too weak and ill to hold out any longer. Fate had stepped in and finished everything for them. That hurried journey to his wife in Italy, his return, and that torturous scene that autumn evening. . . Jennifer clasped her hands in pain and felt the moisture of suffering wet on her forehead.

Why think of it? It was all many months too late. All she had to think of now was the future and the answer which she must some day give to Malcolm Chesney.

"But I don't love him," she told herself, and something within her seemed to reply, "No, but you don't love anyone else, and you're growing older. Why not marry him and secure the future?"

Growing older! Jennifer smiled.

Sh e felt years younger than she had felt that day when she went down to Porth alone; years younger than when, driven by madness and despair, she had lifted her hand and struck Gaunt across the face.

Jennifer closed her eyes with a sudden sick feeling. Did all love end either in violence and misery, or just by petering out and growing cold? Well it mattered nothing to her now; she had closed the door upon love. If she married Chesney it would only be for companionship, good fellowship, liking, that was all. Never again would she give her heart to any man to torture and play with. Dolores said that all women suffered some time or another at a man's hands.

"I know I have!" she said in her blunt way. "But never again, my dear. I've done with that side of life."

But sometimes, when she was playing her "fiddle," as she called it, there was a note of great wistfulness and mourning in her music which made Jennifer think that in her heart Dolores still remembered.

"And memory is a cursed thing!" Jennifer thought passionately. "If only one could cut it out or destroy it!"

But although she tried to believe that she no longer loved him, she knew that nothing could ever destroy the memory of Gaunt's kisses or the clasp of his arms which had once made her Heaven.

The following night, as they had arranged, Malcolm Chesney called for Jennifer to take her to the Bohemian Club.

He found her lying on a couch in her sitting-room reading, a pile of cushions beneath her shapely head and a cigarette between her lips. Chesney stood still in the doorway.

"Not dressed?" he demanded blankly.

Jennifer laughed. "Not coming," she answered as curtly. "Tired out."

"Nonsense." He came forward, closing the door behind him, and stood beside her. "Are you ill?" he asked. He bent and took her un-resisting hand.

"Of course I'm not ill, only tired! My dear man, you forget that I'm not used to the pace that kills, as you are. All my life, until lately, I've been respectable, and have gone to bed at the proper time."

He sat down beside her. "So you're tired of it already, eh? Well, so am I, Jennifer. I'm sick of—of this sort of 'lost dog' existence, no home, and meals where you can snatch 'em. Jennifer, marry me and we'll go and live in the country!"

"I can't imagine it."

"I should adore it with you," he said earnestly. "We'll have a garden—somewhere near the river if you like. And we'll ride—can you ride, Jennifer?"

"No."

"Well, I'll teach you. And we'll play golf."

"I don't know how to."

"I'll teach you that as well," he said with undue optimism. "And we'll be as happy as the day is long."

Her eyes grew wistful. "You'd soon get tired of it, Malcolm, and long for the flesh pots of Egypt."

"Meaning the Bohemian Club, and Dolores, and all her set! My dear, I assure you that they are no more to me than just a means of marking time. If you were to say the word, I'd throw the whole lot over tonight with a thankful heart and never see them again."

(To be continued.)

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE DON'T APPRECIATE WHAT WE HAVE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

The story is told of a little boy who used to admire the house with golden windows over a hillside several miles away. Each evening at sunset time he would get all excited about the house with the golden windows.

One day he was permitted to make the pilgrimage to the other hill in quest of the secret. It took a long time for his little legs to cover the few miles to the neighboring hill. Finally, as he neared the place he could see nothing but an ordinary farmhouse and the windows were only glass, not overly clean.

He was the most disappointed boy in the world. His trip had been in vain. Tired and discouraged he sat down in front of the house to rest. The sinking sun was casting its rays in the direction of his own home. Lifting his eyes longingly toward home his heart leaped to his throat as he saw that his own home was the house with the golden windows.

We do not appreciate what we have because we lack the proper perspective to see its true worth. Like the boy in the story we need to get away from it to see the sun shining on it and turning it into gold. The things and persons that belong to us are too close. We need to get away from them for a while to appreciate their worth.

This is the genius of a vacation. Every man gets to the place where his work, his wife and children, his home with all its luxury begin to pall, to get on his nerves so wearg. A little distance, a little change and vacation perform wonders for him.

We do not appreciate what we have because it lacks romance. It is already ours and we do not exert ourselves in its behalf. We lost interest.

LYRICS OF LIFE

SOME WAY OUT

I've lost myself in many a wood,
My way in many a gale;
I have not always understood,
And wandered off the trail.
But when no stranger and no kin
Gave answer to my shout,
I said, "If there was some way in
There must be some way out."

And often in life's wilderness
I've lost my weary wa,
For yesterday what seemed success
Became defeat today.
But when the brambles tore my skin
With troubles all about,
I said, "If there was some way in
There must be some way out."

At times the foolish path we choose,
And fate's not always kind,
But if there was a trail to lose
There must be one to find.
When sad with failure, sick with sin,
Surrender not to doubt,
Because, if there was some way in,
There must be some way out!

Information Regarding Two Well Known Stocks

MONTREAL, July 23.—Imperial Oil—A stock that has given a good account of itself in the declining market has been Imperial Oil. "The shares of this company are being bought to-day because of the fact that holders of the stock in the past have reaped handsome rewards," remarked a partner of a house who has always been closely identified with the affairs of the company.

It is interesting to trace an investment in this company since 1914. In that year 100 shares could have been bought for less than $12,500. If all the stock dividends were kept together with the "rights," the number of shares held now has increased to 4,928 worth at 65, $320,320. In the meantime cash dividends and bonuses have amounted to $59,044. The net profit on the above mentioned transaction would be $341,684 or $3,416 a share. This showing indicates the performance of Imperial Oil in the past and gives the investor some idea as to what he may expect in years to come.

At the present time a dividend at the rate of $1.50 a share per annum is being paid, thus the yield at existing levels of 2.30 per cent is very low, but the reasonable expectancy of long range growth in values, compensates for low rate of cash income.

Imperial Oil is controlled through stock ownership by the Standard Oil of New Jersey, who is acknowledged the strongest organization in the petroleum industry. Imperial Oil owns 4,250,000 shares, or the controlling interest, of International Petroleum, on which they receive one dollar a share in cash dividends annually which is nearly half the amount needed to pay the entire dividend on their own stock. Expenditures made in recent years in the development of the property owned by the International Petroleum Company has not as yet been fully reflected in earnings, due to low prevailing prices for crude and refined products.

Brompton.—The recent liquidation in Brompton was understood to be for the account of traders who had purchased the stock at a much higher level, whereas the buying is reported as of an intelligent sort. Brompton has suffered like the other paper stocks because of the unsettlement in the industry. However, it should not be overlooked that during the past year and a half several outstanding changes have been made within the company, not the least important of which has been the complete elimination of the company's funded debt and preferred stock, with the result that the entire capitalization is now 900,000 shares of no par value common stock . Rather a unique position to be in during a storm. Therefore the status of the common stock is greatly enhanced as a result of the above-mentioned capital change for it is practically a first charge on the company's earnings.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

After making due allowance for the changes and allowing the same amount for depreciation, earnings for the year 1927 were $4.88 a share on the 300,000 shares of common stock that are outstanding. During the first six months of the company's year, it is reported that earnings were substantially higher; in fact, they are at the rate of $5.30 a share per annum. Brompton's total assets are valued at $9,869,056, which is the equivalent of $65.78. The net working capital amounts to $2,972,621. Besides the company is well fortified with splendid limits.

Mine Trading Is Light With Prices Irregular

TORONTO, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Trading was light on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, and prices showed marked irregularity, with gains and losses about equally balanced. Noranda continued strong, and with a large turnover advanced 70 from Friday's closing price to 58.20. Hollinger was easier, dropping 15 to 11.40. Sudbury Basin took a sharp decline to 8.20, and closed at 8.50, with a loss of 50. Amulet was down five at 4.35.

Sherritt Gordon had an active session and dropped five to 6.95. The other western issues were strong for the most part. Hudson Bay, on light trading advanced 15 to 18.65, and Central Manitoba confined itself to a loss of two to 1.00. Pend Oreille, however, was down, dropping 75 to 14.25 on very light trading, and Big Missouri was down four at 66. Mint Ore was up two at 35, and Mandy nine at 3.29.

Toronto Market Quiet With Prices Holding Firm

TORONTO, July 23.— (Canadian Press.) —The early session of the Toronto stock exchange to-day was featureless. Prices were practically unchanged and sales were few. Bell Telephone with light trading gained one point at 164½, and Pressed Metal rose one at 76.

International Nickel remained firm at 92½, while Tucketts preferred lost one at 117½.

The oils were fractionally higher in the curb, with British American advancing 1-8 at 37½, Imperial ¼ at 66¼, and Volcanic ½ at 38.

Distillers Seagrams climbed ¼ at 17½, while Canada Dry Ginger Ale Rights sagged 1-8 at 1 1-8.

Activity was slight in the bank section, with gains and losses about balancing. Commerce gained two at 197, Dominion one at 258 and Imperial one at 283. Montreal and Standard each sank one at 359 and 227 respectively.

Lower Liverpool Prices Cause Drop In Wheat

CHICAGO, July 23.— (Canadian Press).—Much lower Liverpool quotations than looked for led to fresh early setbacks to-day in wheat values here. The weakness of the Liverpool market was ascribed to excellent new crop prospects in Canada and to a probable large carry-over from the old Canadian crop. Opening ⅞ to 2¼ cent off, Chicago wheat later underwent a further drop. Corn and oats went down with wheat, corn starting ⅛ to 1⅞ cent off, and afterward continuing to sag. Provisions were irregular.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 122¾; September, 126⅛; corn, July 105½; September 95½. Oats, July 47¼; September 40.

HARRISON AS RELIEF HEAVER HOLDS OSHAWA IN CHECK AND PETES END LONG LOSING STREAK

Win From Motorists Before Huge Picnic Crowd by 10 to 9.

LOTS OF ACTION

Losers 4 to 0 in Front at One Stage, But Matthews Fade.

(By F. D. C.)

The politicians may be of the opinion that Hon. R. B. Bennett was the star of the Conservative picnic at Oshawa on Saturday but the vote of the Peterborough Ball Club goes solidly to Hap Harrison as the hero of the occasion. Harrison not only did a remarkable job of pinch pitching, blanking the Motorists in the last three frames but his long double followed by another from the bat of Max Swanston gave the Petes the run that enabled them to beat Oshawa 10 to 9 and bring their long losing streak to an end.

Thousands of people, fresh from hearing the Conservative leader, circled the ball diamond at Lakeview Park when the team began their battle and they saw a game that was full of interest and excitement. Oshawa led 4 to 0 at the end of the fourth but the Petes tied it up on the fifth only to have the Motorists take the lead again in their half. And then in the next frame after the invaders had set up a four run margin, Oshawa came back in their end of the frame with a quartette of markers that sewed up the battle again. Finally, however the Harrison-Swanston one-two punch in the eighth settled the argument and the Petes had beaten Oshawa for the first time this season.

At that they should have won without nearly so much trouble. Rose in centre field, lost track of two easy flies, the double failure to get a line on the ball giving Oshawa four runs and they got another after Macdonald had apparently retired the side by a fine running catch of a long fly only to have Umpire Kay rule that the play was out of bounds because the ball was caught behind a section of the crowd. And on top of that Batten got balled up and tossed away a sure run by failing to come in on a long fly to deep right.

Matthews started the game for Oshawa while Al. Heckman was the Petes' original gunner. Matthews began in great style holding the Petes to two hits and no runs in the first four innings but they got to him for nine runs and nine hits in the next two frames and finally after Harrison and Swanston had put the Petes in front in the eighth Duke Dainty led a one-man rescue expedition out into the diamond. The wily left-hander stopped the Petes but the relief had arrived too late.

Heckman should have had a much easier task than he had in holding the Motorists but the centre field lapses were costly while the Oshawa gang bunched hits in several frames. The Petes' veterans however, showed that he will be a factor in the battles that remain to be played.

Harrison took over the pitching burden in the seventh with the score tied and he fast-balled the Oshawa attack into submission. He had a world of speed and the Motorists who didn't strike out, popped easy flies or hit weak grounders. In the three frames the big fellow worked Herb. Wolfe got the only hit off him and that came with two out in the eighth. Harrison's speed was too much for the Schultz-led crew and saved the day for the Petes who, after throwing away a run in the seventh, got the winning marker in the next frame.

It was a free hitting affair with lots of men on the bases and some smart fielding mixed in and the big crowd remained until the last man was out. Jones, the Oshawa left fielder, had the feature play when he took Harrison's fly with his gloved hand while running at top speed and held the ball even after Wolfe collided with him. Rose, after he came back to second base, made a fine catch of a short fly back of first.

Wolfe with four hits to his credit was the leading batsmen of the day while Batten was next in line with three singles.

How It All Happened.

Oshawa did all the early scoring. In the first after McCallum fanned, Williams was called safe on a roller to Harrison and Rose failed to see Jones' lofted to centre which dropped for a hit. Singles by Matthews and Young and Rose's high throw to third sent two runs in after which Heckman fanned Wolfe and got Morrison on a pop to Johnston.

In the second with Quinn out of the way on a fly to Ash, Kellar drew a pass, was sacrificed to second by McCallum and scored on Williams' double to right. Heckman tossed out Jones.

The Petes had their first chance in the third when Batten led off with a single and Macdonald was safe on Sutton's fumble. Johnston sacrificed the pair along but Wilgar struck out and Rose flied to Jones.

Oshawa made it 4 to 0 in the fourth. Quinn doubled to centre and was sacrificed to third by Kellar. McCallum's single to centre scored Quinn and Williams was safe on Harrison's fumble. Jones flied to Wilgar and McCallum was doubled up trying to go to third, Wilgar to Harrison to Batten.

The Petes tied it up in the fifth. Heckman singled to left and Batten to centre. Macdonald hit to McCallum who tried to tag Batten on the line and missed him, the play filling the bases. Johnston squeezed the first run over with a neat bunt and Wilgar's long double to right field scored Batten and Macdonald. Rose singled to right scoring Wilgar. Ash flied to Sutton and Rose went to second on the second baseman's bad throw to first. Harrison grounded to Kellar.

Oshawa took the lead again in their half. Matthews rolled to Johnston and Young fanned. Macdonald ran back of the crowd in left and made a nice catch of Wolfe's long foul, but Umpire Kay ruled that the ball was out of bounds. Wolfe then singled over second and Morrison and Quinn followed with singles to score Wolfe. Kellar fanned.

The Petes came right back with five runs. Swanston singled down the first base line and Heckman hit to right for a base. Batten singled over second filling the bases. Macdonald walked, forcing in Swanston. Johnston flied to Jones and Wilgar fanned and the rally looked to be over. Rose, however, singled past first scoring Heckman and Batten and Macdonald scored when Morrison missed Ash's roller. Harrison's single through short scored Rose and Swanston up for the second time walked, filling the bases again. Heckman rolled to Morrison.

The Motorists tied it up again in their half. McCallum walked, Johnston was under Williams' pop but Jones doubled to deep left to score McCallum. Matthews was tossed out by Batten. Young scratched a hit on a roller along the third base line and Wolfe singled to short scoring Jones. Rose didn't make a move after Morrison's high fly to centre which went for a double, scoring Young and Wolfe. Quinn drew a pass but Kellar hoisted one to Johnston.

The Petes should have flashed in front in the seventh but didn't. Batten strolled and went to second on Macdonald's out to Kellar. Johnston singled over second. Wilgar raised a long fly to deep right but Batten got all tangled up on the play and held third throwing away a sure-fire run. Rose flied to Wolfe.

Harrison went to the firing line for the Petes in Oshawa's half. He struck out McCallum, got Williams on a roller to Ash and then fanned Jones.

The Petes won out in the eighth. After Ash had been thrown out Harrison poled a long double to right centre and a moment later carried the winning run over when Swanston doubled over Jones' head. This was enough for Matthews and Duke Dainty went to the rescue. Swanston went to third on a passed ball but Bert Hall lifted one to Young and Dainty knocked down Batten's vicious liner and got the batter at first.

In Oshawa's half Matthews was called out on strikes and Batten tossed out Young. Wolfe singled on the ground into right, but Morrison rolled to Harrison.

The Petes died in order in the ninth while Oshawa got a man on in their half. Elliott was out on a nice catch by Rose and Sutton, batting for Kellar, lifted a high one to Batten. McCallum got a life on Rose's fumble but Dainty lifted one to Macdonald and the game was over.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Teco and North Enders will meet to-night in Confederation Square.

The Petes on Saturday were masters of the occasion in Oshawa and beat the Motorites by one run thus bringing to an end a slump with six losses. Walt Schultz sent Morrison in to do the hurling but before the game was over an S.O.S. call was sent out for Duke Dainty the veteran who beat Deloro twice on Wednesday. Heckman started for the Petes and was relieved by Hap Harrison who turned in a wonderful exhibition and blanked the Oshawa team.

The Royals and Kiwanis made a real game out of it on Saturday in the Junior City League finals. The boys from the All Saints Athletic club were on the long end of a 4 to 2 score but they had to play real baseball to do it. The Kiwanis put up a good fight which was enjoyed by the fans. Kitchen who pitched for the winners struck out fourteen, walked four and hit one and Crary for the Kiwanis registered nine strike outs and one walk.

Oshawa this year appears to have a real junior baseball team which will be matched against the winners of the Kiwanis-Royals series. The Oshawa boys were too much for the locals last year and from the present records of the team the Peterborough boys will sure have to play baseball to beat them. Last week they beat the Irish-Canadians last years Junior Champions.

The Peterborough Softball League is tightening down to a very close race. With the DeLaval's loss on Saturday night they are now tied for first place with Harrison's north enders with one loss each. The Canadian General Electric team are running a close second, with two losses. The Teco boys and the Peterborough Lockworks have lost three each. To-night the Teco outfit and North Enders meet to replay the tie game of Friday night. Both teams battled for eleven innings on Friday night with the final score being three all.

YANKEES LOSE TO WHITE SOX

Urban Faber Turns Back World Champions by a 6 to 4 Score.

DETROIT WINS

NEW YORK, July 23 (Canadian Press). — Urban Faber, ancient Yankee jinx man, creaked onto the mound at the Stadium yesterday and turned back the champions by a score of 6 to 4 in a game where the winning runs were furnished on Faber's own single in the eighth inning. The defeat broke up a Yankee streak of eight straight, and gave the White Sox their first victory in New York this season.

The Yankees hit Red often, but he tightened up with men on bases, no fewer than thirteen Yanks being left. Henry Johnson gave the White Sox only three safeties in five and two-third innings, but he was undone by six passes. Wilcy Moore came to the rescue, and had to assume the defeat, when Faber's single broke a four to four tie in the eighth.

Browns Win.

The St. Louis Browns won the opening game of the series at Cleveland yesterday by defeating the Indians 8 to 5. The invaders got the margin of victory in the fifth inning when Hudlin and Levsen issued five bases on balls.

Eddie Morgan, the Indians' young first baseman, hit a home run in the eighth inning with two on base.

Detroit Loses.

The Senators ended a long stay at home yesterday by defeating Detroit eight to two, taking four out of five of the series. The victory moved Washington up to fifth place as St. Louis defeated Cleveland.

Holloway, Detroit right hander, was ineffective while Braxton, Washington southpaw, turned in a well pitched game. Heilmann and Judge hit home runs.

TORONTO WINS DOUBLEHEADER

Montreal Royals Drop Two to Maple Leafs Yesterday.

ELEVEN INNINGS

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 ((Canadian Press).—Toronto Leafs captured both games of the double-header here yesterday afternoon from the Royals, winning the first game 4-3, after a hectic 11-inning struggle and the second abbreviated contest 4-3.

Home runs played a big part in the winning of both games, though both contests produced as fine exhibitions of pitching as has been seen in the local park this year. Tom Gulley clouted out his fifteenth and sixteenth home runs of the season, a circuit blow in each game. The second clout drove in three runs in the first innings to tie the score, a homer over the scoreboard by Easterling in the sixth winning the game for the Leafs.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 23. — The Baltimore Orioles took the first game of a double bill here yesterday from the Newark Bears, 2 to 1, when Lefty Bolen bested Brennan and Mocre in a tight mound duel and then came back to tie the score in the fifth inning of the second game, which was called in the seventh on account of darkness with the count knotted — four all.

Catcher Skiff, of the visitors, was chased from the game in the fifth inning by Umpire Myers for delaying the game and Lew Malone, visiting third baseman, followed him when he argued the banishment of his teammate with Myers.

The first game was marked by the hitting of Kingdon, who in four times at the bat collected a home-run and two doubles for three of the Newark total of five hits.

SPLIT AT JERSEY CITY.

JERSEY CITY, July 23. — Jersey City broken even with Reading in a double-header yesterday, winning the abbreviated second game, 6 to 3, after being shut out in the opener, 2 to 0.

Parks pitched a fine game for the Keys in the first encounter, letting the home team down with five scattered hits.

In the second game Reading gathered the same number off the delivery of C. Walsh, while Jersey City bunched six hits for two three run tallies in the first and seventh innings.

Smith, local first-sacker, bore the burden of the day's work with 20 put-outs in the first game, and three extra base hits in the second.

ROYALS WIN HARD BATTLE WITH KIWANIS IN FIRST GAME OF JUNIOR PLAYOFFS

Crary and Kitchen, Rival Pitchers, Turn in an Excellent Game.

SCORE 4-2

Losers Are Blanked in Last Eight Innings—Twenty-Three Strikeouts.

Two teams, evenly matched, combining masterly pitching with stirling defensive and offensive work, was the spectacle enjoyed by Peterborough fans at James Stevenson park on Saturday afternoon when Royals, of all Saints' Athletic Club, took the first of a three game series from Jack Deannard's Kiwanians, by 4-2, thereby getting one hand on the Junior City Championship cup—with thanks largely due to their wise choice of a pitcher. Kitchen, after being picked for two counters in the first session, proceeded to blank the opposition for the remaining eight, allowing but six hits in the entire contest; striking out fourteen batters, walking four and hitting one, as compared with a less impressive but almost equally valuable performance on the part of Crary, who, going to the mound for Kiwanis, struck out nine men, allowed nine hits, but only walked one.

Saturday's game was of championship calibre throughout, with only two errors, one by a member of each team; with some heavy artillery work and truly clever fielding and great pitching, especially in the pinches, for both Kitchen and Crary were once faced with the proposition of loaded stations, and both climbed out by the striking-out process. On one occasion, the fourth inning, Crary retired the Royals on six pitched balls, striking out a man and forcing the next two batters to hit into easy outs; Kitchen balanced this in the sixth by striking out three men in a row after hitting the first batsman. There was little to choose from between the rival outfits, the Kiwanians leading until the sixth and the fact that both teams were blanked in the last two sessions indicates that it was no walk away either way. The winners took advantage of a lucky seventh to garner their last two counters after scoring one in the sixth and one in the third.

There were other particularly bright spots in the day's entertainment and among them was a double play, by Risheau, unassisted. He picked off a hard drive by Hartley after Jones had reached second in the eighth inning and running to the bag, caught the Royals' third sacker, on too long a lead. Two baggers by Gordon, Jones and Risheau were long, clean hits past the outfielders, while Dormer's steal home for the first run of the game was a smart piece of work. Graham had swung at a wide one and on the pitcher's second wind-up, a brief one, Dormer started for the plate. Graham swung wide and the runner slid in with Hatton making a hard but unsuccessful attempt to tag him. Five Kiwanians were put out when they hit into the air, as were four of the Royals, not a fly being dropped during the whole game. The game by innings:

First Innings.

Royals.—Hope fanned, H. Hollingsworth hit to first and was out; Beavis hit through second and stole second and third before Hatton was hit by Crary. L. Hollingsworth drew a free ticket but Crary proceeded to climb out of a nasty situation, fanning Jones with the stations loaded. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Kiwanis.—Dormer led off with a clean single between second and third and went to second when Cotton walked. Walton also drew a pass to clutter the bags. Graham struck out, but on his second strike Dormer made a daring but successful steal home for the first run of the game. Risheau doubled and Cotton came in. Gillespie and Deannard whiffed the regulation three. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Second Innings.

Gordon doubled to centre field after Hartley had struck out, but Kitchen was thrown out, Crary to Graham and Archambault made a nice catch of Hope's long drive to left field. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Crary hit to H. Hollingsworth and was thrown out at first. Archambault struck out and Dormer's single to centre field was wasted when Cotton also fanned. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Third Innings.

Walton got a life when Hartley dropped his hit, and advanced to second on a nice sacrifice bunt by Graham. Risheau walked, Walton going to third when Kitchen threw to second and no one took the throw. Gillespie and Deannard fanned. No runs, no hits, 1 error.

Fourth Innings.

Hartley struck out; Gordon was thrown out, Risheau to Graham, and Kitchen was thrown out, Crary to Graham. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Crary flied out to Beavis, Archambault struck out and Dormer was thrown out, H. Hollingsworth to Gordon. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Cotton was thrown out by H. Hollingsworth. Walton was thrown out at first and so was Graham, their hits going to Hartley, who made nice pick-ups of each. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Hatton beat Dormer's throw to first and stole second. He advanced to third when L. Hollingsworth was thown out at first. Jones struck out and Hollingsworth came in on Hartley's hit that went between second and third. Gordon struck out. 1 run, 2 hits, no errors.

Risheau was hit by Kitchen, but the next three men, Gillespie, Deannard and Crary, struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Innings.

Kitchen got a life on Walton's error and Hope drove a fast one past Graham, scoring Kitchen. H. Hollingsworth was thrown out by Walton and Beavis went out at first when he hit to Risheau. Hatton hit to left field, scoring Hope, but L. Hollingsworth was thrown out by Risheau. 2 runs, 2 hits, 1 error.

Archambault flied out to Gordon; L. Hollingsworth collected Dormer's long fly and after Cotton had hit through first base territory, Walton struck out. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Graham struck out. Risheau walked, Gillespie struck out. Risheau was forced at second when Deannard hit to Hartley, who threw to Jones. No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Kitchen flied out to Risheau. Hope was thrown out, Crary to Graham, and H. Hollingsworth was out at first when he hit to Risheau. No runs, no hits, no errors.

TORNTO C. C. IS 19 RUNS UP

Game Here On Saturday Ends in Victory For Visiting Team.

FIELDING EXCELS.

Peterborough C. C. was beaten by the Toronto C. C. by 19 runs on Saturday afternoon at Nicholl's Oval. The Toronto XI winning the toss, went into bat first. A disastrous start was made, seven wickets falling for 25 runs. The last three men, however, brought the score up to 62. "The Dean of Cricketers" Dyce Saunders, making 10 not out.

The bowling of Dunkerley and Wade was very good, the former taking four wickets for 12 runs and the latter two for 32. F. Dyer took one wicket for 12 and Elliott one for 6. The fielding of the Peterborough XI was very keen all round, Wade making two very smart catches and Hammond disposing of the last batsman with a very sharp one-handed catch at mid on. Dunkerley's throwing out a batsman by a quick return was another feature of the innings. Gore was excellent at the wicket, the score showing no extras.

On going in to bat the Peterborough eleven soon found that the opposing bowling and fielding equalled theirs, and seven wickets again fell for 25 runs; the late three batsmen, however, only brought the score to 43. The last wicket put on 13 runs; Gore being not out eleven and playing fine cricket.

Mercer took six wickets for 24 and Dewar four for 12. J. H. Burnham and Walter Stocker ably officiated as umpires. W. Davies acted as scorer.

After the match about 30 players had supper at the Paragon Rooms and enjoyed the delicious fare provided by Charles Coleman and spent a social half hour with a few impromptu speeches. Several members of the Toronto club commented most favourably on the Oval as an ideal cricket ground and expressed the hope of making another visit to Peterborough before the season closes, also extending a hearty welcome to the Peterborough club to visit their grounds for a game whenever the club could make the trip.

Peterborough members are reminded that practices will be as usual and are requested to be at the Oval as early as possible on account of the light.

LOCAL REGATTA DATES UNKNOWN

City Cannot Build Tower For Divers At George Street Wharf.

Citizens that have been wondering why the regattas that were planned for this month at Little Lake have not been scheduled will be disappointed when they hear that it is indefinite when they will be held. The chairman of the committee that is sponsoring the regattas told The Examiner that because of the responsibility involved in the erection of a diving tower on George Street Wharf, the city cannot see its way clear to build the promised tower. He added that the expense was too great for the committee itself to undertake and that there is no definite idea when the next regatta will be held in the city.

WILL COMPETE IN IRISH GAMES

Canadians Will Have Representatives at Tailteann Games.

OLYMPIC TEAM

AMSTERDAM, July 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—Assurance of Canadian participation in the Tailteann athletic games to be held in Ireland at the close of the Olympics has been given by the Hon. Peter Heenan, Canadian Minister of Labor, according to Hon. J. J. Walsh, member of the Dail for Cork and director of the Tailteann games. In a letter to the American team going to Ireland, he says: "We the Tailteann International Council have got full assurance from Hon. Mr. Heenan to the effect that Canada will be fully represented at the Tailteann at her own expense. Mr. Heenan assured me personally in Dublin that there was ample money for the purpose."

Since the arrival of the Canadians in Amsterdam an active propaganda campaign has been waged to secure Canadian participation in the Tailteann.

The situation at present is that an American has raised a separate fund to send 26 runners, 8 swimmers, 20 footballers and 20 hurdlers, direct from New York to the Tailteann games on the Franconia, sailing on July 28 to Queenston.

A special meeting of the local football association will be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at 8 o'clock prompt. Executive and members of the board please attend.

On Saturday afternoon, the Canadian General meets the C.G.E. (Davenport) team at Nicholl's Oval for the championship of the General Electric Works. Last year the local boys were leading one goal to nothing when the game was stopped. The previous year the local boys lost the White Trophy to the visitors.

Local fans will be glad to learn that player Robb of the C.G.E. team is making satisfactory progress at home. He left the hospital last week and anticipates a quick recovery, although his leg is still in the plaster.

ROSENEATH, July 23.—The baseball game on Saturday afternoon, played between Coldsprings and Roseneath, resulted in favor of Roseneath, the score being 15 to 14. The first part of the game Roseneath played well and at the end of the eighth innings, Roseneath had 14 runs of Coldsprings' 4. At the ninth innings Coldsprings broke loose and scored 10 runs, tieing the game. Roseneath scored one run in their half to win out.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BONAR LAW, July 23.—Marjorie Sweet, 4, was badly pierced in the abdomen when she fell on a snag while at play, last Tuesday afternoon. TWO IN RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Either Calles or Saens Will Be Next President of Mexico.

MORONES RESIGNS

MEXICO CITY, July 23 (Associated Press).—Either President Calles or Aaron Saenz, Governor of Nueva Leon, will rule Mexico for the next two years, Colonel Ricardo Topete, acknowledged leader of the Obregon National party, declared in an interview here yesterday.

Morones Resigns.

Obeying instructions from the Central Committee of Regional Federation of Labor, Luis Morones, secretary of Labor and long a political enemy of the late President-elect Obregon, tendered his resignation to President Calles late Saturday night. Celestino Gasco, chief of Ordinance Supplies, and Eduardo Moneda, chief of the Government printing shops, both prominent Labor leaders, also resigned. It was announced last night that President Calles had accepted the resignation.

In a statement explaining his resignation, Morones said it was "for the purpose of avoiding every pretext that our permanence in office may obstruct the maintenance of solidarity in the revolutionary family. We hope that committal to authorities of the statement made Saturday by Congressman Soto y Gama regarding our personalities may help once more to bring the truth to light on the murder which has justly brought consternation to the public."

The life of Morones has been considered in danger since Obregon's death, and is still considered in danger, although his resignation appears to have had a soothing effect upon the public and to have lessened the general feeling of tension. In the last day or so public threats to kill the Secretary of Labor have been frequent and he has been under a constant guard.

Known for years as a personal and political enemy of Obregon, Senor Morones was charged by Obregonist leaders as one of the "psychological authors" of the assassination.

PERSONALS

(Examiner Correspondence)

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 23.—The hay crop in this part was almost all stored in the barns last week. The fall wheat is coloring fast and presents a beautiful golden appearance. In a week's time it is thought that a number of fields will be cut. The barley also is beginning to don a different hue. The recent rains meant dollars to the farmer, as the ground was getting very dry and hard. It was a boom, too, to the potato crop and the mangels and turnips. Corn has done well in the past two weeks; the very warm days do much to aid the rapid growth of corn.

The strawberries are comparatively finished. The dry weather seemed to have shortened their stay and the last picking was very small, although the strawberries have been a wonderful crop. Raspberries are in full bloom and show signs of an abundant crop if dry weather does not prevail.

The gardens now furnish onions, lettuce, green beans, green peas, radishes, early carrots and beets for the noon-day meal. Early potatoes were cooked for dinner on the 12th of July from a local garden.

FLIGHT STARTS TO NEW YORK

French Aviators Left Brest Harbor Late Yesterday Afternoon.

SCIENTIFIC FLIGHT

BREST, France, July 23 (Canadian Press).—Another French airplane was out over the Atlantic last night in an effort to span the ocean from east to west and to retrieve the failure of Coli and Nungesser.

The French seaplane, "La Fregate" (The Frigate Bird) rose from the waters of Brest Harbor at 5.05 p.m. yesterday, with New York as its goal. Naval Lieut. Paulin Paris was at the controls with Relief Pilot Marrot and Wireless Operator Cadou keeping him company aboard.

Lieut. Paris expects to slip down into the harbor of Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, for breakfast and a fresh supply of gasoline this morning. From there he will fly straight to Bermuda and thence to New York, stopping at Bermuda for fuel if necessary.

If upon his arrival at New York, he thinks a return flight feasible, he has been instructed by the French Navy and Commerce Departments, under whose auspices the flight is being made, to fly back to Brest by way of Newfoundland.

The flight of La Fregate is more a scientific than a sporting affair. It is the first French effort to cross the North Atlantic by a seaplane, and preparations for it have been going on for more than a year.

La Fregate is built to stand rough weather not only in the sky but on the surface of the ocean, and is equipped with a wireless outfit capable of sending and receiving on both long and short wave lengths.

The pilot said before taking off that he intended to radio his position hourly, but four hours after he had disappeared in the western sky no word had yet come from him. This omission, however, caused no anxiety here.

His plan was to cut across the Bay of Biscay, taking a bearing off Cape Finistere, Spain, and, then head straight for the Azores. Meteorological and other reports from the vicinity of the route chosen were favorable.

The aviator, whose plans had been in perfect trim for weeks, received instructions from the Navy Department yesterday morning to take off any hour that seemed propitious to him. He scanned the weather reports throughout the morning and then at noon ordered the tanks filled and hurried to his home to bid his family farewell.

The two 480 horsepower Gnome-Rhone-Jupiter motors set in tandem fashion directly atop the big biplane started shortly before five o'clock, and after shaking with the well-wishers who had come down to say goodbye, Lieut. Paris took off.

He circled for a few moments over the ships of the French Mediterranean squadron lying in the harbor, and then getting his direction headed westward.

QUICK PILE RELIEF

Can only come by removing the cause—bad circulation in the lower bowel. Nothing but an internal remedy can bring quick and sure relief. That's why ointments and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's internal treatment HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. Money refunded by McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and all good druggists, if not satisfied.

MINISTER HOPES TO TOUR HIGHWAY

Hon. Charles Dunning not Sure yet he will be Able to Come.

Indicating that there is some hope of the Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, inspecting the Trent waterway system this summer, relative to completing the Seven River district of it, the following letter has reached the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce from the minister himself. It reads:

"On my return to the City, your letter of July 12th has been placed before me, and I note the resolution with regard to the early completion of the Trent Waterway and also suggesting an inspection by the Minister of Railways and Canals.

"I am sorry I am not yet in a position to say definitely whether I will be able to make an inspection of the Trent Canal System this year, as my plans for the remainder of the summer are not yet complete. If, however, I find it possible to do so, I shall be glad to bear in mind the invitation to visit the Severn Division."

EXAMINER STAFF ENJOYS PICNIC

A very pleasant picnic was enjoyed by The Examiner staff at South Beach on Saturday afternoon, with more than 40 members participating. Dinner was served in South Beach Hotel, and the proprietor, W. E. Brooks, placed the pavilion at the service of the party for dancing.

In the afternoon, while some swam and others lounged in the shade, a softball game was played with the men and women forming opposing sides. The score was 11 to 10 in favor of the women, and every member of the winning team was presented with a prize. The players were: Marita Collins, Winnifred Cadd, Katheryn Rowland, Mrs. J. R. Heron, Winnie Bethune, Isabel Scott, M. Maher, and for the men, J. Richardson, H. Shackleton, A. Miller, R. Taylor, J. Beauclerc, J. Cullen and W. Craw. The ladies were assisted by F. Scates, R. Pilling and E. Humpage, and the game was umpired by H. Lacheur.

In the ladies' race, Miss Rowland won first prize and Miss Bethune second; in the thread-the-needle race honors were taken by the same two; the three-legged race for men brought N. Clark and J. Cullen to the fore; J. Richardson and W. Craw were first and second in the men's race, and in the men's thread-the-needle race J. Richardson led R. Taylor was a split second.

Barnyard golf, enjoyed on the sandy beach, resulted in a win for R. Holyman and R. Taylor.

During the course of the afternoon a very interesting contest was held, in which the men lined up to be judged for beauty by the ladies, who voted on a secret ballot. Harry Lacheur was the ladies' choice as the most handsome man, with Bert Grey a close second. The remainder of the vote was not given out because several of the men who pride themselves upon their handsome looks were not even mentioned by the fickle ladies.

There were present: Mr. and Mrs. E. Humpage, Mr. and Mrs. F. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Beauclerc; Mr. and Mrs. R. Pilling; Mr. and rMs. B. Gray; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Heron, Mrs. Spofford, Miss Bernice Spofford, Misses K. Rowland, Isabel Scott, M. Maher, W. Bethune, L. Foulger, D. Hetherington, A. Genge, Marita Collins, Winnifred Cadd, C. Garvey, M. Garvey, L. Garvey, Messrs. J. Jackson, A. Butcher, C. Butcher, H. Lacheur, J. Cullen, W. Craw, R. Taylor, H. Shackleton, G. Johnson, R. Holyman, F. Scates, N. Clark, J. Richardson.

CAR DIVES INTO CANAL

WELLAND, July 23.—Mrs. Mamie Warden, 36, of Fulton, N.Y., was drowned yesterday afternoon in the Welland Canal at Allanburg, when her car took a nose-dive over the stone parapet into the water. Her three companions, Louise Leitch, Lloyd Merrithew, and Horace Looker, all of Buffalo, were saved. The party was returning from Port Maitland when, nearing the Allanburg bridge, the driver, Mrs. Warden, noticing that it was opened, completely lost her head, the occupants of the car state, and instead of applying the brakes, swung her car to the right on to the clay canal bank, with the result that it toppled over the bank into the waters below.

Among the party will be those pictured ABOVE (1) being David Kirkwood, Glasgow Socialist, member of the House of Commons, whose fiery remarks once caused his suspension; (2) Sir Patrick McGrath, well-known journalist and president of the Legislative Council of Newfoundland; (3) Viscount Peel, former Secretary of State for India and now Commissioner of Works, whose duties include supervision of the Tower of London and royal residences; (4) Lord Thomson, ex-Secretary of State for Air, who believes future travel will be by aeroplanes serving as Imperial links, and (5) Thomas Shaw, who started work as a weaver when ten years old and who became Minister of Labor in Ramsay MacDonald's Cabinet in 1924.

BEAUTIFUL ESTATE IS BONAR LAW'S MEMORIAL

Ashridge Is Offered to Conservative Party as an Educational Centre.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S HOME

Will Be Given in Memory of the Canadian Who Was Once Premier.

LONDON, July 31. — (Canadian Press).—In memory of Andrew Bonar Law, Canadian, who was Premier and leader of the Conservative party, the beautiful Hertfordshire seat of Ashridge, formerly belonging to the Dukes of Bridgewater, has been offered to, and accepted by, the Conservative party, for the purpose of an educational centre and training college. It is announced that this has been affected owing to the generosity of a friend of the late Mr. Bonar Law.

The donor, it is understood, has had regard not only to the suitability of the mansion for conversion into an educational college, but is also animated by a desire to safeguard the house and the grounds by which it is surrounded against the encroachment of the builder. Some of the most beautiful gardens in the country occupy a portion of the 80 acres which are included in the gift.

These gardens have proved a great attraction to thousands of people at week-ends during the last few summers, and under the new regime the privilege of visiting them will be continued.

Ashridge has a history going back through many centuries. Here Queen Elizabeth lived as a princess while her sister Mary was on the throne; and here she was arrested and removed to the Tower after Sir Thomas Wyatt's rebellion. James I. gave the estate to Lord Chancellor Egerton, from whom it descended through the Earls and Dukes of Bridgewater to the late Earl Brownlow.

It was on the death of the third and last Earl Brownlow in 1921 that the great estate, running to many thousands of acres, first came into the market. Since that time a series of sales has taken place. The public have been interested chiefly in the efforts put forth to preserve for all time a considerable portion of the beautiful estate. Two or three years ago nearly 1,700 acres, including part of the park and a stretch of land between Ivinghoe Beacon and Berkhamstead Common, was secured by the National Trust. Last year a further 165 acres, taking in Frithsden Beeches and part of Aldbury Common, passed under the care of the same body.

IN POLICE COURT

Arrested near Twin Lake, following a raid on his house in Belmont Township, Thomas Smith appeared before Police Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, facing two charges under the Liquor Control Act—of exposing or keeping liquor for sale, contrary to Section 72 of the Act, and of having liquor in his possession though not a holder of a permit. His counsel, A. Elliott, as well as the Crown, favored an adjournment, accused not pleading. Accordingly, Smith will appear again on Wednesday morning, July 25, at 10 o'clock. Bail was set at $500, with two additional sureties of $250 each, while in the second case a new bond was necessary.

Smith has been under observation by the police for some time, and the company that made the raid on his house included Provincial Constable Thompson, Inland Revenue Officer Buller and County Constable Pratt of Peterborough, as well as Provincial Officer Hill of Madoc. Several arrests were made in the district.

Two young men of Belmont Township also appeared before the Magistrate, charged with being intoxicated in a public place. One was fined $10 and costs, or $25.00 in all, while the second pleaded guilty, but on request of his counsel as well as the Crown, the case was adjourned until Wednesday morning.

FIRE DAMAGES RAWDON BARN

Starts From Knife Grinding Outfit Being Used By John Green, the Owner.

BUILDING SAVED.

(Examiner Correspondence).

STIRLING, July 23.—An exciting time prevailed on John Green's farm, 4th Concession, Rawdon, on Saturday morning. Mr. Green was grinding his mower knives, using a gasoline engine to drive the emery wheel which he was using.

Either from sparks from the emery or back-firing of the engine, fire burst forth suddenly, running up and igniting the straw and hay overhead and spreading very fast to the filled hay mow above. At first it was thought the help at hand would be able to cope with the trouble, water being close at hand, but the fire was making rapid progress, and assistance was called from the village. A number from here answered the call and gave timely aid by tearing the side of the barn off at once side and throwing the burning hay out. The building was saved from complete destruction with its contents. All of this season's hay crop and also some old hay and considerable grain as well is stored there.

Girls' Beach Suits Are Being Censored

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 23.—Girls wearing light colored bathing suits have been tabooed from Oshkosh bathing beaches by the park board.

Light colored suits become "flesh colored," the board explains, and flesh colored suits in turn cause "sensations on the beach."

The board accompanied its edict with a warning that the ruling will be rigidly enforced, and that park attendants will rule anyone off the beach who is not dressed in a suit of proper color.

DISTINGUISHED GREEK PRIEST VISITS MEMBERS OF CHURCH

Conducts Communion Service For His People in St. John's Church.

LIKES CANADA.

Expresses Pleasure in Seeing Greeks Settle Here As Good Citizens.

Over the week-end, the City of Peterborough has been honored by a visit from one high in the Greek Catholic Church, in the person of His Lordship Protosyngelos Isaios, formerly of Antioche, Syria, but for the past three years in Canada as a missionary among those of his faith who have settled in the Dominion. His Lordship, interviewed by an Examiner representative, proved quite as gracious a conversationist as his office might imply, and his pleasure at seeing Greek families so happily situated in Peterborough, as good citizens, and his love of Canada, were most sincerely expressed.

"I love this Canada, and it is my delight to see the children of my people growing up as good citizens of this country, gaining an education and a sense of responsibility as to their obligations as citizens. It is the children in whom I am most interested and I am anxious that they choose the better professions and means of livelihood," declared the distinguished visitor in speaking of his work. His Lordship has visited the principal countries of the world, and speaks no less than seven languages —Greek, Italian, French, German, Turkish, Arabian and English, and complimentary to the Dominion was his declartion when asked his opinion of the United States—"I love Canada best. It is more picturesque and its institutions are better founded. It has a wonderful future."

His Lordship is the welcome guest of two well-known Greek families in Peterborough, namely Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yeotes and Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Doukas. On Sunday afternoon he administered communion to them and to the members of their families, the service being held in St. John's Anglican Church. "My church is a good one; your church is a good one; all churches are good ones," he declared in discussing the service.

NORTHERN FORCES CAPTURE CHEFOO

Soldiers Recently Incorporated in Nationalist Army Rise in Revolt.

CHEFOO, Shantung, July 23. — (Canadian Press). — The recently hoisted sun banner of the Chinese Nationalists was hauled down here to-day and replaced by the five barred flag of North China. The Nationalist military commander took refuge aboard a British vessel bound for Shanghai. His soldiers have been disarmed.

These developments came after severe fighting which started at midnight between the Nationalists and 5,000 soldiers who had served under Chang Tsung-Chang, military governor of Shantung. Chang Tsung-Chang's men had been recently incorporated into the Nationalist Army but they renounced their new allegiance and gained control of the city.

While fighting was in progress foreign warships landed patrols, and one United States sailor was wounded in the hand by a stray bullet. The fighting lasted 18 hours.

Whole Brigade Called For Fire In Car Wires

Box 27, at the corner of McDonnel and Water street, was pulled last night to 8.54, calling out ladders, pumper, chemical hose truck and al the fire department's apparatus to extinguish a small short circuit in an automomobile at Murray and College street. The owner ran all the way from this corner to the other to put in the alarm, calling out the whole apparatus for the small fire instead of telephoning and telling the department the nature of the blaze in which case only the necessary equipment would have been sent, holding the rest in reserve in case of a more serious fire. The only damage to the car was the burning of the insulation from the starter wires and from the battery.

SERVICE STATION ON GEORGE STREET

Hood and Cumming Erecting Building North of Sherbrooke Street.

George street is to have a new service station. In the vacant lot just south of the beer warehouse, where the bill boards were moved far back off the street line, Hood and Cummings found a suitable place to erect a smart station which will greatly increase the beauty of the spot that has always been an eyesore to that part of the city.

The new station will be of a type similar to the Red Indian station on Charlotte street, being of the bungalow type. The building is 24 by 151 feet, finished in stucco and tapestry brick, which blends with an attractive effect. The canopy in the front will cover the gas tanks and the water service.

The work is being carried out by Frank Barrett, contractor, who is also doing work on the Metropolitan stores. The foundation for the main building is completed and the brick work is scheduled to commence today. The canopy is already erected and the semi-circular drive off George street is being laid out, but the building will not be completed for at least two weeks.

The main building will contain all the modern conveniences and a rest room, while oil and water will be rendered to the customers of this new station when completed.

ARMY BOYS' BAND TO VISIT WARSAW

Young People Will Conduct Open Air Service There On Wednesday.

The Young People's band of the Peterborough Temple Corps of the Salvation Army will be visiting Warsaw on Wednesday evening next to conduct an open air service at 8 p.m. The service will include the singing and playing of some old favorite hymns and various marches and selections composed by Salvationists and published by the Salvation Army's Musical Department in London, England.

The band comprises about twenty-five, under the leadership of Young People's Band leader J. Halcrow, who deserves unstinted praise for his untiring efforts in bringing the band to its present standard of efficiency. Another noteworthy feature is that the personnel of the band is partly composed of sons of members of the senior band of the Peterborough Temple Corps.

Last Wednesday night the band paid a visit to Lakefield and a great crowd gathered outside the Lakefield Inn and were very appreciative of their ministrations of music as evidenced by their applause and also earnest enquiry as to when the band would be coming again.

These open airs are being conducted in the surrounding towns and villages of Peterborough in connection with the world wide centenary call campaign now in progress in honor of the founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth. The campaign is to last for one year, with a fitting display of April 10th, 1929, the centenary of the founder's birth.

ROTARIANS ARE TREATED TODAY TO MOVIE SHOW

Recent Trip To San Francisco Is Reviewed in Three Fine Reels.

GOING TO CAMP.

Rotarians To Attend the Sports Program at Skookum This Week.

Moving pictures taken during the recent trip of Rotarians Gordon Matthews and Ross L. Dobbin to the convention of the American Waterworks' Association at San Francisco provided members of the Peterborough Rotary Club with a most interesting program at the weekly luncheon to-day.

Rotarian Matthews was the lecturer for the occasion, while Rotarian Dobbin was the operator and the two proved to be a winning combination. A running explanation of the pictures was given by Rotarian Matthews, who incidentally confided to the Rotarians that Rotarian Dobbin was in line for the presidency of the American Waterworks Association and that at the last convention he was made a member of the committee to redraft the constitution, and also of the Finance committee.

Three reels of film were shown, covering the high lights of the trip and including many "shots" of the Grand Canyon, the desert, Riverside, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Victoria, Yellowstone National Park with its famous bears and geysers and many other points of interest en route to San Francisco and return. The delegates travelled on a special train, covered 9,000 miles, visited twenty States and saw a great deal of the country in the three weeks, the arrangements made for their comfort and convenience being described as perfect.

President W. R. Morris expressed the thanks of the club to Rotarians Matthews and Dobbin.

Rotarian Jack Seels, declaring that Camp Skookum was the best on record, pleaded for a 100 per cent. attendance of Rotarians at the camp on Wednesday of this week when a Sports Day is being held. Arrangements are being made to have a boat run from South Beach on Wednesday afternoon, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance of members.

TRIP TO LINDSAY.

First of Summer Series of Excursions is Held To-day.

The first of the regular series of excursions up through the Trent Canal waters to Lindsay on the steamer Stoney Lake left the George Street Wharf this morning at 7.30. About 175 excursionists took in the trip, and it was expected that quite a number more would be added on the way up.

The Stoney Lake Navigation Co. has inaugurated a delightful series of these trips, which give pleasure to the residents of Peterborough as well as those along the route.

Excursionists enjoy a beautiful sail up through the various lakes and on to Lindsay, returning by special train in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Wood. In the free-for-all the same skipper, with a "Giant twin" boat, came in first, while Bill Coursey, with the "Big twin," was second. The boats were entered by the company and driven by Peterborough boys.

Buffalo Fishermen Come By Plane For Week-End Of Sports At Rice Lake

They have come in trains, slow freights and fast specials; they have come in rattling flivvers and in the most regal of the family of motor cars, and they have come aboard most every conceivable model of watercraft, but at 1.30 on Saturday afternoon, Peterborough's first "airplane tourists" arrived at the local landing field. Their visit brought to light a new duty of the local Customs Department, and one which will be more frequently discharged in the future—of inspecting baggage and planes which make Peterborough their first port of call after leaving the United States.

The plane, leaving Buffalo at 11.30 a.m, (daylight saving time) arrived here after a three-hour run at 1.30 p.m. (standard time) carrying two passengers and a pilot, all intent upon a day or two of fishing at Hiawatha. An officer of the Customs Department here greeted the American visitors and found everything in accord with regulations, and to him they expressed the belief that should Peterborough co-operate with those interested in the establishment of a municipal air port and then advertise the fact, many more visitors by air would come to Peterborough. The party left for Buffalo this morning at 7.30 o'clock.

Arms Meeting May Be In Ottawa

Invitation to League Likely

World Conference Expected as Outcome of Next Assembly Session.

PREMIER TO ATTEND.

Decisions Would Be More Far Reaching Than U. S. Multilateral Treaty.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24 (Special to The Examiner). — A world disarmament conference vastly more far-reaching in its scope and consequence than the United States multilateral treaty for the outlawry of war, will be considered by the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations in September. It is said that in the event of the conference being decided upon the Prime Minister of Canada may issue an invitation for the conference to be held in Canada, whose hundred years of peace with her neighbor, important place in the Great War, and friendliness with all nations of the world put her in a unique position to extend such an invitation.

The multilateral treaty is more or less a "gentleman's agreement"; the world disarmament conference will have behind it the power of the League to enforce its dictums. The multilateral treaty makes any warring nation an outlaw; the League can compel warring nations to make peace.

At the same time the League in general and the Council in particular will discuss arbitration treaties and other measures for the maintenance of peace. Taken in conjunction with disarmament proposals the arbitration plans are expected to be the most definite actions of the League for the preserving of world peace yet made. Unfortunately for itself and for the world, the United States is not a member of the League of Nations, and will be the only Power in the world not participating.

There is provision in the League's constitution, however, for the United States to be represented on any actual disarmament conference which may be the outcome of the Assembly, but there will be no American delegates at the Assembly itself when the proposals are discussed or on the Council where the plans will be drawn up.

The position Canada has taken in the League in sympathy with the minority nations of Europe has won for her delegates considerable support and a substantial following, and it is considered that she might conceivably take a very important part in all these negotiations.

First Aid Given On George Street

First-aid was administered on George Street about 9.30 this morning. Two men were walking past the C.N.R. telegraph office, when one suddenly clapped his hand to his eye. A wandering piece of dust had lodged itself there, and was apparently quite painful. His companion, not at a loss as to what to do in such an emergency, pulled out his handkerchief and backed the unfortunate one against the C.N.R. office, and proceeded nonchalantly to dislodge the offending piece of foreign matter. After about fifteen minuts of poking, and rubbing on his part, and blinking on the victim's part, the particle consented to be removed and the two men proceeded up

Police Station Is Getting Complee House-cleaning

Conditions at the Peteborough station are in a terrible state of affairs at present. There is nothing wrong with the force, but the general appearance of the place is in bad shape. The painters and carpenters have turned things upside down and inside out, but when all is finished those welcomed at the portals will see a vast improvement in the old place.

The gloomy appearance that was given by the old green paint will have disappeared with the fresh new coat of cream paint, and newly varnished woodwork. The officers' locker room, the chief's office, the court room, and even the cells will all be finished in cream, which brightens the place considerably. At present they are in a state of house-cleaning, but there must always be a period of this condition before the better will be appreciated.

CAR DAMAGED IN COLLISION WITH ENGINE

M. R. Hoover Has Narrow Escape From Injury at Noon Hour.

AT McDONNELL STREET.

M. R. Hoover, of 317 McDonnel street, had a miraculous escape from serious injury when his light touring car, the license number of which is 362-168, was struck by the noon train from Lakefield at the McDonnel street crossing.

Mr. Hoover said that he was coming slowly west along McDonnel street and did not notice the train approaching and did not hear the whistle or bell. He first saw the train four feet away and turned south along the track in the same direction that the train was going. He was too late to avoid a crash and the engine caught the front of the car and dragged it about eight feet before it hurled it around out of the way. Fortunately it was going slowly and the collision was not of a very serious nature. A witness of the accident said the engineer had the bell ringing and blew his whistle.

Mr. Hoover, who was alone in the car, was not hurt in the accident, he held on to the wheel which braced him sufficiently to avoid a shaking up when the two met.

The left front wheel of the car was smashed off, the front axle was bent, the right headlight and bracket were broken off, and the right mudguard in front and the running board were damaged.

Mr. Hoover was busily removing the damaged parts when The Examiner saw the car, and stated that he was thankful that no one was hurt.

Railroads Dispute Rights

Act of 1881 Gives Canadian Pacific Right to Branch Roads.

WIDE POWERS.

Government Pledged To Give Land Necessary For Bed and Yards.

(Special to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is claiming its right to construct branch lines anywhere in Canada so long as they branch from the main lines. Even the latter provision may be evaded by the filing of plans showing only part of the line. This, in the opinion of Railway authorities is the real meaning of the Willingdon extension controversy which has occasioned the appeal of the Canadian National Railway against a recent judgement of the Board of Railway Commissioners. The judgment was given by Chief Commissioner McKeown and Commissioners Oliver and Norris. The Examiner this morning asked Mr. Oliver if the judgement applied only to the Willingdon branch or to any branch; whether the ruling did not vitally affect the interest of the Canadian National; whether it might not be a matter for parliament to decide.

To all these question Mr. Oliver said: "There is but one answer, section 14 of the Canadian Pacific Railway act of 1881" and he thereupon quoted a section which reads: "The Company shall have the right from time to time, to lay out, construct, equip, maintain and work a branch line of railway from any point or points along their main line of railway, to any point or points within the territory of the Dominion, provided always that before commencing any branch they shall first deposit a map and plan of such branch in the Department of Railways and the Government shall grant to the company of the lands required for the road bed of such branches and for the stations, station grounds, buildings, work shops, yards and other appurtenances requisite for the efficient construction and working of such branches, in so far as such lands are vested in the Government."

"The ruling of the Board is based on that provision in the C.P.R. charter," said Mr. Oliver, who then pointed out that he could discuss the matter no further. The Canadian National Railways will appeal from the ruling of the Board to the Supreme Court, evidently on the points of law with respect to what constitutes a branch line and to what extent section 14 gives power to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

This was announced officially last evening. Two cabinet ministers will accompany Premier King. These being Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government Senate leader, and Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, in the order named. The Premier and his two ministers will be present at the League Assembly in September.

DRY WEATHER NEEDED HERE

Rains Have Not Caused Such Consternation as in West, However.

WHEAT RIPENING.

Crop conditions in the district of Peterborough have not suffered a great extent from the wet weather, but when questioned on the amount of rain in the district J. B. Nelson, local agricultural representative, stated that there was sufficient, to say the least. However, there has not been enough rain to cause such consternation in this district as is aroused in the Western part of the province. The hay has not been as good as if there had been drier weather, but there have been only a few fields spoiled, and there is still a lot of haying to be done. There are some beautiful wheat fields in the district and yesterday several reapers and binders started working. A period of dry weather will help things a lot, he intimated.

Cessation Prayed For Prayers Offered in Churches For Dry Weather For Harvest.

HAY ROTS IN FIELDS.

Fruit Crop Suffers From Downpours—Wheat Nearly Ready to Cut.

HAMILTON, July 24. — Following within 24 hours one of the heaviest downpours in the city's history, another heavy rain last yesterday afternoon added to the seriousness of the present situation. Unless there is immediate change, growers throughout the area will lose thousands of dollars in crops. Prayers were offered Sunday in many of the rural churches for cessation of the wet spell and also in a few local churches.

Haying is at least three weeks late in the Hamilton area and a great bulk of the crop has been ruined. Taking advantage of the fine days, rural owners lost no time in cutting, but the hay has been drenched on several occasions and some of it is hardly worth hauling into the barns, it is reported. At first the hay crop gave every indication of being one of the best in years, but at present many of the farmers will be satisfied if they garner enough to fill their year's requirements. Instead of selling, some of the producers will have to buy.

Well-filled heads of grain are ripening fast and turning color. The heavy rains have beaten down the stalks but not yet to an extent to be serious. If the present weather continues, the farmers will be unable to get on the land and there will be a repetition of the situation of a few years ago when hundreds of acres of grain were left to rot in the fields, a wet spell following cutting work.

Rain Ends Sweet Cherry Crops

Large areas in the fruit belt were under water during the week-end and yesterday's storm made matters worse. Fruit-growers interviewed said that the rain ended the sweet cherry crop, cutting the season short by many days. There is now fear that it will cause loss to crops which are just coming in. Producers of raspberries are carefully watching the weather, for the next few days mean a great deal to them. What is badly needed now is a warm dry spell, all the land owners agreed.

Fields of tomatoes, potatoes, grapes, etc., have been under water for several days and they were liberally moistened before the final application. Continued dampness will, it is feared, cause loss of this growth and the present time is the most anxious the producers have had for many seasons.

Kent Soaked.

CHATHAM, July 24.— Continued rains during the course of the present month have created some misgivings among the farmers of the district. The situation was referred to in local churches Sunday, and at St. Joseph's Catholic church, special prayers were said for a cessation of

Superstitions Still Rule Many Persons

People will ever be superstitious. Friday, the number 13, black cats and dreams all play an important part in some people's lives. This was demonstrated on Simcoe street shortly after noon to-day when two young girls were walking along by the city clerk's office and did not notice the ladder leaning against the wall over the sidewalk. One of the girls passed under this ill omen and her companion screamed and made her come back under the ladder, cross her fingers and look over her left shoulder. After this ceremony she seemed content and they proceeded down Simcoe street as happily as before the incident.

TWO MORE SUSPECTS TAKEN IN MAIL ROBBERY DRAGNET

Ray Boven and Mrs. William Boven Arrested at Windsor.

$900 IS FOUND.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24 (Special to The Examiner). — Two additional suspects were in custody to-day in connection with the $125,000 mail car robbery at the Union Station, Toronto, on June 20th. They are Ray Boven, 24 years of age, and Mrs. William Boven, his sister-in-law, whose husband is wanted for alleged participation in the robbery.

They were arrested at 508 Assumption Street, Windsor, at 2.30 a.m. today after police had pieced together information gleaned in a wide search through Chicago, Windsor, and Toronto. Ray, it is stated, will be accused of conspiracy to rob. Mrs. Boven is facing a charge of receiving. The new arrests bring the total of persons held up to nine. Mrs. Boven and Ray will be brought back from Windsor to-night. Approximately $900 which the police claim is part of the loot, was found.

On searching him over $200 believed stolen in the mail car robbery was found in his pockets. No money was found on Mrs. Boven. Behind the curtains of the front parlor $700 was found.

PRIME MINISTER HAS CHEQUE GIVEN BY BARON LOEWENSTEIN

Returned From Bank After Financier's Fatal Fall From Plane.

FOR CHARITY.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24 (Special to The Examiner).—Resting in the pocket-book of the Prime Minister of Canada is a little slip of paper folded in three;; a cheque for two thousand dollars; attached to it is a little slip pinned on the back with the brief notation, "deceased," and a date.

That date is the date of the death of Baron Loewenstein and the signature in a small script barely decipherable is that of the baron of finance who lately died by a fall from an airplane crossing the Channel.

"The Baron dined with me just before he left Ottawa," Mr King told The Examiner. "He expressed much gratification about the kindness that had been shown him in Canada, and an an appreciation he gave me this cheque for $2,000 to be disbursed for Ottawa charities."

"I sent it to the bank," said Mr. King, "but in the meantime Mr. Loewenstein died and the bank returned the cheque to me.

"What will you do with it?" asked The Examiner. "I will communicate with them of course," was the reply. "I understand the Baron gave similar cheques to charity in Toronto and Montreal. What will be done I cannot say, but if the money is paid it will be distributed among five or six charities in Ottawa."

No Funeral Gloom When Ellen Terry Leaves Small Hythe Under Arch of Rakes

SMALL HYTHE, Eng., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—This little Kentish Hamlet bade farewell to-day to its much loved Ellen Terry in a setting of warm sunshine, brightly hued flowers from fields and village gardens and with everything removed suggesting the funeral gloom she so greatly abhorred.

Funeral services were held in the Parish Church, but there was nothing dirgelike in the music and the whole service was one of lovely simplicity. A picturesque guard of honor in the form of a number of hayworkers in shirt sleeves lined up outside the door and the coffin was carried in and out under an arch which they made of hay rakes.

The body is being sent to London for cremation.

New York Tunnel Agents Are Being Insulated In Order To Avoid Shocks From Automobiles

NEW YORK, July 24.—Holland tunnel collectors were insulated against static electricity yesterday. Since the opening of the tunnel, collectors at the Jersey end have been complaining of shocks which have passed through their hands hundreds of times a day when their hands touched those of motorists. The motorists too have complained but, of course, the collectors had the worst time of it, as their shocks, mild but distinctly unpleasant, were much more frequent.

At first it was thought strange that the shocks should be confined to the Jersey side of the tunnel and uncomplimentary remarks were made concerning the "foreign" shore, but an investigation showed that motor cars coming slowly down the steep hill leading to the tunnel entrance generate static electricity. When the driver handed his toll to the collector a mutual shock resulted. Yesterday each collector received a thick rubber mat to stand upon to act as an insulator.

Supreme God Of China In Ontario Museum; History Authenticated For Past 3,000 Years

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—A circular piece of priceless jade, probably a foot in diameter with a small hole in the centre—the supreme god of China—now reposes in the Ontario Museum. It comes from the Imperial Palace at Pekin and its history has been authenticated for the past 3,000 years. The piece had been kept by the rulers of China throughout history as the supreme god of the heavens, because the circle represented to the Chinese mind symmetry, perfection and endlessness. The substance is jade because this material is more precious than gold and harder than steel.

The jade came from the Kara Kash River, away north of Tibet, where men dive into icy turbulent waters for the precious material. Wrought entirely by much polishing with emery powder, the symbol has a smoothness and translucence which must have aided the belief that it held some strange powers.

Sir Alexander Grant Gives Second $500,000 As Donation To National Library Of Scotland

LONDON, July 24.—(Canadian Press)—Sir Alexander Grant has made a second gift of $500,000 to the National Library of Scotland. His first donation was in June of 1923. Some time before that date the Faculty of Advocates had asked the Government to take over their famous library as a Scottish public institution, but owing to the financial position of the country difficulty stood in the way of acceptance by the Government of this offer.

That difficulty was removed by Sir Alexander's first $500,000 donation. It is understood that the sum now given is to provide additional accommodation for the library.

Sir Alexander Grant is the managing director of a large firm of biscuit manufacturers, Edinburgh. A native of Forres, he entered this firm as a working baker over 40 years ago, and gradually secured advancement until he became general manager, and subsequently acquired a controlling interest.

GIRL WRITER IS DROWNED; MAN MISSING

Victim's Chum Tells "Suicide Pact" Story Involving Two Young People.

CHICAGO NOVELIST.

Maxwell Bodenheim Hunted For Possible Clew to Death in River.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Maxwell Bodenheim, prominent novelist and former Chicagoan, wanted by the police of the missing persons bureau here for questioning in connection with the supposed suicide of Miss Virginia Drew, a commercial artist whose body was found in the Hudson River, has disappeared and police are working on the theory, admittedly very slim, that he also may have committed suicide.

This theory is not accepted by his publisher, Horace Liveright, nor taken seriously as yet by the police.

Bodenheim is the author of "Replenishing Jessica," which resulted in his trial and acquittal on charges of publishing an indecent book.

Friend Bares Suicide Clew.

The possibility of Bodenheim's suicide comes to the police through questioning of Miss Caroline Novotny, a friend of Miss Drew, who told the police that she had known her for seven years. A week ago Tuesday, Miss Novotny told the police, Miss Drew telephoned her to say that she had had a stroke of good luck and that a "prominent novelist" had promised to aid her in her writing work.

"Two days later," Miss Novotny said, "Virginia called me again, and she wasn't at all cheerful. She said her writing had been terribly criticized and she was very blue. Then she told me that 'he believes in reincarnation and we have made a suicide pact.' But I thought I had persuaded Virginia to be cheerful again and she said she would give up the idea of killing herself."

The last trace police have of Bodenheim is that a man answering his description was seen in the Grand Central station Monday. Monday was also the last time his publishers were in touch with him, and he has not been seen at his home at 119 West 45th Street.

"We are just as anxious to get in touch with him as anybody," Mr. Liveright said. "He was to have telephoned us on Tuesday, but we didn't hear from him, and since then have been unable to locate him. He was to have broadcast a talk over station WOR, which we had arranged for him. The announcements were all made and everything arranged for him to tell about his work and his criticism of literary editors who, he thought, were too severe in their criticisms of his last book. He didn't appear, and we have no idea where he is."

Connection Is Vague.

Bodenheim's connection with the death of Miss Drew is not at all definite. All the information the police have is that Bodenheim may be the "prominent novelist" whom she had mentioned to her friend, Miss Novotny. She refused to tell her the name of the man who was helping her, Miss Novotny said.

There were blood stains on Miss Drew's clothing when the body was found, and several bruises, but these injuries, police examiners declare, might have been caused by the body striking against objects in the river, and the blood stains caused by a hemorrhage which sometimes results when a body rises quickly to the surface of the water. An autopsy was held.

In June a Miss Gladys Loeb, whom Bodenheim was helping in her writing, committed suicide by gas. Bodenheim, questioned when a picture of himself was found in her room, told the police at that time that the girl was despondent because she couldn't sell her poems.

TOURISTS HAVE HANDY OUTFIT

Columbus Couple Have Camp Equipment on Trailer Behind Car.

EVERYTHING COMPLETE

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, July 24.—A party of American tourists are enjoying camp life for a few days on the Government Park. Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ryan and their fine big Scotch collie dog, of Columbus, Ohio, have been travelling for five years enjoying life in this way. They travel in a large sedan with a trailer coupled behind, which carries a complete camp outfit. The tent rests on the trailer when in use. It is of brown canvas, double thickness and rubberized over a frame work of sheet steel. The entrance is a screen door. Bedding is packed in army bags, one large bed is on one side of the tent, and at the back is a refrigerator of sheet steel, which holds 50 pounds of ice. A little cabinet at the side with drawer that pull out contains cooking utensils. At the opposite side of the bed is a seat the length of the tent under which are little cupboards of steel steel.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan lived for some time in Phoenix, Arizona, also at California. Their household goods are stored at Columbus, Ohio. They are delighted with Trent River and think it a perfectly wonderful place, only for the mosquitoes.

There is another party from Toronto camped at the same place. Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennedy and three children and Mr. and Mrs. Lisnaugh, of 421 Lansdowne avenue, Toronto, they have been here for a week.

They travel in a touring car and carry equipment in army bags, cooking their meals outside. They have had plenty of good fishing, and also speak highly of Trent River and think it a beautiful resort.

FIND ANCIENT COINS.

SEATTLE, July 24. — Gold and silver coins valued at $600 were unearthed recently in the rear of the home occupied by Seattle's chief of police. The money was in a purse sealed in a fruit jar. The treasure goes to an engineer who recently purchased the property.

A.Y.P.A. HOLDS ANNUAL PICNIC

Millbrook Young People Have Pleasant Outing at Port Hope.

INTERESTING PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 24.—The A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas church held its annual picnic outing on Thursday afternoon at the Lakeside Park, Port Hope, when a very enjoyable time was spent. The picnickers went by car and truck load, the drive being one of the pleasing features in connection with the outing, the fine weather adding its quota, and the large attendance being yet another item in the sum total of enjoyment.

The excellent bathing facilities made a first claim on a number of the merrymakers, and later in the afternoon a good sports' program was run off, the prizewinners including:

Men's race (forty and over), L. H. Morton; boys' race (under 16), Burton Russell; boys' race (over 16), George Harkness; slow race (3 minutes to make a given round), Henry Gray and Jane Cathcart; coat race, H. Gray and Marcella Lang; married women's race, Mrs. G. Howson; needle and thread race, George Gray and Nellie Mitchell; three-legged race, Burton Russell and Lyal Nattress.

A softball game, with pickup teams and a not too close attention to official rules, provided plenty of fun both for players and onlookers, the call to supper leaving the score rather indefinite.

The fact that the rector, Rev. Canon Allen, was able to attend the picnic, after his lengthy illness, was a matter of pleasure to the A.Y.P.A members, Mrs. Allen being also present. The assistant clergyman of the parish, Rev. P. C. Howard, and Mrs. Howard, who have done so much to build up the young people's work since coming here, had much to do with the success of the outing on Thursday.

The picnic tea left nothing to be desired, either in the way of provisions or appetite, the one long table available being utilized for the more elderly, or possibly the more dignified folk, while the rest of the party seated themselves about the white tea cloths spread on the grass.

Some of the picnickers remained for the movies at night before considering the day's enjoyment complete, others making the homeward journey as dusk was falling.

The committee in charge included: Rev. P. C. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Morton, Miss Ella Grandy, Mrs. J. E. Allen.

The officers of the A.Y.P.A. for the current year are: President, Howard Jordan; secretary, Miss Ada Attwool; treasurer, Mrs. Morton.

LORD BYNG'S POST IS MOST DIFFICULT ONE

New Commissioner of Metropolitan Police Has to Please Many.

CONTROLS BIG FORCE

Visitor to London Has Always Been Impressed With Courtesy of "Bobby."

LONDON, July 24 (Canadian Press).—Viscount Byng, when he assumed the position of Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, certainly did not betake himself into a bed of roses. The Commissionership is one of the most arduous, and one of the most responsible offices in the whole administrative system of Britain. It is remarkable, too, how many Commissioners have retired virtually under compulsion, although in not a single instance has there been the slightest suggestion against their personal integrity. When he takes up duty a few months hence Lord Byng will enter Scotland Yard at a time when, for various reason, the reputation of the Metropolitan Police Force among the public, if not exactly under a cloud, is not regarded with that serene complacency which for many years was the almost general feeling held by the people of London at large.

The Commissioner of Metropolitan Police is the servant of the Home Secretary. This minister is directly responsible to Parliament for anything connected with the policing of the London area. His countersign is necessary to all major orders issued by the commissioner in handling his officers and men and in dealing with the public. The Commissioner commands a force of 20,000 and the Metropolitan Police District covers an era of 700 square miles. The Commissioner receives a salary of $15,000. There are three assistant commissioners, who receive $7,500 each. There are also three deputy assistant commissioners, each drawing $5,000 or more. Among them is Lieut.-Col. P. R. Laurie, who is head of the Mounted Police, and who, incidentally, was staff officer under Lord Byng during part of the war. The Metropolitan area is divided into three districts, each under a Chief Constable, and these again are sub-divided into 26 divisions each under a superintendent.

Metropolitan Police finances are administered by an official known as the Receiver, who has his office in the same building as the Commissioner at Scotland Yard, but who is responsible directly to the Home Secretary. The total annual cost of the force is some $30,000,000. The Home Secretary himself decides the amount of tax to be levied upon the municipal boroughs and others local authorities within the Metropolitan Police area. The Imperial Treasury makes a grant of half the cost of the Metropolitan Force (a similar grant is made to all other police forces in the country, although these are almost entirely under local or county administration). There is also a special grant from the Treasury to the Metropolitan Force for services of an imperial character, such as the guarding of the House of Parliament, the Royal palaces, and Government buildings.

Notices Courtesy

The visitor to London from afar has for fifty years or more been impressed with the courtesy of the London "bobby." But the Commissioner—the man at the head of this army in blue—has three masters. He has to please the Home Secretary, and through him the Government. He has to handle his men. And he has to handle the public. Perhaps the "roughest" time which was ever encountered by the higher command of the Metropolitan Force was away back in the 80's, when there was a popular clamor for what was known as "the right of free speech" in Trafalgar Square. Those were the days long before John Burns became a Privy Councillor and a member of the Ministry. John Burns fought policemen in Trafalgar Square for the right of free speech, and was locked up for it. Nevertheless it was the head of the then Commissioner of Police, Sir Edmund Henderson, which really fell into the basket, mainly because he fell foul of the Home Secretary.

Sir Charles Warren took Sir Edmund's place, but he did not keep it over-long. One Commissioner succeeded another in quick order, until there came the 15-year command of Sir Edward Henry. The police strike during the last year of the war was a regrettable incident. The men were admittedly underpaid, but everybody in authority had perhaps been too engrossed with war effort to attend to the legitimate grievances of the police. These were remedied promptly when the strike happened, and Sir Edward Henry was honorably retired with a baronetcy. General Sir Nevil Macready then took command for a couple of years. He had hardly arrived at Scotland Yard when a "red" element in the force organized another strike. It proved a regular fiasco, and since that time there has been no suspicion that the general body of the force is not perfectly loyal, and on the whole contented with their terms of service. Lord Byng's immediate predecessor, Sir William Horwood has been commissioner for eight years.

rain. In different sections oats and wheat crops have been flattened, and doubts are expressed as to whether crops will recover. Considerable hay has yet to be harvested. Owing to the heat and the rains, there is fear that some of the grain will sprout.

According to weather reports, there has been more rain in July than in the previous months of the year. The total rainfall thus far in July is 5.57 inches. Since Thursday, the fall has been 2.70 inches.

Oxford Escapes Damage.

WOODSTOCK, July 24.— Despite the many heavy rains of late, the crops in this district have not as yet suffered any noticeable damage and the farmers are well pleased with the present outlook. The hay crop was heavy and wheat cutting is reported from some districts. With a spell of fair weather thef armers say the crops should be above average.

Wellington Suffers.

GUELPH, July 24. — Continued heavy rains throughout Wellington County have interfered with haying operations, and in many instances less than 50 per cent. of the crop is in the mows. The balance in windrow and cut in the fields has been damaged to the extent that it will be of inferior quanity. If further rains are experienced the probability is that the hay still in the fields will be useless as fodder.

Fall wheat is ripening fast and will be ready for harvesting in six or seven days.

The fact that farmers in this district lack adequate help, with the large percentage of the hay still in the fields, and with wheat ready for the binder, places them in an awkward position.

Good Weather in West

WINNIPEG, July 24.—(Special to The Examiner).—Warm weather is bringing the crops along rapidly and everything with minor exceptions is in excellent condition for the time of year, according to the weather and crop report for the past week. There is every prospect of a heavy crop and the report adds that most of the wheat is now in head with some of it in the bloom and dough stage.

Oats and barley are both strong and vigorous and much of the latter is in head, while at a few points cutting has commenced. Flax is looking fair but has the appearance in many places of having had too much moisture. The condition of this crop will, however, improve with dry weather. Rye is rapidly developing into a good crop and some fields are nearly ready for the binder.

Grass and clovers have come along very evenly both being heavy crops and farmers are busy haying and cutting clover. Root and vegetables are well advanced and healthy looking. Stem rust has not shown up in any district and to date only very slight traces of leaf rust has been reported. The weather during the last week has been unfavorable to rust development. Hail has caused heavy loss in certain localities, but in the aggregate, the area affected is small in comparison with the total area under crop. All stock is doing well and there is no lack of pasture anywhere.

PASTOR GIVES FINAL ADDRESS

Rev. James Grier Preaches Farewell Sermon in St. Andrew's Church.

PRESENTATION MADE.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23—After a few weeks more than three years as minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here, the Rev. James Grier preached his farewell sermon last night before going to Lindsay, where he will be inducted as minister of the Presbyterian Church there. There were large congregations at both services, and in the evening the church was filled to capacity with friends from the district and surrounding towns as well as members and adherents of the local church. Among the visitors were noticed people from Havelock, Stirling, Warkworth and Burnbrae. Miss Helen MacDonald, Brighton, was soloist at both morning and evening services. Floral decorations covered the Communion table at the front of the church. At the end of the evening service, Mr. Grier was presented with a purse of money as a mark of appreciation of his services by the congregation.

During the course of his farewell remarks to the congregation at the conclusion of his evening sermon, Mr. Grier gave as his primary reason for leaving Campbellford, economic reasons. Ordinary bills had to be met, he said. There was also the wider field and larger congregation at Lindsay to be considered. But this was a secondary consideration. He hoped that the congregation here would respect his honesty in stating his reasons. From remarks overheard as the people were passing out, it is a safe estimate to say that Mr. Grier has many more friends as the result of his straightforwardness. Until after nine o'clock, Mr. Grier was busy at the main door of the church shaking hands in farewell to the record congregation which attended his last service here.

Final Sermons.

At the morning service, Mr. Grier took as his text two verses from the book of Thessalonians, "Follow after that which is good," and "Hold fast to that which is good." This he termed commendable tenacity and pointed out the things in the local church, the Presbyterian Church and the Holy Catholic Church, which were considered as good. Miss Helen MacDonald sang "In the Garden" (Lorenz).

In the evening, Mr. Grier was deeply touched by the large congregation present and said that he felt a grave responsibility when speaking to such a large gathering. He asked that they join with him in a brief prayer for guidance from the source of all wisdom. His text was from the fifth verse of the eleventh chapter of Matthew, "The Lame Walk". This was the answer which Christ gave to the messenger which John, who was in prison has sent to him to ascertain whether or not he was the expected Messiah. John had demanded an answer, yes or no, but had not been gratified. This was also true of modern times. It was not always possible to answer the questions of life in monosyllables. Christ came for the moral and spiritual benefit of man. He did not wish to proclaim himself but rather to allow his works to prove his identity.

The people of the world were divided into three classes, morally those who were born lame, that was, born with a tendency to evil; those who were lame as the result of an accident, who had fallen when passing over a stoney way. These usually came from good parents and good homes but failed tol ook after themselves. As time passed and they continued in their ways, their lot became just that much harder. The first category were, pictorially speaking, as the children of fathers who had eaten sour grapes, their teeth were on edge. In the second case, the sinners or "Lame" as Mr. Grier termed them, were in much the same condition as the smith who incurred the displeasure of the king and was cast into prison. He thought through his knowledge of metals to effect an escape but found that the bars on his prison cell window were fashioned by his own hand and stronger than any man could break. So in modern times, there was no hand of man could save these people, only the power of God.

The third class was constituted of those who were lame through weariness. They had been a long time on the road of life and had lost some of their enthusiasm, high purpose and vision of youth. They were beginning to realize that they would never accomplish what they had intended in their youth. But there was still something in every life worth while saving. God could do wonders with very little.

Finally there were those who are lame because of laziness and these were the most difficult class to deal with. Their brains and their wills would not function. Just as a crowd stands idly by watching one man rescue a drowning child, so the majority of people were standing, looking on while Christ caused the lame to walk.

"Now, my friends," said Mr. Grier in closing, "we have gone over these different classes. I wonder where you find yourselves. Let me suggest to you, plead with you, in all sincerity, there is only one power on earth can save you. I shall not have this opportunity again. "Take my yoke upon you and learn of me. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light'."

Says Farewell.

Following the sermon, Mr. Grier said that he had promised through the press to speak a few words in farewell at the end of the evening service. But he was undecided as to just how he should phrase his remarks. He wished first of all to express the measure of happiness which he had enjoyed during his three years in Campbellford. Because he had decided to leave was no proof that he had not been happy. He had been as happy as it was possible for anyone to be. The many friendly relaitonships he had established here would be cherished and treasured. He had tried to do his duty as a minister, not always as people would have had him do it, but as he believed it should be done. Last night marked the end of the journey as pastor and people, but it did not mark the end of his interest in the Campbellford church, because he was going to a bigger field where he would have a wider influence.

"If the truth were all told," said Mr. Grier, "I am leaving Campbellford primarily for economic reasons. Ordinary bills must be met and paid. That is my first reason for leaving. Then there is the larger sphere. That by some might be put in the foreground. I am honest enough to put it second. I hope you will respect my honesty and that your prayers and interest will follow me."

There were a number of visitors from outside churches, Mr. Grier said, and he appreciated what their presence in the pews indicated. He predicted a brilliant future for the church here and briefly touched on the growth during the last three years. He would look forward eagerly to further progress in the Campbellford church.

After pronouncing the Benediction for the last time as minister of this church, Mr. Grier, following his usual custom, began to make his way to the outer door to greet the members of the congregation. He was stopped mid-way down the aisle by two elders of the church session, and asked to return to the front of the church. There J. A. Anderson read an address, and James Allan presented Mr. Grier with a purse of money. Mr. Grier accepted the gift on behalf of himself, Mrs. Grier and family. He was deeply impressed.

"Dear Friend:—On this the eve of your departure from us as our beloved minister, we the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, wish to express our sincere regrets that your ministerial connection with us is now at a close.

"For over three years we have enjoyed the edification of your able ministry and comforting counsel, your many acts of sympathy and kindness to so many of your flock that have passed through the Valley, and your consoling ministrations to the many bereaved ones, is silently but deeply appreciated.

"Every branch of our church's organization felt the uplifting influence of your Christian zeal and congenial co-operation. And we would frankly confess as a congregation that we have at times failed to render that loyal support and encouragement to our minister that the human heart craves for. But we would be conscious of the fact that the greater loss is ours, and may the greater Master enable us to find ourselves in the light of Him who is the Light of the World.

"And now, beloved friend, at this the close of your ministry with us, we wish to express to you in a slight but tangible way, our sincere gratitude for all the good ways in which you led us and comforted us. Therefor we ask you to accept this purse of money, not for its intrinsic value, but as a slight token of our appreciation of your merits. And we accompany it with our sincere wishes for God's richest blessings to rest always upon yourself, Mrs. Grier and family, in your new field of our Master's service.

That Mr. Grier was deeply impressed was evident, even though he had not so expressed himself. The presentation, he said, made it all the more difficult to leave Campbellford and sever his connection with the local church. He appreciated what had been put in his hand as well as what had been said. It showed that there was good feeling between himself and the congregation as there should be on such occasions. It meant much for himself and others to know that he was parting with the congregation here, the best of friends. He would meet the people here again, since he was not going far away. And both he and Mrs. Grier would be only too pleased to welcome any one from the church or community who should at any time visit Lindsay or any other place where he should happen to be. "And now Christian friends, from the bottom of my heart, I thank you."

At the door Mr. Grier was surrounded by a host of admiring friends till after nine o'clock, all anxious to wish him every success in his new field and to assure him of their sincere regret at his going. To-day Mr. and Mrs. Grier and family will be the guests of Mrs. G. T. Dickson until their departure for Lindsay at 6:46 p.m.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON WEDNESDAY

Tomorrow morning, you are to take your calisthenics, as usual upon arising, taking all the different ones I have given you in the preceding articles. Go through the exercises rapidly, so that you will complete all of them in ten minutes. Follow the exercises with a cold shower bath if your skin responds properly; otherwise, use a luke-warm shower or sponge bath.

Breakfast: One Waffle, seasoned with butter and a Small amount of Honey or Maple Syrup. Baked Apple.

Sometime during the morning, take your usual walk. Find the time to walk two miles if possible.

Lunch: One glassful of orange juice. With whatever water is desired.

Late in the afternoon, take your daily long walk, walking for at least forty or fifty minutes. If you walk briskly, you can walk a mile in about fifteen or twenty minutes, so that in fifty minutes you should be able to walk about three or four miles. Keep on increasing the time of your walk by one or two minutes each day.

After you return from your walk, take all the exercises I have given you, and add the following one to tomorrow's list:

Lying Face Downward:

3. Arms extended straight over the head—raise the arms, head, and shoulders at the same time, raising the legs and keeping the knees stiff.

After you have completed your exercises, take a cold shower bath and an enema of warm water.

If you can arrange to do so, lie down for a half hour's rest before dinner.

Dinner: Roast Chicken, with Melba Toast dressing, Baked Egg-Plant, Raw Celery.

The following recipes explain the preparation of some of the above foods: (These recipes will not be repeated.)

Waffles: These should be made out of a batter of white flour, eggs, milk, and a small amount of baking powder—no shortening should be used. Cook the waffle in an electric or aluminum iron. Do not use grease of any kind, but cook the waffle completely through, so that it is thoroughly dextrinized.

Baked Apple: The apple should be baked very slowly, and no sugar added. Serve without cream or sugar.

Melba Toast Dressing: For the chicken—Melba Toast is the name given to a certain kind of toasted bread used by some of the larger hotels, and is distinguished from ordinary toast by being very thin and browned all the way through. A fine stuffing may be made out of the following mixture: Grind through a food grinder a suitable number of pieces of very dry Melba Toast. This may be moistened with a small amount of milk, and any desired quantity of the following added: Ground celery, raisins, and minced olives. Mix these together in any proportion desired, being cautious not to use too many raisins. The mixture must not be made too moist or too dry, and experience only will teach you the exact proportion of foods needed to impart the flavor which you will most enjoy.

Egg Plant: The egg plant may be baked entirely whole, or cut into halves before baking. Another excellent way of preparing egg plant is to peel it and cut into small pieces. Then put into a shallow pan and bake in the oven or under the broiler.

KING HAS CANADA'S PROBLEMS AT FINGER TIPS SAYS PREMIER

Hon. Mr. Ferguson Holds Long Discussion With His Majesty.

INFORMAL INTERVIEW.

International, Imperial, and Canadian Affairs Taken Up During Talk.

LONDON, July 23. — (By Henry Somerville, Special Cable to The Examiner by a Staff Reporter, Copyright). — "Anyone who thinks the King of England is only a figurehead is very much mistaken," said Premier G. Howard Ferguson when I interviewed him after he had audience with His Majesty. The Premier laughed at the suggestion that he might have worn court dress." I wore the same clothes that I have often worn in Toronto. It was in no sense an official reception. His Majesty was good enough to ask me to go to see him and there was a complete absence of formality.

"When I got to the Palace and had shaken hands with His Majesty, it was just a case of the King saying, 'Come inside and sit down, I want to have a chat with you.' There was nobody else present except the King and myself; that is what made it so pleasant. We could talk with the utmost freedom, it was a frank pleasant talk, but there was nothing lackadaisical or merely conventional about it. It was a real discussion.

"The King is without question the best informed man on Canadian affairs that I have met in England. His Majesty has the peculiar problems and features of each province in Canada at his finger tips. Just think of the King knowing about power developments in Ontario and Quebec and about possibilities in British Columbia, and being able to compare them with costs for development here where they have to burn coal to generate electricity. I was with His Majesty three-quarters of an hour and it was a most delightful and interesting talk on International Imperial and particularly Canadian affairs.

"His Majesty talked about South Africa New Zealand and Australian affairs also and about continental condition. He knew I had just returned from the continent. He showed an intense knowledge of every part of the empire, and it is a part of the empire, and it is quite obvous he a a close student of world affairs and especially of the Empire's affairs. His Majesty has got a remarkable forceful personality; it impresses everyone."

Premier Ferguson concluded by saying it is no wonder that the King has got not only the loyalty but the affection of his people with whom he is in constant contact.

HELP FOR FARMERS EXPLAINED TO W.I.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, July 24.—J. B. Nelson of the Department of Agriculture for Peterborough county, addressed the Belmont Women's Institute at the regular meeting held at the Belmont Town Hall on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Nelson gave a very interesting and instructive report on the activities of the Department relating to its work in connection with domestic science, operations of farm work, young people's work, live stock development, better seed, poultry production and egg circles, extension work to bring new ideas and developing a better type of living. He also commended the various institutes for the work which they are doing toward the development of the rural school fairs, thus encouraging the young people to take more interest in farm life. The real value of institutes is the developing of new ideas and putting them into force, he said.

Mr. Nelson is planning to organize agricultural classes for boys and girls in Havelock next winter and he hopes the young people will take an interest in this work. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Nelson on motion by Mrs. W. E. Anderson and Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith.

A demonstration in flower making was given by Mrs. W. Smith following the address and was enjoyed by all. The roll call was answered by sing, say, play or pay, and each member responded in a humorous manner.

Letters of appreciation were read from members receiving flowers. It was decided to hold Thursday of next week, July 26th, as children's day. This is an annual event which the children look forward to each year. A caretaker was also appointed to look after the cleaning of hall, etc., with a salary of $10 a year.

A discussion took place in regard to having a picnic which resulted in the decision to hold one at Blairton on the second Thursday in August, the ladies of that district to be invited with the view of organizing a branch of the Women's Institute in Blairton.

Community singing was also enjoyed and the meeting closed with the National Anthem and a social hour.

His car was badly shattered and the tie post loosened. The occupants of the car were uninjured.

LEARN TO SWIM.

Sunday's drowning accident at Lily Lake was another tragic demonstration of the desirability of learning to swim.

This unfortunate young man, who did not know the art, lost his life because he stepped into a deep hole and was unable to do anything to save himself.

It is true that swimmers sometimes drown, but the percentage is much smaller than is that of the non-swimmers who in some way or another get into deep water and perish when even a rudimentary knowledge of the art of swimming would enable them to reach safety.

"Got beyond his depth," "Stepped off a ledge," "Slipped into a hole"—are phrases that are real almost daily when drowning accidents are being described.

While the facilities in Peterborough are not all that might be desired, there are opportunities to learn to swim that should be taken advantage of by those who have not mastered this simple and enjoyable exercise.

The Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. are available, as well as the supervised bathing beach at Inverlea Park, and it should be the ambition of all our young people to learn to take care of themselves in the water so that they will be prepared for any emergency that may develop.

THE DEADLY LEVEL CROSSING.

Over the week-end level crossing accidents claimed eleven Canadian lives—and at least five of these deaths occurred because motorists attempted to race a railway train over a grade crossing.

Near Cap St. Martin, Quebec, at a crossing where there is a clear view of the track on both sides, an automobile containing nine people was struck by a C. P. R. train, and four of the party were killed and a fifth is not expected to live.

The driver thought he could get over the crossing ahead of the train.

At Iberville, Quebec, another motorist who believed he had time to beat a Canadian Pacific train was instantly killed.

Three people lost their lives at Pointe Aux Trembles when their car stalled on a crossing and was struck by a Canadian National train.

Nothing that might be said could possibly be a more forcible warning than the recital of these accidents.

Families wiped out, nearly a dozen lives lost, because of a desire to save a moment's time.

In all these cases the crossing would have been clear in a few seconds; yet rather than wait that trifling period the drivers took a chance—with terrible results.

To stop, look and listen at all railway crossings is the only policy that is consistent with common sense.

A NOVEL SOUVENIR.

When it comes to boosting their own city and district in every way possible few newspapers in Canada can show a clean pair of heels to the Vancouver Sun, which in season and out works in the interest of Vancouver in particular and the Province of British Columbia in general.

The mails have just brought The Examiner an interesting reminder of this fact in the shape of a miniature bag of grain marked as follows: "A portion of the eighty-millionth bushel of wheat arrived for export through the port of Vancouver, season 1927-28," which had been sent with the compliments of the Sun.

This novel souvenir serves to call attention to the wonderful growth in the westward movement of grain, the shipments through Vancouver having increased from half a million bushels of wheat in 1920-21 to eighty millions last year.

And the Sun sees further expansion.

Pointing out that the westward grain movement has brought progress, prosperity and millions of dollars to Vancouver, it adds: "Those millions have brought only a fraction of the growth and wealth that will come to all Canada from building a through line from Peace River to Vancouver."

DEALING WITH POLICE EVILS.

Ever since Sir Robert Peel conceived and carried out the idea of a metropolitan police system completely separated from political control, London "bobbies" have enjoyed a high reputation for integrity, obedience to law, exemplary discipline and exceptional efficiency in catching lawbreakers. "Scotland Yard" was almost a synonym for perfection in police service. But now Viscount Byng of Vimy has been appointed head of the London police because, as Home Secretary Joynson-Hicks told the House of Commons, the force urgently needs reinspiration and reorganization.

The London police have been charged latterly with corruption, blackmail, oppression, brutality and gross inefficiency. Traffic regulation is said to be one factor in its sad decline, since many persons seek to buy illicit advantages or to escape arrest for violation of speeding and parking rules.

The enforcement of approved standards of propriety and decorum in parks and other public places has become an important police function, and in this direction also opportunities for graft, discrimination and tyranny are said to have been exploited in an ever-increasing extent. A recent arrest of a betrothed couple for alleged misconduct in a park has excited much adverse comment. The man was a baronet and the girl the daughter of a reputable citizen. The evidence against them was slight, and a magistrate freed them. But the police, it seems, subjected the girl to a sort of third-degree ordeal, during which she collapsed physically. The matter created a storm of protest, and a special committee was appointed to investigate the incident.

There is a plain moral for American cities in the method adopted to clear up the London police situation. The head of a large police force should be strong, capable, independent and determined to serve the public, not a political appointee who knows little and cares less about the law and official duty.—Chicago News.

CANADA'S PROSPERITY.

It is beginning to dawn upon the people of this part of Ontario that the tourist traffic is not showing any sign of approaching last year's intensity, and along with that realization comes the thought that the falling off is only partially due to the fact that this is the year of the presidential election, and to a much greater degree to the checking of that wave of prosperity that our neighbors have been enjoying.

As a matter of fact, a comparison between conditions here and across the line at the present moment shows the balance is greatly in our favor.

We are undergoing an era of great expansion in many respects.

MacLean Building Reports show that the contracts awarded during the month of May exceeded those of the same month last year by 51 per cent., while the total for the first five months of this year was $196,331,200, an increase of 41 per cent. over the first five months of 1927.

Further evidence of Canadian prosperity is afforded by the Royal Bank in its monthly survey when it says: "Canada approaches the middle of the year with statistics of building permits, iron and steel production, employment, trade and bank returns all showing an advance upon the prosperity of 1927. This is particularly gratifying in view of the adverse tendency in the United States. The amount of new building undertaken continues to break all records."

AN HISTORICAL WINDFALL.

The history of the fur trade of Canada has been written in many volumes. From the publication, in the latter part of the eighteenth century, of Samuel Hearne's account of his famous journey from the Prince of Wales' Fort to the northern ocean, followed a few years later by the appearance in print of MacKenzie's still more celebrated "voyages," down to the recent series of biographies of that great explorer, the record of the exploits and activities of the "gentlemen adventurers" and "lords of the north" has been extensive enough to fill a library.

In addition to the printed journals and diaries of the traders themselves, there has accumulated a literature which, in the form of histories of the great companies, biographies of their leaders, extended accounts of exploration and discovery, and historical notes relating to different phases of the fur trade, is quite formidable. In the collection of material, in the shape of journals, letters and other documents of interest, valuable work has been accomplished in recent years by various historical societies in Canada and the United States. Important additions have been made to the manuscript collections of the archives at Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Victoria, as well as to the libraries of the leading universities. And many are the writers who, availing themselves of these and other sources of information, have contributed to our knowledge of the great industry which laid the foundations of Canada's prosperity, and added to her history so much of romance and adventure.

Yet, notwithstanding all that has been written, the subject is by no means exhausted. There are still gaps to be filled in, important incidents linked up, secrets of great enterprises revealed, and heroic adventures recorded. Scattered about, not only in this country, but also in Britain, France and the United States, are manuscripts and documents relating to the great fur trading companies which, if located and made accessible, would be of interest and value to the historian and biographer. Instances of what diligent research, and even accident, may accomplish are furnished by the discovery some years ago in a garret in Edinburgh of the journal of a trader who had been over 70 years in the service of the Hudson's Bay Company, and, more recently, by the location in a remote corner of Ireland of the journal of the hitherto obscure Henry Kelsey, also of the Hudson's Bay Company, the first white man to penetrate inland from York Factory to the plains south of the Saskatchewan.

The possibilities suggested by these and other valuable "finds," lend interest and importance to the official announcement that the Hudson's Bay Company is engaged in a systematic survey of its records, with a view to making them public. It has been known for many years that at the headquarters of the company in London there was stored a vast collection of journals, ledgers, diaries, reports and documents of all sorts, forming a continuous record of the operations of the "Gentlemen Adventurers" and their officials from the date of the memorable voyage of "The Nonsuch" to the Hudson Bay, 260 years ago.

Access to this immense storehouse of information has been freely granted to those interested in historical research and study, and admirable use has been made of the material accumulated in the vaults of the company's London offices. But since there had been little or no effort to collate, classify or catalogue the huge collection of records, a complete survey of its contents was impossible, with the result that what has been published of the history of the Hudson's Bay Company represents a story in which there are many blanks and disconnected chapters.

Now comes the welcome announcement that the wealth of information in the possession of the company, augmented by research in Canada, and consolidated and classified by competent hands, will soon be made available to the public in a series of publications under the auspices and direction of the Canadian History Society of Great Britain. These volumes, it is stated, will throw new and valuable light upon many events of interest and importance in the early history of Canada, as well as upon the operations of "the English in the north," as the Hudson's Bay people were called by their rivals, from the first explorations by land and sea, to the struggle for possession of the western territory, and the government by the company of Rupert's Land.

Such a contribution to the literature of the fur trade will be in the nature of an historical windfall, in the benefits of which historians, students and the general reading public alike will bountifully share.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Tunney-Heeney fight cannot be dressed up as "the battle of the century," although the press agents are doing their best.

The Calgary Herald says that Canadians are becoming more air-minded. Can that possibly come from the tendency to go without a hat that is so evident?

Until they know what Herbert Hoover's favorite selection is music-lovers should not condemn Governor Al. Smith for liking "The Sidewalks of New York."

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 24 (Canadian Press). — The demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday was of a very limited character and business generally was dull. In the other hand, there was a fairly good inquiry from local exporters for wheat and sales of fully 400,000 bushels were made, including No. 2 Northern at 12¾c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 3 Northern at 2½c over, c.i.f. Montreal. Owing to the further weakness in oat futures at Winnipeg cash prices for car lots on spot were reduced another 1c per bushel, but the demand was limited.

A feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed for spring wheat grades and sellers generally reduced prices 20c per barrel, which makes a net decline for the month to date of 40c per barrel, and they are now $1.00 per barrel below this period last year. This was due to the break in cash wheat prices at Winnipeg. A few orders came forward from English importers which were accepted, but the volume of business was small. The domestic trade was also inactive. There was no change in the condition of the market for winter wheat flour, but in the absence of any important business, prices were purely nominal.

The trade in butter showed no improvement, the demand being still of somewhat limited character, and in consequence the market was quiet with an easy undertone, but there was no actual change in prices to note. The receipts were 363 packages.

In sympathy with the lower prices established at the country boards at the close of last week for July-made cheese, the tone of the local market was easier. The demand was limited from both English importers and local buyers, and the volume of business was small. The receipts were 6,197 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 24 (Canadian Press). — Dazzling reports of almost perfect conditions for immense wheat yields in Canada unnerved the grain trade yesterday, and prices plunged downward in all the pits. Lowest quotations of the season were outdone especially in wheat and rye.

Wheat finished nervous at nearly the day's bottom level, 4¾c to 5¾c net lower, with corn 2¾c off to ¼c up, oats ¼c to 1¼c down, and provisions varying from 27c decline to a rise of 2c to 5c.

Right from the beginning, wheat values were on the down grade, the market here being especially weakened by the fact that before Chicago trading was commenced the Liverpool market had become demoralized and had undergone an unexpected severe break. Despatches at hand said estimates were current in Liverpool that Canadian production of wheat this season might prove as large as 575,000,000 bushels, and that the carry-over of old Canadian wheat would probably total 80,000,000 bushels more. Simultaneously, authoritative reports from Chicago crop experts touring in Canada said wheat growth condi-where good crops have previously seldom been raised.

A glut of newly harvested wheat in tions were splendid even in sections American south-west and western terminals put the market under a further strain, Kansas City, St. Louis and Omaha reporting arrivals of 3,463 cars yesterday against 2,296 cars a year ago. Lowest prices of the day, however, were only reached after announcement that the United States wheat visible supply showed an increase of 3,889,000 bushels in the last week, and that the Canadian growers' pool was offering wheat to Europe at prices much below competitors. With no special incentive apparent for buyers except that the market had already of late declined 20c a bushel, prices yesterday showed out little power to rally in the face of selling that came from all directions this side of the Atlantic, and included overseas as well.

Excellent weather and crop conditions in the corn belt had a bearish effect on deferred deliveries of corn, but the July delivery showed relative strength notwithstanding that corn receipts in Chicago yesterday amounted to 484 cars. Visible supplies of corn decreased 1,374,000 bushels for the week. Oats paralleled the action of corn.

Provisions were irregular, meats declining with corn, but lard reflecting an upturn in the value of hogs.

Cables—$4.86⅛ to $4.86⅛.

TORONTO, July 24.—Trade opened good and active at steady to firm prices for the choicest butcher steers and heifers. Anything not up to desired quality met a slow demand with buyers trying to get a little off last week's prices. Moderately good run and on the whole market satisfactorily with probably a small carry over

Hogs steady at $12.25 f.o.b. selects.

Choice butcher steers and heifers, all weight, in good demand at $11 to $12; medium $8.50 to $9.50.

Choice fat cows $8.50 to $8.75 but general run of poor quality grassers from $6.50 to $7.50.

Calves strong at 14c to 15c for choice.

Spring lambs firmer at 15c to 16c for fancy, good to choicbe 11c to 13c.

BUTTER AND EGGS

While no price changes were announced at the close of the local wholesale produce market session, indications of a continued dullness and some accumulation of stocks are reported from a number of Canadian egg markets.

The local situation shows no change over the week-end, with trading somewhat dull. Country shippers report that they are paying for ungraded eggs, extras, 32c; firsts, 30c; seconds, 25c, and are making sales on graded eggs at, extras, 36c; firsts, 33c; seconds, 28c, f.o.b., cases returned.

GOD'S MINUTE

Seek the Lord and His strength.—Ps. 105:4.

* * *

Most gracious God, our Heavenly Father, source of every blessing, giver of every good and perfect gift, we adore Thee; we praise Thee; we magnify Thy Holy Name. Every day we receive new proofs of Thy care over us, new pledges of Thy love and favor. Thou hast made bountiful provision for all our physical needs; the seasons come and go, and the sun shines, the rain falls, the harvests never fail; we have homes and friends; for all these things help us to be truly grateful. Help us to be no less thankful for that "bread which came down out of heaven," for the ever-flowing fountains of living water, for that home not made with hands, for that Friend that sticketh closer than a brother. We remember with affectionate sympathy all kinds and conditions of men—the poor, the destitute, and him that hath no helper.

Do Thou bless our home. May it ever be Thy dwelling place. Be Thou in our midst, O Lord. May Thy angels encamp round and about us, and keep us in all Thy ways. And when our race has been run, and our work done, receive us into the everlasting habitations. Our sins have been many we confess them; we repent them; do Thou forgive them all. In the Name of Him Who loved us and gave His life for us. Amen.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I don't at all agree with what you wrote in Monday's Whatnot about short skirts. I think they are too short—disgracefully short. As for all the talk you give about comfort and freedom and so on, it's all bosh. A girl can indulge in sports just as well with a skirt two inches below her knee as with one two inches above. And, after all, the shortening of the skirts is just symbolic of a letting down in the general standard of modesty. I heard a story about a lot of girls dancing on the table of a cafe, which is just a step further. You have the opportunity to do a lot of good in your paper, but you won't do it by writing that skirts should be shorter.

Miss Prue."

Between you, Miss Prue, and "Good Girl," I certainly seem to be in wrong all round. But I stick to my guns, with this reservation, that you quote me aright. I have never said, for instance, that skirts should be shorter. It is true that I quoted prominent women, on Monday, she stood up for the modern girl—and so do I. It is too bad that people will persist in taking isolated cases and holding them up as symbols of general depravity. They are nothing of the kind. They are nothing more than isolated cases. And for as it being but a step from short skirts to dancing on a re taurant table, that, my dear, is perfectly absurd. I know lots of nice girls who wear modish skirts who would not for a moment think of dancing on a cafe (or any other) table—and I don't know one girl who would dance on a table. And let me repeat what I told "Good Girl:" I don't for the life of me see anything intrinsically wrong in dancing on a table, or a chair, or a flat roof. If the associations are right a girl should be able to dance just as well there as on the floor. Morals are mental.

Zona: Your case is most pathetic. I am making enquiries, and will write you priva ely in a day or two.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

A long pleated tassel finishes the girdle of this frock and a shorter one is used for a tie. The tassels and the blouse are of white and navy-blue polka-dotted foulard with skirt and girdle of plain navy-blue silk.

Pleated tassels are used to give an unusual finishing touch to some of the new frocks, and very effectively, I think, in the white and navy-blue frock shown in today's sketch. A number of the dressmakers, notably Worth of Paris, have been using these pleated tassels and it seems rather remarkable that they have not been more often copied in ready-made and home-made frocks in this country. There is really nothing at all difficult about making them.

Tassels are making their reappearance in various forms and the newest sort in Paris, I understand, are those made of diamonds—or their equivalent. These glittering tassels are described as being usually about three inches long, composed of six or seven strands of small, equal sized diamonds. They are used as pendants from necklaces, earrings, shoulder pins, girdle buckles and hat ornaments. Then there are tassels made from small seed pearls and occasionally tassels made from small rubies or emeralds strung with small diamonds.

Tassels of silk or wool are also used to finish the ends of draped girdles of the sort shown in the sketch. On some of the new bathing suits there is a similar swathed girdle to wear to keep a snug hip silhouette and these girdles may consist of a length of silk about three or four yards long to be passed round the hips and back again, and tied on the side with tasseled ends hanging.

The Art of Attraction

No. 7.

The question of whether to include another suitor in the game, when a man is dilatory about proposing, is a moot one. Many a girl has balled things up considerably by trying to make her lover jealous, while others have brought on an attack of "proposing" at once, and laughed in a convenient sleeve at the simplicity of the game.

Men are different in this way. The man who is inclined to be of the "show off" type will do better with some opposition. He is not likely to relish over much a too easy capture of a lady been victor in a large field, even though the girl in the case knows that none of the other admirers had a thought of serious import in their heads, where she was concerned.

Then again, there is the modest, unassuming type who will think immediately that a girl would do much better with another man, and decide to retire from the field with a broken heart. This is the sort of man that drives a girl to distraction, knowing as she does that she is merely trying to encourage him. With him, she must be careful, or he will adopt the noble, self-sacrificing role and leave her to a man who doesn't want her at all and for whom possibly, she has no feeling whatever.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

OVER-HEARD a conversation recently, in which two young people were wishing they could stay young. They had just returned that day from a stay at a summer camp and were highly enthusiastic about the days spent there.

• • •

One of the reasons given for their wanting to stay young was to enjoy a few weeks at such a camp.

• • •

Maybe this is why our boys and girls stay young—their living out-of-doors, their contact with nature—woods and streams, and their healthful directed exercise, all contribute to sound bodies and well-stored minds.

• • •

Are you, dear reader, allowing your boy or girl to store up such a wealth, and so help them to become better citizens?

• • •

For camp life comfortable, practical and attractive clothes must be provided—clothes in which you can hike, go boating, play tennis, build fires—clothes that put no restraint on the activities of this care-free life.

• • •

Tennis dresses, shown in many Peterborough stores, are made sleeveless, both for comfort of the wearer, and because of the great strain imposed on them during a game.

• • •

Even though the windows of Peterborough stores are ablaze with gay-colored frocks, the black sombre dress of crepe or satin will look smart when the roses of summer become faded and these colorful, flowerlike frocks are as wilted as the roses.

• • •

Black never seems to go out of style and never ceases to be chic. In a season when everything is a riot of color, it is refreshing on a hot July day to see a woman wending her way peacefully down George street in a cool black dress.

• • •

Black is stunning at the party, elegant at the banquet, at ease at the afternoon tea party and just the thing for the morning shopping tour.

• • •

Smart and efficient women never permit themselves to be minus one black dress of crepe or satin, which is always ready, always appropriate and always becoming.

• • •

Some folks think of a birthday cake as a large white cake with white icing and candles. But any cake, dark or light, can be called a birthday cake if it has some extra trimming added to it.

• • •

Perhaps you are thinking of making a birthday cake for some one in your family. They may be fond of some particular kind. Why not, then, bake it for their birthday, trimming it with candles or ornamental frosting?

• • •

Angel food, sunshine or marble sponge cakes are splendid for birthday cakes and date cakes or nut cakes baked in layers or loaf and frosted will serve too.

• • •

A delicious birthday cake is a sunshine or angel food cake, frosted with a thick boiled icing. Arrange small colored candles on top, or use a pastry tube and write on the icing in either white or delicate color, "Happy Birthday."

• • •

A few days ago we were talking of the new three-cornered scarf which seems to be an accessory of 1928. There are many pretty designs in these. One seen recently was of plain blue silk with a black automobile in one corner.

• • •

A very pretty, yet cool frock was seen recently, which is ideal for the athletic girl. It was a monogram frock, cut sleeveless and in one piece. It had a crossed neckline, a cluster of plaits starting at each side of the front, starting at the shoulder, and a plait at each side of the back. A diamond-shaped, 3-lettered monogram in contrasting color completed the trimming.

• • •

Here is a suggestion that will be welcomed by many young ladies in Peterborough. To remove the rusty look from black suede shoes or slippers, rub with a mixture of equal parts of olive oil and ink. Remove grease marks from suede shoes by rubbing the spots lightly with emery paper. This brings up the nape again. Grease spots will also disappear if they are rubbed with a piece of cloth dipped in pure glycerine.

• • •

To soften suede shoes after a rainy day, wash them over with warm water, then rub castor oil or glycerine well into them.

• • •

There are a number of ways or preparing lettuce for salads. For instance, you may separate the leaves of the head of lettuce and serve them arranged in a bed or nest for each portion, or you may cut a lettuce heart into quarters and serve one section to each person. If you like you may pull the leaves apart and then tear them apart into shreds. Or you may cut the leaves in long even shreds with a knife.

• • •

A kitchen utensil I saw the other day that fills a real need is called a rice boiler and looks like a very tea ball made of aluminum. Only a relatively small amount of raw rice is needed to provide enough cooked rice to fill the ball. The advantage of this is that the rice may be left cooking vigorously without chance of its sticking and burning the bottom of the kettle.

TRAVEL-LOG.

THE TOWN OF FLOWERS

When I write of "the town of Flowers," do not think that I am somewhere in a sunny southern land. It would not be worth remarking there. I am in Norway, and at the delightful old town of Molde, which the Norwegians call "Blomsteines By." If the weather is as gracious to you as it was to me, you will feel that at last you have found the spot which holds no disillusions. Here you will not need to spend your time in museums and churches, for Molde has something older and more beautiful—a Fjord of glorious peaks and mirroring seas, necklaces of eternal snow on the hills, and smiling green shores, orchards and fields of waving corn. Fine farms and proud ships—these have made Molde. If you will climb to the Reknaeshaug in the natural little park, you will get a view of the Molde panorama, blue fjord, and snow clad peaks, which you would not exchange for any Alpine view elsewhere. If you want another kind of thrill from nature, go to see the Church of the Giants—Troldkirken—which is a cave of stalactites in a marble mountain, about two hours away by car, where at a subterranean waterfall, you can get torches, heavy boots, and good food for an interesting exploration.

TORONTO WOMAN WEARS 13 SHOE

Rivals Cinderella's Fabulous Little Foot—Weighs 118 Pounds.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24 (CP).—Cinderella's fabulous little foot has at last found a modern rival in the tiny feet of Mrs. G. Brown of New York, a recent bride who is a former Toronto girl.

Mrs. Brown has the reputation of being a modern Cinderella. A short time ago a fashionable New York shoe house offered a prize for any lady who wore a shoe the size of the ones worn by Mrs. Brown. Competitors came from far and near, but the former Toronto girl still leads in the foot race by wearing a 12½ or 13 girl's shoe. Mrs. Brown is five feet tall and weighs 118 pounds.

FINE OLD HOME OPEN TO PUBLIC

Women's Canadian Historical Society Gains Credit for Restoration.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24 (CP).—To the members of the Women's Canadian Historical Society goes the credit of, at last, opening to the public, the fine old home, Colborne Lodge, which, along with the beautiful High Park in which it stands, was donated to the city of Toronto, by its owner, John P. Howard, who died nearly 40 years ago. In his will he expressed the wish that his beloved home be preserved and that the furniture be kept in good order and repair, and the Women's Canadian Historical Society has carefully restored the old-time rooms, built in 1836, and faithfully preserved the charm and traditions which make the house truly a memorial of Toronto's early days. Here is the remarkable collection of guns which revealed Mr. Howard as a sportsman. In the dining room was seen a unique doorstep made of a spike and cannon ball tied up in canvas. The veneered bookcase and secretary was remarkable as the work of a professional man. Upstairs was the mirror in birds-eye maple, which he made for his wife.

Referring to the old lantern which used to stand near the cannon on the point to give light to passing boatsmen, we read "Every night during the summer it was lighted before sundown and at 12 o'clock, precisely, Mr. Howard quit reading and extinguished it."

Curfew Bell Must Ring Children off Streets

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., July 24 (CP).—"Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" is probably the song Prince Albert children would like to be singing, but it would not do them any good because the curfew by-law which at last week's council meeting raised considerable discussion, was passed and adopted by the council and promptly at 9.15 the whistle at the power house blew a warning to all children under 14 years to be off the streets. They are allowed 15 minutes to return to their houses, making the time limit 9.30.

His Father's Son

By CLARISSA MACKIE

It was young Mary Dole who carried her father's lunch down to the railroad yards every noon for years, until Mary entered high school, and her father was promoted from his outdoor job to a desk position inside the large railroad building. After that, her parents forbade the girl from the yards, and Mary just went to school like dozens of other girls of her age. In the course of time she went to college and worked her own way through to a glorious graduation. She came home quite unexpectedly one day, and, after greeting her mother, flew down to the office to see her father.

Mr. James Dole had now a still better job than his last one. As for pretty Mary Dole, her eyes were as blue as the sky and her hair as black as midnight. Her lovely skin grew quite pink when her big father stood up and opened his arms wide.

"It is getting toward my closing time," observed Mr. Dole after awhile, "and I have to go through the yard to see a man. You might as well trot along."

So Mary trotted alongside of her father, and here and there she saw a familiar face that she smiled at and sometimes stopped and talked to.

And then, all of a sudden, the most wonderful thing was happening to pretty Mary Dole. Her blue eyes had met the admiring gaze of a young man in overalls and jumper—a rather greasy young man who had a smudge of black across one tanned cheek, just like some gay romantic mark worn by a dashing cavalier. Mary's heart jumped as he smiled and nodded up at her big father, and she noticed that of all the men she had met, he was the only one who doffed his black cap when he saw her.

"Oh, daddy, who is that young man?" whispered Mary when they were at last in the car, turned toward home.

Mr. Dole kept his eyes straight ahead on the road and answered carelessly, "Oh, that's only a young fellow who's learning the railroad business."

"Invite him out to the house, daddy, please."

"Can't be done, little girl. That's the son of the big boss."

"Not P. J. Donovan's son, father?"

"It is the same—it's young P. J., Junior—he only graduated from college in June, with great baseball honors. And right here he came, the day after the Fourth of July, ready for work. A fine fellow he is!"

Mary Dole said nothing more, but she did think of young "P. J., Junior," with an odd little thrill that she had never felt before. Occasionally, she met him on the street, and always his hat came off, as if he were in the presence of some great lady, but he always fixed his eyes straight ahead as if she did not know him.

"Just like a peasant lad acknowledging the presence of royalty, and never presuming to gaze upon royalty's face," mused Mary Dole.

Summer passed into fall, and Mary Dole was appointed to one of the local schools. She was not disappointed when she discovered that the school was situated not far from the railroad shops, for here the children of the workers came.

Now Mary saw P. J., Jr., quite often, but they never spoke, never even smiled, unless, perhaps, a smile in the heart might count.

Young P. J., Jr., often gritted his teeth when he was alone because he often thought of lovely Mary and how she must attract other young men as well as himself. He wanted his chance to woo her. But he had promised his father not to "bother the girls" when he was learning the business.

"I will go home and tell dad about it," growled young P. J. one day. So he got into his high-powered car, and tore away to another city, where he found his father.

"What's up, Patsy, that you come tearing around at this time of day?" asked the old man.

"It's a girl, father," said Patsy, bluntly.

"Out with it, boy. Let me know the worst."

"She's wonderful—I've never spoken a word to her but she is the dearest thing—and smart as they make 'em. Been through college—teaches school. Her name's Mary Dole."

"Humph. Any relation to Jim Dole, down there?"

"His daughter," said Patsy.

"Well now, Patsy, let's go home and talk to mother about Mary Dole."

The next morning young P. J. Donovan, Jr., tore back to the railroad shops a song in his heart. His father had promised to drop a line to Mr. Dole and tell him to invite the boy to supper!

That is how it happened that young Donovan was introduced to lovely Mary. From that time on, love was one sweet song, indeed.

It was not until after they were engaged though that Mary told Patsy that she liked him mostly because he was like his father. "You are so square—Patsy, dear, and my father always says that 'old man Donovan is the squarest, all-around man he ever met'."

SPOILT MUSIC

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He decides to divorce his wife, Lady Edith. But just then Lady Edith becomes ill. The doctors promise her only a year of life and she makes Gaunt promise not to see Jennifer for that year. Jennifer is angry and decides to be as gay as she can on a legacy of eight thousand pounds left her by an uncle. She gives up her job and goes to work to have a good time. She meets DOLORES and BUDDY, two women who live in the flat above her new dwelling place. Through them she meets CHESNEY, who quarrels about her with Buddy and proposes to Jennifer.

CHAPTER VVIII

Memories.

Her fingers moved restlessly in his. "I don't love you," she said.

"I know you don't, but at least you don't dislike me, and I'm willing to risk the rest. You say there's no other man——"

"No." So many times he had asked her the same question.

He laughed boyishly, and stuck his fallen monocle back in position. "Good! well, can't you risk it if I can?"

She lay still, her eyes downcast, the sensitive fold of her mouth quivering. "It's for the rest of our lives," she said at length.

Chesney raised her hand to his lips. "Then may we both live forever," he answered.

She drew her hand away and rose. "I can't promise anything— not yet!"

"I've been very patient, Jennifer. Why do you hesitate? What are you waiting for?"

She shook her head. "I don't know."

He rose too, and came to stand beside her, his eyes very earnest— "When will you give me your answer? Tonight? Tomorrow? Next week? Next month? Next year? I don't mind how long I have to wait if only some day I can be sure."

"I can't be sure myself."

He laid his hands on her shoulders. "Sometimes you make me believe that life has been rotten to you, Jennifer." He felt her shiver.

"It certainly might have been happier," she admitted with an effort.

Jennifer, glad of the interruption, went to answer it.

"Hullo? Oh, yes, Dolores, I'm speaking. Where are you."

"She's at the Club," Chesney cut in bluntly.

Jennifer paid no heed; she went on talking: "Malcolm is here. But I've just told him I'm not coming—I'm tired—I really am tired! Oh, well——" There was a little pause. "Very well, if you really want me! But it will take me half an hour to dress." She hung up the receiver, and turned to Chesney with a sigh. "I've got to go after all. Dolores wants me to meet some new friend of hers."

"Who is it?"

"She didn't say."

"Well, I shouldn't go if you're really tired. Let me take you out to supper quietly somewhere, or let me stay here with you."

"I've promised Dolores to go, and she is always so good to me."

"Well, you're good to her too."

Jennifer smiled. "I owe all my friends to her," she said. "Even you!"

"I don't forget that," Chesney said. "Where are you going now?" as she turned away.

"To dress. There are magazines and cigarettes on the table if you want amusing."

She went to her room and shut the communicating door.

She really felt tired, and there was a little nervous throbbing in her temples.

"Too many late nights! Too many silly cocktails! Jennifer, where are they leading you, my dear?" she apostrophized herself as she hurriedly began to dress.

She was sorry to miss the quiet evening at home, and yet she was glad of the enforced escape from her own thoughts. The Bohemian Club no longer really interested her, and the noise and laughter and many lights which at first she had thought wonderful seemed now a little tawdry and cheap, but, as she had said, Dolores had been very good to her, and she liked to please her when it was possible. So she put on a frock which Dolores had chosen for her, and taking a wrap from the wardrobe, went back to where Chesney waited impatiently.

"Haven't I been quick?" she asked gaily.

"You're the only woman who never keeps me waiting an hour after the time she has named," he admitted.

He took her wrap and held it for her to slip into; but when it was round her shoulders, he put his arms around them too, and held her so that her head rested back against his shoulder.

"Jennifer, I can make you so happy," he whispered.

Jennifer did not answer, but for a breathless moment she closed her eyes and cheated herself into the belief that it was Nicholas Gaunt's arms which held her, and his voice which spoke.

Then with a great effort she gently freed herself.

"Don't! not yet, Malcolm," and then, seeing the pain in his eyes, she added quickly, "I don't want to hurt you, but please be patient with me just a little longer."

A sudden flame filled his eyes. "If I only knew what I was waiting for!" he said impatiently. "You make me feel as if there is something or somebody tangible between us. Jennifer, is there anything in your life that you are afraid to tell me about?"

The hot blood rushed suddenly to Jennifer's face, and she could not answer. Was she afraid to tell him of her love for Gaunt? There was nothing to be ashamed of, and yet somehow she had never been able to speak of him to this man.

And Chesney went on gently: "Don't be afraid of me, Jennifer. All I want is your happiness. It's only your future with which I am concerned. Oh, my dear, don't cry!" for suddenly Jennifer had covered her face with her hands and was weeping.

Chesney stood looking at her, his face white with emotion.

"I want to take you in my arms, but I know you'd hate it!" he broke out hoarsely, and then after a moment —"Jennifer, for Heaven's sake, stop crying!"

She controlled herself with an effort and tried to smile. "I'm overtired," she apologized. "I've had too many late nights. It's silly to cry. Don't take any notice of me."

But he barred the way when she would have turned to the door. "Jennifer, if there's anything troubling you— if you're unhappy——"

"I'm not, I promise you I'm not." But her voice and her lips quivered, and with sudden impulse Chesney took her in his arms, holding her with gentle firmness so that she could not escape him even had she tried. But Jennifer did not try. She was mentally as well as physically weary, and the consciousness of this man's love seemed a great thing, a sure safeguard.

And he said again, very tenderly, as if he understood just how she felt, and as if he knew that tenderness and not passion was the only road by which he could reach her:

"Marry me, Jennifer, and we'll go away together and forget the noise and rush of Life. I'll take you where the sun shines and the wind blows over the fields and through the woods. We can do just as we like—move when we are tired of it, or stay when we want to. And I'll love you so much—I'll look after you so well."

And suddenly the tears were wet again on Jennifer's cheeks and she said with a little broken laugh—

"I wish I'd met you years ago, Malcolm, before everything was spoilt for me! I wanted so little out of life. I think we could have been very happy together."

"It's not too late now," he whispered.

She shook her head and thought of Gaunt. If only she could pluck the memory of him out of her life, but she knew she could not. Her love for him was like a plant from which one cuts away the flowers and the leaves and even the main stem, and which yet goes on growing underground, its roots daily becoming more strong and tenacious. She was not ashamed because he had loved her, but because he had ceased to love her. If she had lived with him openly, she could not more keenly have felt the shame of his desertion. She stood for a moment with Chesney's arms around her, and her face against his shoulder, then with a half-sigh she roused herself, and turning her head, lightly kissed his cheek.

"That is for being so kind to me," she said gratefully.

The hot blood flamed into his face, but he kept his self-control. "May I hope that perhaps it is also a little foretaste of the Heaven which is to come?" he said hoarsely.

They then went down to the street and Chesney sent the porter for a taxicab. They were both very silent as they drove away through the mild spring evening, but just before they turned down Dean Street to the Bohemian Club, Jennifer said abruptly:

"Malcolm, I've got the strangest feeling that something important is going to happen to me tonight."

Chesney laughed excitedly. "Something important has already happened to me," he said.

Jennifer looked at him. "What do you mean?"

"You have kissed me," he answered gravely.

Jennifer shrugged her shoulders. "Oh, only that!" she said nervously.

His hand fell to hers with a hard pressure. "Don't make fun of it," he pleaded. "If you knew what it meant to me you would not."

The taxicab stopped at that moment, and Chesney opened the door. "And now to come back to earth!" he said grimly.

"Have we ever left it?" Jennifer asked, and Chesney answered:

"I have, since the moment you kissed me."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1928

Contrary aspects seem to be strong today, according to astrology, which finds the rule a bit changeable.

The planetary government is an auspicious one for business men and is believed to encourage enterprise and success.

There is a promising sign for new ventures of many sorts and there is good chance of success where the element of risk is present.

Judges and lawyers are well directed under this sway which presages important litigation, especially where state and federal interests are involved.

Women may find this a day unfortunate for their best aspirations, for their loftiest motives are likely to be mis-construed under this rule.

This is not a lucky wedding day, making for suspicion and jealousy. It is more promising for men than for women.

It is not an auspicious direction of the stars for theatres or those who are employed in them.

All the signs seem to indicate that the amusement world will be subject to severe upheavals.

New inventions will stimulate interest in motion pictures, it is forecast and new actors will awaken public attention inclined to be apathetic regarding spoken drama.

Financial matters are subject to first rate influences today and should benefit the average person.

Temptation to speculate may be strong, but it should be resisted, for only conservative transactions are lucky at this time.

Farmers should profit from weather conditions this month and they may expect more satisfactory market conditions, it is indicated.

This is read as extraordinarily auspicious time for all sorts of advertising.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which friends count for much.

Children born on this day may be too imaginative and intelligent, but inclined to over-rate their own talents.

LYRICS OF LIFE

YOUR MOTHER

In days of youth she bravely bore you,
And smoothed each little path before you,
Her gentle arms a shelter o'er you,
Your mother.

When you were ill she watched beside you,
Spoke comfort when your troubles tried you,
And gave when all the rest denied you,
Your mother.

She grieved when you had grief to grieve you,
Loved on when other hearts deceived you,
When others doubted you, believed you,
Your mother.

Ah, yes, to one your soul was knightly,
To one, at least, you acted rightly,
Who praised yo u much, and blamed you lightly,
Your mother.

The world has learned new ways of winning,
New tricks of trade, new so ts of sinning,
But just think back to life's beginning,
And Mother.

Again recall the things she taught you,
Again recall the love she brought you,
And try to be all one heart thought you,
Your mother.

WHEN YOU LOSE SLEEP.

By Prof. J. Jastrow.

When Lindbergh electrified the world by landing in Paris as the first flying passenger from New York, the first claim upon him, despite the wild clamors of the crowds, was sleep. Part of the feat of flying the Atlantic is keeping awake and on the job every moment for thirty-three hours.

For no other reason than to see what effect it would have on their minds, a squad of twenty-five students at the University of Chicago, including three women, went one night without sleep, like Lindbergh, and three went two nights, a waking run of sixty to sixty-five hours. They were tested before, during sleep-loss and after. At night they kept awake by anything from walking to reading, to going to a theatre, in all combinations. The tests included such simple mental work as reading, multiplying and muscle control in aiming, tapping, squeezing. Their performances were compared with a squad who had their usual sleep.

The general result is this: As judged by such simple and, when kept up, rather monotonous work, there is no definite loss of efficiency through loss of sleep. There is a good deal of fluctuation as the sleep lowers efficiency, and then a pulling-up again by increased effort. It holds for the one-nighters and the two-nighters. But when you ask these young martyrs to science about their feelings, you get a marked increase in that well-known tired feeling among the sleep-losers, though not in all of them; they had to make a stronger effort to go through the tests, again not uniformly for all. In fact, those with normal sleep were a little bored by the tests, while those without sleep responded to the extra effort they had to make to keep going.

In sleep-loss the mind goes through a sort of compensation. You feel less fit and make an extra effort to make up for it; you pull yourself together under the call of duty. Night nurses report the same thing, only they make it up by cat-naps. Those who suffer most from sleep-loss show it in such symptoms as a restless excitability or irritability, a sense of dullness or dizziness, headache and shaky movements, as well as sleepiness. How you respond to loss of sleep depends upon your nervous make-up.

There are levels of sleep. There are stories of soldiers sleeping on the march. When much sleep has been lost, it doesn't have to be made up in hours as much as in depth. There are many stories of sleep-loss in the war where detachments could not be relieved in time. They range from lightheadedness to delusions and insanity and collapse. But the men recover after one long, deep rest. This means that those portions of the brain with which we do our best and most difficult work are the ones that suffer most readily from fatigue and loss of sleep. You can no longer do your best, but you can keep puttering at routine work, though it gets harder and harder to keep going, until you can't make the necessary effort any more.

It may have been fortunate that Lindbergh's hardest tussle with fog and sleet was in the first half of the journey and the easier going toward the end, when the prospects of success would have kept any one jubilant and awake. The power of the mind to break through habit and respond to unusual occasions is present in all of us. It is marked in heroes.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE SUBJECT TO SOCIAL PRESSURE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

There is a lot of hard work and dirty work that is classed as drudgery. No one would do such work were it not for the force of necessity and social pressure. The same is true regarding certain parts of almost any task. There is some drudgery and hard work in connections with the most desirable positions.

We naturally shrink from what is too difficult for us or is decidedly distasteful. It requires some special force to keep us at it. And this force is social pressure.

Social pressure is the force that society exerts over the individual to make him toe the mark, to make him a good social animal. For example, because society places a premium on education the boy is sent to school and kept there despite his desire to be out playing. Later on the same force keeps him to his college course or working hard to make himself master in some trade or profession.

None but the social outcasts, such as tramps and bums, escape social pressure and even these are not altogether free. They must obey the laws of the state. The man who violates the rules of polite society is ostracized. And if he violates the laws of the state he lands in jail. On every hand the social screw tightens on every one who would in the least evade the social code.

Social pressure functions through rewards and punishments. These may be in the form of material things such as money, gold, medals, prizes or they may be honors, social recognition, position of trust and responsibility, power over others, etc.

The remarkable thing about social pressure is that it operates against the great and good as well as against the criminal. Everyone who undertakes to do things in his own way is likely to feel the force of social pressure. Society is suspicious of all innovations.

We are subject to social pressure because we cannot help ourselves. We are born in it. The individual is helpless against society. There is no way of avoiding social pressure.

VISITORS CATCH PLENTY OF FISH

Tourists at Healey Falls Delighted With Their Success Recently.

LUNGE PLENTIFUL.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24.—Visitors to the summer resorts at Healey Falls are delighted with the excellent luck they are having with the art of angling. Owners and operators of these camps state that there have been more fish caught already this season than all during the 1927 summer. There is no scarcity of muskies and the pickerel are as plentiful as last season. During his fishing hours last week, Harry Clarke, Cleveland, O., landed a 24-pound muskie. Mrs. Stanley Bundock, of Madena, N.Y., is responsible for landing a 27½-pounder and her two sons, Donald and Ray, have a twelve and eight-pound fish among their trophies. While the biggest fish for Mrs. Bundock was the one previously mentioned, she landed seven others of unusually large dimensions during the week.

These visitors are not casual tourists who happened to land at Healey Falls, but have been regular visitors to the resorts there for the past three or four years.

THE FIRST TRIP OF THE SEASON

Steamer Stoney Lake Takes Large Party to Lindsay Yesterday.

STORM ENCOUNTERED.

Yesterday (Monday) morning was bright and promising at dawn, but about seven it clouded over considerably and looked as though one might expect a slight amount of rain.

Nevertheless, this did not prevent some two hundred persons desirous of spending what is always an acceptable day on the river and lakes, from joining the good sturdy little steamer, "Stoney Lake," on her first Lindsay trip of this present season—a trip much liked by many who go year after year, out by river and home by rail, by which I mean that the boat carrying its passengers through river, canal and lakes leaves this city bound for Lindsay, whence the voyagers return to their home city by rail.

The Start.

Although it was cloudy, as I have before mentioned, about seven, by the half hour, the time for departure, it was a little more so; but faint heart ne'er won fair lady, so everybody put on a cheerful, hopeful look.

Commodore, or rather I suppose I should call him Admiral Young, for he is the chief officer of the fleet of which the "Stoney Lake" is but one of the units, yet she is his flag ship, was on board ready to receive the visitors. He was accompanied by his genial wife and family, who all took in the trip with us.

The veteran, Captain Scollard, was of course in charge of the ship and its freight, and had a cheery, hearty welcome for all the guests—a fine fellow is this Scollard, the more one sees of him the better one likes him. By the time we were all on board the clouds had dispersed and the sun shone out. The air was slightly cool but genial, and a few minutes after half-past seven, the mooring ropes were cast off, the whistle tooted and the good ship was on her way.

On Saturday Little Lake was full of logs, and the steamer had experienced some difficulty in getting in and out of port, but in the interval the logs had marvelously disappeared, so no trouble was experienced on that score.

The Lift Lock.

The first object of interest was the Lift Lock. There were many on board who had never seen this contrivance, and marvelled greatly to watch its operation and the transfer of the vessel and themselves to the higher altitudes. And so we went on through the Canal, then into the river, through the various locks until Lakefield was reached. By this time we were experiencing a lovely warm sunny day, tempered by large, white, fleecy clouds, all tending to make it a real day for such an outing.

Quietly and pleasantly we pursued our course until dinner time arrived, and just as we reached the double locks at Burleigh the welcome sound of the dinner bell was heard. Many had attacked their hampers at an earlier time than this. I know that I was quite ready for my meal when the ship's bell rang, and a very pleasant meal I enjoyed in company with the Admiral's wife and some of the members of their family, thanks to that admirable cook, Mrs. Godfrey.

A Slight Shower.

By the time we had arrived at Lovesick Lake we had a first experience of rain. "T'was but a summer shower, for a quarter of an hour," as the old song goes, and it was practically all over before any one had time to give it a thought. Besides which we were all in a happy frame of mind, determined to make the best of everything, good, bad or indifferent. We did not carry a regular orchestra, but several of the ladies present kindly took up their positions at the music stool, and right good were some of the compositions offered to us. I refrain from individualising for fear of raising any—even if only very slight—feelings of jealousy.

A Storm.

On and on we went through Buckhorn to Gannon's Narrows, with its floating bridge, until we either ran into a storm or the storm ran into us. The thunder was real loud, the lightning was real vivid, while as to the rain, I never remember any so violent in this country. Of course sheltered places were at a premium, as may be well understood, but the downpour swept the decks until it was a difficult matter to keep dry-shod. But it was fortunately of short duration—a half-hour covered it all—only it was as bad as could be while it lasted, and then as suddenly as with a pretty April girl the tears turned to sunshine and smiles. We forgot all our recent troubles, and in a glorious evening we turned out of the Lake into the Scugog River, en route for the ambitious go-a-head city on the Scugog.

Just as we entered the river supper was announced, of which I partook with the same pleasant company with whom I had dined. We had a lovely brilliant trip where a number of voyagers were much interested in an electrically operated bascule bridge under which we passed, eventually arriving at the wharf. There we were met by Admiral Frank Young, who exchanged our passenger ship tickets for railway vouchers. A walk across Lindsay, under a sunshiny bright sky, brought us to the railway station, and by the time we were all assembled a special train backed alongside the platform. We all entrained and shortly were speeding along back to Peterborough, which city we reached at about 8.15 p.m., none of us the worse, either in temper or otherwise, for the decidedly stormy period we had passed through since our departure but little more than twelve hours earlier.

Altogether it was an extremely pleasant worth-while trip, made the more so by the kindly attention of those in charge, including Captain Scollard, who is always charming; the genial purser, Mr. Smith; Mrs. Godfrey and her able staff, and all the rest of the jolly crowd down to and including the "midshipmite."

The trip, doubtless, will be repeated, and all I can say, from my own experience, is "Go and do thou likewise."

SOFTBALL TEAMS FAIL TO SHOW UP

Grounds Had Dried Up in Time For Campbellford League Game.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24.—There was no softball game last night. Half an hour after the schedule called for the game to begin there were not enough players from both teams to make up one team. Only one of the Legionaires put in an appearance. ground. In spite of the heavy rain of There were five Mill players on the the afternoon, the grounds were fairly dry and it was expected that there would be a game. A date will be set for the game to be played. This will be decided by the managers of the two teams involved and subject to the approval of the League executive. The next game is on Tuesday, when the two leading teams will battle for the honors, Clerks vs. St. Andrew's.

In the tennis realm, the local club is upholding the district and are generally prophesied to be the leaders at the end of the season. In Cobourg, they won from the club of that town by a score of five to two. Of the seven events, only two were lost to the Cobourg club. The event was a Central Ontario Lawn Tennis Association tournament.

Canada's Foreign trade expanded at a higher rate in recent years than elsewhere.

The total production of the field, orchard, garden and live stock exceeds $2,000,000,000 annually.

DERBY WINNER UNDER ARREST

Mother of Girl Dancer Tries To Prevent Her Going On Stage.

MORE CONTESTS BANNED.

WINDSOR, July 24.—Mary Bourassa, of Detroit, the 19-year-old girl who with her dancing partner, Victor St. Armand of Windsor, Saturday night won the international dance derby at the Windsor Arena by dancing for nearly five days and then racing 16 miles in the six-hour finish event, yesterday was occupying a cell in the Women's Detention Home in Detroit.

The reason for this is because Mary's mother does not want her daughter to go on the vaudeville stage with Stanford S. Edwards, 24, San Antonio, Texas, who acted as her trainer during the gruelling contest, so the mother caused the arrest of both. The charge against them is "held for investigation," which means that both will shortly be free.

Mary, who is an employee of the U.S. Playing Card Company here in Windsor, left her mother's home at 11595 Turner Avenue, Detroit, some three weeks ago, following a quarrel. She wanted to become a professional dancer, she said, but her mother objected.

With the advertising attaching to the winner of the gruelling derby here, the way looked a bit easier. The plan was for Mary Bourassa and Edwards to practice up some soft-shoe dancing and fancy steps. Then they would be ready for the stage, with a way open to the booking offices; but again the mother interfered, laying charges against Mary and her would-be partner.

Meanwhile Windsor City Council is preparing to make another dancing derby here impossible. City Solicitor F. D. Davis, K.C., is at work drafting an ordinance at the instance of Ald. Charles E. Henri, one of those who expressed himself as disgusted at the exhibition in the Arena last week. There is little doubt but that the ordinance, when drawn, will receive the sanction of the Council. It will probably include some other rules for the proper regulation of dancing halls which Windsor lacks at present.

LIGHTNING RUINS ROOF OF HOUSE

Violent Storm Visits Campbellford—Light Service Interrupted.

TRANSFORMERS HIT.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24.—Following a period of intense heat, the thunderstorm yesterday afternoon has lowered the temperature considerably. The deluge of rain was accompanied by rapid flashes of lightning of a particularly dangerous type. The only damage reported in town was to one resident and to two small transformers. The lighting for the districts near the C.N.R. station was temporarily interrupted but workmen were at the job immediately after the storm had passed, repairing the line. Several citizens report having felt the electricity during the storm from various sources, mostly water taps and telephones before the storm broke.

Following a violent crash at two fifteen, a fire alarm was turned in and the brigade reported promptly to the residence of Harry Cassan, Palliser street. The lightning had struck the east chimney of the large frame house completely demolishing it. A window near the chimney was broken and the top portion of the roof was left a mass of splinters. Bricks were hurled many yards by the lightning bolt. The telephone was put out of commission and also the lighting system.

Immediately following the crash, Mrs. Cassin rushed to the attic to estimate the damage. Detecting the odour of fire, she allowed her daughter to send in a fire alarm, but the heavy downpour of rain made the work of the brigade unnecessary, no fire was found. The damage resulting from rain through the shattered roof will be a large item of the whole amount.

The loss is covered by insurance.

LOSES FINGER.

George Carr Suffers Severe Injury While Working in Sawmill.

(Examiner Correspondence).

APSLEY, July 24.—George Carr, clerk of this township, met with a painful accident on Saturday afternoon while working in Alex. McColl's sawmill here, losing the index finger of his right hand when it came in contact with the saw. After being attended to by Dr. Shepherd, he was taken to Peterborough for further treatment, and has not yet returned, so the exact extent of the injury is not known here.

IN POLICE COURT

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Appearing in police court here yesterday before Magistrate Payne, Clayton Potts, Marmora paid a fine and had his driving license suspended for fifteen days. The charge was one of reckless driving on the occasion of July 18th, at Trent River. The fine and court costs amounted in all to sixty dollars.

78 MEN HELD FOR GAMBLING

Charged With Frequenting a Gambling Resort as Result of Police Raid.

ON TORONTO CLUB.

TORONTO, July 24. —(Canadian Press). —Staging an early morning raid to-day, Toronto police chopped their way through three locked doors at the Prospector's Club, Bloor street west, and arrested 78 men on gambling charges. More than $4,000 was seized by the raiders as well as revolver and a quantity of ammunition.

Six trips to the police station were necessary before the patrol wagon could transport all of the 78 men, seventy seven of whom were charged with being found in a gambling resort. Officers stated that two games of dice were in progress when they entered.

BANK BUILDING IS REPAINTED

Royal Bank Brickwork and Signs Getting New Coat of Paint.

The Royal Bank is carrying out an active clean up and paint campaign on its building. The brickwork has all been given one coat of paint and the painters are on their second coat. The workmen swinging from the top of the building on a scaffold attract the attention of nearly every passer-by. After the building has been completely finished, the signs have to come down and all have to be regilded and painted up. V. Eastwood, manager of The Royal Bank, told The Examiner that this was an expensive job, but the inspectors insist that everything be done right and the bank takes a pride in all its buildings. When finished, the fresh appearance of the office building will make it one of the outstanding ones on George street.

AT CAMP SKOOKUM.

With pleasant weather to add to the sorrow of departure, the boys of the first period of camping set out for home.

Having such a large attendance the first period of camping the second period was expected to be smaller, but much to the surprise of the directors it surpassed the first, there being fifty-one boys in camp.

The main event of the week was the trip to Blue Mountains. Starting at nine o'clock in the morning from the camp, the power boat, hauling two large canoes reached Jack's Creek shortly after twelve o'clock, having made one stop at Juniper Island.

After a short swim and dinner the boys set out on the five mile hike to Blue Mountains, but not before some excitement was aroused by the capture of a large black snake and the discovery of a turtle's nest.

Arriving at Blue Mountains the boys, in spite of the hearty dinner they had eaten previous to the trek, set to with a will and consumed enough huckleberries to satisfy several bears after a lean winter. The berries were very plentiful and of excellent quality. While at the summit the mica mines were visited and numerous snaps of the delightful scenery were taken.

After a check up on the number of boys, the return trip to the boats was accomplished in the good time of one. The journey from Jack's Creek to camp was uneventful, except for the odd boy or two falling asleep and disturbing the rest with raucous snores.

With the addition of larger boys at the camp baseball has become very popular.

Most of the boys at present in camp swim very well. Little Billy Loomis stumped many of the boys by sliding down the chute. This is quite an accomplishment for a boy of his size.

During the past two weeks numerous gifts in the form of watermelons and candy have been received by the camp. The directors wish to take this opportunity of thanking the donors for their kindness.

OPEN AIR SERVICE IS WELL ATTENDED

Rev. William McDonald Preaches at Chemong Park on Sunday.

The Chemong Park open air meeting was held Sunday, a good many being present. Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial Church was in the chair.

Rev. William McDonald of Knox United Church was the speaker. He took his text from Matt. 22-5: "But they made light of it and went their way, one to his farm another to his merchandise." He emphasized the fact that a spirit of levity and indifference towards the gospel is in the sight of God as bad as actual hostility or violent opposition. He called upon those present to give up the things of God the supreme place in their lives and thus crown Christ Lord of all."

Special singing by members of Park Street Baptist Church Choir was given under the able leadership of Mr. Cecil Lapp. A quartette composed of Mrs. Iredale, Miss Campbell, Mr. Iredale and Mr. Gladwin sang "O Happy Day That Fixed My Choice" and "Will Your Anchor Hold." Miss Ethel White sang "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears."

Previous to the meeting a fine program of music was given on the Panatrope kindly lent by the Heintzman Company.

After the meeting a program of instrumental music was rendered by Eric Roberts and His Ohians. His various numbers were greatly appreciated as evidence by the loud applause.

In the absence of the pastor the Ladies' Mission Circle conducted the service in the Gilmour Memorial Church on Sunday morning. Mrs. A. B. Mann presided and read the scripture. Mrs. T. R. Mann lead in prayer. Mrs. J. A. Young read a sermon delivered at the World's Baptist Alliance Congress by Dr. Aubrey of London. Mrs. E. A. Edmison read Dr. John McNeil's coronation address.

Mr. Allan Milburn sang "I Come to Thee" and Mr. Alex McGregor sang "Somebody Did a Golden Deed."

Mr. G. W. Mann pronounced the benediction.

FRANKIE GENARO RETAINS FLYWEIGHT CROWN

WORLD'S CHAMPION DRAWS WITH CANADIAN CHALLENGER

Rocco, Canadian Title Holder, Makes Good Showing in Toronto Bout.

MORE AGGRESSIVE.

New York Man Outsmarts Rival, However—Judges Split in Decision.

TORONTO, July 24.—In what was perhaps the best and most aggressive flyweight bout staged in this city in years, Frankie Genaro of New York retained his world's flyweight crown against the savage challenge of Steve Rocco, the Canadian champion, when two of the three members of the official jury split in their awards at the end of the ten rounds and the third member of the trio refused to separate the pair. Consequently Rocco is credited with a draw against the N.B.A. champion and Genaro continues king. Generally there is quite a lot of dispute in connection with a verdict that fails to return a winner but that given last night was perhaps the most satisfactory draw that has ever been announced here. Both sides were fairly well satisfied and the house took the decision with approbation.

Genaro outsmarted Rocco most of the way and had quite a margin in boxing, defence and ring generalship, while the local lad was the more aggressive of the pair and while he was forced to retreat several times his withdrawals were of short distance and were always followed by a strong attack that generally won back most, if not all, of the lost ground. Rocco was the stronger of the two and had youth on his side also. It was his youth, strength and aggressiveness that pulled him up close enough to fairly well merit the even break in the decision.

Rocco Improved.

In forcing the champion to concede a draw Rocco displayed better form than any but those in his immediate following expected and his showing was indeed a great one. Any lad who, after hardly more than six months' experience in the professional ring can hold the world's title holder to a draw and at the same time force his opponent to show more in every way than he has in two previous championship bouts in the same ring, is doing all that can humanly be expected of him. Rocco did all that. He forced Genaro to show more aggressiveness than in either of his clashes with Belanger and the New Yorker also had to open up more to hold Rocco at bay.

Genaro is a post graduate of the school of ring generalship and he needed all the education he has picked up in this branch of learning to stave off the attacks of the local Italian. At times it took everything that Genaro had at his disposal to halt the challenger and at times even this was not enough. In the fourth and eighth rounds Rocco unleashed a vicious attack that forced the champion to fight a purely defensive battle and in these rounds the challenger had big margins but on the other hand Genaro had comfortable leads in the second, sixth and seventh.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Attempt is Made to Organize Softball in Lakefield for Fall Months.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, July 24. — A movement was begun on Friday evening to have a softball league for August to play home and home games, representatives from Bridgenorth, Selwyn, Lakefield Cubs, Canada Cement Co. and Douro met at the Fair Grounds at the Surveyor-Bridgenorth game, and the idea met with general favor. The last few years the Softball League has been popular and hardball was passed over, but the frost this year has been for the softball, which has been in Lakefield a minus quantity.

There should be no trouble to get six or eight teams together in an informal league for the remainder of the summer.

BABE RUTH HITS RECORD HOMER

Senators Clinch Game From Athletics, Scoring Three in First.

YANKEES BEATEN

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth made one of the longest home runs of his walloping career off Pitcher Dan MacFayden in the sixth inning yesterday but it failed to help the Yankees' score materially and the Red Sox won 8 to 3.

Ruth's drive came with two out and none on. It cleared the high fence in centerfield and knifed its way through the east wind that brought the fog in off the Atlantic and made things uncomfortable for the 9,000 spectators. It was Babe's fortieth of the season and put him nearly a month ahead of his 1927 record.

The Red Sox bunched hits off Shealy in the first and third innings for six runs and off Thomas in the fourth for two more. Todt drove in four of the Boston runs and K. Williams two.

Athletics Lose.

The Athletics closed their home stand by losing to Washington five to nothing. The Senators cinched the game in the first inning by hammering Eddie Rommel for three runs. Milt Gaston broke the Athletics winning streak of seven straight, blanking them with six hits.

Turns In Big Game.

Limiting the Indians to five singles and allowing only one base on balls, George Blaeholder, St. Louis twirler, outpitched George Uhle and two other rival hurlers and licked Cleveland practically by himself, 10 to 0 at Cleveland.

Uhle was driven to the club house after permitting five runs in the first two innings and the Browns pounded Mel Harder at will for the next eight. Meanwhile only 31 men faced Blaeholder.

Teco Boys Win

Last night's softball game between the Teco outfit and Percy Harrison's North Enders failed to show the same calibre of ball as was exhibited on Friday night when these two teams clashed. The ground was wet and perhaps this added to the numerous errors in the infield but on the night's play the better team won. The Teco boys gave their pitching more consistent support and in the pinches exhibited much better softball. The race this year is going to be a real close one. Last night's loss for the North Enders puts them in second position, with the C.G.E. and De Laval leading by one game. The Teco outfit are next with the Lockworks and the Knights in the cellar. This week the De Laval must meet the Knights tonight and C.G.E. on Thursday night with the Teco boys being sent against the Lockworks on Friday night.

BRIDGENORTH WINS FROM SURVEYORS

Friendly Game of Softball is Played in Lakefield.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, July 24.—On Friday evening the Government Surveyors and the Bridgenorth softball team met for a friendly game of softball. Owing to lack of advertising, the crowd was small, but the game was good, clean and well played on both sides. The spirit of good fellowship made a good time for players and spectators, and while there was a continuous rapid-fire performance of chaff, the game was absolutely free of "crabbing" or unsportsmanlike behaviour. The boys were all on their toes and there were many errors. Nevertheless there was good batting and good work done in both the infield and outfield.

The game was a pleasant diversion from the more strenuous hardball, which is far too serious a pastime to be played in the jocular style, which is quite in order in softball.

The line-up on the Surveyors was as follows—Pitcher, brown; catcher, Buckland; first base, Tuttle; second base, Tobin; third base, Plews; shortstop, Miall; right field, Payne; left field, Coldham; centre field, Dorando.

The score by innings was:
Bridgenorth ..... 1242010—10
Surveyors ..... 0203000— 5

Shearer made three runs for Bridgenorth and Connors two runs; Bradshaw, Wilson, Forsythe, Dormer and Jopling each made one run. Coldham made two runs for the Surveyors and Buckland, Brown and Dorando each added one to the count.

PIRATES WIN PITCHING DUEL

Robins Finish on Short End of 2 to 1 Score.

FIVE HITS

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Canadian Press).—The Pirates and the Robins finished their seven game series here yesterday with a pitching duel which Pittsburgh won 2 to 1. Fred Russell baffled all of Brooklyn's batters except Bancroft who made half of the Robins' six hits and drove in the only run.

Douglas McWeeny limited the Pirates to five hits in eight innings, but wobbled in the sixth when his balk and Hendrick's error aided in the production of both Pittsburgh runs.

(Only one game scheduled).

HORNSBY LEADS BIG SIX BATTING

Bambino Still Remains in Fifth Position With .316.

P. WANER SECOND

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Canadian Press.)—The necessity of travelling kept half of the Big Six idle yesterday, while Babe Ruth provided all the action for the other half in addition to his fortieth home run of the season, Babe got a double in his four times at bat while the Yankees were dropping a game to the Red Sox, and brought his average up two points. He was still unable to move out of fifth place in the Big Six standing.

The other members of the Big Six who played yesterday, Paul Waner and Cobb failed to get a hit. Waner went to bat four times in the Pirates' victorious duel with Brooklyn. His failure to hit cost him four points in his batting average, dropping to 366, but he is still far ahead of Frank Frisch in third place. Cobb went to bat only once yesterday, as a pinch hitter for Hauser in the ninth inning, but he failed to connect in the pinch.

The standing to date:

HOME TEAM WINS WITH RALLY IN SIXTH

Menie Boys Hold Undisputed Possession of First Place in Rawdon League.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BURNBRAE, July 24.—A sensational win for Menie over the Bethel softball team on Friday night by the close score of 6 runs to 5 puts the local team in unchallenged possession of first place in the League standing. Going into the last half of the sixth inning Bethel appeared to have a safe lead, 5 to 2, but they reckoned without Frank Little's trusty bat. With two on, the lanky outfielder lashed out another of his famous homers to tie the score, and then the Menie batters came right back to break the tie in the seventh.

The Menie team have the proud record for the league season of eleven wins and one tie game in twelve starts. While other teams in the league have younger and faster fielders than the local boys, they cannot compare in batting strength. Another deciding factor in Menie wins is the strong, steady pitching of Manager Eagleson, who is ably assisted by his battery mate, Stanley (Tom) Little. The balance of the team who will enter the finals of the Rawdon League are: L. Shillinglaw, 1b; Lewis Little, 2b; J. Rannie, 3b; A. Linn, ss; Frank Little, rf; Roy Walker, cf; Ralph Hay, lf; subs., Stan. Nelson, H. Petherick, Malcolm Hutcheson, Earl Whitton. The latter is the relief pitcher and has to his credit a win in the only complete game pitched.

Practically all the regulars have been batting at or around the .500 mark, with Shillinglaw and Eagleson hitting well up to .700. Alex. Linn, last year's regular shortstop, has just returned to the game, being out for the early part of the season with a broken collar-bone.

Local ball fans are pulling for Menie to win out in the league finals and retain the cup which they won last year. Glen Ross look like the most serious contenders, as they have the combination of good pitching with fast fielding.

NORTH ENDERS LOSE TO TECO TO BREAK TIE

Harrison's Team Are Beaten by One Run in Close Game.

SCORE 11-10

Errors Were Frequent and Pitchers Were Hit Hard Last Night.

Twenty complete, hard - fought innings of softball with one run separating them at the finish to avoid a third game—such was the record established by Harrison's and Teco's when they met at Confederation Park last night and went nine sessions to a 11-10 conclusion in favor of Teco, in a replay of Friday night's 11-inning 3-all tie. Harrison's lost the decision after leading their opposition from the fourth to the seventh frames, during which Vinette, their left fielder, poled out a beautiful circuit drive. His hit was prominent among many for both Dormer and Nichols, on the mound for winner and losers respectively, were touched hard and plenty. The support accorded them was not of the best either, as errors were frequent, so that the game carried all the elements of thrill that the fair crowd of fans could wish for—heavy hitting, uncertain fielding, yet creditable pitching. Both heavers had four strike-outs.

Teco's provided plenty of justification for the old "Lucky Seventh" superstition in last night's battle, for when they went to bat in that frame they were trailing on the light end of an 8-5 count, but three hits and three errors worked wonders and they did their final counting for the night with an even half-dozen added to the original five. They had scored two in the first, two in the second and one in the fifth and in five other sessions had been blanked.

Harrison's on the other hand scattered their counters around in more moderate proportions, for after nicking Dormer and company for three in the third and three in the fourth, they added a brace in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the ninth. Errors played a large part in all of the scoring.

The playing of both teams was not of the calibre expected after their extra long, no decision encounter last week. Players of the rival outfits seemed overly anxious to get the drop on their opposition, particularly while in the field, and a number of fly balls were dropped or disregarded entirely through confusion as to who should field them.

At the same time, it should not be concluded that some clever fielding was an utterly foreign and absent quantity, while many of the men redeemed previous errors with good hitting. It was an "anybody's game" from start to finish, with no quarter asked or given. Tommy Holyman and Doc. Green officiated and had little trouble in keeping the boys in line.

The teams:

Teco—White, c; Dormer, p; Board, 3b; Edgar, ss; MacDonald, 1b; Sexsmith, 2b; Scates, rf; Meagher, cf; Saunders, lf.

Harrison's—Dundas, c and 3b; Dorrington, 2b; Montgomery, cf; Callsdine, 1b; Walton, ss; Vinette, lf; Clarke, 3b; Dobson, c; Nichols, p; Johnson, rf.

Score by innings:

SURVEYORS WIN

Home Team Beats Selwyn in Close Game of Softball.

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, July 24.—On Saturday evening the Selwyn softball team and the Surveyors team met for a game on the Exhibition Grounds, and though the crowd was small, the game was keen and closely contested to the very last minute of play.

The teams were well matched and every error was a costly one and every hit counted.

Selwyn won the toss and played the steady game all through for which Selwyn is known in the district. The Surveyors took the game less seriously, but played brilliantly in the first and seventh innings, which won them the victory.

The shades of night which were quickly falling prevented the game running to nine innings, and both teams ended the game in the pink of condition and with undiminished enthusiasm.

Like Friday's game, the entire fixture was clean, the players on both sides being real sportsmen, winning and losing with a grin, but each man playing his best.

N. A. Moore and E. Northey were the umpires.

The score was 8-5 for the Surveyors.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Selwyn—Pitcher, Elliott catcher, Nicholls; first base, Graham; second base, Darling; third base, McConkey; shortstop, Fitzgerald; right field, McIlmoyl; left field, Blewett; centre field, Oliver; sub., Dean.

The score by innings was:
Surveyors ..... 2001004—8
Selwyn ..... 1100300—5

Lamar Hits Home Run in Fi... With Two on Bases.

ROCHESTER WINS

BALTIMORE, July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Lamar's home run and single accounted for four of Newark's five runs which gave them their first victory of the season at Oriole Park over the Birds here yesterday, 5 to 3. The circuit blow came in the first inning with Jacobson and Kingdon on base. In the seventh the single sent Jacobson home again. The game was twice interrupted by rain and was finally called off at the start of the ninth inning, making the second abbreviated game in as many days for the Bears and Orioles. Karl Fisher held the Bird hits well in hand with the exception of the second inning when successive singles by Browner, Onslow and Devine brought in two runs.

ROCHESTER WINS.

Rochester defeated Buffalo at home yesterday 4 to 3, getting eleven hits off the delivery of Mills and Stryker. Charlie Gehrs crashed his sixteenth home run of the season off the delivery of Mills. None were on base. Rochester gained one half a game in the International race as a result of Toronto being idle.

HOW THEY LOOK.

SPECULATOR, N.Y., July 24.—(Associated Press).—Though not over confident, Gene Tunney believes he has an excellent chance to score a knockout next Thursday night when when he defends his heavyweight title against Tom Heeney in the Yankee Stadium.

"I feel in better condition for the coming contest than for either of my fights with Jack Dempsey," the champion told the Associated Press yesterday. "With the event being held in New York City, I have had an opportunity to train here in the mountains and condition myself to my own complete satisfaction."

"My hands," Tunney continued. "are stronger than they have been in years and this in view of the fact that I am confident that I am punching harder than I have in years—since I began professional boxing when my hands were not strong enough to withstand the power of my punches.

Finishes Training.

FAIRHAVEN, N.J., July 24.—(Associated Press).—Its all over now but the clouting for Tom Heeney.

The Hard Rock finished six weeks of training at the Rumson Kennel Farms to-day with four rounds of boxing and four rounds of gymnasium work.

After the last glove whizzed through the hot stuffy air of the old barn in which he worked, Heeney considering his training ended. There will be no more boxing. He will not see another glove until he crawls into the ring in the Yankee Stadium next Thursday to battle Gene Tunney in quest of the world's heavy weight championship.

"Glorious Betsey"

One of the romances of history has come to life on the screen in the filming of "Glorious Betsey," which tells the love story of Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore and Jerome Bonaparte, brother of Napoleon, Emperor of France. The literary license which is always excusable when it tends toward greater interest in the resulting drama has been utilized to give the tale its proper dramatic and satisfying ending. As the history books have it, Jerome never returned to American shores. After his marriage to Betsey Patterson, the belle of Baltimore, he was ordered to France by his brother and compelled to marry the daughter of King Frederick First of Wuttemburg. This lady is alluded to variously as Princess Catherine and Princess Sophia Dorothea, but the picture calls her by the former name. Jerome turned out to be quite an extravagant monarch and plunged his small kingdom almost into bankruptcy. However, he assisted his brother materially in his campaigns and history records that his royal wife persisted in sharing his fortunes even after the debacle of Waterloo, when her father wished to annul the marriage. She was more faithful than her husband to his American love, for he allowed Napoleon to annul the marriage to Betsey Patterson, who lived alone in America until 1879, nineteen years after Jerome had died in Europe. Their son was the head of the American branch of the family.

A curious circumstance of the picture is the fact that Conrad Nagel, impersonating Jerome Bonaparte, is almost exactly like the picture of the latter, inscribed in the pages of history books.

The story is a vivid, romantic one, showing the dashing splendor of the love of Betsey and Jerome. Napoleon himself, pictured in the scene where the girl renounces her husband at his stern behest, is quite different in appearance to the usual picturization of the Corsican conqueror. The tale retains the true historical flavor with the vital exception that it ends happily, instead of truly.

Heeney and Tunney Quit Training For Thursday's Match.

IN GOOD CONDITION.

FAIRHAVEN, N.J., July 24 (Canadian Press).—Blunt Tom Heeney, unaccustomed to camouflaging his thoughts when interviewers prod him with questions, frankly admitted today that he is in the best condition of his fighting career, ready and eager to give Gene Tunney the battle of his life when they meet in the Yankee Stadium on Thursday night for the world's championship.

Heeney's training siege is over, and except for limbering up exercises he will do no more work. He is in the best of humor, obviously glad his long siege of conditioning is over.

TUNNEY PLANS FLIGHT.

SPECULATOR, N.Y., July 24 (Canadian Press).—Champion Gene Tunney, never in better shape, tapered off his training with a light work-out today in preparation for his bout on Thursday night with Tom Heeney. To-morrow he will do only light exercises and on Thursday morning will fly to New York, despite the objections of Promoter Tex Rickard and his manager, Billy Gibson.

NO DECISION IN BETHANY GAME

Home Team Failed To Be At Grounds To Start Contest On Time.

COGS-RAYS TO-MORROW.

Crescents came out of Bethany last night with a draw decision after Umpire Kay had called the game in Bethany's half of the fifth on account of darkness. Bethany had sent over a run to tie the count at 5 to 5, the runner at third scoring on a passed ball which eluded the catcher in the darkness.

Bethany had taken a lead of four runs at the fourth. In the fifth, Crescents tallied five runs.

Failure of the Bethany players to be on hand to start the game, caused a long delay in getting away. The weather was threatening, but the home team evidently overlooked a recent rule which gives the umpire-in-chief authority to decide if the playing field is fit to start a game. This rule was made to protect Bethany in coming here, as well as the teams playing in Bethany.

Break for Crescents

Failure of the teams to get a decision may mean a break for the Crescents. A loss last night might have caused havoc. Intense interest will now be centred on the Raybestos-Cogs game to-morrow evening, and the Crescents-Cogs contest on Friday. A win for Raybestos and a victory for Crescents will send Manager Brioux and his help into second place, with the final standing of the Crescents and Cogs hanging in the balance, until the Cogs replay a tie game in Bethany and Crescents make a return trip to replay last night's contest.

Maudsley will likely return to the mound for the Rays to-morrow night. He has been working at first base while Armstrong and Masterson have been taking their turn in the box. Fans who were a bit critical over the result of the Rays-Cogs game last Friday should not overlook the fact that the manager of a league-leading team has his own problems. Ball players do not take kindly to putting in a season on the bench.

Stomach Troubles Headaches and Dizziness

When your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep"; get thin and nervous; and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

This was the condition of Mme. P. Joyal, 2170 Letourneux street, Montreal. She says: "I was so nervous that the rustling of a newspaper upset me. My appetite had left me; indigestion was giving me a great deal of trouble; I could not sleep; and steadily lost weight. JAPANESE REPORT ATTACK BY CHINESE Drove Nationalists Out of Shantung Area Last Week.

INFLICTED HEAVY LOSS.

TOKIO, July 24.—The worst fighting in Shantung since the Tsinan incident on May 3, occurred between the Japanese regulars and the Chinese along the Shantung Railway near Kaomi last Thursday and Friday, according to a disclosure by the War Department last night.

The Chinese dead were placed at 500 and the Japanese at six with 24 wounded. Six companies of Japanese infantry, and one machine gun company, the remaining guard of the neutral railway zone, fought during all of Thursday night and Friday against the Chinese under General Ku Shin Chun, whose body of 1,500 troops penetrated the zone, contrary to the standing order to keep them seven miles outside.

The Chinese entered at Chuyang Shu, two miles south of Kaomi. The Japanese were ordered out, and met the Chinese inside the zone, demanding immediate disarmament or retreat. The Chinese fired from a strong position. The Japanese replied stiffly, but required the whole night to drive out the main force, and then spent Friday taking care of stragglers.

OLD HUDSON BAY VOYAGEUR IS DEAD

One of the Last Red River Travellers Passes Away in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24. — (Canadian Press.)—One of the last of the Red River voyageurs, Eli Carriere, 89 years of age, is dead here following a few weeks' illness. Carriere was one of the band of intrepid and courageous men organized by the Hudson's Bay Company to direct the carrying of freight to far Northern Canada and to return with the fur catch.

He assisted Col. William Kennedy to organize the Red River voyageurs which went to Egypt in the eighties, and floated supplies and bands of soldiers down the Nile to the relief of General Gordon.

TROUBLES FORGOTTEN WHEN BISHOPS DINED

Churchmen Attend the Annual Lord Mayor's Dinner.

FESTIVE AFFAIR.

All Prayer Book Difficulties Are Put Aside for the Day.

LONDON, July 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Bishops forgot, for a while at least, their perplexities over the prayer book, when they dined with the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House the other night. For many years it has been the custom of the Lord Mayor of London once a year to entertain the Episcopal Bench. Laughter played around the features of the reverend fathers, more especially when His Grace of Canterbury delivered a very happy and witty speech. Even the music served with the meats was of a light and happy character. There were Gilbert and Sullivan excerpts—and even selections from old-time music hall songs. Somebody suggested that the music ought to have been Gregorian.

The Archbishop of York said the first letter he had opened that morning contained this very searching question: "Are you and your brother Davidson servants of the Devil?" The writer, added the Archbishop, left no sort of doubt as to his own opinion.

"One of the great difficulties of bishops of to-day," said the Archbishop of Canterbury, "is the ceaseless remand for utterances of some kind absoltuely unlike what our predecessors in office were accustomed to when three or four times a year a dignified utterance was put forward in solemn tones and was duly reported in a quite respectable way.

"I sometimes wonder whether the modern form of the newspaper sheet is accountable for it. Nowadays the greater part of our newspapers, is full of stirring pictures, brilliant motor-cars, wonderful dresses from Paris, illustrating to the full all the furs and furbelows of the day—and sometimes even more intimate details than that. Between the interstices of those pictures the reporter has to find room somehow to put in what this man or that has said. No wonder that we are made on occasion to say things which in print we fail to recognize as our own."

Continuing, the Archbishop said a man of his age received much advice of a contradictory nature. Some would have a man retitre at 70 or before. Others would have him carry on until he had to be wheeled in a bath chair along the Brighton front, to be pointed out by triumphant nurses as an old man in full possession of all his faculties.

BIG OIL TRUCK LEAVES DETOUR

Heavy Vehicle Becomes Mired in Ditch North of City.

PASSED TURNOUT.

A big oil truck was stuck in the swamp on the detour to Chemong this morning. From all appearances the big truck had passed the turnout at the long narrow piece of road just south of the bridge, as the driver believed he could pass an approaching car on the narrow road. Either he was forced into the ditch or believed his car had power enough to pull itself out when in the ditch, but the truck buried its wheels in the soft mud and rested there at an angle of about 45 degrees.

FIRE CHIEFS IN KINGSTON

Twelfth Annual Convention of Dominion Fire Chiefs Opens To-day.

300 EXPECTED.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Three hundred delegates are expected to be here to-day to attend the 12th annual convention of the Dominion Fire Chief's Association. A number of delegates arrived. The convention will last three days and the local committee has arranged for a big program of entertainment for the visitors.

A civic banquet and a trip down the river will be included in the program. Chief George M. Brady of North Bay, president of the association, addressed the Kiwanis Club at luncheon to-day.

KILLED BY FALL.

Workman Dies Soon After Being Admitted to Welland Hospital.

WELLAND, Ont., July 24 (Canadian Press). — Mike Boyans, 23, was fatally injured last night when he fell from the wall of the Welland Canal Aqueduct. He died shortly after being admitted to Welland County Hospital.

FIREMEN MAKE NEEDLESS RUNS

Two False Alarms Received by Brigade in Past 24 Hours.

Two false alarms have reached the fire department within less than twenty-four hours and both from the north end of the city. The first one came at 5.23 last night when some one pulled Box 43 at the corner of Edinburgh and Bethune streets and called all the equipment out. When a box is pulled the firemen have to respond with the entire apparatus as they do not know what type of fire they may meet. This leaves the department with only a small reserve in the case of a larger outbreak and when a false alarm is sent in from a box it is a very serious offence.

The second false alarm came from the box in Inverlea Park, calling the pulmotor for no reason at all.

The assistant chief issues a warning to all people fooling around this box that on any signs of tampering with the alarm system that they will not be asked for an explanation but immediate action taken on the grounds of a serious offence.

As England won the first match in June this gives the Mother Country the rubber. The last match will be played at the Oval, beginning August 11.

NEWSBOYS GUESTS OF CANADIAN SHOW

Examiner Carriers Enjoy Rides And See Mysteries of Midway.

The newsboys who daily deliver The Examiner were the guests of the Royal Canadian Shows, which opened here last night. How that group of young lads enjoyed themselves. It was difficult, however, to ascertain who enjoyed the party the most, the hosts or the guests. The brilliant music of the calliphone attracted hundreds of people last night, and the way the shows were patronized indicated a general approval of the display.

The crescent shaped arrangement of banners, tents, electric lights, noise makers and all the rest of the paraphernalia that goes to make a good, clean show, were laid out in panorama. The merry-go-round, the whip, and ferris wheel started off the youthful parade to entertainment.

In the matter of shows, the lads received a thrill. There was the Palace of Mystery, where Professor Lockman and his experts presented their high class exhibition of magic, mystery, wonders and spirit phenomena. The glass-blowers were good. This is an interesting feature display of which artistic ability is paramount. Each visitor receives a souvenir, well worth the admission price.

Professor Brown, formerly lecturer of the British Museum, London, presented his Temple of Wonders. His exhibits and lectures have educational as well as entertaining features.

Ten Ponies.

The boys delight in Professor Crocker's exceptionally entertaining pony show. The educated equines do their acting remarkably well. Izzy Dizzies laugh show was well worth while.

Long lines of attractive concessions attract crowds. Last nigh many took away valuable prizes. The tent at the southern end of the big horseshoe was where Muriel, the white Mahatma, reads hidden treasures and secrets and tells the answer to most anything that is asked.

The Royal Canadian shows is under the personal direction of Harry Lottridge, who, when interviewed last night, announced the expansion of the show to almost half as large again as present. Mr. Lottridge is the owner of this remarkable show and the increase of size reflects the merit of the presented midway. The show, which is located on the Exhibition Grounds, will run every evening this week.

Immediate Steps To Deport Hawkins

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press.)—It is understood here that steps will be taken by the Department of Immigration to deport summarily James Henry Hawkins organizer of the Ku Klux Klan in Sasaktchewan. Information received is to the effect that Hawkins has returned to Regina in spite of a deportation order issued against him. Such action is not permissible save under the authority of the Minister of Immigration.

FEUDAL SYSTEM STILL REARS HEAD IN QUEBEC

Problem of Removing Seigneurial System of Land Tenure Occupies Municipalities.

RENTALS ARE SMALL.

On Armistice Day Small Land Owners Proceed To Manor With Dues.

QUEBEC, Que., July 24 (Canadian Press). — There are few corners of the civilized world where old customs and procedures, scorned by the modernists as ghosts of a dead and buried past, survive with such hardy persistence as in the Province of Quebec. Probably the most striking of these survivals is the seigneurial system of land tenure which, imported to Canada from feudal France three centuries ago, is to-day causing deep worry to the representatives of several municipalities, although it was supposed to have received its death blow in 1854.

In the days of Maisonneuve and Frontenac and Laval the small landowners, virtual serfs, proceeded on each November 11 to the seigneurial manor of their overlord to renew their feudal oath of fealty and pay their annuel dues, frequently making a portion or the payment in products of the soil or of the chase.

In this progressive century, when the word "feudalism" brings a smile to most lips, the few surviving seigneurs receive the annual land rents from feudatories who include mighty corporations, millionaire country clubs, race tracks, large property owners. The rentals which they pay seldom exceed ten dollars, and are frequently below that figure, but many of the properties which the "Grande Seigneurs" handed out to their retainers in exchange for services and dues to be rendered in perpetuity are now worth several thousand times that modest sum.

Of the few early seigneuries surviving in the direct line of descent, that of Lotbiniere is notable because its ancient manor to-day houses the head of the historic family, Alain Joly Chartier de Lotbiniere. But while the majority of the seigneurial families have long since lost direct contact with the realms which they once ruled, in many cases the seigneurial rights have been acquired, either by inheritance or purchase, by powerful religious orders. These now act as technical overlords of the land, collecting the troublesome dues when Armistice Day rolls round.

Following out the policy of conciliation with which they won the loyal allegiance of the French-Canadians, the British conquerors of Quebec did not at first interfere with the seigneurial system. But as years passed it became regarded as a grievance and in 1854 legislative action was taken to lay the ghost of feudalism. A system was established by which the landholders could entirely free their shoulders of the yoke by a series of quit-rent payments. But for some reason, many of the feudatories did not take advantage of the chance. Feudalism survived the death stroke.

So to-day certain provincial deputies and municipal officials are cogitating their brains to devise a new and more attractive system by which the twentieth century feudatories can be aided in banishing the bugbear of seigneurial tenure from Quebec.

THEFT CHARGED AGAINST YOUTH

Dummer Man Accused of Stealing Various Parts For Car.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Facing five charges of theft, to four of which he pleaded not guilty, Gordon Lee, an 18-year-old young man of Dummer Township, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley in police court this morning and on electing to be tried summarily, was remanded until Friday, July 27, when he will appear for trial at Norwood. He requested the remand in order that he might form some defence. Accused had no counsel in court today.

The first charge, to which he pleaded guilty, was that on June 16, he did steal a tire and tube from a resident of Norwood; the other charges against him were for the theft of two other tires and tubes at different times during the past few months, a battery, coil, auto hood, a Chevrolet coil and cord attachment.

A young man was also fined $10.00 and costs for consuming liquor in a place other than a private residence, while two young women were remanded on separate charges.

ABOUT MINERAL SPRINGS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Your readers were very much interested in The Examiner's account of the reported discovery of mineral springs at Catchacoma and Apsley. I have known for some years of a spring at Catchacoma that had a mineral taste and I found it had a very beneficial effect on my health. On describing the taste to a Toronto doctor, he asked me to get him a sample, which he analysed and found it to be tinctured with uranium salts as well as iron and various phosphates with, he said, a very little sulphur. He informed me that radium came from uranium salts which were the true source of it and asked me if I could buy the property on which it was located. I told him I owned it already and he then said I ought to give the public the benefit of it because it has been found by chemists that it is the minute quantities of radium in the famous German and French spas or mineral springs which give them their great curative value and draw crowds from all parts of the world.

If I find any interest taken in it, I will certainly see that the public has the benefit of it, although it is in the fall or winter or cold weather that the water gives off most that peculiar sparkle called, I believe, radium emanations.

It is thought by Sir. W. Ayres, the great English chemist, that the reason such springs are stronger in cool weather than in hot is that the sun's rays penetrate deeper in the clear, cool air into the earth while in hot weather they are interceptd by dust.

ROAD NEEDS FIXING.

Editor Examiner:

Dear sir:

Will you kindly allow me the use of a little space in your paper in the interest of public safety?

I pay city taxes on property and a residence within the city, on a public highway. Owing to a fallen bridge this road has been a menace to public safety and considerable inconvenience to me and my neighbors for three weeks. There is a gap in the highway [illegible] feet across and four or five feet deep.

If a car were to drive into it, the car would be totally wrecked and the occupants would be seriously, if not fatally, injured.

Trades people delivering goods in this locality are forced to detour three miles.

The City Engineer and His Honor, the Mayor, are both acquainted with the condition of this bridge. Are they waiting till someone is killed or till some stranger to the road demolishes his car? Who will be responsible? The City Council say "the township will be responsible." The Reeve says "the City will be responsible." Why should the township be responsible for the condition of a highway within the city?

Why should the Council and City Engineer "pass the buck" when they know there is grave danger of some person being killed? To save a few paltry dollars?

In the past I have stopped tourists and warned them and I have put a light on the bridge at night but after publication of this letter these self-imposed duties will cease. I have been doing them out of consideration for the welfare of tourists and strangers.

The matter is now up to the City Engineer and the Council. Thanking you for your space.

Yours sincerely,

MATTHEW McMAHON.

LIKES ALBERTA COAL.

Editor Examiner:

I would like to express my views in regard to Alberta coal. Now that it is available in Ontario after some years of effort to obtain a favorable freight, I feel it is up to every householder to give this coal a fair trial.

The reason I make this statement is that I have frequently heard people say that it would not, dollar for dollar, compare with American coal. I am convinced that many of these stories are circulated by foreign coal interests who naturally do not like to see the Ontario market lost to them. I have used Alberta coal and I want to say that I will burn nothing else as long as I can obtain it. It has proved satisfactory in both range and furnace.

I claim that the only way that each householders can determine the matter of whether Alberta coal is a satisfactory fuel is by personal experience. Therefore every coal consumer shouldodd give this coal a fair trial; one ton should be sufficient for this purpose. If they find it satisfactory as I have, we will soon be keeping in this country some of the millions of dollars that have been going over to the United States each year for foreign coal thereby giving employment to American coal miners and American laborers instead of keeping Canadian labor employed.

I say try at least a ton of Alberta coal if you have not already done so.

THE POWER SITUATION

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Mr. R. R. Hall's letter in The Examiner on Friday draws attention once more to the fact that Orillia, which owns and operates its own power, sells it for less than one-half the rate charged by Hydro here. How long is this farce to continue? But the most interesting instance of the collapse of government ownership is furnished by the transfer of the Canadian National Railways to a private company of the same name. These railways, instead of being owned and operated by the Government of Canada will now be owned by the people of Canada as shareholders, just as the C.P.R. is owned and they will be operated by a separate company just as the C.P.R. operates its railways. The absurdity of appointing commissions to operate government enterprises because political bodies cannot be trusted has at last dawned on the public. These enterprises cannot be efficiently and safely handled in that way as Sir Henry Thornton has proved. Hence the change. Why not try this plan with our local power? What a farce it is for us here in Peterborough to try to compete with places like Orillia and Campbellford which sell power at half our prices and are not bothered with government dictation.

FARMERS SEEK HARVEST HELP

Few Men Placed By Employment Bureau Recently, But More Needed.

SKILLED MEN IN DEMAND.

Conditions in employment around the city are fairly good, according to the local employment office. There have been few applications for farm positions lately, but the supply for these has not been nearly equal to the demand. This is the most critical time for the farmer and he needs a lot of help with the haying in full swing and the grain crops coming on.

Next week there is expected an increase in registrations at the local office. There always seems to be a peculiar tendency for the number of applicants to increase around the time after a circus or carnival comes to the city. Whether they just drift with the show or if they leave it is not known at the office, but there is sure to be an increase.

Diemakers are in heavy demand in several cities. This is a position for experienced men. Nearly everyone wants experienced men and the unexperienced laborer has not many openings.

The positions open at present are for granite letter workers, diemakers, farm laborers, hotel help and truck drivers.

Bailieboro

(Examiner Correspondence)

BAILIEBORO, July 24.—The final strawberry festival of the season brought a splendid crowd to the Anglican Church garden party on the lawn on Wednesday evening. The late strawberries were a real treat to those present. Al. Stagg, of Port Hope, with his group of Capitolians including Miss D. Wartington, J. Thomas, H. and S. Winfield, were present and provided an excellent program. The Rev. Canon Allen acted as chairman. The booth on the ground did good business during the evening.

AVIATORS CRASH AT SMITH'S FALLS

Three Young Men Hurt When Plane Stalls On Take-off.

SMITH'S FALLS, July 24 (Canadian Press). — Three young aviators of Ottawa are in the hospital and an airplane of the Canadian Transport Company is badly damaged as the result of a crash which occurred here late yesterday afternoon when the men were taking off for a return flight to their homes.

H. Pinkie, who was piloting the plane, the most seriously injured, suffered severe cuts and bruises to many parts of his body. S. R. McIntosh and H. S. Graham, his companion fliers, sustained painful bruises to their limbs and cuts about their heads.

According to witnesses at the crash, the plane taxied almost to a fence skirting the field before taking off. The hop-off, however, was successful, and the machine, when some 70 feet off the ground, endeavored to turn and head toward the centre of the town. Then, the witnesses state, the machine narrowly missed a house-top and the pilot was making an effort to climb when the engine stalled and the plane went into a nose dive and crashed.

The under-carriage of the machine was smashed, cockpit and seats crushed, and gaping holes torn in the delicate covering of the wings and body of the plane. The engine, torn from its stays, was forced some distance into the ground.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General

All crops throughout the Prairie Provinces continue to make excellent progress, under highly favourable conditions, and prospects generally are very satisfactory, although in a few sections of Saskatchewan, there has been severe damage from hail and some areas in Manitoba have suffered from flooding. In Quebec conditions continue favourable, although intermittent rains have retarded haying operations. All crops are making excellent progress in Ontario where warm weather with ample moisture has prevailed. In the Maritime Provinces equally good growing conditions have been maintained. In British Columbia weather conditions have been excellent for field crops, but rain has largely spoiled cherries. Other fruits promise well. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces

Alberta Western and Northeastern Areas—Conditions are very satisfactory. Beet crop and pasturage are in good condition. Alberta Southeastern Area—The situation continues to be very favourable. Saskatchewan Northern Area—Crop conditions continue favourable. Wheat is making excellent progress, and generally is well headed out. A number of points report troublesome weeds and uneven crops. Severe hail storms in central western and central southern Saskatchewan, have caused heavy damage. Manitoba—All grains except on low flooded areas in Southeastern Manitoba continue to make good progress. A considerable percentage of wheat and barley is in head. Damage from hail is negligible, but weeds, especially mustard, are prevalent. Prospects are satisfactory.

Province of Quebec

Hay crop in the eastern townships is slightly below average but in the northern and lower St. Lawrence districts is heavy. Cutting is becoming general. Grain and root crops are developing rapidly and show good promise. Fruit trees have a good appearance. Small fruits and berries are plentiful. Pastures are in good condition. Tobacco is showing good growth.

Province of Ontario

Fall wheat is ripening fast and a good average crop is predicted. Spring grains show exceptionally good promise. Corn is making rapid growth but requires warm dry weather. Haying is general; the yield is larger than first anticipated although recent rainfalls have retarded curing. Root crops are making satisfactory progress. Tobacco is coming along nicely. There is a heavy crop of cherries. Recent heavy rains and warm weather have caused scab to develop in apples. Pastures are very good.

Maritime Provinces

All crops are doing well. Potatoes continue to show excellent growth. Hay cutting has commenced and an above average yield seems fairly well assured with a shortage of clover but an abundance of timothy. Pasturage continues to be very good. The strawberry crop has been a partial failure, especially in New Brunswick. A small "drop" of apples and some spot are reported but an average yield is still indicated.

British Columbia

Weather for hay, grain and root crops has been excellent and yields promise to be 10 per cent. to 20 per cent. above average. Pasturage and live stock are in very good condition. Hay making is general, and in some districts safely finished. The cherry crop has been largely spoiled by rain and only 40 per cent. yield is anticipated. Apricots are moving in the Okanagan and the first carload of early apples has been shipped. Some grain is being cut. Apples are expected to be 110 per cent of average; apricots 120 per cent; cherries 40 per cent; plums 85 per cent; pears 80 per cent; hops 100 per cent; tomatoes 130 er cent.; potatoes 65 per cent; small fruits 100 per cent.

Some people who have promised to mend their ways must have gone in for that invisible mending we hear about.

CATTLE STAMPEDE IN KANSAS STREETS

Fifty Escape From Cars When Freight Train Is Wrecked.

KANSAS CITY, July 24 (Canadian Press). — Fifty head of Hereford cattle stampeded through the streets here early to-day following the midnight wreck of a Santa Fe freight train two blocks from the Union Station. Police and motorists staged many exciting impromptu rodeos in the downtown streets, but the cattle were not all rounded up, and later reached the outlying residential districts.

Nine cars piled up in the wreck, and three cattle cars were wrenched open.

RIO DE JANEIRO COMPANY WINS JUDGMENT IN ACTION BELGIAN INVESTOR BRINGS

Payment of Coupons On Basis of Exchange Rate in 1908.

LOEWENSTEIN INVOLVED.

Financier Visited Toronto in Connection With Suit—Handled Bond Issue.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24 (Special to The Examiner).—Action brought by Guillaume Hubert Louis Derwa Brabant, of Belgium, against the Rio De Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power Co., Ltd., of Toronto, seeking an order compelling payment of five per cent., second mortgage, fifty-year bond coupons of the company at a rate of exchange alleged fixed at the time of the issue of the securities in 1908, was dismissed to-day by Mr. Justice Rose.

The suit was the occasion of a visit to Toronto by the late Captain Alfred Loewenstein, who handled much of the issue in Europe and at whose instigation, it was said, Derwa brought the suit.

Plaintiff stated at the trial that on April 1, 1908, the defendant authorized an issue of second mortgage five per cent., fifty-year bonds not exceeding 3,500,000 pounds and they were secured by a trust deed dated April 1, 1908, between the defendant and the National Trust Co., Ltd. They were to be issued in both English sterling or French and Belgian francs, and on this provision of the trust deed 45,000 bonds of a face value of 500 francs each were issued in French and Belgian francs. The coupons attached were to be paid, according to the inscription on the bonds at the banks designated by the company in Paris, Brussels, or Toronto. The French or Belgian bonds bore the inscription, "pay to bearer 12.050 francs at banks designated at . . ."

In 1911 the issue was increased according to a provision of the trust deed by 1,766,000 pounds, making a total of 5,266,000 pounds. These later issued bonds were designated on the face and back thereof in a manner similar to that of the first issue as regards payment.

Plaintiff claimed that provision was made in the trust deed that the rate of exchange would calculated at £1, equalling $4.862.3 on the sterling bonds, and at the rate of 25.16 francs, equalling 1 pound. By a further provision it was provided that all bonds in both the sterling and the franc schedule be the same as regards the "footing of equality."

Until December 13, 1919, plaintiff states coupons of bonds purchased by him on the advertising contained in a prospectus issued by the company were paid at the fixed rate.

On and after that date, however, he stated the defendant's banks refused to make payment at the rate fixed by the trust deed although payment was made on the sterling bonds at the fixed rate. He claimed, therefore, that a preference was being shown, contrary to the terms of the trust deed.

Plaintiff before bringing the action presented through his solicitors in Toronto coupons for payment at the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the bank designated by the company as its bank and was offered notes of the Bank of France to the amount of the face value of the coupons; notes of the National Bank of Belgium to the amount of the face value and the equivalent in Canadian bank notes of the face value at the day's rate of exchange for both French and Belgian francs. These offers were refused, the plaintiff claiming payment at the rate of exchange alleged to have been fixed in the trust deed.

The judgment of Mr. Justice Rose then states that all the 1908 issue was taken by groups of banks and bankers under an agreement of purchase with the company before the bonds were presented, prominent among these being the firm of St. Allsarth and Loewenstein of Brussels who took charge of the listing of the bonds in the exchanges of Paris and Brussels and the sale of the bonds to the public.

Mine Shares Go Down In Light Trading To-day

TORONTO, July 24 (Canadian Press)—Prices turned decidedly downward on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day. Trading continued light and there was a noticeable falling off in the sales volume of some of the issues which have recently maintained a show of activity. Sherritt Gordon was the heaviest loss, dropping forty to 6.50, the lowest point reach for some time. Noranda, after a show of strength yesterday, was softer, closing with a drop of 1.40 to 56.10. Malartic, in heavy trading, was down 11 at 1.28. Hollinger dropped 10 to 11.40; Sudbury Basin 10 to 7.75, and Wright Hargreaves 5 to 3.10. The Western issues provided some firm spots. Pend Oreille, with few sales, gained 10 to 16.40, after opening at 16.00. Hudson Bay held firm at 18.50, and Jackson Manion was up 2½ at 91½.

Wheat Goes Up at Chicago After Opening At Advance

CHICAGO, July 24 (Canadian Press).—Material upturns in Chicago wheat values took place early to-day, largely because the Liverpool market failed to respond fully to yesterday's sharp declines here. There were also indications that wheat was being bought here against simultaneous sales at Winnipeg. Opening ¼ to 1c higher, Chicago wheat afterward scored decided further gains. Corn, oats, provisions were easier, with corn starting ¼ cent to 1⅞ cent off, and subsequently holding near to the initial figures.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 119, Sept. 121¼. Corn, July 106⅛, September 92½. Oats, July 47⅝; September 39½.

Stock Prices Move Up After Irregular Opening

NEW YORK, July 24 (Canadian Press).—Aggressive pool operations in a select assortment of specialties turned the course of stock prices upward again to-day after an early period of irregularity. A bear drive against several of the popular industrials in the morning trading quickly petered out when it was discovered that relatively "long" stock was being dislodged. Call money was in fairly plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 5½ per cent., although higher money is expected later in the week.

Except for the publication of several favorable earnings reports, including a good June statement by Union Pacific, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement.

National Cash Register was under brisk accumulation, climbing more than three points to a new high record at sixty-six. American Canadian also was in good demand, and United States Steel Common crossed 140 for a gain of about two points. Profit-taking checked the resumption of the upward movement in the copper group. Jewel Tea soared seven points and National Tea, Arnold Constable, Case Threshing, and Pittsburgh Coal advanced two points or more.

Toronto Exchange Dull With Few Price Changes

TORONTO, July 24 (Canadian Press).—The morning session of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day was dull and featureless. Trading was very light and any changes in prices were fractional. International Nickel, with the heaviest trading of the morning, remained firm at 93. Brazilian, with less than a hundred sales, dropped ¼ at 55½. Pressed Metals gained three at 78 and C.P.R. advanced two at 202. Canadian Industrial Alcohol closed ¾ lower at 40¾, while Consumers Gas and Hayes Wheels Preferred each slipped one point at 100 and 85 respectively. Super-test Petroleum featured the curb section. After reaching sixty it finally sank to 55½, closing with a loss of 2½.

Independent Outside Opinion On the Stock Market

MONTREAL, July 24.—The street is not looking for any sensations this week, nor is it particularly cheerful about the outlook.

Tight money continues to be the dominant factor and is likely to be so for some weeks.

New York's week end strength, however, shows that rallies may be expected from time to time, and in these lies the local trader's only hope of making profits.

Unexpected dips of three or four points or more may be availed of for purchases for quick turns, but the shrewdest operators say they would not hold stocks bought under these circumstances just now, but would let them go again on bulges.

It is distinctly a trading market, with every likelihood that owing to buyers holding off, it will sag lower.

The principal encouragement to be derived from the situation is that the most weak accounts have been weeded out by the sequence of reactions, so that stocks are not likely to be heavily sold even on weakness, the moneyed trader being usually a patient man.

Patience, as the market adage says, is worth more than margin and the man who has both is likely to turn out a winner.

There is no doubt that a better market is in store some time in the fall, but the question is how much lower will stocks be when the upturn commences.

At the moment there are several stocks which look cheap, but even in their case there is no guarantee that liquidation of tired holders will not put them lower.

Abana is the favorite amongst the lower-priced mines and is showing an upward tendency. I understand that recent discoveries have trebled in the reserves in hight.

Ontario Steel Products Company, Ltd., has declared a dividend of 40 cents per share on common, and 1¾ p.c. on preferred, both for quarter ending June 30, 1928, payable Aug. 15 to shareholders of record July 31. Previous quarterly dividend on common was 37½ cents.

SEEKS COMPANION FOR OCEAN FLIGHT

Australian Aviator in New York Looking for Girl to Accompany Him.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Bert Campbell, 31 year old Australian aviator, arrived here yesterday in search of an American girl to accompany him next month on a dirigible flight from England to the United States, he announced.

The flight is scheduled to start on August 6, Campbell said, and he hopes to cross the Atlantic in 40 hours, eclipsing all records for lighter-than-air craft, and carrying the first girl passenger on the westward aerial voyage. His prospective passenger, Campbell stated, will be the girl who makes the highest bid for the passage.

Campbell was vague when asked for detail concerning the flight and he refused to name the Australian syndicate which he said is to back the flight. The dirigible, he claimed, was built secretly in England. It has four motors, he said, and is 200 feet long.

The Australian, who arrived here as a steward on the White Star Liner Cedric, stated that when the dirigible was in mid-ocean on its flight, he would descend by means of a rope ladder to the deck of a White Star Liner, probably the Celtic.

MORENES SHOT BEFORE ENEMY

Obregon's Rival Wounded Two Days Before Assassination of President Elect.

AGRARIANS FIRED ON.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Canadian Press.)— Apparently authentic advices reaching New York to-day state that Luis Morones, former Minister of Labor, was fired upon as he was leaving a theatre Sunday before the assassination of President-elect Obregon and was wounded in the thigh.

Delayed advices understood to have come from Puebla also stated that a train bearing agrarians to Mexico City to participate in a demonstration in General Obregon's behalf on July 15 was fired upon by workers in a textile factory affiliated with the Mexican Regional Confederation of Workers. General Barbosa, an agrarian leader, was reported to have been killed.

There has been tension between the agrarian leaders and the labor leaders in Mexico for some time.

Many Rinks Already Entered in Annual Event at Local Green.

The members of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club are looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to Wednesday's ladies' bowling tournament here, and are hoping the weatherman will be generous and grant them a fine day.

Already with three rinks entered from Belleville, three from Lindsay, a number from Cobourg and Stirling, with rinks expected from Tweed, Campbellford, Warkworth and Toronto, this promises to be the biggest ladies' tournament ever held in Central Ontario. YACHT CROSSES ATLANTIC OCEAN

Nina, Manned By Students, Sails From New York To Santander, Spain.

WINS QUEEN'S PRIZE.

SANTANDER, Spain, July 24 (Canadian Press).—The yacht Nina, contesting for the cup offered by the Queen of Spain for a race of small yachts from New York to this port, came into harbor here at 3.30 p.m. to-day. A fleet of other vessels escorted the winner into port passing by the Royal yacht. Spanish royalty was a bit surprised but was nevertheless pleased by the vociferous greeting given to King Alfonso from the student crew of the Nina. The Nina is owned and skippered by Paul Hammond, veteran yachtsman, and manned by a crew of Princeton, Yale and Harvard students. It sailed from New York on June 30. The other entries in the race were the Pinta, Isabella, and Mohawk, but the Isabella was forced to drop out some time ago when she was dismasted.

LACOSTE DECLINES TO DEFEND TROPHY

Answer to Disqualification of Tilden, Tennis Players Believe.

AUTEUIL, France, July 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Rene Lacoste has decided not to defend his United States' championship this year and will not proceed to the United States with the remainder of the French team next month, he stated to-day.

Lacoste's father volunteered the information that Rene was greatly upset at the disqualification of Tilden, which deprives the Frenchman of the opportunity of showing his superiority over Big Bill. The general interpretation of Lacoste's action among tennis players was that France was taking a shot back at the United States' Lawn Tennis Association for the disqualification of Tilden, which the French consider has practically wrecked the interest in the challenge round.

OBITUARY

GEORGE F. MADDEN.

TORONTO, July 24. — After more more than three years' ill-health, the death occurred yesterday of George F. Madden, formerly manager of agencies for the General Electric Company.

Mr. Madden, who resided at 7 Bedford Road, had been with the Canadian General Electric Company for 37 years when he retired three years ago. As a young man, he joined the old Toronto Incandescent Company, and when this firm was absorbed by the Canadian General Electric, he continued with the larger corporation. He became chief accountant, and in time, as the business grew to its present proportions, he was appointed to the agency managership.

Though he was born in Swansea, Wales, Mr. Madden had been living in Toronto since he was eight years old. He was educated in the old Toronto Grammar School.

An Anglican, he attended St. John's—the Garrison — Church for many years, but was latterly a member of St. James' Cathedral congregation. He belonged to Ashley Lodge, A.F. and A.M.

He was predeceased by his wife ten years ago and is survived by two sons, George O., of St. Catharines, and John F. S., of Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Russell M. White, of Toronto, six sisters and two brothers. One of the brothers is Joseph T. Madden, official city weighmaster.

A BOOST FOR LIFE.

CHICAGO, July 24. — While grandpa may expect to live 60 years, his grandchild has a chance to stretch it into 70. A noted medical authority, Dr. Charles Mayo, says that science is conquering hazards of middle age to such an extent that within two generations the expectancy of life should be ten years longer than the present average of 60.

WANTS TO "GET IT OVER."

EDMONTON, Alta., July 24 (Canadian Press).—Vernon Booher has confessed that he murdered four persons at Manville, Alta., July 9, Alberta Provincial police officials announced to-day. Confronted with the rifle he was alleged to have borrowed preceding the killings, Booher asked Detective-Sergeant L. Leslie to take his confession.

"I want to get it over with, I don't care if I'm hanged to-morrow. I killed mother as she sat at the table and then shot my brother Fred as he rushed into the house to see what was happening," the confession stated.

"The two of them were lying in the house when Counsellor Scott called. I don't know what I would have done if he had attempted to enter the house.

"When Bill came in from the field, I shot him in the barn, so that he would not find the other bodies.

"Gabriel Goromby I shot in the bunk house.

"Mother's and Fred's constant nagging of me about a girl I am crazy about was the cause of the whole thing."

A Day With the Boys At Camp Skookum

As one who has always taken an interest in the youth of the community, particularly the boys, and knowing the interest the Rotary Club is taking in the welfare of underprivileged boys, as well as those who can afford to take advantage, at a nominal fee, the privilege of camp life, and curious to learn at first hand something of the working of this institution, I recently took the 8.10 a.m. train for Lakefield, where I transferred to the Empress, of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company, for Kawartha Park. I had been advised that I might find transportation from this point to the camp, as they usually come over in the morning for water from the spring just north of the store. I found I had been well advised, for soon Captain Loomis and his good ship hove in sight, passed down, and got his supply of water and then returning to the store at the park for some further supplies.

When he learned the object of my visit to this part of Clear Lake, he invited me to join them at a picnic they were holding on the main shore near McCracken's Landing, an invitation which I gladly accepted. He had with him about a dozen of the smaller boys; the remainder having been left to hike it, by trail, to the picnic grounds, where he had arranged to meet them later. Accordingly we pulled out from the dock, en route to the grounds, via Juniper Island. A fresh breeze was blowing down the lake raising quite a swell and as an old sailor, I could close my eyes and imagine myself on the deck of a lake steamer; now rolling a bit in the trough of the sea, now coming on to the crest, and again with stern on crest, and nose down, but always in control by our good navigator. Soon we had passed into quieter water, among the islands, on the way to Juniper.

During this part of the trip, I had time for retrospection. I recalled that I passed over this same section, under entirely different conditions; for, during the winter of 1883-1884, I was sent up from the St. Lawrence, to assist in the preliminary survey the Department of Railways and Canals was making from Lakefield north. Our part of the survey included that part from Lakefield to Buckhorn, where we joined with that of a party from the north. We occupied, for a time, a cottage near Sandy Point, owned by Charley Fuller, the chairman of the part who, some years after, was drowned at Burleigh Falls, when he had been appointed lock master. If I am not mistaken, the cottage, which we named "The Hermitage," was bought by the late R. B. Rogers, C.E. I cannot recall having seen more than two or three cottages in that part of the lake at that time.

To-day, what a transformation. This is quite a digression from my original subject, but just thrown in as a bit of ancient history.

Soon we reached Juniper, where a short stop is made, then on to the picnic ground, where we joined the rest of the party. The spot chosen was an ideal one, green sloping back to water with a fairly good beach for swimming, in which most of the boys indulged in, before dinner was ready, and I was interested to see how expert they all were in this sport. Dinner was prepared under the direction of Chef Redfern and the boys lined up with graniteware plates and cups, and were served with a bountiful dinner and one to which your humble servant did justice. The dinner finished, each boy, and there were some fifty of them, took his plate and cup to the water, and gave them a preliminary washing, for packing up.

Then they had the amusement period, most of which before I left consisted of making whistles from basswood limbs and from the samples of music heard, I fancy before the day was over, a good sized orchestra would be formed. I was impressed with the orderly manner in which everything was carried out, and the good feeling existing between the boys, and I did not hear a loud or angry word. As I had to leave a little early to take the boat at McCracken's, and as that meant a walk of about a mile over a trail, Mr. Loomis thought I ought to have an escort to ensure safety, so called for volunteers; fourteen responding, and under the charge of W. Ward, I was safely escorted to the Landing, only to find that the boat had gone, but I was fortunate in meeting Mr. Hagen Sawers of Montreal, an old acquaintance, who has a summer home near Juniper. He had paddled across from his place and was motoring down to Peterborough. He kindly offered me transportation, which I was glad to accept, and having the opportunity of renewing old acquaintanceship, on a very enjoyable ride to Peterborough. As he left me at 210 McDonnel street, I felt that I had come to the end of a perfect day.

Let me say in conclusion, that it is my impression that the work of the Rotary Club in co-operation with the Y.M.C.A. is a most commendable one and should receive the hearty support of all citizens interested in boy welfare. The camp is an ideal one as to location, with opportunity for boat trips, and hikes over interesting territory, and safety and good discipline are assured under the superintendence of Doug. Loomis and his assistants. I would advise every boy earning money to begin saving now for a two weeks' stay at Camp Skookum next summer.—W. A. Logan.

False Alarm Sent In For Pulmotor To-Day

A pulmotor call from Inverlea —a hurried run to the scene by the firemen—and the discovery that the alarm had been sent in by someone on mischief bent rather than because of any real necessity, tried the patience of the local fire department early this morning, as well as taking the unit to the extreme north end of the city during which time a demand for pulmotor service from some other section could not have been met. There is only one pulmotor at the fire hall.

GIGANTIC LOTTERY UNCOVERED

Gamblers Bet On Swim

Big Sweepstake Rivals Calcutta Pool On British Derby.

TICKETS ARE FOUND.

Book Discovered in Cubs' Ball Park, Chicago—Illegal in Canada.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25 (Special to The Examiner). — Indications that a gigantic lottery, comparable only with the Calcutta Sweepstakes on the Derby, is being conducted on the results of the third Wrigley Marathon, are contained in the discovery at the Cub's Ball Park in Chicago of a book of 25 entries numbered in the 20,000 series and costing one dollar each.

A first prize of $100,000, a second prize of $50,000, and a third prize of $25,000 are named in the sweepstakes ticket found in the premises of the Bill Wrigley Ball Club. The book of forms was turned over to Mr. Wrigley, who in turn forwarded it to Toronto.

Drastic police action is probable in Toronto if any attempt is made to promote the lottery here.

Illegal in Canada.

When presented with the evidence to-day that a huge sweepstakes of a quarter of a million dollars was apparently being planned in the United States on the Wrigley swim, Chief Draper stated that he was considering the whole question. His expression foreboded difficult terms ahead for both promoters and purchasers of such tickets.

According to Arthur Roebuck, K.C., there is a provision in the Criminal Code which makes everyone guilty and liable on summary convictions to a penalty of $25.00 who takes or receives any such lottery ticket or any other device in connection with a sweepstakes, either local or foreign in its origin.

Mr. Roebuck indicated that there might be a question of whether a sweepstakes is a lottery or a pool, but so far as he could interpret the Act, even the purchaser of a ticket for a pool would be liable.

"There is also the most sweeping provisions in the code against pool," he said, "but the code does not say directly the purchaser or the holder of a pool ticket is liable under the Act. But it does say that anyone is liable to a year's imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 who aids or assists in any manner in a pool," and this, Mr. Roebuck thinks, would leave anybody liable who might purchase a Wrigley marathon sweepstakes ticket.

Penalty Heavy.

The penalty in the code for the promoters and salesmen of such a sweepstakes is one year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

The first local inkling that such a scheme was in the wind came to Allan Ross, president of the Canadian Wrigley, Jr.

"Two books of coupons for a sweepstakes on the Wrigley marathon were picked up in the Cubs' Baseball Park in Chicago a few days ago," said Mr. Ross. "The tickets indicated from 200,000 to 250,000 coupons at $1 each. From a glance it could be seen that the swim sweepstakes was on the scale of the Calcutta Derby. It was announced that the draw was to take place on August 24, when every ticket holder would be assigned a number. This would mean that since there are approximately 300 entries in the swim, only three hundred ticket-holders would have a chance at the money. The rest would be blanks.

"We don't know anything about it," he told The Examiner. "We have not discovered that any tickets have been sold in Toronto yet. It is not up to us to do anything. It is a matter for the police."

RINGER IS ATHLETE

PARIS, July 25.—Ringing the bells of the Church of St. Germain l'Auxerrois requires as much athletic prowess as it does musical ability. M. Maxime Bigarelle, who does the work, strips to the waist before starting a tune and leaps about like a shadow-boxer, pulling wires and stepping on pedals.

Loving Embrace Not Appreciated

American girls may shock Holland by their actions but their sister country women respect Peterborough at least. One American car on George street this forenoon gave ample proof of this. A youth from the States with his fair companion from the same country tried to hold her in a loving embrace as the car passed along the street. Promptly and deftly she slapped his face, making him look foolish and forcing him to behave himself.

TROOP SPECIAL HITS FREIGHT; TWO MEN DEAD

Soldiers of Royal Canadian Dragoons Lose Lives in Wreck.

HORSES KILLED.

Units On Way To Petawawa Camp Involved in Collision This Morning.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press). — When a troop train and a freight train crashed in a head-on collision at Sand Point, on the Canadian Pacific, 61 miles north-west of Ottawa, at 6.05 a.m., two soldiers were killed, two others were seriously injured, and two more received slight wounds. About 15 cavalry horses were killed outright or were so badly injured they had to be shot.

The dead are: Corporal John Cuillinan, of St. John's, Que., and Trooper Thomas Gordon, of St. John's, Que.

The seriously injured are: James Doherty, St. John's, and Joseph Lamarche, St. John's.

The train was carrying the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec and a detachment of the Royal Canadian Dragoons from St. John's, Que. Both are Permanent Force regiments going to Petawawa for annual training.

The injured were taken to Victoria Hospital, Renfrew, and there it was stated that none was critically ill. Mayhew will be able to leave hospital shortly. All were grooms in the cars with the horses.

Both train crews were from Smith's Falls, but none were injured, the firemen and engineers jumping to safety. The two locomotives met head on and are locked. The bodies were taken to the United Church at Sand Point.

Obregon at the Banquet

The above photograph is the last one taken of General Alvaro Obregon, Mexican president-elect, who was shot as he sat at a banquet given in his honor at San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City, on July 17. Only a few moments before the assassin rose from his nearby table to pour six bullets at close range into Obregon's body a photographer secured the above group picture of the president-elect and his companions. Inset is Jose de Leon Toral, who fired the fatal shots and was immediately thrown into prison. According to reports from Mexico City Toral has made a full confession of the circumstances of the assassination.

Wish To Learn If It Contains Body of Missing Stock Broker.

HOLD WARRANT FOR HIM.

NEW HAVEN, July 25.—New Haven police will ask United States Attorney Samuel Hoyt for an order to have a casket buried in the Wallingford Cemetery Saturday, opened to learn if it contains the body of Frank I. Smith, missing broker, charged with embezzlement.

Traced to Florida

Smith has been missing since last October, when a warrant was sworn out charging him with misappropriating $100,000. Detectives traced him to Florida and then lost his trail.

Friday the police of Mount Vernon, N.Y., learned that a man of his name had died in a hospital there. His wife appeared at the hospital and claimed the body. Saturday an undertaker in Wallingford, twenty miles from here, received an order to bury a sealed casket bearing Smith's name. Under no circumstances, he was told, was it to be opened. The instructions came from a Mount Vernon undertaker.

Woman Disappears

The casket was buried Saturday. No relatives were there. The woman who was known as Mrs. Smith at the Mount Vernon hospital has disappeared and cannot be found by detectives.

Smith was fifty-four and served as an officer in the World War. His home was in Wallingford, his office in New Haven and he transacted business for persons over most of New England. He is wanted by the police of Hartford and of Holyoke, Mass., as well as here.

MURDER CHARGES TO FOLLOW INQUEST

Two Men To Face Trial For Slaying Farmer at Sault Ste. Marie.

SAULT STE. MARIE, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—Following an inquest last night in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, in connection with the death of Albert Amyottee, murder charges will likely be laid against two men and lesser charges against another man and two women. Amyottee's body was taken from the river on Friday last, riddled with knife wounds.

Amyottee was a farmer at Sugar Island, and went to the Michigan City after receiving a sum of money from the sale of wood.

Man, Wife and Two Young Girls Tar-and-Feather Poolroom 'Sheik'

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—"Sure I did it. It'll do him good, and maybe it'll stop that tongue of his from telling so many lies."

Smiling and believing what he had done vindicated himself, his wife and two little girl neighbors, from alleged verbal attacks upon their reputations, Chester Farrell, thirty-five, to-day talked in the jail of the tar-and-feathering of Frank Lampkin, twenty-one, of Pomona.

The two little girls, Thelma Moy, sixteen, and her sister, Edna, thirteen, are in Juvenile Hall. All three are held on charges of battery.

The arrest of the trio, with Farrell's wife, resulted from a story told Pomona police by Lampkin, who declared he had been set upon by four persons, driven to a lonely orchard and there tarred and feathered after being stripped. The "tar" used was heavy motor grease.

Farrell called Lampkin a "pool-room sheik" and added:

"I have no use for sheiks."

Recently, Farrell said, he had been away, and upon his return learned from his wife Lampkin had tried to "date her up." He added:

"For some time Lampkin has been telling people he was over-friendly with my wife and the two girls. I decided I'd have to stop his wagging tongue."

Farrell, his wife and girls, all in overalls, drove Lampkin to the country, where they "tarred" him.

DEPORTATION OF DR. HAWKINS MAKES KLAN ELECTION ISSUE

Hooded Order Enters Canadian Politics For First Time.

PROVINCIAL CAMPAIGN.

Klan Organizer Challenges Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan to Joint Debate.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25 (Special to The Examiner).—For the first time in Canadian history the Ku Klux Klan promises to become a political issue.

In Saskatchewan, where a provincial election is certain to be held this year, there is a sharp division of opinion over the deportation of Dr. J. H. Hawkins, organizer for the Klan in Western Canada, who has been considerable of a storm centre in that province.

Dr. Hawkins, it is alleged, entered Canada as a visitor and failed to report the length of his stay to the immigration authorities, hence the deportation proceedings. Up to yesterday it was reported that he would leave the country without formal deportation proceedings being taken, but last night it was learned in Winnipeg that he has returned to Regina and intends to take steps to secure permission to remain in the province until the campaign closes.

Dr. Hawkins a few weeks ago chal-

C.P.R. PUSHES WORK ON LINE

Construction Being Rushed On Branch in Spite of C.N.R. Appeal.

RIGHT IS CLAIMED.

EDMONTON, July 25.—(Special to Examiner).—The Canadian Pa[illegible] Railway is pushing construction of the branch line from Willingdon to Edmonton, despite the appeal lodged by the C.N.R. and now pending in the Supreme Court of Canada.

Almost immediately upon judgement being given by the Dominion Railway Board, allowing the construction of the branch, work was got under way. Clearing of the right of way, grading and ballasting were rushed after the appeal was lodged

C.P.R. Claims Right

Ottawa, July 25. —The Canadian Pacific Railway is claiming the right to construct branch lines anywhere in Canada so long as they branch from the main lines. Even the latter provision may be evaded by the filing of plans showing any projected line as coming from the main line and then constructing only part of the line.

This, in the opinion of railway authorities, is the real meaning of the Willingdon extension controvesy which has occasioned the appeal of the Canadian National Railway against a recent judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

The judgment was given by Chief Commissioner McKeown and Commissioners Oliver and Norris. The Examiner to-day asked Mr. Oliver if the judgment applied only to the Willingdon branch or to any branch, whether the ruling did not vitally affect the interests of the Canadian National in other parts of Canada, notably in reference to access to Fort Churchill and whether such a decision as that given by the Commission does not constitute an evasion of the authority of the Railway Committee of Parliament.

To all these questions Mr. Oliver said: "There is but one answer. Section 14 of the Canadian Pacific Railway Act of 1881 which reads: 'The Company shall have the right from time to time, to lay out, construct, equip, maintain, and work branch lines of Railway from any point or points along their main line of Railway, to any point or points within the territory of the Dominion, provided always that before commencing any branch they shall first deposit a map and plan of such branch in the Department of Railways, and the government shall grant to the company the lands required for the road bed of such branches and for the stations, station grounds, building, workshops, yards, and other appurtenances requisite for the efficient construction and working of such branches in so far as such lands are vested in the Government.'"

WAR MEMORIAL BASE ALTERED

Workmen Taking Off Top To Get Earth Filling Out.

FEAR FREEZING.

Improvements are being made in the foundation of Peterborough's War Memorial. The five inches of re-inforced concrete that formed the top of the base of the monument on which the marble was to have been placed is being removed. The reason the workmen gave for their work was to remove the present filling in the foundation and place a more suitable one in instead.

The filling was earth at first but fears arose that water might seep through the top and freeze in the base, which would crack with the expanding water as it froze there. Now to prevent this and to calm all fears and to make the memorial as good as possible, this earth will be removed and cinders put in its place, which will take up the expansion if water does happend to find its way through the five inches of concrete.

A machine has just been invented which is said to prove conclusively whether a pearl is of the natural or cultivated variety. Up to now it has been practically impossible to distinguish between the Japanese cultivated pearl and the real thing.

BIG OIL TRUCK HARD TO MOVE

Tow Car Finally Succeeds in Hauling It From Mire.

BESIDE DETOUR.

The big oil truck that was stranded on the Chemong detour yesterday belonged to the Shell Oil Company. A car had stopped in the narrow section of the road to repair a tire and the truck was forced off the road as it attempted to pass. A tow car from Magee's garage removed the oil truck after five hours of hard labour. Mr. Magee told The Examiner that it was the hardest job that he had ever done with the tow car. It was even easier to remove a car from Chemong Lake, which he once accomplished, than to get the big truck with its 700 gallons of gas on to the road. The traffic made it hard also because just as all was set to move it a car would come along and operations would have to be suspended.

No Threat of Rain Mars Outlook For Successful Heavyweight Bout

NEW YORK, July 25 (Canadian Press). — The blight of rain and miserable weather that has hung over the outdoor boxing season in New York seemed banished to-day as Tex Rickard tinkered with the final details for the staging of Gene Tunney's title defence against Tom Heeney, in the Yankee Stadium on Thursday night. The Weather Bureau, which has had nothing but doleful messages for most promoters this summer, cheered Tex with the report that the skies would be clear on Thursday night, with the air a bit cooler, but with no threat of rain.

Officers Discover Large Cache

Two Men Being Held

Dynamite, Rifles, Ammunition and Radio Are Found in Quebec.

CAME FROM RUSSIA.

Arrested Following Investigatoins of Wireless Complaints By Police.

QUEBEC, Que., July 25.—(Canadian Pres).—Three officers from the Department of Justice at Ottawa and a squad of investigators under chief of detectives Rioux of the Provincial Police, were yesterday inquiring into the circumstances surrounding the discovery in a house at Sillery, Quebec suburb, of a stick of dynamite, rifles and ammunition and a radio outfit said to be capable of communicating with European capitals. Two men, Arsene Nelna, 21, and Auguste Nelna, 64, son and father, who occupied the house were arrested and brought before the Court of Sessions. Arsene, who was born in Lemberg, Russia, but has been a resident of Quebec for 19 years, was charged with having stolen a "holster decremeter," a radio instrument, the property of the Canadian Marconi Company and with having illegally in his possession fifty pounds of dynamite and several boxes of detonators. He pleaded guilty but was not sentenced, being remanded for preliminary trial until next Friday. The elder Nelna, who was charged jointly with his son of having the explosive in his possession pleaded not guilty. He was also remanded for trial on Friday. Both the accused were commited to jail without bail.

The arrests followed investigation by the police of interference in a number of wireless stations in Canada and the United States after the authorities had been informed that the disturbance emanated in the vicinity of Quebec City. The investigation, however, did not stop with the arrests of the Nelnas and the police yesterday were continuing the inquiry. What the authorities want to know is what the men were doing with the ammunition and the long range radio. The arms seized were all Ross rifles and Lee Enfields. A case of them being in Chief Rioux office at present along with the seized explosives.

Both Hassell, the pilot, and Cramer, co-pilot ad navigator expect momentarily the message from their base in Greenland, advising them whether the weather over the north Atlantic would interfere with their flight.

Both agreed that unless they were warned against it, they would hop off this morning. Their base at plant to stop, has fuel and supplies Mount Evans, Greenland, where they for them. An emergency base is available at Iceland, they were informed yesterday in a cablegram.

BUS MIRED ON DETOUR

Port Hope-Peterborough Vehicle Has To Be Pulled Out By Tractor.

DELAYED THREE HOURS.

The Peterborough-Port Hope bus was held up three hours in its schedule the other night when it became mired in the swamp on the Dale detour north of Port Hope.

The motor bus, loaded with passengers, was travelling north on the detour shortly after eight o'clock on its regular run when the driver turned out to the side to let a south bound automobile pass. The wheels of the bus dropped to the axles in the mud of the swamp and it was found impossible to extricate the vehicle under its own power. A tractor and tackle were secured and after two or three hours of manouvering the bus was hauled to firmer territory and continued its trip to Peterborough about eleven o'clock.

MOUNT CLEMENS Mich., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Percy Smith, 35, a plasterer of Toronto and his housekeeper, Mrs. Jessie Ellison, 48, of Long Beach, Ont., have begun serving prison terms of one to five years each for burning the hands of Smith's six year old daughter, Kathleen here recently.

Both admitted they burned the child's hands on a hot stove to punish her for stealing a small amount of money, post cards and a piece of cake. As a result of the incident the child has been reunited with her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Belle Smith, 29, of Toronto, whom Smith is alleged to have deserted when he came here with Mrs. Ellison.

HOME GARDENS ARE INSPECTED

Newcastle Girl Wins First Prize in Durham County Contest.

CAVAN GIRL SECOND.

During the past week J. A. Nellson and J. Y. Kellough, of the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope, have finished inspecting the home garden contest gardens in Durham County. Twenty-two boys and girls received a package of eighteen different kinds of vegetable seeds last spring from the Department of Agriculture at a low cost, and they were being scored on the manner in which they had planted and cared for their vegetables. Most of the gardens were very well kept and showed splendid growth.

This is a splendid way in which to teach the boys and girls to grow plenty of vegetables, and it also gives them a desire to have a piece of land to care for. Small cash prizes are awarded to the eight contestants whose gardens scored the highest, and the following are the prize-winners for Durham County:

1—Charlie Alldred, R. R. 2, Newcastle.
2—Ruth Staples, R. R. 1, Fraserville.
3—Garnet Rickard, R. R. 4, Bowmanville.
4—Muriel Baker, Hampton.
5—Tom Westlake, Hampton.
6—Pearl Mercer, Campbellcroft.
7—Joseph Palmer, Ida.
8—Anna Sowden, R. R. 1, Port Hope.

It is to be hoped that a larger number will enter this contest in 1929, and we hope that it will be more successful than ever.

PLAN LOYALIST CELEBRATION

145th Anniversary Will Be Celebrated In Picton in July, 1929.

HOLD PILGRIMAGE.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—A meeting will be held soon in Picton for the purpose of organizing the celebration of the 145th anniversary of the Settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists—the celebration to be held in June of the year 1929.

Already letters have been received by the officers of the United Empire Loyalist Association in Canada from people who live in every state of the Union—all promising to be present at the celebration. The celebration will last for three days in Picton, during which time a monster pageant will be held. This three day holding will likely extend to a fourth day, when a pilgrimage will take place to Adolphustown, to the old church that still stands there and which was erected by the pioneer hands of the United Empire Loyalists in the year 1792.

Arrangements will be made to conduct a service in the church, presided over by a minister whose ancestors are of United Empire Loyalist stock. For a long time no service had been held in this church, until 1925, when Belleville was celebrating this historic event, here, a pilgrimage was undertaken to the same place and a service held in the same manner as the one that is to come.

It is expected that General Cruickshanks and Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager of the Bank of Montreal, will be present. An invitation is also to be sent to Sir Gilbert Parker, Baronet, who is a descendant of the United Empire Loyalists on his mother's side.

A piece of lettuce or apple will be appreciated by the canary once or twice a week.

About 20,000 acres are planted in sugar beets each year in Wisconsin.

Veteran Mayor of Vancouver Is Seriously Hurt At Inauguration of Pasenger Airplane Service

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Levis D. Taylor, veteran of many battles in the political arena, lies in hospital here fighting for his life. In the opinion of physicians he now has a very good chance to win. The seventy year old, seven times Mayor of Vancouver, participating in the inauguration of an international passenger aeroplane Monday was struck by the propeller of the aeroplane he had just arrived in from Seattle. His skull was fractured. At first it was thought he could not survive the terrific blow of the big metal blade. Yesterday he was conscious, has good pulse, and every chanc for recovery, his physicians say.

PEPPER BEATS THIEF.

COLUMBUS, O., July 25. — Red pepper, fed to her chickens, was the means of identification used by Mrs. Iona Taylor when four of her fowls disappeared and were found ready for roasting in a nearby home. "Thirty days and $50.00," said Judge Berry to the thief when Mrs. Taylor showed him the craw of one of the chickens, containing the red pepper which she had fed her hens.

HAYING ADVANCES IN SPITE OF RAIN

Good Progress Being Made by Crops in Warsaw District.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 25. — In spite of rainy weather, hay has been quite well harvested. James Hawthorne has an exceptionally heavy yield of alfalfa, and William Davis has a heavy field of alfalfa, sweet clover and timothy. Other farmers have heavy yields. At one time it was feared all hay would be light, and while there is much light hay, there are many fields that have made the farmers feel they have some good feed. A field of thirteen acres had twenty-six large loads of hay, mixed alfalfa, timothy and sweet clover.

Garden stuff, roots and grains are rushing ahead. Much wheat is ripe and the binders will be in it in a few days.

Huckleberry pickers are well repaid for their trips. The berries are fairly abundant and of good quality. Raspberries also are plentiful.

The weed-cutters have been working on some of the roads. In some places such weeds as the milk-weed are out and buttercups, black-eyed Susans and like weeds are standing. It is a bit too late to do any good by cutting them as their seeds seem matured enough to germinate if once this flower is well developed.

Mr. Williamson, a Y.M.C.A. secretary, preached in the United Church on Sunday evening. His subject was, "Living in the Sunshine." Mrs. Taylor sang, "Jesus Will Remember When the World Forgets."

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stark are spending their vacation with Mrs. Stark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Payne.

Mrs. Stewart Payne and Miss Marie Payne spent a few days with Mrs. George Taylor. Mrs. Payne, who was a member of the Methodist Church and a very active worker in everything that in any way helped her church or the community, addressed the United Church Sunday School on Sunday morning, principally urging the Christian life upon the pupils. One of the boys in reporting her address said she looked like a Christian lady. Mrs. Payne will probably be in Warsaw again for the W. I. twenty-fifth anniversary in October. She is one of the charter members.

The United Church Ladies' Aid will meet at Mrs. David Taylor's home on Thursday afternoon.

FIRE PREVENTION BEING DISCUSSED

240 Fire Chiefs and Wives Gather in Kingston for Convention.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press).—The convention of the Dominion Fire Chiefs broke into business yesterday afternoon in the Lunalle Hotel Hall. The temperature was high. Chief Armstrong, Kingston, reported 240 chiefs and their wives in attendance. As secretray-treasurer, he handed in his statement showing the Association financially sound. Ex-chief F. A. Murray, New Haven, Conn., gave an inspiring talk on methods of training for fire fighters. Every firemen should know how to handle the tools appliances and apparatus and how to overcome emergent difficulties. He should know even heat and its powers, hydraulics and its effects in the use of water. Every one should be prepared by study and drill to meet fire hazards.

Chief Dubois, Kenora, urged to secure effective service in small places, insurance protection, entertainment, and good pay. He showed how everybody in the community could help in preventing fires.

J. A. Ritchie, fire prevention engineer of the Ontario Fire Marshal Department, related methods to prevent fires in places using quick drying process, a new fire hazard, aggravated by lack of knowledge as to the form of attack most advantageous. The papers were all discussed with interesting explanations as to places and methods found helpful under modern conditions. The visiting ladies are being well entertained. Tonight 400 enjoyed a civic banquet with a few addresses and a dance following.

At the welcoming gathering in the morning, John Hull, for 43 years in the Kingston Fire Department, received a medal for long and excellent service. It was said his record was not surpassed in the Domtnion.

GUESS COMPETITION RUNS AFOUL OF LAW

Legality of Popular Soccer Game Competitions Are Questioned.

FILL IN COUPONS.

Vicar of St. Anne's Thinks It Is a Good Healthy Game.

LONDON, July 24 (Canadian Press).—The higher courts here are to decide upon the legality of newspapers running competitions in connection with foothball matches, an enterprise which the more popular portions of the English press has adopted extensively.

The proprietors of The Sheffield Telegraph have been convicted for publishing "a coupon and an advertisement of ready-money betting business." The prosecution was instituted by the Chief Constable as a test case, and at the express wish of the defendants the case is to be taken to a higher court.

Readers were invited to fill in upon a coupon the team which they expected to win in each of six matches set out on the coupon. At one time, said counsel, any competitor could send in as many coupons as he liked. Where that was done the man who did it was buying all but one copy of a paper for the sole purpose of obtaining the coupon. He was handing the money over to the proprietors of the paper in consideration solely of his chance of winning a larger sum if he correctly estimated the results of the matches.

That, in counsel's opinion, according to common sense and decided cases, would be betting and nothing else.

A detective in evidence said he had calculated the number of coupons that would have to be sent in to be quite certain of getting one right for 24 matches. They amounted to 282,429,536,481.

Among the witnesses for the defense were Councillor E. Gandy, a member of Sheffield Education Committee, who said he had entered the competition himself, and saw no harm in it. The matter did not interest him greatly, but he had entered at the behest of his wife.

The Rev. C. G. Lane, M.A., vicar of St. Anne's, thought it was a good, healthy game, and encouraged sport. Although he himself had not entered the competitions he had often helped friends.

The Rev. Ralph Holloway, vicar of St. Luke's, said he himself had gone in for the football competitions, and one one occasion won a small prize. He had not the slightest misgivings or conscientious scruples about filling in the coupons.

17,500 WANTED FROM ONTARIO

Railways Make Plan to Take That Number of Men as Harvesters.

BIG CROP EXPECTED.

TORONTO, July 25.—No fewer than 44,000 men from outside the Prairie Provinces will be required this summer to harvest the Western grain crop, it was learned last night from officials of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, as an outcome, last week in Winnipeg, of the annual conference on harvest prospects between the two railways and the Government.

Railwaymen Meet.

A meeting was also held here yesterday between passenger representatives of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, when it was decided to aim at getting 17,500 harvest laborers from the Province of Ontario. The harvest situation in the West is made more interesting by reason of yesterday's reports from the West, which state that crop prospects closely approximate those of the record year of 1915.

To meet the situation, the railways have decided to run harvesters' excursions on Tuesday, Aug. 21; Thursday, Aug. 23, and Friday, Aug. 31. These dates are the only ones on which these special trains will be run from Toronto, it was decided at the meeting yesterday.

The first special, Aug. 21, will serve all stations Toronto and east in the Province of Ontario, up to Smith's Falls and Brockville. On the second date, Aug. 23, the special excursions will take in all stations Toronto and west, south and north in the Province of Ontario, also all stations Toronto to Bolton, inclusive. On the third date, Aug. 31, all stations in the Province of Ontario will be served.

Special Fares.

As in previous years, special fares have been arranged for the trips. These will be $15, plus 15 cents tax to Winnipeg, plus half a cent per mile to all stations beyond, but not west of Calgary, Edmonton or Macleod. For the return journeys the fare will be half a cent per mile from all stations, Calgary, Edmonton, Macleod and east to Winnipeg, plus $20.20 to original starting point.

The first special on Aug. 21 will leave Toronto at 12.01 a.m. (midnight, Aug. 20). The first special on Aug. 23 will leave Toronto on Aug. 23 at 10 a.m., while the first special on the final day, Aug. 31, will depart from Toronto at 1.30 p.m.

No Help From B.C.

VANCOUVER, July 25 (Canadian Press).—Western Canada farmers need not look to British Columbia for harvest help, local employment service officials state. Conditions are so good in the province that few men will be available for harvest work in the prairies.

Train In Tunnel Caught By Stork

VANCOUVER, July 24. — A unique appearance of Doctor Stork was discovered when the Canadian Pacific train number two emerged from the Connaught tunnel on her way to the coast. After five miles of darkness it was learned that Mrs. H. Hackmen, a resident of Vernon, B.C., who had boarded the train at Stoney Creek, had given birth to a baby. Both mother and child are doing well in Revelstoke Hospital.

LONG DETOUR MADE SHORTER

Pavement Opened To Traffic As Far As Davidson's Corners.

1½ MILE CUT OFF.

The new pavement on the Port Hope-Peterborough Highway has been approved by the paving inspectors as sufficiently set for general traffic between Rossmount and Davidson's corners and has been opened, shortening the detour by approximately one and one half miles. The rapid progress being made in the construction work will probably make it possible for the road to be opened as far as Dale within a few weeks. The detour established now begins at Davidson's corners, where the traffic is turned east for approximately one mile and then south to the Dale road, where it proceeds west to the highway.

Second Part of Article On Kawartha Chain in Canadian Motorist.

IMPROVEMENTS NOTED.

The Canadian Motorist for July contains the second part of the article, entitled "Kawartha," by Frank Stinson, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, and W. Basil, which is a historic account of this wonderful summer playground. In this issue is the account of Champlain finishing his journey through the chain of lakes from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario, and mentions the improvements made from the first journey of the white man in 1615 to the present, as well as a complete list of the waters travelled over when passing along this route. In the entire district there are only thirty-two and one-quarter miles of excavated canal.

The article also contains an airplane view of Stoney Lake, as well as the hydraulic liftlock at Peterborough which has the greatest lift in the world, 65 feet.

Scratch By Mudcat Causes Boy's Death

PEMBROKE, July 24.—Maxime Longpre, aged 15 years, was buried yesterday morning from St. Columba's Cathedral, having died from an attack of blood-poisoning.

The little chap, along with another friend, was out fishing a week ago and his companion caught what is termed a "mudpout." Bringing it to the surface, he tossed it to Maxime, who caught it in his hands. The horn of the head entered the finger of the left hand and blood-poisoning set in almost immediately, the child dying Friday.

MOSQUITOES FOUND TO BE DOUBLY DANGEROUS

Can Cause Much Suffering By Bite

The ordinary mosquito is not content with injecting germs of dread disease into the blood. A burning tormenting welt is left. The scratching of the bite often causes infection.

FLY-TOX will kill those germ-carrying mosquitoes, and is your protection against mosquito infection.

FLY-TOX superiority comes from its scientific development. It was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. It is not only guaranteed to kill insects quickly and easily, but is also warranted to be stainless, harmless to mankind and animals, and to leave a cleanly, fragrant odor.

Many imitators are seeking to take advantage of FLY-TOX popularity. Do not be mislead. Insist on the genuine. Your dealer sells FLY-TOX. —Adv.

Gain Freedom from Perspiration Odour from Bath to Bath

WHAT a simple, delightful way to avoid the unnecessary social error of perspiration odour . . . to refresh one's skin from top to toe regularly, in a bath with the cleansing, blandly antiseptic lather of Lifebuoy Soap.

Perspiration is natural . . . even healthful. Physicians say the average human body exudes from one to two pints of moisture daily in the form of perspiration.

But this moisture need not be offensive. Lifebuoy Soap in the bath opens the pores and cleanses and purifies them, keeps them sweet and breathing. Lifebuoy Soap gives you cleanliness that no other soap can give. . . . antiseptic cleanliness.

And this advantage costs you nothing extra because Lifebuoy Soap—a pure toilet soap for face, hands and bath—sells at a popular price.

You Perspire in both Winter and Summer

Perspiration is not caused by warm weather, exercise, or heavy clothing alone.

Joy, fear, or any emotion increases the flow of moisture through the pores of the skin. To keep well, drink lots of water, perspire freely—and prevent perspiration odour by using Lifebuoy Soap.

VANCOUVER HAS LOW MORTALITY

Only 18 out of Every Thousand Children Die—Better is Known.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 19 (CP).—Vancouver is very proud of the fact that it can boast the lowest infant mortality in North America, losing only 18 out of every thousand babies born in the city, bet Sir Truby King, the Director of Child Welfare in the health department of Wellington, New Zealand, try where the rate of infant mortality has been reduced to 3.88 per thousand.

The main feature that Sir Truby King emphasized is the care of the mother before the baby arrives and the feeding of the baby. At Dunedin, South Island, which was the original capital when the Scots founded New Zealand, they had no deaths for two years from the main cause of infantile mortality, that is, infantile diarrhoea.

They decided that when the first baby died they would lower all the flags and appoint a royal commission to enquire into the cause of its death. The town has 100,000 inhabitants. So great a hold has the idea achieved that the usual greetings in some towns of New Zealand today is "Good morning, save the babies."

SHOULD SEE FOR THEMSELVES.

Commendation is expressed in another article in this column to-day of the action of Ontario Progressives in visiting the northern part of Ontario to study conditions there.

The thought naturally arises in connection with the agitation for the completion of the Trent Canal that if it were possible for the Federal Progressives, who are the most outspoken enemies of the project in the House, to make a tour of the Trent Waterway and view for themselves the wonderful scenery, inspect the power plants that have been built along the route, glimpse the army of tourists that visit the Trent every year, and sudy the possibilities offered by the completion of the canal, they would go back to Ottawa with a much different view of the undertaking.

It was sheer ignorance of the conditions that inspired several members of the House to suggest that the waterway be filled in to make a motor highway, and much of the opposition to the expenditure of money on the Trent comes from the same cause.

It would be safe to defy any member of the House to make a tour of the Trent from end to end without becoming a convert to the campaign of its completion.

LEARNING ABOUT THE NORTH.

Eight members of the Progressive group in the Legislature, including the leader, J. G. Lethbridge, have devoted ten days of their vacation period this year to a tour of inspection of the northern part of Ontario.

The Progressive members are to be congratulated upon this course, which will enable them to consider the problems of that part of Ontario when they develop in the Legislature with a much truer comprehension of their importance than they could possibly have without the first-hand knowledge gained as a result of their trip through the North.

The northern portion of Ontario is a most important section of this Province.

It adds enormously to the wealth of Ontario, and yet tremendous as has been its development, what has already taken place may seem small in the light of future growth.

It is essential then that members of the Legislature should possess as much accurate knowledge of northern conditions and problems as possible, and the Progressive members have adopted a very wise policy in deciding to spy out the land for themselves in order that they may be in a better position to deal with legislation that may eventuate in regard to this part of Ontario.

BOATS WITHOUT LIGHTS.

Complaints have been received by The Examiner from several points in the district of power boats operated after dark without lights.

The practice seems to be general in the nearby lakes and on the river, and it calls for attention from the authorities under whose jurisdiction this matter comes.

The danger involved in this disregard of regulations is self-evident.

It may be thought that in the case of outboard motor boats the noise caused by them would be sufficient warning to occupants of canoes and skiffs to keep out of their course, but the trouble is that when two or three of these craft are running in the same neighborhood at the one time it is impossible to locate them exactly from the noise they create.

The regulations call for lights on these power boats, and in the interest of the public, some action should be taken to see that the law is complied with.

To allow such boats to operate night after night without a light is to invite disaster, and the practice should be checked before a tragedy emphasizes the necessity of action in this respect.

USEFUL SERVICE.

Captain Roy Maxwell, head of Ontario's Flying Forest Patrol, was refused leave-of-absence last year to engage in an attempt to fly the Atlantic in the plane Sir John Carling.

The decision of the department doubtless saved the life of a skilful pilot and a capable executive, and preserved for Ontario's air service a director under whose able control the provincial air force is compiling a wonderful record of efficiency and skill.

Four times already this year has the service record for a single day's flying been broken, and the latest mark has been set by Pilot Alec Harvey, who recently flew for 14 hours and 30 minutes in a day, commencing his patrol in the Pine Ridge district at 3 o'clock in the morning and finishing at 9 o'clock at night.

Such performances as this and the fact that the forestry patrol has already flown 1,500 hours more this year than in the same period in 1927, will do more to convinced the public of the safeness of flying than would a dozen spectacular hops over the ocean.

And while they are demonstrating that carefully handled aeroplanes are safer than motor cars, Ontario's flyers are at the same time maintaining a close watch over the forest wealth of the Province and making it difficult for destructive forest fires to get under way.

They're doing a great service, those gallant flyers of the North.

A REFORMER AND ADVENTURER.

To Canadians of the present generation the name of Edward Gibbon Wakefield is probably little known. Yet there was a period in our political history when it enjoyed a prominence which, though not long sustained, was peculiarly marked, and could only have been achieved by a man of extraordinary qualities. And it is because of these qualities, and the strange use he made of his opportunities, not only in the narrow field of Canadian politics, but in the wider sphere of colonization and empire-building, that Wakefield retains a place in the ranks of those whom a modern poet has termed the "obscurely great," whose lines, if not sublime, have a fascination that biography does not hesitate to exploit.

"An Amazing Career" is the sub-title of a "Life of Wakefield" which has just been published, and certainly no one familiar with the character and record of the subject will quarrel with the description, for, unquestionably, Edward Gibbon Wakefield was a remarkable man, remarkable for his gifts, as well as for grave defects and disabilities; incomprehensible as a pioneer of reforms, and as a failure in their execution; amazing most of all, perhaps, in the inconsistencies and contradictions of his private and public life.

Born in London a few years before the close of the eighteenth century, Wakefield early developed an intractable disposition and an irascible temper, which remained with him through life. It is said that, of all the able men he associated with at different stages of his career, there was only one with whom he did not quarrel. But his inability to make, or keep, friends was not his greatest fault. Ambitious to a degree, he was also unscrupulous, the most deplorable evidence of which was his abduction of a girl half his age, with no other object than to secure her wealth.

The infamy of this early episode in his life Wakefield was never able to live down. He paid the penalty not only in a term of imprisonment in Newgate, but in lingering memories of a stigma which all his public services could not obliterate. An experience that would have shamed most men into a tacit acceptance of defeat and oblivion had quite a different effect upon Wakefield. Instead of destroying his ambition, it stimulated it; and it was in Newgate, in contact with convicts of the most depraved sort, that he acquired the bent, and conceived the ideas that were to bring him a measure of fame.

At a time when colonization was regarded by the statesmen and public of Britain as little more than a method or means of getting rid of criminals and other undesirable elements in the population, Wakefield emerged from prison with a scheme of reform which promised to make the direction of emigration an art, and empire-building a policy of perfection. His project, zealously promoted, attracted the attention of some of the leading publicists of that period. A Colonization Society, interested particularly in the settlement of Western and South Australia, was formed, of which Wakefield was the active agent, and which numbered among its members John Stuart Mill. And then, before the movement designed to revolutionize conditions in Australia had had time to mature, its presiding genius and ardent promoter came to Canada with Lord Durham.

That Wakefield was of invaluable assistance to that great Commissioner in his study of conditions in the colony cannot be gainsaid. It was said of the famous report, which changed the political destiny of Canada, that "Wakefield thought it, Buller wrote it, and Durham signed it," which, whether true or not, at least indicates the respect in which the abilities of the first named was held.

Attracted, no doubt, by opportunities for putting into practice some of his theories in regard to land settlement, Wakefield returned to Canada in 1841. Elected to Parliament as the representative for Beauharnois, he attached himself first to Sir Charles Bagot and then to Sir Charles Metcalfe, acting as confidential adviser to both in turn, supporting the newly formed Reform party, only to desert them, quarrelling with all and sundry, and, as the correspondent of a London paper, diligently misrepresenting the political conditions in which he played a disruptive part.

With his abilities and flaming zeal for reform, Wakefield might have cut an important figure in the struggle for responsible government. As it was, he was generally distrusted and disliked, and his brief sojourn in Canada left no other impression than that of a man whose idealism was liberally blended with self-interest, and whose intellectual force had neither character nor principle to support it. That such a political adventurer should be remembered as the patron saint of British colonization, and a pioneer in empire-building, is not the least amazing thing connected with a truly amazing career.—Ottawa Journal.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, July 25 (Canadian Press).—There was an improved demand from foreign buyers for grain here yesterday and sales of wheat and barley were made to the Continent for October-November shipment.

On account of the above exporters were in the local market for grain and a moderate amount of business was done, including sales of No. 3 Northern wheat at 2½ cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, No. 3 Canadian Western barley at 12 cents per bushel over the October, and No. 2 Canadian Western oats at 11 cents per bushel over, c.i.f. Montreal.

A feature of the car lot trade was the increased demand from local and country buyers for Manitoba No. 6 wheat and quite a few sales were made at 97 to 98 cents per bushel. The tone of the market for oats was weaker, and prices were reduced another cent per bushel.

An easier feeling prevailed in the market for Spring wheat grades of flour, but prices were unchanged.

There was no actual change in prices for butter, but there was a firmer undertone to the market which was brought about by an increased inquiry for car lots from both local and outside buyers and the fact that holders were not free sellers at the present level of the market. The receipts were 385 packages.

Owing to the indifferent attitude of foreign buyers, the undertone to the cheese market showed further weakness and prices were reduced ¼ to ¼ cent per lb. At this reduction there was some demand from spot buyers for supplies and a moderate amount of business. The receipts were 8,077 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 25 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices tended upward most of the time yesterday, whereas the corn market showed acute weakness. Big export sales of wheat were announced after the close. Heavy liquidation sales were a depressing factor as to corn, with September and December deliveries reaching a new low-price record for the season.

Wheat closed firm at 1¾c to 2¾c advance; corn ¼c to 2¾c down; oats unchanged to ¾c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c decline.

It was estimated after the close that export sales of North American wheat yesterday amounted to 3,000,000 bushels. These purchases were mainly Canadian wheat, but included some durum wheat from the United States. Meanwhile, export bids for domestic hard winter wheat at the Gulf of Mexico were said to be on the best relative basis yet this season, as compared with contracts for future deliveries in Chicago. The principal other strengthening influence as to wheat values here was the fact that the Liverpool market failed to reflect promptly Monday's sharp declines on this side of the Atlantic.

Corn market weakness, which resulted in a transient downturn of nearly five cents a bushel for September corn contracts, was responsible for temporary declines in wheat. On the other hand, some wheat crop advices from Canada yesterday were less rosy than those which Monday were current. According to one Chicago expert telegraphing from Calgary, the wheat crop in Southern Alberta seems to be going backward.

Selling of 400,000 bushels of corn to go into store here did a good deal to start liquidating sales by holders of corn future deliveries. Besides corn deliveries here yesterday totaled 430,000 bushels. Shipping demand meanwhile was not urgent, and weather conditions over the corn belt were construed as bearish; commission house buying, however, broadened after the extreme break in prices. At the finish the corn market helped by wheat strength showed a rally of more than 2½ cents in some cases, as compared with the day's bottom level. Oats fluctuations were narrow, offerings of new oats being scarce.

Excellent consumer demand upheld the provision market, notwithstanding that hog arrivals are a little larger than looked for.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, July 25.—A slightly easier undertone characterized butter trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday. No prices changes were announced at the close of the session, and the market as a whole closed steady and unchanged. Dealers stated that a slight drop in butter prices was not unexpected.

With practically no eggs moving into storage, receipts are becoming larger daily. Much has been heard about the falling off in production. According to Toronto wholesale dealers, this has not been as great as the falling off in demand for storage supplies. As a result receipts are inclined to be heavier on the local market.

Canadian egg markets are generally unchanged. There was a slightly improved tone on the local market yesterday. Prices are unchanged. Dealers are quoting country shippers, delivered, cases returned; extras, 34 to 35c; firsts, 31 to 32; seconds, 24 to 26c.

CHOIR HONORS BRIDE-ELECT

Many Gather in Parish Hall of St. John's Church for Shower.

ANNUAL PICNIC

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, July 24.—St. John's choir gave a shower in the Parish Hall on Friday evening in honor of Miss Ida Webster whose marriage to Mr. George Hutt takes place this week. The members of the congregregation were invited to be present and a pleasant evening was spent. The bride and groom elect arrived at about 9:15 p.m. and Rev. W. J. Creighton spoke a few felicitous words explaining the object of the representative parochial gathering and extending on behalf of the choir and congregation the best wishes of St. John's Parish on the happy occasion. The large table was carried out from behind a screen which was piled with gifts daintily wrapped and showing in tangible form the kindly feeling of the people for the young couple. Mr. Hutt assisted in unwrapping the gifts and he and Miss Webster expressed their thanks in gracefully worded speeches.

The gifts included china, glassware, linen and silver and were both practical and beautiful. Refreshments were served by the choir and at about 11 o'clock the party dispersed.

Miss Webster is the third bride in St. John's choir in the past thirteen months and her friends are pleased that her future residence will be in the village.

Annual Picnic

The annual picnic of the Regent Street choir was held on Thursday afternoon by motor to McCracken's Landing when the cottage and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Crawford were placed at their disposal and a very pleasant time was spent. About forty-five were present including Rev. and Mrs. S. A. Kemp, who were honored guests and whose genial presence added to the general enjoyment. There was a diversity of amusements, fishing, boating, bathing, softball, races, games and conversation to say nothing of the supper which was really more like a banquet and was served at long tables behind the cottage and was literally a feast of good things.

The results of the races were as follows:

Children's race—June Burrows.
Boys' race—Ralph Moore.
Girls' race—Rita Webster.
Young ladies' race—Miss Margaret Richardson.
Married ladies' race—Mrs. McMillen.
Balloon race—Miss Merle Crawford.
Three legged race—Misses Lulu Darling and Margaret Richardson.
Married men's race—Mr. Burrows.

The softball game was played when the shades of night were falling and was not completed but a courtesy victory which mooted a fine box of chocolates was accorded to the ladies' team. The whole picnic, sports, supper and entertainment was so successful that it will be made an annual event for the unanimous verdict was that an encore would be more than acceptable.

A Thought

YOUTH

(Velma Runnells, Campbellford, Ont.)

This fair, young Dominion of Canada is depending upon the youth of to-day. Canada's young people are promising and the future for this glorious domain looks bright and prosperous. Don't say that the young generation is slipping away from the higher things in life. If a certain portion is losing the grip, it is not up to you older people to sit and argue about what you think. Give the young people some solid encouragement and become young with them. If Canada is ever going to burst forth in prosperity and show its glowing wealth to the other nations, then the middle-aged must walk with youth.

You older people have gone through the mill and know what steps to take. Are you going to stand aside now and allow the chains of age to drop on your shoulders? Or are you going to give us young people some ideas of how to turn the wheel?

Yes, the hair may be white and the hands crippled with the constant toil for bread but the eye and the smile can show the light of youth. Those kindly smiles and gentle, advising words to the young are going to help a lot.

Can you see the vision of the valley of your youth? Your face is bubbling over with laughter. Your voice is filled with the melody of song. The green fields are filled with your chums. You are among them. There you are romping and pulling daisy petals off for innocent fun.

Don't let those be a vision but a reality acting in present time. Join in with the young people's activities and see how fast the age weights will drop off your tired shoulders.

Youth and health tramp along together. They form a chain from Atlantic to Pacific. Their arms are stretched out to you for life and protection. They are going to carry on the work you have started. Are you going to give them the tools to work with or shall we have to crawl on our knees for help? If so, our youth of to-day will become old in early years and Canada will stand and crumble.

MINIATURE HISTORY.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 25 (CP).—The collecting of old coins is a hobby that perhaps not many women indulge in, but Mrs. E. Q. Chase of this city has a varied and valuable collection, as well as some very interesting and rare old books. Among her coins are included two Roman coppers of the reign of Augustus, Romanus Pater; a New Brunswick half penny of 1843; United States copper of 1842; copper of George IV reign; United States silver half dollar, 1831; Napoleon coppers of 1830 and 1855; American penny, 1851; penny, of the time of George II; penny of Nova Scotia during the reign of George IV; a Russian coin, 1840; very small coin from California, 1854; four Chinese coins, the dates of which are not known; a square Dutch copper; a United States 50 cent piece with the name of Munro Adams on it; a Mexican one cent piece of 1905; a silver dollar of 1887 from Peru; a jubilee coin of Victoria, 1897; a French piece of 1899; a Brazilian 100 reis, French regime, 1889; New Brunswick copper of 1864; Greek coin of 1900; Belgian coin of 1916.

Mrs. Chase also has a copy of the London Times, November 7, 1805, with an account of the battle of Trafalgar and the death of Lord Nelson.

Another possession of Mrs. Chase is a miniature history of England from the time of William the Conqueror to the Coronation of Edward VII in 1901. It is only one inch square and printed on very fine India paper. "The Chimes," by Charles Dickens, printed in a book one inch by one and one half, is also a valued possession. A frontespiece shows the new House of Parliament at that time.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

This bathing suit that ought to satisfy any beach censor is made of printed silk, high at the neck, and has a skirt pleated at the sides to give fullness.

Reaction has set in against ultra-modern bathing fashions and the force of the back swining of the pendulum is felt most strongly at the place where most of the "modern" ideas in bathing apparel had their origin. That is in Lido, near Venice, Italy.

A few seasons ago the bars were taken down in this fashionable Italian resort and there originated the fashion for wearing pajama costumes on the beach. Doubtless we shall still call these garments Lido pajamas even after Lido is no longer allowed to enjoy the comfort of them. Also at Lido originated the fashion for going from morning till night in bathing attire, of playing tennis, riding horseback, taking walks, drinking tea or eating dinner in costumes designed originally for the bathing beach.

And now word comes that Premier Mussolini objects. He would not have the fair name of any Italian watering place dishonored by being associated with such inadequate clothes.

His objection comes at a time when most of us who have followed the Lido fashion have ceased to see that there really is anything immodest about it—at least so far as we ourselves are concerned. If the Fascisti regulation is carried out one-piece bathing suits, bareback bathing suits, very short bathing suits, bare legs will no longer be seen anywhere in Italy, and the Lido traditions will have to be carried on elsewhere.

At seashore and lakeside resorts in this country certain regulations have been made restraining the fervor of the followers of the new bathing fashions. But anything like national regulation on the subject would of course be quite out of the question. And if you chance to visit a bathing beach where you are restrained from wearing your bare-back bathing suit and your one-piece swimming costume you will probably be able to find another a little further down the beach where you can suit yourself in such matters.

The Art of Attraction

No. 8.

When a girl, just to hurry matters along, has tried to make an admirer jealous, and has discovered that it didn't have much success beyond causing him to retire precipitately and sit in a figurative corner, in the dumps, she may contrive to meet him accidentally, that is, if she likes him well enough to want to retrieve him, and act in such a manner that he will get the impression that she repents of her conduct. Then, when he appears to be indignantly and proudly stifling a desire to make up, she can easily turn the tables by pretending that he drove her to such a course by flirting with someone else. This is usually quite a successful manoeuvre, as a man, although he may have been perfectly innocent of any such intention, likes to imagine himself a gay Lothario where women are concerned. If the girl can make him believe that he hurt her feelings by paying too much attention to another damsel, she can immediately drive all thought of reproach out of his head. He will be pleased at the implied notion that she is jealous of him, he will also be flattered at the implication that he is attractive to other women, and in the ensuing mental turmoil, he will forget all rebukes that he has been storing up for her.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

To-day we shall have several suggestions and comments sent in by readers.

Fashion, what crimes are committed in thy name! We sat behind a young miss at a very warm church service on a recent Sunday. The thermometer was rapidly approaching the hundred mark and the congregation sweltered, one and all. Beads of perspiration filtered down the folds of the neck of the fat man who sat two pews ahead. But this young lady wore a frock with long sleeves and fairly high neck, a little black felt hat that came cosily down over her brow and a large fox fur scarf.

• • • • • •

Many Peterborough girls are favoring the wide, floppy hat. In fact I have never seen so many wide hats before. They are very becoming on tall statuesque girls but their shorter sisters should avoid them carefully. A very wide brim both shortens and broadens the figure.

• • • • • •

She wore her hair parted smoothly in the middle. It descended in sleek, well-brushed curves to the nape of her neck, where it resolved itself into a bun of closely-woven braids. At either side of her head, circular combs held the coils in place. No, she wasn't a lady in a picture. She was a patron of the Chautauqua program and she attracted a great deal of attention, by her manner of hair-do.

The mosquitoes this season have caused untold trouble and agony to many strawberry pickers. The back is the most unprotected portion of the body as it cannot conveniently be reached by working hands.

Mrs. William Whitfield has given a suggestion that has been tried and proves of great benefit.

Take a piece of wrapping paper the width of the shoulders and sufficiently long to reach blow the waist. Cut a small half circle from the centre of the top to allow the paper to fit easily around the back of the neck and pin to shoulder of dress. This paper cape is most effective when worn inside the dress. It also protects the back from the extreme heat of the sun and does not inconvenience the berry-picker in any way.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON THURSDAY

Tomorrow morning you are to take your exercises and bath as usual. By this time, you should be able to do your exercises quite vigorously, so that you will re-act properly to a cold shower bath afterwards.

Breakfast: One Poached Egg, poached in milk and Served on Shredded Wheat, which has been Re-toasted.
Small dish of stewed Raisins.

Sometime before lunch, take your usual morning walk.

Lunch: One glassful of buttermilk,
Small handful of Raisins.

In the afternoon, you are to take your usual long walk, and by this time you should be walking at least three miles each afternoon.

After returning from your walk, take all of the exercises I have already given you, and add the following: Lying Face Downward:

5.—Arms extended straight out from side, with palms pointing downward—bring the right foot over and touch the left hand, bending the knee and twisting the body as much as possible, but keeping the chest and arms flat on the floor. Return to original position, and repeat with the left foot, touching the right hand.

After you have completed your exercises, take a cold shower bath.

Try to arrange to take your exercises so that you can have a short rest before you eat your dinner.

Dinner: Roast Mutton,
Cooked Salsify (oyster plant),
Watercress and Lettuce.

Some of these menus may seem a trifle slim, but—you must follow them closely, if you wish to get slimmer. Every pound you lose will give you more pep, and if you will consult your scales, you will find you have reduced about fifteen pounds since this weight-reducing course started.

The following recipes explain the preparation of some of the foods just prescribed:

Watercress: This is a spicy, leafy, salad vegetable, and should be only used in combination with other vegetables, and should never comprise the entire salad as is so commonly done. No seasoning, of any kind, should be added as the watercress is already naturally seasoned.

Buttermilk and Raisins: This combination is very desirable for you to use at any time, as the mixture of the lactic acid of the buttermilk and the sugar in the raisins helps to develop the helpful bacteria in the intestines which fight the putrefactive bacteria.

BRING HUSBANDS BACK TO WIVES

Is Suggestion of Judge McKinley to solve Desertion Problem.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25 (CP).—The solution of the deserted wives and children problem may possibly lie in the suggestion of Judge J. F. McKinley of the Juvenile Court, who has asked the board of Control to provide sufficient money to have brought back to Ottawa fathers of families who have deserted.

Mr. McKinley told the board in his etter that the Juvenile court had records of more than 100 fathers who had left families in the city and were not providing for them in any way. As a result every one of these families had to be supported by the city Social Service Department or affiliated organizations.

He considered that such a state of affairs was an unfair burden on the taxpayers. A number of cases were known where the father could easily be reached and brought back to the city to aid in the support of his family.

The board asked City Solicitor Proctor to report on whether the city had power to use money for such purposes.

Equal Rights Bring Women Heavier Taxes

MOOSE JAW, Sask., July 25 (CP).—Equal rights for women is the firm belief of the delegates who attended the convention of the union of Saskatchewan municipalities, and so they adopted a resolution which would make the members of the fair sex applicable to the poll tax in force in some provincial districts. The delegates, all men, adopted the resolution unanimously.

Another resolution adopted urged that mothers receive an allowance immediately a husband is committed to jail, penitentiary or mental.

A resolution also carried urging for an increase in allowances under the mother's allowance act.

Women Control Votes of Many Besides Selves

KNOWLTON, Que., July 25.—(CP).—"Men and women are equal in two respects," said the Hon. Mr. R. B. Bennett, as he welcomed the many ladies who had come to hear him speak. "First, they are equal before the Lord; secondly, at the ballot box. Not only does the hand that rocks the cradle, rule the world, but it also deposits the ballots; and it often happens that not only do women control their own votes, but also, by their influence, they control the votes of husbands, and brothers, and of other women."

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

"I am a woman of 70 and I am writing a few thoughts that with more or less frequency go whizzing through my brain.

"I have read your column with great interest, and though I am past taking an active interest in social doings or the frills and fluffs of this world, I like to think that I am still young enough to get the young people's viewpoint. I don't know what age you are, but you, too, are tolerant of present-day indiscretions'—they would have been, anyway, in my young days. I can distinctly remember when I was being courted there was usually an adult in the room as chaperon, and even the old buggy had to hold three persons when my beau took me for a drive. There were moments snatched in privacy now and again (and how sweet they were!) but they were few and far between. At the same time, I do not hold my daughters down the same way, and I think they are just as good and clean at heart as any girl of my time.

"It is true, of course, that men are not as chivalrous in their actions now as they used to be, but can be blamed a whole lot on women themselves. Women can't expect to associate with men in offices and factories, often doing the same work, and then be treated like Dresden dolls on the street, in buses and in social life. And since women are intruding on man's preserves in the business world, why shouldn't they also take up some of men's recreations?

"Probably I am not really modern in my mind, but I am at least tolerant, and I don't have to hold up my hands in horror at every new whimsy of to-day's girl. I think girls in Peterborough are very well behaved—and, anyhow, at my age one has learned to be philosophic. No matter how much one might like to go back to the crinoline days, what can one do about it?

"If you print this I will write again about other things I have been thinking.

"Yours sincerely,
"FLORA MCFLIMSEY."

I am delighted to have this letter from you, and certainly hope you will write again. There are so many people knocking to-day's girls that it is refreshing to have one of your experience in life express so broadminded ideas. Your name, by the way, is appropriate to your ideas, for "Miss Flora McFlimsey of Madison Square" was the young lady in the poem who had "nothing to wear" although her wardrobe was full of clothes. Life is too short to worry about trivialities, and your philosophy is good. Let's take the sweet while we may, and so long as our own consciences are clear we need worry about no man.

Viola: Life is full of such disappointments. Tragedy stalks on the pleasantest days, and strikes in the most unexpected ways. Without being a fatalist, one may, like Flora McFlimsey, be a philosopher. Peterborough, I am sure, must have many such cases as yours, and many people, like you, are quietly suffering—and spilling through.

Harriet: There are, indeed, many men (and women) who have no appreciation of the deeper things of life. You have read Wordsworth's "Personal Talk":

"A primrose by the river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more."

It is a great gift, that of looking beneath the surface to find the hidden, sometimes purely spiritual, beauty. We should make allowances for those who have it not.

TRAVEL-LOG.

THE BOUQUET THAT IS PARIS

"France looks like a garden where one picks the most beautiful flowers to bind them into a bouquet—and that bouquet is called Paris." That is how the poet Heine wrote in his day, according to Lewis Browne's recently published book, That Man Heine. It illustrates how Paris has changed since he saw it; for if you were to pluck some beauty from Bordeaux, or Avignon, or Dijon, or Tours, or St. Nazaire, or Lyon today, the bouquet would not make Paris. To make a Paris bouquet you would have to pluck a stalk from Vienna, a sprig from Florence, a few leaves of embellishment from the other capitals of Europe, even some from Asia and Africa, and quite a few blossoms from New York, before the bouquet would be truly Parisien. Yet no one regrets it. Paris is more than a bouquet, anyhow. It is a vast, a beautiful international garden. You can ride through it in a sleepy fiacre of the last century, or rush through it by motor. It knows neither day nor night, sun nor shower; but at all hours, whether you rummage in old shops or visit the galleries of the latest fashion, Paris is always every thing that you can find or see anywhere else in the world. It is the world's only real Cosmopolis.

A Tip or Two

CELERY SAVORY

This is a good relish to serve with beefsteak. Two large stalks of celery, one onion, two green peppers and two tablespoons butter. Chop the ingredients rather coarse, fry slowly in butter until tender.

A Sauce for Roasts.

Here is a good relish to serve with roast meats. It is made of horseradish and medium-sized Greening apples. Cook with a little water until tender. Rub through a strainer. To the apple pulp add five tablespoons of freshly grated horseradish and two tablespoons of sugar. Mix well and fold in an equal quantity of whipped cream.

Cucumber Sauce.

One-half cup double cream; three tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, one fresh cucumber, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Beat the cream until stiff, add salt and pepper and, gradually, the vinegar or lemon juice. When ready to serve, fold in the cucumber, pared, chilled and coarsely chopped and drained. A good sauce for fish dishes.

Sauce for "Grills."

There is but one sauce in all the world for grills. Here is the recipe:

Mix and well mix on a soup plate, over hot water, the following ingredients: One lump of butter the size of a walnut. Stir into it when melted two teaspoonfuls of made mustard, then a dessertspoonful of vinegar, half that quantity of tarragon vinegar, and a tablespoonful of cream. Season with salt, black pepper and cayenne according to taste.

That is the famous "Gubbins" method, to which, for my own palate's pleasure, I invariably add one teaspoonful of beef steak sauce. The sauce should be poured over the grill just before it is served up, and please, please, serve up on piping hot plates.

Cooked lobsters are easily distinguished because they turn red upon cooking. To distinguish between those which are dead before they were cooked, not whether the tail is turned under. A live lobster instinctively curls up upon contact with hot water.

Ant-infested cupboards should be sprayed regularly with strong tobacco water, which odor these troublesome insects detest. Blackbetties can be got rid of by sprinkling a mixture of borax and white sugar near their haunts.

SPOILT MUSIC.

A Splendid New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

THE STORY THUS FAR:

JENNIFER FRY is saved from drowning by NICHOLAS GAUNT, wealthy young man-about-town. Later he takes her to tea and asks to call, but she refuses because she is ashamed of her humble surroundings. They continue their friendship and Jennifer comes to love Nicholas, but he is suddenly called abroad by his mother's illness. During his absence Jennifer's father dies. She reads of his engagement in the paper, and stands in the crowd to see him and his bride come from the church after the wedding. Her mother died. For the next five years she was almost happy, working as secretary for a kind-hearted, middle-aged man named GURNEY. Then by chance she meets Nicholas again. He decides to divorce his wife, Lady Edith. But just then Lady Edith becomes ill. The doctors promise her only a year of life and she makes Gaunt promise not to see Jennifer for that year. Jennifer is angry and decides to be as gay as she can on a legacy of eight thousand pounds left her by an uncle. She gives up her job and goes to work to have a good time. She meets DOLORES and BUDDY, two women who live in the flat above her new dwelling place. Through them she meets CHESNEY, who quarrels about her with Buddy and proposes to Jennifer. Jennifer asks him to wait for her answer.

CHAPTER VVIX

The New Friend.

They went across the dimly lit yard, and up the steep iron staircase which led to the weird premises of the Bohemian Club, and the first person Jennifer saw was Buddy in a flesh-pink crystal frock that gave her the appearance of being half-naked, sprawling with bare arms over one of the small painted tables, a ridiculously long cigarette in a corner of her elfin mouth. She was talking to a vapid-looking man with red hair and a receding chin, but when she saw Jennifer she sat up with the vicious, swift movement of a little snake that has been disturbed from a sun siesta, and her eyes grew ugly.

Jennifer shivered, and she drew her cloak more closely around her as she passed Buddy's table to one at which Dolores, wrapped in a Spanish shawl of many bizarre colors, was the center of a noisy group. She was sipping a strange-looking mixture, also of many colors, from a tall glass, which she set down when she saw Jennifer stretching out a slender hand in greeting.

"You've kept your promise! I never expected you. How do, Malcolm? Find some chairs, will you? Jennifer, let me introduce my friend, Lady Edith Gaunt."

Jennifer turned slowly round. She felt as if against her will some force was propelling her, and across the table her eyes met those of Nicholas Gaunt's wife. Jennifer had never seen her since that day more than six years ago when she waited outside the fashionable West End church to see the woman for whom Nicholas had thrown her aside.

A fair bride Lady Edith had been then, in her white gown and flowing veil, and a fair enough woman she was still, although illness and the years had left their mark upon her. Her golden hair was a shade more metallic, her eyes and brows owed something to Art, and there were faint lines of discontent and restlessness about her mouth. She looked carelessly at Jennifer and nodded.

"How d'you do?"

She moved her chair an inch or two to make room for one which Chesney had just brought from the other side of the room, and Jennifer sat down with a strange feeling of unreality.

So it had happened after all these years, the meeting she had so dreaded. Was Nicholas here also? Her eyes searched the room in an agony of fear, and for the first time a sort of horror of this place and its habitues entered her soul. It all looked so artificial and common. The men and women, while at heart weary and bored, seemed to be trying so desperately hard to appear to be enjoying themselves.

Tonight even the intellectual charm of Dolores Vasher seemed to be wiped out and overshadowed by the extraordinary tint of her hair, and by her blackened eyes, and by the unwholesome-looking concoction in the tall glass at which she sipped. Across the room Buddy was laughing shrilly, one slender white arm resting familiarly on the shoulder of the red-haired youth. Through an arched partition Jennifer saw a tall thin woman dancing to the rattle of a piano and a couple of saxophones, her white face pressed close to that of her partner, her eyes closed sensuously.

Dressier, the German Jew who managed the place, was talking in earnest undertones and with many gesticulations to a tall man who had just come in; a tall man who—

Jennifer's hands gripped the arms of her chair with fingers that had grown suddenly cold. There was a roaring noise in her ears, and a misty blindness before her eyes. She felt as if she had suddenly been swung off her feet and held suspended over a yawning abyss; she almost cried out; then things steadied again, and across the room Nicholas Gaunt was looking into her eyes.

Dolores spoke suddenly, a sharp anxiety in her voice.

"Why, Jennifer! what are you staring at?"

Lady Edith laughed.

"Perhaps she's seen a ghost. Does anyone believe in ghosts? Oh! here's Nicholas . . ." She waved a languid hand towards her husband.

"Come and join us. How late you are. He's always late," she complained to the company in general. She looked at Jennifer. "Are you married? No, I suppose you're not as you're Miss Fry; or don't such little things count nowadays?"

She did not seem to expect an answer, and Jennifer gave none. Nicholas came slowly across the room and stood beside his wife.

"You know all of us," Lady Edith said languidly. "All of us, except Miss Fry, I think. Miss Fry, this is my husband."

Gaunt bowed, and for a brief second Jennifer forced herself to look at him and to smile.

"How d'ye do?"

Chesney broke in to ask what drinks he should order, and the general conversation started once more.

"I'm getting a bit sick of this show," Dolores said, with a touch of impatience. "Dressier had better be careful unless he wants to be closed down. The Roundabout Club is much better fun than this place. I'd a great mind to join it. We had a bon time there the other night; didn't we, Buddy? . . . Buddy! Buddy!" She raised her voice shrilly to catch Buddy's ear across the room; but the girl paid no attention.

Chesney shrugged his shoulders and took Dolores by the hand.

"Come and dance. You've got a blue devil sitting on your shoulder."

"You don't think you can chase it away, do you?" Dolores asked scornfully. But she went with him, and Nicholas Gaunt took her chair.

Jennifer sat staring ahead of her. She felt cold and a little giddy, as if she had been very ill and was slowly getting better.

"I won't look at him; I won't!" she was saying over and over again in fevered pain.

A tall, thin man with a bald head and a cheery, rubicund face had just claimed a dance with Edith Gaunt, and Nicholas asked politely: "Shall we follow their example, or do you prefer to talk?"

"I don't want to dance."

"Very well."

There was a little silence.

"I want to be happy. . . . I want to be happy. . . ."

Some irrepressibles in the room had taken up the refrain of the foxtrot and were singing it noisily.

"Do you often come here?" Gaunt asked.

Jennifer shook her head. "No—at least—yes, I do. I come here a great deal."

"With Miss Vasher, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"She is my wife's newest friend."

"Oh!"

She tried not to permit that stab of pain which the words "my wife" gave to her. What concern was it of hers? She and this man had so long ago definitely parted company.

"I saw you at the Shaftesbury the other night with Chesney," Gaunt said, after a moment.

"Oh!"

The same parrot-like exclamation; it seemed the only word her lips could form.

With an effort she roused herself and took up the cocktail which Chesney had ordered, sipping it with cold lips.

She wanted to look at Gaunt now; she wanted to show him that she was not afraid, to show him that he had lost his old power over her; she wanted him to see the new Jennifer, which had only been born since he left her, and whom he had never known.

With a great effort she turned her head and found his eyes upon her. "We will dance, if you like," she said.

"Just as you please."

He rose to his feet. "The room is not too unpleasantly crowded yet," he said.

"I love dancing." Jennifer answered. She felt idiotic—unreal; she felt as if she had no control over her brain.

Gaunt put his arm round her and drew her into the dancers.

For a moment she closed her eyes and felt as if she were going to faint; she bit her lip almost till it bled; she clenched the hand that rested lightly against his shoulder; she was sure he must feel how she was trembling.

She thought she had forgotten the magic of his personality and the feel of his arm about her; but she knew now that she had remembered it with agonizing faithfulness.

It seemed absurd that she could not look at him and smile; absurd that he should not say, "Are you glad to see me again?" and that she should not answer, "I have never been so glad about anything."

"You look about as cheerful as a funeral!" Dolores mocked her, floating by.

Gaunt glanced down at Jennifer's profile, very pale and cold against his shoulder.

"Are you tired? Would you like to sit down?" he asked politely.

"Oh no! thank you."

She forced her eyes to his face, and all at once she seemed to realize what those words had meant which she had overheard some weeks ago.

"Oh, and how is the poor devil?"

She could read their explanation in Gaunt's face, so subtly engraved there.

The added lines about his eyes; the weary hardness of his mouth; the greyness of his hair above the temples; the whole elusive "something" which cried out to her: "Here is an unhappy man! Here is a man for you to pity!"

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1928.

For most human needs the planetary government for today is not favorable, according to satrology. Until late in the afternoon adverse aspects rule.

The morning sway is conducive to irritability and an inclination to find fault. It is menacing to domestic harmony.

Gossip and severe criticism of neighbors as well as public personages may be prevalent under this rule of the stars.

It is not an auspicious time to seek the favor of employers or to push one's personal interests.

Uranus is in a place read as presaging controversies regarding aviation. Not a lucky day for testing airplanes.

Under this sway secret plots and clever intrigues multiply, it is announced, and for this reason political candidates may suffer misjudgment.

The seers foretell for the chief executive office of the nation surprising happenings that may upset the best laid plans of political parties.

Circumstances over which men have no control are to intervene in connection with the policies that have been widely outlined, astrologers warn.

Ocean voyagers may find this an unsatisfactory day for journeying and may encounter unpleasant traveling companions.

Danger of losses from robbers or highwaymen is foreshadowed for tourists in certain well-traveled places.

The South Seas now come under a planetary influence making for increased interest due to numbers of tourists.

All the signs presage a close connection among all the peoples of the world and many new bonds of common interest.

Persons whose birthdate it is should exercise much self-control in the coming year which may bring many vexations as well as pleasures.

Children born on this day may be too intense and emotional for their best development. The subjects of this sign may be exceedingly talented.

UNCLE WIGGILY

Five-days Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE DOLL HOUSE

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Once upon a time, as Baby Bunty was hopping across the green meadow, she passed near the corner of a fence. Deep down in the grass a dandelion flower was growing. Nodding its yellow head in the wind, the dandelion seemed to be laughing.

"What is the joke?" asked Baby Bunty, who always liked anything with fun in it. "Tell me so I can laugh, please, Dandelion."

"I was laughing," answered the flower, "because I have just guessed the answer to the puzzle Uncle Wiggily gave me the other day. Look here," and nodding its yellow head the dandelion pointed to where, on the smooth fence post, the rabbit had drawn three pictures.

"Uncle Wiggily said I could guess animals' names from these puzzle pictures," went on the dandelion, "and I have. There is a target, or Bullseye, and of course a Bull is an animal. Then there is the Cattail plant and the Monkeywrench—Bull, Cat and Monkey."

"That makes three animals," said Bunty, laughing with the flower.

"You are a cute little rabbit," said the Dandelion, looking at Bunty. "How would you like to have a doll-house to play with?"

"Oh, how lovely!" exclaimed the little orphan rabbit, clapping her paws. "But where could I get a dollhouse around here?" she asked.

"There is one up in that tree," answered the dandelion. The flower nodded its yellow head at a large oak growing near the fence corner. On a limb, not far above the ground, but still much higher than Bunty's head, was what seemed to be a cute little house made of bark, with a small, round hole on one side.

"There is a doll-house," went on the dandelion. "I don't know who made it or how it got up in the tree, but there it is and if you want it you may have it."

"Oh, thank you," said Bunty politely. "It is a very cute doll-house, but it is so small I think it will only do for my teeny weeny rubber doll. You see I can squeeze her so she will push through that little front door," and Bunty looked at the tiny opening in the side of the bark house up in the tree.

"Yes, you may have that house for your little rubber doll," said the dandelion.

"But how am I going to get it down?" asked Bunty.

"Oh, don't give me any more puzzles or riddles," said the dandelion. "You are as bad as Uncle Wiggily, or I should say as good, for he was kind to me. But I don't know how you are going to get that doll-house down."

"I don't either," said Bunty. "I'll have to ask Uncle Wiggily. It isn't exactly a puzzle, but it might be." She was just going to hop away to find the old rabbit gentleman when, all of a sudden, along came hopping Mr. Longears himself. He had come to see if the dandelion flower was growing after he had planted it again.

"How can I get that doll-house down, Uncle Wig?" asked Bunty.

"Reach up and pick it as you would an apple," was the answer.

"But I'm not big enough to reach!" sighed Bunty, stretching up her paws. "I need a ladder."

"Well, why don't you get a ladder then?"

"Where is one?" Bunty wanted to know.

Uncle Wiggily laughed and pointed toward a cute little fairy house.

"There is a ladder," he said. And there was one, though it was hidden in a puzzling sort of way. See if you can find it.

LYRICS OF LIFE

LEAVING TOWN

I'm going to leave the old town,
The town where I was born,
And I'll be miles away tonight,
And more tomorrow morn.
I've heard so many reasons,
From folks who ought to know,
Who pull me here, who pull me there,
I guess I've got to go.

I'm going to miss the old friends,
I'm mighty sure of that,
And I'll be thinking of you all,
No matter where I'm at.
For folks get sort of planted,
And I remember when
I tried to move a lilac once,
That never bloomed again.

I'm going to leave the old town,
And yet I sort of fear
I'll never be as happy there
As I've been happy here.
And this is why I'm smiling,
Why things don't look so black:
I have a feeling all the time
That I'll be coming back.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE REGRET

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action.)

Everyone knows what it is to be sorry, to regret doing something, wishing that we had done something else.

Some people would explain this fact by saying that it is conscience that is troubling the person who is sorry and regretful. And by conscience they would mean some sort of inner voice which condemns you for violating a moral law and keeps telling you over and over again that you have acted wrongly, that you should not have done so, that you will be punished for your act. This makes one feel blue and downhearted.

Whatever views we take of conscience the fact remains that all normal people feel a sense of guilt and shame in doing what they know to be wrong.

But it is not in connection with moral questions alone that we experience regret and are sorry. This happens every time we realize that we have made a mistake of some sort—injuring another person, making a foolish choice, getting cheated, or feeling cheap in some way, or in suffering a loss when we might have done better.

Some of us are inclined to over do this just as some are inclined to not feel regret strongly enough. Those who suffer from too sensitive a nature in this respect are manifestly unfair to themselves.

As a man grows older he usually gets more mellow and has a broader view of things which may bring regret concerning his earlier conduct. One common regret is the lack of appreciation we have for our parents while they are alive. We do not realize at the time that we are not doing all we can to show our love and appreciation. But after they are taken from us and we cannot possibly make amends we can think up any number of nice things we might have done for them.

LAST RESPECTS PAID VICTIMS

Mrs. James Jacobs and Son Lloyd Laid To Rest at Campbellford.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 25.—Yesteray afternoon the citizens of the town paid their last respects to the victims of Saturday's tragedy. The funeral service for mother and son was held from their late residence, Portage street, with the Rev. R. C. Tait, minister of St. John's United church, as the officiating clergyman. Many beautiful floral tributes silently attested the high degree of respect in which the deceased were held. The pallbearers for Mrs. Jacobs were C. E. Turner, Robert Bibby, Thaddeus Patrick, John Adams, Arnold Joyce and Joel McArthur. Four boys in their teens were pallbearers for Lloyd Jacobs, the son. They were Masters Malcolm, Hazell, Adams and Hall.

The service at the house was attended by hosts of citizens and many friends from out of town. Practically all of these folowed the remains to Mount Pleasant cemetery where interment was made in a wide grave with the son laid to rest at his mother's left hand. Leaving the home, the little white casket was first to be carried out and placed into the front hearse. The casket containing the late Mrs. Jacobs was placed in the second hearse. At the grave, the mother was first laid to rest. There was but one ceremony for both.

As the long procession of motor cars wound slowly from the little bungalow home on Portage street down the long hill, through the west business section of the town and on to the place of interment, business was suspended, merchants' blinds were drawn, and store doors locked as a mark of respect and sympathy for one of their fellow business men so tragically bereaved. Men stood with heads bared and women with heads bent as the cortege passed along its way.

Mrs. Jacobs was twenty-five years of age and the mother of four children, Lloyd, deceased, in his seventh year; Barbara, five years of age; Phyllis, three years of age, and Jean, an infant of eighteen months. She was the daughter of the late Albert Keeler and Mrs. Keeler, Havelock. She is survived by her husband, James Jacobs and her three children, her mother, two sisters, Mrs. William West, Seymour West, Berths of Havelock and one brother, Austin, also of Havelock.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL

BROCKVILLE, July 25. — Arthur Monpetit, 17 years of age, of Ottawa, said to have a previous police record, who was awaiting transfer to the Ontario Reformatory to serve a year determinate and a year indeterminate, imposed by Judge Dowsley, here on July 11 for the theft of an automobile at Prescott, gained his liberty from the county jail here on Monday and has not been recaptured.

BIG BILL WOULD RETIRE

CHICAGO, July 25.—Gossip in the City Hall had it yesterday that Mayor Thompson has accumulated such a burden of disgust for his job that he is seriously contemplating carrying out the threat he made before the April primary that he would resign if his candidate for State's Attorney lost.

That candidate was R. E. Crowe. Judge Swanson beat him. Mayor Thompson reconsidered his threat. Now it is said his health is broken. For two months he has been at resorts trying to win it back. Coupled with this condition is the biggest worry of his life, the $2,500,000 judgment which The Chicago Tribune obtained against the Mayor, Treasurer Harding and five real estate experts. The Mayor, Harding and President Faherty, of the Board of Improvements, are the men who can pay.

DROWNED IN CANAL

CORNWALL, July 25.—John M. Connolly, aged 28, of Port Colborne, cook on the steamer Shelton Weed, of the Eastern Steamship Lines, lost his life while bathing in the Cornwall Canal as the boat was being locked through Lock 18 yesterday. He and other members of the crew went in for a swim and the others had all left the water and Connolly was only a few feet from shore, when he suddenly disappeared. The body was recovered about ten minutes later. His wife, who was Ethel Turner of Niagara Falls, Ont., was on the boat with him. A fifteen-months-old daughter survives with the widow.

118 Mill Tax Rate Sets Ontario Record

COBALT, July 25. — Public school supporters here will be taxed 79 mills and separate supporters 118 mills this year, according to the rate struck by the town council. The High School rate has dropped from 17 mills to 10 mills, but the general rate is up six mills, chiefly owing to a continued decrease in the income tax received from the mines. This is thought to set a record for Ontario.

HYDRO STAFF OF DISTRICT HOLDS PICNIC

Hundreds of Employees, With Their Families and Friends, Enjoy Outing.

FULL PROGRAM GIVEN.

Boy's Narrow Escape Adds To Excitement Engendered By Keen Competitions.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PRESQU'ILE, July 25. — Co-operation, or what the Hydro engineers would probably term a general "hook-up" among the various committees responsible for the picnic details of the Central Ontario System staff held here yesterday afternoon, resulted in the afternoon and evening being one of the greatest successes along this line which the Hydro has yet enjoyed. Last year the weather did much to spoil the day's outing, but there were no such conditions this time. More than four hundred persons registered, and there were many who did not take time to visit the registration booth. Only adults were permitted to sign the long list and a conservative but reliable estimate places the number of guests at slightly less than one thousand. Tea and coffee were furnished by the management of the Summer Hotel, and every effort made to assure a pleasant outing for all present. There were all kinds of sports, both on the land and in the water, and no excuses were accepted for any person not enjoying himself.

Boy Nearly Drowned.

Prompt action about four-thirty in the afternoon probably saved a gloom being cast over the gay crowd when a little boy of about seven years fell or jumped by mistake into the water, which was over his head in depth. He could not swim. Immediately a man lpunged to his rescue, and after some difficulty brought the little chap to safety. Artificial respiration was applied, and the boy was taken to a nearby cottage. Later he was removed by his parents to their summer residence. So quickly did all the events take place that it was not known to the larger portion of the crowd that anything amiss had occurred. Who was the hero of the occasion or who was the near-victim of the accident, could not be learned. But there was a general feeling of ed in a more serious conclusion. relief that the affair had not result-

In the line of sports baseball and trap shooting perhaps created the greatest amount of interest. Campbellford, the softball cup honders of last year, had their trophy wrested from their keeping when they were defeated by the Belleville team. In the second round, Belleville lost to Peterborough, and Peterborough retains the cup for this year.

At the traps, H. C. DonCarlos, of Toronto, chief operating engineer, won the individual cup. The Belleville team won the trophy and the long run shooting cup was captured by W. O. Waldorf, of Belleville, who shot off a tie with "Cap" Davis, also of that city.

As a method of informal introduction, the mysterious Mr. Watt and his female counterpart, Miss Killowatt, proved a huge success. One man was determined to find the lady and win the prize so he set out to shake hands and properly "greet" every lady on the grounds. There were many others, both men and women, with similar intentions and ambitions. The successful ones were Miss Carol, Trenton, who discovered "Mr. Watt" and Charles Mowatt, Toronto, who managed to meet "Miss Killowatt". Mr. Skidmore, Cobourg, and Miss Esmonds, Bowmanville, were the elusive pair.

The Sporting Events

For the numerous children's races and contests, there were no lists of winners kept, but Peterborough won the horseshoe pitching contest by defeating Trenton. The Peterborough team was composed of Drumm and Platt. The Peterborough Utilities team won the softball tournament, defeating Trenton and Belleville. The cup is on display in The Examiner window. The winning town was represented by Searles and Hawkins and the runners up by DeCarroll and Roberts. But Campbellford operators and other employees proved too much for all comers when it came to the tug of war. The power department of Belleville offices were the runners up.

The golf course was open to visitors for the small fee of fifty cents. In the afternoon the dancing at the pavilion was free to the visitors, the usual charge being levied in the evening. An item of interest is the fact that Mrs. William Colby, Belleville, won the bottle race for this year for the second time. She was also successful at the last picnic. To achieve this distinction. She is required to be the first to run about fifty yards, open and drink a bottle of soft drink, and return to the starting point. Skill as well as speed is required, it is claimed.

The prizes for the various events were of a useful type. Many of the Hydro employees will be able now to lay aside their gold watches and pass their hours on duty gazing at the metallic hands of what is generally termed a "Dollar turnip."

The following were in charge:

Committees:

General Sports—R. R. Stivers, R. L. Brown, E. Hogle, W. Smith, L. Shellinglaw and O. W. Munnings.

Tennis—H. Beatty, R. L. Brown, H. Poste.

Soft Ball—W. Coulby, F. Dennis, W. Ibey, Will Potts, W. Hinds.

Quoits and Horseshoes—F. DeCarroll, J. G. Searles, E. Roberts.

Golf—G. B. Smith.

Toronto and Montreal Divide Doubleheader

NINTH INNING RALLY BEATS BOSTON TEAM

Miller Huggins Coaches His Team To Victory In Final Frame.

SCORE 3 TO 1.

Ruffing Removes Russel at Height of New York Rally.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Pres).—Miller Huggins went to the coaching lines at Boston yesterday for the second time this season and only the third time in two years. The Yankees were just coming to bat for their ninth inning, and were trailing the Red Sox by 3 to 1. The New Yorkers thereupon made four runs and nosed out the home entry by 5 to 3 to even the short series at one victory for each team. The trick was turned on Ruth's third single, Gehrig's double, Meusel's single, Lazzeri's sacrifice fly, a steal of third by Meusel, a perfect squeeze play bunt by Dugan which went as a single, Bengough's single and Combs' double.

Russell was removed by Ruffing at the height of the Yankee rally, but not soon enough to escape charge for the defeat. Pennock gave the Red Sox three runs in the first and stood to lose until the Yankees pulled out ahead in the ninth. Campbell, Moore, and Hoyt followed him, with credit for the victory going to Moore.

Gerber fielded sensationally, but missed the ball on an attempted squeeze in the eighth with three on and none out causing Todt's death in a run-down and then hit into a double play. Myer got three hits and stole three bases. Ruth's limit was three singles.

Other teams did not play.

PECKINPAUGH ENGAGED FOR ANOTHER SEASON

CLEVELAND, Ohio., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Roger Peckinpaugh will continue as manager of the Cleveland AAmerican League baseball club for another year, President Alva Bradley announced yesterday.

Peckinpaugh's present one-year contract expires at the end of the current season, but he signed yesterday for another year.

DE LAVAL WINS FROM KNIGHTS

Winners Were Hard Pressed To Hold the Leadership of the Softball League.

SCORE 13-12.

The De Laval softball team squeezed out a win from the Knights of Columbus in Confederation Square last night and hence have a two-game lead over the C.G.E. and North Enders in the Peterborough Softball League. The game was a very poor exhibition of softball with each team hitting the ball hard and the fielders failing to back up the pitchers. The final score was 13 to 12 with the Knights right up until the last man out, threatening to tie the score. Dyer pitched for the winners and outside of the sixth innings when the Knights scored six runs he had the game well under control. L. LeBarr and Bennett were the heavers for the losers and both at times were hit hard. Galbraith got the only home run of the game and Ted LeBarr was the hitting ace with two triples and a single. His first triple came in the sixth when the bases were loaded.

BELLEVILLE BEATS PONIES

Kingston Loses at Home in Very Close Struggle.

SCORE 5-3.

KINGSTON, Ont., July 25.—Belleville Nationals, that hard slugging outfit of the Central Ontario League, took the Kingston team into camp Monday night at the Fair Grounds by the score of 5-3.

The game was a close struggle and might have gone either way. Two home runs featured the engagement, one by Weir of Belleville in the ninth inning, and one by Jimmy Arnell of Kingston in the seventh inning. No one was on base either time.

Nationals' ability to pound the ball was responsible for their victory and they outhit the local team by ten to four. They hit at opportune times and used their heads to advantage. This was particularly noticeable and effective in the seventh inning when they secured four straight hits.

The game was very quiet and there was a lack of enthusiasm in the crowd, although there were several smart plays.

Jamieson's cut-off of a run in the fourth inning when he picked off a sizzling grounder from Blakley's bat to get E. Green at the plate was the feature fielding play.

Jamieson pitched good ball and held up his end of the argument in fine style. Gibson, hurling for Belleville, also turned in a smart performance and was given gilt-edged support.

Score by innings:

Belleville	000011201—5
Kingston	000200100—3

GIANTS WIN FROM PIRATES

Larry Benton Pitches His Sixteenth Victory of the Season.

CARDINALS WIN.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—John McGraw shook up the Giants batting order with such effect that the New York team outpointed the Pirates, 6 to 3, here yesterday as the western clubs began their second invasion of the Polo Grounds. Larry Benton pitched his sixteenth victory against four defeats, and turned in his nineteenth victory against four defeats, and turned in his nineteenth complete game in twenty-one starts. He has worked altogether in twenty-three contests totalling 177 innings, and has been removed from the box only three times.

Benton was aided by a five-run outburst against Joe Dawson in the sixth when Melvin Ott scored thre runs with his eleventh homer and Andy Cohen drove in two more with a double. Dawson lasted throughout the game.

Cardinals Win.

The Cardinals increased their lead for first place to four and one half games by defeating Brooklyn, 2 to 1, while the runner-up Cubs was idle. Jess Petty pitched a strong game against Willie Sherdel, but was unable to withstand Jim Bottomley's twenty-first home run and Chick Hafey's fifteenth, in the second and the seventh innings, respectively.

Bottomley's drive put him within one homer of Hack Wilson, National League leader.

Four Double Plays.

The Cincinnati Reds took the first game of a series with Philadelphia, 5 to 1. Eppa Rixey held the tail enders to six hits while the Reds got to Benge, who weakened in the seventh and eighth inning for 11 blows that included five two-baggers Cincinnati turned in four double plays.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

To-morrow night the Moose and Kiwanis meet at James Stevenson Park in the second game of the Juvenile play-offs.

Last night's game between the De Laval and Knights of Columbus proved to be a very poor exhibition of softball. The Knights gave the league pace setters a real struggle, and nearly slipped one over on them.

PAUL WANER GETS TWO HITS

Ruth Adds Six Points To His Batting Average Yesterday.

RACE FOR THIRD.

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—With three members not scheduled to play and Frank Frisch still injured, activity in the Big Six was limited yesterday to Paul Waner and Babe Ruth. The elder Waner pinched off two safeties as the Pirates bowed to the Giants at the Polo Grounds, six to three, in the first game of their eastern trip and lifted his average one point to .367. Ruth leaped six points forward as a result of three singles packed into the Yankees' five to three triumph over the Red Sox at Boston. He is now hitting .322, and is in position to challenge Frisch and Cobb for third honors.

MAPLE LEAFS BREAK EVEN IN MONTREAL

Toronto Team Loses First of Double Header 9 to 4.

WIN SECOND.

Buffalo Beats Rochester and Evens Up Series—Bisons Get 16 Hits.

MONTREAL., Que., July 25. —(Canadian Press).—Toronto and Montreal divided the double bill played here yesterday afternoon, the Royals slugging their way to a 9-4 victory in the first contest and the Leafs scoring a 4-0 shutout in the second. Buckalem won his own game for the Royals in the eighth inning when his double drove in the winning runs. The Royals continued their scoring bee in this frame, crossing the plate no less than seven times but it was Buckalem's timely blow that won the contest. It was his eighth victory of the season against one defeat. Walter Leverenz, sterling southpaw of the Leafs, held the Royals at al stages in the second game and had an easy time registering a shutout victory. The Royals failed miserably in the pinches. Culley the home run king of the locals striking out with men on bases three times in succession.

Buffalo Wins.

Buffalo defeated Rochester at home yesterday 13 to 8, to even the series which will cl ose with two games here this afternoon. The Bisons pounded the offerings of three Rochester hurlers for sixteen hits.

13-Inning Game.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 25.—Jersey City captured a thirteen-inning game from Reading here yesterday by a score of 3 to 2. It was a great pitching duel between Shoffner and Harrison and Welch. The Jerseys, however, were able to hit in the pinches and with the bases loaded and that gave Shoffner an edge over his rivals.

Four hits and a sacrifice off Harrison produced a pair of tallies in the fourth inning. The thirteenth frame proved to be the lucky one for the locals. Selkirk batted for Shoffner and singled with the bases loaded.

Sheffner held Reading in check until the eighth inning when Leggett singled. This was followed by an error and a sacrifice and the Keys tallied a run. Quellich's triple in the ninth with Conroy on base resulted in the tieing run.

Bears Win Two.

BALTIMORE, July 25.—The Newark Bears laid down a barrage of hits against Oriole hurlers here yesterday afternoon, taking both ends of a double-header, 12 to 6 and 5 to 2, to make it three out of four on the series, and advanced to fifth place in the race.

The afternoon was featured by five home runs and a triple play, engineered and two-thirds completed by Lamotte, of the Birds.

The first game was a free-hitting affair on the part of the visitors, who pounded the offerings of Chambers, Hubbell and Cantrell.

The Birds took the lead 6 to 5 in the sixth inning, when Cantrell hit for the circuit with two on, but were unable to hold their advantage.

The seven-inning nightcap was taken by the visitors, who again fell on the offerings of Coumbe in the second and third innings and held their lead throughout.

Lamotte's triple killing came in the fourth inning of the first game. Lamar hit a hot liner, which the Oriole short-fielder stabbed with one hand while on a dead run, stepped onto second and threw to Onslow before Jacobson and Kingdon could get back to the sack.

Malone, Kingdon, Brower and Clark also got home runs, Brower's keeping him in the lead for International Ruthian honors with 21.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Male students of Emory University are vexed by a possible interpretation of the co-eds' decision to organize a rifle team. This is because the application to the R.O.T.C. commandant was made immediately following a successful campaign to have the girls barred from the university swimming pool.

DEMPSEY WILL VIEW BIG FIGHT

Manassa Mauler Will See a Heavyweight Bout For First Time.

WILL EYE CROWD.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Jack Dempsey will experience two novel sensations when he sits at the ringside Thursday night to watch Gene Tunney defend the world's heavyweight title against Tom Heeney, quite aside from the urge within him, like that of the old tent-show trouper, to be in there trying his hand.

The former champion is to watch his first heavyweight championship battle, and he is to see for the first time how other ring attractions pack in the crowds. Dempsey will get a kick out of each novelty.

There will be something exhilirating about the role of the spectator rather than doer for him, and there will be a thrill, maybe a feeling of quiet satisfaction or rejoicing, in the way Tunney and Heeney pack in the crowd, or fail to do so.

Dempsey visited Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday in Madison Square Garden and revealed that he has no regrets on retiring from the ring. The old Manassa Mauler has all this world's goods that he requires and he intends now to sit back and enjoy life. Then, too, with every reasonable gauge indicating a disappointment in gate receipts in connection with the approaching title struggle, Dempsey feels that much greater relief when he congratulates on his withdrawal from the sport which brought him to the top and made him independently wealthy.

"Looks like the old man quit just in time," was Dempsey's amuing rejoiner to a skeptical allusion to the receipts Rickard will count Thursday night when the noise and excitement subside.

Day of Big Purses Passing

He was unconsciously agreeing with the opinion that the day of the staggering purse and terrific gate receipts for heavyweight title bouts are things of the past, at least until another Dempsey comes along to knock ambitious rivals unconscious in his climb upwards and to capture the hearts and imaginations of those who worship at the shrine of an idol.

Th kick Dempsey gets out of watching the crowd and estimating the receipts will be slight, unless interest in the approaching match experiences a sharp stimulus. Promoter Rickard is hopeful now that the match will draw $1,000,000. Some of his more optimistic associates stick to the prediction that the gate will gross in excess of $1,000,000, and they become quite controversial about it if contradicted—unlike the man most vitally concerned, Rickard.

The promoter will be happy if he adds another list of undertakings, but he will not be heartbroken if his coming fight is a financial failure. He will be merely disappointed.

"I still think she'll do $1,000,000," said Rickard yesterday, after another day of wrestling with applications for choice ringside seats. "My box-office reports the best day's sales since the tickets were made available for the public. I haven't any definite check as yet on the advance sale to date, but it's heavy enough to warrant the prediction that the match will reach the million-dollar mark with the bout only three days away.

TIE GAME PLAYED BY GIRLS' TEAMS

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, July 25.—The girls' game between Stirling and Madoc yesterday at Madoc in the Trent Valley Softball League resulted in a tie after the girls had played for six innings when darkness caused the game to be called when the score was 11 all. This is the second game to be tied and both games will be played. The teams are very evenly matched.

Both teams played loose ball at first but the Madoc girls tightened up in their game and had things pretty well their own way towards the end.

DOUBLE HEADER WITH DELORO ON SATURDAY HERE

Fans Will See Two Games For Usual Admission Charge.

STILL IN FIGHT.

And Double Win Here Will Mean Much to the Petes.

Peterborough fans will have an opportunity on Saturday of seeing two ball games for one price of admission, when the Deloro team will clash with the Petes in a double-header. The local crew are not yet out of the running, and a clean sweep of Saturday's twin bill will be of great assistance.

This is the first local double-header in the Central Ontario League since 1922, when Heckman pitched the Petes to victory in two games against Leaside, doing the iron man stunt to perfection.

The first game Saturday will start at 2 o'clock, and the second battle will follow on immediately after the first. Carl Wood will likely pitch one of the games for Deloro, while Shea or Jack or Leal will get the call in the second battle. Just who will work for the Petes in the double clash has not yet been decided.

The double-header should provide the fans with a lot of good baseball, and the biggest crowd of the season should be in attendance. The admission charge will remain at 35c, which incidentally is 15 cents less than the scale in the rest of the Central Ontario League towns.

HASTINGS PLAYS HERE TO-MORROW

Will Meet Lockworks in Play-off For County Series Title.

Hastings will be here to-morrow evening for the first game in the play-off series with Lockworks for the championship of the county series of the East Peterborough League. The game will be played at Exhibition Park, commencing at 5.45 o'clock. The winner of this series will meet the victor of the city series, for the championship of the League, and the right to enter the O.B.A.A. semi-finals. The teams won their home game with honors about even, and should provide the fans with some interesting baseball. Ibey, for Hastings, and Ralph for Lockworks, will likely be the opposing twirlers.

Billingsley and Maudsley will do the twirling in to-night's contest between Cognawagas and Raybestos.

COBOURG MAYOR LEAVES COUNCIL

Declines To Remain At Meeting Featured By Heated Arguments.

LITTLE BUSINESS DONE.

COBOURG, July 25.—Following a series of hectic and prolonged debates, during which members of the Council shouted at one another at the top of their voices, ignoring the clanging of the Mayor's bell and repeated cries of "Order, Order!" Mayor W. E. Cooper stepped from the dais during the Monday evening's regular session of Cobourg Town Council and retired from the Chamber. Two members of the Council, Madame Councillor E. K. Macdonald and Councillor H. McGuire followed him outside the rail and a third, Councillor Harry Greer announced that he would take no further part in Council activities, unless some semblance of order is established and maintained.

The meeting, from a spectator's standpoint, was all that could be desired in thrills and fun. From a business viewpoint, it was almost a total failure. From eight o'clock until 12.30, the session consisted of heated discussion on trifling and irrelevant matters at frequent intervals. Personal remarks were numerous and bitter. Reeve George Thompson, Councillor Macdonald, Councillor McGuire and Mayor Cooper were the outstanding figures of the evening and provided much of the debate.

The Mayor's departure from the Council Chamber came as a climax to fifteen minutes of pandemonium, when Councillors forgot all rules of order and etiquette in determined efforts to make themselves heard above the din of their colleagues. The spectators and members of the press, in "ringside" seats, watched the battle with amusement until it threatened to reach serious proportions. Mayor Cooper's departure took the fun out of the incident.

It began over a simple matter. Someone referred to the long harangues which were ensuing over an application by McColl Bros., Ltd., to remove certain trees from in front of their property at King and McGill streets and also for permission to cut pavement curbing for entrances and exists to the property. Mayor Cooper, reminded by the remark, made reference to a brief item in the recent issue of The Saturday Morning Post, dealing with the long Council meetings and the tax rate.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

John Gilbert in "Man and Woman" Will be to-night and Thursday Attraction at the Capitol — This New Gilbert Feature is said to be the Equal to "The Flesh and The Devil."

John Gilbert, romanticist of the screen, can also be a very practical young man—when he has to. Witness his portrayal of a reporter in "Man and Woman" which will be the feature attraction at The Capitol tonight and Thursday.

He's a typical youngster, who starts as a mailing room boy in a newspaper, becomes a reporter—and only loses his practical angle when he falls in love—which after all is the most practical thing about the role. One does just that thing—when one is young and the girl is pretty—and Jeanne Eagles is all of that.

The new story is an ultra-modern romance laid in a newspaper office—in a big city daily. The thrill, of news gathered in, is embellished with a romance, in which Gilbert plays a role that shows another side of his extradordinary versatility. Monta Bell, both author and director of the play, was himself once a newspaper man, hence his production has the echo of the man who knows his subject.

The audience is taken into a newspaper office and shown the whole business of publishing a paper, from gathering the news to printing it, in a series of scenes that are graphic and technically marvelous. A spectacular detail is a reproduction of the largest social affair in America, staged on a gorgeous scale.

LOCAL ATHLETES WIN MANY PRIZES

Softball and Horseshoe Trophies Among Those Coming To Peterborough.

Forty people or more from Peterborough attended the annual picnic of the Central Hydro System of Ontario, held this year on the 26th at Presqu'ile point. The locals were very successful in the competitions held during the day.

They won the softball cup, emblematic of the championship of the Central Ontario Hydro System. In the first game they defeated Trenton in a close game, 11 to 10. In the second game, they won from Belleville, with a large margin, 13 to 4. In the last game Oshawa defaulted to Peterborough, leaving Peterborough champions.

J. Platt and E. Drumm were the winners of the horseshoe tournament after matching their skill and prowess against numerous other teams. H. Spargo and wife won the needle and thread race.

LEGACY TO "MOTHER."

HORSE CAVE, Ky., July 25.—Willie Young came out of the war with a hopeless illness. Before he went to a government hospital, Mrs. John Devore cared for him at her home. Later he came back to die, expressing appreciation of her friendship, but mentioning no estate. After his death, however, Mrs. Devore found he had left her $15,000.

CHEMONG REGATTA TO BE HELD AUG. 8

Committee Meets To Make Plans For Annual Event.

The date of the annual regatta at Chemong Park this year was fixed for Wednesday, August 8th, with a children's regatta on the Wednesday of the following week. This was decided at the annual meeting of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association, held at Gordon Matthew's cottage at Chemong Park on Monday evening.

Re-election of officers took place at this meeting, with Gordon Matthews as president; F. Hungerford, as vice-president; and Roy Dixon, as secretary-treasurer.

J. K. Hughes was appointed convenor of the main regatta, with J. E. Patte as convenor of the children's regatta. Members of Mr. Hughes' committee are Roy Dixon, H. Bradburn, J. Matthews, G. Eastwood, A. Darling, B. Johnson, R. Crompton, W. Gordon, H. Forler. Mr. Patte's committee includes W. Gordon, J. MacFarlane, G. Duffus and R. Clark.

Discussion was held regarding the garbage collection for the Park which has been a moot subject for several years among the cottagers. It is necessary to have a petition presented to the Township Council, signed by fifty-one per cent. of the population of the park, before the council will pass a by-law. It was decided to bring the matter up later in the season.

Memorial to Alex. Elliott.

Mr. Matthews informed the meeting that a fund of nearly $100 was available to the Association, derived from collections at church services held in the park in years past. It was suggested that an appropriate use of this money might be made by using it to purchase a flag pole to be erected at some suitable point, to act as a memorial to the late Alex. Elliott, one of the founders and promotors of Chemong Park, and a benefactor who had donated to it in perpetuity the land which is set apart as a park reserve.

The program for this year's main regatta promises to be very interesting. The usual list of races and novelty events will be staged, and in addition there will be new features in a sea flea race with the small boats that are causing so much interest just now, and a long-distance swim across the lake, for which a handsome silver trophy will be presented to the winner.

Two regatta dances will be held this year at the park, one on the evening of August 8th, and the second on the evening of August 15th. They will commence at half-past eight o'clock and continue until one o'clock, at the Pavilion.

SHARK FOLLOWS DRIFTING BOAT

Georgians at Sea Six Days When Engine Trouble Develops.

ON FISHING TRIP.

NEW YORK, July 25. — After spending six days adrift in a 36-foot speed boat, in which they had planned an afternoon's fishing trip, Charles R. Stone, marine motor engineer, of Lakesworth, G., and Aaron Cox, his negro helper, arrived in New York yesterday on the Panama Pacific liner Manchuria.

They had been picked up 130 miles from the coast of Florida by Captain James E. Roberts, after more than 140 hours of forced sailing in their crippled boat, when they had but one mouthful of water apiece each day, and were followed for several hours by a man-eating shark almost as long as the boat.

"It just wasn't our time to go yet, I guess," smiled Stone, a lanky fellow with high cheek bones, deep-set grey eyes and great jagged teeth. "The engine developed magneto trouble when we had been out about three or four hours, and we drifted for eighteen hours with a strong offshore wind. I thought that was the end, but it was not even the beginning.

We tampered with the engine till gineer, of Lakesworth, Ga., and Aaron gas, and then we rigged up a canvas sail and managed to get within sight of land. But no one saw us. First thing you know we were out at sea again!"

For days they drifted around. Stone said, sighting several ships, but were not seen, even though they burned all their fishing tackle and most of their clothes to attract attention. On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the last bit of water was used up, the Manchuria steamed by, let down a Jacob's ladder, and took the two men aboard.

NORWOOD LODGE HOLDS DECORATION

Many Visitors Attend Annual Ceremony Held By Oddfellows.

All roads led to Norwood on Sunday last for the Oddfellows of this district, where Norwood lodge, No. 262 was holding its annual memorial Day services.

Members of the Order to the number of about forty were present from Peterborough, together with Bandmaster J. W. Boorman's augmented brass band.

Canton No. 8, of Belleville, representing the uniformed branch of Oddfellowship was also present for the occasion.

Before proceeding to the cemetery the band played several selections in front of the local I.O.O.F. hall while awaiting the arrival of several members of the Canton, who were unavoidably delayed.

The band and Canton headed the procession, followed by the members of the Order, each bearing a bouquet. They marched through several streets, then out to the cemetery where a large crowd of Norwood citizens was waiting their arrival.

On arrival a large circle was formed, when singing of hymns led by the band took place and addresses were given by the local clergymen who were present, and also two well rendered quartettes sang by local citizens.

Following these services the brethren then proceeded to place a bouquet on each of the graves of their deceased members, after which the return march to the hall was made, where votes of thanks were passed to the band, the Canton, and the visitors for their presence and valuable assistance in making their service the splendid success it had been.

Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges, also Lakefield, Havelock, Millbrook and Oshawa had members present. District Deputy Grand Master H. A. Fallis was present, together with several of the Millbrook members.

Norwood Lodge No. 262 was instituted in 1887 by the late Grand Master Dr. R. W. Bell of this city, who at that time was Grand Warden. Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Peterborough, is the mother lodge of No. 262.

A number of the representative citizens of Norwood joined up in No. 13, and their withdrawal cards, and organized Norwood lodge, with the late Dr. G. A. Pettigrew as first Noble Grand.

Of the first installed officers of the lodge Warden Cummings was the sole representative of the 'Old Guard' noticed who marched in the parade Sunday.

William Young, Water street, had with him in his car to Norwood, two honorable veterans of 55 years, and one veteran of 46 years' good standing in the Order, all of whom were present when Norwood lodge was instituted, John Nugent being District Deputy Grand Master of the District; Mr. Mowry being Noble Grand of Otonabee Lodge 13, and W. F. Green, also an officer of the lodge, and the present recording secretary. Edwin Norman, a member of Otonabee Lodge, is a member of Canton No. 8 and paraded in uniform with his corps.

REDUCES MARRIAGES.

SACRAMENTO, July 25.—The new state law requiring a three-day notice before a marriage license can be issued has reduced the number of marriages in California by 20 per cent. During the first month it was in effect, the regulation brought a decrease of 900, indicating that that many elopements had been frustrated.

Cat And Spaniel Engage In Battle In George Street Alley—Draw Results

The household cat, it is said, remains the only specimen of the animal kingdom that, while condescending to consort with man, still has never submitted entirely to his rule and remains untamed to this day. That is why, the wiseacres tell us, the dog, the most domesticated and amenable to the will of mankind of the animals that formerly roamed the wild, is eternally trying to the members of the feline tribe into subjection and that explains the constant conflict between them.

Trixie, a little white spaniel, engaged in a battle of wits and claws with a lady pussy cat on Saturday afternoon. They met in a George street lane and had a brief and warm conversation. After the exchange of several uncomplimentary remarks, the white dog chased the white cat up the lane. Then kitty turned on him and scratched his nose, so that he retreated, howling dismally, and fled to the street, with an animated ball of spitting cathood close on his heels. He sat down on the car track and looked back at the lady, who arched her back into a perfect bow and spat a few more insults at him. Then she retreated in dignified fashion and the dog made after her again. This time she took refuge on a handy barrel. The dog jumped wildly about, emitting hoarse coughs and trying to dislodge a piece of fur from his throat. The owners of the dog called him from their car and he withdrew thoughtfully, casting a backward glance at the haughty feline. She looked after him disdainfully and sat up to lick a white paw as composedly as if these little encounters were matters to be forgotten in a moment by a real lady.

The ancient battle had once more resulted in a draw.

NO CONFIRMATION OF ASSASSINATION

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press)—Rumors of assassination of Mohammed Pasha Mahmud, Premier of Egypt, remained insubstantiated to-day.

A despatch from Jerusalem yesterday said, "An unconfirmed rumor from Jaffa states Egyptian Premier has been assassinated."

The Daily Express this morning prints an interview with the Premier dated Alexandria, Egypt, which the paper said had been granted yesterday morning.

LAURENTIDE POWER SOLD TO SHAWINIGAN

Laurentide Company Will Receive Shares of Purchasing Firm in Exchange.

MONTREAL, July 25.—It is learned on good authority that the Laurentide Company has disposed of its holdings of Laurentide Power Company Limited to the Shawinigan Water and Power Company at $150 in cash and one share of Shawinigan no par stock for each share of Laurentide Power. The confirmation of this deal, it is understood, will come within a reasonably short time after the necessary meetings of shareholders have been held and the offering extended to shareholders in general.

The Laurentide Company, subsidiary of Canada Power and Paper Corporation, holds 72,000 shades of Laurentide Power stock. Thus it will be seen that it will receive 72,000 shares of Shawinigan stocks, plus $10,800,000 in cash. There is a total of 105,000 shares of Laurentide Power stock outstanding.

This deal will greatly enhance the financial position of Canada Power and Paper Corporation and will materialy strengthen the position of Shawinigan in the St. Maurice Valley, this particularly in view of the great new developments on the upper St. Maurice, agreement for which was arrived at recently with the Quebec Government.

DEPORTATION OF

lenged Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan to a joint debate of Klan questions, but the Premier declined, saying that he did not intend being dragged into any scheme for cheap advertising. Hawkins and other Klan officials then held a meeting of their own, featured by a vigorous attack on the provincial government.

Dr. Hawkins come originally from Newport News, but lived for some time in Toronto. Feeling in Saskatchewan over the whole subject of the Klan is running very high, and the campaign promises to be extremely bitter.

SILVER WEDDING OBSERVED TO-DAY

Mr. and Mrs. William Harper Return From Family Re-union.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harper, 185 London street, are to-day celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Harper was 90 years old on July 16, and was the oldest person present at a family re-union held at Bright, near Woodstock. Mr. Harper's maiden name was Wilson, and the Wilson, Hall, Milburn and Cowing families met for their annual picnic, 150 strong. There are a large number of families in Peterborough district related to those who attended the re-union, particularly of the Milburn connection. These families were originally from Peterborough, moving west many years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper are both pioneer residents of Peterborough, Mr. Harper having been born in the first brock house built here.

BARN BURNED NEAR STIRLNG

Several Hundred Bushels of Grain Also Destroyed By Blaze.

LITTLE INSURANCE.

STIRLING, July 25. — Lightning totally destroyed a valuable barn owned by Charles Johns, a farmer residing about five miles west of Stirling and one mile north of Hoard's Station, during the electrical storm on Monday afternoon. It was about 3:30 when the catastrophe occurred, in the midst of one of the worst electrical storms that has swept this part of the country this summer.

Unfortunately, Mr. Johns had only the barn insured and that only for a small amount. As well as the frame building, about one hundred and fifty er two hundred bushels of grain were destroyed, some machinery and a new wagon. It was at first thought that a cow had perished in the blaze, but this was denied when stock was taken.

The barn was of good size, and well built. A resident of Hoard's Station stated that only about $500 worth of insurance was placed upon the barn, while the contents were utterly uncovered by any policy.

Mr. Johns has not totalled his losses, but it is expected that they will be quite heavy. Luckily the house, and other buildings, were at no time in grave danger, but is was impossible to check the flames, that destroyed the barn.

NOT ON BILL OF FARE.

NEW YORK, July 25. — When a derrick fell fifteen stories through a building that was under construction, John Stanley was injured. Stanley was not in the path of the falling derrick, but was eating lunch in a nearby restaurant. The jar knocked him from his counter stool and he struck his head in the fall.

MISSION BAND HOLDS PICNIC

Children of St. James' Church Enjoy Annual Outing.

AT JACKSON PARK.

The annual picnic of the Mission Band of St. James' Church took place Saturday afternoon in Jackson Park, with about sixty members and friends present. The members of the Band were conveyed to and from the Park by special bus. The first part of the afternoon was spent in and around the swimming pool, and although blooksuckers were rather numerous, frightening the little folk, yet all declared the swimming hour was one of the happiest of the afternoon. The races started at four o'clock, and the winners were as follows:

Straight running race, 4, 5, and 6 years old—Mary Wildman.

Paper bag race, 7, 8, and 9—Winnie Cunningham.

Hopping race, 10, 11 and 12—Lloyd Grose.

Needle and thread race, 12 to 15—Margaret Patterson.

Three-legged race—Dorothy Frost and Jean Rose.

Tooth-pick race resulted in a tie—Edith Patterson and Vera Davis.

Mrs. Woodley, president of the W.M.S., and the mothers of the Band members competed in a walking race, Mrs. Wesley Rose winning, with Mrs. Sloane a close second.

Little Dorrie Elliott won the books of the Bible contest, reciting them perfectly, and was heartily applauded.

A bountiful supper was spread on the tables under the trees, the children and grown-ups doing full justice to the numerous good things to eat. Mrs. Elliott, the superintendent, thanked all the ladies present for their assistance, and she and Miss Ritchie, the assistant superintendent, were very grateful indeed for help given them, in making the afternoon such a wonderful success.

TERMINAL PLANS ARE BEING MADE

Deputy Minister and Engineer Discuss Development of Prescott Harbor.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press).—The first stages of the development of Prescott since the St. Lawrence River town was selected as the terminal of the Great Lakes were discussed yesterday by J. S. Hunter, Deputy Minister of Public Works, and R. A. C. Henry, chief engineer of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Henry was called to Ottawa by Mr. Hunter and represented both the C.N.R. and C.P.R. The whole engineering layout necessary for the new terminal town was studied by Mr. Hunter and Mr. Henry.

The discussion yesterday did not conclude whether it would be necessary for the Government to purchase more property on the St. Lawrence River front for grain elevators.

The question of railway facilities to the grain elevators was also discussed at length. It was found that it will be necessary for both of the railways to extend their tracks to the new elevators.

CHARGES EXPECTED TO FOLLOW CHECK

Series of Seizures of Export Docks May Result From Probe.

WINDSOR, July 25. — Charges against some liquor exporters, and further seizures of docks in this district may follow a wholesale check up of the export business in this district which has involved a detailed scrutiny of the books and records of export docks here by provincial police auditors, working under Inspector A. E. Sarvis.

This check-up, which has involved some 40 export docks scattered along the river front from Riverside to Amherstburg, was nearly completed last night, Inspector Sarvis said. He said that it had been made with a view to determining which of the exporters, if any are guilty of short circuiting, which is the process whereby export liquor finds its way into the hands of blindpiggers and other illegal channels of consumption in this province.

Inspector Sarvis would not make public the result of any of his findings at the local docks. These are to be forwarded to the Liquor Control Board at Toronto, where decision will be made as to which, if any, of the docks are to be seized.

Series of Charges May Follow

A series of charges against certain of the exporters is believed certain to follow, as soon as the auditors have made their report to the Liquor Control Board. These reports may be the basis of a series of seizures by the raiding squads under Inspector Sarvis.

However, it is generally believed that while some of the exporters yield to the temptation of getting the liquor they are supposed to export on this side of the international boundary, and that they will find themselves in difficulties as a result of the investigation, many of the exporters, notably the larger firms will be shown to have clean skirts as far as letting their liquor go into illicit channels in this province is concerned. One of the biggest exporters here is said to pride himself on never having sold any liquor on this side of the river, even in the days of the O.T.A.

For the present, except for their action in examining the books at the various docks, the police, who are working under orders of Sir Henry Drayton, have made no moves against the exporters since the seizure of the two docks operated by the Carling and Nathanson syndicates, two weeks ago to-day. These docks are still in the hands of the police, although export is still going on there, both being run on the principles laid down by Sir Henry Drayton, that of direct loading of the boats from the cars and trucks which bring the liquor from the distilleries to the border. This goes on with the police watching to see that the exporters have no access to the liquor stocks seized two weeks ago.

So far as the warehousing of large stocks of liquor is concerned, Inspector Sarvis states, no move to seize any other docks will be made until the courts have ruled regarding the Carlin and Nathanson wharves, warehouses and stocks.

No Action Yet Taken

Nor do the owners of these stocks of liquor, conservatively valued at $500,000, to $1,000,000 seem to be in any hurry to go into court to fight out their cases. Attorneys for both Carling's and Nathanson's denied statements that they had filed claims with the Liquor Control Board for their liquor stocks. They said that they still have more than half of the 33-day period allowed by the Liquor Control Act in which to file their claims, and this gives them plenty of time in which to consider their procedure very carefully. And they point out that the suit, once it is started, is going to be one of the most important in Canadian jurisprudence, involving the question of Federal versus Provincial authority over export trade, which is supposed to come under the Dominion Government.

[illegible] that his instructions from Toronto regarding the check-up of docks is to cover only the immediate border area, however the inspector said, his territory might be further extended at any time and he may be asked to check up the operations of docks from Sarnia on the St. Claire River to Kingsville on Lake Erie.

CONFESSION SAVES YOUTHS

Judge is Impressed With Absence of Cold-Blooded Attitude.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT

CHICAGO, July 25.—The four youths who pleaded guilty to the murder of Pearl Eggleston, Berwyn movie usher, were sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary yesterday by Judge Frank D. Comerford. They will be taken to Stateville to begin serving their sentences as soon as orders are issued by Edward J. Fogarty, warden of the county jail.

It was 19-year-old Stanley Durmaj who saved them from the electric chair, just as it was Stanley Durmaj who had made the death penalty a probable punishment. The Polish boy whose finger on the trigger of the gun ended Pearl Eggleton's life saved his own life and those of his three companions, it become evident, when Judge Comerford pronounced sentence shortly before noon yesterday.

The behavior of Durmaj at the time of the murder and immediately afterward, his confession, his assistance to the police and his grief were the factors in mitigation, Judge Comerford's sentence made plain.

"No Cold-Blooded Intent."

"The facts clearly show there was no cold-blooded, deliberate intent to kill, and while these facts are no defence to the charge of murder, they are proved circumstances of mitigation that I am in duty bound to consider in fixing the punishment," Judge Comerford said.

It was so quiet in the courtroom when the judge, in his black robe, ascended the bench that, despite the crowd that packed even the courtroom aisles, the ticking of the great clock above the jury box could be plainly heard.

The four boys, Albert Mas, Stanley Thomas, John Tulacz, and Durmaj, were ranged in chairs directly below the bench, their panicky eyes fixed on him, as he began to speak.

They were clean, neatly dressed, and sat motionless in their chairs. There were tears in the eyes of two of them as the judge continued reading his sentence, and Durmaj finally produced a handkerchief and wiped away the tears that were slipping down his cheeks. The relatives of the boys, ranged along the inner railing, also sat motionless, their eyes fixed on the judge, whose voice sounded clearly through the courtroom.

GENERAL MOTORS INSURES 200,000

Every Employee of Three Months' Standing Eligible To Participate.

NEW YORK, July 25.—More than 200,000 employes of the General Motors Corporation were made participants yesterday in the largest group insurance policy ever issued, when Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the corporation, affixed his signature to the contract. The policy, issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, is for nearly $400,000,000, and covers death, sickness and accident. Every subsidiary and affiliated company of the General Motors Corporation is provided for in the new contract.

The life insurance involved is more than double the face of the largest previous policy, while the sickness and accident benefits aggregate more than two and one-half times any former record. The plan is co-operative, but General Motors assumes a substantial part of the premium.

All General Motors employees of three months' service are eligible to participate in the insurance program, while new employees and those of less than three months' service automatically become eligible as soon as the waiting period has elapsed. Each employe will have $2,000 life insurance and sick and accident benefits of $15 a week, at a cost of about five cents a day. The insurance applies to all employes regardless of age, is issued without medical examination, and permits even those who are physically impaired to share in the benefits.

One of the outstanding features of the new contract is the disability clause which provides for the payment of the life insurance to the policy-holder if he becomes totally and permanently disabled. Such payment is made in forty monthly instalments. Such disabled men would draw their sickness and accident benefits for the first thirteen weeks and then they would become eligible for the total and permanent disability benefits, the combined benefits covering a period of three years and seven months.

PROPHECY PROVES TRUE.

Selling In West Sends Wheat Down

CHICAGO, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—Liberal selling, both from the north-west and the south-west, led to a set-back in wheat values to-day after an upturn at the start. Initial advances in wheat here were associated with higher Liverpool quotations than due. Opening unchanged to one cent up, Chicago wheat afterward receded all around to well below yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions displayed relative strength, with corn starting 3-8 to 1¾ cents higher, but subsequently re-acting somewhat.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 121¾, September 123¼; corn, July 107¼, September 93⅛; oats, July 47⅛, September 39⅝.

Heavy Trade in Nickel Features Toronto Market

TORONTO, July 25. —(Canadian Press).—International Nickel featured the morning session of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, reaching 94¼ then dropping to 93 and finally closing with a fairly good turnover at 93⅝ for a net fractional gain. The rest of the list remained mostly dull and inactive, with only fractional changes registered. Brazilian, with light trading, and Hamilton United Theatres each gained ½ point at 55⅛ and 16 respectively, while Paky Hersey made a rise of 1¼ and 90⅝. Bell Telephone sagged two at 12 and Canadian General Electric preferred rose one at 52 and Canadian Oil one at 51. Walkers, in the curb section, with the second highest trading of the morning, remained firm at 55.

Mine Prices Firmer With Trading Dull

TORONTO, July 25 (Canadian Press). — Prices turned firmer on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day although sales volumes continued small. Sudbury Basin in heavy trading advanced thirty to 8.00. Noranda recovered some of its losses when it closed at 56.35, with a gain of 65. Wright Hargreaves was reactionary, dropping eight to 3.07. Hollinger was unchanged at 11.00. Amulet dropped 11 at 4.03. Hudson Bay was down 30 at 18.40, and Coast Copper 50 at 39.50. The Western issues as a group were weak, but Sherritt-Gordon gained five at 6.60 and Big Missouri was up two at 87. Central Manitoba was unchanged at 1.00. Jackson Manion was down two at 88. Mandy down six at 3.24, and Pend Oreille down 1.00 at 13.75.

Strength Is Shown In New York Market

NEW YORK, July 25 (Canadian Press).—The stock market had the appearance of strength to-day, but the buying continued to be of a highly selective character. The resumption of pool activities in the specialties lifted more than three score issues from one to five points above yesterday's final quuotations with half a dozen mounting to new high ground.

Trading continued relatively light in character, due to the absence of any widespread public participation. Call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 5½ per cent and that figure was shade in the "outside market" but time money and commercial paper rates continued firm.

Railroad shares received better support on the publication of the weekly car loadings statement, making favorable comparison with the corresponding period a year ago. The Grangers led the advance with buying in that group stimulated by expectations of heavy crop movements this fall.

Gains of three to five points were recorded by several of the high-priced industrials, including Radio, Wright, American Machine and Foundry, United States Cast Iron Pipe, General Motors, Midland Steel Products Preferred. Warner Bros. Pictures, which has recorded a spectacular gain in the last fortnight, lost ground on profit-taking.

PENT OREILLE.

Pend Oreille has been fluctuating between a range of $12.00 and $16.00 during the past month or so. We would strongly suggest our clients take advantage of these swings to pick up as many offerings as possible around the former price. The stock is likely to continue this movement until late summer or early fall, when there is every indication that it will again be under way for a strong upward movement. We have no hesitation in recommending Pend Oreille in the neighborhood of $13.00 a share, and suggest that our clients take full advantage of the technical market action of this stock to step in and buy on the dips.

ABOUT NEW YORK MARKET

The Examiner received the following comment on New York from a correspondent in that city to-day:

The situation in the stock market is puzzling some of the wisest men on the street. In the face of apparently determined effort on the part of banks to curtail credit and thus shake out speculative lines, the market comes back after each decline, indicating that the public is still interested in buying stocks in spite of the adverse position of the financial interests. The warnings, however, should not go unheeded, for it is evident that if it becomes necessary, the Federal Reserve Banks will again increase the re-discount rate which, with a market in its present sensitive condition, would be almost disastrous. It is, therefore, essential, that holders of securities, or those who contemplate buying, should make selections with the greatest care, and in a time like this, advice from courses that can distribute accurate information are to be sought.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

MONTREAL, July 25.—Fears of a weak market locally following the easier time in New York, Monday, were not wholly guaranteed, although yesterday forenoon's session was so dull that it led to some tired selling and consequent reactions, which were mostly made up before the close of the day.

On the whole the day yesterday was not unsatisfactory, as it showed the existence immediately below the market of some good buying orders, and also demonstrated that good stocks in board lots are scarce.

One of the day's features was the sudden outpouring of fractional lots of Lyall at 64, following an opening unchanged at 67. Whatever the cause of this flood of five and ten share lots it did not greatly disturb the stock, for after a couple of board lots had made their appearance at 65, the next board lot was bid for half an hour before it was secured half a point higher and one following it was secured at a further advance of ⅝, while off lots changed hands at the close at 66. I am told there is no fear of Lyall's future and that holders should not be perturbed by temporary reactions.

Inquiries which I made through sources unusually well-informed convinced me that the buying of Lyall yesterday was of the best and the selling came from weak and nervous holders of small lots. Yesterday's purchases went into hands which will hold them for much higher prices.

While we expect a see-saw market for some time, I consider that stocks can be bought safely around to-day's figures and that any reactions will be of short duration and far from severe in the case of good stocks. I do not recommend selling at the present time, as the industrial and agricultural outlook in Canada warrants the expectation of a better market before long.

Power Corporation Common yesterday was one of the strong spots on the local board, advancing 1½ points to 72. The company's financial year ended June 30th, and it is understood that the earnings will make a very favorable showing—some estimates having it that $8.00 a share will be shown on the Common. This company has a substantial interest in Southern Canada Power and in Winnipeg Electric Co., the latter in turn controlling Manitoba Power. The outlook for the three companies is very bright, which makes the long-pull prospect for Power Corporation promising.

Kroger Grocery Common, which is listed on the New York Exchange, has been very prominent in the trading of late, the price showing a steady appreciation. There is a large Canadian following of this stock and therefore it will be interesting to learn that the buying last week was attributed to banking interests close to the management, based on the belief that Kroger's steady expansion is giving it a leading place among the American food chain stores.

REGAL PARTY HAVING REST

Governor General and Lady Willingdon Have Holiday At Jasper.

ENJOY OUTDOOR LIFE.

JASPER, Alberta, July 25 (Special to The Examiner). — After several weeks of strenuous journeying which included the first trip to the wealthy Peace River Country the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon settled down at Jasper Park Lodge yesterday for a quiet nine days. They spent part of the day renewing acquaintances with the golf course which gave them such pleasure last fall, and it is likely that golf will take up most of their time while they are here. Their Excellencies both played shortly after their arrival, and Lord Willingdon went around again in the early evening, while Her Excellency enjoyed a swim.

With Their Excellencies are Viscount Hardinge, Captain the Hon. J. O. Jarvis, and Captain Melville. The Vice-Regal party is occupying the self-contained cottage overlooking Lac Beavert.

"The plans are not definitely settled," said Captain Melville this afternoon. "We have been very busy for some weeks past and Their Excellencies have looked forward to their visit to Jasper Park as rest." "Rest," of course, included golf, and for Lady Willingdon, whose energetic idea of rest is another form of activity, swimming and riding.

Plans have been sketched for a long trail trip from here, and it is not unlikely that she will ride to Pocahontas and the famous Miette hot springs. Her enthusiasm for the trails of Jasper has grown ever since she made a

Among the other guests were the Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, and Sir Henry Thornton, K.B.E., President and Chairman of the C. N. Railway.

IN POLICE COURT

Two cases were heard in police court this morning by His Worship Magistrate Langley. The first case was that of Thomas Smith of Belmont, who pleaded guilty to two charges; the first a breach under the regulation of section 72, sub-section 1, which deals with the keeping of liquor for sale. Alec Elliott acted for the defendant, and Crown Attorney Hatton for the prosecution.

Mr. Elliott stated that the law seemed to work harder in some cases than in others, and pleaded for the minimum sentence of two months for the defendant, as the accused has never appeared in police court before on any charge.

Mr. Hatton said that they had sought after him for some time, but could never "get the goods" on him.

Mr. Stewart said that he had known that he was manufacturing liquor for several years, but could never catch him.

There was some discussion as to how the terms would be served in case of a default in the payment of a fine in the second offense. This was a breach of Section 90, having liquor in his possession without a permit. The accused was given two months on the charge of selling liquor and fined $100.00 and $11.90 costs on the second charge. This was with the approval of the Crown Attorney. The fine was to be paid at once or in month in the common jail of the default a term of imprisonment for County of Peterborough will have to be served.

A County resident was fined $10.00 and $11.70 costs on pleading guilty to being intoxicated in a public place, it being his first offence. The police stated that he had been drawing grain for the manufacture of illegal liquor, but there was no charge to this effect. On handing out the sentence Magistrate Langley expressed his view that the minimum fine was not enough, but as the prosecution had consented to it, it would be levied. He also warned the young man that if it was true that he was hauling grain for such purposes that he had better cease "For if you appear again I'll not forget," he said.

WEST EXPECTS BEST CROP YET

Will Put Whole Country On Its Feet, Says C.P.R. Official.

HARVEST EARLY.

CALGARY, July 25.—"The splendid crop this year is going to put this whole country on its feet on a sound, solid basis," enthusiastically declared William Neal, General Manager of Western Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway with headquarters at Winnipeg, when interviewed Monday just previous to his departure by automobile for Banff. "I have been 24 years in the West, but I have never seen conditions so good as they are now; not even in the boom years of 1905 and 1904. The crop which, in my opinion could not look better, is going to be a wonderful thing for Western Canada.

Mr. Neal, is at present in the West inspecting crop and railroad conditions, preparatory to an expected exceptionally busy fall hauling Alberta's magnificent crop to market. He has of late covered the territory in the southern part of the province in his private car and on his return from Banff will continue to do the same work in other parts of the province. "I have travelled all through Southern Saskatchewan and Alberta largely by track motor and the crop averages two and a half feet in height and was heading in many places. The only fly in the ointment is a little hail, but when the total crop is taken into consideration, it is not very much. Based on the present outlook grain will be ready for harvest about two weeks ahead of last year. The present outlook is for a bigger crop than ever before, due principally to increased acreage and splendid conditions, and we must have more facilitie savailable with which to handle the crop."

Mr. Neal said, "We are laying more rail between Calgary and Medicine Hat and are putting into service new heavy engines to expedite prompt movement of traffic. We are preparing to handle efficiently the bumper crops both East and West via Vancouver as well as Great Lakes ports.

MORE EXCURSIONS MAY FOLLOW TOUR

Pittsburgh Men Greatly Pleased With Their Visit to Kawartha Lakes.

That there will be further excursions, in the future, to Peterborough, from Pittsburgh, is the opinion of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who has received a letter from E. E. Smith, general passenger agent of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railway Company, who accompanied the members of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association on their annual outing to Peterborough —Kawartha Lakes, on July 14th to 18th. The letter reads in part:

My Dear Frank,—"I have your favor of the 18th instant regarding the tour of the Automobile Dealers' Association of Pittsburgh, and judging from the expressions that have been made to me on the part of those who have participated in the trip, it was the most successful and highly entertaining of any trip they have ever made, and with that information I feel quite safe in saying that we will be able to again arrange for their tour through the Kawartha Lakes District."

It cost each member of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, who visited Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes, July 14th to 18th, a minimum of $75, which covered transportation, berths and meals on special train and to Pittsburgh, was the information given the Examiner this morning by the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. In addition, it must have cost the seventy odd members who made the trip much more or the extras incidental of such tours and outings.

Although the cost to the city and to the Chamber was nil, it is believed that the "outing" was one of the best advertising mediums for the Kawartha Lakes.

IN MEMORIAM.

FITZGERALD. — In loving memory of Phyllis Thain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Thain, and wife of James Fitzgerald, Toronto, who died July 16, 1927.

Short and sudden was the call
Of our dear Phyllis, loved by all.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought her death so near.
The Golden Gates were open,
A gentle voice said come;
And with farewell words unspoken,
She calmly entered home.
The midnight stars are gleaming
On a lone and silent grave.
Beneath sleeps one we dearly loved.
But whom we could not save.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still!
But death has left an vacant place
That never can be filled.

J.B. Hanly of Midland Elected President of Trent Waterway

Trent Waterway Development Association Holds Annual Meeting.

MEMBERS WELCOMED

President Fowlds Declares Association Has Had a Great Year.

The election of J. B. Hanly, of Midland, to the presidency, enlightening addresses and reports, and constructive discussion of matters generally pertaining to the system featured the annual general meeting of the Trent Waterway Development Association, held on Wednesday afternoon in the Rockland House, Bobcaygeon—admirably located in the heart of the Kawartha Lakes and Trent Waterway district, for such a gathering. It included representatives from Peterborough, Hastings, Fenelon Falls, Midland, Bobcaygeon and many other municipalities located on the Trent Waterway, and to all was extended a sincere welcome by Reeve W. C. Moore, representative of the tourist town. F. D. Kerr, K.C., honorary vice-president and Frank G. Stinson, secretary of the association, represented Peterborough.

A Lengthy Meeting

Following an appetizing meal, made more so by the fact that many had driven long distances previously, the meeting, which was due to occupy practically the entire afternoon, began with the address of welcome by Reeve Moore, after which the president, Walter M. Fowlds of Hastings held the attention of the meeting with a most comprehensive verbal report, during which he referred to many phases of the Trent Association matters.

"We have had a great year," declared Mr. Fowlds, in going on to speak briefly of the benefits of the Association's exhibit at the 1928 National Motor Boat Show, held in New York last February, and that of the Ohio Sportsmen's and Outdoor Show at Cleveland. He told of encountering many prospective visitors to Canada, and particularly to the Trent district of Ontario, and mentioned the splendid reception accorded the Association's new booklet. He voiced his appreciation of the support accorded him at the show by the honorary president, G. K. Fraser; the secretary, Mr. Stinson, and Mr. Wagg of Midland.

The need of an evener distribution of financing the Trent Association's publicity and advertising was stressed by the retiring president who urged, accordingly that a standing financial committee be appointed. He spoke most appreciatively of the generosity of the City of Peterborough when appealed to, as well as the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, both of which had proved most dependable.

The importance of the tourist traffic, now the third or fourth industry of the province, resulting in some seventy millions of dollars of American money reaching Ontario banks during the past year, alone, was called attention to, and in conclusion, Mr. Fowlds introduced the two veteran members of the Association, G. K. Fraser, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., as well as verbally clearing the way for annual review, which was later read by Secretary Stinson.

Veterans Speak

Each of the two "veterans" spoke briefly, Mr. Fraser regretting that the turn-out at the meeting had not been larger. He mentioned the profitable trip through the Severn River district through the courtesy of Mr. Hanly, and concluded by volunteering to do all in his power for the Association. Mr. Kerr declared that it was the work accomplished, and not the number in attendance, that counted. Of the completion of the Severn River district of the waterway, Mr. Kerr felt that it would be the part of wisdom for this work to be done soon, as it means dollars and cents to the province. "We want to see that the masses of restless people down south of us who seek for God's

A FISH STORY

PRESCOTT, July 26.—Summer campers at Point Comfort, a few miles west of here, had a unique experience while fishing yesterday. Mrs. William Carroll and William Fleming a few weeks ago hooked a fish of unusual size, but lost the fish and also their line and plug. A few days later Joseph Layahre had a similar experience. Yesterday Edward Kennedy of Saranac Lake landed a gamy bass weighing three pounds and three - quarters. In the mouth of the fish was found the tackle Mrs. Carroll lost several weeks ago and also that which Mr. Layahre lost a few days later.

More Than 300 Visitors Have Registered at Fair Grounds This Summer.

FROM MANY PLACES.

Cleanliness and Courtesy Specially Noted in Entries in Register.

Peterborough's tourist camp promises to set a new record in the number of visitors accommodated if the remainder of the summer maintains the pace that has been kept up since the camp opened.

Already 300 visitors have camped at the Exhibition Grounds, and the register shows many parts of Canada as well as many of the States represented. With these visitors the Peterborough camp ranks as one of the best they have visited.

They admire the cleanliness of the grounds, appreciate the fact that the camp is so quiet at night, and are impressed with the attention they receive from Superintendent John Gillespie, who is the acme of hospitality in making tourists feel at home.

The proof of this statement is found in the register, where tourists are invited to give their impressions, and The Examiner quotes some of them, the city named in each case being the address of the tourist:

"Very pleasant stop."—Rochester, N.Y.

"Very enjoyable, every courtesy."—Kingston, Ont.

"Wonderful place."—Buffalo, N.Y.

"Made to feel at home."—Cleveland, O.

"Beautiful. Quiet place to camp."—Middletown, N.Y.

"Beautiful and clean."—Warren, O.

"We will call again."—Detroit, Mich.

"Excellent camp, clean and convenient."—Ellwood City, Pa.

"Wonderful."—Brantford, Ont.

"We admire the cleanliness of the people of Peterborough who have charge of these grounds."—Stratford, Ont.

"Beautifully clean. Better than many others we have struck."—Schumacher, Ont.

"Great advt. for city to have grounds and convenience as clean as these. One of the best camps."—Cleveland, O.

England Is All Het Up About New Car; It Is Springless, Clutchless, Gearless

England is excited over a new wrinkle in automobiles— a car without clutch, without springs, that's cooled by steam and that is guaranteed against road shocks and skidding.

Col. W. Bishop, builder and owner of the unique automobiles, is showing it, while large crowds gather wherever it stops.

"All you do," says Col. Bishop, "is to start the car, accelerate and the car moves off. There is no clutch to operate.

"The speed is regulated entirely by the pressure on the accelerator. Take your foot off and the car free-wheels."

Free-wheeling is comparatively new in this country and the continent, and is practically unknown elsewhere. This is a system of transmission by which a novice can drive without fear of clashing gears. The speed changes are automatic, in accordance with the speed of the engine, and when the engine is slowed down to idling the motor is disengaged and the car is said to "free-wheel."

"The only ordinary thing about this car," adds the colonel, "is that is stops with the aid of brakes."

The steam cooling system is one which automotive engineers have been considering for adoption for quite some time. It is said to maintain a consistent, efficient temperature, no matter what the weather may be outside.

Another feature of this unique automobile is an automatic locking device on the wheels, which keeps them from sliding backward down a hill. A mysterious differential in the rear is said to do away with skidding.

Jury Recommends Erection of Signs At Ends of Bridge

Mrs. Jacobs Failed To Observe Engineer's Signals To Retreat Before Train, Which Was Slowing Up — Train Stopped Where She Jumped.

MOTHER COULD HAVE REACHED SAFETY BUT WAS DELAYED HELPING HER CHILD

Pair Jumped From Bridge Before Train Reached Them, Say Witnesses — Death Caused By Fall to the Concrete Pavement.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26. — No blame whatsoever can be attached to the engineer of the train that caught Mrs. James Jacobs and her son on the C.N.R. bridge on Saturday afternoon, was the finding of the jury empanelled for the purpose of inquiring into the death of Mrs. Jacobs and her son Lloyd. The verdict reads:

"We, the jury appointed to inquire into the death of Mrs. Muriel Jacobs and her son, after having heard the evidence of the case, find that Mrs. Jacobs and son came to their death on July 22nd at Campbellford as the result of a fall from the railroad bridge over Grand Road in the town of Campbellford.

"We further feel that the engineer in charge of the train be exonerated from all blame whatsoever and further recommend that warning signs be placed at each end of the bridge."

This was the verdict brought in by the jury empanelled under Coroner W. F. Loucks by Chief Light. The evidence was all submitted to them at twenty minutes past three, and ten minutes later they returned with the above verdict.

The proceedings were directed by Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., Cobourg. W. C. Mills, Montreal, C.N.R. claims agent, appeared in the interest of the company.

Eight witnesses were called to tell what they knew of the accident.

Chief Light, the first to be put on oath, identified himself as the local Chief, and said he had empanelled the jury as directed by the Coroner. He knew that they had viewed the remains. He, personally, had not seen the accident.

Saw Woman Fall.

Donald Page, the second witness, said he saw the accident but could not say whether or not the train stopped at the station. He estimated its speed at twelve to fifteen miles an hour. The mother did not appear to jump but to fall. She was not conscious when Page got to her. He could say nothing of the condition of the child.

Mrs. Elsie Page, wife of Donald Page, sworn, said she was sitting on the veranda when her husband called to her that Mrs. Jacobs was on the track and the train was coming. Mrs. Page arrived in time to see the unfortunate woman fall back on her head.

Dr. E. J. Free gave evidence that he had attended the deceased and that their deaths resulted from injuries received. The son lived about an hour longer than the mother.

Harry Cassan testified that he was driving his car on Grand Road when he saw something fall from the overhead bridge. When he arrived at the spot he found it was a woman, Mrs. James Jacobs. He did not see the child, because a young man had removed the boy before Cassan arrived.

Girl Tells of Accident

Helen Donald, 13, neice of the late Mrs. Jacobs and one of the two children who escaped from the bridge, was questioned as to whether or not she realized the significance of the oath, before being sworn. She said that the party of four had been picking berries, and were returning about six o'clock. They started to walk along the C.N.R. tracks about a half mile east of the bridge, and had first seen the train when it was between the west cut and the station. She, Helen, started to run, and her little brother followed her example. Both reached safety. She looked back and saw Mrs. Jacobs on the bridge and was of the opinion that the train had reached her elbow. She had not called to Mrs. Jacobs when she saw the train, nor had any conversation passed between them. She got off the track on the same side as that from which Mrs. Jacobs fell.

LITTLE INTEREST IN BIG FIGHT NOTICED IN NEW YORK TO-DAY

Few Wagers Being Made On Outcome and Odds Are Uncertain.

ADVANCE SALE SLOW.

Well Informed Say Bout Will Draw More Than $700,000.

(By Edward J. Neil—Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Lazily and with little outward show of interest, New York turned to-day to the first heavyweight championship within its boundaries in the past five years.

Now and then eyes turned expectantly toward the sky and ears perked up at the drone of an airplane motor in the heavens. In Madison Square Garden an anxious promoter, Tex Rickard, already gunshy at the possibility of financial loss, shivered anew at the thought that the whirr of the flying motor he waited might not come.

For it was through the air that Gene Tunney, of Greenwich Village, chose to return to his native city for his 15-round joust with Tom Heeney, gentle New Zealand blacksmith, in the Yankee Stadium to-night. It was a manner of approach from Speculator, N.Y., befitting the champion who has defied every other tradition of the ring.

Tex Rickard knew just where he could find the challenger. The finest heavyweight the British have produced since Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons awaited the call to cattle on board the yacht of a friend.

Little Excitement.

Around the city, where not until now have the fight faithful been able to take their fisticuffs or leave them alone, there was little excitement over the impending struggle for the most prized of fistiana's crowns. The match seemed to have crept unawares upon the citizens without their ever realizing what was happening.

So few were the wagers recorded on the match itself that it was difficult to determine the exact odds. Bets of three to one that Tunney would win were mentioned, but no one seemed to have seen any money change hands.

Persons close to Madison Square Garden saw little hope that the match would draw over $700,000 worth of customers into the Stadium to-night. At the close of business yesterday the advance sale had picked up considerably, but not enough to boost the treasury much above $500,000. Rickard stood firm on his prediction that the battle would bring $1,000,000. The weatherman was good to Rickard and the weather was ideal.

Weigh In At Stadium.

Gene Tunney, Heeney, and all the preliminary fighters or their card will weigh in at two o'clock this afternoon at the Yankee Stadium, the scene of the battle, the New York State Boxing Commission ruled this morning.

Previously it had been arranged to have the weighing in at Madison Square Garden. The reason for the change was that there would be more room and less commotion at the Yankee Stadium, which is situated in the comparative open spaces of the Bronx. The Commission feared the appearance of the boxers would draw too much of a crowd at the Garden, which is in the midst of the roaring forties.

Cent Buys Power For Many Purposes

One cent is a small amoutn of money sometimes, but in this modern age, when electricity is being more and more brought into ause, the amount of work that this cent will do is amazing. The following information was supplied to The Examiner by Grant and Thorpe, well-known Peterborough dealers in electrical appliances and supplies:

What Electricity Means to You

One cent's worth of electricity at 3c per kilowatt hour, will operate six 60-watt lamps for 1 hour.

Six-pound flat iron for 35 minutes.

Radiant toaster long enough to produce 18 slices of toast.

Sewing machine for 5 hours.

Fan, 12-inch diameter, for 3 hours.

Percolator long enough to make 18 cups of coffee.

Heating pad for 2 to 3 hours.

Chafing dish, 40 minutes.

Curling iron, once a day for 2 weeks.

Luminous 500-watt radiator for 30 minutes.

ROTARY PARTY VISITS CAMP ON SPORT DAY

Camp Skookum is Scene of Gruelling Defeat For Club.

BOYS WIN 8-7.

Visitors Have Picnic Supper and Vote It Best Camp Yet.

Camp Skookum, the Rotary boys' camp at Clear Lake, was the mecca of a large party of Rotarians, Rotary-Annes, and other guests yesterday afternoon when President W. R. Morris and Rotarian J. H. Seels of the Boys' Camp Committee led a delegation of visitors to witness the annual sports day.

The party motored to South Beach and made the rest of the journey to Camp Skookum on the steamer Islinda. They received a warm welcome from Camp Director Doug. Loomis and his assistants and from the 45 boys in camp, and there was not a dull moment for the rest of the day.

After inspecting the camp, the ball grounds was next visited and a program of sports was run off in snappy style.

The first item on the program was a ball game between the visiting Rotarians and the camp team, and the Skookumites brought home the bacon by an 8 to 7 score. The Rotary team despite the fact that Jack Seels and A. L. Killaly were in the line-up gave the boys a hard battle, but were not quite good enough. Sisson and Turner were the camp battery, while Jack Gillespie and Chris Graham were in the points for the Rotary nine.

The running races followed, the results being:

Junior 50 yards dash—1, B. Cross; 2, D. Turner.

MAYOR DENNE AND COUNCIL ON INSPECTION

His Worship Entertains at Peterborough Club Prior To Tour.

PROGRESS MADE.

Outline Given of Plans Made By Board of Works For Future.

His Worship Mayor Denne gave an informal dinner last night at the Peterborough Club at which the Aldermen, City Clerk, City Engineer and the Press were present. It was simply a prelude to a tour of inspection of the city—to see what had been accomplished so far by the Board of Works department this year and to look into work that must be undertaken by this department next year.

Before leaving on the trip the party inspected the changes in the city building, the general offices, the clerk's private office and the Council Chamber. The much needed work, now it has been attended to, has made a wonderful improvement in these offices.

The first stop was at Riverside (James tSevenson Park), where the Mayor explained certain improvements to the park that should be made when finances permitted. Inspection was next made of the Town Hall in East City, which is now a fine auditorium and will no doubt be largely used by East City organizations.

The Peterborough City Trust received great praise for the manner in which they have made over this property once occupied at a manufacturing plant by Lavoie Knitteds.

The inspection of roads that have been torn up graded and oiled was then taken up. Proceeding up Armour Road, Macfarlane street to the road back of the lift lock running right through to Downer's Corners. These roads have been taken care of by the new grading machine added to the local plant last year, and for the first time in many years are all in first class condition. Crossing the Locks bridge to Crescent, Lansdowne and other streets in the south end the party realized the vast amount of road work that had been done to get the roads in the good condition in which they are to-day. A stop was made on Concession street south where the Mayor pointed out the fact that the fence all along the road was in bad repair and would need immediate attention. Matthew McMahon's letter in The Examiner was the cause of an inspection of the north on the road referred to by Mr. McMahon and the party felt that something should be done to remedy the situation and no doubt early action will be taken.

The Mayor also called a halt to inspect the cribbing and state of Crescent street running from Lock street to the cemetery and explained a plan that should work out to save the bank and trees on this street.

Inspection was also made of some pavement recently made that does not appear to be standing up.

Altogether it was a most satisfactory evening as it gave every member of the council an opportunity to see what the Department of Works had been doing in their efforts to give Peterborough citizens better roads within the city limits.

SOME TOURISTS ABUSE LEEWAY

Chief Newhall Tells Of Isolated Instances Seen in City.

LIGHTS IGNORED.

While considerable leeway is allowed tourists from the United States by Canadian authorities and citizens, which, in turn, is generally appreciated and not abused, Chief of Police Newhall this morning told The Examiner of two instances wherein visitors from across the border failed to realize their obligations, even as guests of Canada.

In one instance, a tourist had been seen to pick up a valuable Boston bull pup from the street, and only for the interference of a Peterborough man, would have carried it away with him. Sergeant Deannard had investigated and had found the pup to be the property of Frank Dawson of this city.

Another American tourist committed three offeffnces in the eyes of the police this morning when he completely ignored the stop and go signals at the corner of George and Charlotte Streets, (offence No. 1); took a left turn to proceed north on Gerge Street, cutting in and around other cars (offence No. 2); and turning east on Hunter Street sailed across Water Street, paying no heed to the fact that this was designated a through street, and shown to be so by a stop sign, plainly visible.

The driver was called to give an account of himself, and brazenly asked, "Where are they?" when told of the stop and go lights and the stop signs. "You have the same number of eyes as anyone else, which fact you may soon realize," replied the Chief.

RADIO DEALER INSTALS SET IN MOTOR CAR

Fred Imming Can Enjoy Music Wherever He Likes To Go.

USEFUL AS WELL.

Set Helps in His Electric Repair Work, Locating Ignition Trouble in Cars.

Fred Imming of the Auto Electric and Radio Repairs, Hunter street west has in his car a radio set with which he tours the country, enjoying music and concerts anywhere and any time he desires. The set is a seven-tube hook-up using one stage of tuned radio frequency, one stage of untuned radio frequency, with three stages of audio frequency and the last two tubes hooked in parallel acting as a power tube. The whole seven tubes use only three-quarters of an ampere.

The aerial is on the top of the car, insulated from the roof and suspended from low cross pieces. There is 100 feet of wire interlaced across the entire top. The body of the car acts as a counterpoise to the set instead of a ground. Under the front seat there are two 772 Everyeady B Batteries and power for the A Battery is supplied from the storage battery of the car in the same manner that current is fed to the headlights.

The set utilizes headphones and loud speaker and reception in the two weeks that he has had it has been very good. The Examiner asked him the idea for building such a portable set, and he explained that he was able to have music wherever he was and when he goes to the Oval for cricket practice and is early, all he has to do is to tune in on some station and pass away the time as well as amuse the rest of the early players. But that is not the entire idea. The set has a real commercial value and that is to locate ignition trouble in cars. Every time the motor fires the spark plugs can be heard through the set and a miss in the firing order can also be detected as well. This principle he hopes to employ in locating such trouble in motor cars.

The set is placed on the right hand side of the dashboard with the lead-in wire coming through an opening above the windshield, and the ground or counterpoise and battery wires running through the floor. When asked if he did not have trouble with the tubes breaking, he said that he believed the peanut tube to be the most sturdy on the market and it would hardly break if it was rolled on the sidewalk. For the first few days he took the tubes out, but during most of the two weeks he has had the set, he has left them in and has no trouble with them and then the set is always ready for use.

The last stage of audio frequency is a special hookup which he has built in many sets, as well as installing in this travelling set, and which he finds works exceptionally well.

GIRL IS DROWNED.

LEAMINGTON, July 26. — Betty Williamson, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Williamson, of Leamington, was drowned while enjoying a dip with her chum, Miss Frances Weeks, in the waters of Lake Erie, about 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, three-quarters of a mile from the regular bathing beach. The two girls had journeyed to the lake in mid-afternoon and were the only two occupants of that section of the beach. Miss Weeks is a fair swimmer, but Betty was just nicely learning the art.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY RESIGNS FROM HIGH OFFICE

Long Expected Retirement is Undoubtedly Hastened by Attitude of Parliament.

80 YEARS OF AGE

Dr. Davidson Has Served in High Position for Twenty-Five Years.

LONDON, July 26 (Canadian Press Cable).—After serving for 25 years as Archbishop of Canterbury, Rt. Rev. Randall Thomas Davidson has resigned. His long-expected retirement was undoubtedly hastened by Parliament's second rejection, last month, of the revised prayer book in support of which he had labored for years.

It was announced officially last night that the King had received with great regret an intimation from the Archbishop that he was desirous of resigning his high office. His Majesty, on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, by Royal warrant, appointed a commission consisting of the Archbishop of York and Bishops of London, Durham and Winchester, for the purpose of receiving the resignation of the Primate. The commission has reported that it accepted the Archbishop's resignation, to take effect on November 12 of this year, and this has been approved by His Majesty.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, 96th of his line, is 80 years of age. At about the time his resignation will take effect he and his wife will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, and it is planned to present to them on this occasion a fund which is now being collected, to ensure greater comfort in their declining years. A memorial will also be placed at Lambeth Palace, residence of the Archbishops of Canterbury, to mark the general gratitude for Dr. Davidson's long and painstaking services to the Church and the nation.

Probable Successor.

Rt. Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of York, is the most probable successor to Dr. Davidson; indeed, it is reported he has already been offered the transference and has indicated his acceptance. In the absence of official confirmation, however, several other noted churchmen remain possible choices, among them the Bishop of Manchester, Rt. Rev. William Temple; the Bishop of Durham, Rt. Rev. Hensley Henson, and the Bishop of Winchester, Rt. Rev. Theodore Woods.

Dr. Davidson retained the greatest esteem and affection of all members of the Anglican communion through one of the most trying periods in the history of the Church. With as full a knowledge of doctrine and happenings in the Church all over the world as any of his predecessors, he achieved a remarkable reputation as a moderator between the Anglo-Catholics and the low Church people. He devoted himself whole-heartedly of late years to the revision of the book of common prayer and the first rejection by Parliament, last December, was a bitter blow which brought him to tears as he left the House of Commons. Apparently the second rejection was not unexpected, however, for it was borne not merely philosophically, but immediately the result was known. His Grace, in company with the Archbishop of York, issued a statement calling for patience by supporters of the measure and for abstention from rash or irregular actions, which for a time loomed threateningly.

The last important act of the aged prelate was a declaration deploring the rejection and expressing the belief that it was a fundamental principle that the Church must retain its inalienable right of loyalty to the Lord and right to formulate its own faith and forms of worship.

Was Tolerant.

Toleration and freedom of thought always dominated the Archbishop of Canterbury's actions. He served half a century in the Church, commencing with an obscure curacy in Kent which he occupied from 1874 to 1877. He then became private secretary to Archbishop Tait, and was private secretary to Archbishop Benson when the latter succeeded Rev. Dr. Tait at Canterbury. From 1883 to 1891 he was Dean of Windsor and domestic chaplain to Queen Victoria, and indeed was in close association with the Queen until her death. Dr. Davidson was Bishop of Rochester to 1895 and Bishop of Winchester from then until his appointment as Primate of All England in 1903.

Always an accomplished diplomat, Dr. Davidson is well remembered by many ministers of the Church now serving in scattered places, for he manifested a lively interest in the welfare of the Church overseas and took delight in extending the hand of Christian good-fellowship to overseas bishops and clergy who called at Lambeth Palace.

Dr. Davidson was born on April 7, 1848, the son of Henry and Henrietta Davidson. He married Edith, the second daughter of Archbishop Tait, in 1878.

A committee was appointed to have the wharf repaired which was damaged by the ice last winter. The arrangements for the baseball games were left in the hands of the Baseball Committee, and the Race Committee is preparing a fine list of events for both land and water.

The blue ribbon went for class C. motor boats, and will draw a large field of entries. The committee is putting up a handsome trophy for this event.

The Dance Committee is making arrangements for the annual dance on the evening of August 8, and have engaged the five-piece Excelsior Orchestra, of Hastings, for the occasion.

At the close of the business, the secretary was instructed to write to the Wallace family, expressing the commit tee's deepest sympathy in their recent bereavement.

The late Mr. David Wallace was a valued member of the committee and his services will be greatly missed by all the members.

AGAIN DELAYED.

HORTA, Azores, July 26 (Canadian Press). — Captain Frank T. Courtney, British flier, made a futile attempt to-day to take off in a seaplane for Newfoundland. He made several attempts, and dumped part of his fuel load, but the plane would not leave the water.

Escaped Boa Scares German Beach Resort; Maiden Lady's Pet Rabbit Is Found Missing

BERLIN, July 26. — Swinemunde, the popular Baltic bathing resort, has shuddered with horror the past few days over a sea serpent tale which is too realistic to be amusing.

The reason for the consternation is that a boa constrictor over ten feet long disappeared from a cage where his artist owner had placed him and could not be found. Weird chants were intoned and charms set against attacks by the snake while the police searched incessantly. Swinemunde stayed awake nights in fear of the reptile.

Suddenly "Fifi" turned up at the old address and entered an open window of the artist's sand castle. All of the bathing resort breathed a sigh of relief, except a maiden lady who misses a pet rabbit.

Old Original Of Northwest Mounted Police Dies; Enlisted In Force When It Was Being Organized

EDMONTON, Alta., July 26 (Canadian Press). — One of the two last survivors of the original troop of the Royal North-West Mounted Police to cross the plains in 1874, Captain Sir Cecil Edward Denny, sixth baronet of Tralee Castle, County Kerry, Ireland, died in a local hospital last night at the age of 79.

He left Iseland at the age of 24, and enlisted at Ottawa in the Royal North-West Mounted Police, which was just being organized. He rose to the rank of inspector in the force, and was one of the officers to sign the famous Treaty of 1877 with the Indians.

In late years Sir Cecil Denny had been acting as archivist for the Alberta Government, and had written several books on early life in the West.

PEACE PACT IS FAVORED

Premier Hertzog of South Africa is Dissatisfied With League.

WILL ENJOY PEACE

SENEKAL, Orange Free State, July 26 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters). — Dissatisfaction with the League of Nations and approval of the recent Kellogg Peace actP to prevent war was expressed here yesterday by Premier J. B. Hertzog, of the South African Union. He said that the League of Nations had been brought into existence not to maintain peace, but to maintain the conditions which followed the Great War. As a result of the American proposals the world would now enjoy longer periods of peace than heretofre.

The South African Prime Minister observed that farming was the chief industry in the world, and that indications of a general break-up in Europe were evident by the way in which the nations of Europe were imbibing their spirit from the towns rather than t hecountry. The towns in Europe, he said, were responsible for the prevailing spirit there which must lead to a fall. South Africa was different in that the rural spirit was very strong, and for that reason is two or three hundred years younger than Europe.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask for double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

So great is the heat produced by radium in proportion to its bulk that a quantity easily transported by manual labor would be sufficient to change the temperature of the Polar regions.

DR. E. A. HARDY ADDRESSES ANNUAL MEETING OF TEACHER

Adult Education is the Most Baffling, Claims President.

FEDERATION MEETS

Canada is Making Good Progress, Declares Speaker in Spreading Knowledge.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 26 (Canadian Press).—Adult education, rather than the training of the young, is the most baffling and important problem which modern teachers and educators have to face to-day, Dr. E. A. Hardy, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, believes.

"Where as educators the world over are facing a hard problem in compressing the body of necessary modern knowledge into school curricula, they are dealing with a still harder one in putting that knowledge at the disposed of adults," Dr. Hardy said.

Must Seek Knowledge

The average man can no longer get along in his business or profession without continually pursuing knowledge, and it is the busines sof the educators to make that knowledge available.

"In Canada and the United States we are making good progress in spreading the knowledge through university extension courses, prescribed reading courses, libraries, lectures, religious organizations and rapid talks," Dr. Hardy said.

"In America they are going farther and seeking to Americanize the adult immigrants by educating them in the same way as the children, but we have not attempted that yet."

In Dr. Hardy's opinion the child of to-day did not possess a greater mental capacity than his forefathers, though his knowledge of scientific facts was greater.

Due to Environment

"We hear much about precocious children, and it is true that the child of six to-day knows many things that his father did not learn until he grew up. That is due to environment and to the fact that this knowledge is available to the child practically from its birth. It will take generations to develop a new type of mind by merely feeding children."

Dr. Hardy urged upon the delegates the importance of their continued support of the World Federation of Education Associations. He believed that the organization was destined to draw the teachers of the world into closer personal and professional relationship; it would promote a better spirit of understanding and stimulate closer friendships between the peoples of the various nations of the earth.

CONFESSES THEFT

Valet of Sir Arthur Sparks Steals Jewels From Members of Family.

NIAGARA, N.Y., July 26.—(Canadian Press.)—The valet of Sir Ashley Sparks, general director of the Cunard Line in America, was arrested yesterday, charged with the theft of $14,500 in jewels from the Sparks estate at Syosset, last May 13.

Robert Lindsey, in Sir Ashley's employ two years, confessed the police said, to having stolen the gems from the rooms of Lady Sparks and her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Mott, while the family was at dinner.

A search of Lindsey's rooms, detectives said, resulted in the recovery of all the missing gems. He was charged with grand larceny.

Beg Your Pardon.

Miss Ethel Mortlock, a pupil of Birdsall's School, was successful at the recent High School Entrance examination. Due to an error her name was omitted from the list of successful candidates who wrote at Keene Centre.

A HOME FROM HOME

What is a bungalow camp? It is indeed very easy to sum up. A home from home. It is not a tent-like encampment as we often imagine it to be, indeed no cheerier atmosphere could be found than amidst one of these rustic yet luxurious camps, filled with life, brimming over with a determination to get the best out of the surroundings, and indeed, life itself. Let us consider the French River Camp, situated in the heart of the rugged and beautiful country such as the province of Ontario possesses. Here is an ideal vacation for the canoeist, fisherman, golfer, the tennis enthusiast, and above all there is the privacy of a house of your own to sleep in. Again, there is a Devil's Gap Bungalow camp, amid equally delightful surroundings, a few miles from Kenora. All kinds of aquatic sports are available, including excellent fishing. Mention must also be made of Nipigon River camp which lies deep in the north woods.

PRIZES OFFERED BY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Cavan Ladies Give Ten Dollars Towards Helping List of School Fair.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, July 26.—The Cavan Women's Institute are giving ten dollars as prizes in four classes at the Rural School Fair to be held at Ida on Tuesday, September 25.

The prizes are for the following events:

Open to pupils of fourth classes—Best poster made in water colors to illustrate good health rules.

Open to pupils of third classes—For the most wholesome and healthful breakfast for school child (demonstrated similar to school lunch).

Open to pupils of second classes—Composition of 20 lines on the following subject, "What I would like to be when I finish school?"

Open to first class and primer pupils—6 lines of this copy, "Nothing can need a lie"; 6 lines of the figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 0; small letters of the alphabet, each line written twice.

The three prizes to be given in each class are: 1st, $1.00; 2nd, 85c; 3rd, 65c.

Besides the schools included in the North Cavan Fair, Whitfield's School is included in this special prize.

A change in the Rural School Fair prize list in the cooking section is noticed this year. A cake is asked for, but the kind is specified, and the following recipe is given, to be used: Plain white cake, layer or loaf, with any icing—½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk.

In previous years any kind of cake was allowed, and the result was that very fine cakes, elaborately iced, were numerous; cakes so perfect in appearance and so delicious to taste that a child from a busy home who could not have so much time and teaching given her and who brought a plain light cake, the result of her own unaided efforts, was quite out of line with the other cakes shown This change will meet with commendation.

Stomach Troubles Headaches and Dizziness

When your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep"; get thin and nervous; and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

This was the condition of Mme. P. Joyal, 2170 Letourneux street, Montreal. She says: "I was so nervous that the rustling of a newspaper upset me. My appetite had left me; indigestion was giving me a great deal of trouble; I could not sleep; and steadily lost weight. Tanlac soon had me eating again, corrected my stomach trouble, steadied my nerves, ran my weight up ten pounds, and made me feel just right in every way. Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer and thousands of others. It is marvelous to see how it corrects the most obstinate digestion troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels—how it restores the appetite, vigor, sound sleep and strong nerves.

CAMP SKOOKUM.

Rotarians and their guests who visited Camp Skookum for the sports day yesterday came away convinced not only that their interest in this enterprise is decidedly worth while, but also that a new standard is being set this year that in the future will create such a demand as to require more accommodation.

A real holiday at a price that could be paid by practically every boy in Peterborough was the aim of the Rotary Club this year, and the objective has been reached.

Not a boy in camp but was loud in his praises of the outing; not one The Examiner spoke to but would like to stay longer—and some of them have been there a month.

A delightful camp, admirably adapted to shelter at least 50 boys at a time, with every opportunity for the amusements that young Canada loves, a director who knows what boys like, and also how they should be handled, enough discipline to keep the youngsters in hand, enough supervision to ensure their safety, and a fine camp esprit de corps—these things constitute Skookum truly a place where memories grow.

The boys of Peterborough are fortunate indeed that such a camp is available to provide vacation opportunities usually obtained only at a cost that in many cases is prohibitive.

TAKE A TIP FROM FRANCE.

The fact that William Tilden, famous American tennis player was reinstated as a member of the United States Davis Cup team at the urgent request of the French tennis authorities who wanted the American ace to participate against their team in the finals is refreshing.

It is to be hoped that this gesture of good sportsmanship has not been missed by the athletes assembled at Amsterdam for the Olympic Games.

Unfortunately, such sportsmanship has not been in evidence to any great extent at these international competitions.

Rather there has been controversy and bickering, occasioned by too great a desire to win and too little desire to play the game.

To such an extent have these conditions prevailed that there are many people who believe that the abolition of the Olympic Games would be a worthy contribution toward the cause of international peace and goodwill.

France in this Davis Cup episode has pointed the way, and if the athletes at Amsterdam, and more particularly if the people in charge of the athletes at Amsterdam, catch the infection this year's Olympiad may perhaps establish a new and better standard of sportsmanship.

THE PRIZE FIGHT.

Whether or not to-night's heavyweight championship fight between Gene Tunney, the present champion, and Tom Heeney, the New Zealand battler, proves as profitable as some other recent Rickard enterprises, it is certain that a very large sum will be paid in at the box-office.

It is a striking commentary upon human nature that while men will bitterly protest a small increase in the price of something they actually need, they will unhesitatingly pay $15 or $25 to see a prize fight that may be a genuine battle or prove to be a fiasco.

There does not seem to be any justification for a million-dollar gate for this encounter.

Tunney is not a colorful champion in the sense that fight fans mean by colorful, while Heeney does not seem to possess any especial strength as a box-office attraction.

It has taken a press "ballyhoo" of unusual volume to stir up interest, and even at this late stage there is probably less excitement than is usual just before a championship fight.

Nor has the international angle to the contest made as much impression as the wily Mr. Rickard expected.

However, to-night's the night, and the Continent will be sufficiently interested at least to listen in on radio reports of the battle.

THE FOLLY OF OVERCHARGING.

The Hon. Forbes Godfrey, the Provincial Minister of Health, has discovered a tourist hotel in the Niagara district which charged a party of tourists the sum of $7.25 for half a dozen sandwiches and the same number of glasses of iced tea, and he is going to see how its proprietor justifies such an exorbitant demand. An English business man, on his return to the Old Country, complains that one hotel at which he stayed made him pay $4.00 for having moved his luggage from the station to his quarters.

These two instances of overcharging, which might be added to almost indefinitely from the complaints of tourists, show that there are some amongst those who cater to such trade who believe in "milking" visitors as long as they will stand for it and in adopting a policy towards tourists that must inevitably lead to complaint and protest.

If Canada is to continue to entertain the large numbers of tourists who are now being attracted to this country, and if the Dominion as a whole is to profit from the traffic, an end must come to the policy, quite generally adopted, there is reason to believe, of fixing one price for established customers and another price for transients. Nothing could be more stupid, and nothing less courteous, than to treat tourists in such a manner. The visitor who has been overcharged and who knows that he has been overcharged is bound to be dissatisfied. Furthermore, his dissatisfaction spread amongst his friends leads to dissatisfaction on their part. He himself will not return to the place of overcharging if he can help it, and his friends, governing themselves by his advice, will follow suit.

Dr. Godfrey may not be able to do anything to the hotel proprietor who charged $7.25 for six sandwiches and six glasses of iced tea. But it should not require more than a few moments' argument on his part to make the man realize the folly of such a practice if persisted in and the injury which he is doing to the entire Canadian tourist business.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE TOURIST CAMP.

It is with a feeling of civic gratification that it is learned from the remarks written therein by tourists from other parts of Canada and from the United States that in point of cleanliness, quietness and courteous attention the local camp ranks with the best.

When a visitor from Indianapolis is constrained to declare that the Peterborough camp is the best he has struck in a drive of 1,000 miles, and other parties remark that the cleanliness of the grounds is a credit to the community, as nearly all of them do, it is evident that as a resting-place for a section of the army of motorists on the move in Ontario these days the Exhibition Grounds takes second place to few such camps in the Province.

Much of the credit for this condition is due to the efforts of Superintendent John Gillespie, whose good service in this regard is giving Peterborough some splendid advertising.

Everything in connection with the camp Mr. Gillespie takes good care to keep spotlessly clean, and as a result of his close attention and keen interest the reputation of Peterborough's tourist camp is of the highest.

YOUNG AMBASSADORS TO GET WELCOME.

Canada is ready to open her heart to the Young Ambassadors of Empire, fifty boys and girls of the British Isles, who are to tour Canada in August under the auspices of the Allied Newspapers of Britain, the Cunard Steamship Company and the Canadian National Railways.

From end to end of the Dominion messages have been sent from leaders of city and provincial life, emphasizing their readiness and desire to greet the youth of the Homeland on their journey of friendship. An elaborate program for their entertainment during the month's sojourn in Canada has been arranged, and includes banquets, garden parties and fetes at which they will be the guests of Lieutenant-Governors, Provincial Premiers and civic officials.

The welcome awaiting the Young Ambassadors is assured by the following, some of the many messages which have been received in London:

From Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia: "I assure you it will be a pleasure to welcome the English Student Ambassadors of the Empire to Nova Scotia. I trust that they will find the Province interests them as completely as it welcomes them heartily."

From Premier Brownlee, Edmonton, Alberta: "Please convey to the British interest responsible for the Young Ambassadors of the Empire scheme my appreciation of their novel enterprise, which seems to me to promise much, both for the Empire and its constituent peoples. It is hardly possible to stress too much necessity for the existence of the fullest knowledge on the part of each peoples of the needs, problems and conditions of the others, if that complete mutual understanding and sympathy is to be achieved which is the real basis of the federation of the English-speaking peoples. By appealing to the love of travel and adventure of the younger generation, interest has been awakened amongst the young of the Old Country in the Overseas Dominions, which cannot fail to create a more lively interest in the nations of the Empire, and a true realization of their material resources and their national ideas."

Premier Bracken of Manitoba sends the following message: "The people of Manitoba in common with the people in all the other Provinces of this Dominion, will welcome with cordial hospitality the party of fifty Young Ambassadors of Empire. This plan is regarded here with warm approval and is regarded as an excellent means of stimulating the interest of the younger generation in Britain and in Canada and the other Dominions."

Of the Young Ambassadors, Premier Taschereau of Quebec says: "No more efficient means could have been devised to promote a closer union and a better understanding between Great Britain and the Dominions. These Young Ambassadors will get acquainted with our Canadian youth and be allowed to realize clearly the spirit upon which rests the future of the British Empire. Our Provincial Government will be glad to cooperate in welcoming these young delegates of Great Britain, and an official dinner will be tendered to them upon their arrival in Quebec."

From the Acting Premier of New Brunswick: "We will do what we can to welcome these young people when they reach New Brunswick."

Hon. George S. Henry, Acting Premier, Ontario, writes: "Such a project has my unqualified approval and would, I am sure, be endorsed with equal heartiness by Premier Ferguson, who is at present on a visit to the Motherland. The Government will be pleased to tender some entertainment to the party while it is in the Province, which, I am sure, will return home with a broader conception of what the term 'Empire' really connotes."

British Columbia, Canada's Pacific Province, will vie with her other sisters of the Dominion in welcoming the party. Premier MacLean wires: "British Columbia will welcome young travellers under Empire scheme. Province has much of interest and value for them. Education value of such a trip incalculable. Heartily commend scheme as means of strengthening bonds of Empire."

Premier Gardiner of Saskatchewan writes: "It will give the Government and Province of Saskatchewan great pleasure to have with us the group of fifty young people as Young Ambassadors of Empire—the plan should prove a great benefit."—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Did any one tip off the static that a fight broadcast is to take place to-night?

The Ku Klux Klan is to be a political issue in the Saskatchewan election. So much the worse for Saskatchewan.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, July 26. — (Canadian Press). —Reports of crop conditions above par both side of the Canadian line, did much toward bringing about lower prices yesterday for wheat. On the other hand, broadening out of corn export business helped to turn corn values upgrade.

Wheat finished weak, 1c to 1½c net lower; corn at ¾c to 1⅛c advance; oats ⅝c off to ½c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

Offerings of future deliveries of wheat in the Chicago market yesterday proved to be too much for the demand, which was only of limited volume except at the outset. The early strength came from the fact that Liverpool quotations were higher than had been looked for. Bulges in prices here, however, met with liberal selling from the Northwest and from the southwest as well, and initial gains were soon more than counterbalanced, although Liverpool dispatches said demand abroad was improving and that the carry over of wheat in Europe at the end of July promised to be less than usual.

Notwithstanding that export purchasers of North American wheat yesterday totaled 1,000,000 bushels, wheat values here closed at about the day's bottom level, authoritative crop summaries in circulation said that besides the fact that spring wheat field conditions were above par both south and north of the Canadian boundary, the outlook was for a high quality yield. Good weather hereafter was the sole requisite mentioned. Meanwhile, heavy marketing of winter wheat southwest was reported, with quality good although high moisture content appeared general.

With corn bulls seeming to have the Chicago July market situation well in hand, corn prices today tended upward. Special stimulus was received from increasing export purchases and from talk current that Argentina cannot go on much longer shipping corn at the present rate. European requirements, it was asserted, are now so large that further supplies from the United States will be a necessity. In oats, as well as in corn, an outstanding feature was difficulty experienced on the part of would-be buyers of July.

Provisions averaged a little higher in price, sympathizing with higher quotations on hogs.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., July 26. — (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

Demand $4.86 3-5.
Cables $4.86 5-32.

TORONTO, July 26. — Trade opened fairly active, with the best butcher offerings picked up at steady to firm prices. There were about 300 cattle carried over from yesterday, but with the moderate run of fresh cattle there was no crowding, and all grades were moving out freely to a good clean-up for over the week-end.

The only weak spot, if there was any weakening at all, was in the case of poorly finished cattle that are still in the feeding stage, and could have been left on grass a few weeks longer.

Calves steady for choice quality, but easy for heavy roughs and grassers.

Lambs steady.

Hogs firm and 25c higher asked at $12.50 f.o.b. selects.

Choice butcher steers and heifers, all weights, in good demand at $11.00 to $11.75; fancy, $12.00; medium, $8.50 to $9.50.

Choice fat cows, $8.50 to $8.75, but general run of poor quality grassers from $6.50 to $7.50.

Calves steady at 14c to 15c for choice.

Spring lambs steady at 15c to 16c for fancy; good to choice, 11c to 13c.

Hogs, 25c higher at $12.50 f.o.b. selects.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., July 26. — (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain yesterday was less active than the previous one which was attributed to the fact that English importers were not disposed to pay the advanced prices asked over night and only a moderate amount of business was worked in wheat and oats.

There was some demand from exporters for grain in the local market and sales of tough No. 3 wheat made at AC. I.F. price, while tough No. 2 Canadian Western oats sold at 7c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, and No. 3 Canadian Western at 6c over C.I.F. Montreay. There was also a fair demand for Manitoba No. 6 wheat and sales of 40,000 bushels were made of which half was for export account and the balance for domestic consumption. A fair trade was done in American No. 2 commercial yellow corn for local account at $1.10, and Argentine corn at $1.09 per bushel, ex-store. The market for oats was again weaker and prices were reduced 1c per bushel.

There were no new developments in the local flour situation, prices for spring wheat grades being maintained, but the volume of the business for local and country account showed no improvement. The demand for winter wheat flour was limited and prices were unchanged. There continues to be a steady inquiry from American buyers for $3.80 per bushel, ex-track, to arrive.

The undertone to the butter market was firm owing to the fact that holders are not disposed to liquidate to an extent at the present level of prices. There was no marked improvement in the demands as buyers show little disposition to provide for future requirements at present and in consequence the bulk of the sales were confined to 100 and 200 package lots and smaller quantities. The receipts were 28 packages.

The foreign demand for cheese here was again of a limited character, but on the other hand there was increased inquiry from spot buyers for supplies and a moderate amount of business was done.

The receipts were 4,086 boxes.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, July 26.—There was a slightly firmer feeling in the local wholesale market yesterday. While quotations were unchanged, an advance of ½c. per pound was offered in some quarters.

At Chicago butter ruled barely steady at unchanged listings, with trading generally quiet, as most buyers displayed little interest. The centralized car market was quiet and barely steady.

A somewhat steadier tone is apparent on Canadian egg markets. This is especially apparent on the grade of extras. The local situation is holding steady. Prices are unchanged. Dealers are quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered, cases returned, extras, 34 to 35c.; firsts, 31 to 32c.; seconds, 24 to 26c.

At Montreal the situation is steady and unchanged with a good demand for fresh extras. Eggs are jobbing on spot at extras, 39c.; firsts 34c.; seconds, 30c.

GOD'S MINUTE.

O how love I Thy law! It is my meditation all the day. Thou, through Thy commandments hast made me wiser than mine enemies: for they are ever with me. I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep Thy word. I have not departed from Thy judgments: for Thou hast taught me.—Ps. 119: 97-98; 101-102.

* * *

Our Father in Heaven, we thank Thee for the blessings of another day. Thy mercy is great toward us. May the sense of Thy presence be realized in each hour, and in the performance of every duty. We thank Thee for Thy word, a lamp to our feet, a guide to our path. Reveal Thy will to us through it, and enlighten us by Thy Holy Spirit, we pray Thee in Jesus' Name, Almighty God! before Whom every knee must bow, we pray Thee on behalf of those who in Christian countries, are living without Thee, in rebellion against Thee, and bowing down their lives to worship according to the work of man, or any temptation of the evil one. Prosper, we pray Thee, the efforts of Thy servants who are "set apart" for the "ministry of the Word," and especially of those who are being used to let the light shine in the darkness of heathendom. Hear us as we pray on behalf of suffering humanity! Bless the innocent who suffer with the guilty, and grant us all Thy peace this day, In Jesus' Name. Amen.

AIRPORTS.

Editor Examiner:

In view of the rapidly developing activity in air transportation, does it not seem advisable that our City Council should take present action to provide the necessary facilities for local encouragement of this feature of commercial enterprise.

The necessary land area need not exceed sixty acres, while forty acres would meet the requirements if properly laid out. The cost of putting in order together with the usual conveniences would not amount to any important investment. Other cities of population are moving speedily to meet the demand and will undoubtedly reap the benefit which is surely to accrue in the very near future.

KRASSIN ON WAY TO RESCUE SHIP

Russian Icebreaker Rushes to Rescue German Tourist Ship.

MOSCOW, July 26 (Associated Press). — The Tass News Agency correspondent aboard the icebreaker Krassin radioe dat 5.20 p.m. yesterday that the Krassin was hearing SOS calls from the German steamer Monte Cervantes, with 1,500 passengers aboard. The Krassin had put about and was heading for Bell Sound, Spitsbergen, from where the signals are believed to have come.

The Monte Cervantes, a German motor ship, left Hamburg on July 7 for Bolholmen, Norway, presumably with a tourist passenger list. Bell Sound is on the west coast of West Spitsbergen, less than 100 miles to the south of King's Bay.

The icebreaker Krassin was last reported preparing to undergo repairs at King's Bay preparatory to a search for the missing members of the Italia's crew and the missing Amundsen-Ghilbaud group.

POWERFUL RADIO FOUND IN QUEBEC

Young Russian Has Been in Communication With Europe On Stolen Set.

QUEBEC, July 25.—Hidden in a shabby street here among poverty-stricken surroundings, has been found what is described as the most powerful radio set in America, the machine being in the possession of a 21-year-old Russian. With this set Arsene Nelna is said to have been in communication with European capitals for the last two years, and what he talked about, and why, may make a very interesting case with far-reaching international complications. The machine, which was stolen, has been seized, and both the operator and his father are in jail.

The powerful radio is called a "Kolster Decremeter," and Nelna admits taking it from the Marconi Company, where he was employed as an operator. The company has no hesitation in describing him as one of the best operators in the business. Yet he left this highly paid work to accept the unremunerative and arduous job of ordinary laborer. The fact that the humble little home in Sillery Cove should house a $700 machine further entangles Nelna and his 64-year-old father in an undesirable web. Inasmuch as 50 pounds of dynamite and several boxes of detonators were found in his possession, police say, and that it is also alleged that firearms were located on the premises, some rather absorbing developments are likely.

This Decremeter is used by the Marconi Company alone, and it is the last word in telegraphy and wireless telephony. With this machine, it is stated, Nelna has been talking to Paris, Petrograd, Berlin and London every day for several years. What these messages are may lead to startling discoveries.

The father and son are employed by the National Battlefields Commission. They are without means, and admit to being deeply in debt. The apparatus was discovered following widespread complaints that mysterious interference both in Canada and the United States was occurring from time to time. The waves were tracked to Quebec district, and finally to the house in Sillery Cove. The machine was first seized, and when it was learned the parts were stolen, the owners were arrested.

Nelna junior was educated in Quebec and is an accomplished linguist. He has been in Quebec 19 of his 21 years.

Vessels Which Entered Fishermen's International Race Seemed Unlucky.

NOT ONE LEFT

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 26. — (Canadian Press).—Loss of the fishing schooner Henry Ford last month off the west coast of Newfoundland completed the work of the jinx which has dogged United States contenders for international racing honors and leaves the Halifax schooner Bluenose the undisputed champion of the North Atlantic fishing fleets. The Henry Ford went aground on Indreshoal while on a halibut fishing trip and has been reported a total loss. Her crew was saved.

The other United States contenders for the International Fishermen's Cup which have gone to their doom since the races were inaugurated in 1920 for the purpose of improving the type of fishing vessels used, were the Columbia, Esperanto, Puritan and Elizabeth Howard.

Loss of the Columbia was the most tragic of the disasters. She sailed for the fishing grounds in July of 1927, never to return to port. It is believed she foundered in the storm of August 24 of that year, when severe losses to shipping were suffered.

In June, 1921, the Gloucester schooner Esperanto, which had defeated the Canadian schooner Delawana to win the international cup, went to her doom in the treacherous surf of Sable Island, but her crew was rescued.

Gloucester men built the Puritan, intending to match her against the Canadians, but even before she was launched, seers of the waterfront knew she would never race. Her doom was sealed by one of the old superstitions of the sea when one of her hatches overturned. She left the stocks in April 1922 and two months later was in the "graveyard of the Atlantic," having struck on the north west bar of Sable Island, almost at the spot where the Esperanto was wrecked.

It was following loss of the uritan that Gloucester built the Henry Ford. Her ill luck began an hour after she was launched when she grounded on a sandbar at the mouth of the Essex River, where her hull pounded for a week before she could be pulled off, repaired and made ready for fishing.

The jinx went aboard the Elizabeth Howard, smartest of all the schooners that figured in the fishermen's contests, during the elimination races off here in 1922, when she lost her topmast in one trial and narrowly escaped collision with a destroyer in another. A year later, November 1923, this graceful craft was lost off Porter's Island, Nova Scotia.

All the schooners had other mishaps than those which ended their careers. The Columbia was rammed by a French trawler on her second trip to the Grand Banks and narrowlly escaped sinking. She was repaired at St. Pierre, but the delay prevented her competing for the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy, sailed for in connection with Gloucester's 300th anniversary celebration.

The Canadians have not escaped the jinx. During the elimination races at Halifax the first year of the contests the captain of one of the contenders fell overboard and was drowned, and during the first international race at Halifax one of the owners of the Deleware died suddenly. As the Bluenose was preparing to sail for home after the Gloucester series of 1922, a member of her crew fell from a dock to his death.

A sailing vessel, with sharp bow, built and rigged for the utmost speed, is known as a clipper.

CAVAN MINISTER BEGINS PASTORATE

Rev. F. Carpenter Preaches First Sermon to His New People.

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAVAN, July 25.—The Rev. F. Carpenter, the new pastor of the Cavan circuit, preached at the three appointments, Mount Pleasant, Ebenezer and Cavan on Sunday for the first time.

Mr. Carpenter, Mrs. Carpenter, son and daughter motored from British Columbia.

At Cavan appointment on Sunday evening Mr. Carpenter took as his scripture lesson, John 20: 19-29. His text was the words of Jesus spoken in the upper room on the first day of the week, "Peace be unto you" and he breathed upon them the Holy Ghost. He spoke of the incident in Christ's ministry when the disciples were on the sea of Galilee and were afraid because of the storm, and Jesus stilled the waves and lessened the terrors of the storm just in the same way "in the storms of life". Jesus is ever ready to speak peace to those who seek Him. There are two ways to discover and retain peace, subjective and objective. Subjective to the will of God. Objective, Take up thy cross and follow me.

We are to draw upon the storehouse of spiritual strength and grace. As he developed his subject he told and illustrated the wonderful love and peace which awaits the Christian if he avails himself of the wonderful promises of God. "Let not your heart be troubled. You believe in God, believe also in me. God waits to breathe on all." The choir sang "The Old Rugged Cross" Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. M. Carr sang the verses of "He Hideth My Soul" as a duet, and the choir joined in the chorus.

Mr. Carter spent twenty-three years in British Columbia but Ontario is his native province.

NEW CORN BORER FOUND IN STATES

Larger Species Believed as Dangerous as European Pest.

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., July 26.—A new type of corn borer, believed to be as dangerous as the one now being fought by both the State and Federal Government, has been found in this territory by several farmers, after they discovered that their corn crops were being destroyed.

The worm is similar in many respects to that of the well-known European corn borer, but larger in size. Instead of eating through the heart of the corn stalk, as the corn borer, it cuts the stalks under the ground, causing them to break off and die.

State officials have been notified and specimens have been sent to Washington. Officials claim that they do not know the name of the new worm. The worms have been reported in two sections of Cumberland and Franklin counties.

HUCKLEBERRIES ARE PLENTIFUL

Many People Are Going to Burleigh Falls on "Berrying" Excursions.

PLENTY LEFT

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAULTAIN, July 26—There is an excellent crop of huckleberries and raspberries this year. Many cars from distant points have been noticed bringing groups of people for the purpose of "berrying." The huckleberries are plentiful in large patches on the Burleigh rocks, and one need not go very far from the road in order to find them. There is to be found a large quantity of raspberries at the head of the twin hills on the Burleigh road, and also about one-half mile below the lower school-house. While many have already taken advantage of the fruit present at these places, there are still many berries left, both ripe and unripe, which implies that there will be no dearth this year.

HEALTH OFFICIALS COMBAT ANAEMIA

Plan Free Distribution of Liver Extract To Needy Sufferers.

TORONTO, July 26—Free distribution of the watery extract of liver as a cure for pernicious anaemia is the high mark in public health advancement at which the Ontario Department of Health, directed by Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey is aiming these days.

"It's a big problem," said Dr. Godfrey yesterday, "but we're not scared to tackle it. We spend $60,000 a year on free insulin. We distribute all kinds of vaccines and sera free of charge. It has always been my policy that no person shall die in this Ontario of ours just because he or she hasn't the price to pay for the required cure. We may have to go slow for a while in respect of distribution of the liver extract, but we're going to put it across, sooner or later."

Survey too Be Undertaken

As the first step toward the objective he and his departmental colleagues have in mind, Dr. Godfrey announced that a survey of all pernicious anaemia cases in the Province would be undertaken this fall, circumstances permitting, or by next summer at the latest.

"We want to see where we're at first," he declared. "We want to get a line on how many patients we will have to supply."

At the present time, according to Dr. Godfrey, all watery extract of liver sold in Ontario is dispensed and distributed by the Connaught Laboratories. In the experimental stages the extract was supplied free to doctors and hospitals for treatment of patients on whom accurate clinical charts were kept. That policy for various reasons has now been discontinued. The extract is now sold at $3 a six-ounce bottle. This, while no more than actual cost, represents, in the Minister of Health's opinion, a case of "too much for any poor person," especially when the treatment of any mild case, he states, ranges from one to two ounces of the precious fluid a day. For that very reason he is now at work on his program of free distribution.

Frowns on "High Prices"

Dr. Godfrey is inclined to look with considerable disfavor on the "high prices" demanded by purveyors for liver at the present time. "The demand naturally has raised prices," he states, "but it would appear that some purveyors are out for abnormal boosts."

While the Connaught Laboratories are well stocked with the extract right now, Dr. Godfrey is taking no chances on any let-up in the future. Hon Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, is co-operating with him in this regard to the extent o turning over to the laboratories the livers of all cows and hogs slaughtered at the Provincial Abattoir at Guelph. Upward of 50 cattle are killed in this institution weekly. Their indirect contribution to the laboratories will not only aid materially in maintaining the present output of the extract, but should keep down any increase cost of manufacture that might result if purveyors' supplies alone had to se relied upon.

Dr. Godfrey is a staunch believer in the administration of the Connaught Laboratories, as he is in the curative powers of the liver extract that they are turning out. "A silent, efficient administration," he says. "The best on the continent. They go out and produce the goods, and don't talk about it."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

7-24 Bedtime Story

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE GREEN BOWER

Baby Bunty wanted, very much, the cute little doll house which the dandelion flower had pointed out to her up in a tree. But without a ladder the little orphan rabbit could not get the doll house down.

Uncle Wiggily, who had hopped along when the little rabbit child was looking for a ladder, to use in climbing up in the tree, had said there was one hidden near by.

"It must be a hard puzzle, that hidden ladder, when I can't see it," said Bunty after looking as hard as she could. "I guess I'll give up." But just then, all of a sudden, she saw where the ladder was hidden. It was really part of the fence at the right side of the fairy house in last night's puzzle picture.

"Oh, now I can climb up and get orphan bunny. But when she had placed the ladder against the tree and was climbing up to the branch on which the doll house rested, all of a quickness, out of the small, round door flew a little bird.

"Are you trying to get my little babies?" chirped the bird.

"Oh no! I wouldn't do such a thing!" exclaimed Bunty. "I just climbed up Uncle Wiggily's ladder to take down this doll house for my little rubber child."

"Doll house!" chattered the small bird. "This is my house! I am Mrs. Wren. I laid my eggs in this house of bark and hatched out my little birds and now you climb up here and say this is your doll house!"

"I didn't say it was my doll house, if you please," spoke Bunty.

"It's all my fault!" called the dandelion flower in the fence corner. "Bunty came to see me and I pointed out the bark house and said she might have you were living there, Mrs. Wren. Excuse me!"

"All right, I'll excuse you!" chattered the funny little wren bird lady; "This place does look like a doll house," she went on. "A lady who loves birds had this house made of bark, and fastened up in the tree for me."

Soon they came to the brook.

"How did you know it was for you?" asked Uncle Wiggily who stood on the ground holding the ladder so Bunty would not fall.

"Because she had such a small front door made in the bark house," was the answer. "Except humming birds, we wrens are almost the smallest birds in the world. And we only live in houses with little front doors. That is so none of the large birds can come in to take our eggs. I'm sorry, Bunty, that this isn't a doll house," chattered Mrs. Wren, "but it is my home."

"And I wouldn't dream of taking it from you," said the little rabbit girl. "I'll find another house for my rubber doll."

So she and Uncle Wiggily laid the ladder near the fairy house fence, and then, having called good-bye to the dandelion and Mrs. Wren, they hopped on over the fields and through the woods. Soon they came to the brook.

"Oh, what a cute little green bower!" exclaimed Bunty pointing to what seemed to be a tiny house, made of water lily leaves near the edge of the brook. The house was shaped like half a muskmelon turned upside down.

"Maybe I could have that for a doll house," said Bunty.

"Maybe," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "But first we had better see if there is anyone living in it."

They hopped closer to the green bower and, to their surprise, they heard voices coming from it.

"Here he comes now!" croaked one voice.

"He's just in time!" croaked another.

"Oh, they must be Bad Chaps hiding here waiting for you," whispered Baby Bunty. "Bad Chaps in the green bower. Quick, Uncle Wig, think of a hard puzzle for them to do so they won't nibble you."

So Uncle Wiggily drew, on a board, green lily leaf, a picture like the one here. And when Baby Bunty, in a whisper, asked what it was the bunny uncle said:

"It is a puzzle of three things you need in school." Then he and Bunty waited to see who was in the green bower.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE PLACE TO GO

It isn't hard to pick a place
An evening to spend,
For there's a rule to fit the case,
Whatever you attend.
Yes, by whatever name they call
A restaurant or show,
The place to go is one where all
The family can go.

That doesn't mean you always take
The family along;
But there's a rule you ought to make
To keep from going wrong.
For, if you go alone or not,
One thing you ought to know:
To know you're going to a spot
The family can go.

I'm sure of this: I wouldn't care
To take a girl to dine,

To take a fellow's sister where
That fellow couldn't mine.
If there your mother's face would fall,
And something tells you so,
Then find some other place where all
The family can go.

CHAPTER VVX

A Promise.

She looked away from him and spoke as quietly as her fast-beating heart would permit.

"It is a great surprise to meet you here."

"A surprise to me also."

"I did not know you cared for this sort of Bohemian life."

"I don't. I detest it."

She tried to laugh, but the empty sound of it shocked her own ears, and she said again hastily:

"One can have a very good time here."

"Is that your experience?"

"It certainly is. I feel younger now than I have ever felt in all my life."

"I think you look it, too," Gaunt answered quietly.

"Oh, that is only because of my hair and the way I dress," she answered flippantly. "Fine feathers make fine birds,' you know."

The music stopped, and Gaunt's arm fell from her waist.

People were clapping insistently. Across the room Edith Gaunt was fluttering a huge painted fan and looking a little flushed and breathless.

"Lady Edith seems tired," Jennifer said.

Gaunt glanced across at his wife.

"As a matter of fact, she is looking remarkably well this evening," he answered.

"Oh!"

The band started again.

"Shall we go on?" Gaunt asked perfunctorily.

"No, I think I've danced enough for the moment; thank you." Jennifer went back to the table they had left, and he followed, sitting down beside her.

"I hear you are living in the same block of flats as Dolores," he said.

"Yes, I've been there for some time."

"You've quite given up the old place?"

"Months ago! It was too small and inconvenient."

She knew he was looking at her, and it took every ounce of will-power she possessed in order to turn and meet his eyes.

"Why do you look at me like that?" she asked lightly.

"I am looking to see if there is anything left in you of the woman I loved," Gaunt answered.

For a moment her eyes wavered; then she laughed.

"Nothing, thank goodness! Not an atom. I buried her with the past and all my foolish indiscretions. I think it's only during the last year that I have really understood what life means."

His eyes wandered around the room, and then came back to her face.

"And have these people here taught you?" he asked.

She flushed at the tone of his voice.

"These people are my friends. The only real friends I have ever known," she said resentfully. "I owe everything to Dolores and I love her."

"And I pity her with all my heart," he answered.

"Oh!"

"Pity her! Why, she is completely happy!" Jennifer protested.

"You think so? Perhaps our ideas of happiness differ."

"They used to be the same," Jennifer said, then caught her breath sharply. The words had slipped out before she was aware of it and her cheeks flamed.

Gaunt made no answer. He was sitting leaning a little forward, his hands loosely clasped between his knees, his eyes fixed on the floor.

Jennifer looked at him, and wondered what would happen if she were to slip a hand into his in the old way, or to touch his arm, or to give utterance to any one of the crowding impulses that were clamoring in her brain.

It seemed absurd that she might not touch him; that she might not say to him, "I'm so happy—so very happy to be with you once more."

She pulled up her wandering thoughts sternly. That way madness lay.

For a moment her eyes wavered; then she laughed.

"I think Lady Edith is very pretty," she said; and Gaunt answered: "I believe she is generally considered to be so."

Lady Edith rejoined them at that moment with her tall partner.

"I saw you dancing," she said. She laid a hand on Gaunt's shoulder. "Is Nicholas boring you, Miss Fry? Don't let him. Nicky, have you had a drink? Nicky's never worth talking to till he's had one bottle of champagne at least," she added plaintively.

Nicholas rose and gave her his chair.

"I'm so pleased to meet you," Edith Gaunt told Jennifer, effusively. "Dolores has spoken about you so much." She lowered her voice a little to ask: "Do tell me, are you going to marry that good-looking Mr. Chesney?"

Jennifer flushed and drew away.

"Oh, I know it sounds impudent," Edith Gaunt admitted frankly. "But I'm so interested. I love romance: engagements and so on; and I know that Buddy was mad about Malcolm Chesney before you came along, and I detest Buddy; don't you?"

"I think I'm rather sorry for her," Jennifer said painfully.

"Sorry for her!" Edith frowned and shrugged her bare shoulders. "She wants a good smacking," she said vigorously.

She turned her back on Jennifer and spoke to her husband.

"I want to dance with you, Nicholas. Nonsense!" as he began to protest. "You can't be tired; you've only just come."

They went away together and Chesney came to Jennifer.

"You're not enjoying yourself," he accused her.

"Not a bit," she smiled waveringly. "You know, I didn't really want to come."

"I know, and to tell you the truth, I'm rather 'fed' myself. We'll slip away directly."

"Dolores will be angry."

"Bother Dolores! If you're tired, that's all that matters."

Jennifer's lip quivered. She felt that if he insisted on being too concerned about her she would disgrace herself forever by a wild fit of weeping.

"What do you think of the Gaunts?" he asked abruptly.

"I've hardly had time to make up my mind yet," she answered.

Chesney lit a cigarette.

"She doesn't look capable of driving a man to drink, does she?" he asked.

"Who?"

"Lady Edith."

"Does she . . . does she drive a man to drink?" Jennifer asked rather dazedly.

"So they say. So Dolores says. They say that she and Gaunt lead a hell of a life."

"Oh!"

"Jealousy's at the bottom of it all, so Dolores says. Women with that colored hair are always jealous."

"Is that what your vast experience teaches you?" Jennifer asked cynically.

Chesney nodded.

"I know the type. If you notice, she's got her eye on Gaunt all the time. Feel rather sorry for her myself. It's so obvious."

"What is so obvious? You're talking in riddles."

"Why, that she's as keen as mustard on him, and that he can't tolerate her."

"Oh!" Jennifer had to steady her lips before she added: "I think you and Dolores are a couple of scandalmongers. I understood that Dolores called Lady Edith her friend."

"So she does."

"It's not much of a friendship if she can talk about her like that to you."

"Don't be unkind, Jennifer."

"I'm not; I'm only tired! I'm tired to death! . . ." There was an hysterical note in Jennifer's voice, and she put her hand to her mouth to hide its sudden passionate trembling. "Take me home, Malcolm. I hate this place! Take me home."

"My dear, of course!"

Chesney took her hand and drew it through his arm. Nobody seemed to notice them as he drew her from the room. He fetched her wrap from the cloakroom and sent a boy for a taxicab.

When they were driving away through the cool night Jennifer tried to apologize.

"I'm sorry I behaved like a fool. I don't know what it was, but a sort of horror of them all—of that place—seemed to come over me." She laughed shakily. "I hope I'm not going to be ill.

Chesney took her hand and raised it to his lips.

"You want someone to look after you; that's what it is. It's no life for a woman to live alone."

"I've always lived alone."

He put an arm round her; he gently pressed her head down to his shoulder.

"Let me take care of you. Let me make you happy."

Jennifer was crying quietly; she felt utterly worn out and helpless.

"You know I don't love you. I'm afraid some day you will be sorry."

He turned his face and kissed her hair.

"Does that mean . . . will you marry me, Jennifer?"

"Yes."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1928

Benefic aspects dominate in the planetary government for this day, according to astrology, which reads the sign as most encouraging to inhabitants of the Earth.

The morning should be stimulating and invigorating to those who are accustomed to wield power. They should begin work in an optimistic spirit.

Farmers and dealers in food stuffs may be inclined to be dissatisfied with market conditions today, but they are assured of large profits latre.

Those who till the soil are near to many changes in farming methods and owners of land should benefit.

This is an auspicious rule for those who are engaged in the strictly intellectual professions.

Writers as well as physicians, professors and lawyers should benefit while this configuration prevails.

This is a fortunate direction of the stars for financial transactions. The seers foretell that banks will be willing to lend money on liberal terms not hitherto extended to borrowers.

Protection to small merchants and to independent ventures not affiliated with great combinations of capital will be much discussed and may bring about novel privileges.

Books and their publishers should benefit from the planetary rule of this year and next. Many persons who have neglected literature will become enthusiastic readers, it is foretold.

New authors who revive ancient traditions and achieve lasting fame are to gain popularity.

Persons whose birthdate it is should enjoy the fulfillment of many ambitions relating to home and family.

Children born on this day probably will have unusual advantages all through their careers. The subjects of this sign usually travel much and make connections with celebrated persons.

J. B. HANLY OF MIDLAND

country shall find it in Canada," he declared, in conclusion.

The annual review, prepared and read by the secretary, proved a most comprehensive summary of the year's progress and of serious import was that section of it referring to the proposed visit of the Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, to the Trent Waterway. The section informed the meeting as follows:

Claims Not Recognized.

Up to the present time, though invitations to visit the municipalities of the Waterway have been issued to the Minister of Railways and Canals; though resolutions have been sent the Department calling for the early completion of the Waterway and at the same time suggesting an inspection trip by the Minister; though a meeting of the representatives of the Trent municipalities to consider this subject was held in Peterborough and latterly a second meeting was held in the Severn Division during the inspection of the marine railway sections by more than twenty Trent municipal representatives following which meeting resolutions were passed and later forwarded to the Minister of Railways and Canals urging the completion of the unfinished work in the Severn Division and repeating the oft-extended invitation to the Minister that he visit the Waterway municipalities; though the Press of Central Ontario has been most positive in support of the people's wishes in the matter; it is most regrettable that we must emphasize that which you may already know, namely, that the Government of Canada has not recognized our claims in any way nor is there any immediate likelihood of the Minister of Railways and Canals paying a visit to the Waterway, which would prove a delight and inspiration to him, as it has to others, and do much to dispel the belief held by too many ill-informed persons, that our Waterway is a "ditch," rather than the transportation system of magnitude which it has been since before the discovery of the American continent.

The knowledge that the Waterway is the second highest revenue producer of the Canadian canals; that it is the third lowest in ratio of expenditure to revenue; that it supplies close to 70,000 H.P. of electrical energy, with close to 40,000, possibly, undeveloped; that its broad expanses of rivers and lakes form a most attractive tourist section, accessible by road, rail and water (tourist money in Canada in 1927 amounting to over $200,000,000 as compared to $83,734,000 in 1920); that the number of pleasure craft utilizing the locks in 1927 amounted to 7,145, carrying at least 22,000 persons, indicating popular use of the Waterway; that commercial tonnage transported during the same period, products of the factory, farm, mine and forest, totalled 32,549 tons up and 25,824 tons down, does not seem to have impressed itself upon the minds of the people of Canada.

As to the preservation of game fish, it has been stated by reputable Waterway citizens that this spring, as in former years, the sudden raising and lowering of the Waterway levels during the spawning season has done more to despoil the lakes of fish than all the fishermen. It is also noted that game wardens have entirely too large areas to cover.

Minister's Visit.

The proposed visit of the Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, to the Trent Waterway with a view to completing the Severn River section of it, was among the leading topics of the discussion at the meeting. President Fowlds felt that though the Hon. Mr. Dunning's visit did not appear likely this year, the association should keep up its efforts to have the canal finished, as with sufficient public support the Government will eventually "put the thing over."

Secretary Stinson told of Mayor Roland Denne's having written to the Department personally and suggested a resolution of appreciation for the Mayor's action. This was accordingly adopted on the motion of M. H. McCallum of Penelon Falls.

Water Levels.

Regarding the changing of water levels and ice fishing, which have had disastrous results in the past, President Fowlds and others voiced their satisfaction at the Government's interest in the matter.

George Potts, proprietor of the Rockland Hotel, told of a 17-inch drop in Pigeon Lake during the past spawning season, which had meant that only about 10 per cent. of the spawn developed. He had complained to Mr. Killaly, superintendent of the Trent Canal, who had merely stated that the drop was necessary due to some repairs to a pier at Chemong Lodge, and would take place without regard to the effect on fish spawning.

Enforce Law.

R. C. Doxsee, of Hastings, felt that the law regarding the taking of small fish should be more intensely enforced. Mr. Potts felt that this was being pretty well adhered to, but that the number of wardens stationed on the waters was quite inadequate.

Referring back to the matter of water levels, the secretary read a communication from the Hon. Mr. Dunning, in which Mr. Killaly's stand was upheld—that the water level regulations are beneficial rather than detrimental to fish spawning.

"We do know that they make no attempt to regulate the waters in the Pigeon Lake district, regardless of reports of biologists and that this water area is used as a reservoir," said Mr. Potts.

"My suggestion is that the more northerly lakes be used as reservoirs instead of the Pigeon Lake group, letting the water down gradually. Of course this is not in accord with the present system, and it would cost a little to make the change."

Mr. McCallum felt that there was only one solution—up north, the lakes are let down very rapidly during the trout spawning season in October. If that water could be held all winter, the trout would be saved in the north country and the Tunge would be saved down here. Hawk Lake, Hall's Lake, and others will be depleted in a comparatively short time if this goes on.

Mr. Overend felt that the fish question was a mighty important one.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., suggested that a committee be appointed to interview the Minister and present the entire matter, answering his arguments as they arose, as the protection of fish is overwhelmingly important to the development of the tourist industry.

Accordingly the chairman appointed the following men a committee to wait on the Minister, either Federal or Provincial as they see fit, with a resolution from the association: F. D. Kerr, K.C., George H. Potts of Bobcaygeon, M. H. McCallum of Penelon Falls (chairman), Reeve W. R. Curry of Haliburton, and G. K. Overend of Orillia.

Carry Equipment.

Telegrams and acknowledgments were read by the secretary. Regarding a resolution of the association that power craft be licensed and required to carry certain life-saving equipment, a communication was read stating that a law making the latter requirements is already on the statutes.

Mr. Fraser felt that the regulations should be more rigidly enforced upon boat liveries, etc.

F. D. Kerr, K.C., moved that a resolution be sent to the Department, urging a more rigid enforcement of these regulations. This was adopted and will be acted upon.

The Iroquois Trail.

The treasurer's report proved an interesting article of information, indicating, as it did, a successful year financially, for the association. Following its adoption, a most important matter came up for discussion—the Iroquois Trail, which was well described in the annual review which read as follows on the matter:

Members of this association will recall that at the executive meeting held in Orillia, November 17th last, a resolution was passed, fathered by the Orillia Board of Trade, calling upon this association to undertake advancement of the idea of a scenic highway from the St. Lawrence River through the Trent district to join at Orillia with the "Blue Water Highway" and the highways to the north.

It should be gratifying to the members to learn that the "Iroquois Trail" as the scenic highway will be called, will be inaugurated this year. A booklet descriptive of the Trail will be published at the same time as the 1928-9 "Jubilee" edition of the Trent Waterway publication. In addition, the route of the "Trail," mapped out in collaboration with certain directors of the association familiar with the districts, will be "signed" next spring with distinctive road signs. This very scenic highway should not only direct the flow of the St. Lawrence River ferry-points traffic westwards through Central Ontario, but also divert to Central Ontario a large portion of the east-bound traffic from Sarnia and the "Blue Water Highway," also Provincial Highway No. 11, which connects with the now famous "Ferguson Highway."

Messrs. Overend, Moore, McCallum, Stinson and others outlined the routes chosen in the sections to which they had been assigned, to mark off routes which will lead directly or indirectly from the St. Lawrence, through to Midland and the Georgian Bay by way of the Blue Water Highway.

Navigation Blocked.

Speaking of the bridges over the narrows between Atherly and Orillia, Mr. Overend stated that the bridges over a navigable stream, were not opened and closed for the benefit of water traffic but were closed all day Sunday, much to the embarrassment of watercraft, especially tourists who have a set schedule to follow. Cards have been placed near the bridges and along the waterways saying that the bridges would not be opened for Sunday traffic, and Mr. Overend was of the opinion that the Dominion Government should be petitioned to have these regulations altered so that boats might get through at certain hours on Sundays during July and August. Mr. Stinson explained that according to Union rules, the bridge, if kept open for certain hours, would have to be kept open the twenty-four hours, necessitating several shifts but Messrs. Fraser and Overend were insistent that some action be taken. Their motion that a resolution be sent to the Department was adopted.

Election of Officers.

The nominating committee, comprising F. D. Kerr, K.C., George J. Overend of Orillia, and A. E. Bottum of Bobcaygeon, brought in its report, whereby several changes were made in the executive and board of directors, over last year. The 1928 officers are:

Honorary President—G. K. Fraser, of Burleigh Falls.

Hon. Vice-President—W. M. Fowlds, of Hastings.

President—J. B. Hanly, of Midland.

First Vice-President—J. W. Fraser, of Peterborough.

Second Vice-President—W. C. Moore of Bobcaygeon.

The directorate remains the same as that of last year, save that R. I. Moore, of Lindsay, replaces J. A. McCrea, of that place, and F. J. Hodges replaces C. P. Stocking, of Waubaushene.

The appointment of an official managing secretary, with executive powers beyond those of an ordinary secretary, was necessary and, accordingly, the meeting unanimously selected F. G. Stinson, of Peterborough. In accepting the office, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce voiced his willingness to assist the new executive in all possible ways. The matter of changing the association's name so that it would omit the word "development" was left in the hands of the new executive, as was the final arrangement for the Iroquois Trail.

Votes of thanks to the retiring president and officers, as well as to Mr. Moore, of Bobcaygeon, were unanimously responded to prior to the close of the meeting.

Thooris, connected with the French Athletic Federation is able to tell aspiring athletes just what sport they are best fitted for. Often, he says, an athlete of ideal physique lags behind in some sport where he could become a champion in another line.

JURY RECOMMENDS ERECTION OF SIGNS

Gordon Varcoe, of Lindsay, engineer in charge of the train, said he had not stopped at Campbellford station because he was driving a through freight from Lindsay to Belleville, with W. Potts as his fireman. When passing the station, which he said was 650 feet from the west end of the bridge, the train was moving at from twenty-five miles per hour. On approaching the yard limit, he had sounded the usual whistle signal a nd another for the crossing just west of the station itself. The bridge was for railway traffic only, he said, when asked by one of the jury.

Just as his train came out of the cut was when he had first noticed the people on the track, and he also saw a man signalling in a manner that meant to come ahead. He afterwards discovered that the man had been signalling to the woman and child on the bridge.

Used Full Force of Brakes.

As the train came on down the grade towards the station, he noticed that the woman and child were on the bridge and that they were not likely to get off in time. He applied his brakes with all their force and also used sand to increase the sliding friction. At the same time he leaned far out of the cab window and signalled to the woman to go back. She did not seem to understand, or else she did not see his signals, for she kept coming toward the approaching train. When the train came to a dead stop, the engineer's cab window was directly over the spot where the woman lit on the pavement. Had she stayed where she was when he first motioned to her, he said, she would have been all right.

Kerr—"You think she might have escaped had she stood still"

Varcoe—"Oh-h, yes. The train was going slower all the time. There were thirty-six cars of wheat, 2,700 tons weight, and the train had one hundred per cent. braking power. Besides, the sand added considerably to the friction."

The woman and child dropped from his side of the bridge and the mother did not once let go of her son, he said. She might have got away herself, but the little boy was very small.

"If I could have only got her to understand my signals, she would have been all right," Mr. Varcoe said. He was deeply affected by the accident and was excused from the room shortly after he had given his evidence. It also developed from unofficial circles, that Mrs. Varcoe is ill in Lindsay, and he was anxious to return to his home.

Fireman Saw People

W. Potts, Lindsay, identified himself as the fireman on the train that had caused the accident. He was on the left side of the cab, but saw the people when the train was some distance from them. He had been busy on the deck with his fires and did not see what happened.

that the engineer was applying his brakes heavily, but the driver had not passed any remarks to him. He just "Threw on the air."

This concluded the list of witnesses and Coroner Loucks asked if there were any present who could give further evidence. There was no response so the Crown Attorney rose to address the jury.

Inquest Compulsory

It was compulsory by law, said Mr. Kerr, to hold an inquest into any death caused by the railroad in this manner. It was also contrary to law to trespass on the property of a railroad even though the practice was carried out to a considerable extent in some places. It was his opinion that both the engineer and fireman had done all they possibly could to avoid the catastrophe and it was unfortunate that the woman had failed to understand the signals of the driver.

Mr. Kerr also pointed out that there was very little clearance at the place where the woman fell. The train, he thought, had been stopped in a remarkably short space of time, since it was a heavy train and the down grade would add to its momentum. It was a sad affair, a terribly sad affair, and yet it would not be fair to hold the living responsible for something which they could not...

Dr. Loucks, coroner, agreed with that the Crown had said, and the jury was allowed to retire. Ten minutes later they returned with a verdict exonerating Engineer Varcoe of all blame, and recommending that warning signs be placed at the ends of the bridge.

WEDDING BELLS

(Examiner Correspondence)

HUTT—WEBSTER.

LAKEFIELD, July 26. — A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, July 25, at 2.30, when Ida Caroline, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Webster, was united in marriage to George William Hutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hutt, of Kettleby, Ontario. Rev. W. J. Creighton performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pretty gown of king's blue georgette, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Premier roses and gypsophila. She wore a white gold wrist watch, the gift of the groom.

During the signing of the register the choir sang "Oh, Perfect Love." The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. W. Todd, to whom a pair of silver bud vases were presented by the bride.

Following the ceremony, luncheon was served at the bride's home on Reid street, at which only the immediate family were present.

Later in the afternoon the happy couple left for a short honeymoon in Port Hope, the bride travelling in turquois blue georgette, with hat to match, and navy tricotine coat with black satin scarf, and parchment shoes and hose.

On their return they will reside on Reid street, Lakefield.

The church was prettily decorated for the occasion by the choir, of which the bride had been a faithful and popular member. The combination of flowers, ferns and greenery was used to advantage in the scheme of decoration. The bride received a pleasant surprise on her wedding day by the unexpected arrival of her childhood friend, Miss Lottie Lemay, of Rochester, who is going to spend her holidays with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutt received a large number of handsome gifts, which are testimony of their popularity in the village.

OBITUARY

(Examiner Correspondence)

MRS. SARAH HAMBLIN.

Mrs. Sarah Hamblin's funeral was another very large one on Sunday afternoon. Her home was filled with people but there were many more outside than inside. In Rev. H. B. Herrington's absence Rev. Mr. Kemp conducted the services. Mrs. Hamblin was a member of Bethel church.

For many months her health was very poor, and though she was able to be up, there was grave danger of her passing away at any time. She bore her suffering with Christian patience and dearly loved to see her old friends.

The pall-bearers were six nephews, Messrs. Cephas Payne, Warren Payne, Arthur Hamblin, Fred Hamblin, George Hamblin and Percy Spence. Interment took place in Warsaw cemetery.

Within ten years this is the third funeral from that house, Jacob White died about ten years ago, some years later Mrs. White, and now her sister, Mrs. Hamblin.

JAMES J. NORTHCOTT

James J. Northcott died on July 24th, at the age of 62 years. He leaves to mourn their loss beside his loving wife, four daughters, Ella, Rhoda and Eva at home and Mrs. Frank Hendricks of Trenton.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on George street in Lakefield on Friday, July 27th, at 2.30 to the Lakefield Cemetery. The Rev. S. A. Kemp will be the officiating clergyman.

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, follow the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

IN YOUR summer or your week-end cottage, ironing with old-fashioned flat irons is not the easy operation that it is at home with the aid of an electric or gas iron. But time may be saved and a good deal of smoke and dirt left off the irons by standing them to heat in an old circular sandwich tin. The irons will get hot very quickly, and at the same time be protected from the smoke of the fire or oil stove.

* *

To keep the irons smooth while ironing, sprinkle a little kitchen cleanser on a cloth and rub the hot iron on it.

* *

When the butcher or the baker or a salesman calls at your door when your cake is in the oven and it gets a little scorched, on the top or bottom, grate over it lightly with a nutmeg-grater instead of using a knife. This leaves a smooth surface for frosting.

* *

"Magpie" toilettes in various black and white materials are very fashionable this summer, and there is a certain type of woman who never looks better than when she adopts this scheme. A particularly effective hat, designed to accompany an ensemble of black and white satin and white fox fur, has a crown of black summer-weight felt, with a wide brim of dead white organdie muslin, arranged in layers to give a drooping, uneven effect. This model while original and striking is not becoming to everyone, and the woman who wears it must be able to carry off the slightly bizarre effect.

* *

Sandwiches, while a very essential thing on our picnics, are sometimes rather difficult to make with something different. A number of simple fillings have come to my notice and prove to be very handy. One of them is to chop fine and mix together cold boiled ham, stuffed olives, celery and pecans. Combine with mayonnaise just before spreading on thin slices of white bread.

* *

Other simple fillings are, cream cheese with chopped ginger on graham bread; watercress and mayonnaise on white bread; chopped dates and walnuts on white bread; cream cheese and pineapple chopped fine on Boston brown bread.

* *

Peach jam on white bread makes a novelty sandwich for a party. Cut circles of bread. Use a doughnut cutter on half of them for the tops. Spread jam on the plain circles and cover with top that has been cut out so that the jam shows through in the centre.

* *

I heard a woman complaining lately about the wallpaper at the back of her sink always getting splashed. A piece of oilcloth, preferably white, is a good thing to tack up at the back of the sink, don't you think? But some people do not like to have anything on the wall so a mixture of one ounce of gum arabic, three ounces of glue, and a bar of soap dissolved in a quart of water, has been invented. Coat your wallpaper with it and you will find it most satisfactory.

* *

If you are entertaining a number of guests and serving ice cream and cake bake your cake in flat pans. Then cut into fancy shapes with cake cutters and ice in different colored frostings. It will be much more attractive than a layer cake and far easier to serve and eat.

* *

In a room with large windows which demands some original treatment, curtains of cream net with a border of colored flowers are particularly effective. Tulips, roses, daffodils or other blooms are woven into the plain net, and are as decorative as window boxes from the interior of the room.

* *

Do not throw away any orange or lemon peel, after using, but dry it in the oven after removing all the white part; grate the yellow part, or put it through the food chopper. This can be used for flavoring cakes, applesauce, pudding sauce, cake frosting, or whatever is desirous of flavoring. It gives a delicious taste.

* *

After making lemonade don't throw away the pips of the fruit, because they are dandy for cleaning discolored glass if they are used with salted water.

* *

Swimming suits in fine zephyr wool are now being cut with a low neck at the back and front. This will insure the line of tan to match up with the decolletage of the chiffon evening frock.

* *

Stylists are choosing the daisy, the simple field flower, to adorn the very smartest linen and organdy frocks to be seen in Peterborough stores. In their natural colorings they come singly or in bunches, as well as in their normal and also in exaggerated sizes.

* *

A farmer's wife not so very far away from here prepares mint sauce by a method handed down to her by a long line of country-born ancestresses.

She picks the mint while the dew is still on it, carefully washes and dries it, then chops to a powdery fineness sufficient of the leaves to make three tablespoonfuls. This is placed in a glass dish. A liberal pinch of salt is sprinkled over the mint, together with a heaped tablespoon of white sugar, and the mixture is very thoroughly stirred.

More stirring follows the addition of rather more than two tablespoons of best malt vinegar. The sauce is then placed on a stone shelf in the dairy, where it remains until dinner time, when she carefully adds to it two tablespoons of thick cream. The cream must be added gradually and the mixture stirred continuously or it will curdle.

* *

Many housewives do not know what to do with the green mint that flourishes in their gardens. Mint jelly, to be served with lamb, is excellent, and many of the cool summer drinks are made additionally attractive by a few sprigs or leaves of fragrant mint. If a stronger flavor is desired the leaves may be bruised and added to lemonade or light fruit-cups.

HERE'S HOW TO REDUCE

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE FOLLOWED ON FRIDAY

Tomorrow you are to take your usual morning exercises followed by a cold shower bath.

Breakfast: One egg (Prepared in any manner, except by frying.)
Three or four pieces of Melba Toast.
Small dish of one of the following stewed fruits:
Prunes, Raisins, Figs, or Apricots.

Sometime before lunch, take your usual morning walk, gradually increasing the distance as your strength permits.

Apples, Oranges, Grapefruit, Pineapple, or Sliced Tomatoes.
One glassful of water.

In the afternoon you should take your regular walk, which should be at least three miles. I do not know of any form of exercise which will be so beneficial to you in assisting weight reduction as walking long distances. Your vitality will increase steadily from day to day, and the walking will tend to harden your muscles, particularly of the thighs and buttocks, and reduce the superfluous weight in these sections, thereby producing a more graceful figure and better poise. Walk longer each day, and exercise more—and you will take the "avoir" out of avoirdupois.

Take your regular exercises, and add this one to your list:

LYING ON BACK:

7.—Arms over head—raise both arms and both legs together, at the same time keeping knees stiff and touching the legs as far down towards the feet as possible.

These exercises are to be followed by a cold shower bath.

Beef, mutton, chicken, turkey rabbit, or fresh fish (except salmon.)
Do not fry any of these foods—bake, broil, or boil.
Eat lean meats only. Do not use more than one-quarter of a pound of meat or an equal quantity of the other protein foods.

Prepare as already given, or the same as cooked carrots.
Salad of Celery or Lettuce.

With tomorrow's dinner, I am giving you a chance to choose the meat and non-starchy vegetables which you prefer.

These Weight-Reducing Articles will terminate in a few days, so I want you to learn how to combine your foods properly.

You will notice I have not given you any bread during this Reducing Contest, and, in fact, no starchy vegetable or food has been advised. If you have a tendency to be over-weight, it is a good plan to eliminate the starchy foods entirely.

You probably have not missed starches while following the well-balanced menus which I have given you each day. You have used plenty of vegetables, but they have all been of the non-starchy kind which contains only three to five per cent of starch. Grains and bread-stuff all contain about sixty per cent of starch, and are decidedly weight-producing. They contain no vital material which cannot be found in the foods I have been prescribing for you, so when you leave them out of your diet, you are not missing anything except the fat-forming elements.

MARION'S MAIL.

"Dear Marion:

I've been hearing so much talk lately about girls drinking and smoking in order to be popular and get a different date every night, that I'm just about sick of hearing about it and reading about it. Just the other day I met a former chum and she asked me why I never go to any of the parties and dances. The answer is just as plain as daylight—they can never enjoy themselves without the usual drinking and I am not the sort of girl who will humiliate herself that way or any other way.

It is true that some fellows (they do not deserve to be called men) want a girl who is a high flier, but do they marry that kind of girl? Not on a bet. How in the world can such a girl settle down when she is married? That restlessness will always be in her and she will want to be on the go all the time. And some of you girls who drink and smoke to beat the band have the grit to say that you want a clean-cut chap for a husband. If I were a man I wouldn't even look at you.

Some of you girls will condemn me and say I must be an old hag, but you are sadly mistaken. I am a stenographer still in my teens, and am earning $25 a week, and I have to keep my mind on business, too. I have just loads of pretty modern clothes, I dance all of the latest dances, and I just adore outdoor sports such as tennis, golf, rowing, and even playing baseball with my friends. And I have just oodles of friends—both boys and girls.

I go out three times a week with the most wonderful boy chum, and never yet has he remarked that I am slow or a wet blanket, but he does talk against the kind of girl who will drink and smoke to make herself known as a hot baby or a popular kid. Why put all the blame on the men? You'd be surprised how many nice young men there are, but you certainly won't get to know them if you act like a bunch of wild hoodlums.

If some of the young girls of the present day would only have a little more sense and enough backbone to stop drinking and petting we would have happier homes and less divorces. It is always the woman who pays, so why in the world, don't you girls wake up? Don't you realize that you are only making a fool of yourself?

A Good Girl."

That's really a stiff letter, "Good Girl." I wouldn't have had the nerve to write that in my column, and really and truly, I doubt whether it is justified when applied to Peterborough girls. There may be, as I have remarked before, a few morons in the community, but I would not like to think that your sweeping indictment is true. On the night of the twelfth I saw one instance—a girl under the influence of liquor being helped from a George street restaurant to a car. Not very nice, was it? But then there were hundreds of other girls out with boy friends that night, and not one of them had been drinking. And even I, old-fashioned though I may be, would not go so far as to label such a girl "Bad." You are very fortunate, "Good Girl," in having a position like yours, and a beau like yours, and pretty clothes, but it seems to me there is a parable somewhere about people being too self-righteous. Think it over.

The Art of Attraction

No. 9.

When a girl realizes that the time has come for a man to propose to her, and he is the sort of ordinary man who has been playing up beautifully during the several stages of the game, she sets the stage for the drama. She wears a pretty and appealing dress, not the sort of costume that might be calculated to stun a man with its grandeur, but something softly attractive. And she doesn't make up to any extent. If possible, she appears to be rather pale and pensive. She is quiet and just a little remote in her manner, and she speaks vaguely of going away somewhere for a long vacation or even of going to live in a new place. She tells him of some circumstances in her life at home or in her work at the office that have hurt her feelings and hints that she feels impelled to seek for comfort in some other situation or place. She may even try to weep a little. There are some men who simply can't resist a woman's tears. When he starts to comfort her, she slips her hand trustingly into his. Nine times out of ten, the next half hour sees the man in a new role, the role of the pursuer, trying quite successfully to persuade the sad little creature to marry him.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

EVE'S PUDDING.
(Sent by Mrs. E. R.)

One pound apples, two ounces butter, 2 ounces sugar, 1 egg, 2 ounces flour, 1 small teaspoon baking powder.

Method—Peel and cut up apples into small pieces and put in deep pie dish with sugar enough to sweeten and a little water. Then prepare mixture by beating sugar and butter to a cream and adding alternately beaten egg and flour; lastly baking powder. Put this mixture on top of apples and bake in a fairly hot oven till mixture is browned and set then put in cooler part of oven to finishing cooking apples. Serve either hot or cold.

TRAVEL-LOG.

ON THE RHEINGOLD EVPRESS

I am not the only tourist who, after traveling on European railways, has commented on the experience, "With a few notable exceptions, the least said the better." But a new era has come and Germany is well to the fore among those who will make rail travel an enjoyable thing. It was my good fortune the other day to catch the new Rheingold express which runs through the Rhine Valley from Holland to Switzerland. It is the last word in the luxury Rhine Valley from Holland to Switzerof travel. As there was a kitchen car to every two coaches, the passengers were served their meals in the passenger coaches, making unnecessary the toilsome journey to the dining car. The coaches are painted a bright violet with window frames in cream, and with roofs of silver grey. Revolving arm chairs have taken the place of the stiff seats, and the interior decorations are the work of leading German artists. The passenger is at liberty to choose the room that pleases him best, and what astonished me, was that the additional fare for all this additional comfort was only three marks or seventy-two cents in the first class, and but two marks or forty-eight cents in the second class. It is a daytime trip, and it is the best way to see the beautiful Rhine landscape.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE
By Mary Marshall.

The peacock silhouette is achieved in this black georgette frock by a train of the material trimmed with ruffles.

Women's clothes, they say, are becoming more and more feminine, yet it is from the proud, vainglorious peacock and not from his gentle peahen that fashion has borrowed her latest, smartest evening silhouette.

Personally I like this new peacock silhouette immensely. And though the frock adorned with one of these wide-spreading ruffled peacock trains is not quite so easy to wear as the simple, straight-line, short-skirted evening frocks of a season or so ago it is really much less of a burden than the frock made with a long bouffant skirt or one of those enormous bustle pouffs in the back that makes anything but a standing posture something of a problem. Save for the train itself the peacock frock is the same simple, short, easily fitting evening frock that we have been accustomed to.

Another thing in its favor is that it really is original. Usually so-called new silhouettes are merely revivals of something that has gone before. The bustle silhouette borrows from the fashions of 1880 just as the long bouffant skirts borrow from 1860. There have been Empire and Directoire silhouettes, Grecian silhouettes and Egyptian silhouettes. But this type of frock with its effect of graceful, sweeping motion is really without precedent in the history of costume.

The frock shown in the sketch is of black georgette and the flaring train was made without any sort of stiffening. Sometimes such ruffles are mounted on a foundation of light crinoline and in some of the new frocks "starched" chiffon is used for the flares and ruffles with unstarched chiffon for the rest of the frock.

FORGETS BABY LEAVING TRAIN

Mother Wired Next Station and had Infant Returned.

RECORD CASE.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 17 (CP).—Men are just as careless as women about the things they leave behind them on the trains, according to the record of lost and found articles, kept at the station, but, without a doubt, the strangest and most valuable article ever left on a train by a woman in this locality was a baby. A young mother was traveling with four small children, so she dressed the baby first and put him on another seat while she put the coats and hats on the other children. They were tired and cross, so she had a difficult time getting them all onto the station platform and assembling her luggage and not until the train was pulling out, did she remember the baby. A telegraph was sent to the next station where the baby was taken off the train and safely returned to his distracted mother.

TRANSPARENT HEM.

A silver and green brocaded period frock has silver lace giving it a wide transparent hem.

A message to young Mothers

FOR THE BABY who cannot be breast-fed the best food, the reliable food is Eagle Brand Condensed Milk. It is absolutely pure milk from inspected herds, combined with pure sugar—nothing else added. It is safe, uniform in strength and quality, easily digested and simple to prepare. Hundreds of thousands of bottle-fed babies have been successfully reared on it since 1857.

After Trying in Vain—

"I feel it my duty as a mother to recommend Eagle Brand. Three months after my baby was born doctor ordered me to take him off the breast, instructing me to use several different foods. After trying in vain, with Baby's health failing, I was advised to try Eagle Brand Condensed Milk. After the first few bottles we noticed a vast improvement. I entered my Baby in a Baby Contest and he took first prize for being the most perfect baby. He is now 2½ years old and weighs 33 lbs.
Mrs. G., Toronto"

No Other Food Would Agree

"No other food would agree with my baby and while in the midst of a dose of double pneumonia we started him on your famous Eagle Brand and now he is a fine, rosy-cheeked boy of 15 lbs. at eight months and so full of life I hardly know what do with him.
Mrs. C., Ontario"

Investigation TO Clear Up Mystery Of Troop Train Crash

TOO MANY ORDERS ISSUED TO CREW OF TROOP TRAIN SAYS REPORT GIVEN TO-DAY

Twelve Minutes Would Have Allowed Freight To Pull Into Siding.

INQUIRIES ORDERED.

Company Holding Investigation To-day—Coroner's Inquest Called For To-morrow.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., July 26. — (Special to The Examiner).—The responsibility for the troop train wreck at Sand Point yesterday will be investigated this afternoon by the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The entire crews of both the troop train and the freight will be interrogated but the hearing will be a private one. It will be a company investigation. The judicial enquiry into the wreck will be the inquest to be held at Renfrew to-morrow by the coroner.

Two men died in the wreck and the coroner's jury will be asked to ascertain whether they came to death by misadventure, by human error, or by human negligence. The evidence taken at to-day's inquiry will have a bearing on the placing of the responsibility by the coroner's jury. The company investigation will hold the balance as between the train crew of the troop train and of the freight and of the despatchers with both.

It is now definitely known that the troop train was at least twelve minutes ahead of schedule. Had it been exactly on time at Sand Point the freight could have made the siding there. The place where the wreck took place is within a stone's throw of the Sand Point switch and five minutes would have been ample time for the freight crew to have swung in off the main line leaving an ample time margin for the troop train. The crew of the troop train knew of the presence of the freight on the line, and as it was a scheduled train they were evidently on the lookout, for they brought their train almost to a stop before the impact.

The crew of the freight expected to take the siding at Sand Point as the troop train was not to reach Sand Point until twelve minutes later than it actually did. There is a double tangent curve just west of Sand Point which prevented the freight from seeing the troop train until it was too late to stop. The precaution of the troop train engineer in slowing down prevented a far greater tragedy, but there is the question as to why he pulled out past Sand Point ahead of schedule.

Passenger trains always have the right-of-way over freights, but that venture past Sand Point was on the responsibility of the troop train crew. While the engineers starts and stops his train and controls his speed, responsibility is shared equally by the conductor and to some extent by the rest of the train crew.

The freight is said to have been quite justified in making for Sand Point, as its crew knew the troop train was somewhere down the line, but considered it to be twelve minutes east of Sand Point. The fact that there was no operator at Sand Point Station is said to have no bearing on the situation, as the troop train crew had its orders right through. Sand Point might have been able to check up and flag the troop train, but at 6 a.m. there was nobody around and the troop train went straight through.

Story That Engineer Leaped To Safety Is Strongly Denied

HAD CLEAR RECORD.

Dispatcher at Arnprior Said To Have Given Clear Signal.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., July 26 (Special to The Examiner).—A multiplicity of train orders is said to have been in reality responsible for the troop train wreck at Sand Point yesterday. From various sources The Examiner understands that several orders were given to the crew of the troop train and that confusion arose as between the running schedule and train orders. The dispatcher at Arnprior, it is said, gave the troop train a high ball to go ahead, and out they went without closely checking the latest orders that had been given them.

This morning William Kenny, engineer of the troop train, is in a condition of nervous collapse with a physician in attendance. He has been 25 years in the service and with the exception of a mishap some years ago with a work train which had got on the main track, his record is clear. Never before has fatality ridden by his side, and the death of Corporal Cullinan and Trooper Gordon has cracked his nerve and reduced him to a man in agony.

Instead of his usual fireman, Kenny had an Ottawa fireman with him, and railway men think this may have been in some measure responsible for the failure to closely check the train. The fact, too, that the Arnprior dispatcher is said to have signalled them to go ahead disarmed Kenny's doubts as to a clear line ahead. At Sand Point his doubts are said to have returned and he thought of waiting for the freight he knew was somewhere on the line coming towards him. Instead of waiting he went ahead and was hardly past the outer switch when the freight came round the curve.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR GRITS

AURORA, July 25.—All the principal winners at a flower show held here are Grits. By an odd coincidence, members of the Liberal party made a clean sweep with their fragrant garden products.

Whether the Liberals have been given better flowers by a bountiful Ceres because she favors that party, or whether the Conservatives are so busy with their politics that they have no time for their gardens, is considered locally a question that will have to go unanswered.

JUST GRADUATED.

Had Apparently Been Showing His Prowess To His Fiancee.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (Special to The Examiner).—While dropping a note from an airplane to his fiancee, Miss Dorothy Fallis, at Wasaga Beach, about 10 o'clock this morning, Ralph Brown, 23 years old, of Winnipeg, Camp Borden pilot, is believed to have struck an air pocket and crashed to his death when the machine collided with a tall pine tree.

The wreckage was strewn forty yards from the spot where the young pilot crashed. The body was terribly mutilated, and he died, without regaining consciousness, 15 minutes after being extricated from the debris.

Guests at the Capstan Inn, 300 yards from the spot, witnessed the tragedy. Eye-witnesses said he seemed to have been "stunting" before the crash. Then, suddenly, the plane shot downward. He carried a parachute, but due to the low altitude from which the plane dived, had no chance to use it.

Had he been flying higher, witnesses said, a landing might have been made in the shallow water of the beach 100 yards beyond the spot where the crash occurred.

Young Brown had received his pilot's certificate at Camp Borden but three days ago.

The first to reach the side of the dying man was Dr. W. E. Tindale, 711 Dovercourt Road, Toronto, who was just about to enter his motor car. The injured pilot was carried into a nearby house, but was past human aid.

Dr. J. B. H. McClinton, of Midland, coroner, who took the remains in charge, said he would order an inquest to determine if the young man had been fully qualified to handle the machine and if it was serviceable.

The plane was a single control machine, from the airdrome at Camp Borden, Canadian air force training base. Wing Commander Troile of Camp Borden, upon being notified of the tragedy, at once flew to Wasaga.

SPIRITUALISM ENDANGERED BY MAGISTRATE'S DECISION IN LONDON POLICE COURT

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Associates To Make Protest.

TELLING FORTUNES ?

Mrs. Cantlon Advised To Get Rid of White Chief and Pets.

(Special Cable to The Peterborough Examiner and the Toronto Star—Copyright).

LONDON, July 26.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and other spiritualists are protesting that psychical research is put legally out of business by the Magistrate's decision in the Westminster Police Court. A charge of fortune telling was made against Mrs. Cantlon, an alleged medium, and of aiding and abetting against Miss Mercy Phillimore, secretary of the London Spiritualist Alliance, of which Conan Doyle is president. The Magistrate found both defendants guilty, but dismissed the charges under the Probation of the Offenders Act, and ordered d efendants to pay costs.

Mrs. Cantlon, according to her own statement, was under the control of a spirit called the White Chief, who existed four centuries ago and belonged to the Sioux tribe. The White Chief had a squaw and spoke broken English and sometimes asked the time of day. It was not always peracious and had many queer characteristics.

The Magistrate said: "I gave Mrs. Cantlon the benefit of the doubt in my mind, and I assume that on these three occasions she did believe she was under the control of this chief, his black dog, white rabbit and other things that belonged to him, but I should strongly advise her to get rid of this disembodied spirit who wants to know the time for lunch and tea."

The importance of the Magistrate's decision lies in the fact that spiritualists are found to employ mediums, and though they don't want the mediums to tell fortunes, the mediums have to say what the spirits tell them to say when they pass under control, and if all who organize seances, can be prosecuted for aiding and abetting fortune telling, the whole spiritualist movement is in danger.

Conan Doyle said yesterday plans are being formed to meet the new legal situation.

Ship In No Danger.

OSLO, July 26 (Canadian Press).—A wireless message picked up by stations on the north coast of Norway to-day said that the German motor ship Monte Cervantes was receiving assistance from the Russian ice-breaker Krassin. The vessel was at Bell Island, Spitzbergen, and in no immediate danger. The Krassin, which was about to go to Norway for repairs, picked up S.O.S. calls from the vessel yesterday and went to its aid.

The Monte Cervantes, with passengers aboard, struck a rock and water entered its bulk heads. The work of pumping these out was under way to-day.

In the afternoon, a brief program of sports was run off, followed by supper in the evening at Lakeshore Hotel, where dancing was also enjoyed. TWO TUGS SENT TO AID STEAMER

Vessel Aground in Lake Superior To Be Towed To 'Soo.'

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Two tugs left the "Soo" yesterday afternoon for the north end of Isle Parisienne, Lake Superior, to aid in towing the steamer Kiowa, hard aground on the island reefs. The 28 members of the Kiowa's crew are in no danger but the bottom was reported ripped out of the ship by the reef. Calm water on the lake has made it likely the ship may be salvaged.

The Kiowa owend by C. W. Blodgett of Bay City, was downbound with pulpwood. She grounded near the point where the steamer Rambler went aground last December.

The steamer went on the reefs Sunday night in the fog, and having no radio her plight was not known until one of the crew came down, picked up by a passing boat, to report.

ROTARY PARTY

Intermediate dash—1, Comstock; 2, H. Sisson.

Senior race — 1, H. Young; 2, G. Miller.

Wheelbarrow race—Won by Young and Robertson.

Fireman's race — Won by Gilbert and Young.

Three-legged race — Won by Sisson and McCulloch.

Swimming races were next in order, and the boys gave a fine demonstration of how they are learning to take care of themselves in the water. Plenty of speed was shown in the various races, while the diving events were cleverly done.

The winners were:

Junior — 1, D. Turner; 2, Harry Marsh.

Intermediate — 1, T. Dunlop; 2, H. Sisson.

Senior — 1, S. Compton; 2, H. Sisson.

Junior diving — 1, D. Turner; 2, S. Redfern.

Senior diving — 1, Ward; 2 Compton.

Best start — 1, A. Ward; 2, W. Ward.

Long plunge — 1, A. Ward; 2 W. Ward.

Prizes consisting of baseball gloves, knives, flashlights, and fishing rods were presented to the winners later in the evening by Rotarian J. H. Seels, the event taking place in front of the pavilion.

The visitors enjoyed a delightful picnic supper and had a pleasant hour afterwards before the steamer Stoney Lake called for them at eight o'clock and took them back to South Beach. They embarked amid the cheers of the camp personnel.

It was a fine outing for the visiting party and much of the pleasure was derived from looking at the happy faces of the boys in camp and from a realization of how much the camp means to these youngsters, who will carry on for Peterborough and Canada in a few years' time. It was evident that every boy in the outfit was having a real holiday. They all looked it and they all enthusiastically declared it, while the one note of regret was that for many of the boys the camp period is drawing to an end. "The best camp yet," was the unanimous opinion of boys who have been at Skookum before, while the newcomers this year cannot say enough in praise of the camp.

ENGINE DRIVEN AGAINST SEAT IN CAR CRASH

Two Men and Two Women Seriously Injured in Hospital.

RECKLESS SPEED.

Wheels Locked; Auto Leaped Wide Ditch and Struck Tree.

BELLEVILLE, July 26. — (Canadian Press).—A serious motor accident occurred at Marysville, 12 miles east of this city, shortly after midnight and two men and two women are lying seriously injured in Belleville hospital. William Flynn, 208 Earl street, Kingston, driver of the car, is suffering from a dislocated hip, bruised leg and arms and a bad scalp wound. Miss Ethel Meagher, 248 Concession street, has a broken ankle, arms and limbs badly bruised, and a bad gash on her head. Miss Minnie Soucy, 34 Rideau street, is bruised about the body while Constantine Beierle, 189 North 11th street, Saginaw, Mich., has lost his memory, knowing little about the accident. The occupants were driving east on the provincial highway in a coach. There were no eye witnesses to the accident, but it is alleged the car was travelling at a reckless and furious rate of speed.

Approaching the sharp turn at Marysville station the driver apparently applied his brakes and the wheels locked, the car jumped an open ditch and crashed headlong into a tree. The engine was driven to the front seat of the car and Flynn was pinned behind the wheel. Miss Meagher was thrown through the door window clear of the wreckage. The other two in the back seat were pinned in the car. The screams of Miss Meagher attracted passing motorists.

Dr. Blaklaee and Dr. Cronk of this city attended the injured on admittance to the hospital. It is expected all will recover.

HARRY LUCANO WINS PRIZE

Is Awarded Second Money in Riley Engineering Contest.

1,104 SUGGESTIONS

Harry I. A. Lucano, 513 Albert street, was awarded second prize, a $100 Empire meter, in the contest to obtain a name for the new automatic coal stoker being manufactured in Canada by the Riley Engineering and Supply Co., Ltd.

The Engineering Times of Toronto, the journal that conducted the contest received 1,104 suggestions, but the judges concentrated on only 301, the others having failed to comply with the prescribed conditions.

The Engineering Times devotes half a page to personal sketchs and pictures of the winners. Of Mr. Lucano it says: Harry I. A. Lucano is a third class stationary engineer, with a determination to climb higher, despite a lack of English education. He was born in Caulonia, Italy, in 1887, where he went to school.

On completing an elementary education he took charge of his father's fruit farm ,and in 1910 left the sunny skies of Italy to try his luck in the United States, where he worked for the Baltimore and Ohio Railway.

Two years later Harry went to Peterborough, Ont., and obtained employment in the brass foundry of the Canadian General Electric Company. In a few months he was transferred to the porcelain department where he became interested in high tension casting that he was put in charge of the work. He was also interested in boiler operation and fired for a time.

Mr. Lucano is a member of the Engineers' Mutual Benefit Fund and the Loyal Order of Moose. He has little inclination for ordinary hobbies, his chief interest being centred in his home and family."

The man who won first prize was Cuthbert E. Cope, chief engineer of Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary.

SHEESLEY SHOWS FOR FAIR MIDWAY

Arrangements Made To Have Well Known Company Locate Here.

Everything points to a still greater Peterborough Exhibition for 1928. There will be a wonderful show of cattle, and the Board has found it necessary to build a new building to help take care of the additional prize stock. This also applies to horses, and a new horse barn is now under construction. Lovers of running and jumping horses will be pleased to note that it is expected there will be forty or fifty splendid animals here from the stables of Frank O'Connor, Sir Clifford Sifton, and Alfred Rogers.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Greater Sheesley Shows headed by Captain John M. Sheesley, will take care of the Midway. Local people will probably remember the Sheesley Shows, as they played here, taking in the 12th of July some eight years ago. At that time, William Fleming, an old Peterborough boy, was the travelling representative, and jumped the shows all the way from Rochester, N.Y., to Peterborough, at the request of the Exhibition Board, in order to give us some attraction at the Exhibition Grounds on July 13th.

See This Amazing New Shaving Invention -Kriss-Kross Stropper

Most Surprising Device Ever Patented. Makes a Single Razor Blade Last Indefinitely and Gives You the Coolest, Slickest Shaves of Your Life. Nothing Like It Ever Seen Before!

FREE Demonstration—No Obligation

Here is a chance for you to see for yourself the astonishing shaving invention the whole country is talking about. (Probably you've already read about it in Liberty, Colliers and other big magazines.)

Kriss-Kross is so surprising that it is hardly fair to call it a stropper. It is really a super-stropper or blade-rejuvenator. Fits any kind of safety razor blade (except Durham-Duplex) and actually gives you hundreds of shaves where you only got one before. It's positively sensational.

Kriss-Kross strops your blade with a diagonal stroke—just like a master barber. Entirely automatic. Eight "lucky leather grooves" do the trick in 11 seconds with an accuracy it takes a barber years to learn.

But that's not all. Kriss-Kross strops from heavy to light. It's absolutely uncanny how the pressure gets lighter and lighter every stroke until an automatic jig flies up and tells you the blade is ready with the keenest cutting-edge steel can take.

Kriss-Kross will give you the most wonderful shaves of your life. No more expense and bother about remembering to buy new blades! No more "raking" with dull ones! Keen, velvet-smooth shaves forever—that's Kriss-Kross!

Smelters Beat Kingston; Oshawa Loses Game

RALLY IN NINTH BRINGS VICTORY OVER KINGSTON

Losers Score One in First — Winners Tie Count in Sixth.

GOOD PITCHING.

Fournier, Southpaw, Opposes Wood, Who Has Edge All Way Through Game.

DELORO, July 26.—Deloro returned to winning form on Wednesday in their home game with Kingston, securing the verdict in the ninth after several thrills by 3 runs to 1. Fournier, making his first appearance on the Deloro diamond, showed himself to be a southpaw of some class. Wood, pitching for the homesters, turned in the best game his Deloro supporters have witnessed, and after the initial inning, his opponents found hits most difficult to get. In the first inning, J. Arniel doubled, Buck walked, Britton was out at first and Cherry singled, scoring Arniel. Deloro, after trying hard each inning, tied in the sixth. Regan struck out. Quinn tripled and scored on Boureau's single. Wood was out on a close decision, Hughes safe at first, and Collins out at first. In the ninth, after Kingston had been disposed of, things got lively. Hughes was dismissed at first. Collins singled. Scott singled, advancing Collins. Brown sacrificed, advancing both runners, and Jack taking his last chance, brought in Collins and Scott. Though only a moderate crowd was in attendance, the enthusiasm of local fans was roused to a greater pitch than before during this season. Disputing by each team in turn of Umpire Sullivan's decisions in the final inning fanned the excitement.

The teams:

Kingston—J. Arniel, 3b; H. Buck, lf; B. Britton, ss; D. Cherry, cf; G. Ada, rf; B. Tetro, c; R. Elliott, 2b; F. Stone, 1b; C. Fournier, p.

HOME RUNS ARE TOO MUCH FOR PIRATES

Giants With Two Homers Eke Out One-Run Lead.

BRAVES WIN

High's Errors Give Brooklyn Eight Unearned Runs.

NEW YORK, July 26 (Canadian Press).—The Giants made it two straight over the Pirates here yesterday when home runs by Lindstrom and Hogan enabled the New Yorkers to eke out a six to five decision. Lindstrom hit for the circuit with with two on in the seventh, giving the home team a lead of three, but Grantham tied it in the next round by combining Bill Walker for a round trip with one on after the Pirates already had scored one run. Hogan's homer in the eighth gave the Giants the ultimate winning run.

Walker got credit for the victory, but gave way to a pinch batsman in the eighth, and Joe Genewich finished. Carmen Hill went the route for Pittsburgh.

Break Even

Philadelphia split a double header with the Cincinnati Reds, winning the second game 7 to 6 after dropping the first game by a score of 16 to 5. Passes by Phillie pitchers gave the Reds an easy victory in the first game. The Phils tied the second in the fifth inning at 6 to 6, and won out in the ninth when Whitney's single with two out scored Thompson from third base.

Braves Win

The Boston Braves opened a long home stay by defeating Chicago 3 to 1. The Boston batters bunched hits off Malone in the second and sixth to run up a safe margin. The single Cub run came on Hack Wilson's home run in the seventh, his twenty-third of the season. Wilson knocked the ball out of the park for one of the longest drives ever seen at Braves' Field. Ed. Brandt was invincible for most of the distance.

Two errors by Andy High gave Brooklyn unearned runs in the fourth inning here yesterday, and the Robins easily defeated the Cardinals, 8 to 1, behind Jim Elliott's fine pitching.

The big southpaw held the league leaders to five hits, and had a shutout until the ninth when Frank Frisch, pinch batsman for Earl Smith, singled to drive in Bottomley with the only St. Louis run. Sherry Magee, something of a thorn in the sides of umpires in his own playing days, banished Dave Bancroft in the ninth inning for arguing over a decision.

Reinhart and Frankhouse pitched for the Cardinals.

TIGERS WIN TWO FROM YANKEES

TAVENER'S FIELD DAY.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Tail-enders overcame leaders at Detroit yesterday when the Tigers defeated the Yankees in both games of a double-header, 3 to 2 and 10 to 7. After blanking the Tigers for seven innings of the first game, George Pipgrass wilted under an eight-round attack which gave the home team three runs and brought Wilcy Moore to the rescue. Lil Stoner and Elam Vangilder held the champions to four hits.

Three Yankee pitchers were batted freely in the second game. Marty McManus got four hits in four times at bat, including a home run. Jack Tavener, Detroit shortstop, stole second, third and home after singling in the seventh. He crossed the plate on a double theft with Woodall.

ROYALS TAKE FIFTH GAME

Collins and Thormahlen Furnish Great Exhibition of Pitching.

GETS SHUTOUT

MONTREAL, Que., July 26 (Canadian Press).—Montreal captured the fifth and final game of the series here yesterday afternoon when Herb Thormahlen outpitched Rip Collins to score a 3-0 shut-out victory. The Leafs won the series, however, three games to two.

The two hurling aces of the rival camps furnished the greatest exhibition of pitching that has been witnessed in the local park this year. Thormahlen won his own game with a double in the seventh that brought in three runs. Collins purposely passed Pinch Hitter Murphy to get at the pitcher, filling the bases after two were out. Thormahlen struck out nine men and held the slugging Leafs for four hits.

Rochester Loses Two.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 26. — Rochester's pennant quest slowed down considerably here yesterday when Buffalo took two games over the Red Wings by scores of 8 to 7 and 3 to 0. The first game lasted nearly three hours and saw Buffalo use six hurlers to Rochester's one, while the sixth, Wirtz, received recognition as the winning hurler.

Skeeters Win Series.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 26. — By splitting yesterday afternoon's double-header, the Jerseys won the series from the Reading Keys. Both games were exciting and close, the first tilt going ten innings before the Jerseys finally won out, 4 to 3, while an agreed seven-inning game, in the second part of the double bill, had to go eight innings before the Keys came through with a 3 to 2 victory.

Seibold, pitching for the Keys, suffered his second defeat of the season out of sixteen starts, when he was turned back in the opener.

SMELTERS IN FROM MARMORA

Deloro Softball Team Has Sweet Revenge for Previously Beating.

SCORE 12-6

(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, July 26.—Recovering from the overwhelming defeat meted out by Marmora on Saturday, Deloro mustered a men's softball team, largely students, in the hope of taking ample revenge at Marmora on Tuesday evening. In this they were not disappointed, for they finally ran out winners by 12-6.

For the first four innings Marmora shaped indifferently, allowing Deloro to cross the plate six times without any response. Gray replaced McGrath as pitcher in the fifth, which proved to be the only innings wherein Deloro did not register. Marmora did all their scoring in the fifth, hitting Murray hard and profiting by errors for a half dozen runs, to tie the score. Deloro obtained another run in the sixth. Marmora tried hard to equalize without result. Deloro increased their lead with another five in the seventh, and though Marmora's feminine fans treated Murray to just a song at twilight, Deloro's pitcher was unaffected and the home batters were quickly disposed of.

The teams:

Deloro—C. R. Quinn, 2b; C. McInroy, s.s.; J. McCrodan, c.; E. Bennett, 3b; G. Speagle, cf; J. French, rf; R. Trowbridge, 1b; R. Murray, p; P. Smith, lf.

MAUDSLEY IS HIT HARD IN FIRST FRAME

Rays' Southpaw Fights Way Out and Scores a Win.

SCORE 5-2

Billingsley Starts Off Strong, But is Given Poor Supppt.

Raybestos came back at the Cogs last night, and aided by some inferior fly-chasing by the opposition, got the decision by 5 to 2. Scotty Maudsley was flying distress signals in the opening frame and relief hurlers were rushed to the bull pen. But Maudsley fought his way out, after Scully went up to rob Grose of a hit that would have scored two runs. A timely two bagger by Crary in the fourth gave Cogs their two counters after which the Rays' portsider went to work and fanned seven batters in the remaining three frames, five of them coming in a row after Delahaye had grounded out to start the sixth.

Billingsley started off strong against the Rays, using a slow ball with good effect, but he got a bad break in the third when Maudsley's fly to left went for three bases and scored a run. Rogers also got a cheap double to right in the fourth which drove a runner home. Raybestos scored all their runs in these two innings.

The loss dropped the Cogs to a tie with Crescents for second place, and the fans will probably see a merry struggle when the two teams meet tomorrow evening.

Wilson and Corbett brought gladness to the Cogs' delegation by hitting to start the game. Wilson drove one through Hillier and Corbett's was a clean hit to right, the runners advancing on the throwing. The Rays infield played in, and Scully went up high to spear a drive from Grose. Rooke's best was a grounder to Scully who got the runner and held Wilson at third. Cripps was thrown out by Hillier to retire the side runless.

Billingsley quickly disposed of the leaders. He threw out Hillier, fanned Nicholls, and took Scully's pop fly.

Cogs went out in order in the second, and Rays failed to get going, a solitary single by Harry Corrin going for nothing.

In the third Corbett inserted a double with two down, the clout being wasted.

Rays had better luck. Oscar Nicholls was passed, and Maudsley sent out a fly to Grose, who misjudged the ball, Nicholls scoring, while Maudsley made third. Hillier hit in Maudsley. H. Nicholls was thrown out by Crary, Scully singled to score Hillier, and when he delayed going to second on the ball's return, Delahaye pegged him out. Crary stopped Barry.

The fourth saw the Cogs put on a spurt that brought two runs. Rooke looped one over second and Cripps fanned. Delahaye popped to Scully, but Prest singled. Crary doubled to middle to score Rooke and Prest. Billingsley struckout, the ball being dropped by Rogers who threw the runner out at first.

Raybestos got both runs back in their half. Corrin singled and scored on Rogers' double, which Prest should have collared. Moore was thrown out by the pitcher but Oscar Nicholls' bounder to the box sent Rogers home. Maudsley was deadheaded and Hillier was passed. Maudsley going to third when Rooke failed to take a throw from the pitcher. An accurate peg by Delahaye caught Maudsley away from the bag.

A nice opening appeared for Cogs in the fifth. Wilson rapped a liner across third. Corbett flew out to O. Nicholls. Grose grounded to Scully who threw wide to second and failed to get Wilson. That put two on. Rooke who seldom misses connections with the spalding gave Maudsley a battle but finally fanned, and Cripps did likewise.

With two out in their half, Rays put two on, but could not score.

Cogs went out in order in the sixth, two by strikeouts, and Billingsley made short works of the Rays.

The Cogs were struckout in order in the seventh.

OSHAWA TEAM CRACKS OPEN IN BELLEVILLE

Duke Dainty is Given Faultless Support for Seven Innings.

SCORE 4 TO 1

Wolfe Gets Two Singles and Double in Four Trips to Plate.

BELLEVILLE, July 26.—After giving Duke Dainty almost faultless support for seven frames, the Oshawa ball team cracked wide open, and the Nationals went further in the lead in McFadden's loop. The score was 4-1, none of them being earned, but withal was a splendid game to watch.

Duke Dainty had one of his good days, while Vinny Utronki hurled the best game for the Nationals since donning the spangles of that club. The Duke had a smoking fast ball, a nice curve, and above all, perfect control. He struck out but one and walked one, while his teammates fielded so fine till the seventh that the Nationals only collected three hits off his delivery. Utronki had his curve working nice, and with a change of pace held the batters at bay.

Wolfe solved his delivery with two singles and a double in four times at bat and was the heavy hitter of the day. He struck out four and did not issue a free trip to first. Some fine fielding was witnessed. Stan. Hagerman and Reg. Fair being the most prominent. Fair pulled down a wicked drive with his back to the grandstand off the bat of Peeney Mills, and Stan. Hagerman went a long ways to snag a hoist fly from Fair. Blakely took the Nationals out of a bad hole in the 7th when with two on and two out he scooped up a deflected ball from Scott and threw McCallum out by an eyelash. Peeney Mills made two almost impossible catches when he gathered in foul flies from the bats of Fair and Elliott. The catcher for Oshawa also made a circus catch of Blakely in the 6th to retire the side.

Scored in Fifth.

Oshawa scored their run in the 5th. Dainty grounded out and Morrison doubled to left. Kellar was safe on Blakely's error, Morrison going to third. Blakely then threw to catch Morrison at third, but Scott mussed the throw, and Morrison scored. Elliott struck out and McCallum grounded out to the pitcher.

Belleville got the run back in the 6th. Scott singled and was sacrificed to second by Harry Mills. Dainty tried to nip Scott at second and overthrew the bag, Scott going to third. Green hit to Morrison and tried to get Scott at the plate, but failed. W. Mills hoisted to Fair in deep right centre and Blakely fouled out on a difficult catch by Elliott.

In the 9th the Motor City squad cracked wide open. Weir singled, but Dainty dropped Scott's pop up and threw Weir out at second. Harry Mills hit to Young, and that player tried to get Scott going into second but missed, and Scott went on to third. Harry Mills stole second. Green popped to Kellar at first. W. Mills grounded to Morrison, who overthrew first, Scott scoring and Harry Mills taking third. Harry raced for home and Kellar made a bad peg to the plate, that player being safe. Elliott then threw to catch Peeney Mills going to second, but overthrew second, the ball going out to Wolfe in centre field. Peeney kept on running and scampered home when Wolfe made a wild peg over Young's head at third. Blakely ended the frame by flying out to McCallum. Walter Schultz introduced two pinch hitters for Morrison and Kellar by Matthews and Williams, but both rolled puny grounders to the infield. Dainty struck out just before to end the pastime.

HAGEN STAGES BIG COMEBACK

British Champion Proves Too Much for Archie Compston.

EXHIBITION GAME

Westchester Biltmore Country Club, RYE, N.Y., July 26 (Canadian Press). —After trailing by one hole at the end of the first day's play on Tuesday, Walter Hagen, holder of the British open golf championship, staged a come-back to defeat Archie Compston of Great Britain, six up and five to play in their 72-hole exhibition match, which was completed here yesterday. The first 36 holes were played at the Sandy Burr Country Club, Wayland, Mass., Tuesday.

Hagen started his come-back on the first nine holes yesterday, leading Compston three up at the turn of the first round. The British star, who defeated Hagen 18 up and 17 to play in a similar match in England this spring, managed to retain one hole before the end of the first eighteen, and was trailing by a two-hole margin at the 54-hole mark.

Starting the afternoon round, "The Haig" captured the second hole, sinking a 15-foot putt for a birdie four, against a five for Compston. The lanky Briton came back to take the fourth, again cutting down Hagen's lead. Hagen won the fifth with a 25-foot putt which gave him a birdie 3 and increased his lead to four holes by taking the eighth when Compston was in a trap with his second shot.

Compston won the long ninth with a Birdie five, while Hagen made the par figure, bringing them to the turn with the American three holes in the lead. The tenth hole was halved in threes, then Hagen flashed a brilliant series of three successive fours against a like number of fives for Compston, to give him the match on the 67th hole.

LACROSSE IS RECOGNIZED

Olympic Committee Will Award World Championship to Winner.

THREE TEAMS ENTERED

AMSTERDAM, July 26 (A.P.).—Although lacrosse is not officially on the Olympic championship, being listed merely as an exhibition event, the authorities agreed jointly yesterday to award recognition as world's champion in that sport to the winner of the three-cornered contest involving teams from Great Britain, Canada and the United States.

These officials believe that these three teams are representative of the best aggregations of the game, and that they are entitled to the most recognition it is possible to give them, especially in view of the likelihood that the international committee will give favorable consideration to the request that they put lacrosse officially on the Olympic program before the 1932 Olympic games.

Under the schedule that has been drawn up for the exhibitions, Canada will play the United States first on August 5, in connection with the final track and field program in the Olympic stadium. The next day the United States will meet the English team while the meeting between Canada and Great Britain has been set for August 7.

AT THE CAPITOL.

John Gilbert in "Man and Woman"

A romance that centers about a newspaper and its offices shows John Gilbert, the popular star, in a new role. In "Man and Woman," he is a reporter on a big metropolitan daily and gets a thrill, as a cub, when his reaction to the famous Embassy Ball are printed as written, and the caption: "Cub Reporter Tells His Impressions of Big Event."

As a tiny boy, Al. Whitcomb and his mother had faced many privations. They had lived from hand to mouth until the little boy with the brilliant eyes and serious face grew up to find work for himself and give his mother a better home. In the old sugar bowl in the pantry they deposited savings which were one day to buy them a home of their own. It was to this old sugar bowl that Al went when he wanted to buy a birthday present for Vera Worth, the society editor of "The World," a lovely blonde with innocent eyes and a cruel mouth, who appeared to him like an angel from heaven, but who was really the mistress of Bancroft, one of the newspaper's managers.

When Al was surprised by Bancroft, visiting Vera, the two men fought and Al was accused of the murder, the girl giving evidence against him in order to save her own reputation. He is condemned to be hanged, but his mother intervenes and persuades the girl to tell the truth.

This picture is an example of what may be done when the producers hew to the straight line and show the ending as it would quite likely be. The result is true to life and extremely unsatisfactory, from the point of view of those who wish to be entertained. The acting of the two major characters is immense.

—Jeanette.

LOGS v. LAUNCHES

The Chamber of Commerce informs The Examiner: Mr. Sydney McQuillan, owner of the "Miss Vancouver," Ontario-built, sea-going launch making a trip from Orillia, Ontario, to Vancouver, British Columbia, via the Panama Canal, in communication with Mr. Herbert Ditchburn of Ditchburn Boats, Limited, of Gravenhurst and Orillia, builders of the "Miss Vancouver," obtained the following information concerning the comparative value of motor craft and logs which occasionally block the navigable channels of this part of the Trent Waterway:

"A motor boat about the size of 'Miss Vancouver' is worth in dollars and cents as much as a good-sized boom of logs, and does about as much good to the country in general, in the way of supply labor, etc., as the cutting of timber, and also some of the boats which go down through the canal might be worth as much as ten booms of logs, so that we feel they should have consideration. A boat like 'Virginian II.' was worth $60,700, and took 30,000 hours of skilled labor to construct, outside of labor required for producing the various parts and equipment purchased outside of our own plant. When one of our boats goes out through the canal, it means something more than a pleasure trip of a yacht owner."

W. Torchy) Peden of Victoria, plugger of pluggers, who has been burning up the rtack both in his racing and training preparations for the last month and who is expected to be a foremost contender in the 108 miles road race which is the feature of the bicycle racing events in the Olympic games. Peden is a six-footer and strong as a young ox. In all races he disdains taking pace and in one race defied the united efforts of several of the stars to catch him after he had stolen away into a lead. Peden won twice from Elder in pursuit races, also captured the two and five miles Dominion championships.

190 GOLFERS ENTER CONTEST

Canadan Open Championship Promises To Be Keenly Contested.

ARMOUR FAVORITE.

TORONTO, July 26.— (Canadian Press.)— A field of approximately 190 golfers, including leading professionals of Canada, Great Britain, the United States and France, as well as some of the best amateurs on the continent, teed off on the Rosedale course to-day in the first round of the twenty-first annual Canadian open golf championship. With the exception of Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarasen, all the leading pros of America are competing in the 72 hole contest for the title now held by Tommy Armour, of Washington.

Archie Compson and Walter Hagen arrived today from Rye, N.Y., where they played an exhibition match, and started out this afternoon without any practice on the course.

Armour is perhaps the strongest favorite, but there are seven other former winners competing and the struggle promises to be a close one.

PLANE DAMAGED.

ROCKFORD, Ills., July 26 (Canadian Press).—The "Greater Rockford," piloted by Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, was badly damaged in a forced landing soon after its take-off on a flight to Stockholm, Sweden, this morning. The plane was unable to lift the heavy load over the surrounding hills. Neither pilot was injured.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt fouund the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 100 cases with the marvelous record of success in 93 per cent. and now it is sold by druggists everywhere, under a rigid money back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. eOt a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury. Bond's Drug Store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing.

"Give me ten minutes a week

SET a day every week—preferably any one but Saturday or Sunday—and let me look over your tires. It'll mean dollars off your tire bill.

Maybe they need more air. Two or three pounds under pressure will take miles off the life of a tire. Maybe there's a nail or a flint just waiting to work through and make trouble. Maybe they're O.K. and you can drive away in comfort.

Ten minutes!

But isn't it worth it to feel sure of your tires?

Car owners spend many a half-hour on the side of the road because they won't take the ordinary precaution. And that's saying nothing of the extra mileage they might get and the money they might save.

LADIES' AID PLANS TO PAINT BASEMENT

Committee Appointed to Look After Redecoration of Omemee United Church.

(Examiner Correspondence)

OMEMEE, July 26. —A committee was appointed to look after the redecorating of the basement at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity United Church held recently Other business included the appointment of Mrs. R. H. Williamson and Mrs. H. Lamb as a flower committee for the month of August. The rent of the vacuum cleaner was lowered to one dollar a day.

The scriptural reading was taken from Psalm 113, and was read by Mrs. E. Bradburn, after which Mrs. J. Bushnell led in prayer.

Sale of Cooking.

The sale of home cooking held on the manse lawn under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church on Saturday afternoon was a decided success. Old Cannon Ball Found in Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian Press.)—A relic of a by-gone day in Toronto, one that dates back possibly to the war of 1812, or earlier, has been unearthed in the process of excavating the foundations for the new eastern stables of Toronto's street cleaning department on St. Lawrence street. Here, 20 feet below the street level, in the bed of an ancient creek, now filled in and forgotten, the workmen found a six pound cannon ball that probably was hurled in some forgotten engagement. A number of timbers and tree trunks also uncovered were still sound and in excellent condition.

New York Market Has Increased Resistance

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Increased selling resistance was apparent in to-day's stock market when efforts were made to extend the rally begun a few days ago. A number of issues were marked up one to nearly six points in the early trading, but operations for the advance had difficulty in maintaining the gains. Several new week spots developed, particularly in the railroad equipment group.

Call money was again in plentiful supply and loans were made as low as cent and loans were made as low as 5 in the "outside market." Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates held firm. Uncertainty over wheat which will be shown in the weekly statement on brokers' loans to be issued after the close of the market led many traders to take profits and others to put out new short lines.

The day's business news had a bearish tinge, particularly the omission of regular dividends on Lima Locom.

Wheat Prices Say To-day On Favorable Reports

CHICAGO, July 26 (Canadian Press). — With weather conditions favorable and with the Liverpool market lower than expected, wheat prices here underwent an early setback today. Enlarged estimates of Italian wheat production this season were given as the cause of Liverpool weakness. Opening at ⅝c to 2c decline, Chicago wheat values afterward recovered somewhat. Corn, oats, and provisions were easy. Prices for corn started at 1¼c off to ⅝c up and then sagged all around, but subsequently rallied.

Opening: Wheat, July 118, September 120⅝. Corn, July 107¼, September 91⅜. Oats, July 47, September 39¼.

Demand For Steel Showing Increase

TORONTO, July 26—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Demand, despite the recent advance of Pittsburg steel to $40 has firmed up and the Canadian market to-day is in the soundest position it has occupied for many years. In direct contrast to the weak American market, both British and Canadian markets are booming with the greatest wave of prosperity experienced since the war.

Pig iron production in Canada shows an increase of 11 per cent. to date over 1927, while steel production has advanced bq 30 per cent. over the same period. Rail mills report a record season, are still working and will be up till August although they usually close down around the end of May. This is due to the phenomenal amount of railway business transacted this year.

Warehouse steels show a slight decrease in prices in the past week, but business is steady and demand vigorous. Third quarter buying is almost completed now at the current rate of prices. The American increase will only affect fourth quarter buying if it holds on the weak market, but demand should overrule this. Building contracts to date show an increase of almost 50 per cent. over 1927.

Crop reports to hand estimate that the 1928 crop will be the largest crop in the history of the Dominion. There are more than two million acres of wheat acreage aris year than in 1927 and the general conditions approximate to 1923 when the largest crop on record was produced. The Russian slump will increase the demand from this country and high prices should rule.

The high Canadian average prevailing this year are the forerunners of the first great British Empire boom.

Market Opinion On Various Issues

MONTREAL, July 26. — Canada Power and Paper developed into a leader in yesterday's trading, the stock being by far the most active on the board, and recorded an advance of 3 points to 37, this comparing with a low Friday of 23½. The balance of the last was comparatively quiet with prices exhibiting irregularity. International Nickel held steady around the 93 mark and sold up to as high as 93⅛ in New York.

With reference to the strength in Canada Power, it was freely rumored around the "Street" that the company's subsidiary, Laurentide Power, had been sold to Shawinigan. The terms as stated were $150 in cash, and one share of Shawinigan. Many in the "Street" are looking for an announcement with regards to this in the near future. The sale of Laurentide Power would greatly strengthen the financial position of Canada Power.

For the past several months shareholders have been advised to get out of their stocks. This was good advice from a temporary viewpoint. Holders who got out could have repurchased 10 to 30 points lower. But it is traditional that when a stockholder sells his long stock he rarely gets it back again at lower prices. He generally buys back at a price higher than he sold. One broker who observes closely what his investment customers do, says nine times out of ten investors who sell what they have, never buy back again.

Traders who have been arguing that stocks are too high should qualify their claim with the P.S. that "some stocks are too high," and they would be right. Recently some companies have made reports that prove that their stocks are not too high. And this proof is strengthened when one goes over earnings of the respective companies for the past ten years or more. Increase in income has been constant. Many of them even showed increase during periods of depression and others did not lose much.

It is the same old claim, made five years ago, ten years ago, twenty years ago, etc., "stocks selling too high," yet some of these stocks were then selling too high are up 100, 500 or 1000 per cent or more from where they were a decade or so ago. And with present management they will continue to go up with inevitable reactions, but to some they will always be "too high."

Seventy-five per cent of the brokers say that urgent liquidation is over. They do not look for a resumption of the bull market on a large scale, but they do seem confident that low prices have been reached for the time being at least. They do not wish for a return of the wild, speculative fever that was in evidence for the past year or two, but they are of the opinion that before the fall, transactions on the Exchange will be far larger than they are now. There has been no shrinkage in the buying power of the people.

There has been going on considerable investment buying in the shares of International Petroleum for a number of months past and it is understood that a large Canadian Insurance company has accumulated a substantial block of the stock. Few people realize that the company has very greatly increased its output during the past two years and when it is considered that the stock has only moved up a few points to discount this, it is evident that there is still considerable room for improvement in the price of the security.

CAR CRUSHES FERRY SAILOR

Deck Hand Injured When Caught Between Automobile and Wall.

THIGH FRACTURED.

TORONTO, July 26. — William Brown, aged 42, a deckhand on the steamer Corona, had his left thigh and three ribs fractured yesterday when an automobile being driven onto the boat from the dock at Lewiston struck him and carried him through a partition of the boat. Brown was placed on a stretcher and brought on the steamer to Toronto. He was then removed in an ambulance to St. Michael's Hospital.

Brown was employed in the engine room. The boat was docked and hands were loading trucks of coal. Mrs. Harry Kosier of Chillicothe, Ohio, was driving her car onto the gangplank when Brown signalled her to stop. He suggested she back the car up until other freight was taken on, in order that it would be parked in a spot for easy embarkation at Toronto. The driver, instead of putting her car in reverse, threw it into low, and when she "gave it the gas," the car leaped forward.

The radiator of the car hit Brown and carried him along as it went crashing through a partition just inside the boat. When the machine finally stopped the boatman was pinned between the car and the wall. Mrs. Kosier backed up her automobile and the injured man was carried out.

FLYERS READY FOR HOP-OFF

Crew Expects to Start Stockholm Flight Early To-day.

ABANDONS STOP-OVER

ROCKFORD, Ills., July 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Undaunted by delays, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, crew of the aeroplane 'Creator Rockford' for its proposed flight to Stockholm, Sweden, last night were ready and anxious for their hop-off definitely scheduled for daybreak today.

Hassell, chief pilot for the flight, made his decision after the federal weather bureau to-day informed him of ideal conditions across Canada for to-day, Thursday.

The government forecast predicted fresh to strong south-west winds, which would give Hassell the tail wind he has desired. A high pressure area at Sault Ste. Marie and a low pressure area around Winnipeg left an ideal path in between for the flight, the weather bureau said.

The flyers yesterday abandoned their plans for marking the flight to Stockholm with only one stop, at Greenland. Hassell said he was advised that the runway at his base at Mount Evans, Greenland, was too short for a take-off with a heavy load so he had decided to make a second.

EARTHQUAKES FELT

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 26 (Canadian Press). — Two violent earthquakes lasting ten seconds were felt yesterday at Smyrna, Asia Minor. There were no casualties, but considerable property damage was reported.

FATALLY HURT BENEATH TRAIN

London Man Dies Few Minutes After Being Found On Track.

INQUEST ORDERED.

LONDON, Ont., July 26. — James Bodington, aged 37, of 87 Inkerman street, was found terribly injured on the tracks of the Canadian National Railway, near Highbury Avenue, yesterday morning, and died a few moments later without regaining consciousness.

Bodington was discovered by William Robinson, a switchman, when he walked eastward to turn a switch, and he stated that previously he had not seen any one near the tracks. Bodington was employed by the south plant of General Steel Wares Limited, formerly McClary's, and it is assumed that he was walking on the tracks when overtaken by a train which passed some time previous to the finding of the body. The crew of this train could not have been aware that he had been run over.

Coroner Hedgins ordered an inquest, and after viewing the remains, the jury adjourned until Tuesday night next. Bodington, who was unmarried, was a member of the British Empire Service League.

Train No. 416, which passed eastward shortly before the discovery of the body, was composed of 76 cars, and last night the police were notified that at Mimico the train had been examined and bloodstains had been found 33 cars from the end of the train. This would lead to the conclusion that Bodington had attempted to board the train and had fallen between the cars.

WORKMAN HURT.

Toronto Man Breaks Both Wrists in Tumble From Building.

TORONTO, July 26.—James Skelding, aged 33, of 17 Harvie Avenue, was severely injured yesterday afternoon, when he fell from the third story of a building under construction at 495 Wellington Street West.

Skelding, who was working on the building, fell in such a way that his wrists bore the weight of his fall, and both of these are badly injured and possibly broken. In addition, he suffered painful head and back injuries. He is not, however, considered to be in any danger, according to officials of the Western Hospital, where he was removed.

In speaking of the accident last night, the manager of the concern commended the quick response and effective first aid work of P. C.'s Ironside and Oromie, No. 3 Station, who were in charge of the ambulance.

CERVONNE'S BAND IS COMING TO FAIR

Musical Organization Which Pleased Visitors Yast Year Will Return.

Arrangements have already been completed for the greater part of the attractions in front of the grand stand, and although some headline acts have been seen at the Peterborough Exhibition, even greater things are promised for this year. Cervonne's Band of Pittcbrug, who handled the musical program last year, have been re-engaged, and the splendid impression they made last year is sufficient recommendation for them.

The celebrated Honey Troupe, consisting of four ladies and two gentlemen, will offer the last word in novelty acrobatics, single, double, and triple complete somersaults, and many other difficult tricks.

The Jean Jackson Troupe, consisting of a bevy of beautiful cycling belles, and a dapper dandy, is another wonderful act.

Bee Starr, a winsome type of girl, dainty, and the personification of grace, will give an exhibition of human, or rather superhuman strength, never before witnessed.

In addition to these, other acts have been arranged, which will round out a programe that should appeal to everyone.

There will be a full display of fireworks each evening, commencing Monday, September 10th.

It might be a good time to write your friends, suggesting that they visit you during the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, when you can assure them of a real good holiday, and good wholesome entertainment.

LOCAL RINK WINS PRIZE

Women's Lawn Bowling Tournament is Colorful Event Here.

NINETEEN RINKS.

The Ladies of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club held one of the best ladies' bowling tournaments ever held in this district yesterday, with nineteen rinks entered.

The weather was ideal, the greens were in fine condition and an animated crowd of seventy-six interested lady bowlers made a brilliant and colorful scene on the Brock street greens.

Mrs. Graham's rink of the local club, composed of Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. C. Seymour and Mrs. H. Staunton were the lucky winners of the first prize with there wins and a plus of 28 points. Their prizes were presented to them by Judge Deroche, of Belleville.

Mrs. Dolan, of Belleville, and Mrs. Whitty, of Stirling, had to play off for second prize. They each had three wins with a plus of nineteen. According to rules made at the commencement of the games they played a four-end game to decide the winner, Mrs. Dolan winning by one point.

Mr. T. C. Elliot presented the second prizes.

Mrs. Dolan replied on behalf of her rink and at the same time invited the ladies present to the Belleville ladies' tournament on Aug. 6.

Herb Martin was in charge of the draw and arrangements for the day, and carried out his duties with great satisfaction to all. George Coleman and T. Donaldson of the men's bowling club executive, were also present and assisted with the arrangements.

The ladies of the club served afternoon tea on the lawn with the assistance of some ladies interested in the club, who kindly came and helped serve.

Arrangements were in charge of the committee composed of Mrs. F. Miller, Mrs. G. Coleman, Mrs. C. Wright, Mrs. W. Greenslade, Mrs. G. A. Borland, Mrs. N. Henry, Mrs. H. Graham and Mrs. G. Gimblett.

MRS. C. J. ISLE

Margaret Aldridge Gillespie wife of Charles James Isle died on Wednesday July 25th. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gillespie and was born in Ireland where her parents still reside at Portadown. She had resided here about a year and before coming to Peterborough she resided in London Ontario. The death occurred after a lingering illness. There are left to mourn her loss, besides her husband and parents, three sisters and two brothers. Her family was one well-known in military circles—one brother, the late Major Thomas Gillespie, one of the best known military men in the north of Ireland, died two years ago, and her husband served in the Great War with the Prince of Wales West York Regiment, with which he spent 21 years.

The funeral will take place on Friday, July 27th, from the family residence, 297 Bethune street, at 3 o'clock, to Little Lake Cemetery. She was a member of the Anglican church and the Rev. J. D. Paterson will conduct the service.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, July 26. — Roland Kidd died after a short illness yesterday morning, July 25th, in Toronto. He was operated on about ten days ago and was not strong enough to rally after it. He was one of Warsaw's best known young men and was very popular around the village, singing tenor in the church choir and taking an active interest in all activities in Warsaw. The village was shocked at the news of his death.

The funeral will take place from his home in Toronto at 870 Dowood Avenue, Toronto, to-morrow afternoon at 2.30.

CYANIDE POISON CAUSE OF DEATH

Jury Returns Verdict On Death of Brass Plant Workman.

TORONTO, July 26.—Francis Harper, for 18 years an employee of the James Morrison Brass Manufacturing Company, come to his death by cyanide poisoning, a Coroner's jury decided last night at an inquest, "but by what means administered" the jury did not say.

On July 18, at quitting time, Harper was found in the lacquer room of the plant, 93 Adelaide Street West lying on the floor. First-aid measures were tried, as the deceased seemed to be a heat victim. But Harper died on the elevator before he reached the ground.

Last night the jury heard evidence surrounding his death before Coroner Dr. J. M. Casserly, with Major Eric Armour, K.C., appearing for the Crown.
